Berlin's troubles.—Berlin municipal auxiliary clerks are on strike.

The Estimate.—France's war material is estimated to be worth £600,000,000.

Tips.—A waiter in a Chinese cafe in Oxford street said his tips averaged £6 weekly.

Not Going.—Mr. J. R. Clynes M.P. is not going to Washington with the Labour leaders.

Strange.—The Government has no power to prevent the building of cinemas instead of houses.

No Leaders.—According to the Duke of Marlborough the Tory party has no real leaders.

Aussies' Windfall.—Australian soldiers and sailors are to receive a war gratuity of 1/3 a day.

Dear.—An East Ham woman complains that she was charged 7½d a reel for cotton.

Thanks.—At the present time the influence exercised by the Press is paramount.—Sir Auckland Geddes.

No Militarism.—The headmaster of Eton said in the public schools there was no passion for militarism.

Problem Solved.—Kingston Guardians are accommodating a man and his family at a rental of 6/6 a week.

Why?—A gentleman with a grey beard was to be seen in Victoria Street wearing a Derby armlet.

Her Hoard.—A munition worker found dead in a Waterloo tram had stuffed boots and socks with bank notes.

Colchester's Freeman.—Lord Byng has been presented with the freedom of Colchester.

King and Busmen.—The King has expressed appreciation of work of London busmen during the war.

A New Record.—A French aviator has beaten the record by flying 305 kilometres an hour.

Costly Labour.—The 1919 corn harvest will be the most costly in the history of British farming.

"Nickytoes".—"Nickytoes" are individuals opposed to smoking; they have started a campaign at home.

Rail Conference.—It is hoped to settle the difficulty without the the aid of an umpire.

The Cottesmere Master.—Lord Lonsdale is to retire from the Mastership of the Cottesmere.

Army Exams.—The entrance examinations for Woolwich and Sandhurst are to be held next month.

The Total. — Nearly 400,000,000 War Savings Certificates have been sold to date.

Thanks.— Belgian children back home have written thanking the London Education Authority for their assistance.

One Shilling.—A soldier at Tidworth admitted having sold a Military Medal for one shilling.

Eye Strain.—The question of eye strain is to be considered by the L.C.C. in plans for new picture houses.

A 70/- Suit.—A Bloomsbury man sued in respect of a suit said it was made of "straw and potato peelings."

Reshaping Shopping Centres.—Considerable architectural alterations in Regent and Oxford Streets are promised.

The Cecil.—The Hotel Cecil is to be handed over by the Government in a few days.

A Protest. — Vienna University protests against the sale of artistic works to foreign countries.

ROBARTS & QUANTOCK

14, HOHEPFORTE, COLOGNE

Beg to inform the RHINE ARMY that they have now secured larger premises and are able to supply

EVERYTHING MILITARY OF BRITISH MANUFACTURE

Breeches, Belts, Caps | Chevrons, Lanyards, Canes | Ribbons, Brooches, Wound Bars | Badges, Titles, Buttons

BELOW RETAIL PRICES IN ENGLAND
BUY DIRECT FROM STOCK IN COLOGNE
from
THE ALL BRITISH FIRM

Troops outside Cologne will, on application, be sent address of nearest retail agent where our goods are obtainable at Cologne prices.

NOTE NEW ADDRESS
100 HOHESTRASSE 100
(Below the British Chamber of Commerce). And at London and Calais.

WHOLESALE RETAIL
Agents entertained where not already represented.

SPARKES HALL
308 REGENT ST. LONDON Wand.
4. AVENUE FRIEDLAND, Paris
ROOM 71, DISCH HOTEL
Brückenstr. COLOGNE
(Next Door to N.A.C.B. Canteen)
FIELD, HUNTING & POOL BOOTS
Hand-Sewn Field Boots, Civilian Boots, Shoes and Pumps made to order and delivered to Germany in 18 days or in England in 10 days.

All Miniature Medals & Ribbons & Badges of all Regiments
British-Overseas — U.S.A. — for Officers Service and full dress. Strictly regulation. Finest modelling and quality.
Regimental Jewellery
Medals for Sports
J.R. Gaunt & Son Ld. Birmingham
and 60, Conduit Street, London W.1. List free.

Binoculars
at original factory prices of the firms
ZEISS
GOERZ
LEITZ
PHOTO
Cameras — Plates
Roll-Films - Pack-Films
SLIDE RULES
MICROSCOPES
ZEISS-PUNKTAL-GLASSES
for rimless glasses and spectacles.
The best for the eyes!
OPTICAL institute S. Goldfinger Limited
founded: 1869
Hohestr. 88 COLOGNE Hohestr. 88
On parle français. English spoken.

TO PRINTERS, BOOK-SELLERS, STATIONERS ETC.
Install your own machine for producing REAL PHOTO POST-CARDS in any quantity at the rate of thousands per hour. Original photographic work. Splendid for portraits, local views, commercial subjects and so on.
BIG MONEY CAN BE MADE with small outlay. Representative will call with all particulars and specimens if you reply under Box K.Z. 2, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40. Agents wanted everywhere.

Furs
For Ladies and Gentlemen
ALBERT SIMON
69—71 Breitestrasse
COLOGNE

EXPANDERS
with 4—10 detachable strands in rubber or steel-springs.
D. JANSEN
CÖLN, Columba Str. 1
(close to Breite Str.)

NÜCHEL & HILLEBRECHT
COLOGNE, Glockengasse, corner Kreuzgasse, close Schauspielhaus. Tel. A 5566
UNIFORM MAKERS
MILITARY OUTFITS
Manufacture of all Uniforms for the Army of Occupation. First-class References.

Stamps of Ukraine 163 stamps including rarities to be sold at 4000 Marks. Apply to G 83, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S./40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

WAR SOUVENIRS. Paper Money representing nearly every town in Germany. 700 variaties including many rare specimens. Also many interesting coins. Price 1250 Mks. Reply Box S.M.I. Cologne Post A.P.O./S. 40.

CINEMA operating machine complete with transformer and resistance. Write Box 196 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

OPPORTUNITY. Very nice Opel (4 seater) 8/25 H.P. to sell for 2500 Marks without tyres. Joh. Bachem, Bonn, Coblenzerstr. 6 A.

TWO pairs roller skates, ball bearings, perfect condition. 1 pr. ladies, 1 pr. gents. 70 Marks per pair. C.Q.M.S. Weatherley, 497 Fld. Coy. R.E. Burscheid.

LOST.

WILL the tall "OFFICER" and "GENTLEMAN" who borrowed a cap from the Train Conducting Officer Boulogne—Cologne Express about the 8th inst, have the courtesy to return same to C/D R.T.O. Cologne.

SILVER wristlet watch. Wednesday evening, between Central Y.M.C.A. and the Dom. Suitable reward offered. Box 207, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

PERSONAL.

NOTICE is hereby given that all persons having any Debts, Claims and Demands against 17th or 51st Royal Fusiliers are required to send particulars in writing of their claims to P.R.I. 17th Royal Fusiliers, British Army of the Rhine, on or before 31st October 1919.

ENGLISH OFFICER (after Demobilisation) with permanent residence in Cologne and good business connections in England will accept agencies from first-class Firms. Write to Box 137 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

MARRIAGE.

LIEUT, J.M. Kinnoc Taylor (late D-123 Bde., R.F.A. of Glasgow, with Mademoiselle Yvonne Loore of Ghent, at St. Jacques, Ghent.

FOUND.

A black pocket-book was found in Colonel Pleydell Nott's overcoat, containing 62 marks, when he returned from the Dance at the British Empire Leave Club on October 16th. Will owner kindly apply to Controller of Entertainments.

WANTED.

PRISMATIC binoculars, Zeiss or Goerz, new or second-hand. 30 mm 6, central focussing. Or special 40 mm O./S. For particulars & price to Box 200, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

A thoroughly good pianoforte teacher to give lessons. One who speaks English preferred, also living in or near Cologne. Box 194, Cologne Post, A.P.O.S. 40.

LANGUAGES.

GERMAN conversational lessons given by German lady. Apply to Dr. Lützeler, 22. Handelstrasse Bonn.

TRANSLATIONS of commercial and private letters, any language. Typewriting, duplicating correspondence. SPANDOW, 7. Rudolfplatz.

LESSONS IN SPANISH, wanted on payment, or in return for English. Officer, Box 204, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

YOUNG GERMAN society lady wishes to exchange language lessons English-German Ubierring 3 III.

GERMAN, well educated young lady, wishes to have conversation with an English lady for exchange of languages. Write Käthe R. 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S 40.

SPORT.

FOOTBALL and Rugby matches wanted. 20th Batt. K.R.R.C. Solingen.

DENTISTRY.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. Crowns, Bridges etc.; best material; good workmanship. Quickest manufacture, repairing. Dental Laboratory. C. KOWALD, 831 Schildergasse.

H. BETTERMANN American Dentist, 43/45, Schildergasse, Cologne, (Late of Pittsburgh Pa. U.S.A.). Specialist in Gold-Crown, Bridge and Pivot-Work. Painless Extraction. Modern Appliances, Hours of Business 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

FELTEN, DENTISTRY. 86—88, Breitestrasse, (Second house from Church Army.) Permission to attend to British Soldiers. Good workmanship. Specialist in roots attendance. Modern Appliances. Extractions with Cocaine.

Before you return to England you can have made Artifical Teeth, Gold-Crowns, Bridges etc. (if required in one day) by E. Kierst, Dentist Cologne, Kaiser Wilhelm-Ring 41, behind the Emperor William monument. Hours of consultation 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

 THE COLOGNE POST ***
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks.

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marsellen-Strasse, Cologne, October 18, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S/40 British Army of the Rhine.

ANOTHER FOOTBALL CONTEST STARTS TRYING YOUR SKILL ?

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

VISIT THE STAPELHAUS N.A.C.B. INSTITUTE ON THE RHINE

No. 173. COLOGNE, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1919. Price 35 Pfg

WILL AMERICA STAND OUT?

LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS ON TURKISH PROBLEM BUT SAYS LITTLE ON ECONOMY.

MISS PENNANT'S FURTHER CHARGES.

TURKISH PEACE.

WHY AMERICA IS HESITATING.

Speaking on Thursday evening at Hadfield's works the Premier again emphasised the equal necessity for exercising economy and increasing production. It was a question whether the Government could do more to save the temporary expenditure which marked the transition of war to peace without imperilling greater and more permanent interests. He pointed out that the permanent expenditure of the country must remain far higher than in pre-war days owing to increased interest, amortization and pay. These have increased in all forms of State service. The bread subsidy must soon disappear.

The delay in signing the Peace with Turkey is attributable to the fact that it is not known whether America is going to share the burdens of civilisation outside the United States.

He was rather pleased that the Americans had been brought face to face with this, because some Americans used to accuse the "great grabbing English Empire" of getting pieces of land at every opportunity. He thought the Americans were now realising that Great Britain was undertaking a great civilising duty at a great cost. It was the task and mission that Providence had sent us and one which we are discharging in various parts of the world. We begged our kith and kin in America to join us in that task. Unless they did so, said the Premier, he did not know what was going to happen to parts of the Turkish Empire. Neither we nor France could undertake it all. A people who have been living in the shadow of a great tyranny for centuries is appealing with uplifted hand to America to come and help to protect them. He hoped their appeal would not be in vain. We are undertaking a similar responsibility ourselves and find we are approaching the limit of our strength and it would be unwise for us to go farther. It would be the height of unwisdom for us to disarm until the Turkish problem is settled and a proper and prompt settlement is vital to the British Empire and the whole world.

Dealing with certain criticisms of the Government Mr. Lloyd George concluded by quoting a notice often seen on country roads—"Please slacken reins when ascending the hill." He often wished the ministry could be similarly treated. When the Government was going up hill there were men pulling and prodding and tightening the reins. The burden was heavy and the road steep. It needed all one's muscle and brain, all the inspiration obtainable from one's fellow men and from above to enable one to keep up and carry weight.

PRAYERS AND PENNIES.

PARSONS PROTEST AGAINST PARSIMONY.

The vicar of St. Luke's Church, Preston, has some very drastic things to say regarding the parsimonious proclivities of some of his parishioners.

Writing in his parish magazine he says: "To hear them, full of emotion, sing 'Were the whole realm of nature mine' is enough to make Ananias blush. But emotion is not true religion.

"Possibly they counted their money and invested it in War Bonds, or retained it for the pictures. One explanation suggests that they were wandering worshippers. This explanation, though satisfactory to our people, is not satisfactory to me.

"Sunday after Sunday we have too many well-dressed folk claiming free seats, free books, warmth, light, music, preaching — generous in fault finding, but only valuing their religious privileges at a penny."

PRESIDENT WILSON'S CONDITION.

Yesterday's bulletin says that while President Wilson is feeling fairly well, the prostatic condition from which he has been suffering for several days is checking his progress towards recovery. A specialist will be summoned to determine whether an operation is necessary.

PRISONER RECAPTURED.

The name of the prisoner who was captured near Andover, after having escaped from the escort en route, is Pte. Marriot, Northumberland Fusiliers.

The remaining five men are still at large.

HUNGER STRIKERS RELEASED.

All the Sinn Fein prisoners in Mountjoy prison, Dublin, were released yesterday. They have been hunger-striking.

PENNANT'S CHARGES.

"LOW INTRIGUES IN HIGH PLACES."

At the House of Lords Inquiry into the circumstances attending the dismissal of Miss Violet Douglas Pennant from the Women's Royal Air Force, which was resumed yesterday, counsel for Miss Pennant read a letter which she sent to Mr. Winston Churchill, in which she said":

"I was dismissed as the direct result of a successful intrigue. The movement against me proceeded not only from within but from outside the W.R.A.F. Amongst those outside the W.R.A.F. who engaged in the movement was Dame Catherine Furse, in whom Colonel Bersey found a ready coadjutor. She endeavoured to undermine my position. The decision to dismiss me was not the unfettered decision of Lord Weir, but was the decision of Sir Auckland Geddes, who had no personal knowledge of me or my work."

Mr. Churchill had said that the pinch of the case was whether Miss Pennant's superior officers, who had power to continue her in office or to supersede her, acted from honest motives.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rigby Swift, representing the Air Ministry, Miss Pennant said her supercession had been brought about by an intrigue whereto Colonel Bersey, General Livingstone, General Brancker, Dame Catherine Furse, Sir Auckland Geddes and Lady Rhondda were parties.

KRONSTADT.

REPORTED SURRENDER TO BRITISH FLEET.

Reuter's Helsingfors correspondent states that it is officially announced that the North West Russian Army has acupied Krasnaya Gorka and Krasnoiselo, and that a British fleet was heavily bombarding Kronstadt, which was returning the ships' fire.

According to Finnish newspaper reports Kronstadt has surrendered to the British fleet and Helsingfors papers also report the surrender of Petrograd. This is not confirmed in London.

TO WRECK ELECTIONS.

MANY MUNICIPAL EMPLOYES THREATEN SABOTAGE.

A strike is threatened by the employes of seventy-eight municipalities of the Department of the Seine. They demand satisfaction as to salaries and the institution of Councils of Discipline composed of officials and employes which will take out of the hands of Mayors the power of discharging men.

If their claims are not granted by the end of the month they threaten to resort to sabotage when the Parliamentary elections are held.

DISPOSING OF DOUBTS.

"Herr Erich Heiland writes to "The Times" from Mettmann, near Düsseldorf:—"I, formerly German officer in American captivity, beg to inform you that Lieutenant Cedric Dalton, Manchester Regiment, died from a bullet shot in his right temple, 400 yards from the cemetery of Roupy (St. Quentin), on March 22, 1918, 3 p.m. In my opinion, he lies buried in the churchyard of Roupy, but I am not quite sure. Please inform his unhappy relations."

ELECTRIC TRAINS IN PARIS.

An innovation was seen in Paris on Wednesday when an electric train ran through the streets following the outer boulevards. It was composed of a front carriage with a generator of 80 h.p. and five cars, all provided with motors. Accumulators were attached to each to enable them to be run independently when required.

ANZAC GRATUITIES.

The New Zealand Government has sent a telegram to Sir Thomas Mackenzie, High Commissioner, authorizing the payment of the New Zealand war gratuity to those New Zealand Expeditionary Force discharged soldiers in the United Kingdom entitled to it.

THE KING'S FUND.

It has been decided to extend the scope of the King's Fund for disabled nurses who have been pensioned in respect of War Services. The idea is to assist applicants to start in business or to emigrate.

THE BARNSTORMERS.

PENAL SERVITUDE FOR BOGUS PROMOTER.

At the London Sessions yesterday, after three days' hearing, the trial was concluded of Basil Reginald Jarvis, 32, an entertainer, who was charged with obtaining by false pretences sums of money amounting to £300 from five demobilized officers. The circumstances have been reported. The prisoner engaged the officers to become acting managers of a number of concert parties, called the "Barnstormers," which he was running in various seaside towns. They were each to receive a salary of £5 a week with 20 per cent. of the profits, but when they went to take up their duties they found no concert party, got no money, and lost what they had invested.

Detective-sergeant Gooding said that the prisoner began his criminal career in 1901, when he was sent to a reformatory for four years for stealing a purse. Since then there had been numerous convictions against him, and in 1915 he was sentenced to three years' imprisonment at Manchester for false pretences. He had then posed as an Army doctor. He was released to join the Army in 1917, and during his military service he was ordered 80 days' detention for illegally wearing the D.C.M. and a wound stripe. He engaged a secretary at £10 a week for the "Barnstormers" enterprise, but paid him nothing. According to the secretary the prisoner owed £1,500 and he had no assets. He did not spend more than £200 in financing the concert parties. About 150 men and women performers were sent by him to various places and left stranded. They suffered great hardship and one young girl was nearly ruined.

The prisoner wept in the dock. He declared that he never had had a chance, and added, "Don't send me to my death. Give me a chance, and I will live an honest labourer's life."

Mr. Lawrie, in passing sentence of five years' penal servitude, said that Jarvis had dealt with the performers in a most cruel way. He would pass on him the most severe penalty he could.

DEATH OF LORD PORTMAN.

ROMANCE OF A GREAT LONDON ESTATE.

Viscount Portman, one of the greatest of London's ground landlords, died yesterday morning at his town residence, 22 Portman-square, after a few days' illness. He was in his 91st year, and is succeeded by the Hon. Henry Berkeley Portman, his eldest surviving son.

The Portman estate in London is enormously valuable, comprising all that part of Marylebone in the vicinity of the Edgware-road and Oxford-street. The story of the manner in which these lands came into the possession of the Portmans is one of the romances of London property.

More than two centuries ago an ancestor of the late peer came to London from the West Country and, longing for the rich milk and fresh butter he had left behind purchased a couple of meadows on the outskirts of the London of his day, on which he placed a herd of Dorsetshire cows. Those meadows are now the Portman estate and what a mine of wealth they have proved is known to everybody.

Lord Portman was twice married, and his second wife, whom he wedded in 1908 when in his 80th year, survives him. Until comparatively recently he enjoyed remarkably good health and in the last decade of his life he still rode with the hounds, besides taking an active interest in political and municipal matters.

He entered Parliament, at the age of 23, as member for Shaftesbury, sitting and voting, as a Whig, with the Liberal Party until the Home Rule split in 1886 when he became a Liberal-Unionist. He remained in the House of Commons until 1885, and succeeded to the peerage three years later.

GERMANY AND RUSSIA.

"Until you know what is going to happen to Russia you will not know who has won the war," declared Mr. Aylmer Maude, in an address on the Russian problem, delivered under the auspices of the United Russia Societies Association. "It is quite possible," he proceeded, "that Germany is going to gain a very great deal more in the East than she has lost in the West." As surely as we abandoned Russia Germany would inevitably dominate her. He had had it on good authority the previous day that the anti-Bolshevist forces, which in the spring of this year were in the proportion of three to four compared with the Bolshevik forces, were now three to two.

GERMAN EMBASSY IN PARIS.

Although it has been stated that Baron von Lersner, the Chief of the German Delegation, will not yet take up his abode in the German Embassy in Paris as German Chargé d'Affaires, it is possible that before long the members of the German Delegation will be authorised to remove to the Embassy in the Rue de Lille in Paris.

PROFITEERING FINES.

There are no fewer than 1,600 profiteering tribunals already working in England. Since the Profiteering Act was passed the Food Minister has instituted 1,350 prosecutions, obtaining 1,320 convictions and fines totalling £1,700.

PAYING THE PIPER.

HEAVY COMPENSATION FOR IRISH OUTRAGES.

The wild scenes which occurred at Letterkenny (Co. Donegal) in March last year on the occasion of the arrest of a local Republican had their sequel at the Londonderry Quarter Sessions when Judge Cooke awarded Constables Geraghty, aged fifty, and Tumelty, aged twenty, £100 compensation each for personal injuries. Following the removal of the prisoner to the police barracks on the occasion in question a howling mob of several hundred Sinn Feiners, as well as Irish Volunteers in military formation, armed with hurleys, assembled outside the barracks, shouting, "Up rebels and bring out your guns." Constable Geraghty received a severe blow on the face, which induced paralysis. Next day the police were unable to get a motor to take the prisoner to the station, drivers being intimidated, and they had to commandeer a motor. The mob endeavoured to render this useless, but Constable Tumelty remedied the defects and volunteered to drive the prisoner to the station, which he did. While the constable was returning with the motor a Sinn Fein mob surged round the car. He was struck with stones, bottles, and hurleys, while a girl hit him with a flag-pole. He became unconscious as the result of his injuries and his nose and ear are permanently injured.

Judge Cooke said that the Irish people must realise that it was to the interest of the community to preserve the law, and if they refused to assist the police they must pay for the consequences.

DIAMOND THEFT.

STOLEN FROM LINER'S MAIL BAGS.

On the arrival of the Holt liner Eneas at Liverpool a packet of diamonds was found to have been stolen from the mails. The liner was homeward bound from Australia and had called at Capetown, where the mails, including a registered packet of diamonds worth many thousands of pounds, were packed aboard. On the mail bags being inspected at Liverpool one was found to have been ripped open. A packet containing rough diamonds weighing 1,000 carats, consigned to a London firm, was missing. Nine loose diamonds were found in the hold. The police believe the theft occurred while the liner was anchored at Capetown.

TRUCK SHORTAGE.

CLEARING OUT OF FRANCE.

The Ministry of Transport announce that they are pressing on with the work of bringing back railway material from France. Wagons are now returning by the train ferry at the rate of 500 per week, and it is hoped eventually to increase this to 900 per week. This would restore all wagons in six months. Locomotives and trucks are being allotted to railway companies according to priority of need so as to relieve traffic congestion as much possible.

PRINCE VISITS GOLD MINE.

The Prince of Wales visited the mining town of Timmino (Ontario) which has a population of some 10,000 people and is the headquarters of one of the richest goldfields in the world. After the usual civic reception and inspection of returned soldiers, the Prince proceeded to the Hallinger mine, which at present is producing one million pounds worth of gold annually. Machinery is installed for an output of one third more, the only requisite being more labour, which it is hoped will be secured. Some hundreds of unskilled hands are required at from three dollars daily upwards. The Prince was conducted over the entire works by Mr. Timmins, the original proprietor of the mine.

CLAIMANT TO PEERAGE.

Mr. John G. H. Rackstraw, of Monkwearmouth, a bricklayer, is the claimant to the Scottish title of Lord Lennox of Dumbarton, and to a rent-roll reputed to be worth £36,000 a year, and an estate covering ten square miles. The case is to be heard next week in the Court of Session, Edinburgh. Mr. Rackstraw, who was born at Sunderland in 1851, claims that his great-great-grandmother was a descendant of the Duke of Hamilton, who was a nephew of Mary, Queen of Scots. He believes that he has traced his ancestry back to the year 1581.

TWENTY YEARS AFTER.

A witness at an inquest yesterday at Hornsey on Charles Algernon Hobblethwaite, aged 71, who was found in his room shot, said the deceased man suffered great pain in damp weather owing to a disease of the nose and brain, caused by being struck with a cricket ball 20 years ago.

A verdict of suicide while of unsound mind was returned.

14TH CENTURY INN SOLD.

The Crown Inn, Chiddingfold, dating from the 14th century, and believed to be the oldest licensed house in Surrey, was sold on Thursday for £3,000. The house contains much well-preserved old oak.

QUEEN'S DARING.

ENTERS LION'S DEN IN CALIFORNIA.

The Queen of the Belgians stepped into the cage of a mountain lion at the Government ranger station in the beautiful valley of the Yosemite, California.

So sudden was the Queen's impulse that King Albert and the astonished members of the party accompanying their Majesties had not time to make a move to prevent her.

A nice, quiet creature the lion appeared to be. Queen Elizabeth had stroked its ears through the bars of the cage, and it had submitted docilely and with apparent gratification to the caress.

But the instant the august visitor invaded its domain the lion showed fight, snapping at her and snarling viciously.

Quickly, but very calmly, her Majesty stepped backward out of the cage, and closed the door. Then she laughed heartily at her frightened escort who had rushed to assist her, and at the gentle chiding of the King.

STATE LORRIES.

GOVERNMENT SCHEME TO RELIEVE DOCKS AND RAILWAYS.

In order to relieve the congestion at docks and ports and on the railways serving them an emergency scheme for the use of motor lorries has been prepared by the Ministry of Transport and will be immediately put into operation through the Port and Transit Executive Committee, of which Sir Norman Hill is chairman.

Local committees are being appointed in London, Liverpool, Manchester, Bristol, Cardiff and Hull, consisting of representatives of the Ministry of Transport, Ministry of Food, Ministry of Munitions, the local Port Authority, the railways and the road haulage interests, both employers and employed.

These committees, working in conjunction with the Port and Transit Executive Committee in London, will, so long as the present congestion continues, allocate motor lorries which will be made available to relieve congestion.

The lorries available for these purposes will be Government lorries provided and equipped by the Ministry of Transport. Commercial rates will be charged for all the services corresponding to those which would be charged in the ordinary course of business.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

OLD ATTRACTIONS NEXT YEAR.

The Naval and Military occupation of the Crystal Palace will end on the 31st December. After that date the Palace grounds, which now belong to the nation, will again be organised as a public resort, beginning with a British Industrial Fair organised by the Board of Trade.

The season proper will commence in May, the first attraction being a great exhibition arranged by the Imperial War Museum authorities, which may continue for a year or two, but even this will occupy only a part of the huge floor space and grounds, leaving ample room for amusement, music etc. Firework displays will again form a feature at the Palace.

BRITISH GOODS IN GREECE.

Preparations for the exhibition of British industries, which is to be opened by the King on October 19, are in full swing. There are over a million pounds worth of exhibits arranged in the spacious Zappeion rooms, representing nearly 500 British firms, and approximately 500 million pounds of capital.

The exhibitors, who before leaving England were rather sceptical as to the value of the exhibition, are now enthusiastic on the prospects of the Greek market.

IRONFOUNDER'S STRIKE.

The ballot of the Ironfounders resulted in the rejection of the agreement negotiated with the employers by 27,938 votes against 1,688. As the total membership of this Union is only 50,000 it will be seen that nearly half the members abstained from voting.

The result is a serious blow to engineering trades which depend on castings from foundries and will lead to further serious unemployment.

SEAMEN'S MEDALS.

The King has approved of the Sea Transport Medal which was instituted in 1903 as a standing decoration for award to Mercantile Marine officers for service in chartered troop transports during wars subsequent to that date, being regarded as superseded—so far as the present war is concerned—by the Mercantile Marine Medal.

BANBURY FAIR.

Banbury Michaelmas Fair, after being in abeyance during the war years, was revived yesterday in splendid weather. It is one of the oldest statutory fairs in the country. Hiring of farm and domestic servants was limited; otherwise the fair was run on traditional lines.

After two women had each complained at Acton of having been assaulted by the other, the magistrate remarked: "It is a pity you women can't put the gloves on and fight it out."

NAVY STAFF.

SEA OFFICERS WITH SHORE APPOINTMENTS.

Lord Fisher, in yesterday's "Times," devoted considerable space to the subject of the Naval War Staff. He says that the mischief of this institution to the Navy is that the ablest officers, both young and old, get attracted to the brainy work and shore-going appointments, and the land is shocking bad training for the sea. Thus the tendency of these thinking establishments on shore is to convert splendid sea officers into very indifferent clerks. The Admiralty is filled now with sea officers who ought to be afloat, and the splendid civilian element is swamped. A sea officer can never be an efficient clerk. His life unfits him. He cannot be an orator as he always has to hold his tongue. He cannot argue as he has never been allowed.

Some interesting notes on Jellicoe appear in a letter from Lord Fisher to a certain Privy Councillor. In it Lord Fisher wrote "Carnaghan, I got where he was. He was a great friend of mine, but Jellicoe was a better, and Jellicoe, in spite of mutinous threats, was appointed Admiralissimo on the eve of war. Like poets, Fleet Admirals are born, not made. Jellicoe is incomparable as the commander of a fleet but to prop up an effete Administration he allowed himself to be cajoled away from his great post of duty. I told the Dardanelles Commission (why they asked me I don't know) that Jellicoe had all the Nelsonic attributes except one—he is totally wanting in the great gift of insubordination. Alas! Jellicoe is saturated with discipline."

PROFITEERING.

LEGAL IN IRELAND BUT NOT IN SCOTLAND.

A big Belfast whisky firm was fined £200 at Glasgow yesterday for selling 650 gallons of whisky to Glasgow publicans for £700 above the control price.

Mr. Sheriff Foile refused to accept the vendors' contention that control prices did not apply to Irish whisky. It was true that in Ireland whisky could be sold for any price, but whisky sold in Scotland, whatever its origin, was subject to the spirit order. Had the defendants been individuals instead of a company, said the Sheriff, both imprisonment and a fine would have been inflicted. It was a case of stealing a march on honest Scottish traders.

VARSITY RAG.

PREMIER ENTERS INTO THE FUN.

When Mr. Lloyd George arrived at Sheffield University on Thursday to receive the degree of Doctor of Laws, a crowd of undergraduates surrounded him and prevailed on him to enter a Sedan chair swathed in a Union Jack. The Premier good-humouredly acquiesced, whereupon eight white-coated students triumphantly carried off the Premier, followed by a procession of other students, headed by a tin-batted drummer and a drum-major in motley and tinsel. The procession went gravely round the grounds and through the corridors of the building. The onlookers were greatly amused and the Premier thoroughly enjoyed the "rag."

THE NEW ARMY BOOKSHOP.

The Army Bookshop and Reading Room in the Hohestrasse Arcade is well worth a visit. The reading room is replete with the latest popular periodicals, all tastes being studied, and the current leading British dailies are also available. In the library the fiction lover has a generous selection to choose from, and the student of economics, technical subjects, or social problems is also well catered for. The latest French and German journals are provided. There is a splendid collection of war photographs adorning the walls — a most entertaining half-hour may be spent inspecting them — and anyone in uniform can obtain copies at reduced prices. The premises are open to all ranks daily, Sundays included, from 10 a.m. to 7.30 p.m., and judging by the patronage of the past few days, this latest branch of Army activity will prove to be exceedingly popular and useful.

BRITISH GOODS.

At a meeting yesterday of the London Corporation a letter from the Industries and Manufacturer's department of the Board of Trade, suggesting the desirability of stipulating in all contracts, so far as practicable, that the goods to be supplied should be of United Kingdom manufacture, was referred to the General Purposes Committee.

Mr. Hayward pointed out that the wording of the resolution passed by the Court during the war, which was aimed at alien enemies only, might also appear to rule out friendly countries. It should be made perfectly clear that the latter was not the intention of the resolution.

WAR TROPHIES FOR WOOLWICH.

Woolwich Borough Council has accepted the offer of the War Trophies Committee of 10 German heavy guns, 10 German field guns, six anti-tank rifles, and a number of smaller trophies.

FLIGHTS LTD.
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Mr. Lee is now back in Cologne from London and has brought with him a good stock.

Call or write OFFICERS' CLUB, COLOGNE

"OPTIMUS"
COFFEE EXTRACT
PURE COFFEE & COFFEE & CHICORY
28 Gold & Silver Medals & Awards
Sole Export Agents for
GERMANY, AUSTRIA, CZECHO-SLAVIA
THOS. PANKHURST & Co.
80 Shaftesbury Avenue
LONDON W. 1.
AGENTS REQUIRED
for this article and also for Tea etc. etc.

THOS. COOK & SON
BANKERS, TOURIST, ARMY AND FORWARDING AGENTS

THE FIRM'S COLOGNE BRANCH HAS BEEN RE-OPENED FOR THE CONVENIENCE OF OFFICERS N.C.O'S. AND MEN OF THE ARMY OF OCCUPATION

FOREIGN MONIES EXCHANGED

ADDRESS: 1 DOMHOF
OPPOSITE THE CATHEDRAL

ODEON COLOGNE
HOHESTRASSE 9
Variety performance from 7-10.45 p.m.

Rosenhof
COLOGNE, Hohestrasse 9.
5 o'clock Tea and evening entertainment. From 5.00 till 10.45 p.m. continous performance. Renowned singers, dancers and reciters. First Class House for Officers and Civilians only.

DENTIST
E. KIERST
Cologne
Kaiser Wilhelm-Ring 41
behind the monument of Emperor Wilhelm.
Tram Routes 16, 18 & 20.
Consultation hours 9—7, Sunday 9—12 a.m.
First-class and quick workmanship.
Painless extraction. Moderate prices.
Specialities: Gold crowns and Bridges.

COURT-DENTIST
W. LENGERSDORF
14 Hohestrasse.
Consultations: 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.
3 p.m. to 6 p.m
Sundays from 10 a.m. to 12.
Gold teeth and fillings a speciality. Extractions with cocaine. Good workmanship. Best references. Careful treatment.

is the best Razor on the Market. Also other good Razors kept in stock and a great variety of CUTLERY GOODS
W. CARNEIM
a. d. Dominikanern 1, corner Marzellenstr.

Where can I get my Photo work done?
at the:—
Kölner Photo & Kino Centrale
Neumarkt 32—34.
All repairs done to Kodaks, Ica, Zeiss, Goerz, Ernemann Cameras & Cinema machines.
English spoken.

ENORMOUS SUCCES OF
"THE JESTERS"
The first civilian music hall party to visit Rhineland.

SIX LONDON VARIETY ARTISTES INCLUDING
Mr.
JOE MORLEY
The famous Banjoist of the London Palladium

Miss MABEL MARTIN.
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY.
Mr. HARRY KING.
Mr. FRANK HOOK.
Mr. CHAS. LEWIS.

Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage The Jesters after Saturday Oct. 18th. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office or may be seen personally at 11 o/c each morning at Amusements Office, Komödienstrasse, Cologne.

N. A. C. B.
STAPELHAUS
ON THE RIVER BANK
Adjoining the Hohenzollern Bridge
LARGE CANTEEN
COFFEE BAR
with Hot and Cold Meats
TEA, COFFEE, COCOA
always ready
Fresh Cakes and Pastries
daily from our own Bakery in Cologne.
RECREATION WRITING AND READING ROOMS
Open to all Troops.
ORCHESTRA
All in a magnificent building.

BOXING
IN Y.M.C.A.
CENTRAL HALL
ON MONDAY, 20th OCTOBER
Commencing at 15.00 hours.

Prices of Admission:
OFFICERS . . . . . 5 Marks
SERGEANTS . . . . 3 „
OTHER RANKS . . 2 „

1st London Infantry Brigade.
BOXING TOURNAMENT UNITS: 9th Bn. E. SURREYS, 7th Bn. MIDDLESEX RGT. (Runners up Rhine Army Boxing Championship) 23rd Bn. MIDDLESEX RGT.

To-day,
Great International Boxing Matches
Munich Beerhalls
Lunapark near Zoo
7.30 p.m.
Willi Spörl, Münich . . 122 pounds
Lightweight Champion of Bavaria.
Jungweis, Berlin . . . . 118 pounds
Curt Sasse, Berlin . . . 114 „
Fritz Rolauf, Cologne . 114 „
Lightweight Champion of Germany.
Challenge Match.
Young Cohen (Brigade Champion)
Feather-weight Champion 114 pounds
Willi Luhr, Hamburg . 114 „
Alterations in the programme are sometimes necessary and therefore reserved owing to the possibility of hurts in these strenuous contests and in the training.

FOR SALE
500 doz. first-class
LADIES HATS
VIENNA VELOURS
Latest shapes and shades.
JULIUS STERN, Cologne
Roonstrasse 53

Scottish Churches and English Free Churches.

THE MILITARY CHURCH.
6 Filzengraben (Turning off Heumarkt.)
Sunday, 19th October
11 a.m. and 6 p.m.
Preacher: Rev. G. A. SEATH, C. F. (Garrison Chaplain).
Cars 6, 7, 11, 18 and 20.

Welsh Service 2—30 p.m. in Y.M.C.A. Central.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

WEEK COMMENCING
MONDAY OCTOBER 20th, 1919
ALL COMMENCING AT 7—0 p.m.

Deutsches Theatre, Bismarckstrasse.

British Rhine Army Dramatic Company
in
Monday . . "HELEN WITH THE HIGH HAND".
Tuesday . . "DAMAGED GOODS".
Wednesday and Thursday "THE NEW SIN".
Friday and Saturday "CANDIDA", FOLLOWED BY "MAN AND DESTINY".

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.

Owing to Continued Success return visit of Mr. ALFRED HURLEY'S LONDON COMPANY in an Entirely new Programme.
ARTISTES:
Mr. JOE MORLEY
the Celebrated Banjoist, from the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY
Mr. FRANK HOOK
Mr. HARRY KING
Mr. CHASS. LEWIS
and
"JOEY"
JOE SAT —! OH—! JOHN

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA.
32 Komödienstrasse
All the Best Pictures.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
Grand Orchestral and Pictorial Programme.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA.
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPEILHAUS, Hohe Strasse
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

British Empire LEAVE CLUB
Hon. Dir. Gen. Miss Decima Moore, C.B.E.

ENTERTAINMENTS

Sunday 19th Oct.—CONCERT BY BAND of 20th K.R.R.C. (by kind permission of O.C.)Solists. Miss MARJORIE MOORE, Major BOWEN, Rifleman GREEN.
Monday 20th Oct.—PRACTISE DANCE.
Tuesday 21st Oct. 6.30 p.m. LECTURE on "THE OPERA" by Col. GORE-BROWN, in the Music Room. 7 p.m. "BRAGANCA" CONCERT PARTY.
Wednesday 22nd Oct.—DANCE, with BAND of the 9th DURHAM LIGHT INFANTRY. (by kind permission of their O.C.)
Thursday 23rd Oct.—WHIST DRIVE.
Friday 24th Oct.—CONTINUOUS CINEMA.
Saturday 25th Oct.—DANCE.

CINEMA
EVERY DAY. From 2.30 p.m.
Admission 2 Marks.

TO-MORROW (MONDAY) EVENING
at the
COLOGNE CENTRAL Y.M.C.A.
(44, Friesenstrasse.)

LORELY HALL. — "Our Own Concert" Y.M.C.A. Staff and Others at 6.30 p.m.
GREAT HALL. — 1st London Brigade Boxing Tournament at 15.00 hours.
The next Dancing class for British Children will be on Tuesday, the 21st October at 11 a.m. in the Lorely Hall.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 659. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.

Sunday, October 19, 1919.

MASQUERADING.

From our earliest years most of us have been addicted to "dressing up." Within the nursery walls this universal "make believe" was at its purest and best. Even inanimate objects were easily impersonated and infused with an animation, which the wisest philosopher or scientist has failed to produce.

Now it was an enginedriver, greasy and alert, now a Red Indian, and now a pirate bold. Sex did not trouble us, neither propriety nor age. There was nothing impossible in those halcyon days.

With the passing of the years it became increasingly difficult out of Bedlam to make believe, but the penchant for "dressing up," which is surely innate, remained. The Fancy Dress Ball is an institution as permanent as it is popular.

In Rhineland, as our amusement columns have amply testified, this picturesque diversion has been freely indulged in, the British Empire Leave Club — that Palace of Delight — being the customary venue of the garish and the gay when on masquerading bent.

How comes it, one wonders, that so many of us of both sexes find an irresistible fascination in being if only for a little while someone else?

It seems to be the survival of a harmless custom which has little but antiquity to commend it. In the spacious days of Queen Elizabeth the Londoner decorated his house front and subsequently his person on the slightest provocation, and when Ben Jonson and others, with the artistic help of Inigo Jones, produced masques for the stage which were splendid shows or pageants rather than dramas, an example was furnished which the public naturally followed.

Ever since these actors and actresses have cast a spell over peers and peasants, lords and louts, even monarchs themselves have been more than enthralled. The Fancy Dress Ball provides a convenient opportunity for "play-acting" in our own little way on our circumscribed stage. No other means quite so handy or so pleasant apparently exists for the gratification of what has become for many a natural craving.

After all, who is not more or less an actor throughout most of his working hours? The habit of "kidding" oneself is perennial and universal. If in an inspired moment we sometimes choose to fortify the fancy with an adornment of the person appropriate to some character other than ourselves, what of it?

TOUCHED!

The Pathetic Story of an Ex-Quartermaster.

In July, 1914, "Suitings, Ltd." doing a large business in ready-made suits with the proletariat of a South East London suburb, had no more courteous and efficient salesman than Charles William Clark.

The bulk of the firm's business was done with poorly paid clerks whose chief anxiety was to be up to date as regards "cut and style" to which vital questions the firm paid special attention.

Occasionally, a customer would enter more concerned about the durability of the material than the newness of the fashion. It then became Clark's duty (and habit) to fib on behalf of his principals.

The truth could hardly be expected by customers whose sartorial aspirations, as expressed in what they were prepared to pay in order to attain them, fluctuated between 35/- and 45/- for a suit, and 28/- to 35/- for an overcoat.

Five years with the firm had made Clark exceptionally efficient in dealing with these customers, and it was not surprising that his employers should move Heaven, earth and the local tribunal to retain him when Military Service became compulsory.

Varicose veins—another result of his five years' service—obtained one short exemption for Clark, and probably influenced the tribunal in its decision to extend the exemption for a few months on his employers' application.

There came, however, a period when neither his varicose veins nor his value as a salesman could be permitted to stand in the way of the urgent need for men.

As this is not a history of Clark's life in the Army, it is not necessary to show, in detail, how he worked his disability in the cause of a cushy job.

Sufficient that he "swung" on his varicose veins so successfully that they landed him, eventually, into the Q. M. Stores.

By forgetting all those charming counter-manners and enthusiasm for "cut and style" which had made him all but indispensible to "Suitings, Ltd." he soon attained those stripes which add weight to the opinion of men on such questions as the proper life of a shirt, the fit of a tunic and the breaking point of a pair of braces.

With the fear of the Ordnance and its delays ever before him, he looked on clothing with new eyes, discovering months of life in trousers, great-coats and tunics which were obviously on their last legs—and shoulders. Customers were turned away in scores every week. They came, they saw, they were conquered.

There comes an end, however, to all good things, and pressing domestic problems at home resulted in Clark taking his release when his turn came, albeit, but for the gravity of the domestic situation, he would have extended his service.

"Suitings Ltd." having had their premier salesman cast upon, or rather, over the waters, he was returned unto them after many days. Alas! the promise of Scripture in the somewhat different case of which the reader is probably now thinking, was not fulfilled.

It was about 10 o'clock on the first morning of his resumption with "Suitings Ltd." that the effect of his Army employment became apparent.

A pasty-faced, smoke-dried looking youth of 21 entered the shop and asked to be shown some grey tweeds. Clark, gazed deeply on the suit the youth was wearing, and the following dialogue ensued:

"How longa yer had that?" he enquired quartermasterfully.

The youth looked surprised but answered, politely enough:

"Three months—bought it here in July."

"Three months!" thundered the ex-Quartermaster. "Can't do anything for you, me lad. Nine months yer supposed to make em last. Besides, what's wrong with it? Months of wear in it yet. Next man," adding, as the customer started to protest, "Outside, or yer for it."

Thus encouraged, the youth got a move on, determined to lodge a complaint with the manager.

The next customer was a middle-aged woman, desirous of a suit for a boy of 9, whom she was leading by the hand. More fortunate than the previous customers she was treated by Clark in his best pre-war manner. Having wrapped up the parcel of clothing, he handed it to the lady, and made out the bill.

It was fortunate, or unfortunate (according to where your sympathies lie) that the pasty faced youth, at this moment, entered with the manager to whom he was explaining the extraordinary treatment to which he had been subjected.

Cutting across the youth's rather disjointed narrative, such phrases as "Sign on re-payment, please;" "Ay, young feller me lad, what about my change?" "That's where you sign, lightning. THERE"; "Rum issue at 7.30" "You'll have to take tobacco, ma'am; no cigarettes this week" assailed the manager's ears.

* * *

They led him away gently that same morning. Visitors to the asylum which harbours the poor chap are particularly struck with the happy smile which lights up his countenance as he turns the pages of the Priced Vocabulary of Stores—with which alluring publication he beguiles his time spent in "Retreat."

E. Y. TELLUM.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

PRESENTATIONS.

Sir,—I have noticed from time to time that popular officers and others on leaving Rhineland are feted by their regiments and given substantial testimonials.

Now the sentiment that prompts these offerings may be very commendable and I don't want to say a word against it, nor to hint that the recipients do not deserve such recognition. My knowledge of King's Regulations,—far from perfect as is that of most people—gives me a clear recollection of having seen it distinctly laid down that such testimonials and gifts are forbidden in the Army. Am I not right? BRIG.

SHIVERING PLAYGOERS.

Sir,—How sad it is to read of the "poor fragile frame" of "Hot Stuff" being fatigued by the exertion of reading the few but very excellent suggestions that have been made for the increased comfort of patrons of the Deutsches Theatre, and doubtless he will, in justice to the authors of those suggestions, credit them with a sense of appreciation of the programme offered, at last equal to his own. Surely he is not suggesting that all that we experienced during the war should be continued now.

He states that he was very glad to have any form of entertainment, which leads one to ask the question, "Was he in the real war?"

Certainly in the localities where I spent my time, viz: Passchendaele, Armentieres, and the Cambrai sector, we were too seriously occupied to enjoy the entertainments that "H.S." appears to have had.

Admittedly when comparing the present situation with that of a year ago, when my Battery, like all other units, was experiencing a very unpleasant time, we are having a good time.

Perhaps "H.S." has been tired so long, that his weary brain has not yet realized the transition stage from war to peace and so he is content with his old standard of comfort.

Finally had "H.S." been seated in the vicinity of this radiator on the night in question, he would have experienced a rude awakening. CORPORAL.

GAY UNIFORMS.

Sir,—I could not but think after reading W.R.P.'s letter and then the King's letter to the League of Nations that W.R.P. would be better employed "doing his bit" to further a cause to benefit humanity, than pleading for gay uniforms because he felt a sense of pride as he watched our troops on the march.

Such sights are an incentive to the same spirit possessed by our enemies in 1914, and we now see the results of that spirit.

Whereas gay uniforms would benefit a section of the community, universal peace would benefit us all and those who made the supreme sacrifice would not have done so in vain.

Considering the influence one person has over another, it is not wise to make such a statement as "Wars will never cease whilst men live upon earth".

We must end wars, or wars will end us, and can anything be done without an effort? SIGNALLER.

N.A.C.B. ACCOUNTS.

Sir,—The N.A.C.B. has decided that all goods not paid within a week will be charged for at the current rate when the cash was paid after the lapse of the stated time.

That was very nice as far as the N.A.C.B. are concerned when the rate went up to 120, but now it has gone down to 109 do they intend to make a rebate to the fortunate or unfortunate units that may have a weekly account not yet paid?

I want to bring this matter to light, as I don't think the N.A.C.B realise the startling state of canteen funds at present. The largest percentage of units are now breaking up and all surplus profits are naturally being divided amongst the men from whose money the profits have been made, and owing to the great increase of prices and to the fall of the mark funds will not allow of making a full payment at the time of purchase, that is if enough stores are to be obtained to satisfy all them. The N.A.C.B. do not make allowances for the fact that they have put their price at 120 when they had the advantage of buying on the civil rate of 100 to 108. GEORGE.

(We are informed that the N.A.C.B. work one week behind the exchange. Thus 120.00 did not operate for seven days and the 109.50 will be delayed similarly. Ed.)

THE OLDEST SOLDIER.

Sir,— Recently an article appeared in the "Post" stating that Mr. William Clarke of Shamley Green was the oldest soldier who served in the war.

The following record may be of interest. No. 2293. L/C E. Pearce. 27 Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, after completing 12 years in the Senior Service enlisted into the above on the 28th August 1866 and is still serving.

His foreign service extends over 41 years without a break, and includes Burma, India, Africa, Egypt, and Malta.

E. WATKINS Q.M.S.I.,
Army Gym. Staff.

AFTERNOON AMUSEMENTS.

Sir,—The letter of G.H.E. provides an opportunity of calling attention to the Reading Room and Bookshop just opened in the passage or Arcade between Hohestrasse and Brückenstrasse.

Although it is not yet at the full development of its activities, one finds there the principal English papers, daily, weekly, illustrated and otherwise, magazines, French reviews, and even Parisian fashion papers for the lovelier sex.

There is a display of large photographs of varied interest, and a considerable selection of books for all tastes and on a variety of subjects.

There are—and will be more—technical trade and hobby papers, the chief provincial newspapers are on order, and the principal commercial papers and periodicals in different languages will soon be found on the tables. Other features are in prospect.

It is proposed, beginning on Monday next, to have the Reading Room and Bookshop open continuously from 10 a.m. to 7.30 p.m., or as we say nowadays from 10.00 hours to 19.30 hours.

This source of recreation and interest has already been discovered and used by all ranks and by members of their families including children. Now that it is in running order, it is hoped to welcome many more. Suggestions as to developments other than those now in hand will also be welcomed. W. INGE.

THE DISPLAY OF DECORATIONS.

Sir,—"Jumbo" has most aptly stated his case against this universal wearing of ribbons so dear to the heart of "Be-ribboned" and similar gentry.

Any man who has satisfied his own conscience that he has discharged his debt to his own country as far as it lay within his power to do so should have little need of this peacock glory that he regards as essential.

Perhaps "Be-ribboned" can explain how one can distinguish between a man who spent all his foreign service in a French base miles away from any "noise" in comfortable quarters and three regular meals a day, and the man who has spent all his time in the line, and yet both could be entitled to the same decorations.

JACKO.

DEFEATING EXTORTION.

Sir,—Many, no doubt, have experienced a difficulty in reading the taxi-meter, and if you are dependant on asking the driver to read it for you and to ask how much he wants he will with fair certainty "stick it on."

The other night I took a taxi for quite a short run and not being able to read the distance I asked the man how much it was.

The price sounded absurd, so I asked him how far he had come and the reply was three kilometres—Well, any fool can judge a kilometre or two, so I said, "I will pay you what you ask, but I want your number and address." The price was reduced by half in a few seconds.

As it is always difficult and sometimes inconvenient to quibble with people of this sort, I suggest that anyone having a similar experience should merely take a pencil out of his pocket and take the number of the cab. I don't think much argument will be needed. M. M.

ARE THEY "GUNNERS?"

Sir,—Reading an account of a football match between a M.G. Battn. and another team the term "Gunners" was used several times.

Surely the term "Gunner" is misused when applied to a member of the Machine Gun Corps.

The M.G.C. originated in infantry battalions, and since its evolution it has had no connection with the "Royal Artillery."

No one wishes to cast aspersions on the work of this newly fledged wing of the service, but everyone who wears the artillery badge with its proud "Ubique" feels resentment, tolerant though it may be, at this misappropriation of the name by which he is known the whole world over. GUNNER.

OUR MUSICAL TASTE.

Sir,—In connection with several rather startling opinions indulged in by some of your contributors under this heading I should like to point out that Chauvinism is only commendable when it does not expose its adherents to the danger of being regarded as complacent "farceurs."

As a race of great administrators we are credited with having built up "a long-standing and well-founded reputation for sanity, sobriety and solidity of character." Here is surely abundant food for consolation, even for eager Alexander.

Our claims to musical distinction are, to say the least, obscure. Why not be honest if we cannot be generous, and grant Germany her predominance in music and abstract thought?

However, we are neither fond of nor good at advertising, and it is a little trying to reflect on the malicious amusement which one letter in particular, from a captain in the R.A.S.C., must have caused in circles where we may still be respected but are certainly not loved.

H.F. ANGOLD.

(This correspondence is now closed. Ed.)

GEMS FROM LORD FISHER'S MEMORIES.

The naval officer makes a very bad clerk. He hasn't been brought up to it. He can't write a letter; he is both verbose and diffuse. The Clerk is terse and incisive.

The vulgar error of Lord Haldane and others who are always talking about "clear thinking" and such like twaddle is that they do not realise that the Army is absolutely different from the Navy.

When Lord Kitchener went to Australia to manage the scheme of defence he forgot Australia was an Island. What Australia wants to make it impregnable is not conscription—it's submarines.

I am very glad Nelson never went to the Admiralty; he would have made an awful hash of it. Nelson was a fighter, not an administrator and a snake-charmer. That's what a First Sea Lord has to be.

I once heard one bluejacket say to another the reason he believed in the Bible was that in heaven there is "no more sea."

Jellicoe is saturated with discipline. He is the one man to command a fleet but he is not the man to stand up against a pack of lawyers clothed with Cabinet garments and possessed with tongues that have put them where they are.

I know great men who never came to a prompt decision.—men who could talk a bird out of a tree!

Tirpitz is the one German sailor who understands war. Kill your enemy without being killed yourself. I don't blame him for the submarine business. I'd have done the same myself, only our idiots in England wouldn't believe what I told 'em

WELLS ATONES.

Curphey Receives "K. O." in the Second Round.

"BILLY" IN GREAT FORM.

There was an electrical atmosphere in the Holborn Stadium on Friday night, and a crowded house was on the tip-toe of excitement when the Wells-Curphey contest was staged.

"Beautiful Billy," as the famous Bombardier is styled, despite his defeats and short-comings, is still a popular idol. Added to this was the knowledge that he was making his boldest and biggest bid to recover some of his old renown. Both boxers received a great ovation, and yet it was apparent, by the reception given Wells, where the sympathies of the audience lay. There was none of his old nervousness visible as he entered the ring, a splendid specimen of British manhood. The contest was scheduled to last 20 rounds, but the second round saw the eclipse of Curphey. He took the full count amidst a scene of great enthusiasm and excitement.

DETAILS OF THE FIGHT.

Round one: At the outset Curphey rushed his man, and scored with a couple of good rights to the head. He came again but Wells cleverly stopped him and with one of his old time straight lefts sent his opponent down for a count of seven. This shook Curphey considerably, and for the rest of the round, which favoured the Bombardier, he was continually seeking safety in close quarters. The confidence displayed by Wells was greatly appreciated by his admirers.

Round two: Curphey opened with his former tactics and rushed in, to be met with left and right swings to the head, the ex-champion keeping him off cleverly. Wells was boxing in great style, and was obviously in splendid form. Curphey's next rush received its reward from a good left, which steadied the Salford man, and ere he could recover, Wells whipped in a splendidly-timed blow with his right, and Curphey went down a beaten and wiser man.

It was a rousing and exciting contest and created great enthusiasm. Wells boxed with all his old-time skill and showed a complete absence of that lack of confidence which was his greatest handicap in former contests.

WHAT WELLS SAID.

Before his fight with Colin Bell, Wells said that if he failed he would return to his former employment. He made a similar promise before this fight and again has been victorious. During the interval between the Beckett fight and Friday's contest, he has been fitted with a complete set of teeth, and stated he felt heaps better in consequence. Sculling and swimming hardened him up, and persistent exercise, seriously undertaken, had its reward.

Curphey has as lengthy and an even wider experience than Wells and provided a real test. He has had only one setback in his home fights, that being at the hands of Goddard, seven weeks after he was "demobbed," when it should be remembered he was distinctly short of training. In America, he fought his way into the front rank of the "heavies," and the success of Wells reads as a good omen for the future.

Who will be "Billy's" next opponent? Has he come back to stay? are questions everyone will be asking. Whate'er befall, we hope the answer to the latter will be in the affirmative. Admittedly the cleverest exhibition boxer we have, we trust Wells has now acquired the confidence he so badly lacked. It is not too late for him yet to top the tree, and no event would be more popular among the boxing public, who have ever a warm corner for popular "Billy."

Goddard v. Fulton.

It was announced at the Holborn Stadium on Friday evening that Frank Goddard offered to box the American, Fred Fulton, if the latter laid him 10 to 1. Fulton accepted the challenge. They will fight for Mr. Cochran's purse of £1,000, and the American is willing to have a side bet of £1,000 to £100.

The proferred terms by Fulton have raised a lot of discussion in boxing circles, and as no sane promoter would or could accept his terms, Goddard had an excuse for regarding the American's challenge as pure bluff.

The acceptance of his challenge by Fulton clears the air somewhat, and the "Big Boy" will now have his desire realised. Fulton is to meet Garden Coghill on the 30th inst. and was contemplating returning to the States early in November, a proposition which will now be cancelled.

DAVIS CUP TEAM.

British Players to Embark for Australia on Oct. 30th.

The British Davis Cup team for Australia have at last succeeded in finding passage room, and embark on Oct. 30th.

The Lawn Tennis Association has cabled to Sydney stating that it is not proposed to play any matches before Jan. 9th, which allows a minimum of 3 weeks for practice.

COVERED COURT CHAMPIONSHIPS.

An attractive entry has been received for the forthcoming London Covered Court Championships, which begin on Monday at Queen's Club. Among prominent players who have sent in their names are T. M. Mavrogordato, P. M. Davson, N. Misu (son of the Roumanian Minister), M. J. G. Ritchie, C. P. Dixon, A. M. Lovibond, M. R. L. White, and Hamilton Price.

The Ladies' Singles is noteworthy for the appearance in a championship event of Mrs. Winston Churchill, and the holder (Mrs. Herbert Edgington), Mrs. O'Neill, Miss K. McKane, and Mlle. J. Liebrechts (a member of the Leopold Club, Brussels) are also competing. In the Open Mixed Doubles Major A. H. Lowe (the Davis Cup International) is paired with Mrs. Winston Churchill.

CHUMS
read "The Cologne Post". Send it daily to yours.

'NATIONAL CHANGES.

Alteration in both English and Welsh Teams.

COCK SUPPLANTING KITCHEN.

There was one alteration in the Welsh team opposing England at Stoke yesterday in the return "Victory" match.

M. Russell, of Plymouth, could not be spared by his club, and his place at full back was taken by the veteran Lloyd Davies, of Northampton.

In the English team Cock (Huddersfield) played instead of Kitchen (Sheffield United.

LEEDS CITY'S SUSPENSION.

League President's Warning to Clubs and Players.

Interviewed on the suspension of Leeds City, Mr. J. McKenna, president of the Football League, made the significant remark:

"Perhaps others have thereby escaped being found guilty of malpractices, but they need not imagine we are not keeping our eyes open. If they are found out, we shall not stand on ceremony or sentiment.

"The authorities of the game intend to keep it absolutely clean. We will have no nonsense. The football stable must be cleansed, and further breakages of the law regarding payments will be dealt with in such a severe manner that I now give warning that clubs and players must not expect the slightest leniency."

NEW CENTRE FOR THE VILLA.

Aston Villa are keen on getting new players, and they have signed on Boyman, the centre-forward of Cradley Heath, St. Luke's. The transfer fee is a substantial one, and a record for a Combination team.

The terms also include a benefit match, to be played at Cradley Heath, by the Villa first team. Boyman has been showing striking form this season, and has been a prolific goal-getter. During the war he was associated with a Naval team.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

51st Manchester's v. 13th King's Liverpool's.

An exciting and keen game was witnessed on the Hofgarten, Bonn, on Thursday last between the above teams in the 1st round of the Corps Tournament. The weather was fine, but the ground very soft from the recent rains. The first 15 minutes of the game was exciting, but neither side could score, although they were both working hard for a try. Then after some nice passing by the Manchester's the ball was punted forward and Sgt. Mason, rushing to it, got away and, dodging the opposing backs, seored a good try close up to the goal post. Lieut. Bates converted.

In the second half the King's made a great fight for it and gave the Manchester's some anxious moments, but their team did not fail them and although they did not score again, neither did they allow their opponents to do so, the game ending with the score 5 points to nil in favour of the Manchester's.

The outstanding players for the winning team were Major Wood, Sgt. Gunson and Drummer Marsden in the forwards, and Lieut. Collins and L/Cpl. Lewton in the backs.

Of the losers the right centre and the scrum half played an exceedingly good game.

GLOS. THREE-QUARTER FOR HULL.

The Hull Northern Union Football Club have signed on A. Stone, a centre three-quarter-back, of the Gloucester Rugby Union Club. Stone, who reached Hull with the deputation who saw him play last week end, is only 20 years of age, having recently been demobilized from the Army. He scales 11st. and stands 5ft. 6in. He made his debut in Northern Union Football for Hull against Wakefield Trinity yesterday.

It is anticipated that a half-back from the same locality will shortly follow Stone to Hull.

PORT VALE AND CENTRAL LEAGUE.

At a meeting of the Management Committee of the Central League Port Vale made application, in view of their election to the Second Division of the Football League, for permission to play their reserve team in all Central League matches. The application was granted. A vacancy has been caused by the suspension of Leeds City, and Tranmere Rovers asked to be allowed to fill it, but the matter was adjourned.

51st Northumberland Fusiliers v. A.S.C., M.T., Rhine Army Troops.

At Klettenberg on Wednesday. After the recent rain the ground was in a very wet condition, which made it exceedingly difficult for the players to control the ball. From the kick-off the Fusiliers took the ball well into the M.T. half and the centre forward, Sgt. Spencer, scored from a neat pass by L/Cpl. Steele. Four more goals were scored in quick succession by Sgt. Spencer for the Fusiliers.

After the interval, the Army Troops showed better form, making a fine attack. Drawing the Fusiliers defence, Pte. Hamilton, the left outside, put in a fine centre from which Cpl. Reasy, the centre-forward, netted the ball. From a penalty, the Fusiliers put another goal to their credit. The Army Troops again made an advance, once more gaining their objective. Their inside-left, Pte. Eatch, after having a tussle with the 51st goalkeeper, managed to put the ball in the net. Further goals were added by Pte. Oxley for the 51st Fusiliers, and Pte. Eatch for the Rhine Army Troops. Result: 51st Northumberland Fusiliers 7; A.S.C., M.T. 3.

723 TO 5.

Brilliant Display In Reece-Inman Billiard Match.

CHAMPION'S RALLY.

In his billiard match of 16,000 up with Inman Reece gave a brilliant display on Friday afternoon.

He scored 986 to 519, converting a deficit of 319 into a lead of 148.

During the first hour he actually scored 723 to Inman's 5, but the champion made up some ground towards the end of the afternoon.

Reece began by increasing an unfinished 83 into 120, and in addition he put on 284, 255, 147, and 213, while Inman made 182, 159 and 113 unfinished Interval scores:

Reece 13,456
Inman ..... 13,111.

31st LABOUR GROUP LEAGUE.

5th Labour Coy v. 49th Labour Coy. at Nippes.

This match was played at Nippes, the first-named team playing throughout with ten men. After a goalless first half the 5th, despite their handicap, proved to be the superior team and scored three times through Williamson (2) (one of these after some good work on the part of Sgt. Grant) and Lieut. Wilkinson, who forsook his usual position of goalkeeper to play centre forward. Final Score:—

5th Labour Coy. 3; 49th Labour Coy. 0

FOOTBALL FRIENDLY.

5th Labour Coy. v. No. 2 Coy. London Divisional Supply Train.

This match was played at Königsforst. After the home team had entertained the visitors to lunch the game was proceeded with, and was evenly contested up to half time. This reflected credit on the home team, considering that they had not previously played together as a team. At half time there was no scoring.

In the second half the 5th Labour Coy. having become accustomed to the inequalities of the ground showed their superiority by scoring 2 goals through Pte. Williamson and Sgt. Grant, the latter goal being very smartly taken. An enjoyable game ended: 5th Labour Coy. 2 goals, No 2 Coy. London Divisional Supply Train, nil.

The visiting team and supporters were thereafter provided with tea, and returned to Cologne having had a very enjoyable outing.

21 GOALS IN TWO MATCHES.

No. 2 C.C.S. versus 44 C.C.S. on Volksgarten Ground.

A friendly match took place between the above teams on the Volksgarten Ground on Friday. No. 2 forwards were early visiting the opposing goalkeeper, and soon opened the scoring, L/Cpl. Apps shooting a splendid goal. A few minutes saw Pte. Foggan snatching a second goal, and ten minutes later the same player added a third.

No 2 were playing a brilliant game, and were again successful in beating No 44 custodian, S/Sgt. Green scoring a fourth goal with a low fast shot, this bringing the total at half time to No. 2 four goals, No. 44 Nil.

Play resumed with No. 2 still displaying the much superior game, and within five minutes Pte. Dodd scored a fifth goal with a good shot. Four minutes elapsed and Pte. Dodd, after a splendid piece of individual play, again scored.

The "Hat Trick."

No. 44 were having a busy time, and were unable to check the onrushes of No. 2 forwards, and Pte. Foggan, performing the "hat-trick," brought their total to seven.

Two minutes later Pte. Foggan bagged another goal, and S/Sgt. Green followed quickly after with their ninth goal. There was no holding No. 2, and Pte. Dodd, also performing the "hat trick," made no mistake in placing home a tenth.

No. 44 now came away with a bit of a rush, and were rewarded with a good goal from the centre forward. From a well placed corner by S/Sgt. Green, No. 44's right back kicked through his own goal, thus ending the game with the result No. 2 C.C.S. (Eleven Goals.) No. 44 C.C.S. (One.)

Another Match.

On Wednesday on the same ground No. 2 C.C.S. played a match with the 20th M.A.C. whom they defeated by ten goals to four, thus scoring in their first two matches of the season 21 goals.

9th D.L.I. defeat 7th Field Ambulance.

The 9th D.L.I. played sterling football in their match on Wednesday against 7th Field Ambulance. From the start they were continually pressing and had several good shots at goal which were cleverly saved by the home goal keeper, Cameron. Lieut. Croop played a fine game, scoring the first goal for the 9th from a pass given by Sgt. Dickinson at short range. Cameron had not the slightest chance of saving. Time after time the 9th forwards got away well, making very heavy work for Cpls. Boolt and Williamson, the latter tackling brilliantly.

In the second half, a penalty kick against the Ambulance was saved by Cameron, but the ball was instantly netted by Price. Result:—9th D.L.I., 3; R.F.A. nil.

THE AMERICA CUP.

In New York it is expected that the New York Yacht Club will accept Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge to race for the America Cup in June 1920.

Driving Record.

At Parsloes Park, Barking, Mr. Harry Smith, a gentleman farmer of Chigwell, Essex, created an amateur three miles driving record of 6min., 14⅕sec. with his mare Little Rice, driven to wagon.

A DERBY WINNER?

Another Success For Champagne Stakes Victor.

MAJOR McCALMONT'S TETRATEMA

Friday's meeting at Newmarket was held in fine weather the going being good and the attendance large. Details:—

The Whip:— Furore had a walk over.

Royal Stakes:—1, Viceroy (11-8 on); beat Glaciale. Two ran.

Two year old Plate:—1, America Bay, filly (8-1); 2, L'Espion (10-1); 3, Roi de Castile (5-2). 17 ran.

Middle Park Plate:—1, Tetratema (4-1 on); 2, Southern (100-7); 3, Light Hearted (20-1). Five ran.

Mile Plate:—1, Shoemaker (7-4); 2, Clapgate (9-4); 3, Fair Oaks (20-1). Nine ran.

Exning Handicap:—1, Trogan (13-8); 2, The President (8-1); 3, Sunny Rhyme (100 8). 13 ran.

South Field Plate:—The Midshipmate (4-1 on) and Kentish Bay (5-1); a dead heat, 1st; Filigrane (20-1), 3rd. Four ran. Stakes divided.

COURSE BETTING.

Cambridgeshire:—3000 to 360 Alasnam; 5000 to 500 Zinovia.

Derby:—600 to 100 Tetratema.

TETRATEMA—BEST 2 YEAR OLD.

There have been occasions when the race for the Middle Park Plate has enabled us to ascertain which is the best two-year-old of the season. No new demonstration is this time required, for the question has been settled beyond reasonable doubt in favour of Tetratema. It is just possible that something very special in the way of a two-year-old has yet to be seen, but this appears extremely improbable. Tetratema stands out so far beyond his rivals, there is so much leeway for others to make up, that his position may be accepted as beyond dispute.

Next year there is no saying what may happen (writes the racing correspondent of the "Times"). Tetratema may win the Derby as easily as he won the Champagne Stakes at Doncaster; on the other hand, it is on the cards that he may be found unable to stay, or that some at present big overgrown two-year-old will come out next season and do astonishing things.

LIVERPOOL AUTUMN CUP.

List of Entries Received For Coming Handicap.

The following is the list of entries received for the Liverpool Autumn Cup run on Friday, Nov. 7th:—

Silver Bullet (Mr. W. M. Cazalet)	Taylor 4
Tomatina (Mr. W. M. Cazalet)	Taylor 3
Warways (Mrs. H. Nugent)	Nugent 5
Zinovia (Mr. Z. G. Michalinos)	F. Hunt 4
Roamer (Mr. J. A. de Rothschild)	Pratt 3
My Land (Mr. H. G. Keswick)	Burns 4
King Carnival (Mr. R. B. Hopkins)	Peacock 4
Tangiers (Sir W. Nelson)	Brodie 3
Poilu (Mr. M. D. Blair)	Private 4
Planet (Mr. G. Barclay)	Tabor 5
Patrick's Day (Mr. P. Broome)	J. Rhodes a
Square Measure (Mr. Reid Walker)	Rogers 4
Kerry Lass (Mr. Reid Walker)	Rogers 3
Rich Gift (Lady Torrington)	Faulkner 5
Thermogene (Mr. J. McLean)	J. McGuigan 4
Ramda (Mr. T. Pipps)	N. Scott 6
King John (Capt. Giles Loder)	Gilpin 4
Dionysos (Ld. D'Abernon)	De Mestre 4
Dorelus (Mr. E. G. de Mestre)	De Mestre 3
My Dear (Mr. A. R. Cox)	Taylor 4
Flying Spear (Mr. W. M. Singer)	Taylor 3
Royal Bucks (Lady Queensberry)	Sievier 6
Control (Lady Queensberry)	Sievier 3
Schamyl (Mr. J. Renwick)	J. Renwick a
Sir Berkeley (D. of Portland)	W. Waugh 4
John Jackett (Mr. G. W. Smith)	McCormack 6
Arion (Ld. Jersey)	Sadler, jun. 4
Good Night (Mr. W. L. Christie)	Sherwood 3
Win the War (Mr. P. Nelke)	Pickering 3
Zulanda (Mr. R. Wootton)	Wootton 5
Silvanite (Sir E. Hulton)	Wootton 4
Glaciale (Ld. Derby)	Lambton 3
Rothesay Bay (Ld. Derby)	Lambton 3
Roscacre (Ld. Derby)	Lambton 4
Llanegelt (Ld. Derby)	Lambton 3
Grand Fleet (Ld. Glanely)	Barling 5
Scatwell (Ld. Glanely)	Barling 4
Dominion (Ld. Glanely)	Barling 3
African Star (Mr. T. Martin)	Lines 3
Daphne (Mr. Sol. Joel)	Loates 3
Mapledurham (Ld. Rosebery)	F. Hartigan 3
King's Idler (Mr. J. Shepherd)	F. Hartigan 3
Alasnam (Sir A. Bailey)	R. Day 3
Chuette (Capt. G. C. H. Davy)	Beatty 3
Tourville (Mr. T. Davidson)	Beatty 3
Sandmole (Maj. M. A. Bell)	M. Bell a
Carados (Mr. W. H. Savill)	Pickering 4
Lady Eau (Mr. D. Sillivan)	Ireland 4
Pastures New (Mr. W. McElroy)	Ireland a

SPORT IN BRIEF.

Signed On Again.

W. Batty, who was with Swindon Town for three seasons before the war, has just been demobilized. He signed on again for the club on Tuesday evening.

Great Golf Boom.

There has been a great golf boom at the seaside resorts this past season. The receipts at the nine holes course of the North Cliff Club, Scarboro, have been more than sufficient this year to enable the club to pay off five years' rent, unpaid during the war.

Good Catches.

Boat anglers have been making exceptionally good catches of plaice at Llandudno, four rods on one occasion taking 100 fish, weighing 190lb.

"Victory" Foursomes.

At Ranelagh on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday next there will be decided the Ladies' Field "Victory" foursomes. Eighty-six couples have entered with varying handicaps.

Trial Match.

The first of the Oxford Association football trial matches was played at Oxford on Wednesday between two sides of Freshmen. The game was drawn, the Colours and the Whites each scoring two goals.

At North Berwick.

Among those taking part in a friendly game over the North Berwick West course one day this week was Mr. A. J. Balfour, M.P. Mr. J. E. Laidlay, a former Amateur Champion, was his partner against Captain C. K. Hutchison and Mr. W. M. De Zoete.

Really Lucky.

Those lucky people who backed Ivanhoe for the Cesarewitch may be interested to learn, on the authority of the trainer, that they really were lucky. Cottrill says that Gay Lord was the chief hope of the stable.

AMUSEMENTS AND RECREATIONS.

The Opera House.

When Mozart's "Figaro" was received with extraordinary enthusiasm at Vienna, the great composer was at once commissioned by the late Kaiser Joseph to write a further opera. In compliance, Mozart gave of his best in "Cosi fan Tutte," the text of which was supplied by da Ponte.

* * *

The opera was revived after a long interval in Cologne on Friday, when the technique of the great master seemed more emphasised then ever. In the full, charming, melodies with which the opera abounds the orchestration was perfect.

* * *

"Cosi fan Tutte" is considered by many not to equal "Figaro" and "Don Giovanni," but it is generally admitted that the former work, especially in the chief aria, brings out more fully than the others certain phases of Mozart's genius and artistic temperament. It is remarkable, indeed, to contemplate that this great composer received only 200 ducats for this immortal work, while now-a-days, huge sums are received for inferior work. It is even more incomprehensible that such a master of music should have become so inpecunious as to have to end his days in a poor-house, by which institution his funeral expenses were subsequently paid.

* * *

Friday's performance at Cologne was all that could be desired. The singers were at their best, and the orchestra—ably conducted—was wonderful. Sophie Wolf and W. Achsel were both splendid, their duets being particularly artistic. Johanna Klemperer was a charming Despina, while Herr Kraus and his colleagues, Renner and Gless, worked in perfect spirit with their parts. C.L.

Later Starts.

For various reasons, chiefly for the benefit of those affected by the change in the hours of duty, the amusement authorities have decided to change the hour of commencement of the various entertainments in Cologne from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. The adjustment of times will be welcomed by some and regretted by others. Troops stationed outside the town will find difficulty in returning to billets in reasonable time, owing to the late hour at which the shows finish, but the advantages of the change of hours far outnumber the arguments for retaining the old time. The change will come into operation to-morrow.

The Deutsches Theatre.

To-morrow will commence one of the most comprehensive weeks in the successful history of the British Rhine Army Dramatic Company. For the first evening, the bill will be filled by a revival of "Helen with the High Hand"; Tuesday will see the re-appearance of "Damaged Goods". On Wednesday and Thursday "The New Sin" will once more be staged, and on Friday and Saturday "Candida", followed by the production of still another "G.B.S." play. "The Man of Destiny", will be the attraction. Several changes in the various castes have become necessary. A notable absentee will be Lieut. Mellor, who, as the degenerate youth in "The New Sin", was a striking success when the play was produced.

"The Jesters" Return.

Already, "The Jesters" have succeeded in filling the Palace Theatre, Cologne, for twelve nights, on the occasions of their two previous visits, and an indication of their great success as entertainers is provided by the announcement that they are to commence another weeks engagement at this cosy theatre to-morrow. It is doubtful whether any band of entertainers has won more spontaneous popularity than "The Jesters". They have been in Rhineland but a comparatively short time, yet they have provided bright original performances for the edification of many thousands of troops in all parts. They have, purely by the variety and excellence of their show, won fame far and wide.

Rhine Army Choral Societies.

It has been decided to alter the time of the rehearsals of the Male and Mixed Voice Societies from 5.45 p.m. to 7.45 p.m. All rehearsals take place in the Lecture Room on the first floor of the Church Army Soldiers' Club, Antoniter Strasse, Cologne, those for male voices being held on Mondays and Fridays, and the mixed voices practise on Wednesdays. All officers and other ranks, and all wives or English ladies resident in Cologne are cordially invited to become members. There are now almost 40 members of the Male Voice Society, and these, together with about 20 ladies, form the mixed voice choir. It is hoped to raise the membership of the latter to 100 voices in order that, after a preliminary canter with some well known part songs, larger choral works such as "Messiah" or "Elijah" may be rehearsed.

Empire Leave Club.

To-day the Rev. C. E. Wheeler will chat in the writing room from 5—6 p.m. and at 6.30 the band of the 20th K.R.R.C. will give a concert at which Miss Marjorie Moore, Major Bowen and Rflmn. Green have kindly consented to sing. Miss Marjorie Moore will give an impromptu concert in the music room at 5 p.m. on Monday and there will be a practice dance in the theatre at 6.30 p.m. A dancing class for beginners will be held on Tuesday, October 21st at 5 p.m. and an impromptu concert in the music room at the same hour. At 7 p.m. the Braganzas Concert Party will give a performance in the Theatre.

B.R.A.D.C. Next Week.

On Monday, October 20th at 7 p.m., the British Rhine Army Dramatic Company will revive "Helen With a High Hand;" on Tuesday, "Damaged Goods;" on Wednesday and Thursday, "The New Sin;" on Friday and Saturday, "Candida," followed by a production of "The Man of Destiny" by Bernard Shaw.

JACQUES.

POLICE DOGS ON VIEW.

For to-day is announced a special exhibition of police dogs in the Weidenpescher Park (race course). In the morning there will be a training examination, Police Commissary Wolfram being judge. In the afternoon at 2 p.m. defence exercises will be performed by the best trained dogs.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Tues.	Orpheus and Eurydice	Gluck	8	10.15
Wed.	The Flying Dutchman	Wagner	7	10
Thurs.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10
Fri.	Cosi fan tutte	Mozart	7	10.30
Sat.	Tiefland	d'Albert	7.30	10
Sun.	Faust	Gounod	6.30	10.30
Mon.	NO PERFORMANCE
Tues.	NO PERFORMANCE

RULES OF GOLF.

Interesting Decisions by the Royal and Ancient Committee.

The Rules Committee of the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews has decided, in answer to a question from the Ringway Club that when couples in a foursome competition are once drawn and advised, should any partner fail to appear the couple of which he was one loses its place in the competition.

Another of the committee's decisions relates to an incident which happened on the second day of a stroke competition at the Walthamstow Club. Some of the later competitors found the flag removed from the 14th green, the hole filled up, and the tin almost hidden by dry earth taken from another old hole. The decision is to the effect that as this hole was therefore unplayable the round should be replayed.

YORKSHIRE GOLF TOURNEY.

In the final of the Yorkshire professional foursomes tournament played on Pannel course, Harrogate, on Wednesday A. Beck (Filey) and O. Sanderson (Bradford) beat E. Smith (West End) and H. Loveridge (Shipley) by 4 up and three to play.

PRESS GOLF MATCH.

The annual match between a team of London pressmen and a side representing the Provinces was revived this week at Hoylake. In the singles London were beaten by 9 pts. to 7. The Provinces won the foursomes by 5 to 2, and on the day's play were successful by 14 to 9.

ROLLING IN

Have You Filled Up Your Coupon For No. 5 Contest?

Contest No. 4, which closed on Friday, promises to be even more successful than was the previous week's competition.

Now turn your attention to No. 5; fill in your coupon (you can enter as many as you wish provided the proper amount is enclosed) and post it to the address given below.

All the entrance fees received go to the winner or winners. We make no deductions, as all the expenses of the contests are borne by this paper.

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 5,
"Cologne Post,"
A.P.O. S.40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.
2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.
3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.
4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.
5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.
6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.
7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.
8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.
9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 5.

Date of matches, Saturday, Oct. 25th.
Closing date, Friday, Oct. 24th.

Preston N. E.	v. Newcastle U.
Sheffield U.	v. Manchester U.
Bradford	v. Chelsea
Grimsby	v. Hull C.
Bury	v. South Shields
Lincoln	v. Clapton Orient
Notts Forest	v. Wolverhampton
Swansea	v. Brighton
Exeter	v. Millwall
Luton	v. Portsmouth
Airdrieonians	v. Hamilton A.
Motherwell	v. Kilmarnock

I enter Football Competition No. 5 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Boxing Now.

An officer friend who has just returned from duty in Berlin tells me there is enormous interest in boxing in Germany's capital. He saw a really first-class tournament and predicts that before long the Germans will take a pronounced place in international boxing.

Old Razor Blades.

I referred recently to the sale of spurious Gillete razor blades in Rhineland and now I hear of another fraud being practised. Old and used razor blades are put up in an envelope which is a facsimile of the original, and the blades are wrapped in tissue paper.

Short and Long.

I heard yesterday of an officer who asked for his hair to be sl ghtly trimmed at a Cologne barber's. Engaged in reading the "Post" he failed to notice that the man was giving one side of his head a close crop with the clippers. Immediately he realized this he jumped up and refusing to allow the tragedy to culminate, left the shop. When I met him in the street five minutes after the incident he had one side cropped like a convict and the other with the flowing locks of a musician.

An Example.

An example of how not to be had has come to my notice. A friend purchased an inkpot and other office accessories mounted as he thought on marble. Judge of his amazement when he found that spilt ink had percolated through the "marble."

The Awakening Later.

Each morning my meditations are violently disturbed by ringing cheers and a glance through our office window shews a trainload of German prisoners returning to their native land. One can sympathise with their joy at seeing "home" once more, but it probably won't be long before many of them begin to wish themselves "back there". My barber is willing to bet that this will be so in many cases. "They get stuff, food and the like there, they find they cannot get here at any price."

Strange.

While there is actually some excellent boxing taking place in Cologne not one of the leading local papers devotes any space to it.

Full of Beans.

That very energetic officer I wrote of recently, who swims, rows, runs, walks, rides and punches the ball daily, wet or fine, although something like a half-century old, is adding to his athletic repertoire. I found him in his billet yesterday polishing up his skates and writing to England for his snow-shoes. "I wonder if one can get any curling out here?" he asked.

As a Ship's Steward.

A reader who is wait ng for demobilization enquires if there is any school in Rhineland where he can be trained as a ship's steward. This seems to be somewhat outside the regular curriculum of Army Schools.

The Cup they Won.

The handsome silver cup we gave for the "Post" Cricket Contest this summer and the equally handsome miniatures for the individual members of the winning team have just been formally handed over to the 17th Lancers at their Depot at Catterick, Yorkshire, by one of our representatives.

No Gay Bathers.

I was walking near Rodenkirchen the other afternoon. All the gaie y and li e one was accustomed to in the summer months have disappeared. It looks rather forlorn.

Cash on Sales.

The practice of forwarding the amount through Army Agents for settlement has, I notice, been abolished by the N.A.C.B., which has the control of the Officers' Clothing Department. A pay desk has been put up and you pay for go ds on purchase. Much time is saved thereby.

A Flyer.

One of our staff, tired of the extensions granted to his leave in England—he was one of those who got to Blighty in strike times—used his persuasive powers with the air people and got back to Cologne by aeroplane yesterday.

Youthful Precocity.

The German youth is nothing if not precocious. It is quite a common sight to see boys of fourteen and fifteen in cafes drinking, sometimes in company with their parents. They sip their beer and smoke their cigarettes with an air of gravity not at all in keeping with their years.

Our Fifth.

Are you trying your skill in the new football competition just opening? Should you win—and why not?—the amount to be distributed is again likely to be substantial.

Just as Tireless.

I met a man yesterday who said he had taken my tip and been to see the ants at work in the Insect House at the Zoo. "What do you think it reminded me of?" he queried. I couldn't guess. "Why, a Divisional Headquarters after the Armistice".

Cameras Out Of Use.

The winter slump in photography has set in with a vengeance, and the shops specialising in developing films are having a slack time, I hear.

Dropped in.

I wonder who the generous soul was who slipped a case containing sixty marks into a Colonel's coat hanging in the vestibule of the Leave Club during the "Arabian Nights" dance. Nobody is so k nd to me.

Not Now.

The fine quarters on the riverside occupied by the Rhine Naval Flotilla were, I believe, in Peace days the swagger rowing club of Cologne, and many a banquet and entertainment has been given there by the German rowing fraternity.

Lived too Sumpt Uously.

I know an officer who when he first came to Cologne brought a dog with him from a place ten kilometres away. It got so fat and bilious with high living in the town that he had to send it back to the country to live the simple life. Now he keeps a canary.

A Cruel Show.

The other evening I witnessed a performance by trained dogs. While it was undoubtedly a clever show, one thing struck me as being very different to a British trainer's display. Three of the animals made mistakes which were rewarded by smart blows from the performer's cane. These blows elicited painful yelps from the animals concerned, and were dealt with force. On a British stage this would have brought forth a strong condemnation. As it was, the civilians present evinced no resentment.

Supping Late.

Midnight passes are not altogether an unmixed blessing for Tommy. One result of the concession has been that he is developing the late supper habit, to the enrichment of cafe proprietors and the depletion of his War Savings account.

Not so Bad.

A friend back from Berlin yesterday tells me that things are not so bad in that city as they are painted, although he admits that anything may happen this winter because of the high prices asked for food.

RHINELANDER.

CHIVALRY.

"Let us recollect" said George Russell "that, if the true soul of chivalry has died among us, all that is good in society has died."

The characteristic virtue of chivalry is that, where the true chivalry is found, the vices that make for the downfall of a nation are absent. Lust, oppression and crime must for ever hide their heads in shame, for while they do not lose their potency for evil, they cannot exist in the pure clean atmosphere of a chivalry wh ch compels the strong to help the weak, and ennobles the lives of men, urging them on to greater eff rts. Chivalry will make the world a better place, and give hope to the down-trodden people of this earth, instil into the hearts of those who hold the destiny of millions in their grasp, a love for their fellow men, thus turning the grosser elements of national character into the greatness of self surrender.

The nation whose love of chivalry lies dormant, will ever seek for expansion, not of ideals, but of boundary lines and wealth. The conscience of that nation will fail them in the hour of need, fail them when a little thought would lead them to see the noblest aims of life, and bring the spirit of chivalry into thought, word and deed.

In the history of nations of to-day one is almost led to believe that chivalry is dead. In both national and foreign policies of all peoples, one may truly ask where is the "Civic Conscience" that guides the ideals of nations into the light of peace? On all sides the egoism of life is found, in the mansions of the great, in the cottage of the poor.

What can bring that chivalry back again to guide the affairs of men? Is that chivalry dead or only sleeping through the crises of human emanc pation? Surely, the best in human nature leads to chivalry, and it must be that the power only lies dormant and that something can stir that spirit into life.

Yes. Chivalry sleeps, while the tide of human life rolls on with all its misery and despair, and the world is losing a power for good in its midst, that could turn the darkness into light, and bring peace upon the turbulent waters of international dealings, and teach the world true happiness.

All true chivalry, to succeed in changing this tide of battle, murder, and sudden death which rolls with irrestible force through the countries of the world, must be based on a sure foundation and one strong enough to hurl back those mighty waves, which dash with an angry roar, seeking the destruction of all who would dare to withstand their seeming omnipotence.

Through the centuries men have sought for a foundation, and have failed to see that only in the teachings of Christ of Nazareth can be found that mighty force which can awake the chivalry in men, and teach them of an ideal life both now and for ever.

"Blessed are the merciful for they shall obtain mercy." "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God."

In these two, men can see the chivalry for which the world longs. The acme of human greatness.

C.E.R. WHEELER, C.F.

THE SCOTTISH HUTS.

WAR-TIME CLUB FOR THE "JOCKS".

When war was declared in August 1914 the writer, who was then at Stobbs Camp, amid the peaceful border scenery of Scotland, winding up after a successful camp season among the Scottish territorials, wondered what could be done to meet the great emergency that had arisen.

At first it was not very easy to say what could be done: but opportunities of usefulness quickly arose. As troops were mobilized, work was begun in school rooms, in village halls, in tents, or in any suitable place where a Canteen and Recreation Room could be carried on. Willing workers came forward. Ministers gave of their valuable time, and ladies ungrudgingly gave not only their time, but often of their means as well.

Much good work was done in this way in different parts of Scotland, and especially in Edinburgh and along the East Coast. Chaplains wrote home from France and Flanders, asking why the Church of Scotland could not venture further afield and come to their aid.

MAKING A START.

At last, in March 1915, Mr. George M'Alpine, the Secretary of the Life & Work Committee of the Church of Scotland, along with the writer, were deputed by the Committee of the Church of Scotland to visit selected camps for which they had been granted permits. In this way Etaples, Abbeville, Rouen, Havre and other places were visited and reported upon.

As the result of this visit the Church of Scotland Committee decided to erect two Huts in the large camp at Etaples, then one of the largest camps in France. These Huts were opened in June 1916, being known as the "Edinburgh" and "Glasgow" Huts respectively.

Success was so great and overwhelming that the stores brought out to the Business Manager seemingly in very large quantities, larger than he had ever handled before), speedily disappeared, and from that moment the success of our work in France was assured.

The Church of Scotland Committee had been joined by the United Free Church in this venture, and the Joint Committee, now known as the Scottish Churches Huts' Committee, rapidly spread its work to other centres. Clubs or huts were opened in camps as far north as St. Pierre Brouck, north of Calais, Dunkirk, Audruicq, and other places. Clubs were opened in Boulogne, Calais, Rouen and other towns, and the work went on with unvarying success until the Armistice was signed on November 11th, 1918.

FOLLOWING THE ARMY.

Since then the work has followed the advance of the British Army, and, as every one knows, wherever the Scottish Churches Huts' sign has appeared on the Rhine, it has been met with similar success.

Owing to the fact that the Joint Committee of the Scottish Churches' Huts, which has been responsible for the carrying on of this work, was appointed as a War Emergency Committee, and as that emergency is now regarded as being over and any call for such work having been fully met, the Home Committee resolved some time ago that the work on the Rhine would be wound up. Accordingly, the various Clubs have been closed, the last to close its doors being the Club in the Schildergasse, Cologne.

Throughout the course of its work on the Rhine the Scottish Chu ches' Huts' Committee have been wonderfully fortunate in having for helpers some able and efficient ministers from both the great Scottish Churches. The band of ladies also sent out by the two Committees has nobly maintained the traditions of the Society, with the result that, as one club after another has been closed, the unvarying comment has been made, both by officers and men, that they wished it had been possible for the Committee to have re-considered their decision.

BIG FIGURES.

What such work costs is known, of course, only to a few. At a busy hut during the course of the war as many as 3,000 sheets of notepaper and envelopes would be given away in one night. Parcels of games and books were sent to chaplains along with supplies of notepaper for the use of the men in scattered dug-outs and in isolated billets, and much good work was done in other directions than in the huts or clubs.

One of the latest ventures of the Committee has been to send out caravans from Boulogne and Calais to different sections of the devastated areas. These caravans have been welcomed by the men belonging to the various Labour Companies wherever they have gone, and in every instance repeated invitations had been given—"come back as soon as ever you can." Unlike many other ventures, the great difficulty which has faced the Committee was not how to carry on, but how to bring the work to a conclusion.

The writer feels that he is only voicing the sentiments of the Committee when he says that, in concluding their work on the Rhine and in leaving the area occupied by the British Troops, they do so with very mixed feelings, one being a feeling of regret that the work they came out to do is finished, the other a feeling of gratitude to officers and men for the hearty support they have received and for the many kindnesses they have enjoyed during these last few months.

R.F. GARDINER.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

For Upper Silesia.—American troops are going from Coblenz to Upper Silesia.

Great Scourge.—Typhus is raging in Siberia.

Another Peacemaker.—Bulgaria will sign peace within a week.

Dry Idleness. — 25,000 South Wales workers are idle through the drought.

Falling Off.—Alexandra day Collections in London this year totalled £30,018.

King Alfonso's Health.—King Alfonso's visit to England is on account of his health.

Not after Honours.—M. Anatole France will not seek Parliamentary honours.

Kilts to Stay.—Army kilts are not to be abolished.

Bricky's Claim.—A bricklayer of Monkwearmouth claims the Scottish title and estates of Lord Lennox of Dumbarton.

Their Turn.—The repatriation of German civilians interned in France will begin next week.

Cologne's Oldest Citizen.—The oldest citizen of Cologne, Herr Löh, has died at the age of 102½ years.

Cinemas Galore.—Blackburn is to have eight new cinemas costing £120,000. The town already possesses eight.

Where?—A package of diamonds worth £1,000 has mysteriously disappeared from an Australian liner.

Trainless Engine.—A locomotive ran merrily into Lyons station, but the carriages had become detached miles away.

Speedy.—An airman has crossed from Farnborough to Paris in only eighty minutes.

Britain's Lost Ships.—2,479 British vessels of 7,750,000 tons, were destroyed during the war by the enemy.

Now Sexton Blake!—A mysterious unknown man is attacking women in the roads round Tin ewick, Bucks.

India's Vice-King.—It is rumoured that the next Viceroy of India is to be the Duke of Northumberland.

A Find.—A young actress, Miss Edith Pither, has been "discovered" for the new West End play "The Net."

Wearing Wealth.—In a new film play "Playthings of Passion," Miss Kitty Gordon wears jewels and dresses worth £40,000.

Washing Now.—Girls who made shells during the war are being taught laundry work at Shepherd's Bush.

From The Streets.—Mary Connolly, discovered singing in the streets of Dublin is now a prima donna.

Prefer Trains.—Farmers complain that country lads are leaving the farms for railway jobs.

Great Openings.—There is an enormous field for British activity and British Capital in Russia.

Mee-ow.—Village clubs for the protection of cats are suggested by an English parish council.

Only Riding.—A man charged at Willesden with being drunk said he had only been riding on a brewer's dray.

Lucky.—Bath schoolchildren are to have spray baths and mineral water treatment if they require it.

On the Way.—Polish delegates are on their way to the Washington Labour Conference.

Joined "The Union."—Princes Albert and Henry have become members of the Cambridge Union Society.

But Not Ours.—South Russia's grain harvest will be better than it has been for thirty years.

No use for Them.—Farnborough Town Council has refused the offer of German machine guns.

Vicar's Ban.—The Vicar of Moulton, Northants, has banned dances in the Church room.

Pioneer Institutes.—A maternity home for working women has been started at Islington.

The Anniversary.—Cambrai kept holiday on the anniversary of deliverance of the town from the Germans.

Conserving it.—France's surplus powder is to be sunk in the Pyrenean Lakes for the purpose of conserving it.

Down.—A giant aerobus bound from England to Italy come down at Charolles in France.

Paris Offices.—Offices have now been opened in Paris for the German Mission from Versailles.

A R.A.A. Book.—Three and a half guineas will buy the Royal Artillery's War Commemoration Book.

Related To Kruger.—Colonel Vaughan otherwise Owen Rhoscomyl, the Welsh novelist, married a niece of Kruger, the Boer president.

Without Knowledge. — The assertion by Dr. Addison that wooden houses cost very nearly as much as brick is ridiculed by experts.

A Football Injury.—A West Midlands Pensions Committee is supporting an appeal for a man disabled while playing football.

Apple of Discord.—An elderly couple complained to the Lambeth Magistrate that they had had a few words over an apple dumpling.

"Deliverance"—A fine symbolical statue by the eminent French sculptor Guillaume entitled "Deliverance" is being erected in a dozen large towns in France and Belgium.

Ceratopogon Pulicaris!

You may not recognise his name—but you know him quite well. He's the little stinging fly which is biting everyone who tries to enjoy the evening outdoors. He will not bite you, however, if you always use. . . .

SAPON RUSSIAN TAR SOAP

You can defy all mosquitos, gnats and other pests which sting and bite.

A Doctor writes:— "I find your Russian Tar Soap gives wonderful results in irritable skin diseases, such as Scabies, Eczema, Pruritus, Insect Bites, Acne, etc." The following is the best method of application:— Moisen the Soap, rub it on the part affected, and allow it to dry.

Sold throughout all the Army Canteens at

OFFICIAL PRICE

Do not pay more. Insist on being supplied. If any difficulty advise us and we will pay postage.

SAPON SOAPS LIMITED
LONDON BRIDGE E.C.4., ENGLAND

ROBARTS & QUANTOCK
14, HOHEPFORTE, COLOGNE

Beg to inform the RHINE ARMY that they have now secured larger premises and are able to supply

EVERYTHING MILITARY OF BRITISH MANUFACTURE

Breeches, Belts, Caps | Chevrons, Lanyards, Canes | Ribbons, Brooches, Wound Bars | Badges, Titles, Buttons

BELOW RETAIL PRICES IN ENGLAND
BUY DIRECT FROM STOCK IN COLOGNE
from
THE ALL BRITISH FIRM

Troops outside Cologne will, on application, be sent address of nearest retail agent where our goods are obtainable at Cologne prices.

NOTE NEW ADDRESS
100 HOHESTRASSE 100
(Below the British Chamber of Commerce). And at London and Calais.

WHOLESALE RETAIL
Agents entertained where not already represented.

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Adyt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

HORNLESS gramophone with ten records. Perfect order, 195 Mks. or near offer. Box 209, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

FOR SALE, ready, overhauled an complete 10/25 H.P. Mercedes Phaeton. M. 50,000 cash For particulars apply to A 293, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

Second-hand cameras, mirror refl x cameras in great variety, cameras with Zeiss, Goerz, Voigtländer. Optic for sale cheap. Max Frein, Inhaber August Lang, Photo-Handlung, Cöln, Keine Nuga se 9-11.

ZEISS-GOERZ-BINOCULARS 6×30 and 8× in splendid condition, Pohl, Boisseréestr. 12 I. Floor (near Hohenstaufen Bad).

WAR SOUVENIRS. Paper Money representing nearly every town in Germany. 700 variaties including many rare specimens. Also many interesting coins. Price 1250 Mks Reply Box S.M.I. Cologne Post A.P.O./S. 40.

ONE MONTHS' subscription to the Cologne Post including postage for sale. Price 15 Marks. Have it sent home daily.

PERSONAL.

NOTICE is hereby given that all persons having any Debts, Claims and Demands against 17th or 51st Royal Fusiliers are required to send particulars in writing of their claims to P.R.I. 17th Royal Fusiliers, British Army of the Rhine, on or before 31st October 1919.

WANTED.

DEMOBILISED English Girl as nurse to British Officers' litt le Girl, age 3½. Wages £26 per annum. To r main on Rhine until February. Required about third week in November. Apply Box 208, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

PRISMATIC binoculars, Zeiss or Goerz, new or second-hand. 30 mm 6, cen ral focussing. Or special 40 mm O. s. For particulars & price to Box 200, Cologn Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

EVERY DEMOBBED so dier wanted to continue reading the Cologne Post in Blighty. Send 15 Marks for one month's subscription now.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

GERMAN GIRL speaking English wants position as waitress.—Apply to A 292, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

LOST.

SILVER wristlet watch. Wednesday evening, between Central Y.M.C.A. and the Dom. Suitable reward offered. Box 207, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

THE COLOGNE POST lost daily, owing to not sending subscription before demob. Send 15 Marks now with your Blighty address.

SPORT.

FOOTBALL and Rugby matches wanted. 20th Batt. K.R.R.C. Solingen.

DEE & ESS
D&S
COCOA ESSENCE
A PERFECT FOOD BEVERAGE
MANUFACTURED BY THE MAZAWATTEE TEA COY. LTD., LONDON
CAN BE OBTAINED AT ALL THE BEST STORES IN COLOGNE

KODAKS
New and Second-hand at keenest prices. Send for Lists. All Supplies by Post.
Wallace Heaton Ltd
19, Change Alley, SHEFFIELD

SPARKES HALL
308, REGENT ST., LONDON, W.
4, AVENUE FRIEDLAND, PARIS and
ROOM 71, DISCH HOTEL
Brückenstr. COLOGNE
(Next Door to N.A.C.B. Canteen)
FIELD, HUNTING & POLO BOOTS
Hand-Sewn Field Boots, Civilian Boots, Shoes and Pumps made to order and delivered to Germany in 18 days or in England in 10 days.

* THE COLOGNE POST *
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks.

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

DON'T FORGET THIS

LANGUAGES.

GERMAN PRIVATE TUITION by German lady, certificated teacher. Vorgebirgsstrasse 27, second floor.

GERMAN, well educated young lady, wishes to have conversation with an English lady for exchange of languages. Write Käthe R. 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

DENTISTRY.

H. BETTERMANN American Dentist, 43 45, Schildergasse, Cologne, (Late of Pittsburgh Pa. U.S.A.). Specialist in Gold-Crown, Bridge and Pivot-Work. Painless Extraction. Modern Appliances. Hours of Business 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

DENTIST ERICH FELTEN, Hohestrasse 98 Cologne (next Dentist near station.) Guaranteed best workmanship and material. Modern appliances. Extractions with cocaine. Artificial Teeth, crowns Bridges ready in 3-4 days. Hours of consultation 9-7. English spoken.

FOUND.

A black pocket-book was found in Colonel Ployden Nott's overcoat, containing 62 marks, when he returned from the Dance at the British Empire Leave Club on October 16th. Will owner kindly apply to Controller of Entertainments.

TO LET.

UNFURNISHED FLAT, Sydenham Hill. 7 mins from Elevated Electric Railway, 5 rooms, bath, garden etc. garage available if required, first class position, 25/- weekly in luxury. Owner will let flat in return for use of motor car for 3 days (24th, 25th, 26th October) for journey Ohligs to Ostend and return. Apply Box 201, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

PERSONAL.

ENGLISH OFFICER (after Demobilisation) with permanent residence in Cologne and good business connections in England will accept agencies from first-class Firms. Write to Box 137 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, October 19, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

PRODUCED BY SOLDIERS FOR SOLDIERS

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

SEE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT BY I. MARCUS & Co. ON PAGE FOUR

No. 174. COLOGNE, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

OUR MERCANTILE MARINE.

NEW INTERNATIONAL CHARTER FORMULATED FOR ALL SEAMEN.

WAITING TO RUSH FOOD INTO PETROGRAD.

SEAMEN'S CHARTER.

INTERNATIONAL REFORMS DEMANDED.

A new charter for seamen has been drawn up which, if carried into effect, will revolutionise the conditions of service in the Mercantile Marine.

Mr. G. N. Barnes, M.P., recently received a deputation from the Seafarers' Joint Council, headed by Mr. J. Havelock Wilson, M.P., who discussed with him the arrangements for summoning an international meeting devoted exclusively to the affairs of seamen.

At the request of Mr. Barnes the Seafarers' Council have now formulated their demands, which are as follows:—

Minimum wage.
Load line (table of freeboard).
Prohibition or limitation of deck loads.
Life-saving appliances.
Manning scale.
Standard of accommodation on board ship.
Hours of labour at sea and in port, and a standard number of days to the month.
Standard of victualling and serving of food.
(All the foregoing are international.)
Right of seamen to portion of wages earned and standing to their credit when in a foreign port.
Payment of wages to commence from date of signing articles and to terminate on day crew are paid off.
In case of shipwreck, payment of wages to continue until seamen reach home.
International standard of compensation for loss of life, accidents, and loss of effects.
Pilotage (a) Compulsory (b) Restrictions as to nationality, (c) Ship's officers not to undertake pilotage duties.
Reconstruction of wireless maritime telegraph service.
Establishment of National Joint Maritime Councils and an International Joint Maritime Industrial Council.

Great Britain is the first of the countries who will take part in the forthcoming World Labour Parliament to prepare a programme of demands on behalf of seamen.

DEATH OF H. B. IRVING.

ACTOR AND CRIMINOLOGIST.

We regret to announce the death of Mr Henry Brodribb Irving at his London residence, Cumberland-terrace, Regent's Park, at the age of forty-nine. The news of the death came as a surprise to his many friends, comparatively few being aware that his illness had become critical. He was educated at Marlborough and at New College, Oxford, and after completing his education at the University hesitated for a time between the Stage and the Bar. In 1894 he was called to the Bar, but the same year took the name-part in M. Buchanan's "Richard Sheridan" at the Comedy Theatre. It was not, however, till he joined Mr. Frohman's company at the Duke of York's in 1902 that he really came to the front as an actor. In the course of his career he visited America, Australia, and South Africa. He was a profound student of criminology and wrote numerous books on the subject.

GERMAN WAR DOCUMENTS.

The publication of German official documents up to the outbreak of the war is imminent. The so-called "Kautsky documents" will also be published over his name and with the full approval of Herr Kautsky. For the time being four volumes will appear dealing with the period immediately previous to the war, and will contain about 900 documents. Two further volumes regarding earlier periods will appear a little later.

AMERICAN STRIKE BREAKERS.

The longshoremen of New York, not having returned to work, despite the supposed settlement of the strike last week, arrangements have been made, if the men do not return to work to-morrow, to employ strikebreakers under protection of police and soldiers. The Secretary of Labour has appointed a conciliation committee headed by the Mayor of New York.

SET-BACK FOR BERMONDT.

The Mitau correspondent of the Berlin Lokalanzeiger admits that General Bermodt has lost Ustdvinsk. Bolderaa, outside which place his army is entrenched, is successfully resisting his heavy attacks.

The London County Council has decided to discontinue the employment of women as tram conductors.

RUSSIA.

FALL OF PETROGRAD INEVITABLE.

The reported imminent fall of Petrograd has caused great commercial activity at Helsingfors and there has been a sudden rise in the value of the rouble. Contracts for large deliveries of food supplies other than necessities to Petrograd have been hurriedly concluded. M. Margulies, Minister of Commerce in the North-west Russian Government, has arranged for eleven million kilogrammes of rice to be rushed to the capital as soon as it is occupied.

In naval and military circles in London it is admitted that Petrograd is so closely invested that little short of a miracle can prevent the capture of the capital. The taking of Gatchina and Krasnoeselo is admitted by the Bolshevists, while the War Office states that the Esthonians, co-operating with General Yudenitch, are within four miles of Krasnayagorka, facing Kronstadt.

Denikin, advancing on Moscow, has captured 20,000 prisoners during the past week, but he is no nearer Moscow since the capture of Orel, while he has still to recover Kieff, which was taken by a Bolshevist surprise attack on the 15th October, and where, according to a Bolshevist bulletin, Red troops were pursuing the enemy amid the burning suburbs.

FORTY FRAUDS.

PRISONER ASKS FOR MORE PUNISHMENT.

When Harry Ernest Chatfield, a Brighton engineer, pleaded guilty at Scarborough to two charges, the prosecuting barrister astonished the Recorder by saying that the man wanted 40 other charges to be taken into account when sentence was passed.

The two charges brought against him were of obtaining £5 by means of a worthless cheque from the manageress of the Salisbury Hotel, Scarborough, and of stealing a leather suit-case and contents, worth £50, at Hull.

According to counsel Chatfield was wanted on the other 40 charges on warrants issued in various towns throughout the country. The charges were chiefly of passing worthless cheques, stealing bags from hotels and railway stations, and obtaining food and lodgings by fraud.

Sentence of 15 month's hard labour was passed.

GENERAL SMUTS.

PRESENTED WITH A SWORD OF HONOUR.

A distinguished assembly crowded the Town Hall at Pretoria on the 10th Oct., when the Mayor, amid scenes of great enthusiasm, presented General and Prime Minister Smuts with a sword of honour subscribed for by the citizens.

General Smuts, in replying to the address, dwelt with pride on South Africa's part in the war and the provision made for returned soldiers. He added that owing to the country's prosperity there would be no difficulty in absorbing them and concluded a stirring speech by saying that for the fifteen millions spent in conquering German South West Africa, the Union had received an absolutely adequate asset.

RHINE ARMY BOOK SHOP.

British ladies will be pleased to learn that at the book-shop in the Arcade (Hohestrasse) a room has been fitted up for their exclusive use. All the fashion journals are available and for comparison of ideas, chats about clothes, cooks, kiddies or any womanly interests, it will furnish a very convenient and pleasant rendezvous.

PREMIUM BONDS.

The question of adopting the principle of premium bonds in Great Britain has been revived owing to the unsatisfactory result of the Victory Loan. The London Chamber of Commerce is again taking up the matter.

QUIET IN PORTUGAL.

The Portuguese Legation at the Hague denies the Spanish reports of a revolutionary strike at Lisbon and declares that the country is quiet.

LESLIE HENSON ENGAGED.

The engagement is announced of Mr. Leslie Henson, the well-known comedian, to the South African musical comedy artiste, Miss Madge Saunders.

NAVY CUT.

STARTLING RUMOUR OF DRASTIC REDUCTIONS.

An extraordinary statement appeared in the "Portsmouth Evening News" on Saturday. That paper declares that it has received from an "authoritative source" information to the effect that the personnel of the Navy is to be reduced to fifty-thousand and that of the marines to ten thousand, when the United States ratifies the Peace Treaty. The paper adds that it is also said to be the intention of the Government to close all overseas naval stations, to bring home the ships in foreign waters and to show the British flag only by means of small flying squadrons.

A Press representative was informed that the Admiralty had no information on the subject and that "the statement did not appear to be one to be regarded seriously."

TUBERCULOSIS.

FAMOUS PREACHER'S PLEA.

Father Bernard Vaughan, speaking at the Tuberculosis Conference in London on Saturday declared that it would be better if some women, instead of driving about in motor cars, trundled baby carriages through the streets.

It was a terrible thing, he said, that while the death rate was above the birth rate by 124 per cent; that while nurseries were silent and divorce courts clamorous, the tubercle was taking such heavy toll of our people.

Some folks were depressed about their country, but any man who could be depressed about an Empire like ours was not fit to have a foothold upon that Empire. We had done superbly, splendidly and had come out on top. There was nothing the nation could not do if it made up its mind to it.

A C3 NATION.

NEED OF PHYSICAL TRAINING.

At the distribution of medals to the Croydon High School Cadet Corps, Major the Marquis de Bucy, Director of Physical Training under the Lucas Tooth Fund, said it was not sufficiently realised that England was a C 3 nation and behind all our Allies in physical fitness. One of the causes was that we were largely an industrial country and another that in our schools, especially the public schools, we were apt to give particular encouragement in sport to about ten per cent of the boys and neglect the other ninety per cent. He suggested as a remedy the organization of school games in sections or classes.

AMERICAN AERIAL DERBY.

The first competitor flying eastward on the return journey in the American trans-continental air Derby to land at Mineola on Saturday afternoon, was Lieutenant Maynard.

Discussing his flight he said: "My flight demonstrated that it is easy for a fleet of battle planes to fly from coast to coast in three days. I believe I could have made the flight myself in two and a half days if I had not been obliged by the rules to visit every controlled station."

Speaking of the number of accidents which have been such a sad feature of this race, resulting in ten deaths, of which seven were those of actual participants, Lieutenant Maynard predicted that the time was approaching when it would be as safe to pilot an aeroplane as an automobile.

FOOD COMMITTEE EXPENSES.

The Food Controller, has issued a circular to the 1,800 Food Committees calling attention to their expenditure for the year ended 31st March last, which amounted to £1,500,000, and urging that every effort must be made to control expenditure, especially as less voluntary help is to be expected than was forthcoming in war time. He warmly thanks the voluntary workers.

VERY HEAVY BOOKINGS FOR BATTLEFIELD TOURS.

Messrs. Cook, the tourist agents, anticipate a tremendous rush to the battlefields of Belgium and Northern France in the spring and summer 1920, especially from America, whence the number of tourists will be limited only by the steamer accommodation available.

Advance bookings in England have also been on an unprecedented scale.

ARMY CHAPLAIN ARRESTED.

Captain the Rev. Father O'Donnel, Catholic Chaplain to the Australian forces, has been arrested in Dublin and conveyed to Richmond Barracks. It is understood that the charge will be under section 40. He has been on sick leave in Ireland.

DUBLIN POLICEMAN SHOT.

A Dublin policeman named Dowling was shot at and wounded in the side while he was approaching three men in Christchurch place, early on Saturday morning. His condition is serious.

Canon Pierce, Vicar of Brighton, is urging the town to purchase the Devil's Dyke estate as its own war memorial.

FIRE AT SEA.

DRAMATIC RESCUES FROM BURNING LINER.

The French liner Chicago arrived at New York on Saturday and furnished full details concerning the rescue of 355 passengers from the steamship Venezia which was abandoned at sea on fire last Monday.

The fire started amidships at two o'clock in the morning while the ship was in mid-ocean. Owing to the inflammable nature of the cargo, which consisted largely of casks of rum, the S.O.S. signal was sent out. The Chicago, which was only about eighty miles distant, immediately responded, but so rapidly did the fire spread that the Venezia's engines were out of commission an hour before the rescuer hove in sight. Fortunately the sea was calm and the weather moderate.

The Captain, first officer and two of the crew remained on deck until everybody else was safe in the lifeboats. The Venezia was then one mass of flames.

CONFIDENCE TRICK.

STORY OF CHARITABLE GIFTS TO THE BELGIAN POOR.

A Belgian mechanic living in Hammersmith is the latest victim of the confidence trickster.

As he was about to return to his own country, the Belgian had drawn his savings out of the bank. After leaving the Belgian Consulate in Bedford-square, he was spoken to by a stranger, who told him that he had to distribute thousands of pounds, under the will of his uncle, to poor people in Belgium. The Belgian agreed to assist in this charitable work, and to show his confidence deposited his valuables in a package containing a supposed bundle of notes.

They got into a taxi-cab, and then the stranger, saying he would fetch the will, slipped away from his victim, taking with him 6,000 francs, over £20 in gold, £60 in Bank of England notes, and some French gold pieces.

The police are searching for an Italian and a Swiss in connection with the robbery.

NEW GLANDS FOR OLD.

LIFE PRESERVED IN COLD STORAGE.

Professor Voroneff, who recently urged the grafting of certain glands from monkeys on human beings in order to rejuvenate and promote longevity, has gone a step further. In an article in "Le Journal" he points out that the secretive glands, such as the thyroid, suprarenal, etc. live for some three hours after the death of the body. He accordingly advocates the removal of such glands from healthy persons who have been accidentally killed, and the grafting of same on persons suffering from illness, which the grafting of new glands would remove. He mentions that such glands can be conserved for a considerable time in cold storage.

FRENCH DEMOBILIZATION.

Official statistics issued by the French Under Secretary for Demobilization show that demobilization in France is now virtually complete. Already 4,322,000 men have been sent back to civil life. The work of finding employment for the demobilized is going forward so rapidly that suitable employment will shortly have been found for all ex-army men. The demobilization of material is incomplete but the present figures show that whereas France during the war had three and a quarter million horses, the number demobilized is already over three millions, and only fifty thousand remain to be sold. Similarly the number of motorcars already sold is six thousand. All buildings have been returned to their owners and twenty-one hectares of ground have been given up by the air services.

L.C.C. HOUSING SCHEME.

The Finance Committee has submitted to the London County Council an estimate of a million sterling for the acquisition and partial development of three thousand acres in the neighbourhood of Barking Town, Ilford, Dagenham and Romford. The land, on which it is proposed to erect working-class dwellings, is at present almost entirely occupied by market gardens.

ROYAL EXILES.

Reuter learns that the Grand Duke and Duchess Nicholas of Russia, the Grand Duchess Anastasia and the latter's father the King of Montenegro, are living in the Prinkipo Islands, where the Grand Duke is writing his reminiscences.

EXIT CHINESE LABOURERS.

The British and French Governments have decided upon the necessary measures for the replacing of Chinese labourers in France. Repatriation will take place at the rate of fifteen thousand monthly.

On his return from Canada the Prince of Wales intends to reside near Kineton, Warwickshire, and hunt with the Warwick hounds.

INFLUENZA SCOURGE.

BLEEDING SUGGESTED AS A REMEDY.

The transport City of York, which has just arrived at Plymouth from India, reports over one hundred cases of influenza on the voyage. Troops were not allowed to disembark.

The Ministy of Health is taking measures in view of a possible return of the scourge during the coming winter, and has appointed a committee of medical experts to examine suggestions made to the Ministry. The medical officer of Poole has urged a resort to the old practice of bleeding. The official view is that while it might be beneficial in individual cases there is no evidence that bleeding can be considered as a general remedy for the complaint.

MAN OF MYSTERY.

SOLDIER OF WHOM THE ARMY KNOWS NOTHING.

Police and military have been baffled by the mystery of a man who claims to be a deserter from the Royal West Surreys. He has given the names of Smith and Panter, but no trace of him can be found in Army records.

The story began a mouth ago, when he, in the uniform of a sergeant, was charged at Highgate with being an absentee. He was sent to Mill Hill Barracks, but, as nothing was known about him there, he was sent back to the civilian police, who then charged him with falsely representing himself to be a deserter, and with wearing military uniform.

He has made various statements of his army career, but a sergeant from the West Surrey Regiment informed the Highgate magistrate yesterday that all these were wrong. But Smith, or Panter, persisted in his story, and produced a diary which read:—

Enlisted March 15, 1915; taken prisoner September 1915; released January 1919; volunteered Russia, February; from Russia, August; on leave from France September 15 till September 28.

It further said that he had been gassed twice, and also gave the names of two German governors of Lille.

He was again remanded.

PROFITEERING.

DUTCH COMBINE WITH CORNER IN QUININE.

The Bermondsey Profiteering Tribunal has decided to appoint a deputation to wait on the Board of Trade and ask for powers to enter wharves and dock warehouses to stop profiteering by wholesalers.

Mr. MacCurdy, of the Profiteering Commission, announces that a Central Committee has been formed to tackle profiteering by wholesalers and trusts. It has already investigated fish prices and the quinine monopoly. The latter he described as a disgraceful affair, in which a Dutch combine were holding British sick to ransom by charging more than double the proper price for quinine.

ALLENBY'S NEW POST.

It is officially announced that General Lord Allenby has been appointed High Commissioner for Egypt in succession to Sir Reginald Wingate. It will be remembered that in March last Lord Allenby was appointed a Special High Commissioner.

This appointment of Field Marshal Allenby is greeted with the utmost cordiality and satisfaction. His name, among all others, carries the most weight in the middle East, as he has the great advantage of being fully versed in Egyptian problems and difficulties. He left Marseilles for Egypt on Saturday.

BIG SHIPPING DEAL.

Messrs. W.R. Smith and Sons, managing owners of the St. Just Steamship Company and the Leeds Shipping Company, have acquired the fleet of the English Steamship Company and the Letricheux Lines.

The deal is said to involve over £750,000, and will place Messrs. Smith and Sons in control of the largest fleet of steamers managed by a single firm in South Wales. They will now control 23 steamers of over 167,000 tons.

COTTON PROSPERITY.

Lancashire cotton spinning manufacturers have been so flooded with orders from foreign customers since the beginning of October that it is feared there will be a scarcity of yarn and cloth before the end of the year, owing to the demand greatly exceeding the supply.

CONSCRIPTION OF MONEY.

The New Zealand victory loan of ten millions having been under-subscribed, compulsion will be employed to secure the ballance.

Colonel Thesiger, ex-minister to Abyssinia, has relinquished the British Consul Generalship in New York for private reasons.

Prince Arthur of Connaught represented the King at Saturday's investiture, as the Duke of Connaught is suffering from a cold.

VARSITY NOTES.

CHANGES AT OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE.

Among the important posts to be filled at Oxford are the Lady Margaret Chair of Divinity, rendered vacant through the resignation of Dr. Sandey. The Secretaryship to the delegates for University Extension Teaching becomes vacant in March, when Mr. T.A.H. Marriott M.P., the President and Secretary, resigns after twenty-five years' service. It is pointed out that since the formation of tutorial classes the responsibilities of this delegacy have very greatly increased, and ennanced financial provision is therefore required.

All Souls' College is taking steps to provide a pension fund for its professors.

At Cambridge arrangements are now approaching completion for the establishment of a Readership in Geography and Agricultural Physiology and another in Estate Management, for which the Board of Agriculture has offered to allocate five hundred pounds for the Reader's stipend.

The Cambridge University Services Club, which was formed by discharged and demobilized officer members of the University just before the Armistice, has elected Mr. C. R. Fay, a young Don of Christ's College, as its President, and has issued a programme of lectures by influential service and public speakers.

The financial anxieties of the Cambridge Union Society are becoming a thing of the past. New members have joined this term at a great rate, and already the total is 567, including Princes Albert and Henry. The opening debate secured a full attendance. A motion that the tendencies of organised labour are a menace to the present interests of the country was adopted by 242 against 190. The two Princes occupied "neutral" seats on the cross benches.

LONELY NELSON.

LORD FISHER'S SYMPATHY.

The memories of Lord Fisher are concluded in the "Times." The final article is entitled "Apologia pro vita sua" and details some of the writer's early experiences. Lord Fisher entered the Navy on July 12th 1854 on board H.M.S. Victory, after being medically examined by a doctor, writing out the Lord's Prayer, and, so far as his memory serves, doing a rule-of-three sum. He narrates how he became Gunnery Lieutenant on the first ironclad—the Warrior—in 1863. At the bombardment of Alexandria he was Captain of the Inflexible and when ashore at Alexandria was struck down by dysentery and nearly died.

He concludes his reminiscences with a short chapter on Nelson, in which he points out that the great Admiral looks down from his column aud sees not one single Admiral honoured with a statue among the cloud of nonentities. Neither Hawke, Hood, Howe, Dundonald, Rodney, Cornwallis or Benbow are visible!

CLOTH FOR SALE.

WAR STOCKS BEING RELEASED.

The Ministry of Munitions is releasing for sale over 5½ million yards of cloth suitable for costumes, dresses, overcoats, raincoats and uniforms. Included in the materials are serges (over two million yards), black cloth, seal and brown mohair cloth, whipcord and Bedford cord, also huge quantities of material suitable for women's wear only, including half a million yards of cream serge and half a million yards of white lining.

SUPREME COUNCIL DECISIONS.

The Supreme Council has adopted a resolution that delegates of the Great Powers shall sit on the various commissions created under the Treaty of Versailles and vote irrespective of whether or no their Governments have ratified the Treaty.

It has also decided that General Mangin, the French member of the Inter-Allied Commission to superintend Von der Goltz's evacuation of the Baltic States, shall leave Paris immediately, the representatives of the other great powers following in a few days.

COALFIELD ROMANCE.

A romance of the South Wales coalfield is disclosed by the appointment of Mr. John Kane as general manager of the whole of the colliery undertakings of the associated concerns of the United National Collieries, Ltd., of Messrs. Burnyeat, Brown and Co., with an annual output of three million tons.

Mr. Kane is a native of the Rhondda Valley, and commenced life as a pit boy. Through his own perseverance he has now been appointed to one of the highest positions in the coalfield.

CRIME AGAINST TWO COUNTRIES.

Werner Horn, the German agent who blew up the St. Croix Bridge (joining the U.S.A. and Canada) in 1915, has been re-arrested after serving his sentence at Atlanta, U.S.A., and will be taken to Canada for trial. He is liable to imprisonment for life.

General Seely, the Air Minister, who spent the week-end in the Isle of Wight, took part on Saturday in lifeboat practice at Brooke. He has been a member of the Brooke lifeboat crew for many years.

FLIGHTS LTD.
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Mr. Lee is now back in Cologne from London and has brought with him a good stock.

Call or write OFFICERS' CLUB, COLOGNE.

PHOTO SHOP
FRANZ MÜLLER
COLOGNE, Brückenstr. 7
Tel. A 6173

The ol shop for amateur photography in Cologne
ENGLISH EXPOMETERS
Speciality: All photograghic work and repairs are carefully executed and promptly attended tow.

To-day.
Great International Boxing Matches
Munic'l Beerhalls
Lunapark near Zoo
7.30 p.m.

Fritz Rolauf, Cologne v. Curt Sasse, Berlin
114 Pounds 114 Pounds
Featherweight Champion of Germany.

CHALLENGE MATCH
for 15 Rounds of 3 minutes.

Ernst Koch, from Paris, 120 Pounds
v. Hans Hirschberger, Munich, 122 Pounds.
Otto Bloch, Berlin, 122 Pounds
v. Ludwig Trattner, Vienna, 118 Pounds.
Eventually extra fight.

Alterations in the programme are sometimes necessary and therefore reserved owing to the possibility of hurts in these strenuous contests and in the training.

Next DENTIST Main Station
98 Hohestr. first floor
E. FELTEN
Guaranteed best Workmanship and Material, Extractions with cocaine and Gas.
Best references. Careful treatment.
Specialist in Gold Crowns, Bridges and Pivot Work. Ready in 3-4 days.
Hours of consultation, 9-7.
Sundays 9-1. —— English spoken.

SIMPLICISSIMUS
Cabaret and Wine-Room
— Hohestrasse 152—154. —
Twice daily first-class singing and dancing performances. Open from 4.30 to 10.45 p.m.
— For Officers and Civilians only. —

FURS
in SKUNK — AUSTRAL. OPOSSUM — SEAL — FOX, in all forms and colours, newest models or, if desired, manufacturing to own design.
No shop — therefore equ table prices
E. KAUFFMANN, Rich. Wagnerstr. 41 I
(near Opera House)

COURT-DENTIST
W. LENGERSDORF
14 Hohestrasse.
Consultations: 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.
3 p.m. to 6 p.m
Sundays from 10 a.m. to 12.
Gold teeth and fillings a speciality. Extractions with cocaine. Good workmanship. Best references. Careful treatment.

SIB MÜLLER
Leather-Travelling-Articles
COLOGNE
Corner Andreaskloster
opposite the Officer's Club
(Ewige Lampe)
undertakes all repairs.

ENORMOUS SUCCESS OF
"THE JESTERS"
The first civilian music hall party to visit Rhineland.

SIX LONDON VARIETY ARTISTES INCLUDING
Mr.
JOE MORLEY
The famous Banjoist of the London Palladium

Miss MABEL MARTIN.
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY.
Mr. HARRY KING.
Mr. FRANK HOOK.
Mr. CHASS LEWIS.

Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage The Jesters after Saturday Oct. 18th. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office or may be seen personally at 11 o/c each morning at Amusements Office, Komödienstrasse, Cologne.

N. A. C. B.
STAPELHAUS
ON THE RIVER BANK
Adjoining the Hohenzollern Bridge
LARGE CANTEEN
COFFEE BAR
with Hot and Cold Meats
TEA, COFFEE, COCOA
always ready
Fresh Cakes and Pastries
daily from our own Bakery in Cologne.
RECREATION WRITING AND READING ROOMS
Open to all Troops.
ORCHESTRA
All in a magnificent building.

AMERICAN DENTIST
H. BETTERMANN
(LATE OF PITTSBURGH Pa. U.S.A.)
Specialist in GOLD, CROWN, BRIDGE and PIVOT WORK.
PAINLESS EXTRACTION GUARANTEED
Hours of Business. 9 a.m to 7 p.m.
43/45, SCHILDERGASSE, COLOGNE.

Stamps of Ukraine 163 stamps including rarities to be sold at 4000 Marks. Apply to G 83, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

Dentistry
H. FELTEN
86—88 BREITESTRASSE
Guaranteed best Workmanship and Material.
Extractions with Cocaine.
Specialist in roots attendance.

Dark room Lamp	2.75
" "	3 50
Bromide Postcards, per hundred	6.—
" " per thousand	55.—
Self toning Postcards, per hundred	12.—
Tripods, wood	9.—
" " folding	20.—
Tripods, brass telescopic	30.—
Camera 6×9 cm	65.—
" 6×9 cm double anastigmat	150.—
" 9×12 cm	70.—
" 9×12 cm double anastigmat	200.—

SCHILDERGASSE 55a
Next the C. of E. Military Church.

EXPORT WHOLESALE STOCK of all articles in AMBER, IVORY, GALALITH and BAKELITE.
Adolf Buchheimer, Cöln
Stammheimerstrasse 25 Telephone A 9059

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

WEEK COMMENCING
MONDAY OCTOBER 20th, 1919
ALL COMMENCING AT 7—0 p.m.

Deutsches Theatre, Bismarckstrasse.

British Rhine Army Dramatic Company
in
Tuesday . . "DAMAGED GOODS".
Wednesday and Thursday
"THE NEW SIN".
Friday and Saturday
"MAN OF DESTINY".
FOLLOWED BY "CANDIDA",

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.

Owing to Continued Success return visit of Mr. ALFRED HURLEY'S LONDON COMPANY in an Entirely new Programme.

ARTISTES:
Mr. JOE MORLEY
the Celebrated Banjoist, from the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY
Mr. FRANK HOOK
Mr. HARRY KING
Mr. CHASS LEWIS
and
"JOEY"

JOE SAT —1 OH—! JOHN

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA. 32 Komödienstrasse
All the Best Pictures.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
Grand Orchestral and Pictorial Programme.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA.
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPEILHAUS, Hohe Strasse
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

THIS (TUESDAY) EVENING
at the
COLOGNE CENTRAL Y.M.C.A.
(44, Friesenstrasse.)

LORELY HALL. — "New life in old India" by W.R. Mattison. Esq. at 6.30 p.m.
GREAT HALL. — Cinema and Orchestra 6.30 to 9.30 p.m.
The next Dancing class for British Children will be to-night the 21st October at 11 a.m. in the Lorely Hall.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 659. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 49, British Army of the Rhine.
Subscript.: In Rhine Army area 9 mks. 50 pfg. a month, post free.
To Great Britain or Colonies, 15 marks a month post free.

Tuesday, October 21, 1919.

THE SWIFT CURRENT.

There are numbers of people to-day who cannot keep pace with the rapid march of events. History is being made at lightning speed. Ideas that were regarded as fixed principles have been and are being thrown over daily.

Since the beginning of war the world and its problems bear a new aspect. It is all amazing and bewildering and it is not surprising that try as they will, the older generation fail's to respond to the swiftly moving changes.

That was always the way with the passing generation in normal humdrum times, but to-day it sees policies, habits, opinions and beliefs changing completely. The world is in a turmoil; bewilderment and uncertainty hold the field.

Nobody knows what the surprise of to-morrow may be. Though most people endeavour to adjust their minds to the new forces and altered conditions, very few succeed. With the majority the cry is "The world is moving too fast for me."

To see the shifting panorama of events overtaking the capabilities of the average mind tends to foster a feeling of pessimism. Uncertainty and fear of the future supplant faith and hope. Some try in their feeble way to stem the tide but are speedily overwhelmed. Very few are able to keep even reasonably abreast of the swift current and those who do, have not the vaguest conception where it will carry them.

Meanwhile all these disturbing elements keep the world from legitimate industry. In such thrilling times ordinary work at the bench or desk, in the pit or the foundry are difficult to concentrate upon. Great movements promising new and better things for all are going on around us. We cannot settle down. Is it to be wondered at?

And who will lead us at this critical stage? The older type of statesman—certainly the average politician—is already effete. The honeyed promises, the too transparent subterfuges, the tendency to temporise and compromise are of no avail to-day. The old formulae and the old practitioners are finished.

Strong far-seeing leaders—men of vast strength and grip are called for. They must be able to see with eyes unblinded by past conventions, unfettered by worn out shibboleths. They must be great in the truest sense.

Where are they? At the moment they fail to appear among us. But there must surely arise before long, some who will stand out among the hesitating, faltering mass as giants.

And they will be young men, born of these present times, able to grasp the problems and see the possibilities of the future with a clear eye and to act with a firm hand. For them the world will not have moved too fast.

IT'S A LONG WAY TO COLOGNE.

When I went out to Cologne to join my husband I made a mess of it.

I was out in the garden, waiting for the breakfast bell, on the morning the wire arrived. It was a perfect summer's morning and I was strolling round enjoying the delicious scent of the flowers, and I remember I had my nose in among the sweet peas when Jane came rushing out with the telegram.

Well, it was from Algernon all right, with orders for Cologne, and I never put in such a week in all my life as that which followed.

Clothes and passport, principally passport, and broiling weather. St. James' Park, offices, crowds, heat, shops, buses, rushes, and more heat. Home for an hour or two's sleep, then start all over again. Rushes, buses, crowds, heat, St. James' Park queue, patience, impatience, desperation, passport, taxi, Bedford Square, more crowds, queues, heat, wait, no lunch, prolonged wait, heat, continued wait, desperation, exasperation, and at long last, attention.

Well to get on with it. I awoke one morning to find that I really was ready, and actually awaiting the taxi that was to carry me to Charing Cross. It was ordered in plenty of time to catch the 8.35 a.m. to Dover, and contentedly I sat chatting to various relatives waiting for it to roll up, and I waited, and went on waiting, and continued to wait, and still it came not.

"You'll never catch that train", said someone from the gate, "there's not a sign of it". My heart began to beat terribly and I could see the train, in my minds eye, going without me. Someone rushed to the 'phone, and I rushed too, and upset a chair and a cup and a spoon.

"Now, keep cool," the 'someone' cried, "What's the good of getting excited?" and he rattled the 'phone. So I tried to keep cool and swallowed a lump in my throat, and all the family kept looking at the clock, and then at me, and then trying to look cheerful when they caught my eye. At last, after hours and hours, —seven minutes—excited clamour.

"Here it is, you'll manage it." We all rushed out, the dogs as well, (without their muzzles), kisses, scrambles, chatter, and off we raced. Well, we caught it, the train; I stepped into the corridor with just thirty seconds to spare.

The train was packed, and of course someone had my seat. Never mind, I was in the train, and we were off, and my poor heart was pounding away too. The guard was a dear, and found me another seat; I had a nice little breakfast all over again, and so cooled down and became happy.

We soon left old London behind, with her smoke and bricks and dirt, and the grass began to look green and refreshing. After a while the sun came out, and pleasant fields, with countless scarlet poppies waving in the breeze, slid by.

It was a pleasant journey, and quickly over, and soon enough we ran into Dover, and then the crowd began again. I couldn't get out of the train for the crowd, and then when I did get out the crowd was formed into an endless queue, while passports were examined.

I waited twenty minutes, when my porter called me away and ushered me through a door. I handed my passport over. Fatal moment, shall I ever forget it?

The passport was glanced at, then thrown back to me. Oh! What a horrid man that passport man was. "It's not in order," he said, and went on to the next person. My heart stood still, then dived right down into the station floor.

I looked at the man, he was nothing but a machine, with no heart. "What is the matter with it?" I cried, and my voice wobbled, and my throat was full of lump and tears. The wretch looked at me.

"Wants the Belgian visa," and he passed on to the next. My porter came to the rescue. He told me that there was just a chance of my reaching the consul and catching the boat. He raced me down the platform, round to the King's Head, and phoned for a taxi.

A weird vehicle arrived; we tore through the streets of Dover, the Consul, of course, hanging out at the other end of the town. We raced up narrow streets, round some heart-lifting corners. I nearly fell out of the weird, open conveyance often. However, we found the Consul—such a dear—and soon back we whirled.

Alas, just as we reached the level crossing close to the docks, the gates clanged in our faces, and there we stuck. I can't attempt to describe my feelings. Of course I lost the boat, and for hours I was swallowing tears and lumps.

It was a painful thing to see that boat go sailing away without me, all my luggage on board too, and Algernon meeting it at three o'clock that afternoon, and me not there. More tears and lumps swallowed. I walked round to the Post Office and sent wires, though what earthly use that was I couldn't see.

The boat was gone without me—tear splashed. There was Algernon walking about Ostend Quay and me walking about Dover Quay and the great sea rolling between,—shower of tears, much sniffing and swallowing.

Fortunately at this point I met a partner in distress of exactly the same nature as myself. Oh! I was glad. We condoled. We put up at the King's Head and lunched together. At 3 p.m. we each vanished to our respective rooms, and I wept.

Algernon dear, 'tis no use you looking anxiously at the gangway, I'm not there!! I'm here in this beastly Dover!!!

Well, we had tea together, dined together, and strolled out in the lovely summer gloaming and listened to the band. There was a charming sunset, and the castle was a picture, but oh! how I hated it all! What I longed for was bed, sleep, and to-morrow morning. And it came, like everything else, morning, boat and all.

And who can imagine the joy I felt as we sailed away from Dover town? It was a glorious morning too, brilliant sun, perfect sea, perfect run across, but we were both still somewhat anxious.

"Suppose they should not be there"! We looked at each other, and we looked at the blue, blue sea. All sights of interest were blotted out for me, as we neared Ostend; all I could see was the crowd on the quay. And my poor heart was pounding. But there, sure enough was Algernon, looking anxious too, and, his smiling old phiz warmed my heart.

"There's mine", I cried joyously, and waved an excited hand.

"I can't see mine", said my friend in a faint voice. "Surely he must be there. Why", suddenly changing her tone, "there he is, and waving to another girl!"

Well, to cut it down, a ter long last, we met on the quay, we clasped hands, and I never before knew how nice Algernon's clasp was.

DANDELION.

BACK TO THE EAST.

THE PICTURE SHOP IN THE HOHENZOLLERN RING.

It was one of those cold, dark days, such as one meets with in Cologne, right in the middle of a fine autumn spell. The Ring was gloomy and uninspiring; but a splash of eastern colour in the windows of a picture shop caught my eye, and I crossed the broad thoroughfare to look.

In a moment I was transported from the murk of Northern Europe to the brilliant sun of India. While in reality gazing into a single window, I seemed to be looking out through a number of magic openings — for they were not so much mere pictorial expressions on a flat surface that I saw, as embrasures through which I caught enthralling glimpses of the East.

I saw again Agra, the city of the Taj Mahal. I was back in spirit on the banks of the Jumna, and the evening hush had fallen on the wide Indian landscape. I stood by a plashing fountain on the long marble causeway of the Taj, and watched the glow fading from the jewel-like mausoleum which enshrines, besides the dust of Nur Mahal, the essential beauty of all time, of all thought, of all creation. I heard the lowing of the buffaloes drawing water from the river, and saw the night mists rising from its banks and spreading across the scene. I looked to the left (as oftentimes I had done of old) for the red sandstone mass of the Akbar's fort. But there was only the frame of the picture.

I moved a little until I could see out of another of those mystic windows. This time I was in Benares, the sacred city. I saw the long procession, on either shore, of pilgrims approaching their hallowed sports. The scene was veiled in distances of time and space. The squalors and failings of India were forgotten. One only felt a longing, piercing to one's heart, to be back in the past, amid these surroundings.

There were pictures in that shop window of regal Jaipur, that city of places and glaring sunshine — of Udaipura and its lake — of imperial Delhi the multiplication of desolation, with its Kutub Minar soaring to the turquoise sky.

And then last of all, I was looking through a frame at the most beautiful of cities in the most beautiful of all lands —Srinagar in Kashmir!

It was a picture of the main waterway of that river capital, and it presented just the view that used to be so well known to officers of the Old Army. One looked, at midday, down the broad surface of the Jhelum, between a double row of tottering wooden houses, reared crazily upon foundations of massive stone.

Their roofs were carpeted with grass, out of which grew gorgeous tulips and great mauve and white irises, and every here and there a dark, narrow opening between the houses led up from the river to a silver plastered mosque. How joyously the sun glanced from those burnished surfaces!

The picture showed only this main "street", but I knew where, round the corner to the right, lay the Dal Lake, from whose clear depths the "rainbow visions" of the song were waiting to be conjured; that a little way to the left the Mar Canal began its windings through the city—a lazy backwater where kingfishers and golden orioles flashed in and out between overhanging creepers. And I knew that if one raised one's eyes they would see the snowy ranges of the Pir Panjal, raised like stupendous altars to overtop the world.

I seemed to hear again the rhythmic beat of the shikara paddles, as one's softly-singing crew propelled one through the waters, in quest of richly embroidered silks and cloths or wonderful carvings or . . .

But I had dreamed enough. I turned reluctantly from that window in the Ring.

* * *

A motor lorry splashed me with black mud. It had begun to rain. B.

COLOGNE ELECTRIC CARS

A USEFUL GUIDE.

No.	Destination	Lights
1.	Lindenthal-Dom-Deutz-Kalk	(blue-green)
2.	Lindenthal-Dom-Deutz-Müllheim	(blue)
3.	Ehrenfeld-Dom-Deutz-Kalk	(yellow)
4.	Ehrenfeld-Dom-Deutz-Müllheim	(green-white)
5.	Ehrenfeld-Neumarkt-Chlodwigplatz-Bonnerstrasse	(white-red)
6.	Bickendorf-Ehrenfeld-Dom-Heumarkt-Chlodwigplatz	(blue-red)
7.	Nieh-Nippes-Dom-Chlodwigplatz-Bonnerstrasse.	(red-yellow)
8.	Müngersdorf-Melaten-Neumarkt	(yellow-white)
9.	Chlodwigplatz-Neumarkt-Dom-Sechszig	(green)
10.	Südfriedhof-Zollstock-Volksgarten-Neumarkt-Dom-Nippes	(green-red)
11.	Merheim-Dom-Heumarkt-Bayenthal-Südpark	(blue)
12.	Rosenstr.-Neumarkt-Zoolog. Garten-Flora-Mülheim.Schiffb.	(yellow)
14.	Rodenkirchen-Marienburg-Dom-Zoolog. Garten-Flora	(white-green)
15.	Nippes-Neumarkt-Sülz (Sülzburgstr.)	(blue-yellow)
16.	Ubierring-Rudolfplatz-Zoolog. Garten-Flora	(red)
17.	West-Friedhof-Ehrenfeld-Neumarkt	(blue-white)
18.	Rundbahn. — Round journey, Dom and the Rings	(white)
19.	Neumarkt-Sülz(Berrenrath.Str.	(white)
20.	Nippes (Escherstr.)-Schlachthof-Dom-Heumarkt-Südbahnhof-Sülz-Klettenbergpark	(yellow-green)

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

ARE THEY "GUNNERS"?

Sir, — Why do the M.G.C. insist on calling themselves "Gunners"? I see in today's "Cologne Post" a result of a football match, and the "Gunners" did this and the "Gunners" did that.

Possibly it is the fault of the young boy soldiers, but surely some of the M.G.C. N.C.O.'s and men who have actually fought in the war should be able to inform the yougsters of their mistake.

Having been out continuously since 1914 and knowing from what arm of the service men were taken to form the M.G.C. one can realise the absurdity of calling the users of these small weapons "Gunners". The misuse is enough to make the late Earl Roberts and other famous real gunners turn in their graves.

INFANTRY 1914.

ROLLER SKATING.

Sir,—I was very pleased to read the article from "Rinker" concerning roller skating, and most heartily support his suggestion of more rinks, and particularly the proposal of rink hockey. I have played many sports, but rink hockey is absolutely the fastest and most exciting of any, whether played on the ice or a maple floor.

Skate dancing too would find great favour if it could be introduced in Rhineland, and I can only hope for an early revival of this graceful and health producing pastime. BROGREE.

ARE THEY NECESSARY?

Sir,—One appreciates the inconvenience of getting lost in Cologne between the mess and the billet or of being knocked down by a tram.

Doubtless because of these we still cling to those gold and silver identification discs attached to delicate chains and suspended from the wrist. WILLIE.

SURELY NOT TRIVIAL.

Sir,—In reply to "Martyr's" letter, it grieves me beyond words that such a barbarous state of affairs exists in an enlightened city such as I imagined Cologne to be.

I am pleased, however, he has given publicity to the wretched incompetence of the local car service. On his behalf I shall put it before the Board that a taxi be specially commandeered for his convenience.

If however, my influence is unable to do this, I should advise him to rise ten minutes earlier every morning.

M. F. P.

BRASSARDS CRITICISED.

Sir, — With reference to the many suggestions put forward in respect of gay uniforms may I be allowed to draw attention to the ugliness of many of the brassards at present in use.

Personally I am authorised to wear a blue and white band, which by itself is a thing of great beauty, but when placed in position fails miserably in its endeavour to tone with the monotonous khaki, and must give many a heartrending shock to the artistic temperament of the people amongst whom we must parade in all our glory. UDDY IMPTY.

A SENSE OF HUMOUR.

Sir,—The sense of humour is not only difficult to describe, it is impossible. As well try to explain a perfect sound, a beautiful colour, or the gift of appreciation itself; in which lies all the romance of life.

We all understand what E.A.D. means; we have all probably had experiences similar to his own. But has it not struck E.A.D. that his laborious effort to explain the subtleties of the position argues in itself a lack of, let us say, humorous inspiration?

The German mind is trained to work. We English are also taught to laugh, but a man has not reached the highest standard of this branch of his education until he has learnt to laugh himself.

LAUGHABLE.

OVERCROWDED LONDON.

Sir,—I should like to warn officers who may be coming to London on leave from the Rhine, of the utter impossibility of obtaining rooms in any London Hotel.

I arrived in London recently, and after trying quite thirty hotels, gave up the attempt, as they were all crowded out; beds on landings and in drawing rooms all taken, and no empty rooms for a month.

The only course is to book a room weeks in advance if possible, though I was assured in many cases that there would be no vacancies until after Christmas. A.W. ARNING.

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING.

Sir,—As a member of an old harrier Club I read with interest "Old Harrier's" letter on cross country running and I most heartily agree with his excellent suggestion of a properly organised Cross Country Championship for the Rhine Army in the early spring.

Now that the winter is rapidly approaching and the weather is becoming more and more unsettled I would hardly like to suggest cross country running owing to the state of the ground during the winter months but what I should love to see are properly organised teams for road running and plenty of inter-unit competitions and I am quite certain that they would be a great success and most beneficial to all who take part.

All that is necessary is for an Officer or N.C.O. in each unit to organise a team and take them for a run of from two to three miles twice weekly and arrange that a hot bath be available on return. The distance can gradually be increased if desired to 8 or 10 miles and the pace quickened.

To-day, in the Rhine Army, afternoons are devoted to Recreational Training and to many this merely means lying about in their barrackrooms or being compelled to watch others play football or hockey, the reason for this being that they are either not considered good enough to play for battalion or company teams or because they have never played these games before and know very little about them.

Some of these lads are very keen and I know would be very pleased to take an active part in something themselves.

BONNY MARY.

ENGLISH v. GERMAN.

Young Cohen Beats Willi Lohr on Points at Lunapark.

FURTHER CHALLENGES.

Although obviously out of condition Young Cohen, who recently won a Brigade championship, was given the verdict on Sunday night at the Münchener Bierhalle Lunapark, Cologne, after going the full ten 3-minute rounds against Willi Lohr.

The fight was the outcome of a challenge issued by Cohen to the German at the conclusion of a bout which the latter won against one of his fellow countrymen.

The hall was packed to the door and the evening sport was thoroughly enjoyable. Cohen boxed beautifully and his display was such as to indicate that he will go far in the pugilistic world. Lohr who was stronger and in better training also fought very well, but he could not overcome the agility of his opponent. The verdict was received with extraordinary enthusiasm.

The German then threw out a further challenge to Cohen for a prize offered by the Officers present. The fight will be arranged for this week.

Two Hefty Teutons.

Sunday night's programme also contained other interesting events. One of these was a heavy-weight bout between two hefty Teutons, one of whom recently held out for fifteen rounds against Otto Fant, champion of Berlin.

At the conclusion of the proceedings, challenges were handed out far and wide. Young Rohnoff, a promising German, offered to fight the winner in the Cohen-Lohr match.

Sgt. Harry Stone, whose name is not unknown in boxing circles, refereed.

BOXING AT COBLENTZ.

Royal Irish Pugilists Tackle Clever Yanks.

The weekly series of bouts was held on Saturday evening at Coblentz, when the following were the results:—

Sonberg v. McMahon, 5th R.I.Rgt.

This six-round bout was of a very clever and hard-hitting type, the Irishman getting slightly the better in the last three rounds which earned him the decision.

Murphy v. Marshall, 5th R.I.Rgt.

Both men were very clever, mixing freely, and fought a hard fight to a draw.

White U.S.A. v. Murray, 5th Royal Irish Rgt.

First round opened with both men watching closely for an opening with no success. In the second round White got to work, knocking the Irishman out.

Sgt. Brennan, Royal Irish v. Weingarten, M.G.C.

In round one a very sharp exchange was given, the Irishman getting the round. During the fighting in the second session the verdict was given to Brennan on a foul against Weingarten.

Pte. McMahon is well known in British circles and during his time on the continent has fought many contests,

Cpl. "Sid" Marshall is the clever London boxer of that name, and is late of the Royal Irish Fusiliers. When with this famous regiment his trainer was Cpl. McFerren, the English Amateur Champion.

Pte. Murray is a clever and skilful fighter, and has many wins to his credit.

Sgt. Brennan, who won on a foul, has several victories to his name, and is a past master at administering K.O's.

1st LONDON BRIGADE TOURNAMENT.

Interesting Bouts at Cologne Y.M.C.A., Yesterday.

There was a large gathering at the Central Y.M.C.A., Cologne, yesterday, when the 1st London Infantry Bde. staged an attractive tournament. The boxing, throughout the afternoon, was clean and invigorating. Lieut-Col. Webb-Bowen, D.S.O., 19th Middlesex, was the referee, and the judges were Major Keen, 6th Corps; Capt. Brow M.C., P. and R.T. and Capt. Wilkins, D.S.O., M.C.

The results were:—

Catch-weight:—1, Sergt. Pearl, 7th Middlesex Regt.; 2, Pte. Jacques, 24th Mx.

Middle-weights:—1, R.O.M.S. Fogg, 23 Mx: 2, Pte. Searby 23rd Mx.

Welter-weight:—1, Cpl. Stephens, 7th Mx.; 2, Cpl. Walters 23rd Mx.

Light-weight:—1. L/Cpl. Jewell 7th Mx.; 2, Sergt. Lipstake, 23rd Mx.

Feather-weight:—1, Pte. Colnet 23rd Mx.; 2, L/Col. Cripps 7th Mx.

Bantam-weight:—1, Pte. Sutton, 7th Mx.; Pte. Williams 23rd Mx.

Officers:—Major Johnstone, M.C. 23rd Mx., beat Lieut. Kerklove, 9th East Surreys.

Brig.-Gen. W. N. Williconbe, C.M.G., D.S.O., presented the prizes and referred in his speech to the sporting rivalry that existed between the Battalions in the Brigade. He announced that the 23rd Middlesex just topped the list in the tournament by a very small margin of points.

ROSSI-CONN SUSPENSIONS.

In regard to the suspensions for three months of the principals in the Rossi-Conn fight, a correspondent sends us the following:—

"In my opinion both boxers were so anxious to make certain of the right to meet the winner of the Honeyman-Marchant contest that they were disinclined to take risks, or provide openings. No gain could accrue to either boxer were any collusion aimed at, and I am convinced both were trying all they knew."

However the B.B. of C. have given their decision and there the matter rests. It has brought the manly sport into a certain amount of disrepute, and an early reproof by the referee might conceivably have brought about a different result. Boxing authorities are generally agreed that cautions should not be extended to "limelight" boxers, as they cannot plead ignorance of the subject concerned, but recent happenings seem to suggest that a change is necessary.

LINGFIELD MEETING.

Sou'wester Wins the October Nursery.

LARGE FIELDS.

The following were the results at Lingfield on Saturday when the weather was dull and the attendance large. The going was hard. Details:—

October Handicap: — 1, Sou'wester, colt (100—7); 2, Germinate (100—7); 3, Like Magic (100—6). Twenty-one ran.

Rustic Handicap: — 1, Paroisie (7—2); 2, Baguette (4—1); 3, Gally Strickland (10—1). Eleven ran.

Grimstead Plate: — 1, Marcia Blanch (5—2); 2, Pavomids (5—2); 3, Lord Quex (6—1). Eight ran.

Cage Plate: — Sudden Fancy (4—1); 1, Dapa filly (7—4 on); 3, Helencourt (20—1). Five ran.

Westerham Handicap: 1, Aris (2—1); 2, Good Game (4—1); 3, Black Lamb (100—8); Thirteen ran.

Non-stayers Plate: — 1, Flower Bed (5—1); 2, Goily Eyes (2—1); 3, Sundial (5—1). Eleven ran.

THREATENED STRIKE.

Failing Settlement, Stable-lads come out on Saturday.

At a meeting on Saturday night of Epsom stable-lads a report on the conference with the Trainers' Federation at Newmarket on Thursday respecting stable-lads' demands was considered.

It was decided to suspend the strike notice which should expire on Saturday for one week, and a deputation of stable-lads was appointed to meet the Trainers' Federation at Epsom on Thursday next.

Failing settlement then, the lads will come out on Saturday next.

A CLOSE TUSTLE.

A. D. Supplies. v. 37th Casualty Clearing Station.

The above teams met on the former's ground on Saturday and the game resulted in a win for the "Medics (1—0)., after a very evenly contested game.

After a spell of play in front of the home goal, Hopper opened the score for the "Medics." This put the home team upon their metal, who made many attacks upon the visitors goal, buth the 37th defence aided splendidly by the halves withstood all attacks and half-time arrived with the score 1-0 in favour of "37."

Play in the second half opened rather tamely, and then a fine run on the right was made by Smith, who centred very accurately to Wallace who sent in a good shot which was saved in splendid fashion by Cpl. Burgess, the 37th's custodian. A fine run was then made on the right by Sgt Hill, of the "Medics," but his centre was cleared by the home backs. Then followed an anxious time for "37," Wallace, of the home team, being a regular thorn in the side of the "Medics" defence. Both defences proved equal to the attacks and the final whistle blew with the result as stated. For the home team special mention must be made of Wallace, Smith and Williams who played a good, clean game throughout, and for the visitors, Birkinshaw, Cottage and Sgt. Hill were most conspicuous.

LEEDS CITY F. C.

Arrangements Made For Future of the Players.

The representatives of thirty English League clubs visited Leeds at the week-end to bid for the services of the twenty-five players attached to the Leeds City club, which recently collapsed as a result of inquiry into the conduct of its affairs.

A sub-committee of the League Management Committee, consisting of Messrs McKenna, Lewis, Sutcliffe, and Charnley, supervised the arrangements. The players, to the number of 25, were first called before the sub-committee, who paid their wages to date, and informed them that the player in every case would have the option of exercising his own choice as between the clubs desirous of obtaining his services.

With regard to the manager, Mr. R. Hewitson, and the trainer, Mr. R. Murrell it was explained that special arrangements were being made either to secure their future or to compensate them for any loss they might sustain.

Principal Transfers.

The transfer fees in the principal cases were fixed by the Committee as follows:—McLeod (inside left), Millership (right back), Hampson (left half), and Bainbridge (outside left), £1,000 each; Walker (goalkeeper), Lamph (right half), and Edmondson (centre-forward), £800 each; Price (inside right), £750; Affleck (left back), Goodwin (outside right), Kirton and Ashurst and Foley (half-back), £300.

In a few cases the transfer fees, by consent of the committee, were reduced. The following transfers were definitely arranged:—McLeod to Notts County; Walker and Hopkins to South Shields; Hampson and Kirton to Aston Villa; Millership and Lounds to Rotherham County; Price and Edmondson to Sheffield Wednesdey; Lamph to Manchester City; and Bainbridge to Preston North End.

It was also understood that Lincoln City had secured Ashurst, Linfoot, and Chipperfield from the Reserves team.

FOOTBALL GOSSIP.

Burnley's defence possesses in Jones and Smelt the youngest pair of backs in First Division football.

What would Aston give to be able to play R. Sloley the old Corinthian regularly. This famous amateur made all the difference in their only victory.

Lillycrop now with South Shields, made his name with North Shields Athletic. He is a resident of the south side of the river town.

In a recent game Brownlie, the famous "keeper," made a brilliant save with a host of opponents around him. "Why did you bounce the ball instead of getting it away first time?" he was asked. "Man", was the swift retort, "Did you no' see the photographers at the back wanting as napshot?"

WOLVERHAMPTON SCENE.

Referee Chased and Tripped up by the Crowd.

CELTIC'S RECORD BROKEN.

The match between Wolverhampton Wanderers and Bury on Saturday ended three minutes before time, the crowd resenting a penalty awarded to Bury. They chased and tripped up the referee, who reached the dressing-room with difficulty.

At Stoke, England won against Wales by two goals to nil. The game was fought at a good pace throughout, but England were superior, their rear Division being very sound, Hardy making none of the mistakes which Williamson was guilty of in last week's battle.

In the First Division the inability of the Villa to provide a win at home against lowly Preston created another big disappointment. The hope that they had turned the corner has not materialised. Newcastle's victory over Bradford by 4 clear goals makes interesting reading. Their young team is blending nicely, and they are making a bold bid for the head of the table.

Everton, as we have stated in these columns, will always do well in London. This is evidenced by a meritorious draw with the Arsenal. The away successes of Middlesboro', Burnley, and Chelsea rank as fine performances. While the Throstles' win at Bolton has pleased many followers of the game, the "Trotters" have lost popular sympathy by their refusal to allow Jennings and Smith to assist their country's teams.

Port Vale's Debut.

In the Second League, Port Vale, taking over Leeds City's fixtures, failed at Shields but this is no reflection on the Midland club. Tottenham succeeded to a good tune at Clapton, and Coventry upset all form by drawing at Craven Cottage.

Southern League football had its surprise when Reading accounted for the "Cobblers" at Northampton, the "Biscuit Town" men providing the only away win of the day. Crystal Palace and Portsmouth were each in a scoring mood, five goals being put on by both.

In Scotland the Celtic, hitherto all-conquering, bowed the knee at Ibrox. Considering Rangers recent form, this ranks as a splendid performance on their part. Ayr United had a scoring fit as also had Queens Park, six apiece being their contributions to the goal scoring list. Dundee upset Hamilton's home record and St. Mirren did well to win at Aberdeen.

Appended are the results:—

Victory International.

England	2	Wales	0

English League.—First Division.

Woolwich Arsenal	1	Everton	1
Aston Villa	2	Preston N.E.	4
Blackburn R.	1	Sheffield Wed.	0
Bolton Wand.	1	West Bromwich A.	2
Bradford City	2	Sunderland	0
Live pool	0	Chelsea	1
Manchester U.	1	Manchester City	0
Newcastle U.	4	Bradford	0
Notts County	2	Derby County	2
Oldham A.	1	Middlesbrough	2
Sheffield United	1	Burnley	3

Second Division.

Barnsley	5	Lincoln City	3
Blackpool	3	Birmingham	0
Bristol C.	2	Rotherham	1
Clapton Orient	0	Tottenham H.	4
Fulham	0	Coventry C.	0
Huddersfield	0	Leicester	0
Hull City	2	Nottingham Forest	0
South Shields	2	Barnsley P. V.	0
Stockport County	3	Stoke	1
West Ham	1	Grimsby	0
Wolverhampton	0	Bury	1

Southern League.

Brighton	3	Gillingham	0
Crystal Palace	5	Bristol R.	0
Millwall A.	2	Swansea	1
Northampton	1	Reading	3
Norwich City	4	Merthyr	0
Newport	0	Luton	0
Portsmouth	5	Southampton	1
Queen's Park R.	0	Cardiff	0
Southend	1	Plymouth A.	0
Watford	1	Brentford	0
Swindon	1	Exeter City	1

Scottish League.

Aberdeen R.	0	St. Mirren	1
Albion	1	Motherwell	1
Clyde	0	Heart of Mid	[illegible]
Clydebank	0	Third Lanark	0
Hibernians	6	Partick Thistle	2
Kilmarnock	3	Falkirk	0
Greenock	4	Dumbarton	0
Queen's Park	6	Ayr U.	3
Raith Rovers	3	Airdrieonians	1
Rangers	3	Celtic	0
Hamilton Acad	0	Dundee	1

Rugby.

Blackheath	5	Newport	13
London Welsh	4	Whitgiftians	0
Swansea	0	Llanelly	3
Leicester	24	Bristol	16
Richmond	6	United Services	1
Bath	11	Exeter	8
Northampton	27	Moseley	0
London Scottish	11	Rossiyn	9
Oxford	37	Merchant Taylors	0
Blackheath	0	Newport	4
Gloucester	10	Cardiff	3

WEST BROMWICH AND L. BOOKMAN.

Last week Luton Town made a great capture in securing the signature of L. Bookman, the Irish international outside left. When the attention of West Bromwich Albion was called to the fact that he had been registered by Luton with the Football Association and with the Southern League, they notified the club that he was their retained player, as they had offered him an engagement at a rate of remuneration which entitled them to his services.

The circumstances are peculiar, but it is clear that the Albion have a right to the player, and Luton at once admitted this. They are anxious to keep him on their books, and they are negotiating in a friendly way with the Albion for his transfer.

If the Albion, who paid £850 for his transfer, are willing to part with him, the only question to be settled will be the amount they will expect Luton to pay. If the sum demanded is too great for Luton, then Bookman must either play for West Bromwich or go out of first-class football in this country unless the Albion come to terms with another club.

SWEETHEARTS
read "The Cologne Post". Send it daily to yours.

VICTORY FOR INMAN.

Fine Display by Champion in Match with Reece.

OVERPLUS SPECTATORATE.

The rush of enthusiasts to witness the conclusion of the Inman-Reece billiards match at the Burroughes Hall on Saturday was so great that extra chairs had to be requisitioned to accommodate some of the overplus of spectators.

It may be recalled that Inman conceded Reece 1,000 start in 16,000 up for stakes of £200 deposited with the Editor of the "Sporting Life," and after apparently having had the game practically won last Tuesday evening (when he was 1,470 in front), he had latterly to struggle hard to avoid defeat.

The closing scores on Friday were as follows:—

Reece 14,322
Inman (in play) 13,986

At the final session on Saturday night Inman gave a fine display and the match concluded:—

Inman..... 16,000
Reece 15,452

RHINE ARMY BILLIARDS.

Schedule of Second Y.M.C.A. Tournament.

The second Y.M.C.A. billiard tournament is fixed to commence on Oct. 27th, 1919. All who wish to compete should enquire at the nearest Y.M.C.A. hut at once. Entrance fee is two marks.

Four prizes are offered, so that all semi-finalists in the Tournament receive a prize.

A Shield is offered to the winner of three Championship games consecutively.

SCHEDULE. 1st SERIES — 100 UP.

Y.M.C.A. hut leaders will arrange for eliminating games to be played during the period Oct. 27th—30th inclusive.

The name of the winner of final game must be sent to Corps Librarians to reach him or her by first post, Nov. 2nd.

2nd SERIES — 150 UP.

Corps will arrange for the winner of each Hut centre to play in eliminating games during the period Nov. 4th—8th inclusive. The winner's name of the final game must be forwarded to W.F. Cutbush, Esq., Y.M.C.A. H.Q. Rhine Army, not later than Nov. 11th.

SEMI-FINAL and FINAL — 250 UP.

These games will be played at Kalk Bakeries, Y.M.C.A., on November 15th, 1919. Play will commence at 15.00 hours. A full-sized billiard table will be used for the semi-finals and final.

"MEDICALS" BEATEN.

51st NORTHUMBERLAND FUSILIERS v. 36 C.C.S.

At Sulz on Thursday. Shortly after play commenced, the 51st broke away and L/Cpl. Pigg put in a good centre from which L/Cpl. Storey scored. The same player, a few minutes after, put the Fusiliers further ahead with a good shot. After this, the 36th C.C.S. got going and through a misunderstanding on the part of the 51st defence Cpl. Thompson had no difficulty in scoring. L/Cpl. Storey completed the hat-trick shortly before half time. After the interval the 51st were awarded a penalty from which Lieut. Veitch scored. Further goals were added by Sgts. Mole and Wood. For the visitors, Pte. Ayres in goal and Sgt. Lewis at back were in fine form and for the 51st L Cpl. Pigg, L/Cpl. Storey and Pte. Wilson were the outstanding players.

The teams were: 36 C.C.S. Pte. Ayres; Sgt. Lewis, Cpl. Hilton; Pte. Taylor, Pte. Nicholson, Pte. Kirk; Pte. Trotts, Cpl. Thompson, Cpl. Gregory. Pte. Harrison and Pte. Raby. Fusiliers: Lieut. Renshaw; Sgt. Osborne, Pte. Cope; Pte. Wilson, Lieut. Veitch, Lieut. Thomas, Sgt. Wood, Sgt. Mole, L/Cpl. Storey, C.S.M. Murray, L/Cpl. Pigg. Result: Fusiliers 6; 36 C.C.S. 1.

SPORT IN BRIEF.

Birchfield Harriers.

The assets of the Birchfield Harriers amount to £992. At a meeting in Birmingham it was reported that a profit of £223 had been made.

Joe Beckett at York.

The heavy-weight champion, Joe Beckett, assisted on Tuesday night at the first of a series of tournaments to be held this month at York, where he boxed exhibitions with his sparring partners.

W. Escott's Death.

W. Escott, whose death is reported, was only married this year to the daughter of the trainer bachelor. It may be remembered that he rode Troytown to victory in the Grand Steeplechase de Paris.

Lowe's Injuries.

Mr. R.O. Lowe, the Old Merchant Taylors' forward, who in the match with Blackheath on the Rectory Field last Saturday was carried off the ground suffering from bad concussion, is making satisfactory progress towards recovery from the injury.

Lady Earn's Jockey.

In the event of Lady Earn not changing hands before the race, Ringstead will probably ride her in the Cambridgeshire. She, however, comes under the hammer shortly.

Fleming Well Again.

H. Fleming, the international inside-right, who strained some muscles when last out for Swindon, is now fit again. He is expected to turn out on Saturday for his club in their important home game with Exeter City.

Yorkshire Golf Professionals.

The Yorkshire Professionals Foursomes Tournament, played on the Pannal course, Harrogate, resulted as follows:—A. Beck (Filey) and O. Sanderson (Bradford) beat E. Smith (Halifax West End) and H. Loveridge (Shipley) by 4 up and 3 to play.

Walton Heath Ladies.

The ladies' autumn meeting of the Walton Heath Club concluded yesterday, when the bogey competition ended in a win for Mrs. Gordon Brown, all square, with Mrs. Patay, 4 down, second.

MATCH AGAINST TIME.

Pony Backed to Trot One Mile in 2 min. 50 secs.

BRILLIANT ATTEMPT.

A mixed meeting of trotting and other events was held last week in the Blackpool Meadow, Micheldean, Gloucestestershire.

The principal item was a trotting match against time, in which Mr. Wilce backed his pony Master Wally to trot one mile in 2 min. 50 sec. The match arose through a previous event which was won by Master Wally, and in which he trotted the mile in 3 min. 35½ sec.

On this occasion he was driven in fine style by Ben Gough, of Cheltenham, and crossed the line amidst loud cheering in the time of 2 min. 47⅘ sec., which, considering the nature of the course, was an excellent performance.

FOUL PLAY.

Some Remarks By Notable Football Official.

I want to write a few words about foul play (says W. Pickford in the "Daily News"). I have just had to sign the suspension of a player for kicking an opponent, and I am unable to understand why skilled and expert players do it. There is aggravation in all games, but if Stevenson pots Reece in a billiard match, the latter would not dream of clouting him on the ear. No one ever heard of Dr. Grace taking the law into his own hands at cricket.

Football is, I am still acutely aware, after many years, a game that inflicts bruises and sharp pains at times. That is no reason for retaliation, though I always understood the case of the young artilleryman, who hit an opponent and then apologised with the naive remark, "Sorry, sir, but it's so — exciting."

When Football was Forbidden.

After all the correct diagnosis of an offside doubt is of no importance compared with the proper conduct of a game. Football has always suffered from the bad blood of a minority ever since the day when Edward II. forbade it, and James I. (of Scotland) enacted that "no man shall play football hereafter, under a penalty of 50d."

The tendency has been, and is, to leave the matter entirely in the hands of referees. Of course they have a duty to the game, and no wise man would seek to shield an incompetent handler of players; but I do think there are at least three factors in the question quite equally responsible. These are the referees, the players, and the clubs.

Primarily, the referee is the chief factor. Players may ostracise a colleague who brings the game into disrepute; officials may use their influence, and spectators can show their disapproval; but the referee has alone full authority to act.

LONDON CLUB CRICKET.

Radius Increased to within Thirty Miles of Charing Cross.

The cricket fixture meeting of the London Club Cricket Conference at the Fyvie Hall, the Polytechnic, Regent-st., was preceded by a council meeting, presided over by Mr. W. H. Wheeler (North Middlesex), at which it was agreed to reconstruct the conference, and increase the radius for membership to within about thirty miles of Charing Cross. The conference has now 182 affiliated clubs, and county sections have been allocated for Kent, Surrey, Middlesex, Essex, Bucks, and Herts.

The council regretted having to accept the resignation of Sir Home Gordon, Bart, as president; and it was reported that a joint deputation of the Cricket Conference and the National Sporting Conference had met the L.C.C. as to the preservation of the London private sports grounds. The council decided to defer the question of district representative games to the general meeting.

TOLL OF THE WAR.

Famous Yachts Mined or Sunk by Gunfire.

An interesting return has just been made by the Admiralty, which shows the number of steam yachts lost on war service, chiefly in the auxiliary patrol. The total of thirteen includes many famous vessels.

In 1915 five were lost. The first was Rhiannon, 137 tons, sunk by a mine over eleven months after the outbreak of hostilities. A few days later Clementina, 625 tons, was abandoned after having been in collision. Sanda, 351 tons, was next sunk by gunfire off the Belgian coast, and amongst those who lost their lives were Lieut.-Commander H. T. Gartside Tipping, R.N., a very popular East Coast and Isle of Wight yachtsman, who rejoined the Navy although well over age.

Other craft sunk were the Duke of Leeds, Aries, 268 tons, and the Royal Motor Yacht Club's floating clubhouse Enchantress. Aries was sunk by a mine and Enchantress destroyed by fire.

Curiously enough, the losses in 1916 also totalled five. They were Sir Walpole Greenwell's Hersilia, 454 tons; the Duc de Montpensier's Mekong, 899 tons (both wrecked); Sir Thomas Lipton's Erin, which was sunk either by a mine or submarine in the Mediterranean; Lord Rosebery's Zaida, 350 tons, sunk by submarine in the Gulf of Alexandretta; and the Duke of Manchester's Conqueror II., mined.

In 1917 the losses were only three in number. These were Verona, 437 tons, and Zarefah, 279 tons, sunk by mines, and Kethailes, 611 tons, which sank after a collision off Blackwater Lightship.

MEASURED GOLF DRIVES.

Remarkable figures were achieved in a stroke contest at Sandylodge on Saturday. For the morning round Braid averaged 230 3/4 yards, Herd 221, Vardon 213, and Taylor 203.

In the afternoon the averages were Braid 225, Taylor 212, Vardon 211, and Herd 205.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Tues.	Orpheus and Eurydice	Gluck	8	10.15
Wed.	The Flying Dutchman	Wagner	7	10
Thurs.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10
Fri.	Cosi fan tutte	Mozart	7	10.30
Sat.	Tiefland	d'Albert	7.30	10
Sun.	[illegible]	Gounod	6	10.30
Mon.	NO PERFORMANCE
Tues.	NO PERFORMANCE

At the Leave Club.

On Sunday, the Band of the 20th K.R.R.C. very kindly gave a most enjoyable concert to a crowded hall at the British Empire Leave Club. Among their selections were the "Passing Show," "O solo mio," by Capua and "Valley of Laughter," by Saunderson, all of which were very much appreciated. Rfmn. Green sang with great charm, "There's a Land, dear Land" which met with great applause, and "For you alone," and later in the programme he gave "Nirvana" which was loudly encored. Major Bowen, who, I regret to say, will not be able to sing for us again owing to his departure for England, gave four most delightful songs, amongst which were the "Deathless Army" and "Behold the Dawn," which were received with well-merited applause. Miss Majorie Moore was unable to sing owing to a severe cold.

Substitute Programme.

Demobilization has so depleted the ranks of the Braganza Concert Party that they will be unable to give a performance at the British Empire Leave Club to-night, but by kind permission of the Y.M.C.A., Mr. Herring, who is so well-known for his illusions, is most generously coming to give a performance, which will be looked forward to by all.

In Few Words.

At the orchestral concert at the 6th Corps Officers' Club to-morrow the brilliant lady harpist, Frau Hauskeller, will appear.

Still they go. One of the latest entertainers to be "demobbed" is Jack Knight, late of the Rascals Concert Party. Would that I could add, "He never will be missed!"

JACQUES.

IS YOUR COUPON POSTED?

Results of Contest No. 4 to be Published on Thursday.

Saturday's results which are reviewed in another column again deceived numerous competitors, the defeats of Celtic and Sunderland tripping many.

We hope to publish the result of No 4 contest on Thursday. This week's appears below. You may send any number of entries providing the correct amount required is enclosed.

Our prize money is steadily mounting, and the winner is certain of a substantial amount. Do not fold your coupons or pin them together. Slip them into an envelope and post it now.

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 5,
"Cologne Post,"
A.P.O. S.40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4 In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 5.

Date of matches, Saturday, Oct. 25th.
Closing date, Friday, Oct. 24th.

Preston N. E.	v. Newcastle U.
Sheffield U.	v. Manchester U.
Bradford	v. Chelsea
Grimsby	v. Hull C.
Bury	v. South Shields
Lincoln	v. Clapton Orient
Notts Forest	v. Wolverhampton
Swansea	v. Brighton
Exeter	v. Millwall
Luton	v. Portsmouth
Airdrieonians	v. Hamilton A.
Motherwell	v. Kilmarnock

I enter Football Competition No. 5 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Popular Soccer.

Rambling on Sunday morning I was struck by the number of football matches that were taking place. In every glade there seemed to be a game in progress, the linesmen in most cases being small boys while the adults played. At one match the referee was a clergyman.

Railway Carriage Doors.

The opening of carriage doors as a train enters a station is always a dangerous practice. I notice that cases have occurred at Cologne Main station resulting in injury to railway personnel.

Another Hardship.

The nobleman who complained in the "Letter Box" that the trams always passed the end of the street before he reached it and wanted the authorities to do something about it, reminds me forcibly of the agitator in Hyde Park who demanded in raucous tones, "Let them bring the food to our 'omes. Why should we perishing toilers be forced to fetch it? Bring it to our 'omes, I say!"

Hard Times.

It is rather pathetic to hear of the number of ex-officers who were so eager for demobilization early in the year, writing to their comrades out on the Rhine and expressing their regret at having left the Army for what: Disillusion, I fear.

Car Lights.

The electric headlights on the cars of Cologne are not, as many suppose, put there to illuminate the destination boards. They are part of a system of coloured indicators which can allow one to tell the number and route of the car while yet afar off.

Did he See Double?

I saw him gazing at the Dom yesterday morning. He seemed fresh to Cologne. "I can't make it out what they do with the other two spires in the daytime", he said with a puzzled air, "I'll swear there were four last night."

Object to the Wine.

The number of Officers in the cabarets still remains small. Very many object to be under the obligation after having paid for admission to swallow the inferior wines for which high prices are asked. Rhine wine, especially the stuff sold today, is not everyone's fancy.

What is Wanted.

Undoubtedly the great need in Cologne is of a proper variety theatre such as we have at home and in other large towns in Germany, where you pay a fair price for your seat and are not expected to contribute to the artistes' salaries out of the profits on high-priced drinks.

Too Demonstrative.

An officer was giving a demonstration in the N.A.C.B. Club the other day of German methods of boxing. After a vivid description of what he witnessed at Luna Park, he did a sudden side-step to add colour to his arguments. Having failed to observe a table, well laden with glasses and bottles in the vicinity, he collided violently with it. Result:—An irate major, half saturated with varied drinks; a heap of broken glass and a blushing, very embarrassed sub, making voluble apologies.

Be Wary.

Difficulty in obtaining alcohol is holding up the manufacture of Eau de Cologne. Beware of substitutes.

For Old Cliftonians.

On the 25th I hear there is to be a dinner of Old Cliftonians in Cologne and any who wish to attend should communicate with Major G. Flemming, X. Corps, H.Q. stating house and dates between which they were at the school.

Historic.

The N.A.C.B. Canteen and recreation hall in the Sternengasse should be visited, if only by reason of the fact that it is housed in a building historically famous. Peter Paul Rubens is said to have been born there, and this is inscribed in a plaque on the front of the building. Then, too, Maria de Medicis, wife of Henri IV of France, died there.

Impressive.

I dropped into the Apostles' Church off the Neumarkt on Sunday afternoon. It was the only church I hadn't seen in Cologne, but I came away impressed with its atmosphere of almost Oriental mystery. It was shrouded in semi-darkness throwing up the lighted altar — entirely golden — into strong relief.

A Mystery.

Have you seen that striking and rather gruesome poster with a masked head under the slogan—"Dead or not Dead?" It advertises a new serial detective story in a German paper and a prize of 1000 marks is offered for a correct solution of the mystery.

Like our Fags.

There seems to be an absolute glut of Virginia cigarettes in the shops that used to be exclusively devoted to cigars. The Germans have got the "yellow peril" fever very badly, it appears.

Rates of Exchange.

The rate of exchange from the 16th to the 31st of this month fixes the value of 10 marks as 1s. 10d. One mark equals 31 centimes (French or Belgian) and 5 francs (French or Belgian) equals 2s. 10d.

From Knockaloe.

With commendable enterprise the German promoters of a boxing tournament state on the programmes the British associations of some of the competitors. "Late of London" may mean anything or nothing, but surely it is stretching matters to put Knockaloe behind the names of two pugilists. Knockaloe of course was the big internment camp in the Isle of Man, and it is possible the boxer learnt his art there.

Will the Blow Fall?

What is this terrifying rumour as to the withdrawal of Field Allowances? Many officers with blanched, frightened looking faces have been making anxious enquiries lately.

At Great Personal Risk.

Not long ago at Heumarkt a pair of horses drawing a wagon bolted, throwing the driver of the box. Corporal Watkins, M.M.P., galloped alongside the runaways and seized hold of the reins of one of the horses. He succeeded in bringing the animals to a standstill, although he was dragged from his own horse and along the street. By his disregard of personal safety he undoubtedly averted a serious accident and possibly saved the lives of two valuable horses. The Commander-in-Chief has expressed his appreciation of this act of courage.

The Real Stuff.

A Mess near Cologne was growing heartily sick of German pastry family. The other day they found a cook who had served with a North Country family and now they revel in unlimited "plum-duff" treacle "roly-poly" and Yorkshire pudding.

Welcome Home.

The German prisoners arriving from England and France at Coln-Deutz are met by German Red Cross Frauleins who provide them with food, chocolate, cigarettes, newspapers, souvenirs, flowers, smiles and kisses.

Zepp Street.

I see there is a Zeppelinstrasse leading off the Neumarkt in Cologne

Souvenirs.

Talking of Zepps and things like that, have you noticed those photos sold in the shops, of wrecked houses taken just after our airmen had been at work last year avenging the German air raids. They are instructive.

Open Windows.

The custom of leaving shop windows unshuttered during Sunday — one that is growing too in England — always strikes me as an excellent one. Very often you have leisure on Sunday to select from a window something that you go and buy on Monday.

An Indignant tram Driver.

I have often deplored my ignorance of the German language but never more than a few evenings ago in Marzellen Strasse. An irate driver of a tramcar was evidently pouring a flood of vituperation on the head of a lorry driver who was impeding his progress. The latter preserved an air of serene unconcern and went on unloading his lorry much to the amusement of a crowd of onlookers — and incidentally to the chagrin of the tramcar passengers. The driver's remarks — if printable — would have made interesting reading.

Germans Buying Goods.

A British business man tells me that he is astounded by the eagerness with which German traders will snap up any goods he has to sell. This is remarkable in view of the low value of the mark.

Economy.

Have you noticed in the forest country how at each haltstelle, the driver with a handset, jumps off the tram, enters the waiting hall, and adjusting the instrument, telephones through to the main station? The message despatched, he disconnects the instrument and handset in hand, resumes his driver's post, repeating the performance at each stopping place. Thus one handset serves for a whole route and the need for a watchman or operator at each station is obviated.

French Books.

An officer asks me where he can buy French books, including novels, in Cologne. My experience is that only a few shops have any, and then the selection is very limited. But perhaps I haven't found that right place.

Sold Out.

Lots of people, I hear, are finding that if they don't get out early in the morning for their copy of "The Post" they are greeted with the cry of "Sold out." We are going strong in the circulation line, I can tell you.

RHINELANDER.

FOR BUSINESS MEN IN RHINELAND.

ADVICE TO BRITISH TRADERS.

INFORMATIVE ITEMS FROM ALL SOURCES.

Mr. Hertz, of Hertz & Co. New York and London has just returned from a lengthy tour of all the important business centres in both occupied and unoccupied Germany. He has interviewed Erzberger and other interesting personalities at Berlin and many heads of businesses and industrial chiefs. The main point Mr. Hertz emphasizes is the necessity for the British manufacturer who is competing for foreign trade to be willing to adapt both his goods and his methods to suit his prospective customers in the country in which he is endeavouring to gain a footing. Advertising material price lists and so on must be in the language of the people receiving it and if possible (and generally it is possible) weights, measurements and prices also conforming to the established system.

These points have, of course, many times been dealt with before, but cannot be too often represented. Other things being equal, the order will always go to the firm submitting information and particulars in a readily understandable way. The Rhineland is being flooded with circulars and commercial literature mostly in English and it should be pointed out that this is largely wasted in spite of the number of German business men who speak English. The writer has even seen a circular letter from an Italian firm in Sicily sent to German business houses, all in English. Presumably this is their circular for the British market, but surely it would have paid to have printed a special translation for Germany. So is good money continually thrown away.

The following information has been addressed by the German Chamber of Commerce to the French Section, in connection with the establishment of branches in Cologne. Business men desirous of establishing branches in Cologne are required to fulfil the following formalities: (1) To get registered at the Tribunal (Amtsgericht) Section—Handelsregister, Cologne, Dept. 24 Reichensperperplatz, giving all particulars according to form supplied. (2) To obtain, by written application, permission to carry on business, from the Prussian minister for Commerce and Industry (Preussischer Minister für Handel and Gewerbe at Berlin).

On the form referred to, space is left for the enquirer to write in particulars under the following heads: Firm, legal, constitution of the business, object, address, proprietor or partners, size and offices, depots, manufacture, tenant, capital, turnover, taxes, banking connections, Post cheque account (this is an institution of the German Post Office very useful to business men) telegraphic address, telephone, book keeping system, machinery, other remarks.

The free town of Dantzig announces an International Fair for next spring Application for allotments and other communications may be addressed to "The Fair Office, Dantzig."

Mr. Robarts of Robarts and Quantock has arrived from Calais with a large stock of goods. The firm are now installed in their much more convenient premises at 100 Hohestrasse, over the Chamber of Commerce.

In accordance with the recent decision of the Government, a general authority has been issued to the Custom authorities under which all articles covered by the regulation as to the importation of paper were admitted into this country without licence as from August 29th. The Paper Import Restrictions Department, at 23, Buckingham Gate, S.W. 1, closed on September 6th, and further communications on the subject should be addressed to the Department of Import Restrictions, 22, Carlisle Place, S.W.1.

The internationalization of all patents was urged at the International Congress, which was held at Brussels at the beginning of the month, at which representatives of all the principal countries were present. The Belgian Minister of Industry and Works suggested that the city of Liége should be chosen as the future seat of the Universal Union of Inventions.

Mr. Lee of Flights Ltd. is now back in Cologne from London and has an extensive range of new patterns and materials for both civilian and military outfits. He has all information respecting the new approved Air Force uniform, and will be pleased to answer all enquiries respecting this.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Hats off.—To-day is "Nelson Day."

Down Under.—Australia is in the throes of a miners' strike.

One of our Jobs.—Many Russian officers are being trained at Newmarket.

Splendid.—Uruguay has just come into line and ratified the Peace Treaty.

Useful Work. — Blinded soldiers are proving very successful as masseurs.

Doctors Now.—French medical men are agitating for an eight-hour day.

Great Contralto.—Madame Clara Butt is shortly to be seen in opera.

Base Uses.—Old Army boots are to be used for fertilizing the soil.

London Politics.—Two million electors can vote at the London municipal elections on November 1st.

British War Dogs.—Colonel Richardson, who trained war dogs, is to write his experiences.

Cutting Down.—Large reductions are being made in the Dockyard Staff at Portsmouth.

Big Fight.—The Socialists are making a big bid for control in the London Boroughs at the forthcoming elections.

State "Pubs" Pay.—The State made a quarter of a million profit on the public-houses it controlled during the war.

Cattle in Demand.—Scottish shorthorns are fetching big prices. One was bought recently for 4,600 guineas.

The Oyster Feed.—The Colchester Oyster Feast abandoned during the war is being revived to-day.

Making good.—For rebuilding the Somme village 20.000 German workmen will be requisitioned.

Uncertainty.—The Government has not decided whether to continue the Citizen Guards called up during the recent strike.

Share Gambling.—There is a speculative fever in India just now and many new companies are being floated.

Needs Funds.—The bank overdraft of Bart.'s Hospital has reached the respectable figure of £38.000.

Raised From The Dead.—A Burmese woman in Bombay claims she can bring the dead to life.

South African Soldier.—The chief instigator of eight murders, a South African, has been shot at Lille.

Beagles Revived.—The pack beagles at Eton college, stopped last year owing to food economy are to be re-started.

Huge Theatre.—The largest theatre in the world will be the Capitol at New York, now being completed.

Titles on the Film.—Lady Doris Stapleton is appearing in the movies as a coster queen.

Plying for Hire.—A new type of motorcycle taxi-cab is being placed on the London streets.

Lamentable.—It is rumoured that the economy campaign will mean the death-knell of cadet battalions in England.

Good at Counting?—Great Britain needs over a million houses. This will entail the use of 25,000,000,000 bricks.

Not Much Fun.—An ex-stationmaster on the G.W.R. who is 94 years old is a non-drinker, non-smoker and a vegetarian.

Hay Rations.—The shortage of hay in England being so serious, it will be strictly rationed.

Steady There!—Many cases of exceeding the speed limit on motor cars are occurring near London.

Scout's Jamboree.—Boy Scouts will hold a big tournament at Olympia next August.

Cold Scholars.—Owing to the lack of coal, the suspension of school instruction is reported from every part of Germany.

The Poor Curate. — Canon Green of Salford says that carters are better paid than the average curate to-day.

Novelist's Illness.—Mrs. Florence Barclay, the novelist, has undergone a serious operation, but is now making good progress.

Want Wives.—Replies to the letter of the Bishop of Olmütz, Czecho-Slovakia, show that the majority of priests favour the abolition of celibacy.

Red Cross Donations.—Sir Dennis Bayley, who raised £287,000 for the Red Cross has been presented with a piece of silver plate.

After Long Years.—Ex-Corporal Goodhall at one time orderly to King Edward has just received the Meritorious Service Medal. He left the Guards 33 years ago.

Have to Part.—The impression that ex-soldiers are not liable for Income Tax for twelve months after demobilization is quite incorrect.

Discharged.—A new army of unemployed women will be created by the end of the year. About 75,000 additional girls are to be thrown out of work.

Expensive Luxury.—The recent railway strike is variously estimated as having cost the country from fifty to a hundred millions.

Mayoral Tragedy.—Mr. Peter Gilston, an ex-Lord Mayor of Leeds, has met a tragic death. He was killed by a motorbus in Parliament square, London.

Have you seen the Shah?—The Shah of Persia is due to arrive in London at the end of this month. Several of his predecessors have made noteworthy ceremonial visits to England.

Runaway Car.—A tramcar in Aberdeen ran away through the driver fainting. It was finally stopped by a young man on the car who had no knowledge of its mechanism.

Sacrilege.—The proposal to erect a factory close to Shakespeare's house in Stratford-on-Avon is being opposed vigorously.

King's Cellarer.—Major Kingscote is to be the new "Gentleman of the King's Wine Cellars," an ancient position in the Royal Household.

Irish Playwright.—A new writer of plays has been found in Mr. Herbert French. His "Napoleon" is being produced by the Stage society.

Better Than Never.—Bombardier W. Williams (R.G.A.) of Chew Magna has just received Princess Mary's Christmas gift which was posted to him at Portsmouth in 1914.

Criminal Squandering.—At the Westminster Profiteering Committee the chairman said the Government made two hundred millions out of profiteering and then wasted it.

THE FEELING OF RHINELAND.

Recently there appeared in the "Daily Chronicle" an article written by Mr. Philip Gibbs under the title of "Europe after the Storm; Rhineland Reviving under British Rule."

The well-known war correspondent here writes on the Germans in the occupied territory. In the course of the article he says, speaking of the Rhinelanders, "They acknowledge now that Germany at the dictation of Prussia fought an aggressive war."

Now I, who have been in the Rhineland since last December, have lost no opportunity of speaking to the people—in billets, farms and beer taverns, and with educated people of all classes, and have never yet met anyone who would admit that Germany began the war, or wanted it.

Russia and France are always said to have caused the war—Russia, by her hurried mobilization, which was a grave menace to Germany because of the absolutely open frontiers of East Prussia, and France by her implacaple hatred and call for "Räche für 1870" which were a bar to any possible understanding.

Some of the better-educated, in the light of recent revelations, blame the now derelict empire of Austria-Hungary, which did not keep Germany well-informed of every step in the negotiations, who therefore acted blindly on half-knowledge. But never will anyone admit that Germany was to blame.

Mr. Philip Gibbs says too, "They, (the Rhinelanders), realise that the German Armies were actually beaten in the field, instead of being forced to surrender by the break-up of the civil population owing to hunger."

The people with whom I have spoken will not admit this. Only a few weeks ago a well-read man emphatically declared to me that the German Armies were not beaten. "Only look," he said, "at the area of the country we occupied in Belgium and France and in the Balkans; we were not beaten."

Everyone says that if the United States had not entered on our side they would have easily won—and truly they went very near, as any British soldier who was in the March retirement well knows.

The general tenor of Mr. Philip Gibbs' observations coincide with what I have observed—that the gospel of hatred in its most venomous form has died, but there is no doubt that the people cordially hate us as a nation, a hatred which is sometimes but very thinly veiled, but as individuals they have learnt to like us, as a rule.

It is rather noticeable that many of the inhabitants will not admit that they are Prussians. "We are Rhinelanders," they say, "not Prussians." Some seem to realise now that the name of Prussia is abhorred throughout the world—outside Prussia.

Many writers have tried to prove that the people of the Rhineland are semi-French in feeling and thoughts, and not true Prussians, but this is a fallacy. Although many are of French extraction, they bear no love towards the land of their forefathers.

The chief cause of the rancour against England, I think, is the fact that had we not entered the lists against them, they know they would have won. Their pride in proud Prussia; her almost unbroken record of victorious wars; their belief in her invincibility sedulously fostered by Berlin; their dreams of world-dominion—all this to be shattered by the decadent islanders of Britain is as bitter as gall to them, and the hatred will never die—they have by no means forgotten, but will rise again one day to claim their "Rightful Heritage, the Earth." E. J. L.

We pay for all literary contributions to "The Cologne Post," and are pleased to consider articles, humorous sketches and poems by members of the Rhine Army. No article should exceed 500 words, and even shorter ones can be submitted.

VENUS PENCILS

You don't know what pencil perfection is until you try "VENUS." For easy writing, sketching, draughting, chose from the 17 superb degrees. They are made of pure smooth-as-satin graphite tempered to perfection.

17 Degrees Black Lead, 6B (softest to 9 H (hardest) and in 3 styles copying

Of all Stationers and Stores throughout the world.

"VENUS," 173/5, Lower Clapton-road, London, E. 5.

VENUS for Every pencil purpose

Well organised manufacture in occupied territory with stocks of coal and raw material wants to make patented articles in the iron and steel branch not under a strength of 1/2 inch.

Off. to Df. H. 4894, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

ALLIES VICTORY MEDAL
GENERAL SERVICE MEDAL
1914—1915 —— MEDAL

We stock all these Ribbons together with a wide range of Decoration & War Ribbons.

Any Combination Mounted on Brooch Bars. MONS ROSETTES. Miniature Medals and ribbons & all Military and Naval Requirements

NO ORDER TOO SMALL FOR ATTENTION. SPECIAL QUOTATIONS FOR LARGE QUANTITIES ... WRITE TODAY FOR WHAT YOU WANT TO—

I. MARCUS & Co
Dept. C
54a HOUNDSDITCH
LONDON E. 1.
ENGLAND
TERMS—CASH WITH ORDER

Automobile Repairs
efficient, quickly, cheaply, with modern equipment.
A. Villinger, Bensberg
Telephone 58
Engineers & Metal Workers
Up-to-date Welding.

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S./40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

Second-hand cameras, mirror reflex cameras in great variety, cameras with Zeiss, Goerz, Voigtländer. Optic for sale cheap. Max Frein, Inhaber August Lang, Photo-Handlung, Cöln, Kleine Neugasse 9-11.

WAR SOUVENIRS. Paper Money representing nearly every town in Germany. 700 variaties including many rare specimens. Also many interesting coins. Price 1250 Mks. Reply Box S.M.I. Cologne Post A.P.O./S. 40.

ONE MONTHS' subscription to the Cologne Post including postage for sale. Price 15 Marks. Have it sent home daily.

SECOND HAND Camera Goerz-Tenax Dogmar 6 1/2 × 9 double Anastr. F : 4,5 with leather case and 3 double cases to sell at 700 Marks. Apply at Kunar, Lungengasse 2 part.

GOERTZ-ANSCHUTZ Camera 9×12 almost new with Dagor shutter 1/1000 second, for plates and films, to be sold with case. POHL, Boisseréestr. 12, 1st floor, near Hohenstaufen bath.

WANTED.

DEMOBILISED English Girl as nurse to British Officers' little Girl, age 3 1/2. Wages £26 per annum. To remain on Rhine until February. Required about third week in November. Apply Box 208, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

PRISMATIC binoculars, Zeiss or Goerz, new or second-hand. 30 mm 6, central focussing. Or special 40 mm O.Gs. For particulars & price to Box 200, Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40.

EVERY DEMOBBED soldier wanted to continue reading the Cologne Post in Blighty. Send 15 Marks for one month's subscription now.

STOCK ROOM wanted. One with office preferred. Must be in good position. Box 199, Cologne Post. A.P.O./S.40.

VARNISH-FIRM wants English Varnish. Off. A. 295 Cologne Post A.P.O./S. 40.

TRUMPET-CORNET SOLOIST as partner in and to rehearse Musical act for production on British Variety Stage after demobilization. Apply Box 210. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

LOST.

THE COLOGNE POST lost daily, owing to not sending subscription before demob. Send 15 Marks now with your Blighty address.

LOST in or near German Church, Sandergasse, jade and diamond drop ear ring about 12.00 hours Sunday. Suitable reward will be given on returning same to Cologne Post Office Box 20.

LOST, an amber bracelet on Sunday evening, between Bayenthal Gurtal and Ewige Lampe. Reward on returning to 28, Bayenthal Gurtal.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PIANO LESSONS. Lady, highly recommended. 126, Argelanderstrasse, Bonn.

SITUATIONS VACANT.

ENGLISH GIRL, being demobilised, wanted as nurse for British Officers' little girl, age 2, in Cologne for 3 or 4 months. Reply by Friday to Box 211, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S 40.

TRADE.

DEMOBILISED N.C.O. Englishman with connection with the best wholesale houses in England wishes to act as agent for German manufacturers in the following goods: Steel Goods, Fancy leather goods Toys of all descriptions and other suitable lines. Particulars to R. H. Parkinson junr., Maudland Bank, Haslingden nr. Manchester, England.

PERSONAL.

ENGLISH OFFICER (after Demobilisation) with permanent residence in Cologne and good business connections in England will accept agencies from first-class Firms. Write to Box 137 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

LANGUAGES.

GERMAN, well educated young lady, wishes to have conversation with an English lady for exchange of languages. Write Käthe R. 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

PROFESSOR at Grammar-School gives German and French lessons to children, ladies and gentlemen. Apply to A 294 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

SPORT.

FOOTBALL: Matches wanted, home and away. 3rd Traffic Control Squadron, Cologne.

THE N.A.B.C. FOOTBALL CLUB require Home and Away Matches for the first and second Elevens. All Dates open except November, 5th and 14th. Replies to:—Secretary, N.A.C.B., Football Club, N.A.C.B., Headquarters, Rhine Army.

DENTISTRY.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH. Crowns, Bridges etc. best material; good workmanship. Quickest manufacture, repairing. Dental Laboratory. C. KOWALD, 831 Schildergasse.

Before you return to England you can have made Artifical Teeth, Gold-Crowns, Bridges etc. (if required in one day) by E. Kierst, Dentist Cologne, Kaiser Wilhelm-Ring 41, behind the Emperor William monument. Hours of consultation 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

DENTIST C. OTTEN, Salierring 51, close to Barbarossaplatz. High-class dentistry, gold crowns, bridge work, painless extractions. Consulting hours 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. English spoken. Phone: B 1856.

DON'T FORGET THIS

* THE COLOGNE POST *
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks.

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, October 21, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S/40 British Army of the Rhine.

FIRST WITH THE NEWS IN RHINELAND.

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

NEW APPROVED R.A.F. UNIFORM
Patterns and full details from Mr. Lee,
FLIGHTS Ltd.
Officers' Club, Cologne

No. 175. COLOGNE, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

TROUBLE ON N. W. FRONTIER.

TWICE AMBUSHED BRITISH COLUMNS SUFFER HEAVY CASUALTIES.

BASELESS CHARGES IN THE PENNANT CASE.

N. W. FRONTIER.

HEAVY FIGHTING AND MANY LOSSES.

A delayed Reuter telegram from Simla says there has been considerable fighting on the North-West frontier of India.

British forces have been twice ambushed. On the first occasion about three hundred Wazi Wazirs attacked a reconnoitring party between Manghi and Lun on the 5th October. Our casualties are reported to have been twenty-nine killed and missing, including one officer. The enemy, however, lost heavily.

On the 6th October a column from Kaurbridge engaged the same party of the enemy, then estimated at 600 strong, near Manghi, and drove them back toward the hills. Afterwards, however, they apparently fell into an ambush and only succeeded in returning to Kaurbridge after heavy fighting.

Our casualties are believed to number about eighty, including two British officers and one Indian medical officer killed. On the 8th October a fresh column, with guns, proceeded to Manghi, but their report has not yet been received.

SOUTH RUSSIA.

BOLSHEVISTS ON THE RUN.

The following details of operations in South Russia are supplied by various Reuter correspondents.

West of the river Khoper the Cossacks continuing their advance, routed the Bolshevist 14th Division with the loss of 5,000 prisoners, 27 guns and many machine-guns. East of Voronsj and also East of Orel severe fighting continues, volunteers following up their advance. South West of Orel an enemy column 10,000 strong, composed of Lettish and Chinese regiments, advancing to the attack was enveloped. Half of it was entirely destroyed and the remainder fled North.

The Bolshevists, reinforced by a new division withdrawn from in front of the Poles, unexpectedly attacked Kiev on the 16th October and temporarily occupied the town, but volunteer reinforcements later cleared the whole city except the West and North West suburbs, where fighting was still proceeding on the 17th. Thus the Bolshevist attempts to recover territory lost during the past month have brought them nothing but severe losses. Even the putting in of fresh troops from all the Bolshevist fighting fronts has been unable to stem the advance of the volunteer army.

LESS UNEMPLOYMENT.

The Board of Trade Labour Gazette states that employment improved generally during September. Until the beginning of the railway strike it was better than in any previous month of this year. The railway strike, resulted in a large amount of unemployment in the coal-mining industry and in great coal-using trades. It is estimated that not less than 375,000 workpeople were unemployed for varying periods as a result of the railway strike.

D'ANNUNZIO'S GAGE.

Gabriel D'Annunzio, in an interview published in London, says that if nobody attacks him he will either march to Rome or attack the nearest enemy in order to offer a sacrifice on behalf of oppressed peoples. He says that Italian soldiers and sailors have promised to rally to him at a given sign and declares that the Allied Governments will be powerless.

RUSHOLME ELECTION RESULT.

The Rusholme by-election resulted as follows:

Thorpe, Coalition Unionist, 9,394.
Dunstan, Labour, 6,412.
Pringle, Liberal, 3,923.
Crewdson, National Party, 815.

The previous Unionist majority, in December 1918, was 8,748.

MUNITIONS DUMPED IN SCHELDT.

The Dutch Minister in London has been instructed to call the attention of the British Government to the fact that a tug and lighter of the British Naval Reserve have navigated the Dutch portion of the Scheldt and dumped munitions in Dutch territorial waters without having first received the permission of the Netherlands Government.

POLAND'S POLICE.

The British Police Mission, which is being sent on the invitation of the Government of Poland to assist in the organisation of the Polish Police force, left London yesterday for Warsaw. It is headed by Colonel Macready, son of the Chief Commissioner of London police.

PENNANT CASE.

FURTHER ASTOUNDING CHARGES.

On the resumption of the Pennant case yesterday Miss Pennant made a number of sensational statements. First she persisted in her allegation that a certain officer, whom she named, desired to "job" friends of his into positions, but on Counsel saying that he was prepared to prove that this officer never saw and never even knew the names of four out of the five ladies referred to at the time the appointments were made, Miss Pennant said that if that was correct she would certainly express her regret.

The next moment, however, she suggested, in reply to a question, that this officer desired the alleged immorality in certain W.R.A.F. camps to continue. She thought this was so because he gave her no assistance in clearing up the serious state of affairs of which she was becoming aware, and he was the only man who was capable of doing so. She dined at Lambeth Palace with the Archbishop of Canterbury, when she heard very serious reports of the conditions prevailing at different camps. She subsequently told the officer in question, but he assured her there was nothing in it, and she was never able to get at the most serious state of affairs at Hurst Park until he left.

Lord Wrenburg, Committee President, described Miss Pennant's accusations against individuals as surprising and the conclusions she came to as extraordinary.

Miss Pennant finally admitted that she had never made a written complaint to the Master General because she was unable to verify the matter.

ANOTHER VIEW.

RAILWAY LEADERS LACK OF COURTESY.

Mr. Robert Williams, General Secretary of the Transport Workers' Federation, speaking at Newport (Mon) on Monday night said he thought the Railwaymens' leaders in the recent strike were responsible for an error of tactics. In common courtesy the Triple Alliance should have been informed of the position of the negotiations, whereas the first they knew of it was from the newspapers. If the Triple Alliance had known the true position, he did not think a strike would have been necessary.

ARRESTED CHAPLAIN'S CAREER.

Captain the Rev. Thomas O'Donnell, Padre to the Australian forces, who was arrested in Dublin, was formerly a vigorous supporter of the Labour Party in Tasmania but severed his connection with the party because he advocated conscription. He offered to go to the front as a Chaplain, but as there was no vacancy he enlisted as a private. Before sailing he addressed a series of enthusiastic meetings in favour of conscription in Tasmania and Victoria.

THANET BY-ELECTION.

The By-election in the Isle of Thanet Division, necessitated by the death of Mr. Norman Craig, will be fought chiefly on the question of economy. It is announced that Mr Esmond Harmsworth, son of Lord Rothermere, will contest the constituency as an anti waste candidate, while Sir Walter de Frece, husband of Vesta Tilly, is talked of as the Conservative candidate.

HENDERSON STAYS BEHIND.

In view of the uncertainty of the United States participating in the International Labour Conference at Washington, owing to the non-ratification of the Peace Treaty (on which the Conference is based) together with the political and industrial situation at home, Mr. Arthur Henderson, M.P., has decided not to go to Washington with the British Labour delegation.

FOOD PRICES MOUNTING.

Official returns show that the general level of retail food prices on the 1st October was about 120 per cent. above pre-war level as compared with 115 per cent. on the 1st September.

Mr. Hughes, vice-President of the Yorkshire Miners Association, has been adopted as Labour candidate for the Don valley at the next election.

The Admiralty issued a statement on Saturday revealing the fact that the Home Fleet ceases to exist at the end of this month.

PARLIAMENT OPENS.

MANY QUESTIONS AWAITING SOLUTION.

Parliament, which meets again to-day, has some questions of outstanding importance awaiting its consideration. Among them are National economy, labour hours and wages, coal industry control, Ireland, housing, electricity supply and perhaps the taxation of war profits or a capital levy.

Most likely there will be a big economy debate next week, on which occasion the Premier will probably make a full announcement of the Government's policy. A demand for an Autumn budget will be strongly supported and ruthless economy in every direction will certainly be urged.

As regards the scheme for the taxation of war profits, Mr. Montague, Mr. Winston Churchill and Lord Birkenhead are reported to be in favour, Mr. Lloyd George and Lord Inverforth doubtful, Mr. Bonar Law and Mr. Austen Chamberlain against the proposal.

GOVERNMENT SALES.

BLANKETS FETCH GOOD PRICES.

A six day's auction of domestic effects began at the White City yesterday, when about 1,500 buyers attended, mostly retailers. The lots disposed of were chiefly mattresses, pillows and blankets, for which there was keen competition. Blankets sold at eighteen to twenty-two shillings a pair.

A large crowd of bidders attended a sale of R.A.S.C. motors at Catford. One three-ton lorry fetched 390 guineas and others made over 400. A Daimler touring car with a dismantled engine realised 200 guineas. The most remarkable case, however, was that of a Daimler limousine body, without chassis or frame and with the engine and some other parts lying in an absolute scrap-heap. This fetched 250 guineas. There were also a number of motor cycles from France, all in a dilapidated state, but nothing went for less than twenty-five guineas.

SPECIALISTS IN THE R.A.M.C.

The War Office announces that arrangements are being made by the Royal Army Medical Corps to train men not over 21 years of age as pharmacists, dispensers, dental mechanics, X-ray, operating-room, mental, and laboratory attendants, masseurs, opticians, nursing orderlies, and hospital cooks. Accepted candidates for these specialist classes will be required to serve for the normal period of seven years with the colours, and will receive the rates of pay laid down in the new warrant while qualifying for their duties. At the same time men over 21 years of age and not exceeding 35 who are already qualified in any of the classes of work indicated will be accepted for service, and should have good prospects of a career.

TRAITORS SENTENCED.

Ten French men and women were sentenced on Saturday for activities in connection with the "Gazette des Ardennes," the pro-German newspaper published in the North of France during the German occupation.

Three were sentenced to death and the remainder to periods of penal servitude ranging from five to seven years.

BREAD SUBSIDY.

The Food Ministry was besieged on Saturday with enquiries in consequence of Mr. Lloyd George's statement at Sheffield regarding the termination of the bread subsidy.

An official said that the Premier's hint was the first intimation the department had heard about the matter.

OYSTERS IN THE MESS.

At the first meeting of the Oswestry Profiteering Tribunal the clerk read a complaint from Captain K.F.D. Gatti, D.S.O., South Wales Borderers at Park Hall Camp, stating that on Oct. 10, in company with other officers, he saw oysters exposed for sale by a local fish dealer, and purchased four dozen at 2s 6d per dozen. Returning to the camp he instructed the messcorporal to go to town and buy further quantities. This he did on Oct. 14, buying five dozen oysters, for which 3s 6d per dozen was charged. They were of exactly the same quality as he had bought previously for 2s 6d. The battalion was about to depart from Park Hall to embark for foreign service, and the captain and corporal were asked to sign a declaration before the magistrate, whilst the fish dealer was called upon to attend before a special sitting of the tribunal.

TEACHERS' STRIKE OVER.

The strike among teachers at the elementary schools in the North Riding, which began in the early days of June, ended yesterday, the North Riding County Council having agreed to refer the question of increased remuneration to arbitration.

Poulet, the airman who is attempting the Paris-Melbourne flight, left Naples on Monday morning for Salonica.

Apart from a slight digestive disturbance, President Wilson's condition remains unchanged.

TANK INVENTORS.

REJECTION OF NUMEROUS CLAIMS.

The Commission which is engaged in sifting the claims for awards in connection with the invention and development of the tank resumed its sittings yesterday. The Solicitor-General, referring to Sir Eustace D'Eyncourt's claim, admitted that Sir Eustace had devoted a great deal of attention to matters quite outside his own department as Chief Naval Constructor; but great though his services were, they did not bring him within the class of applicants entitled to a monetary reward.

Sir John Simon then opened the case for Colonel Crompton and described his services in connection with the investigation and perfection of caterpillar traction. He admitted that Colonel Crompton had offered to do the work at a salary of £30 a month, but pointed out that the country had voted gratuities to Generals who had been in the field in addition to their pay. Colonel Crompton had given something like 3,500 hours hard mental labour to the problem and his remuneration would have been at about the rate received by a foreman or fitter in a factory.

Giving evidence in support of his claim Colonel Crompton said he did not regard the work he had done as coming within the terms of his duties, adding that, "It was not within the terms of my duties not to go to bed. I, however, was only one of a team who worked loyally, over extremely long hours and I nearly killed myself over the job."

Mr. Le Gros, ex-President of the Association of Automobile Engineers, who co-operated with Colonel Crompton, said the latter worked about seventeen hours a day. He himself worked fourteen or fifteen.

The Chairman, however, considered the objections to the claims of Colonel Crompton and Mr. Le Gros to be even stronger than those against Sir Eustace D'Eyncourt.

In the afternoon an Australian, Corporal De Male, who appeared in khaki, described the models he submitted to the War Office in 1911, 1912, and 1915, showing the advantages of chain rail traction for heavy transport, all of which were rejected.

The claims of Sir William Tritton were next presented. Counsel said Sir William designed and constructed the form of track used on all machines in the first battle of the Somme.

AN UNGALLANT FIANCÉ.

A summons against Barnet Less known as Bert Lees, of Penter-street, Goldman's Fields, at the instance of Miss Oriefsky, known as Rose Samuels, was dealt with in the King's Bench Division.

It was stated that the lady was once the debtor's fiancee, and that he inveigled her into a house, stripped her of her jewellery and a fur coat and put her out into the rain in her skirt and blouse. His lordship at the last hearing made an order for the man to pay 10s. a week, but he had paid nothing.

The debtor was ordered to pay £7 11s. within fourteen days, or go to prison.

CONSCRIPTION TO GO.

In a letter to the Dundee Liberal Association, Mr. Winston Churchill says that the discontent which partially affected the armies in January and February last has completely subsided and a thoroughly good spirit prevails. The building up of a volunteer army has been so satisfactory that there will be no difficulty whatever in doing away with conscription altogether when the present Act lapses in April and possibly it may be repealed before them.

OVERSEAS REPATRIATION.

During September, overseas officers and men and their families were repatriated as follows:

To	Offrs.	O.R	Dependents
South Africa	887	1979	768
Canada	2054	9720	1428
S. America	61	59	35
U. S. A.	42	32	21
Australia	486	7.47	494
New Zealand	149	1582	565

TO TAX WAR FORTUNES.

Mr. Herbert Samuel, speaking at Saltburn, said:

"If it is found practicable to levy a tax on fortunes accumulated during the war, I feel convinced that such a measure would be just in principle. Reasonable savings should be exempt, and small accumulations should not be hit. But I do not feel convinced that a tax on war fortunes is impracticable, and the country should insist on an inquiry into its feasibility."

THE PORTUGESE IN FRANCE.

The cost of the upkeep of the Portuguese Army in France from the date of its departure from Portugal to its return amounted to £28,000,000.

THE THRIFTY FRENCH.

During the period from January 1 to October 1, 1919, the excess of deposits in French savings banks over withdrawals from them amounted to 750,251,431 f. (£30,010,057), which total constitutes a "record."

RAILWAY STRIKE.

MR. THOMAS OFFERS TO RESIGN HIS SEAT.

Addressing a meeting of railway workers yesterday, Mr. J. H. Thomas denied that the action of the Railwaymens' Union in the recent strike was precipitate. As a matter of fact, he said, negotiations with the Government had been going on for seven months.

He described the interview at the Ministry of Transport on the Thursday before the strike as the most unpleasant he had ever taken part in. The shorthand note of the proceedings, however, made no mention of this.

It had been said that the strike was a blow aimed at the State, but he maintained that it was an industrial dispute in which the State happened to be the employers.

As for the statement that the strike was a failure and that his followers were deserting him, there were thousands more railwaymen out at the close of the strike than at the start. The strike ought to be a lesson to everybody. The railwaymen believed that to the management of railways they could contribute experience, brains and capacity that would be useful to the country. They asked therefore for a share in the management of the railways and he invited the Government to consider that proposal.

For himself, since his recent actions had not commended themselves to all his constituents, he undertook to apply for the Chiltern Hundreds and fight his seat again if either party in Derby wished to challenge his position and bring forward an opponent. He had, however, no fear for the result.

1914 STAR.

CLASP AND ROSETTE.

The King has approved of the issue of a clasp to officers, warrant officers, non-commissioned officers and men who have been awarded the "1914 Star," and who actually served under the fire of the enemy in France and Belgium between Aug. 5, 1914, and midnight, Nov. 22-23, 1914. The clasp will be in bronze, and will bear the inscription "Aug. 5—Nov. 22, 1914."

In undress and service uniform, when ribands are worn, the grant of the clasp will be denoted by the wearing of a small silver rose in the centre of the riband.

BASUTOS IN LONDON.

A party of Basuto chiefs, who decided to come to England in order personally to offer the King the loyal congratulations of Basutoland on the successful termination of the war, arrived at Waterloo on Saturday afternoon. The chiefs wore clothing of European cut and material and were very smartly clad.

Great crowds had gathered to greet the visitors and conveyances were in waiting to take them to their headquarters in Bayswater. The visitors displayed the liveliest interest in the throng of soldiers and civilians waiting for the train at Waterloo station.

EXPENSIVE TRAMP STEAMERS.

On his arrival at Liverpool from America, Mr. Gould, the shipowner, was interviewed. He said he did not fear American competition in British shipping. The most striking feature of the administration of the United States Shipping Board was its wastefulness. In consequence, the cost of operating American tramp steamers was three times that of the British tramps.

L.C.C. REWARDS FOR STRIKE SERVICE.

The L.C.C. traffic receipts for the two weeks ended Oct. 1 and 8 amounted to £183,000, an increase of £23,000 during the period covered by the railway strike. It is estimated that the net increase in traffic receipts will be approximately £18,000. In consideration of the services rendered by the motormen, conductors, and certain other employees the grant of a period not exceeding two days' leave is recommended as the most suitable form of expressing the Council's satisfaction with the loyal services rendered. The cost of this proposal would be approximately £9,000.

PROPOSED MEMORIAL TO R.W. SURREYS.

In memory of the officers and men of the Queen's Royal West Surrey Regiment who fell in the war, it is proposed to place a memorial in Holy Trinity Church, Guildford. The central feature of the memorial is to be a marble and alabaster shrine, in which is to be placed a casket containing the regiment's Book of Life, the names of 413 officers and 6,736 other ranks who made the supreme sacrifice.

The cost of the entire scheme will be £2,000 to £2,200.

DYERS COMING OUT.

Sixty thousand bleachers and dyers in Lancashire have handed in strike notices for 1st November unless their demands for advance of wages are conceded. They are chiefly engaged on cotton goods.

ROUGH ON RATS.

EXTERMINATION WEEK STARTS.

England's rat week began yesterday, when every municipal and local authority in England and Wales started to wage war against the army of rats, estimated to number at least fifty millions. Each local authority is adopting its own plan of campaign but poison seems to be the principal means of attack.

The Board of Agriculture recommends a particularly thorough attack on London where the general public seldom has any idea of the hordes of vermin harboured by the metropolis except when a great fire takes place or old buildings are broken up.

In Aldershot on Saturday a successful rehearsal of the fight was carried out on the Corps (at least) of army rats in the Command Forage Stores at Gasworks Hill. Yesterday operations began in earnest, General Sir Archibald Murray having issued a special Command Order enjoining all commanding officers to do their best against a common enemy.

Some local authorities are offering as much as five shillings per dozen for dead rats, Coventry for instance, but others consider that such rewards put a premium on rat breeding.

WELSH DISCORDS.

NEW MUSICAL FESTIVAL TO BE ARRANGED.

A sensation has been caused throughout Wales by the announcement that a group of Welsh musicians and composers are so dissatisfied with the present tendencies of the national Eisteddfod that they have decided to launch a new annual Welsh musical festival. It will be of three days' duration and will be inaugurated next Whit Monday at Mountain Ash.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

At the opening of the week investments were hesitating, partly owing to indications of drastic taxation legislation, and partly to the forthcoming issue at 98 of three millions New South Wales Loan stock, carrying five and a-half per cent. redeemable in five to fifteen years. Home railways were firmer, increased freight rates being foreshadowed. Cements were prominent among Industrials. The feature of the day was the activity and strength of diamond shares, which is a reflection on the prosperity of the diamond trade. Interest was further stimulated by the Premier Diamond dividend on deferred shares, being fifteen shillings last year. In Russian stocks there was occasional profit taking. Russian railway and municipal issues further advanced, holders being unwilling to realise. Siberian minings were on the up-grade. Peruvian stocks were in active demand, and Argentine railways strong and encouraging.

SIR J. WOLFE MURRAY DEAD.

The death from heart failure of Lieut. General Sir James Wolfe Murray at Peebles is announced, following an accident three weeks ago, when he fell on the pavement in High-street, Peebles, and fractured his right thigh.

Sir James, who was in his 67th year, served in Ashanti and South Africa, held commands in India, was General Officer Commanding-in-Chief in 1914, was First Military Member of the Army Council in 1914-15, and General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Eastern Command, in 1916-17.

IF MARRIED AND "ON THE STRENGTH."

Families of warrant officers, non-commissioned officers and men who re-enlisted under Army Order 4 or 124 of 1919, and who have married since the 10th of December 1918, are now eligible for passage to foreign garrisons, provided they have been selected for inclusion in the temporary married establishment. Those coming within this category are eligible for separation allowance as from the date of marriage.

LONDON PARTICULAR.

The first serious fog of autumn visited London on Monday and still continues. Towards evening the congestion of traffic became very considerable in the vicinity of Knightsbridge and about 9.30 p.m. groups of omnibuses ranged on either side of the thoroughfare found it impossible to move in either direction. Most of the suburbs, however, enjoyed brilliant sunshine.

DERBYSHIRE OIL OUTPUT.

It is officially estimated that 8,000,000 gallons of oil has steadily flowed at the Hardstoft Well, near Sheffield, since the heart of the stratum was first penetrated by the American borers. The flow has now attained an average of over 2,000 gallons per twenty-four hours. Drilling for the present has been temporarily suspended, but will be resumed in the near future.

FEARED LOSS OF YACHT.

The yacht "Final", an eight-ton yawl left Leigh-on-Sea on October 7th, with the owner, Major E.A.W. Maude aboard, and has not since been heard of.

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Mr. Lee is now back in Cologne from London and has brought with him a good stock.

Call or write OFFICERS' CLUB, COLOGNE.

CHARITY CONCERT
for the repatriated prisoners at the AGRIPPINA-CAFÉ, Cologne
Breitestrasse 92—98, I. Floor, Tel. B 9935
THURSDAY 23rd OCT. 1919.
Concert with Willy Overzier
Serious and humorous songs.
First-class Wines.

Winehouse Köhler
(formerly Carlton)
Grosse Sandkaut 24—26
behind "Coffeehouse Germania."
The most fashionable place in the city.
Small-Orchestra starting at 5.0 p.m.
For officers and civilians only.

Dark room Lamp	2.75
" "	3 50
Bromide Postcards, per hundred	6.—
" " per thousand	55.—
Self toning Postcards, per hundred	12.—
Tripods, wood	9 —
" " folding	20 —
Tripods, brass telescopic	30 —
Camera 6 X 9 cm	65 —
" 6 X 9 cm double anastigmat	150.—
" 9 X 12 cm	70.—
" 9 X 12 cm double anastigmat	200.—

SCHILDERGASSE 55a
Next the C. of E. Military Church.

To-day Wednesday, Oct. 22nd
at 7.30 p.m.
Munchener Beerhalls
Lunapark in Zoological Gardens
Great Match International Boxing Tournament.
CHALLENGE MATCH
Max Kirschbaum, Crefeld, 160 lbs.
v.
Willi Lühr, Hamburg, 114 lbs.
CHALLENGE MATCH
Hans Kabelitz, Berlin, 134 lbs.
v.
Karl Koch, Sachsen, 140 lbs.
CHALLENGE MATCH
Georg Miers, Berlin, 132 lbs.
v.
Willi Muller, Australia, 132 lbs.
Eventuelly Extra Match.

Old renowned shop
for sticks, whips, pipes.
Souvenirs of Cologne.
Leonard Bolzau, Cologne, Hohestr. 14

EXPORT
Manufacturers of Surgical Instruments
NEUMANN & CIE.
COLOGNE, Minoritenstraße 21A.

Where can I get my Photo work done?
at the:—
Kölner Photo & Kino Centrale
Neumarkt 32—34.
All repairs done to Kodaks, Ica, Zeiss, Goerz, Ernemann Cameras & Cinema machines.
English spoken.

ENORMOUS SUCCESS OF
"THE JESTERS"
The first civilian music hall party to visit Rhineland.
SIX LONDON VARIETY ARTISTES INCLUDING
Mr.
JOE MORLEY
The famous Banjoist of the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN.
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY.
Mr. HARRY KING.
Mr. FRANK HOOK.
Mr. CHASS LEWIS.
Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage The Jesters after Saturday Oct. 18th. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office or may be seen personally at 11 o/c each morning at Amusements Office, Komödienstrasse, Cologne.

ANOTHER ATTRACTIVE CANTEEN FOR YOU
N.A.C.B.
STERNENGASSE
Hohepforte end of Hohestr.
Well stocked canteen — Tea & coffee bar — Cakes & pastries from our own Cologne bakery fresh every day — comfortable rest room with separate tables for eating, etc.
N.A.C.B.
"SERVICE FOR SOLDIERS"

THIS (WEDNESDAY) EVENING
at the
COLOGNE CENTRAL Y.M.C.A.
(44, Friesenstrasse.)
LORELY HALL. — "The Rhine Cities" Rev. A. M. Perkins at 6.30 p.m.
GREAT HALL. — Cinema and Orchestra 6.30 to 9.30 p.m.
A Chess Club has been formed at the "Central" and meets nightly. Members can be enrolled in the Library. Competitions will be held weekly.

Portraits of Admirals are required for the exhibition of a collection of old English, French and Dutch Naval and Military Celebrities.
Wilhelm Goyert
Kunsthandlung
COLOGNE, Minoritenstr. 21.

Court Hairdressers & Beauty Specialists
FR. TH. STOELTZNER, Gereonstr. 16.
London Experience—Reasonable Charges
Tram-lines 11, 18, 20 past the Shop

Collection of stamps in good condition, collected until 1907—08 Mainly Europe, many of old Germany, German, British and French Colonial stamps. Value (Yvert-Tellier 1919) 14,000 frs., to be sold at 12,000 frs. To be seen in Cologne. Apply to A 291 Cologne Post, A.P.O. S.40.

NÜCHEL & HILLEBRECHT
COLOGNE, Glockengasse, corner Kreuzgasse, close Schauspielhaus. Tel. A 5566
UNIFORM MAKERS
MILITARY OUTFITS
Manufacture of all Uniforms for the Army of Occupation. First-class References.

Vente de coutelleries de Solingen
EN GROS et EN DETAIL
telles que
Couteaux et fourchettes de table; couteaux pour couper le pain, epluchoirs, ciseaux de toutes sortes, rasoirs, articles de manicure etc. etc.
Tout á trés-bon marché
Ferdinand Melitz, Cologne-Braunsfeld
Aachener Str. 358.

FOR SALE
Genuine
PEARL RING
with DIAMONDS, from private owner.
Price £ 180.
Apply to A 296, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

Export Export
SOLINGEN STEELWARE
Big stocks to sell in Cologne.
Scissors—razors—safety razors—knives etc.
STEELWARE OF ANY KIND
Solingen manufacture.
Wulf, Waltrich & Co., G. m. b. H., Cologne
Belfortstr. 9, near Deutscher Ring
Telegr. address, Westhand-Cologne.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

WEEK COMMENCING
MONDAY OCTOBER 20th, 1919
ALL COMMENCING AT 7—0 p.m.

Deutsches Theatre, Bismarckstrasse.

British Rhine Army Dramatic Company
in
Wednesday and Thursday
"THE NEW SIN".
Friday and Saturday
"MAN OF DESTINY".
FOLLOWED BY "CANDIDA",

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.

Owing to Continued Success return visit of Mr. ALFRED HURLEY'S LONDON COMPANY 'THE JESTERS' in an Entirely new Programme.
ARTISTES:
Mr. JOE MORLEY
the Celebrated Banjoist, from the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY
Mr. FRANK HOOK
Mr. HARRY KING
Mr. CHASS LEWIS
and
"JOEY"
JOE SAT—I
OH—! JOHN

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA.
32 Komödienstrasse
All the Best Pictures.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
Grand Orchestral and Pictorial Programme.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA.
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPEILHAUS, Hohe Strasse
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION
at No. 1, 2 and 3
Army Cinemas,
on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, October, 23rd, 24th and 25th.
Featuring the following fights:—
BECKETT—McGOORTY.
FULTON—TOWNLEY.
BASHAM—CHARLES.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 659. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.
Subscript.: In Rhine Army area 3 mks. 50 pfg. a month, post free.
To Great Britain or Colonies, 15 marks a month post free.

Wednesday, October 22, 1919.

"FISHERISMS."

Trenchant, forceful, pithy and epigrammatic. Such are the characteristics of the breezy "memories" of Lord Fisher a selection from whose gems we have published from day to day. The bluff sailor-man fearless and heterodox, who once ruled the "King's Navee" is reflected in almost everyone of these vivacious utterances; we seem to sniff the salt sea tang in almost every line.

What many an author would assign, for want of courage, to his posthumous works, "Jacky Fisher" with boyish glee, publishes in his lifetime. Treading on peoples toes has become to him a second nature. He is never so much at peace as when at war. Criticism as candid as he retails is distinctly rare, and he is as much at home with big game as with humbler and less pretentious fry. This combined with the epigrammatic habit he seems to have cultivated assiduously, explains the wide popularity of these "Memories."

We like a catchword, and Lord Fisher from out the depths of a bountiful reservoir supplies it. His literary kitchen is a wonderful structure which might be in a vineyard, but is more probably on a quarterdeck. To a definite morsel very carefully weighed which might have fallen from the table of a Greek philosopher, he adds a little spice and a little ginger of his own concoction and serves up the dish a trifle overdone. The result is a pungent "Fisherism."

He sets down in writing what most of us think or only mention "sotto voce," and expresses it infinitely neater.

With advancing age — he is now on the threshold of his 79th year — he is apparently as glib of tongue as he was in his palmy days at the Admiralty, so that he is a living testimony of the truth of his own saying that the brain improves while the body decays.

In the Army we have neither the salt sea spray nor the invigorating breezes to whip us into that state of effervescent mentality which gives birth to concentrated wisdom at once oracular and arresting. We have no vast expanse of ocean to excite intensive rumination. The Junior Service has no "Jacky" Fisher. Even Parliament itself, which has not always been so poor, is poverty-stricken.

OUR LAST RIVER TRIP.

The Rhine river trips, as far as our troops are concerned, concluded for the season at the end of September, but by some miraculous process a special steamer was put off for our battalion, and so we were privileged to have the last trip of the year.

There is an end to all good things, even Army life, much less river trips, and what memories shall we have of steaming down the grand old Rhine and seeing its incomparable beauties!

It was a glorious October morning as we entrained at Cologne West for Bonn and our expectations ran high.

We marched through the famous university town with band playing and guided by a small German laddie, immensely proud of himself and his task, to the boat.

The task of embarkation being completed, the steamer glided away. In that hour even demobilization had lost its charm for our men; a soft mist gave way to a flood of sunshine overflowing the hills; the breezes sang their hymn of praise; the wooded slopes, the vineyards nestling under their crags, the ancient castles and pretty riverside towns, above all, the swiftly-flowing stream, lighted up like silver with its traffic of barges and rafts, was all too lovely for words and we were thrilled with joy unspeakable.

The warant officers and sergeants were allotted the saloon on the upper deck, the band were in the forecastle, the men had the whole of the lower deck and the after-part of the top deck, and the officers the main saloon. How marvellous is the accomodation of these Rhine steamers! You are protected from the wind by the glass screens, and there are numerous chairs and seats. It is all so very restful and invigorating. So we steamed along, the band playing numerous selections and the men singing. Our R.S.M. was in the seventh heaven of delight, for on the top deck he was monarch off all he surveyed, and his benignant smiles cheered his large family. The sergeants even danced during the morning, and the one lady passenger had a busy time, for she had no jealous rivals.

A visit to the Captain on the bridge was a special treat. His heart was strangely warmed by a drop of tawny port and he was anxious to please. How he revelled in pointing out the objects of interest along the bank. The canteen did a roaring trade and the boys with cigars between their lips looked like millionaire yachtsmen. How hungry we all were and so the meals served on board were keenly relished!

The German system of numbering the banks of the river in large figures, corresponding to those printed on the large panoramic maps, gives one an added interest in the journey. This feature is worthy of notice and it would be of great advantage to tourists if we adopted the method on the Thames and other rivers at home.

Our journey up stream ended within sight of the famous "Little Willie's Bridge," an hour's run from Coblenz. We returned to Cologne by steamer all the way and when dusk descended on the river a memorable dance was held for all ranks on the lower deck. The strains of our famous band and the the sight of the happy faces of our men as they waltzed around made a perfect picture. It was a fitting end to a glorious and never-to-be-forgotten day—the last trip of the season. G.K.

WHAT STIRRED HIM.

The cabaret was crowded.

The orchestra played rapturous music redolent of the Orient.

It was a scene of laughter and gaiety, a temple of mirth, where dull care was chased away, such a scene as can only be observed in the Cafe B — (but why should I give free advertisement to the place?)

Clothed in a filmy "creation" and a smile, a bewitching damsel engaged attention with her interpretation of one of those mysterious dances from somewhere East of Suez.

His blasé air attracted me.

Nero with all his fiddling while Rome burnt could not have worn a more indifferent air.

A man of the world I thought, probably accustomed to such festive scenes, and the label on the bottle certainly showed a fine discrimination in the selection of his wine.

The dazzling display of ribbons on his breast told their silent tale of long service, so that it was with a very reverent air, therefore, that I took my seat at the same table.

Yes, he condescended to notice me.

Even the most reserved of men seek solace in conversation at times.

How I listened with bated breath. I was right in my surmise.

In strange places and amid strange races had he dwelt.

The world to him was a mere nothing.

He had roamed this planet to some considerable extent.

He spoke "en passant" of Hyderabad bazaars, of the noisome smell of Suez, and said quite a lot about Port Said.

Cairo with its noisy crowds, dear old old Dublin of the "distressful" country; in this wise did he bring the places of the earth together.

Truly he was a man of the world.

Old Dame Experience had left him with that imperturbable air that enabled him to look on the things of this world with just a mildly cynical eye, but wholly tolerable to many of its shortcomings.

And so he left me with a cheerful "good night" to pursue the even tenor of his way.

Dreamily I lingered sipping the expensive water in my glass, but my thoughts were far from Cologne.

The glamour of places unvisited was upon me.

What vistas he had opened up.

* * *

I gathered my thoughts and hat, and made my way out of the cabaret.

Passing up the street my attention was attracted by a violent scuffle outside another cafe.

A vision of waving arms and legs prompted me to enquire the cause of the trouble.

As if in answer a loud voice was heard announcing "that the Artillery was the pick of the bunch, better than all your cavalry mobs."

It was the voice of my man of the world.

Yes, its the little things that matter.

"HAWKEYE"

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

SOARING PRICES.

Sir,—"Tock Emma," who writes on soaring prices, has either absolutely no comprehension or else is wilfully blinding himself to facts.

To state that German goods are very inferior to British is quite wrong, and I have my own experience to prove that the German's knowledge of watches and watch repairs is vastly superior to that of the British and also his charges are infinitely less.

Too many of our people, judging from your "Letter Box," appear to have a very wrong impression as regards the comparison of German-British prices. I have bought various articles in Cologne at various prices one-third of what they are in England to-day.

I am thinking not only of one article but of many articles to the value of about 1500 marks. I have before me now an English catalogue dated June 1st, 1913, and a certain article is priced at 21s. A friend has just shown me a similar article he bought in Cologne yesterday for 17 marks with excellent workmanship and perfect finish, and this with the mark at 120 to the pound.

"Tock Emma" seems to be unaware that peace has been signed, and his letter proves that he does not possess that typical British character—fairness.

Captain, R.A.M.C.

WAILS OF A P.M.C.

Sir,—In accordance with your sporting paragraph of a few days ago, I gave my imagination free play in reading the Editor's Letter Box to-day. My first attempt was with P.M.C.'s letter, P.M.C. is presumably a subaltern—no one else would take on the job. Secondly, he is married: a single man would damn the canteen and go back to live on Army rations. Thirdly, an airman—witness the box car, the case of wine, and the ability to spend three days buying provisions for the mess.

Assuming all these things, he is in receipt of the princely emoluments of about 30,- a day. Economists tell us that we only get what we are worth. Therefore, by absenting himself from duty he is costing the Government about £4-10-0 a week.

Surely it would be cheaper to demobilize P.M.C., sell the box car, and get an N.C.O. with mess cart to do the job, as other units do.

I fully expect to be told by an indignant P.M.C. that he is an unmarried captain in the R.A.S.C. but that does not affect the logic of the argument. KM

MUSIC FOR ALL.

I wonder how many of us know of the incomparable opportunities afforded us in the musical world at the Music Room, Y.M.C.A., Bonn, under the very able direction of two well-known musical enthusiasts. I am certain that, if it were known to more, there would be an overwhelming force of eager learners always besieging the doors, and that is the object of this article.

There are for the disposal of all and sundry, shelves of books on the greatest musicians and their famous works; there are songs in lighter vein; songs sentimental; and above all, the opportunity of lessons in pianoforte, violin, singing, harmony and theory — all free of charge.

Then there are also illustrated talks on various subjects, comprising popular operas, lives and works of the world's greatest musicians, and the opportunity of visiting under one of the directors' guidance, Beethoven's birthplace. A visit here can never be forgotten — it gives one a perfect idea of how a humble family raised a genius of whom to-day we hear such a lot and whose name is almost a household word. With the director's cheery presence — and he is cheery and an indefatigable worker — one may spend quite the best part of an afternoon visiting this house. Perhaps I may divulge this gentleman's name — at least, his Army nom-de-plume — "Charlie of Etaples."

So, all you retainable men in and around Bonn, hearken unto me and get in touch with this veritable oasis, and perhaps in the dim, distant future some genius may be able to proudly say, "I learnt all I know at the Y.M.C.A. Music Room, Bonn, and all gratis!"

May their shadow never grow less!

R. PEGGIO.

SAND ON TRAM-RAILS.

Sir,—I noticed the remarks in your paper as to "Sand on Tram-rails."

But most of the sandgear on our English trams is worked by the driver's feet; and in all cases where there is only one sand pedal used both rails are sanded together, and where two sand pedals are used, (one for each rail) they can both be worked by one foot. This is a far better system than the one in use on the Cologne trams.

Most English cars are also provided with a track brake, either electrical or mechanical (which is not used on the Cologne cars) thereby making doubly sure of stopping if the wheels skid.

TRAMWAY ENGINEER.

A RAILWAY CONTRAST.

Sir, — One cannot help but feel how fortunate we are in England when we consider our railways and travelling public compared with that in Germany.

It is indeed remarkable the way in which the Germans of the lower orders — chiefly women — are allowed to interfere with the comfort of their fellow travellers by turning passenger trains into goods trains and travelling to and from the markets with quantities of merchandise obviously meant only for goods trains, and in England I am sure, would not be allowed to travel any other way.

My work necessitates my spending much time on the railways here, and every day these hatless women are seen staggering to the station with heavy burdens, such as sacks of potatoes, baskets of fish, boxes of fruit, etc. all of which are bundled into passenger trains, much to the annoyance of the other travellers for it must mean a somewhat unsavoury journey for them.

Often the trains are delayed at stations whilst all this foodstuff is loaded or unloaded.

Perhaps the cattle-truckish fourth class is responsible for much of this. We have our poor in England, but it is a good thing nothing of this description is permitted and that we can do without the fourth class on our railways.

J. M.

ARE THEY GUNNERS?

Sir,—Re the letter signed "Gunners" in your paper of yesterday. What a pity that gunner cannot find something more interesting and more important to talk about.

At the same time I would like to remind "Gunner" that a machine-gun was one of the finest guns ever used in this war, and surely the men who manned them so bravely have every right to be ranked as gunners. I might also mention that all artillery-men are not gunners, a very large percentage are drivers and various other ranks.

R. F. A. DRIVER.

WHERE IS "UNCLE"?

Sir, — Here is a matter which needs ventilation in your columns now that our money is coming to us at 109 and is paid out at the rate of 120.

Supposing (as is probable) that an officer or other rank needs the services of his "Uncle" in order to find the wherewithal to buy his wife's food coupons, where, oh! where can he see the familiar and comforting trio of golden balls? —

Could you use your great influence to get it decreed by the League of Nations that all countries shall adopt the sign which is such an old friend to us? In Paris our "Aunt" is a well-tried and proven relative, but here in Cologne one feels somewhat desolate. NEPHEW.

SURELY NOT TRIVIAL.

Sir,—I append the following advice with apologies to "Martyr."

"There's one thing I like above anything else,
Its my bed, Yes, my bed.
There's one thing I like to place down on my pillow,
Its my head, Yes, my head.
But there's one thing I don't like, when fresh from a dream,
Thats to gobble my breakfast, and chase tram No. 18.
Could this not be altered, and so ease my mind?,
So when breakfast is finished, my tram I could find,
Awaiting my presence as the top o' the street,
Whilst I finished exactly what I wished to eat.
Oh, yes, my dear Martyr, this could easily be done,
Ensuring that you'd have no real cause to run,
Just save up your pennies, and purchase a tram,
Have a batman inside it to dish up your ham,
To alight from your 'digs', at your own business door,
See the amount of sleep gained, over that of before."

"THE MAD POET."

Sir,—Has it ever occurred to "Martyr" that were he to rise from his downy couch, say, five minutes, earlier in the morning, he would then catch his car with ample time to spare, thus saving himself considerable trouble? PONGO.

CRUEL PERFORMANCES.

Sir,—In to-day's issue of the "Cologne Post" I observed a paragraph with reference to a cruel performance by trained dogs.

Are not all these performance cruel? The spectacle of animals performing tricks which are utterly foreign to their nature is, apart from its mere freakishness, repulsive rather than pleasing.

The fact is that the average audience fails to connect these tricks with painful training, the instant obedience to commands generally being the outcome of fear rather than affection.

In the absence of legislation forbidding these performances, the only means of combating such exhibitions is by individual or collective protest and boycott. The cruelty involved in the training has been proved over and over again, and in view of this fact it behoves everyone who loves animals to take a practical part in eliminating them from public performances.

Jack London in his book "Michael, Brother of Jerry" has exposed in merciless fashion the brutalities that accompany animal training, and I most earnestly hope that everyone in the Army of Occupation will read this vivid story which is founded on incontrovertable fact.

L.P. PETERS.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

If you were to win £12,000.

A PRIZE CONTEST.

As most readers know there is being run at Lille a big sweepstake on the Cambridgeshire. If all the tickets are sold the fortunate winner will receive the very handsome sum of TWELVE THOUSAND POUNDS STERLING. Now this winner may very well be someone in the Rhine Army. Suppose for instance, it were you who suddenly received this big access of wealth.

What would you do with it?

This problem has suggested a prize competition open to all our readers. Just write a letter to the "Editor, Post" A.P.O. S 40—not exceeding 250 words and say exactly what you would do with £12,000 if you came into possession of it.

We offer prizes 50, 20 and 10 marks respectively for the three best answers to the question. The reply you send may be as brief as you like, but it must not exceed the length of 250 words. Write your name and unit below your answer in block letters and let us hear from you not later than November 1st. The Editor's decision will of course be final in judging the merits of the answer to the question, "What would I do with £12,000 if I won it?"

"THE MAN KILLER."

Is Dempsey Bluffing or Fighting Shy of Challengers?

By W. Le C.

Mr. Redmond Barry, who represents the Albert Hall and has been in America for some time, offered 110,000 dollars for Dempsey's end to fight Joe Beckett over a 20-rounds contest some time this winter, for the championship of the world. This offer was sneered at and it was suggested that nothing less than 250,000 dollars would tempt the world's champion.

Before his fight with Willard, the present holder of the world's championship stated, "I'll be one champion who'll not run to cover every time I am challenged, as Willard has been doing. Moreover, I'll not set a price on my services a promoter will be unable to meet." On top of this there comes the official statement that Dempsey is "fed up" with the show business and wants to fight. Brave words; but his manager sounds a different note when he states that nothing short of a quarter of a million dollars will induce him to stage the champion in any contest. How can we reconcile these conflicting statements? Is Dempsey bluffing?

Dempsey's Record.

A famous referee with whom I recently conversed said to me, "If Beckett or Carpentier can stay the first two rounds with Dempsey, and I have no doubt that they can, there will be a new name on the world's champions roll." He based this on the champion's record, and looking over it, I find food for reflection in that. In the last two years "the man-killer," (as the States call him) has only had five contests which went beyond four rounds, most of them ending in the first or second round.

Time solves all things, and the much-discussed champion will have to face Carpentier or Beckett in the long run. When he does I'm putting my money on whichever faces him. If Fred Fulton gets his chance first, I should not at all be surprised to find the latter the victor. He is clearly entitled to a return contest, and why Dempsey is fighting shy is making the boxing world talk. In a few words, he should "Put up or shut up."

HOCKEY MATCH.

51st Northumberland Fusiliers v. 51st Rifle Brigade at Hilton.

This match was played at Hilton on Saturday. Straight from the commencement the Rifle Brigade got away and scored in the first five minutes through Lt. Lamont. The R.B's kept up the pressure and increased their lead after twenty minutes play by a good shot by C.S.M. Hart. Further goals were added before the interval by Lt. de Pars and C.S.M. Hart. Capt. Barraclough was in excellent form at centre-half for the Rifles.

No goals were scored by either team in the second half. The Fusilier defence played well in the second half, and on several occasions prevented any further goals being added. The Fusiliers' forwards were very weak. Lt. Lingard played a good game at left-back for the Fusiliers.

Teams:—Rifle Brigade.—Sgt. Hardman, C.S.M. Hollands, Capt. Fixcen, Lt. Stokes, Capt. Barraclough, Sgt. Banks, Sgt. Richards, Lt. Lamont, Lt. de Pass, C.S.M. Hart, Sgt. Kilduh.

Northumberland Fusiliers.—C.Q.M.S. Pipe, Lt. Venn, Lt. Lingard, Capt. Todd, Lt. Williamson, Lt. Fentum, Capt. Parry, Lt. Richardson, Lt. Thomas, Lt. Ruddock, 2/Lt. Mason.

Result.

51st Rifle Brigade, 4; 51st Northd. Fuslrs., 0.

SOCCER PRECEDENT.

Should Substitutes be Permitted for Injured Players?

Apparently the captain of the Welsh Association team made a precedent when he chivalrously allowed a substitute to take the place of an injured English player in the second half of the game at Cardiff. In club matches a substitute is often allowed when the game would be otherwise spoiled, but we know of no other instance in an international match.

Many footballers have advocated the adoption of a rule allowing a substitute to take the place of an injured man at any time, on the ground that an accident is unavoidable and handicaps one side very unfairly.

But curious things have happened in football, and it is argued that if such a rule were made, it would probably lead to great abuses, and that, so great is the keenness in certain competitions, clubs with two players of equal merit might be induced to arrange for an "accident," in order that a perfectly fresh player might bring his services to bear. It would also mean in many cases the additional expense of taking two or three extra men to away matches.

We do not, however, think (says "The Field") that such expedients need be taken into consideration, and the rule seems to have worked well in lacrosse. Also the cricket limited rule as to substitutes has worked well, and it might be possible to make some sort of limitation in football—a man, for example, might be allowed to fill the gap, but not in the same position as the injured player, or in the position to which he has been accustomed.

There are, of course, many things to be said in favour of retaining the present custom, which often produces a magnificent effort on the part of the handicapped team, and not infrequently brings unsuspected talent to the light.

LAWN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP WHISKY.

At the Surrey Sessions, William Christopher, of Messrs. Letheby and Christopher (Limited), Railway-approach, London-bridge, appealed against a conviction at Wimbledon Petty Sessions on August 17, when he was ordered to pay a fine of £100 and 25 guineas costs for overcharging for whisky at the All-England Lawn Tennis Championship Tournament at Wimbledon.

The appeal was allowed and the conviction was quashed.

LEAGUE TABLES.

Leaders Still Maintain Premier Positions.

NEWCASTLE'S CHALLENGE.

The position of the clubs in the chief League competitions on Saturday was as follows:—

The League.

	Pld.	Won.	Drn.	Lost.	Goals For	Goals Agst.	Pts.
West Bromwich Albion	10	8	0	2	28	14	16
Newcastle United	11	6	3	2	16	7	15
Middlesbrough	11	6	3	2	16	13	15
Burnley	11	6	3	2	20	15	15
Manchester United	10	4	5	1	18	12	13
Derby County	11	4	4	3	16	14	12
Sheffield United	10	4	3	3	23	15	11
Sunderland	10	5	1	4	18	15	11
The Arsenal	10	4	3	3	15	15	11
Chelsea	10	5	1	4	12	12	11
Bolton Wanderers	11	5	1	5	23	18	11
Blackburn Rovers	10	3	4	3	13	12	10
Bradford City	11	4	2	5	19	19	10
Bradford	10	4	1	5	14	14	9
Liverpool	10	4	1	5	11	19	9
Notts County	10	3	3	4	16	18	9
Everton	10	4	1	5	19	21	9
Manchester City	10	3	2	5	21	27	8
Preston North End	10	3	2	5	15	26	8
Oldham Athletic	10	2	1	7	13	20	5
Sheffield Wednesday	10	1	3	6	4	15	5
Aston Villa	10	1	1	8	8	24	3

Second Division Of The League.

	Pld.	Won.	Drn.	Lost.	Goals For	Goals Agst.	Pts.
Tottenham Hotspur	10	9	1	0	35	6	19
Fulham	11	7	2	2	19	7	16
Birmingham	10	6	2	2	23	11	14
Bristol City	10	5	4	1	15	8	14
Hull City	11	6	2	3	19	14	14
Barnsley	10	6	1	3	26	10	13
Blackpool	11	6	1	4	24	13	13
Stoke	10	6	1	3	16	11	13
Huddersfield Town	10	5	2	3	17	8	12
West Ham United	10	5	2	3	12	15	12
Stockport County	10	4	3	3	16	9	11
Burslem Port Vale	9	4	2	3	17	12	10
Wolverhampton Wand.	10	3	3	4	14	13	9
Bury	10	4	1	5	10	14	9
Nottingham Forest	11	2	4	5	10	13	8
South Shields	9	4	0	5	7	14	8
Leicester City	10	3	2	5	10	23	8
Rotherham County	11	3	1	7	10	22	7
Clapton Orient	11	2	1	8	10	18	5
Grimsby Town	10	2	1	7	5	19	5
Lincoln City	10	0	3	7	7	36	3
Coventry City	10	0	1	9	4	27	1

Southern League.

	Pld.	Won.	Drn.	Lost.	Goals For	Goals Agst.	Pts
Queen's Park Rangers	12	7	4	1	15	4	18
Portsmouth	12	7	3	2	23	8	17
Reading	12	6	5	1	16	7	17
Watford	10	6	3	1	13	6	15
Exeter City	11	4	5	2	13	9	13
Millwall	12	5	4	3	21	17	14
Southend United	12	4	5	3	14	13	13
Norwich City	9	5	2	2	13	11	12
Crystal Palace	11	3	6	2	16	13	12
Plymouth Argyle	11	4	3	4	13	7	11
Cardiff City	10	3	5	2	16	10	11
Swindon Town	11	4	3	4	16	15	11
Brentford	11	3	5	3	13	13	11
Southampton	11	5	1	5	15	18	11
Merthyr Town	12	2	5	5	14	17	9
Brighton & Hove Albion	12	3	3	6	11	16	9
Luton Town	11	3	3	5	12	19	9
Bristol Rovers	10	2	4	4	13	20	8
Gillingham	12	3	2	7	7	19	8
Swansea	10	3	1	6	9	13	7
Northampton	11	1	3	7	14	28	5
Newport County	13	1	3	9	7	26	5

Scottish League.

	Pld.	Won.	Drn.	Lost.	Goals For	Goals Agst.	Pts.
Glasgow Rangers	13	11	1	1	38	7	23
Celtic	10	9	0	1	27	11	18
Motherwell	13	7	4	2	24	18	18
Airdrieonians	12	6	3	3	17	9	15
Ayr United	13	6	3	4	30	17	15
Heart of Midlothian	12	7	1	4	17	13	15
Greenock Morton	12	6	2	4	20	10	14
Dundee	12	6	1	5	17	13	13
Hibernians	13	6	1	6	28	28	13
Aberdeen	12	5	2	5	16	15	12
Partick Thistle	11	5	2	4	16	16	12
St. Mirren	13	5	2	6	15	22	12
Clyde	14	3	5	6	19	23	11
Queen's Park	13	4	3	6	19	23	11
Third Lanark	12	3	4	5	14	21	10
Raith Rovers	14	4	2	8	28	34	10
Clydebank	11	4	1	6	16	16	9
Dumbarton	13	2	5	6	15	27	9
Falkirk	14	4	1	9	14	28	9
Kilmarnock	13	4	1	8	15	34	9
Hamilton Academicals	13	3	2	8	22	32	8
Albion Rovers	11	3	2	6	10	20	8

THE LEEDS CITY CLUB'S GROUND

In regard to the disbanding of the Leeds City Club, it is now definitely stated that their ground at Elland-road, Leeds, has been taken over by the Yorkshire Amateurs' Club. This amateur team is backed by many of the most influential men in Leeds, and is expected to go far towards keeping football alive in the city.

ARMY TRIAL MATCH.

Unexpected Defeat of Whites in Rugby Game.

In the last of the Army trial games the Colours rather unexpectedly beat the Whites at Queen's Club, West Kensington, by a goal and four tries to two goals and two tries. The Whites included in their fifteen such well-known players as Major E. G. G. W. Harrison, P. H. Lawless, and A. H. McIlwaine, and most certainly had the best of the opening half. During this period Harrison ran in twice and Sgt. Lewis once, two of the three tries being converted. The only reply by the Colours was a try by Lieut. Tittle.

On change of ends the Whites were further strengthened by the transfer of Major Scobie, the Scottish international, from the Colours side, but their forwards had tired, and the Colours took such complete charge of the game that the Whites' backs had no chance. Cpl. Burt scored two tries, and Penney and Livingstone one each, one of the place kicks being successfully undertaken. Just before the finish Frith ran in for the Whites, but the place kick failing, the Colours were left with a victory by 17 points to 16. The trials have shown that there is an abundance of good material available for the Army.

CHESS TOURNAMENT IN BERLIN.

It is intended to hold a masters' tournament in Berlin, commencing on Oct. 25. The following players are mentioned as likely to take part: Spielmann, Rubinstein, Bogoljuboff, Vidmar, Reti, Tartakover, and Selesnieff. If there are only four entries the tournament will be a double-round one. There will be several prizes, the first being one thousand marks, and each non-prize winner will receive one hundred and twenty marks for each game won.

FOOTBALL GOSSIP.

Exclusive chat on English Teams and Players.

By "Tynesider."

Joe Dodds, the popular Celtic defender is now in possession of a public house in the East End of Glasgow.

White of Hamilton Accies, a custodian with a very safe pair of hands, when in the army filled a centre half position. Previous to the war he held Vale of Clyde's citadel.

Hardy, the luckless Villa's keeper cannot recall a season during recent years when he handled the ball so frequently.

Do not be surprised when Hufton West Ham's custodian gets his cap. His displays are deserving of it, and the selectors have their eye on this talented player.

There is a keen rivalry for Millwall's right half position. Many think Grant as good as Voisey despite the fact that the latter got his cap.

Puddefoot, England's scoring centre is no relation of the famous "Pussyfoot."

The breakdown of Pyke, allowed Ramsey to get his chance on Newcastle's line, he has seized it well, and will take some displacing.

Clay has earned the title of the South's best right back. The Tottenham defender is worthy of such a description.

There are more sensations pending in footer circles. The truth about Portsmouth's suspension of Hunter and Arnold will make interesting reading.

Everton will not be long ere they begin climbing to the top. The return of Chedgzoy and Harrison cannot fail to work a big difference in the "For" department.

An item which pleased the North was the news of the removal of the supension of Walker late manager of Middlesboro's F.C. It was overdue.

"Well played Jock Finlay!" this was shouted out by McCracken, to the clever Magpie's half back after a brilliant piece of play by the latter at St. Jame's Park. A word of encouragement from a captain goes a long way, and the crowd appreciated it.

With Mordue on the left wing, Sunderland have broken the Buchan-Mordue wing for the first time since 1910.

Following the tremendous shaking up of places this season, which only proves that a good footballer can fill any position, we should not be surprised if we found Hardy leading England's line next.

RAPID SCORING.

No. 2 Coy. Lancs. Div. Train v. Lancs. Division H. Q.

Played on the ground of the former at Beuel on Sunday. The visitors started off with a rush, and although they did not have it all their own way, scored the first goal six minutes from the start. The home team equalised immediately and followed this up at once with another goals in two minutes from the start. The game was now fast and furious, first one side pressing hard and then the other but without success, for both sides seemed fairly evenly matched. The visiting forwards played fine combination football, but were met resolutely by the home defence.

The play in the second half was much the same as the latter part of the first. Although both sides tried hard neither could get another goal until just on time, when the visitors equalised with a shot that the home "goalie" first stopped and then let through. Earnshaw (1) and Keegan (1), inside men for the home team, played their usual good game, the wingers also doing their bit and doing it well, although they were almost half the size of the respective half-backs against them. C.S.M. Davies at centre-forward played well but without luck. The home team rather handicapped in the second half through the retirement of Keegan, who badly sprained his arm in falling just after the interval. Result:— 2—2.

NOTABLE FOOTBALL RECORD.

No. 3 G.H.Q. Res. M.T. Coy., who were well known on the Rhine in connection with football last season, have again opened the season in fine style. So far they have played five matches and have won them all without having their defence pierced. The following is their record:—

v. Workshops 6—0.
v. 13th M.A.C. 2—0.
v. Rhine Flotilla 7—0.
v. Rhine Convalescent Camp 1—0,
v. Rhine Siege Park 3—0.

KEEN "SOCCER."

52nd D.L.I. Orderly Room v. 3rd Bde., H.Q.

A very evenly contested match was witnessed between these two teams on the formers ground at Riehl. From the kick off the Bde. broke away in fine style, but shot wide. The D.L.I's carried play into the Bde's half and gave the defence a difficult job, their efforts to score being very strenuous. Eventually, the Bde. backs got the situation in hand and cleared successfully. Another attempt by the D.L.I's ended in a goal kick, from which Bde. carried play into the D.L.I's half, and sent in many fine shots, the final one just grazed the bar. For several minutes, end to end play followed and half time arrived with no score. The second half opened with a fine piece of footwork by the Bde. left wing, but a wide shot relieved the D.L.I's anxiety. After this, the D.L.I's broke away in clever style and notched the first goal of the match. With a thirst for an equaliser, the Bde. fought hard and a bout of good play was witnessed on both sides, but finally the Bde. forwards gained the upper hand and scored. The final arrived a few minutes later the score standing at 1-1.

BENEFIT FOR "JOCK" SIMPSON.

As it is very doubtful whether "Jock" Simpson will ever play football again, the Blackburn Rovers' directors have decided to pay him his wages for the whole season and also to give him a benefit match.

TURF STATISTICS.

Tetratema Tops The Winning List With £11,494.

OWNERS, TRAINERS AND JOCKEYS

Several alterations in the winning lists are necessitated as the result of the racing of last week, though the positions at the head of the respective tables remain unchanged.

Owners.

	No. of horses.	Races won.	£
Glanely, Lord	16	35	29,493
Derby, Lord	19	35	21,116
McCalmont, Major D.	6	16	14,865
White, Mr. J.	12	27	11,524
Hulton, Sir E.	10	16	10,612
Joel, Mr. S. B.	16	29	9,552
Astor, Major	2	6	8,120
Cazalet, Mr. W.	8	12	8,166
Jersey, Lord	7	14	8,080
Owen, Mr. H. C.	8	20	7,715
Singer Mr. W. M. G.	7	10	7,180
Noble, Sir G.	7	14	7,048

Trainers.

	No. of horses.	Races won.	£
Taylor, A.	21	34	31,873
Barling, F. B.	18	29	28,477
Lambton, Hon. G.	26	50	27,107
Persse, H. S.	29	38	24,651
Lines H.	24	45	12,627
Gilpin, P. P.	11	18	11,508
Day, R.	18	30	11,165
Cottrill, H. L.	14	31	11,019
Dewhurst, Capt.	14	23	10,911
Hartigan, F.	16	25	10,54
Loates, S.	16	29	9,672
Beatty, Major	19	28	8,196

Jockeys.

	1st	2nd	3rd	Unp.	T'tl.
Donoghue, S.	115	109	65	173	462
Carslake, B.	92	58	38	108	296
Smyth, V.	67	53	48	189	357
Whalley, A.	65	54	42	150	311
Colling, G.	57	50	45	206	358
Fox, F.	55	49	44	250	398
Templeman, F.	49	43	46	82	220
Hulme, G.	48	37	36	142	263
Slade, F.	43	38	33	165	279
Wheatley, E.	40	47	26	107	220
Childs, J.	33	35	24	86	178
Smith, A.	30	11	9	33	83

Winning Horses.

	Races won.	£
Tetratema (2 yrs), c by The Tetrarch—Scotch Gift	5	11494
Keysoe (3 yrs), f by Swynford—Keystone II.	4	8087
Buchan (3 yrs), c by Sunstar—Hamoaze	5	7640
Grand Parade (3 yrs), c by Orby—Grand Geraldine	2	7266
Arion (4 yrs), c by Valens—Post Horn	4	5446
Bayuda (3 yrs), f by Bayardo—Jessica	1	4950
Roseway (3 yrs), f by Stornaway—Rose of Ayrshire	2	4894
Sarchedon (2 yrs), c by The Tetrarch Perfect Peach	4	4852
The Panther (3 yrs), c by Tracery—Countess Zia	1	4850
By Jingo (5 yrs), c by Aquascutum—Minnesota	2	4675
Haki (aged), br h by Rabelais—Hasseki	4	4595
Orpheus (2 yrs), c by Orby—Electra	5	4007

BOXING.

Jim Driscoll Defeated by a Frenchman.

At the National Sporting Club yesterday, in a 20-round contest, Jim Driscoll was defeated in the sixteenth round by the well-known French boxer Charles Ledoux. The fight was for side-stakes and purse totalling £1,450.

Driscoll, who won the Lonsdale belt outright in 1911, is generally known as the retired feather-weight champion of England. He gave up pugilism in 1913 after his 20-round fight with Owen Moran, on account of defective sight.

JIMMY WILDE AND U.S.A.

World's Fly-weight Champion to Sail on October 29th.

Jimmy Wilde, the world's fly-weight champion will leave Liverpool for New York on Oct. 29 by the White Star liner Baltic. Wilde will make three public appearances before he leaves—at Bishop Auckland, next Saturday afternoon, and at Hartlepool in the evening, making his farewell at the Liverpool Stadium on the following Monday morning.

It is stated that one of Wilde's contests in the States will be with Pete Herman, the American bantam-weight champion, at the National Sporting Club of New York, but there is no official confirmation of this at present.

Wilde, who injured his left shoulder a little while ago, has been, and still is, under treatment by Mr. Frank Matthews, but he will be alright again before he leaves England.

FRENCH HEAVY-WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

A 20-round boxing match for the French heavy-weight championship between Nilles (holder) and the coloured boxer Paul Hams (challenger) will take place tonight at the Salle Wagram, Paris.

BILLIARDS.

Stevenson and Newman commenced a match of 16,000 up yesterday, Newman receiving 1,000 start. Closing scores were:—

Newman (in play) 2,254; Stevenson, 914.

Another 16,000 up-match is being played by Reece and Falkiner, who started yesterday level. The closing scores were:—

Falkiner 1,291; Reece (in play) 1,142.

Reece will be meeting Falkiner on level terms for the first time, which is a graceful concession to the younger professional. Moreover, it will be the first of three matches (the others will be against Newman and Smith) for which Reece has been specially retained by Thurston's, and the popular Lancastrian should be making his score-peg move along to some effect. And in Falkiner he will find a counterpart in all those things that go towards making billiards an enthralling game.

1st League Result.

On Monday, at Sheffield, Sheffield United defeated Blackburn by 2—0.

AMUSEMENTS AND RECREATIONS.

RECORD YOUR VOTE.

Later Starts Not Popular.

The change in the time of commencement of entertainments in Cologne from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. is a subject of considerable discussion at the moment. It seems that objections to the later hour are numerous, and not the least affected by the alteration are the artistes themselves. As an instance, the Rhine Army Dramatic Company have been in the habit at the conclusion of each performance of rehearsing future plays. Finishing an hour later will obviously make the work considerably more trying. The Company, by the way, have hit upon the happy idea of placing a ballot box in the Deutsches theatre, the members of the audience being invited to vote as to what time they consider entertainments should commence in Cologne. Since the matter is purely in the interests of patrons, the hour indicated by the majority will probably be adopted.

An Eastern Lecturer.

We are pleased to learn that the Rev. A. M. Perkins has arrived in Cologne on a lecturing tour for the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Perkins was one of the best-liked lecturers to the troops in France, but unfortunately some twelve months ago he met with a serious motoring accident which kept him in hospital for eight months. He is lecturing to-night at the Loreley Hall, Central Y.M.C.A., Cologne, and everyone who can should endeavour to hear him. He is a most fluent speaker and has a wonderful knowledge of Eastern history and affairs. I recently heard him talk for an hour on the subject of Bagdad, that wonderful city of wealth and learning of the eighth century, when Harun al Raschid was Caliph. It was like listening to the "Arabian Nights," and the imagination of the audience was thoroughly stirred.

A French Play.

A few of the Army General and Commercial College students attending the advanced French classes gave parts of Molierées play "Le Bourgevio Gentilhommé" on Friday evening. The difficult part of Mons. Jourdain was ably taken by Lieut. Miller; L/Cpl. McCormack was good as the didactic Maitre de Philosophi, Lieut. Ramsay took the part of the agile Maitre de Dance and Pte. Redshow was the serious Maitre de Musique. Bombardier Turner was a good garçon Tailleur while Pte. Sherrard as the Maitre D'Armes and and Pte. Armstrong as the Luquais completed the cast. The "Direction" and the artistes rendering of this amusing comedy elicited great applause. At the conclusion Mrs. West, who had played the minuet music, gave a selection from Chaminade, while Mrs. Viner sang charmingly two French songs.

Coming Events at the Leave Club.

To-day there will be an impromptu concert in the music room from 5—6 p.m. followed by a dance in the theatre, at which the band of the 9th D.L.I. have kindly consented to play. There will also be an impromptu concert at 5 p.m. on Thursday, followed by a whist drive at 6.30 p.m. A dancing class for beginners will be held at 5 p.m. on Friday, and the cinema will be continuous throughout the afternoon and evening. On Saturday there will be an impromptu concert at 5 p.m., followed by a dance at 6.30 p.m.

Best of Luck.

I see Leslie Henson, long since back at his old job of making London laugh, has found time to become engaged. The happy lady is Miss Madge Saunders whose picture, I remember, used to adorn Leslie's billet in France, likewise the cover of a much requisitioned musical score that did service with his famous "Royal Gaieties."

Special Boxing Films.

Special attractions are announced at the Army Cinemas, Cologne, for three nights commencing to-morrow, Thursday, in the form of pictures of three of the biggest fights of recent months. They are the Beckett-McGoorty, Fulton-Townley and Basham-Charles bouts. The films aroused considerable interest when released recently in England by reason of their wonderful trueness to life.

JACQUES.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

G.H.Q. Sergeants' Mess Club: Final Shoot.

On Saturday last, the members of the above Club journeyed to the Merheim Ranges and spent the last of many enjoyable shoots this season.

Good shooting was the order of the day, several members making their highest score of the season.

The prize-winners were:—

Spoon: S/Sgt. Shaw, Royal Engineers,
Prize in B Section... C. S. M. Clinch, R.E.
1st Prize in Handicap...Sgt. Hemmings. A.P.C.
2nd Prize in Handicap .... Conductor Luker, R.A.O.C.

In the grand aggregate of the season, S/Sgt. Hart, Royal Engineers, and Conductor Luker, R.A.O.C., tied with 85.1 points each.

DUAL CAPTAINCY.

This is a year for University records in sport. The brothers Gilligan and Naumann, playing one on each side in the cricket match, furnished a case without parallel in the history of the game, and the rival captains at Lord's, Miles Howell and J. S. F. Morrison, are also to lead the Association football teams. So long ago as 1873 C.J. Ottaway captained Oxford in both matches; C. B. Fry enjoyed a similar distinction twenty years later, and I. P. F. Campbell was captain of both the Oxford cricket and Association clubs in 1914, but an injury prevented him from playing in the football contest. F. G. J. Ford, the famous left-handed batsman and goalkeeper, afforded the only instance of dual captaincy in these games for Cambridge; and thus for the first time both cricket captains have command of the Association elevens.

Cambridgeshire Scratching.

Rich Gift was scratched from the Cambridgeshire (to be run on 29th October) at 9 a.m. yesterday.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Wed.	The Flying Dutchman	Wagner	7	10
Thurs.	Cosi fan tutte	Mozart	7	10.30
Fri.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10
Sat.	Tiefland	d'Albert	7.30	10
Sun.	Faust	Gounod	6.30	10.30
Mon.	NO PERFORMANCE
Tues.	NO PERFORMANCE

Organ Recital.

At the 83rd (Dublin) General Hospital, Langenfeld, an organ recital was given by Capt. A. S. Blackwell, R. A. M. C. on Sunday last, on the church organ at the institution.

The programme included Bach's Prelude and Fugue in B flat, Tocatto and Fugue by Bach, Aria by Rheinberger from Op. 167 and a melody from Mendelssohn's second sonata. The performer must be congratulated for his masterly rendering of the fugal pieces. He is evidently no new student of the fugue; subject and counter-subject was well sustained, the attack and development of the theme showing the true spirit and interpretation of Bach's work, the greatest of which is his famous fugue.

The Tocatto was the best rendered composition of the programme, the doctor executing the rapid manual and pedal passages in good style. The slow response of the pedal action, although tubular-pneumatic, robbed the performer of much merit. The Mendelssohn melody, a pastorale movement, brought forth the softer string tones of the organ. This piece calls for frequent interchange of the manuals, showing the different timbre of the string work on the swell and great, and was tastefully performed.

The system of having the swell unenclosed, which appears to be a feature of German organs, robs the performer of any means of accent, there being no other means of obtaining a crescendo.

"ORGANUM."

FOOTBALL FORECASTS.

Result of Competition No. 4 to be Published To-Morrow.

Quite a number of competitors, 36 to be exact, failed to enclose the entrance fee with their coupons, in the contest now being adjudicated, while four competitors entered a total of nine coupons, without adding any addresses. We would advise all entrants to carefully read the rules.

As previously stated, we cannot accept local mark notes, and we adhere to this decision. Only notes which are current everywhere in Rhineland, namely those marked "Darlehnskassenschein" will be accepted.

The result of Contest No. 4 appears to-morrow, and the total prize money just falls short of 3,000 marks.

Fill in No. 5 coupon now, don't delay; our prize is worth the winning, and it's up to you to lift it.

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 5,
"Cologne Post,"
A.P.O. S.40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 5.

Date of matches, Saturday, Oct. 25th.
Closing date, Friday, Oct. 24th.

Preston N. E.	v. Newcastle U.
Sheffield U.	v. Manchester U.
Bradford	v. Chelsea
Grimsby	v. Hull C.
Bury	v. South Shields
Lincoln	v. Clapton Orient
Notts Forest	v. Wolverhampton
Swansea	v. Brighton
Exeter	v. Millwall
Luton	v. Portsmouth
Airdrieonians	v. Hamilton A.
Motherwell	v. Kilmarnock

I enter Football Competition No. 5 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(in block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Not Packed Now.

Anyone visiting the big cafes in Cologne would get a false notion as to the number of troops still in Rhineland. The cafes have ceased to be the prime favourite, since so many other attractions have been set going for the troops.

For Book lovers.

I hear that the takings in the New Army Bookshop in the Hohestrasse Arcade are increasing daily. The reading room is well patronised by both sexes and a largely augmented supply of books is on the way from England. The rendezvous, is, I am told, to be open on Sunday afternoon in future.

A Dangerous River.

A great many cases have occurred of drowning in the Rhine during the past few months. One reason, I believe, lies in the dangerous nature of the currents. Boating and bathing should only be indulged in by expert.

Just One Wrong Letter.

There is an Officer's Mess carried on in a big restaurant in Cologne frequented also by civilians. As these gentry were hanging their hats and coats in the officers' corner of the restaurant, the Mess Secretary requested the Manager to have a notice put up to prevent the annoyance. Next time he came into the mess he saw a card inscribed "These pigs are reserved."

Disregarding Rules.

One competitor in our fourth football contest enclosed a cutting of the rules of the competition, a quite unnecessary item. But to cap this he omitted to enclose the mark with his coupon.

Getting Value.

Have you noticed in picking up any of the German newspapers or illustrated journals how liberally besprinkled with advertisements they are. The Germans are great believers in print and paper and adepts at getting bold effects in small space.

The American Way.

The American authorities have established a special tribunal for vagrants in their zone. I noticed what looked like a party of candidates for such a court on the Coblenz station yesterday evening. They were all handcuffed.

Short Programmes.

Entering a German cinema the other evening I was astonished to find that the programme consisted of but two screen plays as against the usual Blighty programmes of five pictures. It evidently pays however, as at the end of each part and of the picture itself, numbers of the audience left the theatre, their seats being immediately taken by newcomers.

Few Flowers.

The only flowers that seem to be on sale in the streets of Cologne just now consist of a few third-rate "mums."

Expensive Shellfish.

Trust a German to do a thing well, but a friend just back from Berlin has an interesting souvenir in the shape of a bill on which the first item reads "One crab, —240 marks." Even at the present rate of exchange—well!

Added Books.

The Librarian at the Central Y.M.C.A. tells me that among the latest additions to the shelves are Compton Mackenzie's "Poor Relations," Gilbert Cannan's "Time and Eternity," Lucas Malet's "Deadham Hard," G. A. Birmingham's "Up, the Rebels," W.W. Jacobs' "Deep Waters," A. A. Milne's "First Plays," D. Flatau's "Bait," H. de vere Stacpoole's "Beach of Dreams," Sax Rohmer's "Dope," Frank Swinnerton's "September," W. B. Maxwell's "Man and his Lesson," and Edmund Gosse's "Diversions of a Man of Letters."

Verbatim.

The other morning in the Orderly Room of a unit near Cologne one of the witnesses, a young private, gave such a surprisingly detailed verbatim statement of the dialogue preceding an assault that the O.C. marvelled. It turned out that the witness had taken down every word in shorthand. In civil life he had been a police court reporter.

Blighty Addresses.

That our football competition has caught the popular fancy of the troops is evidenced by the numbers of coupons we are receiving which bear the home address of the competitor. Going on demob they are having a last attempt to win our prize. Its worth trying for. Have you sent your effort in yet?

From Swords to Ploughshares.

Before the war Krupps made many other things besides munitions of war. To-day I hear they are devoting the whole of their plant to the manufacture of peaceful implements, including agricultural machinery.

Bunny's Skin.

Noting the Frau in my billet making a hat for the younger daughter from a rabbit skin I was told it is a common practice out here. The skins which are of course well "cured" are made up into the cosy little winter hats which are so often seen to-day.

"Trink Gelder."

In the German cafes, etc. there is prominently displayed a notice regarding tipping being forbidden. The other evening two Tommies who had evidently been looking at the wine when it was red were heard to say, one to the other, "Here, Bill, let's have a bottle of this "Trink-Gelder," it must be good. They advertise it in all these blinking cafes."

A Pretty Custom.

Have you noticed the number of flag poles which abound in all the streets of Cologne? Almost all the houses of any size have one, as they have in other continental countries. Bunting is displayed on them at any national or religious festival.

Number Thirteen.

I have at last met a believer in this unlucky number. He joined up on the 13th of November 1916, came to France on the 13th of March '17, "went over" on a 13th, was wounded the same day, and evacuated to Blighty on a 13th. In hospital six weeks, he was discharged on a 13th. Married on leave on the 13th of January '18, he became a happy father on the 13th of this month. Rather a coincidence.

When Museums Open.

In answer to several enquires I can say that the Cologne Museum and Art Galleries are, as a rule, open every weekday from 10 to 8 and on Sunday from 10 to 2. On Monday they are closed.

Cut Notes.

Many and devious are the wiles of the wicked. I came across one this morning which was new to me. Many banks in Cologne are refusing notes which have been cut and then pasted together, even though the serial numbers agree. This is because many forged notes have been so dealt with and the halves attached to the corresponding portions of genuine notes.

Local Currency.

By the way, it may interest those of my readers who possess a stock of "dud" notes, including local authority currency, to know that the Reichsbank will collect these for them.

Rank Told.

I have just seen this rather good story in the "Daily Mirror."—A discharged officer called on a City man the other day on a matter of business. He was kept waiting for half-an-hour. His patience was exhausted.

"Will you tell Mr.—that I cannot wait any longer?" he said to the clerk.

"You mean Captain—?" came the reply.

"Oh, if that's the case," was the answer, "tell him that Major—wants to see him at once."

The shaft went home. A moment later he was ushered into the great man's presence.

More Growls.

Several officers have complained to me that since the Officers' Club ceased to be under the E.F.C. the tots of whisky have been growing smaller and dearer. There seems to be a grievance as to excessive dilution, too. Whether the complaints are justified I cannot say.

An Unusual Invitation.

One is so used to being ordered out of drinking places in England owing to restricted hours, that to be requested to prolong one's stay sounds unusual. But that is what happened the other day to those who were in the bar of the Central Y.M.C.A. The reason was that the Commander-in-Chief, General Sir William Robertson, had arrived to inspect the place.

The Difference.

In Cologne, of course, English is spoken in nearly all the big establishments, but in Mainz and Wiesbaden you hear French on all hands. RHINELANDER.

VANITY FAIR.

A Feature for the British Woman in Rhineland.

Jumpers Everywhere.

Of the making of jumpers there is no end—yet! The cry is, still they come! Jumpers here, there, everywhere; jumpers in season and out of season; jumpers morning, noon, and night. Some women are born jumper-makers; some achieve jumper-making; and some have jumpers thrust upon them. It is simply appalling the number of women who can knit jumpers; indeed, only a very small minority can't. Those girls who have refrained from making them—either because they can't, or out of the kindness of their hearts—should be awarded some recognition, if for no other reason than having endured the taunting gibes and superior attitude of those misguided friends of theirs who have not thus refrained.

Rivalry.

Dressmaking circles in Paris have been stirred by the news of a determined attempt being made by New York modistes to capture their American clientele. The impossibility of travel to Europe has given these Transatlantic houses a free field, and a report was circulated that they were about to carry the war into the Parisians' own territory. All the French dressmakers declare, that they do not fear competition of this kind. Nowhere in the world, they say, can a woman find such genius of divination for what suits her individual figure as Paris. All are agreed that though dresses will gradually become fuller, neither crinoline nor second Empire styles have any chance of popularity in the immediate future.

How To Clean Ermine.

With reference to my paragraph on row to clean ermine, a correspondent writes:—The instructions are very good but I do no think your process removes the yellow tinge. Perfectly white Russian ermine becomes yellow either by being exposed to the sun or old age. Wet starch is most commonly used by furriers. Furriers have been trying for years to find some remedy to remove the yellow tinge from ermine and the person who succeeds will make his fortune very quickly.

The Very Rendezvous.

The question of where to sit down and await one's husband in Cologne has been solved. In the Passage or Arcade off the Hohe Strasse will be found just what is wanted. There are the most recent novels to be purchased in tempting array. In addition there is a room specially set aside for ladies and children where all the best known fashion journals are to be seen in addition to the daily papers and periodicals.

Furry Types.

Like jewels, different furs suit different types of women. There is the sealskin type, the skunk type, the sable type, and the astrakhan type. So long as women are true to their type they cannot go far wrong in fur, for the right kind of fur to wear is the fur that suits one.

Black Silk Stockings.

Black silk stockings are so expensive that it may be interesting to know how they were washed by our great-grandmothers. Make a latner of hot soap and water, and add a little salt; wash the stockings quickly, rinse them in lukewarm water, and wring them out. Lay them flat in a cloth, and roll them up till nearly dry; smooth them out, and rub them one way on the right side with soft flannel until dry.

Furs the order.

The weather is wintry and women are wearing furs with satisfaction. By taking to them early in the season they show good sense, for the first cold of autumn is always trying to the health. Fur of all kinds can be worn, but dark brown, as sable, mink, polecat, skunk, and every kind of imitation, are the most fashionable. Moleskin is also to be seen, and ermine always has a place. Chinchilla is for arch-millionaires, and astrakhan and broadtail are worn in moderation and chiefly by older women.

Scotch Plaids With Leather.

Cloaks and capes are worn very much this autumn, and in all kinds of material. You see heavy woollen cloaks with Kate Greenaway capes either in fur or the same material as the rest of the cloak; you see velvet with fur, satin trimmed with leather and Indian cachemire with fur. AGNES.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Viscount Astor Dead.—Viscount Astor, the American millionaire, has died.

Ratified.—Austria has ratified the Peace Treaty.

No Money.—The bank clerks at Alexandria are on strike.

Paris Honoured.—Paris has been presented with the Croix de Guerre.

Back.—Berlin metal workers are back at work.

Echo of Kut.—The Kut court-martial will be resumed next week.

Closed.—The stalking season in the Highlands has closed.

More Sugar.—There is a likelihood that the sugar order at home will be relaxed

Swift Housing.—It is said that concrete houses can be put up in a fortnight.

Steadily Rising.—The cost of living in Blighty is steadily rising.

Paris Coal.—The Paris coal shortage will probably last until 1921.

Popular.—Shaw's plays are being staged in Berlin.

No More.—Bobbed hair is out of date in New York.

Apples in Plenty.—Kent's apple crop is reported to be tremendous.

Poor Jamaica.—Jamaica is to have an income tax.

Unappreciated.—A Hants village was offered a German machine gun, rifle and bayonet, water bottle and mess tin.

The Only Way.—On account of coal shortage railway traffic will be stopped in Saxony on Sundays.

Short Time Too.—The German National Assembly is undertaking the censorship of films.

Motor Scooter Dangers.—A motor scooter driven in a London street took fire.

By Air.—An art treasure valued at £500 was carried from Paris to London by air.

Missing.—Six hundred pairs of boots were missing from Army depots at Warminster during the summer.

The Doctors' Dilemma.—The idea of an eight hour day for doctors is ruled as absurd.

A King's Offer.—King Alfonso offered to lead his cavalry on behalf of France at one period of the war.

Dress Rehearsals.—The Zeebrugge raid was rehearsed on the cliffs of Wouiham, Kent.

Tenure.—L.C.C. allotment holders have petitioned for extension of tenure of two years from the official end of the war.

Perhaps.—It is thought that the release of Government cloth will make clothes cheaper.

As Sports.—The Basuto chiefs in England do not approve of betting on horse-racing.

Recognition.—L.C.C. tram drivers are to have two days leave with pay for their work during the recent strike.

All Equal.—We are not on a pedestal; we are level with the people.—Bishop of Birmingham.

No Politics.—"Pals, but no politics" is the advice of Earl Haig to ex-service men.

Proud Lowestoft.—Lowestoft has presented pieces of plate to the cruiser Lowestoft.

Starved.—There were twenty-six deaths from starvation in England and Wales last year.

One a Day.—One party of prisoners will sail from England to Germany each day.

Where are They?—The population of Berlin has been reduced by 173,000 since 1910.

Another Instalment.—Twenty million marks in gold are on their way to England.

On the Make.—According to the ex-president of the National Free Church Council, everybody has been on the make during the last five years.

The Perfect Woman.—The Queen of Belgians is regarded by an American professor as the supreme type of feminine physique.

The "America" Cup.—It is generally considered that the New York Yacht Club will accept Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for the America Cup next year.

Ceratopogon Pulicaris!

You may not recognise his name—but you know him quite well. He's the little stinging fly which is biting everyone who tries to enjoy the evening outdoors. He will not bite you, however, if you always use. . . .

SAPON RUSSIAN TAR SOAP

You can defy all mosquitos, gnats and other pests which sting and bite.

A Doctor writes:— "I find your Russian Tar Soap gives wonderful results in irritable skin diseases, such as Scabies, Eczema, Pruritus, Insect Bites, Acne, etc." The following is the best method of application:— Moisen the Soap, rub it on the part affected, and allow it to dry.

Sold throughout all the Army Canteens at

OFFICIAL PRICE

Do not pay more. Insist on being supplied. If any difficulty advise us and we will pay postage.

SAPON SOAPS LIMITED
LONDON BRIDGE E.C.4., ENGLAND

—where Harvey's Hunting Port is stored. These ancient cellars, extending under many of the streets of Bristol and covering many acres of historic ground have a spaciousness and purity of atmosphere which combine to provide the ideal conditions in which a fine wine may mature and come to perfection.

HARVEY'S
"Hunting Port"

A fine old Tawny Port, always in brilliant condition and fit for immediate use. Supplied to Clubs and Messes in all parts of the world.

78/- per doz. f.o.b.

John Harvey & Sons, Ltd.
Founded 1796. BRISTOL. ENGLAND.
Purveyors of Wines to H.M. KING GEORGE V

KODAKS
New and Second-hand at keenest prices. Send for Lists. All Supplies by Post.
Wallace Heaton Ltd.
19, Change Alley, SHEFFIELD

DON'T FORGET TO RENEW YOUR MONTHLY HOME SUB.

Send 15 Marks or 2/6 and we continue where it left off.

UNCLES
read The Cologne Post. Send it daily to yours.

THE LEGEND OF THE DOM.

Cologne, owing chiefly to the presence of the army of occupation, stands out so prominently among the cities of the Rhineland that special interest is attached to its Cathedral, said to be the most magnificent ecclesiastical structure in the world, excepting, perhaps St. Peter's at Rome.

Consternation spread throughout Germany when, between three and four years ago, the Kaiser and his advisers, in the stress owing to the lack of metal for munitions, decided to remove from the campanile of the cathedral the great "Kaiser bell," and melt it down for ammunition.

The legend as to the origin of Cologne Cathedral, blended at once in the supernatural and the Satanic, is, in the light of recent events, well worth re-telling.

Archbishop Conrad of Hochstenden, wishing to erect at Cologne a cathedral which should outvie in splendour all the churches of Germany and France, invited a celebrated local architect to prepare and submit a plan.

Gerhard von Reile, or Rile, is supposed to have been the name of the architect, who set about his stupendous task in 1248. Hochstenden's scheme was of so grandiose a character that Raile, doubting his own abilities, spent a vast amount of time in formulating his plans.

Once during a country walk, he sat down on a bank of the Rhine, and, in an abstracted manner, tried with his walking-stick to draw the façade of a church. An old man, walking along the bank, stopped near Raile, and looked intently at his outline in the sand.

"Mainz, Amiens, or some other city famous through its cathedral," he remarked with a sneer. Then the architect had to recognise that his supposed inspirations were merely recollections!

Wounded in his professional pride, he turned to the old man and, with acerbity, asked him whether he thought he could make as good a sketch of a cathedral façade.

The stranger, without uttering another word, took the walking-stick, and, with incredible rapidity, sketched an original plan in the sand.

"Ah!" exclaimed Reile, struck with the graceful outlines, "I see that you know your art. Are you, by chance, from Cologne?"

"No," replied the stranger, returning the stick.

"Continue—finish your plan, I implore you," said Reile.

"Not so, as I should then give you my scheme, and you would have all the honour in case of reproduction."

"I will give you ten golden crowns to finish it!" cried the architect excitedly.

Thereon, the old man drew from beneath his cloak an enormous leather purse which he showed full of gold coins. Then he tossed it in the air in a careless manner and caught it in its fall, indicating thereby that he was independent of money.

Suddenly the architect, exasperated by the disdainful demeanour of the stranger, drew a dagger and rushed upon him. "Finish the plan or you shall die!" he exclaimed.

"Violence! and against me!" said the old man in a calm voice. With lightning agility he disarmed his adversary, and knocked him sprawling. "You now know," he added, "that neither gold nor violence can overcome my determination. Still, you may, if you wish, obtain the plan in an honourable manner."

"How?" inquired the architect, rising from the ground.

"By engaging your soul to me for eternity!"

The architect recoiled, uttered a cry of terror, made the sign of the cross on his forehead, and the stranger vanished. Several days passed. Meanwhile, Reile, greatly obsessed by the old man's sketches in the sand, made desperate efforts to formulate an imposing plan of his own.

But, contrive as he would, his ambition was vain. Inspiration would not come to his assistance. Once more at nightfall he found himself on the bank of the Rhine. He had not gone far when he overtook the old man, who appeared to be sketching in the sand, in lines of fire, the outlines of a cathedral front.

Plainly visible were the towers, the spires, the windows, the massive porticoes, the niches, the gargoyles, the tracery—the complete outline, in fact, of a magnificent church which flashed for a few moments and then was effaced. At length the mysterious stranger turned to him.

"Do you still wish for my plan?" he asked. Reile gave a deep sigh. The stranger struck with his hesitation, sketched in lines of fire a magnificent portico. Enraptured and altogether beyond self-restraint, the victim succumbed. "Give me your plan and I will do all you wish!" he murmured.

"To-morrow at midnight—here!" whispered the magician artist, and at once he disappeared from sight. The following morning, as the architect sat at a window speculating as to the best site in Cologne for the new building, his old housekeeper, attired in black, entered the room. "Where are you going, dressed in black?" he inquired.

"I am going to the church of the Holy Apostles to say a mass of deliverance for a soul in purgatory!" she replied. She had suspected what had happened. The architect, in the abandonment of despair, threw himself on his bed and burst into tears of remorse. "Neither mass nor prayer can deliver me now!" he cried. "I am damned for ever—because I have wished it!"

Having related the whole story to the house-keeper, she at once consulted a priest. The latter said that nothing could be done for the miserable man.

At the same time he was convinced that a cathedral such as that sketched by the old man would, from an ecclesiastical point of view, make Cologne the most illustrious city of Germany, and devotees would come there from all parts of the world.

"My good woman," said the priest, handing her a silver reliquary, "here is a relic of the eleven thousand virgins. Give it to your master. Tell him to take it with him on his next meeting with the magician—tell him to seize the plan of the marvellous church before completing the engagement as to bartering his soul, then let him exhibit this relic."

At midnight the architect kept the appointment. "There is the plan of the cathedral, and there is the document for you to sign," remarked the stranger. Thereon the architect seizing the marvellous plan with one hand, held out the relic with the other. "By virtue of this holy relic, vanish Satan!" he exclaimed. For a moment the old man remained immovable. "A priest has counselled thee—it is a trick of the Church," he retorted. He made a desperate effort to recover the plan but without avail. The holy relic proved more powerful than his Satanic powers.

"I admit defeat," cried the magician, "but in spite of your relics and your priests I will be revenged. By a trick you have robbed me of my plan. Cologne Cathedral never shall be finished. I will efface your name from the memory of men. You, the architect of the finest cathedral in the world, shall not be damned by me. You shall have a worse fate—you shall be forgotten by posterity!" Then again he vanished.

Soon, according to the marvellous plan, the architect commenced the building of the magnificent fane, which grew day by day. At length, remembering the threat of the author of the plan, he resolved to have his name engraved on a copper plate to be fixed in the portico of the building. Vain hope! Suddenly there broke out quarrels between Archbishop Hochstaden and the residents of Cologne, with the result that the work was indefinitely suspended. The architect, heart-broken, died suddenly, and, if trustworthy historians are to be believed, his true name has been lost in oblivion.

From "The Builder."

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

Second-hand cameras, mirror reflex cameras in great variety, cameras with Zeiss, Goerz, Voigtländer. Optic for sale cheap. Max Frein, Inhaber August Lang, Photo-Handlung, Köln, Kleine Neugasse 9-11.

WAR SOUVENIRS. Paper Money representing nearly every town in Germany. 700 variaties including many rare specimens. Also many interesting coins. Price 1250 Mks. Reply Box S.M.I. Cologne Post A.P.O. S. 40

ONE MONTHS' subscription to the Cologne Post including postage for sale. Price 15 Marks. Have it sent home daily.

COMPLETE set of "The Studio" to 1912 is for sale. Offers with price to A 300, Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40.

OLD STAMP COLLECTION for sale. On view from 5 p.m., Krumbach, Köln-Nippes, Franziskastr. 18 part.

FOR DOG LOVERS! German sheep dog, a rare and beautiful animal, purest breed for sale. Offers under A299 Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40.

OFFICERS Wife has for disposal Natural Skunk Fur, length 2½ yards, width 12 inches. Price 900 Marks or nearest offer. Box 212 Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40.

MOTOR-bicycle for sale. New Wanderer 1 H.P. latest model, enamelled in colour ready to be used. Apply at the Cycleshop Hammes at the South Station.

ITALIAN old Violin for sale M. 500.—. Assemacher, Vogteistrasse 29 near Hanaring.

NETTEL Sonne 6½ × 9 Can be used in hospital regius. 3 met. Cass. 1 Filmpackcas. Nettel Anastigm. 6.8 to be sold for M. 325.—. Engelstein 106 IV.

WANTED.

PRISMATIC binoculars, Zeiss or Goerz, new or second-hand. 30 mm 6, central focussing. Or special 40 mm O. S. For particulars & price to Box 20, Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40.

EVERY DEMOBBED soldier wanted to continue reading the Cologne Post in Blighty. Send 15 Marks for one month's subscription now.

STOCK ROOM wanted. One with office preferred. Must be in good position. Box 199, Cologne Post. A.P.O. S.40

VARNISH FIRM wants English Varnish. Off. A. 295 Cologne Post A.P.O. S. 40.

TRUMPET-CORNET SOLOIST as partner in and to rehearse Musical act for production on British Variety Stage after demobilization. Apply Box 210. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40.

Typ writer in serviceable condition wanted. No fancy prices. Particulars to A 298. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S 40.

SITUATIONS VACANT.

ENGLISH GIRL, being demobilised, wanted as nurse for British Officer's little girl, age 2, in Cologne for 3 or 4 months. Reply by Friday to Box 211, Cologne Post, A.P.O. S 40.

TRADE.

DEMOBILISED N.C.O. Englishman with connection with the best wholesale houses in England wishes to act as agent for German manufacturers in the following goods: Steel Goods, Fancy leather goods Toys of all descriptions and other suitable lines. Particulars to R. H. Parkinson junr., Maudland Bank, Haslingden nr. Manchester, England

LANGUAGES.

GERMAN, well educated young lady, wishes to have conversation with an English lady for exchange of languages. Write Käthe R. 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O. S 40.

GERMAN quickly learnt, easy method. Spandow 7 Rudolfplatz, near Opera House. Twenty years experience in English Schools.

SPORT.

FOOTBALL: Matches wanted, home and away. 3rd Traffic Control Squadron, Cologne.

THE N.A.B.C. FOOTBALL CLUB requires Home and Away Matches for the first and second Eleven. All Dates open except November, 5th and 14th. Replies to:—Secretary, N.A.C.B., Football Club, N.A.C.B., Headquarters, Rhine Army.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

YOUMG LADY seeks situation as English Interpreter. Shorthand and typewriting. Apply Ehrenfeld, Ross-Strasse 9.

GOOD cook seeks position. Speaks English. Heary Schmitz, Vogelsangerstr. 277, Cologne.

PERSONAL.

ANY person having claims against 51st Bn. The Durham Light Infantry are requested to render them to the Officer Commanding 51st Bn. The Durham Light Infantry, British Army of the Rhine, before 31st Oct. 1919.

LOST.

THE COLOGNE POST lost daily, owing to not sending subscription before demob. Send 15 Marks now with your Blighty address.

LOST, an amber bracelet on Sunday evening, between Bayenthal Gurtal and Ewige Lampe. Reward on returning to 28, Bayenthal Gurtal.

200 MARKS REWARD. Lost, on 19th Oct. near Opera House. Wallet containing English, French and German money. Box 213 Cologne Post A.P.O. S. 40.

500 Mks. REWARD

Left by mistake on the pavement outside No. 301 Luxemburger Strasse in the early hours of the 20th inst. a brown Canvas Suitcase with bras fittings containing lady's garments and jewellery. The above reward with be paid to any one giving information to Lieut. Savill VI Corps Club, Cologne, which will lead to the recovery of the lost articles.

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, October 22, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

RESULT OF FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 4.

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

DON'T FORGET TO RENEW YOUR HOME SUBSCRIPTION

No. 176. COLOGNE, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

BRITAIN'S NEGLECTED LAND.

GOVERNMENT DETERMINED TO GROW ENOUGH WHEAT FOR HOME CONSUMPTION.

FINAL SESSION OF TANK COMMISSION.

BRITISH FARMING.

GOVERNMENT'S FOSTERING POLICY.

Mr. Lloyd George yesterday afternoon addressed a meeting of agriculturists at Caxton Hall on the subject of the Government's Agricultural Policy. Lord Lee of Fareham presided. Interest in the speech chiefly centred on the announcement which the Premier made regarding the extension of guaranteed minimum prices for wheat and oats.

He emphasised the fact that agriculture is still the greatest of our industries, but in no civilised country had the State done so little to foster it, a condition of things that he hoped would soon be remedied. Since 1871 the number of persons engaged in cultivating the soil had decreased by 700,000 and this neglect of such an essential industry had brought the country in 1917 to the verge of disaster. Had Germany neglected agriculture as we had done she would have collapsed within a year. The Premier gave figures showing how little we produced per hundred acres as compared to Germany with her far inferior soil, while comparison with Denmark was even worse. These figures, he said, showed what could be done by real parntership between the State and Agriculture. We have been too near disaster to run such a risk again. We must not tempt any enemy to aggression by the idea that it is possible to starve us out.

Increasing the output.

To help redress the adverse exchanges, agriculture, like other industries, must also do its share by increasing the output. It is possible to raise in Great Britain the 150 million pounds worth of foodstuffs which annually come from abroad. The efforts made by Agriculture during the war have already shown what could be done. (Mr. Lloyd George here paid a warm tribute to the Women's Land Army).

Before the war three fifths of the grain consumed in Great Britain was imported. but now it only forms two fifths. That was the result of the Corn Production Act, which not only increased production but enabled the farmer to pay the highest wages for reduced hours,—for the hours had already been reduced—and this without the loss of a penny to the State. It is essential therefore that the farmer be given guarantees, the amount and period of which are now being considered by a Commission.

Patriotic landowners.

As increasingly disturbing factor in agriculture is the fact that enormous tracts of land are passing into the market. This year alone over one million acres will have changed hands. This is due to the burden of heavy taxation on the landowning classes, who, whatever they had been, were not of the profiteering class. Agricultural rents even now remain substantially what they were. As an old opponent of the landowning classes, Mr. Lloyd George paid a warm tribute to the part they took in the fight for their native land. They had responded to every appeal with a patriotism which was an inspiriting example.

In view of these inevitable sales of lands, the farmer stands in need of protection if he is to respond to an appeal for increased production. Therefore it is proposed that he be secured in his tenancy, except where the land is required for public purposes, or he can be shown to be a bad cultivator. It is also proposed, where notice to quit is given in order to raise the rent, that the tenancy shall not be affected.

There is a guarantee that the agricultural labourer will get a good minimum wage, but as regards hours he appealed to the agricultural labourer, as a friend who had fought for him before his present friends were heard of, to do his share in the national programme of food-production and not to take advantage of the present labour shortage to insist upon conditions which will make national production impossible in this country.

Credit facilities essential.

Mr. Lloyd George also appealed to the great banking institutions to help the farmer in the development of his land. He hoped the credits required would be obtainable by ordinary business methods, but the Government is determined to leave nothing undone to secure the end in view, and he regarded credit facilities as essential. There must also be increased transport facilities and he hoped the new railway rates would not hamper the farmer. In this respect he urged the advantages of co-operation among farmers in bulking goods, and a wider use of labour saving appliances.

The Premier concluded a comprehensive speech by urging the need—as a simple business proposition—of making village life more attractive.

PRINCE'S VISIT TO U. S. CANCELLED.

It is authoritatively stated that the visit of the Prince of Wales to the United States has been definitely abandoned.

TANK CLAIMS.

COMMISSION CONCLUDES ITS INQUIRY.

The Tanks Commission of Inquiry was yesterday again occupied with the claims of Sir William Tritton and Major Wilson. These applicants had pooled their ideas and were, it was claimed, responsible for the main features of the tanks employed in the first battle of the Somme.

As showing that Sir William Tritton was not a money grabber Counsel said it was orginally intended to fit the tanks with Rolls-Royce engines but Sir William Tritton thought Daimlers would be more suitable and his firm arranged with Daimlers to supply the engines, Daimlers paying his firm a commission. Sir William Tritton did not like the idea of himself and his firm benefiting from his suggestion to put in Daimler engines and he accordingly voluntarily gave up to the Treasury sums amounting to one hundred and fifteen thousand pounds.

Giving evidence, Sir William said that while the Rolls-Royce engine was a beautiful one for comfort, the Daimler was more suitable to a heavy and slow-moving machine. He afterwards described how he and Major Wilson, while staying at an hotel at Lincoln, made drawings in the evenings, but on account of the secret nature of the project these were burnt each night.

Colonel Johnston, Superintendent of the Tank Designs and Experiments at the War Office, said that in the early days of the Somme, the tanks could hardly be relied on. Their various defects had a depressing effect on the Tank Corps and at one time it was a question whether the Corps would be continued.

Counsel contended that it must not be argued that because Sir William Tritton's firm made a profit out of the construction of tanks, Sir William Tritton was not personally entitled to claim a bounty.

On the President of the Inquiry expressing dissent, Counsel replied that any way this did not affect the claim of Major Wilson who did not benefit from the manufacture of the tanks.

Counsel for the Crown, opposing both the claimants, asserted that their designs, while conforming more or less to the requirements of the authorities, were sufficiently bad as very nearly to cause the abandonment of the whole scheme.

The Chairman, interposing: "And sufficiently good to warrant an order for one thousand."

The Solicitor General again contended that the tank was not an invention but a collaboration in which many participated.

The Commission then rose, having concluded the enquiry.

GERMAN SHIPPING.

EVASION OF TREATY TERMS.

The British Peace delegation in Paris has submitted a memorandum to the Supreme Council showing that the German ships Johann Heinrich, Burchard, William Oswald, Braunschweig, Denderah and Nassau have not been surrendered to the Allies on the belated plea that these ships had been sold to Dutch companies.

The memorandum says that both the German's and Dutch are well aware that this transfer is invalid.

The view of the Allies regarding such transfers to Neutrals was explained to Neutrals in a circular dated 7th November 1918, wherein it was definitely established by common agreement between the Allied and Associated Powers and Germany that German vessels transferred to a neutral flag during the war without Allied consent must be regarded as German vessels.

AMERICAN LOAN TO GREAT BRITAIN.

Messrs. J. P. Morgan and Company announce the issue of a 250 million dollar loan to Great Britain. This loan will mature in three and ten years and may be converted at any time into sterling bonds.

Part of the proceeds are to be used to take up the 5½ per cent. British notes which fall due on 1st November. The remainder will be available for Great Britain's requirements in the United States. This flotation is expected to stabilise the exchange very considerably.

A BOLSHEVIST REPORT.

A Bolshevist wireless message asserts that the Bolshevists have retaken Orel and on the Voronesh front have annihilated a force of nineteen regiments under Denikin's General Mamontoff. They claim to have captured two armoured trains, four guns and fifty machine guns.

President Wilson continues to improve. Tuesday was a much better day for him than usual.

FIERY FISHER.

MENACE OF THE GERMAN FLEET.

Tuesday being Trafalgar day, Lord Fisher's memories were published in volume form by Hodder and Stoughton, at the price of one guinea. The extracts already published in the "Times" afford a very good idea of the body of the work.

This extraordinary book of an extraordinary man, however, reveals some remarkable oninions and projects. Firmly convinced that war with Germany was inevitable, Lord Fisher used all his influece in 1905 and 1908 to persuade King Edward that the German Fleet should be "Copenhagened" at Kiel, i.e. wiped out by a surprise attack, as Nelson treated the Danish Fleet at Copenhagen.

He advocated at the same time the landing of an army on the Pomeranian coast, less than a hundred miles from Berlin. These projects apparently became known or were guessed at by the Kaiser, who was careful to explain that he thought the scheme quite justifiable from Lord Fisher's point of view.

It is interesting to note the warm praise that Lord Fisher has for Mr. McKenna as well as for Mr. Winston Churchill. "McKenna," he says, "is a real fighter and the Navy haters will pass over his dead body;" and again, "the sacred fire of efficiency burns brightly in him and he is a born fighter and good hater." Both Lord Fisher and King Edward were born in 1841," which the King thought a very good vintage year.

Lord Fisher says of King Edward "I am not sure whether he could do the rule of three but he had the heavenly gift of proportion and perspective."

Linking up the world.

A letter from Lord Fisher in the "Times" on Tuesday advocates facility of communications, as begetting community of interests, which is the only form of treaty that is not a mere scrap of paper.

For this reason he means to ask Mr. Schwab, of the Bethlehem Steel works (who built a swarm of submarines in five months) to construct and run a line of huge passenger steamers from New York to Blacksod Bay. Thence with the aid of submarine tubes from Larne to Stranraer, Dover to Calais, and under the Bosphorus the whole world could be linked up.

WINESHOP MURDER.

SENTENCE QUASHED ON APPEAL.

In the Criminal Appeal Court on Monday Arthur John Biggin successfully appealed against his conviction and sentence of 12 months' hard labour for manslaughter upon a charge of murdering a man named Gregory at a Hendon wine-shop. The conviction was quashed, and Biggin was set at liberty.

The Lord Chief Justice, in delivering the judgment of the Court, said in his cross-examination of the accused, Counsel for the Crown, had put questions which had the effect of extracting admissions from the accused. A number of these questions had no relevance whatever to the charge of murder or manslaughter. It had been expressly provided by Parliament that when a defendant went into the witness-box to give evidence he should not be cross-examined as to past offences or to circumstances which would show that he was a bad character.

"We are unable to say," concluded his Lordship, "that we are satisfied that the jury would have convicted if they had been told to pay no attention to the cross-examination. It seems that the accused's defence was that he killed Gregory in defending himself and in saving his own life, and, as Mr. Justice Darling says: 'If that was intended he is entitled to an aquittal.' The conviction for manslaughter must therefore be quashed, and the accused must be set at liberty."

WHAT IS INFLUENZA?

Dr. Ortecoin has communicated to the Society of Comparative Pathology, Paris, the result of a series of investigations which he has been carrying out at the Pasteur Institute. From these investigations he has decided that:

1. Influenza is due to an invisible and infiltrating virus in which the visible microbes, such as the Pfeiffer bacillus, only play a secondary rôle.

2. Human influenza differs from bubonic plague, but is assimilable to a certain number of animal epizooties such as the plagues attacking horses, pigs, and game.

NEW TITLES IN THE PEERAGE.

Tuesday's "London Gazette" announces the titles assumed by various recent recipients of peerages. Among these are Baron Beatty of the North Sea and of Brooksby, Leicestershire, Viscount Borodale of Wexford and Earl Beatty; Baron Haig of Bemersyde, Berwickshire, Viscount Dawick and Earl Haig; Viscount Allenby of Megiddo and Felixstowe (with remainder in default of male issue to his brother Captain Frederick Allenby, R.N. retired); Baron Plumer of Messines and Biltyn, Yorkshire; Baron Byng of Vimy and Thorpelesoken, Essex.

The extension of the diamond cutting factory at Brighton is approaching completion. It will afford accommodation for 2,000 disabled soldier and sailor employées.

MINE DISASTER.

CAGE CRASHES TO PIT BOTTOM.

A terrible accident occurred on Tuesday at the Levant mine, situated near the Cornish village of St. Just, near Penzance.

While the cage was midway in the shaft, the winding engine collapsed and the cage plunged to the bottom. It is believed that nearly forty miners have lost their lives and many others were injured. Nearly the whole of the underground staff, numbering about a hundred and fifty men, were in the cage when it crashed to the bottom.

PETROGRAD.

CONFLICTING STATEMENTS.

A Reuter telegram from Helsingfors announces that the Russian North-west-Army is still advancing. Ladimiroff, who recently escaped from Petrograd, has been appointed Governor General, in anticipation of the fall of the capital.

Steps have been taken to ensure that food supplies will be available for the city immediately the White troops enter, and the American Minister at Stockholm, Mr. Morris, has been requested by General Yudenitch and Liazonolf to assist in the work of relief by urging his Government to send supplies from America.

On the other hand a wireless message from Moscow states that the Reds are successfully advancing, and fighting is proceeding six miles North of Krasnoeselo.

VETERANS' MEMORIAL.

ONE MILLION POUNDS WANTED.

A meeting of the Veterans' Association was held at the Mansion House with the object of promoting an Imperial memorial to the glorious dead.

Mrs. Herbert Chantrey, who presided, said that owing to the railway strike the flag day on behalf of the memorial fund was not successful. It was therefore proposed to have another flag day throughout London on the 6th November.

Major Lewin explained that the object is to raise a million pounds in order to establish headquarters, with a thousand beds for men of all the services, past, present and future, also to provide convalescent homes for those who either from wounds or sickness, broke down after their return to civil life. The Association had already received five thousand pounds from Canada, one thousand from the Turf Club at Delhi, India, and lesser sums from other parts of the Empire.

A resolution in support of the objects of the Association was carried unanimously.

HUGE DIAMOND FOUND.

FLAWLESS GEM WORTH £100,000.

A blue-white brilliant weighing some 1,500 carats has been discovered at the Premier Diamond mine, (S. Africa) and as it is stated that it is without a flaw, its value is put roughly at £100,000.

It may be remembered that in 1905 the Cullinan diamond was found on the same property. It weighed 3,032 carats, but owing to flaws it had to be cut up into more than one brilliant, and the largest of these is now included amongst the Crown jewels of the Empire.

AMATEUR WIRELESS.

The ban on private wireless installations is now being removed. Under certain conditions the Postmaster General will grant permission for the erection of aerials to receive messages. Applicants must be of British nationality and must undertake not to divulge messages to anyone except Government officials.

All apparatus must be open to inspection by Post Office officials at any reasonable time, and the maximum height of aerials is limited to one hundred feet.

MEMORIAL TO DUTIFUL JOURNALIST.

The Bishop of Woolwich in Woolwich Cemetery, unveiled a marble memorial cross, erected by journalists over the grave of James Harvey Dale, sixteen, a pupil on the staff of the "South-Eastern Herald", who was fatally run over by a motor lorry while cycling to the office. When picked up his first thought was to take some "copy" from his pocket and hand it to a bystander, with the request that it should be taken to the office at once, as it was important.

FRENCH CHAMBER DISSOLVED.

Elected in 1914, the French Chamber was dissolved on Sunday. Owing to the war, elections were not practicable, and the Chamber exceeded the normal period by some sixteen months. During this time seven different Prime Ministers have held office. The elections will be held on Nov. 16.

The Court-martial on Lieutenant-Colonel Sherwood Kelly, who criticised the Government policy in North Russia, has been fixed for 29th October, at the Middlesex Guildhall.

PENNANT INQUIRY.

RUMOURS OF SCANDALS AND INTRIGUES.

In the course of the Pennant inquiry yesterday, Miss Pennant affirmed that the General Officer commanding the Midland Area intercepted reports addressed to her by Mrs. Beckett, whom she sent to investigate the conditions at the camp at Castle Bromwich. She declared that he told Mrs. Beckett that if the latter tried to communicate with Miss Pennant direct she would have to leave his area within twenty-four hours.

Among a number of rumours which reached her, Miss Pennant said there was one regarding the South Carlton Camp in Lincolnshire, where there were some American officers. One night some women's huts were raided and one room occupied by a girl officer was broken into by an American officer who was drunk.

Several Counsel said that as Miss Pennant's statement only referred to rumours, they would not cross-examine.

Sir Charles Russell, however, put some questions, but elicited little from Miss Pennant beyond reiterations of previous asseverations of intrigue against her.

PEERESS CANDIDATE.

WILL PROBABLY CONTEST PLYMOUTH.

An interesting point arises out of one of the latest vacancies in the House of Commons, caused by the succession of Major Astor, the member for Plymouth, to the peerage.

Local Conservatives are seriously considering an invitation to Viscountess Astor, wife of the new peer, to be their candidate.

It is claimed that she is under no legal disability, and there is no doubt she would be the strongest possible Coalition candidate, being very popular in the district and a great hand at electioneering. Her language at political meetings is often extremely racy.

POLICING MID-EUROPE.

AMERICAN PARTICIPATION DOUBTFUL.

Mr. Baker, United States War Secretary, announced yesterday that no American troops would be used for police work in Silesia or in any country for which a plebiscite has been proposed, until after the Senate had ratified the Peace Treaty. He also pointed out that should the Senate adopt the proposed reservation against American participation in police duty abroad, American troops could not be used for that purpose.

UNWRITTEN LAW.

FRENCHWOMAN ACQUITTED OF INFANTICIDE.

A case of peculiar interest came before the Seine Assizes on Monday, when Madame Lambert was charged with having caused the death of her daughter's child at Valenciennes in June, 1917.

It was stated that the father of the child was a Bavarian soldier, and the jury, taking into account the special circumstances of the case, acquitted Madame Lambert.

HANDICAP OF LOW WAGES.

Lord Leverhulme, who was entertained by the Authors Club at dinner on Tuesday night, said he believed the success of nations depended on the payment of high wages. Our great handicap in competing with the United States had been our low rate of wages. Nothing could be better for any nation than ambitious workmen.

IMPERSONATED OFFICERS.

At the Old Bailey yesterday a mining engineer was sentenced to five years penal servitude for obtaining money by fraud. Evidence was given that in six months he had impersonated ten different officers, thereby obtained goods, chiefly jewellery, to the value of six thousand pounds.

STEAMER MINED IN NORTH SEA.

A Lloyd's message from Hull yesterday showed that news had been received by wireless of the mining of the United States steamer Guimba eight miles west of No. 1 Lightship at 2.40 a.m. on Sunday. The vessel was making for Hamburg under her own power. According to news received last night, the Guimba reached Hamburg in a damaged condition.

SLAUGHTERMEN ON STRIKE.

Slaughtermen in London struck work yesterday, demanding higher rates per head for "koshering" or killing cattle according to the Jewish ritual, on the ground that it takes much longer than ordinary slaughtering. In consequence there is every prospect of a shortage of meat in London this week.

Lieutenant-General Sir William Marshall has sailed for India to take over the Command of the Southern Army.

JOY-RIDING.

NEW ORDERS TO BE STRICTLY ENFORCED.

In pursuance of instructions received from the War Office, the following G.R.O., which supersedes previous orders on the subject, has been issued by the Commander-in-Chief of the Army of the Rhine.

No W. D. vehicle, car, ambulance, lorry or bicycle will be used without the special authority of G.O.'sC. on any but strictly military duty.

No lady or other unauthorized person will be permitted to travel without the special authority of a G.O.C. in any W.D. car on any pretence whatever, either in the company of an officer or soldier or otherwise. Disciplinary action will be taken against the driver of the vehicle, any officer or N.C.O. present for any disregard of this instruction. Permits are only to be issued for a specific journey, and are not to be of a permanent nature. Power to grant these is to be kept strictly within the hands of G.O.sC., and is not to be delegated to anyone.

When special authority has been granted as above, the driver will be supplied with the necessary permit, which will include the names of the persons authorized to travel, and will be produced on demand by the Provost Marshal's Department, who have authority and are required to stop W. D. vehicles carrying ladies or civilians and to report any unauthorized travelling.

DEFENCE OF PACIFIC.

JELLICOE'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

Admiral Lord Jellicoe's report recommends that New Zealand's snare in the naval defence of the Pacific be three light cruisers and six submarines, and also, for harbour defence, six destroyers and a number of trawlers, the initial cost for 1920-21 being £357,000, and increasing yearly until 1925-26, whem it will reach £1,166,100. The proposed percentage of the total cost of the Pacific fleet is distributed as follows: Great Britain, 75 per cent.; Australia, 20 per cent.; New Zealand, 5 per cent.

BLACK LISTED.

GERMANYS PROUDEST NAMES.

Mr. Ignace, French Under-Secretary of State for Military Justice, has completed a list of German officers guilty of crimes against the common law in France and Belgium. The number amounts to about 600. Against such names is written a a detailed account of the crimes and evidence proving them. Some of Germany's proudest names figure in the list, including that of Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria.

MATTHEWS OFF TO AUSTRALIA.

After further delay owing to fog, Captain Matthews left Hounslow on his flight to Australia at 11.44 on Tuesday morning. He was intending to call at Paris.

Before starting Captain Matthews received telegrams wishing him good luck from Prince Albert, Major-General Seely, Under-Secretary for the Air and Major General Sykes, Controller-General of Civil aviation.

Captain Matthews landed at Merheim aerodrome yesterday. He only stayed a few hours and left later in the afternoon. He is flying a Sopwith, fitted with a 350 h.p. Rolls-Royce Eagle engine.

DEFINITION OF DUMPING.

At a meeting of the administrative council of the National Union of Manufacturers the following resolution was passed: "That this meeting urges upon the Government that all goods shall be considered as 'dumped' if they are produced under labour conditions which are inferior to our own, or if they are offered for sale at lower prices than in their country of origin."

A JOB FOR PUSSYFOOT.

At the Thames Police Court yesterday the magistrate, Mr. Rooth, addressing a dock policeman who had given evidence in a case in which a man was charged with the unlawful possession of a bottle of whisky, said:—"There is a very interesting gentleman visiting this country at the present time—Mr. Pussyfoot. I suggest to you that if you come across him you might find material on which to work."

QUAINT MANX OATH.

Mr. Reginald Farrant, a member of the Isle of Man Bar, has been appointed Stipendiary of Douglas and Castletown. Mr. Farrant was yesterday sworn in in the quaint form which has prevailed in the island for centuries. He swore to do justice between party and party "as indifferently as the herring's backbone doth lie in the midst of the fish."

Witnesses in the Fratel case having arrived from India, the proceedings will probably be resumed on the 29th October.

The New Zealand House of Representatives has passed a Bill providing for the colony's acceptance of the Samoa mandate.

FLIGHTS LTD.
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Mr. Lee is now back in Cologne from London and has brought with him a good stock.

Call or write OFFICERS' CLUB, COLOGNE.

Original-Schulze Razors are the best!

ON SALE AT
CARL MERGENBAUM, COLOGNE
Post Strasse 53, Tel. B 1057.

Optician
C. Pichon
COLOGNE, Hohestr. 150
Careful examination of eyes
in specially fitted rooms
PRISMATIC FIELD GLASSES

Portraits of Admirals are required for the exhibition of a collection of old English, French and Dutch Naval and Military Celebrities.
Wilhelm Goyert
Kunsthandlung
COLOGNE, Minoritenstr. 21.

RAZORS very sharply ground and completely polished at
C.A. LÜTTERS, COLOGNE
Breitestr. 23.
Special store for razors.

AUTO FOR SALE! 45 H.P. Daimler 6 seater open car with 6 new tyres, two spare wire wheels, in splendid condition for sale. Apply to A 301 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

EXPORT! EXPORT!
Durable supply of big stocks of goods
plaster toys, china household articles etc.
DANIEL ROESE
COLOGNE, Gladbacherstr. 9, II. Floor
9—12 a.m. 3—5 p.m.

Binoculars
at original factory prices of the firms
ZEISS
GOERZ
LEITZ
PHOTO
Cameras — Plates
Roll-Films—Pack-Films
SLIDE RULES
MICROSCOPES
ZEISS-PUNKTAL-GLASSES
for rimless glasses and spectacles.
The best for the eyes!
OPTICAL Institute S. Goldfinger Limited
founded: 1869
Hohestr. 88 COLOGNE Hohestr. 88
On parle français. English spoken.

WANTED.
Manufacturers Agent doing extensive trade in good class Dolls in London and provinces would like to get into communication with German Manufacturers able to turn out large quantities. Good securities offered and Bankers references. Address: to Box No. 219, Cologne Post A.P.O./S. 40.

Mention The Cologne Post when replying to advertisements. It helps you and the advertisers.

ENORMOUS SUCCESS OF
"THE JESTERS"
The first civilian music hall party to visit Rhineland.
SIX LONDON VARIETY ARTISTES INCLUDING
Mr.
JOE MORLEY
The famous Banjoist of the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN.
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY.
Mr. HARRY KING.
Mr. FRANK HOOK.
Mr. CHASS LEWIS.

Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage The Jesters. Vacant dates Monday Oct. 27th, Thurs., 30th, and Sat. Nov. 1. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office or may be seen personally at 11 o/c each morning at Amusements Office, Komödienstrasse, Cologne.

THIS (THURSDAY) EVENING
at the
COLOGNE CENTRAL Y.M.C.A.
(44, Friesenstrasse.)
LORELY HALL. — 6.30 p.m. "Beethoven and the Moonlight Sonata." Miss Merriman and Miss Nash.
GREAT HALL. — Cinema and Orchestra 6.30 to 9.30 p.m.
A Chess Club has been formed at the "Central" and meets nightly. Members can be enrolled in the Library. Competitions will be held weekly.

"OPTIMUS"
COFFEE EXTRACT
PURE COFFEE & COFFEE & CHICORY
28 Gold & Silver Medals & Awards
Sole Export Agents for
GERMANY, AUSTRIA, CZECHO-SLAVIA
THOS. PANKHURST & Co.
80 Shaftesbury Avenue
LONDON W. 1.
AGENTS REQUIRED
for this article and also for Tea etc. etc.

BOOKSHOP & READING ROOM
In the arcade off the Hohe Strasse, right-hand side. The bookshop recently vacated by the R. A.F. is now reopened as a bookshop and reading room. Free to British troops.
10.30—12.30 : 14.30—19.30.

Some hundred dozens of good
Leather shoe wares
all sizes, fair price, for sale.
Delivery for cash on stock of Cannstatt & Cie., Köln
Zeppelinstrasse 8 III.

Sound Import and Shipping firm in Saxony, well connected and introduced to the leading wholesale and manufacturing firms in the Textile line, wish to act as REPRESENTATIVES for first class manufacturers. Preference given to Silk, Cotton goods, Cloth, Linen, Yarns etc.
Apply to A 297 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

Kodaks
Developing and Copying
All photographic work and repairs done.
Photographic Specialists
Nelles & Wolffram
COLOGNE, Unter Fettenhennen

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor
Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???
Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!
The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!
TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.
Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 32-34.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

WEEK COMMENCING
MONDAY OCTOBER 20th, 1919
ALL COMMENCING AT 7—0 p.m.

Deutsches Theatre, Bismarckstrasse.
British Rhine Army Dramatic Company
in
Thursday at 7 p.m.
"THE NEW SIN".
Friday and Saturday at 6 p.m.
"MAN OF DESTINY".
FOLLOWED BY "CANDIDA".

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
Owing to Continued Success return visit of Mr. ALFRED HURLEY'S LONDON COMPANY 'THE JESTERS' in an Entirely new Programme.
ARTISTES:
Mr. JOE MORLEY
the Celebrated Banjoist, from the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY
Mr. FRANK HOOK
Mr. HARRY KING
Mr. CHASS LEWIS
and
"JOEY"
JOE SAT —! OH—! JOHN

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA.
32 Komödienstrasse
All the Best Pictures.
No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
Grand Orchestral and Pictorial Programme.
No: 3 ARMY CINEMA.
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS, Hohe Strasse
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION at No. 1, 2 and 3 Army Cinemas,
on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, October, 23rd, 24th and 25th.
Featuring the following fights:—
BECKETT—McGOORTY.
FULTON—TOWNLEY.
BASHAM—CHARLES.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 659. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.

Thursday, October 23, 1919.

HOW TOMMY CAN HELP.

Just now there is a strong revival of the discussion on the shortcomings of the British public-house. This has been the subject of talk for more years than many of us care to remember. Royal Commissions have issued weighty reports on publichouse reform. Over fifty years ago one of these reports urged that every refreshment house in Great Britain should be open-fronted, so that the semi-secrecy of drinking in closed compartments should cease. It was pointed out that taking one's refreshment in the public view would help to stamp out the notorious abuses of the private bar. The recommendation, like so many others, fell on deaf ears. Year followed year and the British "pub", a byeword in every other civilised community, continued. Decent people shunned it, respectable women seldom entered its doors. It was a drinking place pure and simple. It reeked of stale liquor. It produced the publichouse lounger. It was a blot on the face of the land, a licensed horror.

In the old days the country hostel was not so bad. Its cosy bar parlour, with its ingle nook, where the village worthies, puffing their churchwarden pipes, assembled o' nights to chat over the day's events with their tankards of good old English ale before them, was an institution with few bad points.

But the time came when the big brewers saw a means of increasing their profit. They bought up the old inns, replacing "mine host" by their paid servant, the "manager", who could only sell the stuff they supplied. That abominable institution, the bar, came into being. From being rest houses and veritable clubs for the traveller and inhabitant they became machines for turning out profits. The charm of the British inn had gone! The tied-house reigned supreme. And this has gone on to the present day. There was another element that helped to make public-house improvement possible. That was the virulent temperance party. In their zeal they took the mistaken policy of opposing every licence and setting their face against anything tending to uplift the "pub." They wanted nothing but absolute abolition. They will never succeed, but they have done infinite harm by preventing reform. Now there is a certain amount of revolt against the whole system. Will common-sense prevail?

The public has the matter in its own hands, and this is where Tommy can help to win the day for the saner, cleaner, better public-house.

He has had the opportunity of seeing what a cheerful, well-ordered, altogether admirable rendezvous for the people a café is. He has been able to see that insular prejudice and fanatical opposition to the introduction at home of the open café are absolutely unfounded.

He has gone back to Blighty and is still going. He is an elector with a vote. If the ex-soldiers will use their power they can do wonders for Britain. This is how Tommy can help.

CIVILIANS AGAIN.

DEMOBILIZATION VIA HOLLAND.

We left Cologne on a perfect Sunday morning, making our way to the waiting boat in the Rhine. It was the "beginning of the end" of our army career, the last lap to Blighty and civvies. We started punctually at 10 a.m. and passing under the Hohenzollern Bridge and through the Bridge of Boats soon left the steeples of the Dom in the distance.

Slowly, all too slowly, we threaded the windings of the river, passing but few towns to break the monotony of the flat country side. Envious soldiers on either bank shouted their good wishes to us and frauleins waved an ironical farewell.

Meals were served on board, each man having been previously allotted a mess. At night we tied up to a couple of barges in midstream and having found our beds, returned to the saloon of the demob. boat for an impromptu concert. The concert was a success—who so merry as a party of men for demob'? A sweepstake was held, the proceeds of which went to the man who guessed nearest the precise minute we reached Rotterdam on the morrow. We turned in on our barge at 10 p.m. but were back again on the boat by 6 a.m. when the second stage of our journey commenced.

QUAINT DUTCH VILLAGES.

At 8 o'clock we put inshore to pick up two Dutch officials and there after continued our trip through Holland, having finally bid farewell to Germany. The Dutch landscape was pleasanter than the German, the river banks being more crowded with towns, villages and various factories.

Nearing Rotterdam we came upon the true Dutch villages, so like the pictures one sees of them in England that we were forced to laugh. The typical Dutch wide trousers, patched like Joseph's coat, hiding their owners' hands and the long clay pipe were as amusing as the long rows of windmills which could not keep time. The banks of the Rhine served as a drying ground for the village washing, all of which could be viewed by the passengers on the slow moving boat.

Arriving at Rotterdam, the lucky winner of the sweepstake having received his cash, we were transferred to a barge and towed under a very low bridge across the city to the docks. On the way we had a fine view of the city itself—no more patched trousers were visible, but it would not have surprised us to have found that the tram cars bore the inscription "made in Germany."

A GLANCE AT ROTTERDAM.

The streets were narrow and ill-paved, reminding one of the badly-kept French cobble stone roads. Landing-places for stores occupied one side of the street and steamers were being unloaded there from the river. Rotterdam rather reminded one of Hull except for the Dutch type of face, as easily distinguishable as the German. Many of the boats and tugs bore English names, while several large English firms had landing stages alongside the river.

Landing at the docks we found beds ready for us in the Customs sheds. After a wash and shave (which all needed badly) we had tea and dinner together in another part of the huge sheds, and, having arranged our beds, another concert followed.

At 3 a.m. the following morning we embarked aboard the s.s. "Stockport" and found our way to the beds below. In nautical parlance it seemed inclined to turn out a "dirty morning" and promised a rough passage, a promise which was kept. By 4 a.m. we had left the docks and soon afterwards we discovered that crossing the Channel on a stormy day was play compared to crossing the North sea in dirty weather.

A STICKY CROSSING.

The ship was not on an even keel for a minute, no, not for a single second, while the noise of the waves breaking on the deck sounded like thunder. Guess, then, under what condition the writer spent the long hours of his 21st birthday. Even bad things have an end, and we arrived at Harwich at 3 p.m. fed up, but still far from home. 7 o'clock saw us at Liverpool Street Station, fast approaching the Crystal Palace, via the Monument and London Bridge. We reached the Palace at last at 10 p.m.

Then came the painful process of getting demobbed. Did I say we were fed up? Let me emphasise it again! "Give up this paper, sign that, answer your name here, and call out your number there"—even "state your religion" and all the time still carrying the old gun and equipment plus any souvenir that one kept from the eyes of the Customs Officers at Harwich! The floor of the Palace seemed very insecure and at times reared itself on end for no apparent reason.

GOODBYE, RIFLE AND PACK.

Finally "Dump your rifle and equipment here" came the welcome order. How we squared our shoulders and pulled our weary selves together when the once spotless equipment bit the dust on the floor!

What a relief, the old pack off for the last time. No fear of the whistle blowing in ten minutes time to put it on again. Still more forms to be signed, some to be retained and some given up.

Someone gave us £2 each and a supper ticket — we did not know who! With a sandbag of souvenirs under one arm and a tin helmet in one hand we journeyed to the mess room and ate as much as we could of our last army meal. We did not want it — it was only to get the last available thing out of the army.

After a few words from an officer, about "service to your King" and "grateful country" etc. we strolled off in columns of lumps towards the station. R.J.W.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

A SENSE OF HUMOUR.

Sir,—In common with most of us, I believe in my own sense of humour, and therefore resent "Laughable's" attack on it. But apart from personal pique, I quarrel with his statements.

For one thing, it was George Meredith, who certainly did not lack "humorous inspiration," who defined the sense of comedy as "thoughtful laughter." But without entering upon a metaphysical argument, which would be totally out of place in the columns of the "Cologne Post," I must own that I cannot follow the careful logic of "Laughable's" reply.

To say that one must lack humour because one attempts to analyse it, is a strange statement indeed. Does the novelist lack human inspiration because he attempts to analyse the impulses of aesthetic creation?

I did not know before that we English were "taught to laugh", but I did know, even without "Laughable's" immediate illustration of it, that we are not taught to think. E.A.D.

CRUEL PERFORMANCES.

Sir,—Apropos that most laudable letter of L.P. Peters in yesterday's "Post" I should be glad if you would print the following lines by Ada Chapell which made a real effect on me when I read them first. They seem to me to put the case of dumb creatures, who are tortured for our amusement, better than anything I have ever read on the subject.

"ALAS."

Pity me! poor dancing dog,
In my coat of gold and green
With my big pathetic eyes
Sadder sight was never seen.

Pity me! poor shrinking cat,
Forced to leap, to climb, to stand,
Every muscle stiff and sore
Cowering 'neath the trainer's hand.

Pity me! poor elephant
Longing for my jungle home.
Prodded through ungainly tricks
Never more at large to roam.

Pity the dumb creatures all,
Not as God would have them, free,
But as hapless captives kept,
Just to please "humanity."

Please "humanity" forsooth
What a satire on the name!
Ah! could we but realise
The true meaning of "humane."

Mothers, teach your children all
Each sad sight like this to shun;
Fathers, train your sons to be
Mercy's champions every one.

When I witnessed at Hagenbeck's circus recently, a turn with performing bears, which was obviously a cruel one, I hissed as loud as I could while others applauded. If we can do nothing else, we can make some such protest against inhumanity I think. ANIMAL LOVER.

ARE GERMANS NOISY?

Sir,—Are Germans noisy? Gather four of the female variety together yapping and the nearest approach to the effect of the combination is the preliminary of a party of English terriers at the approach of a rat week.

Just how they make themselves understood with all talking at once beats me. I know a gathering of British women at a teafight can do wonders in their own peculiar high-pitched tones, but even that is melodious compared with the rasping, guteral efforts of say, half a dozen German women discussing kitchen problems simultaneously.

I suppose so long as we have to occupy Rhineland, we must put up with it. But it gets on my nerves and is injuring my ear drums. DAGO.

THE BEST TIME.

Sir:—There has been a great deal of discussion this past two days on the change in the time of commencement of the Army Amusements in Cologne. It seems that after all the most convenient time for starting is six instead of seven.

I am sure patrons of the Deutsches Theatre will take the opportunity of placing their vote in the ballot box which has been put up there. The R.A.D.C. are also affected by the extra hour, and it is up to those who appreciate their kindness in producing these splendid series of plays, to do them a good turn by trying to get the starting of these performances put back one hour. Send your vote in without delay. G.W.H.P.

SMOKING IN NON-SMOKERS.

Sir,—I have sufficient knowledge of human nature to know that given a pipe a man is of a contented frame of mind, but his enjoyment should not rob him of the courtesy of using a non-smoking railway carriage as a smoker without consulting his fellow passengers, especially ladies.

I am sanguine enough to believe that it is just thoughtlessness in many cases. DUNHILL.

IN PRAISE OF THE N.A.C.B.

Sir,—The clubs provided by our French Allies are so comfortable and hospitable, so much what a club should be, that one hesitates to criticise their management, but may I express the hope that the officer-in-charge of our Cologne clubs will cling to the idea of declining to reserve tables.

There is to my mind nothing more aggravating to be turned away from a table or tables which are ostensibly reserved, but which are not put to use until late in the evening.

I recall that the practice obtained in many Cologne cabarets until British visitors paid no heed to the intimation and the German waiter then realised that his little game was not suited to British mind. W. H.

NUMBER THIRTEEN.

Sir,—I see a correspondent has written about this unlucky number. Well, let me tell you I was torpedoed on the 13th of April 1915, joined the colours on the 13th of May 1916. Was on leave in Scotland and injured in the Ratho express disaster in January 1917. The express left from No 13 Platform, Edinburgh, Waverley station. I was admitted into hospital with "flu" 13th November 1918 and received a bad injury at football on the 13th February last. UNLUCKY.

ARE THEY GUNNERS?

Sir,—In reply to "Infantry, 1914" re "Gunners," can he inform me how many men of the M.G.C. style themselves gunners? I have been in the corps since its birth and have yet to hear it. The term has arisen, chiefly through the newspapers, in football headings, etc. Supposing we say it's not right to call their transport men, drivers' who were taken from the same arm of the service as gunners?

In my opinion a man who has to carry his gun miles to use it, is as much a gunner as those on the larger pieces.

Proportionately, both are the same, in fact during the war, the M.G.C. were often called the light artillery.

I can only add that had Lord Roberts, and other real gunners, seen how some of these small weapons were used in the war, they would surely turn in their graves, not in horror, but in admiration. GUNNER IN FRANCE.

Sir,—It was with great amusement that I read "Gunner's" letter. I am a Machine Gunner, and like the remainder of our corps, do not mind what we are called, only as "Gunner" thinks we are usurping his title I should like to point out that the title of gunner was given us by other units and that it is taken from the name of Machine Gunner.

Is it not easier on a football field to cry out "played the Gunners" than "played the Machine Gunners?"

If we take the titles of the two units, Machine Gun Corps and Royal Artillery, we must admit that the Machine Gunners have more right to the title of Gunners than the R.A.'s.

Nevertheless, if "Gunner" resents the title given to us by other units, it is up to him to find a more suitable one, which would soon be taken up by all and sundry. MACHINE GUNNER.

Sir,—"Infantry, 1914," and "Gunner" both seem to be annoyed at the misuse of the word "Gunner." I cannot think it was done consciously; if it was I am sure it does not represent the view of the corps generally.

We are proud of our own laurels in the war and do not wish to trespass on other regiments' old traditions.

We have made our own tradition during the last five years' and are proud to call ourselves not "gunners" but "machine gunners," and although a newly-fledged corps, as "Gunner" said, we consider ourselves justly entitled to the name. ECOSSE.

GERMAN TRADE METHODS.

Sir,—A good example of German trade methods came under my notice last evening.

Intent upon purchasing a popular type of safety razor blade I demanded a packet, my idea being to examine the goods. The trader was wily, for after a hurried consultation he admitted that the goods were not what they were represented to be.

"They send me them from Solingen" he pleaded. Presumably the manufacturers send them unasked, and against his will they are displayed in his window.

My query as to why he offered the goods for sale if they were not what they were represented to be was left unanswered, except by a sheepish grin. I hope this letter will serve as a warning to others. TICH.

ARE THEY NECESSARY?

Sir,—Is "Willie" unable to take life seriously? To my mind the wearing of such dainty identity discs should be made compulsory.

Think of the saving to the Government. Just imagine at this stage in the war the expense entailed in the institution of a casualty department for the tracing of the missing. Your guide to the lights carried by the tram cars is proof in itself of the risks we run late at night.

Just as we carried life in one's hands in the dark days of the war, so the occupation is attended by risks. How very necessary is it then that we should retain such distinguishing marks. Think what wifie would say if she found her precious war gift cast on one side. MICKY.

LOVES OF THE PAST.

The dusk of the dead day grows deeper;
In Fancy, fair features flit fast,
As I muse, 'mid the snores of the sleeper,
On days that are past.

And Memory's pictures glow brightly—
(No Pelman need come to my aid)—
As before me in thought appears lightly
Each succulent maid.

There was sweet little Hetty, in Surrey;
There was Meg, in the Highlands' dank mist;
There was Biddy in Cork; and Jeanne's hurry
(In France), to be kissed.

Ah, those moments too, too evanescent!
How quickly they faded away!
Life's wine is in truth effervescent,—
But bubbles won't stay!

Do they dream of me now? do they smother
Their sobs in the pillow's frail lace?
—Or turns each perchance to another
And recenter face?

O Maud! are you false? O my Janet
Do you thrill, as you used, at my name?
My Ethel, who loved me in Thanet,
Are you still the same?

Dear Flossie, with fair golden tresses,
Beats still your heart only for me?
My Poll, d'you recall our caresses
At Somewhere-on-Sea?

O sweetest of darlings, my Nancy,
What glorious times we have had!
My Cora, d'you visit in fancy
Your true soldier lad?

O dearest, with love I'll not palter:
Next leave, we will have the date fixed:
—(I'm only afraid, at the altar
I'll get the names mixed!)

G. WYNOTT.

DRISCOLL'S DEFEAT.

Testimonial to mark Retirement of Popular Sportsman.

LARGE SUM SUBSCRIBED.

Further evidence of his great popularity was accorded Jim Driscoll after his fight on Monday at the National Sporting Club. when £1,775 was readily subscribed towards a testimonial to mark his retirement from the ring.

As reported in "The Cologne Post" yesterday, Driscoll was defeated by the French bantam-weight champion, Charles Ledoux.

A more detailed telegram now to hand states that Driscoll gave a superb exhibition of scientific boxing. He easily led on points, but in the fifteenth round Ledoux made a fine spurt and got home several blows to the jaw and stomach, nearly knocking his opponent out.

The veteran Welsh boxer came out for the sixteenth round, but his seconds promptly threw in the towel.

MR. J. H. THOMAS' COMPLIMENT.

Following the fight, a party of prominent sportsmen and others, numbering between twenty and thirty, met in Mr. Bettinson's room, where eulogistic references were made to Driscoll's skill. Both Driscoll and Ledoux were present. Amongst those who spoke was Mr. J. H. Thomas, M.P., the railwaymen's leader, who last night paid his first visit to the National Sporting Club. He expressed the opinion that Driscoll's services should be secured for the benefit of the younger generation.

It was decided to raise a national testimonial to Driscoll on his retirement from the ring, and, as stated, immediately £1,775 pounds was contributed by those present.

JACK JOHNSON AGAIN.

Referee Shoots a Judge at Boxing Meeting.

Jack Johnson, the former heavy-weight champion of the world, knocked out Kid Cutler in the sixth round of their scheduled twenty-five round contest at Mexico City on Sept. 28.

Following one of the preliminary bouts a quarrel ensued over a decision rendered by Antonio Sarabi, the referee, and Sarabi whipped out a revolver and dangerously wounded Migue Manlizabel, one of the judges.

CARPENTIER IS TRAINING.

Georges Carpentier will train at the Royal Abercorn Hotel, Stanmore for his contest with Joe Beckett fixed for Dec. 4 at the Holborn Stadium. Carpentier will start work at Stanmore three weeks before the contest, and will have as sparring partners his compatriot Lenaers, Eddie McGoorty, and Jack Blumenfeld.

JIMMY WILDE TO MEET PETE HERMAN.

Mr. Ted Lewis, on behalf of Jimmy Wilde, has signed a contract with Mr. Cochran for Wilde to meet Pete Herman, the American bantam-weight champion, at Olympia next year. The contract contains a clause that, should Herman be defeated, Jimmy will take on the new champion.

INTER-ALLIED BOXING.

Tournament for U.S., British, French, and Belgians.

An inter-allied tournament at which American, British, French, and Belgian army boxers will compete has been arranged for the evenings of Oct. 30th, 31st and Nov. 1, Coblenz being the venue.

Boxers and wrestlers of the seven classes, bantamweight, featherweight, lightweight, welterweight, middleweight, light heavy-weight and heavyweight will meet at the Liberty Hut arena in struggles for the championships of the armies of occupation. All of the final matches are scheduled to go ten rounds. Only one fighter from each army will be allowed to enter each class. Because of that, eliminations will be held in four competing armies and the best man of each weight will be sent as a representative.

British aspirants are now hard in training and some excellent boxing, all of which will be under the Marquis of Queensbury rules, is assured.

WRESTLING.

The wrestling bouts will be governed by the Amateur Athletic Union rules with the hammer, lock, strangle, full nelson and toe holds barred.

The Y. M. C. A. as has been its custom for all big athletic events, will award cash prizes and medals. All of the men who box two or more rounds will receive bronze medals while the winners of the events will receive silver medals. Cash prizes will consist of 500 marks for boxing and 200 marks for wrestling.

GERMAN BOXING.

Further Interesting Bouts at Luna park, Cologne.

Teusday night's boxing at Luna Park consisted of three bouts.

Fritz Rolauf, of Cologne, feather-weight champion of Germany, lost on points to Curt Sasse, of Berlin. The fight went the full distance, but was not an inspiring affair.

Otto Block of Berlin was easily the victor over Ludwig Trattner, of Vienna. It was only a question of time, and the latter took the full count in the 4th round.

The chief contest was a splendidly contested affair. It was in response to a challenge issued by Ernst Koch to H. Hirschberger, Munich, and for a purse of 500 marks giving by the Cologne Boxing Club. Koch put his man down for eight in the second round and again in the 4th had him down for seven. Both men took a count of eight in the 5th round and a ding-dong battle ensued. Koch was the stronger and better man and sent his opponent to the boards for the full count in the 9th round, winning a well contested affair.

Challenges were issued (and accepted) on behalf of Britishers, and Saturday and Sunday nights' events should be worth seeing.

ARMY FOOTBALL CUP.

139 Entries for November Competition.

PRELIMINARY ROUND DRAW.

The Army F.A. Council at a meeting in London decided to have a preliminary round for the Army Cup, as the entries numbered 139. Eleven matches will be played, reducing the clubs to 128, for the first round. The preliminary ties to be played on or before Nov. 15 are:—

ALDERSHOT COMMAND.

R.E. (Aldershot) v. 1st Batt. Lancs. Fus.
3rd Royal Fus. v. 3rd Middlesex Rgt.
1st H.L.I. v. R.E. (Longwall).
4th Hussars v. Depot Queen's Rgt.

LONDON DISTRICT.

2nd Coldstream Guards v. 2nd Scots Guards.
3rd Coldstream Guards v. R.A.S.C.

SOUTHERN COMMAND.
(Winchester.)

4th M.T. Depot v. No. 2 M.T. Depot.

IRISH COMMAND.
(Dublin and District.)

12th Lancers v. 2nd Batt. Yorks Rgt.
1st Batt. East Yorks v. 1st King's Own Rgt.

EASTERN COMMAND.
(Thames and Chatham.)

6th Brigade R.F.A. v. 4th Res. Brigade R.F.A.

ESSEX.

2nd Batt. Lancs. Rgt. v. 14th Brigade R.F.A.

The first-named club in each match to have first choice of ground. Replayed ties to be played on or before Nov. 19.

IRELAND v. ENGLAND.

Wearers of the Rose for Belfast International.

The following side was selected to represent England against Ireland at the close of the "Victory" international match at Stoke on Saturday:—

Hardy (Aston Villa), goal; Smith (West Bromwich Albion) and A. E. Knight (Portsmouth) (captain) backs; Bagshaw (Derby County), Bowser (West Bromwich Albion), and Watson (Burnley), half-backs; Turnbull (Bradford), Carr (Middlesbrough), Cox (Huddersfield Town), Smith (Bolton Wanderers), and Hodkinson (Blackburn Rovers), forwards.

BARBED WIRE FOOTBALL.

Riflemen Opposed on the Outpost Line.

Resting from the arduous duties of train and pass examining, the Riflemen of Friedhof challenged those from Holthausen, and the match resulted in a win for the latter by two goals to one. Additional interest was added by the fact that one of the side lines of the field was a perimeter barbed wire belt.

In spite of this apparent danger, the game, which was played with great keenness and enthusiasm on both sides, only produced one casualty. The Riflemen were of "B" Coy. 52nd Bn. The Rifle Bde. and from the form shown, that Company should be able to produce a good team for the present season. The game was very even throughout, and the deciding goal was only scored in the last eight minutes.

52nd DEVONS.

"A" Coy. and "D" Coy. contest an Exciting Game.

Played at Hilgen on Monday. After 20 minutes' play, Gallagher, at inside right scored for "D" Coy. For the remainder of the first half "D" Coy. pressed, Lieut. O'Neil and Shaw showing brilliant form. Then, with a stinging shot from the outside left, which just beat "A" Coy.'s goalie, C.S.M. Williams brought the score to 2—0 at half time.

In the second half, "A" Coy., having slightly re-arranged their team, took the lead. "D" Coy.'s defence was sorely tried and Bestante, at outside right, broke through and altered the score to 2—1. Soon Barrow, at outside left, banged a fine shot just inside the post and equalised. Then the play grew very exciting. "D" Coy. made several bids for the opposite goal but were foiled by the brilliant play of Lieut. Hopkins and Cotterrell and Parkes, till Gallagher, on the right wing, broke through and added another goal. With twenty minutes to go, "A" Coy.'s forward line resolved to retaliate and with ideal combination, after incessant pressing, Stokes drove a lightning shot from close quarters past "D" Coy.'s goalie. "A" Coy. maintained superiority in attack to the end of the game. Result:— "A" Coy 3; "D" Coy. 3.

OFFICERS v. SERGEANTS.

Fast Game between 20th D.L.I. Stars and Stripes.

On Saturday a friendly yet spirited game of football was played between the officers and the sergeants of the 20th D.L.I. The play from the start was fast and the Sergeants' net was under constant bombardment. Owing to the splendid defence of S.Majors Priestman and Riley and Sergeants Kipling and Hall, the officers could only register 4 goals, Lieut. Mitchel scoring 2, and Lieuts. Brown and Dodd 1 each.

If the first half was fast and furious, the second was more so. "Revenge is sweet," said the sergeants, but in spite of all the skill and brilliant work put in by R.S.M. Glover, the sergeants could only manage 2 goals, one of which was scored from a penalty by R.S.M. Glover who beat the goalkeeper with a fine shot.

Special mention must be made of the fine work put in by Lieut. Black and S.M. Welland and there is no doubt that the sergeants' score would have been much greater had not S. M. Welland been put hors-de-combat.

Lieut. Upton proved a tower of defence for the officers.

NEWBURY RACING.

The October Nursery won by Fancy Man.

GROUND STILL HARD.

The Newbury Meeting opened in beautiful weather on Tuesday, when there was a large attendance. The ground was hardish, as the result of drought and east winds. Details:—

Two Year Old Plate:—1, Miss Evelyn (5-4 on); 2, Dusky Bride, colt (8-1); 3, Luckpenny (10-1). Nine ran.

Letcombe Handicap:—1, Almeria Bay filly (5-1); 2, Italian lass (8-1); 3, Clarilaw colt (5-1). Ten ran.

October Handicap:—1, Fancy Man (evens); 2, Dunkirk (100-6); 3, Gilded Spurs (100-8). Fourteen ran.

Beckhampton Handicap:—1, King's Idler (100-9); 2, Hanway (11-2); 2, Warways (7-1). Seventeen ran.

Manton Handicap:—1, Sheriffs Officer (9-4); 2, East Cheshire (10-1); 3, Trowbridge (5-1). Eight ran.

Mile Plate:—1, Powerful (100-30); 2, Vertigo (4-1); 3, Treasury Bill (10-1). Seven ran.

NEWCASTLE MEETING.

The following were the results at Newcastle on Tuesday, where the ground was also hard and the attendance large:—

Hazlerigg Plate:—1, Slurbowe (evens); 2, Warcop (7-1); 3, Moaning Minnie (6-1). Six ran.

Meldon Handicap:—1, Mount Lebanon (7-1); 2, President (5-2); Holystone (10-1). Sixteen ran.

Gosforth Handicap:—1, Colinoque (5-1); 2, Halfpenny House (7-1); 3, Glass Ball (3-1). Seven ran.

Newcastle Handicap:—1, Linonyx (5-1); 2, Radiacy (4-1); 3, Old Gold (4-1). Eight ran.

Tuesday Plate:—1, Brinkley (11-10 on); 2, Special (2-1); 3, St. Ives (8-1). Four ran.

Park Plate:—1, Irish Lake (100-30); 2, Dinah Dear (10-1); 3, Intruder (evens). Nine ran.

THE CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

Latest Candidates to assume Prominence in the Market.

Alasnam and Scatwell are the latest Cambridgeshire candidates to assume prominence in the market. It is significant to know that the latter will be called on to carry Lord Glanely's colours in preference to Dominion. With a recent winner in Grand Fleet as a trial horse, Barling should be able to estimate Scatwell's prospects of success pretty accurately. Hitherto, six furlongs has been reckoned the four-year-old's best distance, but Barling must have regarded him as something more than a sprinter when he sent him over the last two miles of the Cesarewitch course at the First October meeting. In that case Scatwell had very little to do, as Neutral was not good enough to extend him; but I think (writes "Watchman" in the "Morning Post"), we may safely assume that Lord Glanely's colt will get the journey next week, and his chances of success must be regarded with the greatest respect.

Alasnam has always been regarded as likely to be better suited in the Cambridgeshire than in the Cesarewitch, though his owner and trainer were decidedly hopeful of carrying off both handicaps. The big three-year-old's display last week was quite good enough to strengthen the opinion that he will win the shorter race, though there are one or two things to be argued against him.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE BETTING.

Zinovia 5 to 2; Scatwell 8 to 1; Alasnam 10 to 1; My dear and Royal Bucks 100 to 6; Tetrarchia and Sir Berkely 18 to 1; Diadem Dominae 22 to 1; Dromino 25 to 1; Brigand 20 to 1.

Later Betting:—7 to 1, Zinovia, 20 to 1 Diadem.

"IFS AND BUTS."

Exception Taken to a Recent Article.

A paragraph was recently published in these columns under the title "Ifs and Buts." It concerned a letter written by a supporter of the 52nd King's Liverpool Regt. who wrote that if various things had happened during the progress of a certain match, the result might have been different.

The publication of this letter has inspired many members of the Battalion, and of the opposing team, to write us on the subject. The majority of these epistles are in humourous vein but some of the writers take exception to the views of the original correspondent, as representative of the sporting spirit of the 52nd Kings.

The letter was flippant and presumably the work of an irresponsible member of the Battalion who was disappointed at the fact that his team lost. It certainly was not intended that the views were representative of the Battalion, and it is regrettable if such a construction has been placed on the matter.

MEMORIAL SERVICE TO ATHLETES.

A conference called at the instance of the Amateur Swimming Association, and held in the Council room of the Amateur Boxing Association, approved of the A.S.A. suggestion that a memorial service to fallen athletes be held, and appointed a committee to carry out the arrangements.

Viscount Doneraile was elected chairman. Mr. E. J. Tackley, "Tamworth," 39, Durham-rd., East Finchley, N.2, was appointed hon. secretary and treasurer. Notice in the Press will be given in due course when and where the service is to be held.

BILLIARDS.

Closing scores:—Newman (in play) 3400; Stevenson 1757. Falkiner 2547; Reece (in play) 2085.

CHAMPION DEFEATED.

1st Round of "Ladies Field" Foursomes Tournament.

AN UNLUCKY DAY.

Miss Cecil Leitch, the lady champion, was one of a losing couple in the first round of the "Ladies' Field" "Victory" Foursomes Tournament at Ranelagh.

The event was a handicap, and the champion and her partner were giving six strokes, but, if beaten at all, they were not expected to suffer so heavy a defeat as a margin of 5 and 4. It was, however, an unlucky day for Miss Leitch.

The champion was partnered by her sister, Mrs. Turnbull (Miss Peggy Leitch), and, as the latter was off her game, the pair could not give away six strokes to Mrs. Cross and Mrs. Thurgood, who, playing very steady golf, became 4 up at the turn, and won as stated.

Xth CORPS COMMANDER'S CUP.

84th Brigade R.G.A. v. 1/5 Border Regiment at Bonn.

The Hofgarten at Bonn was the scene of tremendous excitement on Saturday afternoon when the above teams competed in the final of the Corps Commanders Cup. The Corps Commander Lieut.-General Sir T. L. N. Morland, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., D.S.O., watched the game throughout. Both teams were enthusiastically supported, the Borders being hot favourites.

At 2.40 p.m. the teams lined up as under:—

84th Brigade R.G.A.:—B. S. M. Joyce (69 S.B.); Sergt. Malloy (129 H.B.) and Gnr. Hancock (336 S.B.); Gnr. Thornton (336), Sergt. Henning (77), and Sig. Mc Allister (69); Gnr. Higginson (77), Lt. Mermagen (129 H.B.), Gnr. Mallock (77), Gnr. Merrick (152), and Gnr. Eyres (129).

1/5 Border Regt.:—L/C Irving; Pte. Dixon, and Pte. Baker; Pte. Clark, Capt. Rosser, and Sergt. Towles; Lt. Dodd, Pte. Ellis, Sergt. Barter, Pte. Green, and Pte. Jebb.

The Gunners won the toss and elected to kick towards the Coblenzer Strasse goal. From the kick-off the Borders attacked, and for the first ten minutes the Gunners were on the defensive. Sergt. Henning relieved the pressure with a good pass to Higginson who ended a fine run with a centre which the Border's "Goalie" had difficulty in dealing with. From this point the Gunners held the upper hand for some time, and on several occasions the Border's goal was in danger of being penetrated, Pte. Dixon and Capt. Rosser being most conspicuous in the defence; give and take play followed, both goals being endangered in turn.

Opening Goal.

Pte. Dixon, who all along had been defending stubbornly, relieved the pressure and the opening goal came as a result of a break-away by the Border's forwards. The movement was initiated by Pte. Green, who made a well-timed pass to Pte. Jebb. This player succeeded in outpacing the defence and scored with a splendid shot, from almost the corner flag. Wild scenes of enthusiasm followed supplemented by the Border's "Jazz-Troop" under the able conductor-ship of Captain and Adjutant Walker, M.C.

The Gunners first goal came as a result of subsequent pressure; Higginson after a good run centred the ball, which was partially cleared by Pte. Baker, but Thornton gathered the attempted clearance and put in a judiciously placed centre, which enabled Eyres to equalise with a brilliant "header." In the scenes of hilarious excitement which followed, Captain Walkers' troop took a second place.

Even play followed, and half time came with a score of one all.

The gunners opened the second half with a strong attack on the Borders' goal. Two corners were forced in quick succession, both of which were splendidly placed by Gnr. Eyres, but nothing resulted. The gunners took the lead as a result of a run by the left wing, Lt. Mermagen converting a well-placed centre by Merrick.

As a result of continuous pressure the gunners were again rewarded. Higginson, who all along had been playing splendidly made a good run ending with a first class centre. This Merrick snapped up and with a beautiful first timer found the net. This further reverse roused the Borders to great efforts. Playing a very plucky game they strained every nerve to score.

Play then proceeded in mid-field and the whistle blew, leaving the Gunners victorious by three goals to one.

Presentation of Cup.

At the conclusion of the game the Corps Commander presented the Cup to the winners. He complimented both teams on the splendid game they put up and remarked on the sporting spirit displayed. Whilst complimenting the winners on their success, he congratulated the losers on their very plucky display.

Sgt. Henning received the Cup—a very handsome trophy, on behalf of the Brigade. Medals for both winners and runners up, which unfortunately had not arrived, are to be presented at a later date.

Covered Court Championships.

Foggy weather affected the light when the autumn indoor meeting opened at Queen's Club. An uneven draw has brought into early conflict some of the best players, but Major A. H. Lowe and S. N. Doust scratched in the gentlemen's open singles, and there now seems a possibility of the veteran M. J. G. Ritchie reaching the final. He is in the lower half, but the top half of the draw is a certainty for N. Mishu or the Hon F. M. B. Fisher, unless G. Stoddart brings off a surprise. The last named has been showing form of a high order in practice, and he played recently a very close match, on level terms with Major A. H. Lowe, who has been selected for the Davis Cup team.

The veteran Ritchie, who is always at his best on a wooden surface, won a very easy victory over W. Irwin, who is home on leave from India. N. Mishu seemed perfectly at home on the wood floor, and taking the ball very early, he defeated Major A. F. Yencken without the loss of a set.

C. P. Dixon, playing well within himself, had no difficulty in putting out Hamilton Price, but the latter was far from well, as the result of a heavy cold.

AMUSEMENTS AND RECREATIONS.

THE RHINE ARMY DRAMATIC COMPANY.

An Appreciation.

As one privileged to witness many of the performances given at the Deutsches Theatre during the past few months, may I, as an old professional, say how wonderful it all is. The organisation, the production, the acting, the advertising, the business (front and behind) is the work of the Rhine Army, for the Rhine Army, by the Rhine Army.

The Company has produced twelve of the best three act plays and four one act plays.

What an achievement. What an education to many who have seen these excellent modern plays for the first time here in Cologne!

Criticism, you may say, having regard to the constitution of the R.A.D.C. is taboo. On the contrary, I feel certain the artistes welcome it. They know, or ought to, that criticism is the very lifeblood of the drama. Without it the present company would not last a month. But as far as I can judge, they need have no dread of anything said or written about the play or the players.

* * *

To pack the Deutsches nightly is a certain proof of the quality of the plays and acting. Tommy Atkins is a very, very sound judge indeed, and if anything on the stage is good, he will quickly show his appreciation in the right way. You cannot camouflage mediocrity.

As in all stage experience, so in this company some of the members have parts in particular plays in which they shine, but if Lieut. Percy, the extraordinarily clever producer for the R.A.D.C., did nothing else but cast his people as he does, if he did nothing else, apart altogether from his own excellent acting, he deserves every praise.

I carry away with me memories of outstanding excellence. Lieut. Humphrey Hope as the Chairman in "Strife", is as fine a bit of character acting as I have seen for years. Pte. Turner in the same play, as the old Welsh worker is really splendid. He grips and holds one.

In "The Younger Generation" Lieut. Onions is topping. The part fits him like a glove, and he takes good care to grasp his opportunities. He plays with supreme confidence, never misses a point, nor, far more particularly, his laughs.

* * *

In "You Never can Tell," the ladies of the company come into their own. Miss Bensusan's conception of a very difficult and peculiar part stamps her as a very clever and experienced actress. Miss Gabriel Paul as Dolly can more than hold her own with the best I have seen, and Miss Shirley King is a tower of strength and certainly versatile. The waiter in this play is Capt. Ball. Place him in any West-end theatre in this part; I am convinced his reputation would be made. What a private secretary he'd make! Capt. Spiegelhalter is convincing to a degree, in parts I have seen him in.

The company, however, has its obvious limitations and here the greatest possible care should be taken in selecting the right kind of play for presentation. With the single exception of tedious intervals and slight defects in technique (only overcome after years of stage experience) and faults in the lighting the whole concern is quite up to the standard of any No. 1 company in England or elsewhere.

A word of praise is due, too, to the orchestra, who enliven the proceedings with their excellent selections.

Capt. Haygarth, as Amusements Officer, is to be congratulated on his organisation. More power to all their elbows, say I.

A. H.

Deutsches Theatre.

On Saturday, the performance of the "Man of Destiny" and "Candida" will commence at 6 p.m. instead of 7 p.m.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Thurs.	Cosi fan tutte	Mozart	7	10.30
Fri.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10
Sat.	Tiefland	d'Albert	7.30	10
Sun.	Faust	Gounod	6.30	10.30
Mon.	NO PERFORMANCE
Tues.	NO PERFORMANCE

A Clever Illusionist.

Owing to demobilisation, the Braganzas concert party were not able to give a performance at the British Empire Leave Club on Tuesday evening, but an amusing variety show was substituted. There were songs from Miss Bell and Miss Campbell, a cello solo from Mrs. Shorten and a trio by the Ladies Orchestra besides the famous B.E.L.C. Jazz Band which gave a most spirited selection to the amusement of the audience. But the feature of the evening was the conjuring tricks of the illusionist, Mr. Herring (by kind permission of the Y.M.C.A.) Not only did he amuse the audience, but he held them fascinated while he showed them how to make money by catching it in the air, produced the most marvellous toys out of an empty top hat and with the aid of a member of the audience performed an absolutely mystifying card trick.

* * *

Perhaps the most popular of his many clever feats was the tin box he filled with confetti, given to a man in the audience to hold above his head, then fired a pistol at it from the stage and on taking off the lid of the box, it was found to contain cigarettes instead of confetti, which were distributed broadcast among the onlookers. Mr. Herring is a wonderful illusionist and keeps his audience enthralled—they feel they cannot leave the hall lest they should miss another more wonderful and baffling trick. The programme ended with a charming song from L/Cpl. Rushton and a selection by the No. 2 G.H.Q. Jazz Band which played with great spirit and sense of rhythm.

The Jesters.

Some concert parties scarcely live up to their name, but such is not the case with the Jesters. Their entertainment is almost one long jest. Even Joe Morley's banjo is a source of much amusement. Each of the performers is a host in himself or herself, and with the departure of so many prime favourites of the footlights it is comforting to reflect that this London concert party is not subject to "demob." I dropped in on Tuesday evening and found the show as merry and bright as during the previous weeks. The programme at the Palace changes twice weekly.

Concert Party of 29th C.C.S.

On Saturday night, Bonn was favoured by a visit of the "Chocolate Bonn Bons" who, under the direction of Capt. Walters, and with Pte. A.G. Zow as stage manager, submitted a first class programme. With Mr. H. J. Brown at the piano, one looked for the master-touch and suffered no disappointment, for the London Gold Medallist was excellent. As humourist of the party, Pte. Khann scored a distinct success, and with his asides and mirthful patter, contributed largely to the success obtained. The "ladies" of the party, Ptes. Humphrey and Baxter, were charming and, together with Pte. Farino, in song dance and dialogue proved most capable entertainers. Splendid support was given by the soloists, Cpl. Soper and Pte. Nicholls who rendered several songs with fine effect.

JACQUES.

CHUMS
read "The Cologne Post". Send it daily to yours.

3,000 MARKS DIVIDED

Three Successful Competitors in our Football Contest No. 4.

In our No. 4 competition many competitors "came a cropper" over the Bradford City, Hamilton, Clyde, and Swindon matches. Numerous entrants successfully forecasted eight results and eleven managed to give nine correct returns. But only three succeeded, in submitting coupons with ten results their names being:—

65516, Driver Rundle,
B. 246 Bde.,
Hilden.

54117, Rfm. Plumstead,
Chemical Adviser,
G.H.Q., Cologne.

35242, Pte. J. Milne.
"A" Coy.,
13th Kings Liverpools,
Beuel, Bonn.

The number of entries was 2990, and we have decided to add 10 marks to this, making a total of 3,000 marks. Thus each of the successful entrants will receive a cheque for 1000 marks.

No. 5 competition is rapidly nearing its closing date. Have you sent in your efforts? If not don't delay.

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 5,
"Cologne Post,"
A.P.O. S./40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 5.

Date of matches, Saturday, Oct. 25th.
Closing date, Friday, Oct. 24th.

Preston N. E.	v. Newcastle U.
Sheffield U.	v. Manchester U.
Bradford	v. Chelsea
Grimsby	v. Hull C.
Bury	v. South Shields
Lincoln	v. Clapton Orient
Notts Forest	v. Wolverhampton
Swansea	v. Brighton
Exeter	v. Millwall
Luton	v. Portsmouth
Airdrieonians	v. Hamilton A.
Motherwell	v. Kilmarnock

I enter Football Competition No. 5 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Pieces to Play.

Last night I wanted to ask the excellent orchestra at the VI Corps Club to play one or two selections of my choice. Looking through the programme I came across a few choice morceaux I have not heard of before.

Do you Know These?

Among the tit-bits I found "In the hall of the Moonshinking," "Tell my Snail," "Flatter Ghosts," "The Pupped," "Heaven Sparks," "When two loves himself," "The Marrow wifes from Windsor," and "The Dump Woman," but I hadn't the courage to ask for either of these.

Sylvan Streets.

Bonn thoroughfares are just now looking at their best. The avenues of trees, with their thick and gorgeously tinted foliage, present scenes particularly pleasing to the eye.

A Weird Instrument.

A friend tells me he was waiting for a tram a few mornings ago. In one hand he carried a banjo case and in the other a hockey stick. A German standing close by was unable to contain his curiosity and timidly enquired what manner of instrument the case could contain to require such a huge "fiddlebow."

A Fine Club.

I hear glowing reports of the good management and excellent service provided at the II Corps Club at Leverkusen. It is in a fine country house with beautiful grounds.

Keen and Willing.

If we hadn't some very keen football enthusiasts on our staff who are willing to work all hours of the day and night to check the coupons in our football contest, the promptly published results would not be possible. And every week the task becomes more stupendous.

Collar Badges.

I notice that certain units, including the R.A.S.C. and the R.A.M.C. are putting up collar badges. Men of other units have asked if they can do so. I have not seen any order on the subject. Is there one?

Grinding it Out.

Many cafes in Rhineland possess pfennig-in-the-slot musical contrivances for the entertainment of customers. A Tommy who was having ten pfennigs worth of "hurdy-gurdy" music remarked to his pals, "If I could only be put in as landlord in Blighty with one of them orgins, I reckon my fortune 'ud soon be made."

Army Polo Team Honoured.

The 10th Corps Polo team on its arrival in Coblentz on Monday night was entertained to dinner at the American Officer's Club.

The Army Reading Room.

Several British wives have expressed their appreciation to me of the provision of accomodation at the Army Book shop in the Hohestrasse Arcade. I fancy it will become very popular.

THE NEW ORDER.

Don't Want to Go.

The bitter cry of the demobilizable is being heard from one end of Rhineland to the other. All the eagerness to be back in civil life has in most cases given place to frantic efforts to hang on in the military sphere.

Dangerous Roads.

Motoring from Solingen to Cologne with a well-known concert party the other evening there were two very narrow escapes from serious accident. Excavations made during the day for road repairs had been left without any warning lights. There will be a bad accident one of these days and then probably the danger will be removed.

Want Band Music?

I see that the band president of the 2/4 Hampshires has a quantity of music for sale. This should be worth snapping up, as it is going quite cheaply.

London Scottish Reunion.

I hear that there is to be a London Scottish Dinner in Cologne shortly. It is to coincide with the reunion to be held at Olympia, London and all officers on the Rhine who are old members of the Corps and wish to attend should get in touch with Lieut. E.R.M. Goodhall, A.P.D Command Pay Office, Cologne.

His Hobby.

I mentioned the other day that an officer was now keeping a pet canary instead of a dog. Apropos birds, I am reminded that perhaps the finest collection of canaries in Rhineland is kept by one of the D.A.P.M's in the Bonn area.

Recreation.

A pretty scene was witnessed in an open space not 100 miles from the Deutscher Ring recently. Two English soldiers, doubtless the fathers of families, were having their recreation after the day's work was done. Were they walking, cycling, footballing, or indulging in any of the numerous forms of sport so well beloved of our boys? No, but well "stripped" they were engaged in a brisk round game of bat and ball with some German kiddies with quite a crowd looking on!

Fur Collars.

One can see many of these nowadays sported by civilians. What strikes one most is the fact that the effect given to the wearer is that generally given by comic artists who delight in featuring broken-down members of the "legit."

From the Dom Tower.

The other day I did penance by clambering up to the top of one of the Dom's towers, but the view I saw quite compensated for my aching knees. A wonderful panorama it was that stretched below me.

I Wonder, too.

While I was gazing on the scene an elderly German told me how he had seen Napoleon III brought across the river as a prisoner in 1871 and then as a contrast less than half a century later, the victorious British Cavalry crossing the Hohenzollern Bridge. "I wonder," he queried, "who will cross the river in another fifty years time?"

Made in War Time.

The other night at a Cologne cinema a letter in German was flashed on the screen. I wonder how many present noticed the date. It was July 1916!

Perhaps not.

A reader objects to the number of officers he sees promenading the streets with pipes in their mouths. He says: "Would they do the same thing in Bond Street?"

For Highbrows.

Before the Occupation, the Deutsches Theatre, Cologne, was the home of advanced modern plays. The theatre was seldom full, generally only about half the seats being taken. Its patrons were the upper ten, intellectuals, artists, critics, literary and sociological folk.

Their Nationality.

Reference has previously been made in this column to the house-list exhibited on the back of entrance doors in Rhineland. I have seen a good many of these house-lists from Malmedy to Cologne and am struck by the fact that invariably the nationality of the person is given as "Preussen," a word which does not require translation.

When In London.

I hear that on account of the closing of the London rest houses, the N.A.C.B. have started a club for Naval and Military men at 97 Horseferry Road, Westminster, and 1000 men can be accomodated there for the night. For men passing through London this should be worth knowing.

Reading German Newspapers.

I know several officers who are learning German and buy newspapers in that language every morning. They say that endeavouring to read this helps them immensely, and I shouldn't be surprised if it did. Germans learning English buy the "Cologne Post" with the same object.

Once More.

I have given it before, but for the benefit of those who have failed to send for tickets in the Victory Cambridgeshire with its possible first prize of £12.000 here is the address from which you can get tickets at 10s. each. Major Denison. 33 Rue de Loos, Lille. The closing date I believe is the 25th of this month.

Tropical Troops.

In the French Area of Occupation I believe Senegalese troops are mostly employed. They are rather picturesque figures, though I don't fancy the German population loves them too well.

Can't Get Capital.

Ex-service men wishing to start in business tell me they are finding great difficulty in raising even small amounts of capital. The ordinary banks won't help and the need for an ex-servicemen's bank specially qualified to render such help is badly needed.

Travelling de Luxe.

There seems to be a marked improvement in the interiors of some of the railway carriages of the through trains employed in and near Cologne. The war-time upholstery is disappearing, but there is still the question of the cleanliness of branch trains to be faced.

Music and Cakes.

Have you ever heard of a civilian orchestra engaged to play all day in a soldiers' canteen? Well, there is one at the N.A.C.B. Staplehaus, overlooking the Rhine. And fresh cakes and pastries daily from their own bakery. Quite like a London Corner House.

Achieving wonders.

Pity the sorrows of a Concert Party manager in these dreadful days of demobilization. How some parties manage to give a show at all just now is a wonder to me. And when spectators grow super-critical I feel inclined to heave bricks at them for their lack of consideration.

German Interest.

German interest in the enterprise of two Britishers whose wares are advertised in our columns in very marked. I noticed quite a crowd interested in a very complete display of regimental badges.

RHINELANDER.

EAU DE COLOGNE.

THE LIGHT SIDE OF RHINELAND.

Dear Folks at Home:—

There have been so many amusements this last week that one almost pants for breath—as usual, dancing has been the order of the day, or rather night, in this respect, and Bonn has had dances to vie with those of Cologne.

* * *

The hostess of one of these dances hit on a particularly novel idea. There was an enormous paper bag affair in the room which made everyone curious as to what it might contain. The surprise was great when numbers of balloons were revealed—of different shapes and sizes. The dancing was enlivened by high jumps to catch these elusive balloons and also evading the endeavours of other dancers to burst it when at last one became the possessor of one.

* * *

The Arabian Nights fancy dress Ball at the Leave Club was another outstanding success. The costumes were in many cases wonderful, and I can't help thinking that the dance had been anticipated for some time past and special dresses ordered from home. Luckily my dress, the one I have worn several times at home, just fitted the occasion, and I was saved the bother of having to think one out. In spite of disguise there is no difficulty in recognising people by their style of dancing, particularly one who is so serious over it and who sails along carefully with the most grave expression as if each step were more important than anything else in the world, and his partner fully appreciating the spirit, gazes up to the ceiling with a wrapt expression.

* * *

Another dance was given by a certain mess in their palatial mansion. The houses here, though generally heavy and ornate looking, lend themselves to balls. As a rule black evening dresses are the predominant note, but on this occasion everyone seemed to have put on their gayest coloured frocks, and the rooms looked so bright with the yellow, pink, white, green and tango-coloured gowns. One lady in white had a particularly striking head-dress in a wide bandeau of silver and diamante leaves. Jade formed the trimming of a canary-coloured gown which gave it an original effect.

* * *

This last week I went down to Coblenz which is in the American area. The train journey is interesting, as one follows the Rhine practically all the way, and so one gets glimpses of the beauty spots. The day I went, there was a faint film of mist with the sunshine, which softened the effect and made it more charming. To my great delight there was a polo match against the X Corps on the Monday and I had to stay on and watch it. My American friends were so charming and welcomed me in their usual hospitable manner so much so that by the time I left I knew the whole colony.

Love to all, JOAN.

"JAZZ!"

I take no credit for the following.

Let honour be given where honour is due.

Silas B. Choogum, from Splashville, Tennessee, U.S.A. he introduced himself to me as, with the additional remark that it was "the place where the cotton grows."

I thought his face seemed familiar to me, but there it was, he had the correct nasal accent, and was attired in the well-known American uniform, so I had to accept him as a citizen from God's own country.

Silas had ranged this little old planet to some extent, I gathered.

He seemed to have played more than the seven parts allotted to man by Shakespeare, although at the time of my meeting him he had only reached the soldier stage, "seeking the bubble reputation, even at the cannon's mouth."

"Guess you don't know the country south of the Mason Dixie line" he enquired, after the usual minor platitudes. "No! Well you can take it from me that its the cutest stretch of earth on this planet."

"I was down on my uppers 'way down there a fall or two ago", he continued. "A greasy conductor on a 'freight' had made me 'hit the ties', the son of a gun."

I extended my sympathy.

"Well," continued Silas B., "as trains were scarce in them parts there was nothing for it but to 'batter' the town for a 'hand out' till another freight happened along."

Here I interrupted his narrative to enquire the meaning of the latter occupation.

He put me wise by explaining that it meant in Army parlance "scrounging."

"The town," he continued, "was one of them got there by accident sort, and the inhabitants were nearly all niggers. It didn't look a ripe spot for a 'hobo.'

"It was a hard case collection of shacks, and the local cop when he fixed on me hustled me around some."

"Well, I was hiking away out of 'town' to put him off when I heard a terrible clatter in one of the shacks."

"For concentrated pandemonium it had Sousa beat to a frazzle."

"Curiosity made me take a peep through the window and there I fixes on an old coon who wasn't enjoying himself any. His affinity in the shape of a buxom nigger girl was handing him out the goods thick and proper, assisted in her efforts by a sort of frying pan."

"At intervals the darkie let out a yell that would make a baseball crowd green with envy."

"I hit the trail then, as I spied that cog again."

He paused thoughtfully and applied himself to his glass, before continuing his narrative.

"I never gave it a thought then till I heard this 'Jazz' noise in little old New York a month or two later."

"Yes," he concluded triumphantly, "I guess the row that old coon made was the first recorded instance of 'Jazz,' and yours truly was the very first to hear that syncopated pandemonium."

I wonder! "HAWKEYE."

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME read The Cologne Post. Send it daily to yours.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Woman.—Eighteen women are seeking election in one London municipality.

Less Duty.—French customs duty on motor cars is to be reduced.

Demand Day.—Labour demands that London Councillors shall be paid salaries.

The Same.—Women teachers at home want the same salaries as men.

Another?—Paris drapery assistants threaten to strike.

No Sunday Work.—French post offices will in future close on Sundays.

Postponed.—Lord Allenby has postponed his visit to Egypt.

Folkstone's Commerce.—Folkstone harbour now deals with commercial traffic.

Wealth.—Viscount Astor left property estimated at twelve millions.

Lady Astor.—The new Lady Astor was one of the original "Gibson Girls."

King Pantomine.—The next pantomine at Drury Lane is to be "Cinderella."

A Beard.—The ex-Kaiser has grown a beard during his exile.

Papier Mache.—Candlesticks and toilet requisites are now made of papier maché.

More Trouble?—There is a strong royalist party in Hungary again.

Wake up Sheffield.—American cutlery is supplanting Sheffield goods in Canada.

New Town.—There is likely to be a new town set up in the Kentish coalfields.

To be Sold.—Nelson's sword is to be sold at Sotheby's.

Floating Safes.—Dutch mail ships carry floating safes for mails.

No Engine Required.—Elephants are used for shunting freight cars in U. S.

Surplus.—Government blankets are fetching from 10s. to 22s. a pair.

Rainproof. —New York motorbuses have been fitted with a covered top.

Royal Mail Losses.—During the war the Royal Mail Steamship Company lost half a million tons of shipping.

Italy's Coal.—Italy still depends on Great Britain for coal. We are sending her six million tons a year.

Penny Postage.—Lord Blyth considers a return to penny postage essential to reviving British trade.

Their Liability.—Ninety-eight Glamorgan miners have been ordered to pay income tax demands.

Cut off.—Owing to bubonic plague. Constantinople has been declared an infected place.

Armistice Day.—A Service is to be held in Westminster Abbey on the anniversary of Armistice Day.

One Empty.—Willesden with a population of 200,000 has only one vacant house.

On the Land.—Two thousand farms at home are employing nearly 14,000 disabled men.

No Secret Pact.—Japan denies the story of a secret treaty between Japan, Germany and Russia.

Good.—Hammersmith's present to its M.P. is to be devoted to the benefit of the wounded.

Deadlock.—There is a cotton trade deadlock, and notices to cease work at the end of this month are to be served.

Rice Scarce.—There is a serious shortage in the world's rice crop as well as in sugar supplies.

For Services.—Paris University has sent a bronze medal to Cambridge University.

More Pay.—The fees of barristers attending Cheshire Assizes have been increased.

Too Careful.—The anaemic condition of some children is attributed to too careful feeding.

Lady "Pat."—Lady Patricia Ramsay has returned from Paris to England with the intention of doing some shopping.

For London.—Dr. Solf, it is rumoured, will be the first German representative in London.

Yet Another.—The Grand Duke Nicholas is dictating his reminiscenses for publication.

At Christmas.—Mr. Leslie Henson's wedding is likely to take place at Christmas.

The Queen's Gift.—The Queen has given eleven albums containing Colonial scenes to L.C.C. Schools.

Feathered Customers.—Cranes at Kew Gardens enter the refreshment buffet and feed on the counter.

Speaking Films.—A London engineer claims that he can reproduce sound and pictures on the same film.

Western Ideas.—One of the Basuto chiefs on visit to London is wearing a trench coat.

Not Likely.—The Guest of the Authors' Club, Lord Leverhulme, said he was not going to give up soap to become an author.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

If you were to win £12,000.

A PRIZE CONTEST.

As most readers know there is being run at Lille a big sweepstake on the Cambridgeshire. If all the tickets are sold the fortunate winner will receive the very handsome sum of TWELVE THOUSAND POUNDS STERLING. Now this winner may very well be someone in the Rhine Army. Suppose for instance, it were you who suddenly received this big access of wealth.

What would you do with it?

This problem has suggested a prize competition open to all our readers. Just write a letter to the "Editor, Post" A.P.O. S/40—not exceeding 250 words and say exactly what you would do with £12,000 if you came into possession of it.

We offer prizes 50, 20 and 10 marks respectively for the three best answers to the question. The reply you send may be as brief as you like, but it must not exceed the length of 250 words. Write your name and unit below your answer in block letters and let us hear from you not later than November 1st. The Editor's decision will of course be final in judging the merits of the answer to the question, "What would I do with £12.000 if I won it?"

Machine Gun Corps Badge Brooch Diamonds set in Palladium, 15-ct. Gold and Enamel. £34 0 0
Rose Diamonds. £20 0 0

Northumberland Fusiliers Badge Brooch. Diamonds set in Palladium, 15ct. Gold and Enamel. £30 0 0

BY APPOINTMENT.

Military Jewellery

THE Military Badge Jewellery made by the Goldsmiths and Silversmiths Company is of finest quality and is the best value obtainable. A selection of representative Badges will be submitted for approval, carriage paid and at the Company's risk, or a Catalogue will be posted free on application.

WARNING.

The Goldsmiths and Silversmiths Company have no branch establishments in Regent Street, Oxford Street, or elsewhere in London or abroad—only one address, 112 REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.1.

THE GOLDSMITHS & SILVERSMITHS COMPANY LTD.
with which is incorporated The Goldsmiths Alliance Ltd. Est. 1751
JEWELLERS TO HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
112 Regent Street, London, W.1.

ANOTHER ATTRACTIVE CANTEEN FOR YOU

N.A.C.B.
STERNENGASSE
Hohepforte end of Hohestr.

Well stocked canteen — Tea & coffee bar — Cakes & pastries from our own Cologne bakery fresh every day — comfortable rest room with separate tables for eating, etc.

N.A.C.B.
"SERVICE FOR SOLDIERS"

DON'T FORGET TO RENEW YOUR MONTHLY HOME SUB.

Send 15 Marks or 2 6 and we continue to send daily.

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S./40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

ONE MONTHS' subscription to the Cologne Post including postage for sale. Price 15 Marks. Have it sent home daily.

STAMP COLLECTION. Europe and Oversea Countries, some 8000 stamps in all, also nice collection of post cards and envelopes etc. (4000) containing English Colonies in great number, for sale. Apply to A 305 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

STAMP COLLECTION including many good pieces for sale, price Mark 2000. On view from 7 p.m. K. Schulze, Köln-Nippes, Kretzerstr. 2.

COLOGNE Master Violin Otto (1873) in very good condition. Worth 2,500 Marks. Examined by Cologne Master Violin maker. To be sold for 2,000 Marks. Severinstrasse 49, ground floor.

OLD FRENCH VIOLIN, wonderful tone, for sale cheap. Write to A 302 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

HIGH dog cart. English built in thorough good condition. Suitable for a tandem. Price £50. Apply, Capt. Harley, Cavalry Barracks, Bonn.

ZEISS-GOERZ-BINOCULARS 6×30 and 8× in splendid condition, Pohl, Boisserées str. 12 I. Floor, (near Hohenstaufen Bad).

GOOD old Violin to sell at M. 250—. Geraet a pistons M. 150.—. Assenmacher, Vogteistrasse 29, near Hansaring.

WANTED.

PRISMATIC binoculars, Zeiss or Goerz, new or second-hand. 30 mm 6, central focussing. Or special 40 mm O.Gs. For particulars & price to Box 200, Cologne Post, A.P.O.S. 40.

EVERY DEMOBBED soldier wanted to continue reading the Cologne Post in Blighty. Send 15 Marks for one month's subscription now.

STOCK ROOM wanted. One with office preferred. Must be in good position. Box 199, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

VARNISH-FIRM wants English Varnish. Off. A. 295 Cologne Post A.P.O./S. 40.

Typewriter in serviceable condition wanted. No fancy prices. Particulars to A 298. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S 40.

We buy constantly every quantity of old ENGLISH BEER BOTTLES, if free house. FRITZ ERLE G. m. b. H. Holbeinstrasse 36/38, Cöln-Nippes.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

YOUNG LADY, speaking English, teaches piano and German. Write to A 303 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

WELL educated Lady, English, French' German, good musician, Engl. and Germ. shorthand and typist seeks situation as private secretary, interpreter, lady's companion. Offers A 304 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S 40.

YOUNG GERMAN, several years with London merchants, wants position as traveller, correspondent or interpreter. A 306 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

SITUATIONS VACANT.

ENGLISH GIRL, being demobilised, wanted as nurse for British Officers' little girl, age 2, in Cologne for 3 or 4 months. Reply by Friday to Box 211, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S 40.

PERSONAL.

ANY person having claims against 51st Bn. The Durham Light Infantry are requested to render them to the Officer Commanding 51st Bn. The Durham Light Infantry, British Army of the Rhine, before 31st Oct. 1919.

LANGUAGES.

GERMAN, well educated young lady, wishes to have conversation with an English lady for exchange of languages. Write Käthe R. 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

SPORT.

THE N.A.C.B. FOOTBALL CLUB require Home and Away Matches for the first and second Elevens. All Dates open except November, 5th and 14th. Replies to:—Secretary, N.A.C.B., Football Club, N.A.C.B., Headquarters, Rhine Army.

OFFICER wants bold Dogs to hunt wild Boar. Good Home. Box 215, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

LOST.

LEFT my mistake at "E" Mess, G.H.Q., in July, Gramaphone and Records. Claim, with description to Box 216, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

500 Mks. REWARD

Left by mistake on the pavement outside No. 301 Luxemburger Strasse in the early hours of the 20th inst. a brown Canvas Suitcase with brass fittings containing lady's garments and jewellery. The above reward with be paid to anyone giving information to Lieut. Savill VI Corps Club, Cologne, which will lead to the recovery of the lost articles.

DON'T FORGET THIS

 THE COLOGNE POST ***
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks.

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, October 23, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S/40 British Army of the Rhine.

BUSINESS MEN— SEE PAGE FOUR

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

DON'T FORGET TO RENEW YOUR HOME SUBSCRIPTION

No. 177. COLOGNE, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

PARLIAMENT RE-ASSEMBLES

MINISTERS ARE KEPT BUSY ANSWERING IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.

BOLSHEVIST NAVAL ATTACK DEFEATED.

IN THE HOUSE.

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

When the House of Commons reassembled for the Autumn session on Wednesday afternoon there was an unusually big attendance. Most of the leading ministers were present at the opening of the session, except Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Bonar Law. A large number of questions were down on various aspects of finance.

Mr. Briant asked the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs what progress had been made with the organisation of the League of Nations and when he expected the first meeting of that assembly to take place.

Mr. Cecil Harmsworth replied that he understood the Acting Secretary-General had established such provisional organisation as is necessary for the immediate duties of the League. The date for the first meeting is not yet fixed. In accordance with article five it would be summoned by the President of the United States. It had been intended to hold the first meeting at Washington but the venue is again under consideration in view of the fact that the permanent meeting place of the League will be Geneva.

Non-Volunteers going.

Answering various questions as to demobilization Mr. Winston Churchill said that in the next financial year the British Army would be reduced to about its pre-war standard. The number of men serving on a non-volunteer basis on the 15th October was 615,000, of whom 95,000 had since been demobilized or were on demobilization furlough.

Answering Major Mackenzie Wood as to the numbers of British troops engaged in any Russian theatre of war Mr. Churchill said that the 9th Battalion the Hampshire Regiment is due to sail for home from Vladivostock on the 30th October. Other than that there are no formed bodies of British troops in any Russian theatre of war.

Replying to another question Mr. Winston Churchill stated that the number of troops now in Ireland is 55,000, involving a weekly cost of £210,000.

Concerning the ex-Kaiser.

Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy asked whether any arrangements have yet been made for the trial of the ex-Kaiser. Mr. Bonar Law replied that Article 227 of the Peace Treaty provides that a request shall be made to the Netherlands Government for the surrender of the ex-Kaiser in order that he may be put on his trial. This request, however, cannot be made until the Treaty of Peace is formally ratified. Meanwhile all the necessary preparations are being made for the trial. (Cheers).

Mr. Pemberton Billing asked what action would be taken if the Netherlands Government refused to surrender the ex-Kaiser.

Mr. Bonar Law: "It will be time enough to consider that question if it arises."

"GOOD OLD HUGHES."

AN EXPENSIVE FORM OF HECKLING.

An exciting incident occurred at Brisbane on Tuesday afternoon. While Mr. Hughes, the Australian Premier, was addressing a crowded open-air meeting the occupants of a Trade Union office on the third floor of the adjacent building hung out a board inscribed "Vote for Labour" and later another with the inscription "Next Prime Minister—Ryan."

On the occupants paying no heed to the demands of the crowd for the removal of the board, a party of soldiers raided the room and altered the inscription to "Good old Hughes." The soldiers then ransacked the office, hurling tables, chairs, and office equipment into the street below.

Mr. Hughes announced in the course of his speech that the soldiers' gratuity of eightpence per day would be paid in negotiable bonds bearing 5¼ per cent. interest, which will cost the Government twenty-five millions sterling.

THEATRICAL WHITLEY COUNCIL.

A conference was held yesterday at the Ministry of Labour with a view to the establishment of a joint industrial council (otherwise a Whitley Council) for managers and employees in the entertainment profession, including artists, musicians, stage staffs etc.

BELGIANS INVITED HOME.

The Belgian Government is appealing to those Belgian refugees who still remain in Britain to return home before November 30 next to assist in the reconstruction of their own country. Steps to expedite and assist them to return have been taken by the Belgian Government.

NORTH RUSSIA.

REPORTED CRUSHING DEFEAT OF LOYALISTS.

According to the Helsingfors correspondent of a Danish paper it is now certain that General Judenitch's Army is in poossession of Tsarskoe-Selo and Pavlovsk. The White Army is full of hope. Kronstadt had been subjected to continuous heavy bombardment of British and French warships since Monday, and the French ships, having long range guns, are able to keep out of range of the fort batteries. It is now reported that Krasnoje Gorka is not yet captured.

The position of the White population of Petrograd is hopeless. Firing goes on all day in the streets, and an absolute reign of terror exists. A rebellion was attempted, but was crushed by the Bolshevists, who are also offering a stubborn resistance to the North Army. Fighting is taking place ten versts South of Petrograd. Help has been sent for from Moscow.

According to reports from Subjaervi, Russian White troops have met with a crushing defeat in the Murman district. The Bolshevist Navy transferred troops from the South to the North of Lake Onega and made an attack from the rear. In order not to be surrounded the White troops were compelled to make an immediate retreat, giving up Petrosavosk.

The British Admiralty announces that on the morning of the 21st October four Bolshevist destroyers attempted an attack on Esthonian vessels and British destroyers lying in Kaporia Bay. Two Bolshevist destroyers were sunk, six survivors being rescued. There were no British or Esthonian casualties.

THE RUSSIAN FRONT LINE.

Latest official reports from the War Office give the line of the Russian North-Western Army on the evening of October 19th as follows: From the sea, at a point five miles westward of Krasnayagorka, to Wepscho, five miles South of the same place; thence along the Navasha river to Gorielova, three miles North-eastward of Krasnoeselo; thence to the Western edge of Tsarkoe-selo; thence to Volasnik, six miles South-eastward of Gatchaan; thence South to the neighbourhood of the Petrograd-Vitebsk railway at Batetskceya; thence South-westward to Lipno on the North West corner of Lake Pskoff.

The advance to Tsarskoe-selo took place on the morning of the 18th, but details are lacking.

TROTZKY'S UNITY OF COMMAND.

It is reported from Helsingfors that Trotzky advocated during a meeting of Soviets the immediate dissolution of the Soviets at the front and the establishment of a unique command for the whole Northern front. The Soviets promised, at a conference of officers held at Petrograd, to recall all commissaries from the front, to give full freedom of action to the officers and to restore to them their old powers.

PLEADING FOR RUSSIA.

General Dobriansky, official representative of General Judenitch, has arrived in London to thank the British Government and people for their past help to the people of Russia and to ask for further help for the Russian North-Western Army.

He will afterwards proceed to Paris on a similar mission.

TREE LOPPING ORDER.

A circular has been issued by the Ministry of Transport calling upon county, urban, and rural district councils to see that trees and hedges are lopped, so as to remove danger to vehicular passengers from overhanging branches.

LABOUR M.P. RESIGNS.

Mr. J. W. Taylor, the Labour Member for Chester-le-Street, has applied for the Chiltern Hundreds. Mr. John Lawson, the well known miners' leader, has been selected by the Durham Miners' Association to contest the seat.

EARTHQUAKE AT ROME.

An appreciable earthquake shock occurred at Rome shortly after 7 a.m. on Wednesday. No damage was done but the tremors were unmistakeable.

During the fortnight ended October 18, 1919, the Council of the King's Fund made 1,194 grants, comprising 574 to officers and men and 620 to widows and dependents, the total thus disbursed amounting to £37,865 18s. 5d.

MINE ACCIDENT.

HOW THE CATASTROPHE HAPPENED.

The accident at the Levant tin mine St. Just, near Land's End, is the most serious which has occurred in the history of the industry. Some estimates put the number of dead as high as 40 but probably that figure is over-estimated.

The accident was due to the breaking of the connecting rod of the man engine, a curious survival of a contrivance for lowering men into the mine and bringing them to the surface. Formerly man engines were in general use in Cornwall, but the one at Levant is said to be the only one now in use in the world. It consists of a ponderous wooden beam which extends from the top to the bottom of the shaft, which is 600 yards deep. At intervals of 12ft. are steps on the beam, each of which affords foothold for one person, while on the side of the shaft are stationary platforms at intervals of 12ft. At every stroke of the engine et the beam is raised and lowered 12 feel, and the men step on and off the platforms, and are carried up or down by the movement of the beam. It is a rather slow process, but has been carried on for years without serious accident. In the Levant mine the man engine will accommodate about 150 men in its various stages.

From 100 to 150 were on it on Tuesday afternoon when the change of shift was taking place. When the connecting rod broke the engine was at the top of its stroke, and the gigantic beam with its load fell 12ft. Many of the platforms in the side of the shaft and on the beam were smashed, and the men on them were knocked off and crushed. Some were unhurt and managed to reach the surface. Rescue parties brought out others, but a number of miners in different levels could not be reached, and until the shaft is cleared it will not be known definitely how many lives have been lost.

MARCHIONESS FINED.

DUCKS AT A PROFITEERING PRICE.

At Cardiff on Iuesday Mary Louise, Marchioness of Queensberry, trading as M.L. Bickel, was fined £5 for buying ducks at prices exceeding the maximum. Minnie Harris, manageress, was fined a similar amount for aiding and abetting. For the defence it was stated the Marchioness had nothing to do with the management of the business. The ducks had been ordered for Royal Show week. The stipendiary remarked that it was not a serious case.

The marriage—announced some time after the event—of the Marquis of Queensberry to Mrs. Mary Louise Morgan (née Miss Mary Bickel) was the society event of last December. In addition to her business capacity Lady Queensberry is a fearless horsewoman and a popular racehorse owner. In June last she was fined £40 at Cardiff for selling sausages in her two Cardiff shops above the controlled price.

BUILDERS NOW.

GENERAL STRIKE THREATENED.

Over a quarter of a million men are affected by a dispute which has arisen in the building trade over a demand of the operatives for an advance of 4d. an hour, bringing their wage up to 2s. an hour in the best-paid districts. A general strike in the industry is threatened unless an early settlement is reached.

Employers contend that the action of the operatives is a violation of the agreement reached on the occasion of the last increase of pay, when it was understood that no further revision of wages could be effected until after six months' notice. This position, however, is challenged by the men, who have become restive owing to what they regard as unnecessary delay in dealing with their claim.

EXTENSIVE FUR THEFTS.

Fur robberies in London have been very frequent of late. Two such thefts were reported to Scotland Yard yesterday, in which property valued at over fourteen thousand pounds was involved. The first case was in a big City-road firm and the second in Wigmore-street. The thieves displayed expert knowledge of the fur trade, removing only articles of the first quality. It is estimated that the value of furs stolen since January is eighy thousand pounds.

ARRESTED ARMY CHAPLAIN.

It is stated that Father O'Donell, the Australian military chaplain who was arrested in Dublin a week ago, will be deported to Australia. His solicitor saw him yesterday, and up to that time no charge had been preferred.

PENNY WISE PUBLICAN.

A fine of £15 for on overcharge of one penny on a bottle of stout, and for failure to exhibit a price list in the taproom, was yesterday imposed on a publican by the Wirksworth (Derbyshire) Bench.

PENNANT INQUIRY.

INTRIGUE AMONG W.R.A.F. OFFICERS.

At the House of Lords Committee of Inquiry into the dismissal of Miss Violet Douglas Pennant from the Women's Royal Air Force yesterday, Miss Pennant concluded her evidence.

The chief witness was Sir Godfrey Paine, Master General of Personnel during the time Miss Pennant was Commandant of the W.R.A.F. He stated that he approved the refusal of Miss Pennant to appoint five ladies to high positions, which refusal led to the resignation of Mrs. Beatty and two other women officers.

He transferred Colonel Bersey because the organisation was not running smoothly and things were not going on as fast as they should have done. The obtaining of women, said Sir Godfrey Paine, was a matter of life or death to the nation, as no men could be obtained. He told Colonel Powell, who succeeded Colonel Bersey, that unless there was a vast improvement within a month either he or Miss Pennant or both would have to go, but at no time did he have any reason for altering his first opinion that Miss Pennant was in every way fitted for the post of Commandant.

Regarding the conditions at Hurst Park, Sir Godfrey said that Miss Pennant told him about Hurst Park being in an unsatisfactory state and he had a suspicion that what she meant was immorality. He did not think, however, that Miss Pennant had anything more to go upon than rumours, which it would have been very difficult for her to investigate, as she had no jurisdiction over the officer commanding at Hurst Park. There was no use his reporting vague rumours. After the armistice he inspected Hurst Park and was told there had been grave scandals and little work for the women to do.

After Miss Pennant's dismissal he told General Seely that whatever success the Women's Royal Air Force had had was largely due to Miss Pennant's spade work. The concerted resignation of the five women, whose nomination for higher posts was refused, followed that of three staff officers. It was clear evidence of an intrigue to get rid of Miss Pennant, especially as they could give him no earthly reason for their resignations. The staff officers knew their resignations would throw the whole machine into disorder. He told them they must carry on until their posts were filled but they immediately walked out. That was a small mutiny and if they had been soldiers or sailors they would have been Court-martialled.

TRAIN MYSTERY.

COLONEL'S FATAL FALL FROM CARRIAGE.

The circumstances of a Serbian officer's fatal fall from a train near Orpington, Kent, on Saturday, were inquired into by Dr. Waldo at Southwark on Wednesday. The dead officer is Lieut.-Col. Lyoubicha Lyoubichitsch, and according to the evidence of another Serbian officer who identified him he was on his way to Belgrade, via Folkestone and Paris. He had served in the war and was suffering from nerves.

Thomas Cloke, the guard of the 8.30 boat train from Victoria to Folkestone, said near Orpington the communication cord was pulled and a lady in a first-class carriage said to witness, "A Serbian officer has jumped out of the train."

Witness asked if the officer accidentally fell out, and the lady replied, "Oh, dear, no. He got up, walked across the compartment, opened the door, and deliberately threw himself out." The officer was taken to Guy's Hospital, but died within a few hours of admission. The inquiry was adjourned.

WAR OFFICE REDUCTIONS.

Mr. Winston Churchill has issued to the staff of the War Office a memorandum expressing his appreciation of the loyal response in all departments to his call for economy. The memorandum states that drastic reductions must continue, so as to effect by the end of the year a retrenchment of about forty per cent. of the numbers employed on the 1st August, when the staff had already been reduced by 5,500.

FLIGHT TO AUSTRALIA.

A message from Valona (Albania) to an Italian paper says that Poulet, the French aviator, who is attempting the Paris-Melbourne flight, has been obliged to interrupt his flight to Salonika owing to storms. He landed at the aerodrome at Taviaga, near Valona, and was received by Italian aviation officers. A telegram from Brindisi to "Le Matin," Paris, stated that Poulet had landed there.

A DEAF AND DUMB PRISONER.

Among the prisoners at the Old Bailey on Wednesday who applied to the Recorder for legal aid was a deaf and dumb man. Through an interpreter the Recorder told him that his application would be granted and solicitor and counsel assigned him. It would, he added, be necessary for the interpreter to attend the consultations between the man and his legal advisers.

A Cabinet meeting was held yesterday morning, Mr. A. J. Balfour and other members attending.

FAR-EAST NAVY.

DIFFICULTIES OF GUARDING AUSTRALIA.

Admiral Jellicoe's report on naval affairs in the Far East has been tabled in the House of Representatives. It emphasises the desirability of Australia becoming self-contained in regard to the manufacture of guns, gun-mountings, explosives, aircraft and munitions generally. The report states that the difficulty of guarding Australia is greatly increased by the small population, the absence of strategic railways, the immense coastline, and the distance from Great Britain. The naval problem of the Far East concerns the Empire as a whole. The interests of the Empire are likely to demand within the next five years a strong Eastern fleet, comprising vessels of the Royal Navy East Indian Squadron and the Australian. Canadian, and New Zealand Navies, and the report suggests that each Dominion and India should bear the cost of vessels specially allocated for the defence of their own harbours.

PUSSYFOOT SPEAKS.

NOT ANXIOUS FOR THE MILLENIUM.

Mr. Leif Jones, the President' at the Council meeting of the United Kingdom Alliance, speaking in Manchester yesterday, said the year had marked the beginning of the campaign which they believed would lead to the final victory against the Liquor Forces.

Mr. "Pussyfoot" Johnson said: In America we have what you call prohibition, but there is some confusion as to what prohibition is. There is no law in America against a man taking a drink. He can go into the woods and drink himself blind, deaf, and dumb and nobody will arrest him for that. He is only arrested if he drinks in a manner to annoy other people. What we have prohibited is people making people drunk for profit. After detailing the decrease in crime he proceeded: The war prohibition has not brought about the millenium. I rather hope the millenium won't come during my lifetime. What has happened is an indication of what we may except when full prohibition comes into effect on the 16th of January next. Two years ago we stopped the manufacture of whiskey, and now we have approximately one hundred million gallons in existence, which is estimated to be eight months' normal supply. You are getting a large portion of it over here. We would rather have your money than our whiskey. As long as that whiskey is in existence it will come to the surface in one way or another. Those Englishmen who went to see how easily they could get over the difficulty will find it pretty difficult to get whiskey when it has disappeared.

TO PREVENT "LIGHTNING STRIKES."

The Liberty and Property Defence League has prepared, for immediate presentation to Parliament, a Bill entitled the Trade Disputes Bill. It provides that a strike or lock-out, whether or not a union is concerned, shall not take place until 14 days after a statement relative to the dispute has been published by the Minister of Labour, and that a union shall not be concerned in a strike or lock-out until it has obtained the approval of the members. It is not intended to interfere with the right of members of the union to strike or not to strike, whatever the result of the ballot, but if the ballot went against the strike they could not receive strike pay from the union.

BLACK WATCH WELCOMED HOME.

The citizens of Perth on Wednesday welcomed home the Cadre of the 6th Black Watch, the only Highland unit honoured by the French Government with the Croix de Guerre. The Duke of Atholl presided over an entertainment given to 1,000 officers and men. Colonel Sir Robert D. Moncrieffe stated that the King had consented to be patron of the Black Watch Association.

ROUMANIAN GENERAL'S SUICIDE.

A telegram from Vienna reports that General Holborn, Commander-in-Chief of the Roumanian troops in Hungary, has committed suicide at Bukarest. He had been recalled to the capital to explain certain acts involving his personal history and responsibility.

GOOD OLD IRELAND.

The title of the "Bravest Village" is claimed for Rathnew, County Wicklow, where every one of the 180 men of military age voluntarily joined the forces before the spring of 1916.

PEER'S BODY CREMATED.

The funeral service for the late Lord Astor was held yesterday morning at St. George's, Hanover Square. The remains were subsequently conveyed to Golders Green for cremation.

MORE! MORE!

MINERS FORMULATING NEW DEMANDS.

A Special Delegate Conference of the Miners' Federation was held yesterday at the Central Hall, Westminster, under the presidency of Mr. Robert Smillie. The proceedings, which are private, are expected to last two days.

Among the matters which the meeting resolved should be taken up as national questions were payment for week-end work, and overtime for surface workers and continous shift men. The executive was instructed to formulate a complete programme for approval at a later conference.

The Federation also decided to urge all districts to await the decision of the Royal Commission, which is now enquiring into the incidence of income tax before taking further action.

There has been a considerable volume of opinion among miners, especially in South Wales, to have the income tax exemption level raised from £120 to £250. The resolution of the South Wales miners advising members not to pay any further tax on the present basis was not moved.

BATTLEFIELD SEARCH.

128,000 GRAVES IDENTIFIED.

The work of identifying the solitary, and in many cases unmarked, graves of British soldiers who fell in France and Flanders, and of concentrating these graves in cemeteries near the battlefields, has now proceeded so far that it is hoped to bring it to an end in March next. The work has been attended by extraordinary difficulties, due to the nature of the battle-scarred ground.

Many of the shell-holes, especially those on the Somme and at Paschendaele, were so full of water that pumping had to be resorted to, and weeks elapsed before the bodies buried in them could be recovered. In spite of this, however, 22,000 graves had been concentrated by the beginning of June last, and this number has steadily increased till it now stands at 128,000. The exhumations and concentrations during the past months have averaged 8,000 per week, and many of the bodies recovered from unmarked graves and shell-holes have been those of men who had been reported as missing. Already 100 cemeteries have been handed over to the Imperial War Graves Commission.

With a view to further assisting visitors to graves, offices have been opened at Ypres, at Ecurie, near Arras, and at Meaulte, near Albert, where full particulars of the best means of reaching any particular cemetery can be obtained.

DEGREES FOR WOMEN.

COMBINED UNIVERSITY ACTION.

Oxford University has consulted Sir John Simon and Mr. E. J. Murray, the eminent K.C.'s, as to whether it has the statutory power to admit women to membership and degrees. Counsel suggest that Parliamentary sanction should be obtained and that action to this end be taken conjointly with Cambridge University.

OLD BAILEY SESSIONS.

The October Sessions of the Central Criminal Court were opened by the Lord Mayor at the Old Bailey on Wednesday.

The calendar was again a heavy one. The names of 108 persons appear in the list for trial, of whom 32 are accused of bigamy. There are two charges of murder, one of manslaughter, and several of wounding and other forms of violence, as well as two of attempted suicide. The cases in the Judge's list will be tried before Mr. Justice Salter.

COAL TO BE STILL DEARER.

A Government Commission is visiting various colliery districts and discussing with colliery proprietors the railway freight rates for coal. The Commission proposes a fifty-per-cent increase, but the proprietors declare that it is not necessary for any increase to exceed 33⅓ per cent.

Whatever increase is decided upon must entail a corresponding increase of price to the consumer.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

Pending a general financial statement in Parliament, business was on the slow side. Home funds weakened somewhat but finished steady. Great satisfaction was expressed that national expenditure last week was 20¾ millions less than revenue. Foreign stocks were dull. French issues closed steadier but Siberian minings were affected by profit taking. Argentine railways were buoyant owing to the influence of the weekly traffic returns, also the news that the Argentine Congress meets on the 27th October to discuss the proposed loan to the Allies. Oils were active and hardening on news of the issue being underwritten of the Scottish-American oilfields with a capital of 30½ millions sterling for the purpose of taking over an oil business at Tampico, Mexico. Rubbers strengthened, an encouraging dividend distribution creating a steady demand and investment. Diamonds showed a renewed rise but Premiers closed easier. Gold minings were dull.

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Mr. Lee is now back in Cologne from London and has brought with him a good stock.

Call or write OFFICERS' CLUB, COLOGNE.

"Café Prinzess"
Corner of Waidmarkt.

Open to all Troops of the British and Allied Army

DAILY CONCERT

SIMPLICISSIMUS
Cabaret and Wine-Room
— Hohestrasse 152—154. —
Twice daily first-class singing and dancing performances. Open from 4.30 to 10.45 p.m.
— For Officers and Civilians only. —

Munchener Beerhalls
Lunapark in Zoological Gardens
Great International Boxing Tournament.
To morrow
Curt Sasse, Berlin, 114 pounds
v.
Ludwig Trattner, Vienna, 118 pounds.
CHALLENGE. 10 rounds of 2 mins.
Sergeant Sid. Kloss, Welterweight champion, 139 pounds
v.
Willi Müller, formerly of Australia, 134 pounds.
CHIEF MATCH. 10 rounds of 3 mins
Walter Buchszuhn, Berlin, 140 pounds
v.
Georg Miers, formerly of Chicago, 136 pounds.
CHALLENGE. 10 rounds of 2 mins.
Pte. Fisher, England, 111 pounds, British Soldier
v.
Willi Wieprecht, Berlin, 110 pounds, ex-amateur Bantam-weight, Champion of Germany.

KODAK
Wulff & Kleinholz, Hohestr. 112
Cologne
Developing and Printing.
All Photographic work carefully executed.
— Prompt attention. —

Automobile Repairs
efficient, quickly, cheaply, with modern equipment.
A. Villinger, Bensberg
Telephone 58
Engineers & Metal Workers
Up-to-date Welding.

FURS
FOXES, the mode of the moment, in all forms and colours. Legitimate ALASKA, BLUE, CROSS and SILVER FOXES.
Newest models, or, if desired, manufacturing to own design.
Kauffmann, Richard-Wagnerstr. 41
No shop, therefore equitable prices.

Shoot to let

Kreis: Düren.
Gemeinde: Strass-Bugstein.
Area: 1620 Morgen.
Game: Rabbits, partridge, hares, deer.
Price: 1780 Mks. per annum.

Available February 1st 1920. If application is not made to the Burgomaster by Nov. 1st this shoot will be disposed of in the usual way.

ENORMOUS SUCCESS OF
"THE JESTERS"
The first civilian music hall party to visit Rhineland.

SIX LONDON VARIETY ARTISTES INCLUDING
Mr.
JOE MORLEY
The famous Banjoist of the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN.
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY.
Mr. HARRY KING.
Mr. FRANK HOOK.
Mr. CHASS LEWIS.

Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage The Jesters. Vacant dates Monday Oct. 27th, Thurs., 30th, and Sat. Nov. 1. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office or may be seen personally at 11 o/c each morning at Amusements Office, Komödienstrasse, Cologne.

PRIVATE DINING ROOMS

ANOTHER N.A.C.B. INNOVATION

Private Dining Rooms for farewell dinners and so on for parties up to twenty may now be engaged at the Officer's Club, Ewige Lampe. Larger parties by arrangement.

HAVE YOUR DEMOB. PARTY AT THE CLUB.

Apply O/c Clubs
N.A.C.B., H.Q. COLOGNE.
"N.A.C.B. SERVICE"

Mention The Cologne Post when replying to advertisements. It helps you and the advertisers.

Deutsches Theatre, Bismarckstrasse
SPECIAL SUNDAY CONCERTS
Sunday, Oct. 26th at 6 p.m.
Concert by
THE BAND OF THE "INNISKILLING DRAGOONS"
(By kind permission of Col. B. Vincent C.B., C.M.G., Commanding)
Bandmaster: G. ADAMS
Vocalists:
Miss CLARA FURMEDGE
Cpl. HAROLD WALTERS
Accompanist: Pte. E. C. HOSIER
Book at the Theatre or Amusements Office

THIS (FRIDAY) EVENING at the
COLOGNE CENTRAL Y.M.C.A.
(44, Friesenstrasse.)
LORELY HALL. — 6.30 p. m. Whist Tournament.
GREAT HALL. — "Tabs and Tonics" Concert Party at 6.30 p m.
The Dancing Classes for British Children are held every Tuesday and Thursday in the Lorely Hall at 11 a. m.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION
at No. 1, 2 and 3
Army Cinemas,
on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, October, 23rd, 24th and 25th.
Featuring the following fights:—
BECKETT—McGOORTY.
FULTON—TOWNLEY.
BASHAM—CHARLES.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

MOTHERS
read "The Cologne Post". Send it daily to yours.

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor

Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???
Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!
The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!
TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.
Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 32-34.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

NOTICE:
In future the Deutsches Theatre performances will commence at 6 p.m. nightly, excepting Wednesdays and Fridays, when they will begin at 8 p.m.

Deutsches Theatre, Bismarckstrasse.
To-day and Saturday at 6 p.m.
British Rhine Army Dramatic Company
in
"MAN OF DESTINY."
FOLLOWED BY "CANDIDA."

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
Commencing at 7 p.m.
Mr. ALFRED HURLEY'S LONDON COMPANY
"THE JESTERS"
ARTISTES:
Mr. JOE MORLEY
the Celebrated Banjoist, from the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY
Mr. FRANK HOOK Mr. HARRY KING
Mr. CHASS LEWIS
and "JOEY"

Commencing at 7 p.m.
No: 1 ARMY CINEMA.
32 Komödienstrasse
All the Best Pictures.
No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
Grand Orchestral and Pictorial Programme.
No: 3 ARMY CINEMA.
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS, Hohe Strasse
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 653. Civil: A 9511.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S.40, British Army of the Rhine.
Subscript.: In Rhine Army area 9 mks. 50 pfg. a month, post free.
To Great Britain or Colonies, 15 marks a month post free.

Friday, October 24, 1919.

REGIMENTAL PRIDE.

Passionate love of country, which is never manifested so much as when direct peril threatens, was ever the noblest characteristic of the soldier. Very near it among the emotions that stir the blood or thrill the heart, is the passionate love of the regiment.

So intense is this regard, so jealous is the supremely "white man" of the honour and reputation of his unit that many a crimson drop that told a tale has incarnadined the earth beneath wordy champions. Wigs were speedily on the green, and rightly so, when vile aspersions were intolerable, history distorted, or false comparisons made.

Such a spirit, even though, as frequently happens, it leads to men imagining themselves angels and angels gods, is highly commendable. As long as it prevails, and there is happily no sign of impending decay, no regiment of worthy repute need fear eclipse.

At the moment, an agitation we had with us in summer-time has broken out afresh, namely the appropriation of the name of "Gunner" by members of the Machine Gun Corps. To the hoary grammarian in his academic retreat "Gunner" is a generic term embracing all sorts of gunners, great and small; likewise the lexicographer, equally inflexible and prosy, defines a "gunner" as one who feeds or fires a gun.

To the wearer of the deathless "Ubique" badge however a "Machine Gunner" never has been, is not now, and probably never will be a "Gunner," so that in the long winter evenings at home or on the Rhine, Royal Artillerymen can regale each other with the conundrum, "When is a gunner not a gunner?" — "When he's in the M.G.C!"

This attitude is readily and easily understood, as it is part of the privilege of being an inheritor of and sharer in a corporate reputation of priceless lustre and some antiquity.

The pardonable disposition of members of the M.G.C. to appropriate the term "Gunner" is only another testimony to the unsullied record associated with the name.

The desire or claim to bear it reflects the utmost credit not only on the firers of bullets who aspire to a worthy appellation, but also on the firers of shells who have made that appellation what it is.

Many things go to the making of a legitimate regimental pride, things which are as imperishable as the sea and sky. "The Guard dies but never surrenders", said Cambronne (according to popular legend) when made prisoner at Waterloo, and this and numerous other historical events and tributes keep the memory of famous regiments for ever green.

May we never cease to be not only proud but jealous of their glorious reputation.

ARMY LIFE.

A CHAT WITH ONE OF THE OLD GUARD.

"I wish I were a young'un again," said an old intelligent Chelsea pensioner upon being asked his opinion of the army of to-day. "My days of soldiering seem like a dream when I read my lad's letters about the army life nowadays. Things don't seem so artificial as in my time, and the sight of a Field officer doesn't put the fear of God into the boys like it used to 50 years ago. The officer understands his men better. There's more mutual respect and confidence between them.

"You know, 'baccy' wasn't as cheap then as it is now, even at war prices, and we didn't have a guinea a week in our pockets to buy it with and to take our girls out. Education was not thought about by us chaps then, and the Government didn't think much about it for us either, else perhaps we might not have been in here to-day. Many of us were keen enough then to join the army under what now seems to us hard conditions, and we didn't want a chap with a loud voice and domineering manner to drag us into it. I do believe if at the time we joined up the army had offered some of the present benefits, England would have had half the country as voluntary soldiers had they been wanted.

"And then, you know, I think we looked smarter in the fifties in our "colour schemes", although we didn't know anything about camerflage then, but I suppose khaki is more useful. And that reminds me of a story I heard the other day, when the subject of keeping the present khaki service dress was being talked about. A young'un just home from the Rhine was saying—I don't hold with the red tunic for walking out, and my girl says so too; there's no privacy like about it. Why, the other night I nearly sat down on an Australian not seeing him or his girl either—a Waac may be.—Now if he had been in scarlet I could have seen him a mile off and so 'ud the park-keeper. What I says is when you are out with your girl you want to be cammerflagged and not blazing so as all the world wonders. Yes, perhaps, khaki is more useful after all."

"So, if you were young again you would rally to the Colours?"

"Sure, I would, Sir, and I don't say it now because there's no shot and shell flying about. I really cried when that great old soldier, Lord Kitchener, made his appeal for men by the thousands early in the war, and they didn't seem to come in quick enough. The thought of leaning on this old stick and being of no further use broke me up for days. One day I pulled up this old stick smartly as I used to do with my gun and bayonet years ago and I had several days in bed for that. My zeal overcame my strength and I toppled over to hurt my arm and ankle. Yes, Sir, the Army sort of grips a man with any back bone and makes a man of him who hasn't any."

"When my boys tell me about their sight-seeing and their sports, the concerts and institutions, their schools and the social side of their Army life, as an old veteran, I feel like breaking down again under the burden of my years. In my Jack's last letter he was telling me he has obtained a second Army certificate which qualifies him to take a college course in engineering. Why, my Jack couldn't tell a gas engine from a dynamo when he entered the Army, and here he is on the road to being an engineer, and all the time he is living a healthy, free life in a foreign country with plenty of pocket money. He also tells me he has cups and things for swimming, running and boxing. Jack was always fond of out-door sports, and I am real proud of the man the Army has made him."

"Yes, they've made a wonderful chap of my Jack; and Tom too, for that matter, though he never was a reading sort of a lad."

So the old soldier soliloquised. "A guinea a week, and schooling and all the rest of it too; its quite a wonder."

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

ARM-IN-ARM.

Sir,—One cannot help noticing the increasing and not at all military habit that is growing, of all ranks walking in the streets arm-in-arm with the other sex.

Whether the fair creature so escorted is a wife or a sweetheart it is not for me to say; nor does it matter. No "pukka" soldier in the King's uniform would think of doing anything so unmilitary as to take the arm of a woman.

Of course I know that many of those wearing khaki have only a slight aquaintance with Army regulations and customs, so they have some excuse, perhaps; but that is no reason why they shouldn't be told what is correct, and if they honour the uniform they will take the hint and drop the pernicious habit.

It is bad enough to see a soldier with one female hanging on his arm, but I have more than once lately seen men in khaki with one on each arm. Monstrous behaviour! The next thing we may expect to see is perambulators being pushed in Cologne streets by married soldiers.

PUKKA.

PLAYS THAT ARE WANTED.

Sir,—I read "A.H's" appreciation of the efforts the Rhine Army Dramatic Company is making to give us the best of modern British drama, but I am one of the many who, I can assure "A.H," would much prefer in place of plays like "Damaged Goods," "Strife," or even Bernard Shaw, who is very hard to understand, more drama of the straight kind which everyone can enjoy and comprehend.

I would like to suggest more of the type of "The Man who Stayed at Home" or "Inside the Lines." Then there are great London successes such as "Within the Law," "The Tiger's Cub," "My Pigeon Post," "Mr. Wu," "The Luck of the Navy," "Romance," "London Pride," "Rose of Picardy," "Seven Days' Leave," "The Yellow Ticket," and many more that one might think of.

Sometimes I fancy that the R.A.D.C. is aiming a little too high and that some of their efforts are too ambitious both for the audience and the actors.

ONE OF THE GODS.

RESERVING TABLES.

Sir,—"W.H." is right in his objection to the practice of reserving tables in clubs and other places where folk gather together.

I was a recent visitor to a club and found no less than five tables reserved. I occupied a table for the greater part of an hour and the prospective diners had not arrived when I left.

Such a practice paves the way to abuse, notably where females are employed.

M.W.

ARE THEY GUNNERS?

Sir,—I wish to inform "Infantry 1914" that it is not the young boy soldiers in the M.G.C. who call themselves "Gunners."

There are only a few Machine Gun battalions left on the Rhine and they are all composed of service men. As the result of the football match where the "Gunners" did this and the "Gunners" did that it only goes to show what the "Gunners" are capable of accomplishing.

We are entitled to call ourselves "Gunners" because of the implement of war we used. If "Infantry 1914" can give us another name we shall be glad to hear it.

MACHINE GUNNER 1915.

THE BEST TIME.

Sir,—In reply to G.W.H.P.'s letter in to-day's issue of your paper, might I say that I agree with his views in every respect?

I am sure that everyone will agree with me that the earlier the performance starts, the better for everyone, especially those who have a considerable distance to travel after the performance.

C.G.M.

COINCIDENCES.

Sir,—Continuing the tale of coincidences two friends emigrated to Canada together, joined the Canadian forces at the same time and returned to England. Both were wounded, necessitating amputation of a leg, one right and the other left.

They met again in the Epsom War Hospital, were treated at Roehampton, journeyed back to Canada, and are now serving in the Canadian civil service. One is married and the other declares his determination of following suit.

CANUCK.

Sir,—I can sympathise with "Unlucky". I had the misfortune to be born on a Friday.

All my misfortune in life I attribute to that fact. Just a few of my life's events which happened on this most unlucky day:—

Married, triplets born, wife left me, I joined the Army, invariably interviewed the C. O. on that day, blown up—all on a Friday. What is the betting that I do not get demobbed on a Friday? TINY.

ROLLER SKATING.

Sir,—Further to the letters of "Rinker" and "Brogree" regarding Rink Skating and Rink Hockey.

I reciprocate their statement that for an evening's enjoyment it cannot be beaten.

As an old Rink Hockey player having gained county honours under the old Northern Counties Rink Hockey Association, and being one of the Army to remain on the Rhine, I am quite willing, at any time, to come forward and give my services either to form a Rink Hockey League, to act as referee, or as coach to any club formed requiring assistance regarding the game.

I trust that, before long, we shall see many rinks open in Cologne, when I shall be only too pleased to give "Rinker" and "Brogree" any assistance they require to bring their favourite game to the front.

SWERVER.

ARE GERMANS NOISY?

Sir,—"Dago" has some reason for his complaint and his remarks about the nerve-racking effect of conversation carried on by a party of German women—or men; for that matter.

Of course, it doesn't make any difference as regards nationality—when a number of people gather together and jabber you'll have a din.

But with a melodious tongue such as Italian or Russian or Greek it doesn't jar on one. German is such a distressing jargon of uncouth sounds that it offends our ears.

English is not too melodious to anyone accustomed to the beauties of the Latin languages. but it gives points to the Teuton.

The only thing is, what is the use of grumbling? While we are on duty in Rhineland having to listen to such sounds around us is one of the penalties we have to pay for victory.

Let us be thankful we are not hearing it in our own country or being made to speak it as the unfortunate people in Alsace-Lorraine had to. Had Germany won, this might easily have been our fate. W.T.W.

ARE THEY NECESSARY?

Sir,—What has "Willie" to complain about? The identity disc is one of the sanest ideas evolved in the war, and now that peace—of a kind—is with us, why should it be dropped?

I detect a note of envy in his criticism. Because he doesn't own a gold or silver disc on a dainty chain he has to write a "grouse" to ease his feelings, I suppose.

As "Micky" suggests, it would be a good thing, and save a deal of worry and trouble, if the wearing of them were made compulsory.

Even in peace time people get killed or injured, and it is difficult to establish their identity very often. The identity disc removes all doubt. It is almost as easy to get knocked out by a tram in Cologne as it was to be downed by a stray shell behind the lines. Doesn't "Willie" realise this? A.H.T.

THANKS TO LEAVE TRAIN PERSONNEL.

Sir,—I have been asked by many officers who travelled on the Cologne-Boulogne express, which left Cologne on Thursday the 16th instant, to tender their sincere thanks to the personnel of the train for the splendid way they behaved after what might have been a very serious accident.

When about a mile from Hazebrouck the carriages containing the personnel and the kitchen were derailed, the former turning over on its side, while the contents of the latter were smashed. By a great stroke of luck not a man was injured, although this was at 4 a.m. and everyone fast asleep.

After a delay of some two hours, the larger portion of the train was able to proceed to Boulogne, and soon after a start had been made steaming hot tea served in glasses and good, sound beef sandwiches were handed round.

The N.C.O. in charge of the messing and all his men worked like Trojans and deserve the greatest praise and sincere thanks of all, which I have been requested to tender them.

J. BETTS, Lieut-Colonel.

A STICKER.

He was a massive, large-framed and well developed specimen of manhood, albeit dirty and unkempt to a repelling degree. A ten days' growth of hair covered his chin, but failed to disguise his age, which was well under 35. A coat all but innocent of buttons and a hat which was obviously the last straw of a long past summer, pro-claimed his rank — that of a casual rather than a regular in the industrial army. A pair of shears under his arm prepared us for the greeting with which, as he approached the gate of our modest suburban dwelling, he introduced himself.

"Trim yer little 'edge, Sir?" he entreated.

We had just been discharged from the Army, and had visions of an England where the able-bodied would be under no necessity to eke out an existence of so precarious a nature as this mendicant was following. Fired with a desire to find him some occupation more calculated to preserve his self-respect, we enquired:

"Demobilised from the Army without a job, eh?"

"No; I ain't eggsackly been in the Army, though in a mannera' speakin' I joined in '15 and served right up ter the Armystiss. Sounds a bit rummy, don't it?"

We admitted that we'd met clearer cases of service than his, and waited for him to continue.

"Yer see," he continued, shortly, "it orl comer longa' me bein' a bittera' dab at paper 'angin'. Government couldn't get 'arfurnuff paper 'angers in '16, — no, not in '17 or '18 neither. Consequently, arter I 'tested in '15 I was took for recrootin' duties."

"Recruiting duties? What on earth had paper-hanging to do with getting men for the Army?" we enquired. "Kaiser-hanging was the only thing that mattered then."

"It wor like this. I goes to the Recrootin' Orffis, and the Sarjint there starts takin' me perticklers, 'ow old I was, where I 'ung art, would I be 'nockerlated and was I married, or only just 'appy like."

"Arter 'e'd asked about a dozen questions and I was just wonderin' when he was goin' to 'and out the dibbs, he lets on that 'e'd forgotten ter put down me occupation."

"Nah' justa that time I worn't doin' nuffin, pertickler, but I'd done a biter whitewashing and paperin' of the kitchen justa please the Missus, so I tells the oloke ter put me dahn as a paper 'anger.'

"Wot!" 'e ses, "a paper 'anger: we can't 'ave you a-jomin' up yet. We want orl the paper 'angers we can get 'old of, ter shuv' up them notices ca lin' up the Derby men. Orl the bill-stickers 'ave gorn, and there ain't nobody wot knows 'ow ter 'ang a bill straight."

"Doing any work, nan? Well, I 'sp'ained that things wor a bit quiet in me trade just then so 'e' 'ops me orf quick in a contara orficer who soon 'as me fitted out with a pairer steps, a bucketa paste and a brush, and a lota posters.

"Course I didn't 'tend ter stick it arter me group wor called up. 'Sides, t'wor dangeruss work for a mannera my weight and size; and the steps worn't none too steady."

"And then them young slackers wot coudn't stand the sight of a recrootin' poster, 'ud come and play tricks at the bottom o' the ladder. Dropped me armfee in the paste once, I did, they made me that shaky. I tell yer I was fair fed up with the job, and was as 'appy as twins when me group wor called up.

"Orf I slips to the Sarjint." "Sarjint," I ses, "me group's called up next Toosday, so yer'll 'ave ter find some other cove to do this job." "Rot!" ses he, "yer can't go orf and leave yer King and Country in the lurch like that; there's another thirty-five groups to be called yet, and, 'ow're we ter call 'em if there's no one ter shove up the bills?"

"Well, I argued and argued and went and saw the orficer, but it worn't no use—couldn't getter way nohow. Every time a fresh group wor' called I tried ter turn the job in, but there worn't no end ter the callin' up of groups, and wot with the conscripts and youngsters of 18 bein' brought in, I wor prevented from doin' me duty right up ter the end of October '18.

"And then, blime, if the Medical Orficer didnt' reject me for varicose veins—or' through standin' on them ladders, to serve me King and Country. Oughter be disserbility pensions for chaps like me wot's been broken a tryin' ter do their bit."

"Oh, get on with the hedge" we cried, "if you trim as well as you can talk, you should make a good job of it."

He grinned and started what was probably his first job for months and months and months.

E. J. TELLUM.

NIGHT AND DEATH.

Mysterious Night! when our first parents knew
Thee from report divine, and heard thy name,
Did he not tremble for this lovely frame,
This glorious canopy of light and blue?
Yet 'neath a curtain of translucent dew,
Bathed in the rays of the great setting flame,
Hesperus with the host of heaven came,
And lo! creation widened in man's view,
Who could have thought such darkness lay concealed
Within thy beams, O Sun! or who could find,
Whilst fly and leaf and insect stood revealed,
That to such countless orbs thou mad'st us blind!
Why do we then shun Death with anxious strife?
If Light can thus deceive, wherefore not Life?

BLANCO WHITE.

A GOOD LOSER.

Driscoll's Defeat — "Age and not Ledoux the Cause."

JIM TELLS OF DAMAGED HAND.

Driscoll is a thorough sportsman—a good loser as well as a good winner—but it cannot be denied that he felt his defeat acutely. That was plain to see when he put in an appearance at the Club, his left hand in bandages. There was an informal meeting in the Strangers' Room a little later, presided over by Mr. A. F. Bettinson, who in the course of a little speech, in which tribute was paid to both men, remarked that though Driscoll had lost the fight he had not lost anything in prestige.

Ledoux was represented by his manager, Francois Descamps, who through Mr. Lionel Bettinson (as interpreter) said that although Ledoux won on the previous night it was not he but thirty-nine years that beat Driscoll.

After some pressing Driscoll responded to the calls for a speech, and said that for nearly five weeks his left hand, which was injured in a motor mishap, had been very bad, while, to add to his ill-luck, he caught a chill after his work last Thursday and lost nearly 5lb. And, he commented whimsically, "You cannot keep strong on milk." In conclusion, he wanted it to go on record that he had never met a fairer fighter than Ledoux, and had no wish to meet a better one.

A TEST FOR FULTON.

Last Night's Meeting with Gordon Coghill, Australia.

Fred Fulton, the Kansas giant, has done his share of talking since his arrival in England, and last night, when he appeared at the Holborn Stadium in a 20-round contest with the young Australian giant, Gordon Coghill, he had his first real test, and the result will show how much of his challenging was justified.

This we do know, that Fulton and Dempsey, the present world's champion, climbed the ladder of boxing fame together, each one doing all that was asked of him. Fulton then achieved the distinction of being the first man to stop the redoubtable Sam Langford, and on his performances he can safely be said to be the second best heavy-weight in the world.

Gordon Coghill is a very fine specimen of manhood. He is fast, can box well, and carries a heavy punch. He has every confidence—in his unassuming way—that he will beat Fulton. He boxed for some time as an amateur, and on joining the "pad" ranks he won 22 out of his first 33 contests by the K.O. When war broke out he had been selected by that good judge "Showy" Baker as the opponent for Dempsey, who was then under contract for Australia.

MORE SURPRISES AT RANELAGH.

Girl Champion Defeated in Ladies Golf Foursomes.

There were further surprises in the "Ladies' Field" Victory Foursomes at Ranelagh, when the third and fourth rounds were played. In the morning, Miss Audrey Croft, the girl champion, and Miss W. E. Danks, who did so well on the first day, did not play so well together, Miss Danks' game being erratic, and the pair were beaten by Mrs. G. N. Foster and Miss Oorter by 2 holes. Miss E. Grant Suttie, who won the Ladies' Championship in 1910, and Miss L. Fenwick, who had an easy victory in the third round, were defeated in the afternoon by Mrs. F. H. White and Mrs. Durlacher. This was a great contest, in which long putts were being holed by both sides, but Mrs. Durlacher in particular excelled on the green.

A strongly fancied pair in Mrs. F. W. Brown, the Scottish internationalist, and Miss Hilda Prest, who in 1914 took Miss Cecil Leitch to the nineteenth hole during the third round of the English Ladies' Close Championship, came through the day with flying colours.

GOLF CHALLENGE.

Kay and Fernie Defeat Raidford and Ball.

A 72-holes challenge match of £50 aside between Andrew Ray (Newcastle) and Fernie (Northumberland) (challengers) and Peter Raidford (Reddish Vale) and S. Ball (Heaton-park) ended on Wednesday in a victory for the challengers with five up and four to play.

PROFESSIONAL BILLIARDS.

The closing scores on Wednesday evening in the billiard matches in progress in London were:—

Newman (in play) 4750; Stevenson 2598. Falkiner 3932; Reece (in play) 3406.

LAWN TENNIS.

Excellent Game Between C. P. Dixon and T. M. Mavrogordato.

A crowded gallery watched the game on the second day of the London Covered Courts Championships at Queen's Club between the old lawn tennis internationals, T. M. Mavrogordato and C. P. Dixon. So well has the last named been playing of late that is was thought that he would go a considerable way in the competition. But he was now beaten in straight sets with scores of 6—4, 6—3, 6—4. Although disappointing to this extent he played many beautiful strokes.

Misu had another easy victory, this time at the expense of C. A. Sedgwick, who is by no means a bad player. The Roumanian brought off many of his dazzling top-spin drives with great effect. Ritchie, who is also seen at his best when at Queen's, had an even easier time against E. Seale, a member of the Marlborough Club.

In the ladies Singles Mrs. Winston Churchill who gives promise of playing a useful game was beaten by Miss Dick Ward.

Water Polo.

City of London Police beat the Polytechnic for the Middlesex County water polo championship at Shoreditch by 4 goals to 3.

SCULLING CHAMPIONSHIP.

Race to Take Place from Putney to Mortlake on Monday.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE.

There was a rare attendance of well-known rowing men and waterside characters on Monday night at the Fox Inn, Twickenham, Ernest Barry's house, when the final deposit of £200 a-side to bind the match with Felton, the Sydney sculler, and the holder for a match for the championship of the world, the English rowing championship, and a stake of £1,000, was due to be made.

The money on behalf of both men being forthcoming, the race will take place over the Putney to Mortlake championship course on Monday next, the start from Putney Bridge being fixed for 2.15 p.m., as mutually agreed upon.

The question of an umpire also fell to be settled. At the previous meeting, on Oct. 6, Barry generously conceded the right to the Australian visitor, and the names of Messrs. S. D. Muttlebury (Cambridge University R.C.), Percy Adcock (London R.C.), F. J. Escombe (Cambridge University R.C.), and G. E. B. Kennedy, were suggested to choose from. Felton stated that he had no objection to Mr. Kennedy, who acted in a similar capacity in the last championship match, and he is to be asked to act again.

A FAST GAME.

No. 2 C.C.S. versus No. 36 C.C.S. at the Volksgarten.

A very fast and exciting game was witnessed between the above teams on Volksgarten football ground, on Wednesday. The game had only been three minutes in progress when No. 2 forwards carried the ball down the field, and Pte. Foggan scored, but the point was disallowed owing to off-side. It was evident that both teams were out to test each other, and the ball was being swung from one end to the other.

After ten minutes play No. 2 opened the scoring, Pte. Foggan netting with a very fine shot. At half time the score stood at:—No. 2 C.C.S. one goal. No. 36. C.C.S. nil.

The second half opened briskly, and after five minutes play Pte. Foggan placed No. 2 further ahead with another goal from a well-placed centre by S Sgt. Green. No. 36 tried hard to reduce this lead, and after twenty minutes their centre-forward, Cpl. Thompson, scored. A penalty was awarded No. 36, and the left back, taking the kick, struck the cross-bar with a terrific shot. From the rebound No. 2 cleared, and their forwards, breaking away again, increased their total to three, Pte. Jones scoring a beautiful goal from a most difficult angle. Final Result:—

No. 2 C.C.S. 3;
No. 36. C.C.S. . . . . 1.

IN WINNING MOOD.

84th Brigade R.G.A. Achieve Success in Sport and Show.

The 84th Brigade, who are shortly being disbanded, added to their list of successes in the field of sport by winning the Xth Corps Commander's Cup at Bonn on Saturday.

The following shows the Brigade's record during their stay on the Rhine:—

(1) Winners—Xth Corps Senior "Soccer" Tournament 1918-19.

(2) Winners—Xth Corps Senior Cricket Tournament 1919.

(3) Winners—Xth Corps Commander's Cup 1919-20.

In addition the following successes have been obtained in the Show World:—

1st Prize, Heavy Artillery Gun Team, at Inter-Allied Snow, Wiesbaden; Cavalry Divisional Show, Army of the Rhine by 152 Heavy Battery R.G.A.

1st Prize, Pair of Heavy Draught Horses and G.S. Wagon. Rhine Army Horse Show by 152 Heavy Battery R.G.A.

1st and 2nd Places for Best Stripped Heavy Draught Horses in Xth Corps Eliminating Show and 5th Place Light Weight Chargers Rhine Army Horse Show by 152 Heavy Battery R.G.A.

2nd Prize, Best Turned-out 6" Howitzer and F.W.D. Rhine Army Show by 336th Siege Battery R.G.A.

INTERNATIONAL RUGGER.

British Army accept Invitation to Play at Paris.

The French Army, desirous of showing their gratitude for the tremendous reception accorded them on the occasion of their visit to England last April, when, it will be recalled, they played the New Zealanders (winners of the inter-Services competition) at Twickenham and His Majesty the King honoured the occasion with his presence, have sent an invitation to the British Army to play them in Paris on a date to be agreed upon. The invitation has been accepted, and the game will be decided in December or January, possibly on the first day of the new year.

NORTHERN UNION FINES.

At a meeting of the Northern Union League Management Committee at Huddersfield Bramley and Dewsbury were each fined £5 and Wakefield Trinity £10 for not fulfilling their engagements on Sept. 27—the first Saturday of the railway strike. Oldham was fined £20 for a similar offence on Oct. 4.

RUGBY RESULTS.

	pts.		pts.
Cambridge University	11.	Army	3
R.M.C.	20.	Blackheath	8
R.M.A. (Woolwich)	21.	Tonbridge School	11
Guy's Hospital	24.	Oxford Univy.	3
United Services	17.	Home Fleet	0

Association.

Army	3.	Chelsea	1.
Reading	2.	Southampton	1.

XTH. CORPS RUGBY FINAL.

The Final of the Xth Corps Rugby Tournament will take place on Monday, 27th October, on the Hofgarten, Bonn at 14.30 hours.

ENGLISH RACING.

Gay Lord Fails to Wipe off Cesarewitch Defeat.

DISQUALIFICATION FOR BUMPING.

Going at Newbury was hard on Wednesday and the weather beautiful. There was a large attendance. Gay Lord though confidently expected to win the Autumn Handicap and thereby make reparation for his Cesarewitch defeat, could only finish second to Frank Webber. In the Twyford Handicap Thoughtless finished first but was disqualified for bumping. Details:—

Twyford Selling Nursery Handicap:— 1, Kaloolah (5—4); 2, Faville (7—1); 3, Hibernia (6—1); Six ran.

All Aged Plate:—1, Glondir (13—8 on); 2, Starida (5—2); 3, Condotiere (100—8); Eleven ran.

Newbury Autumn Handicap:— Frank Webber (7—1); 2, Gay Lord (11—8 on); 3, Dionysos (10—1). Seven ran.

Theal Plate:—1, Black Gauntlet (10—1); 2, Princox (5—1); 3, Dutchman (10—1). Thirteen ran.

Reading Handicap:— 1, Charle Belle (6—4); 2, Vinny (20—1); 3, Brome Daisy (5—2). Fourteen ran.

Moderate Plate:—1, Avezzano (5—4 on); 2, Farm Camp (9—2); 3, Furia (3—1). Five ran.

Newcastle Details.

Wednesday Handicap:— 1, Bowmont (6—1); 2, Fertility (5—4); 3, Jaylan (4—1). Seven ran.

Astley Handicap:—1, White Bud (6—1); 2, Jasper (5—1); 3, Undies (5—2). Nine ran.

Jesmond Handicap:— 1, Wavy Stripe (9—4); 2, D'amade (7—1); 3, Daylight Saving (10—1). Eight ran.

Northumberland Handicap:— 1, Athletic (5—1); 2, Linonyx (7—1); 3, Gotha (4—1). Nine ran.

Scurry Handicap:— 1, Esplanadian (6—1); 2, Wiston (5—1); 3, Mitchieson (6—1). Six ran. There was an objection to Esplanadian which will be gone into next Saturday.

Stewards Plate:—1, The Squire (2—1); 2, Doctors Commons (5—1); 3, Intruder (5—4). Seven ran.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE BETTING.

Scatwell takes Zinovia's Place as the Favourite.

The following is the latest available betting in the Cambridgeshire Autumn Handicap from which it will be seen that Scatwell is at present being preferred to Zinovia:—

Scatwell 100 to 14; Zinovia 15 to 2; Alasnam 100 to 9; Sir Berkeley 100 to 7; Royal Bucks and Tretarchia 100 to 6; Diadem 20 to 1; Dromio, Viceversa and Dominion 25 to 1; Clarion 28 to 1.

SCATWELL AND DOMINION.

Should Stables Run two Candidates of equal Merit?

I am hoping that Lord Glanely will make up his mind to depend solely upon whichever of his Cambridgeshire candidates is believed to be the best at the weights. No end of dissatisfaction was created through Grand Parade's success over his stable companion Dominion in the Derby, though everyone closely in touch with racing matters knows perfectly well that the stable policy was straightforward to a degree. So was that of the Foxhill stable in connection with the Cesarewitch, but again the supposed second string, or, at any rate, the longer-priced animal, won, and so malicious tongues were set wagging at a furious rate.

In big handicaps, especially, says the "Sporting Life," it appears to me to be a great mistake for prominent stables to run a couple of candidates, if such horses are of about equal merit.

I have been led into the above dissertation because of reading somewhere that Scatwell and Dominion will probably be subjected to a trial gallop one day this week. Meanwhile Scatwell figures as a rival for favouritism for the Cambridgeshire with Zinovia, while the St Leger second stands at almost three times the rate available about the four-year-old. Obviously, then, if the market is to be depended upon, Scatwell's chance is vastly greater than that of Dominion, but the sooner the point is definitely established the better. If Scatwell is as clearly Dominion's superior as the wagering indicates, there can be no point in leaving the latter any longer in the race, and I am sure that Lord Glanely, who is a fine sportsman, tho ongly deserving of all the good fortune which has come his way this year, will not unnecessarily delay arriving at a decision in the matter.

ARSENAL'S RECRUIT.

Fred Pagnam secured from Liverpool for £1,500.

Arsenal are still team-building, and their latest recruit, Pagnam of Liverpool, should soon repay his transfer fee, which was in the region of £1,500.

Fred Pagnam played for Huddersfield when but 18, then two years later joined Southport Central. From this club via Blackpool he became a Merseyside player. His position then was outside-right, but Liverpool converted him into a centre-forward. During 1915-16 he registered, in 34 Lancashire Section games, no less than 31 goals.

He is well built, 5 ft. 8½ inches tall and 11 stone 4 lb. in weight, a bustling player and a splendid sharpshooter, Arsenal well need his services. During the war he assisted the Arsenal when he was in the Artillery stationed in the South, and now the Highbury club have gained his services permanently.

"SPURS" V. PORT VALE.

It is officially announced that Tottenham Hotspur's away match with Port Vale will take place next Monday, kick-off 3.15, the return game being at White Hart-lane on November 1.

With the exception of Clay, who was hurt in last Saturday's game at Homerton, the Spurs have now a clean bill of health amongst their players. Both Cantrell and Wilson are thus available for the centre forward position which has been temporarily filled by Goodman.

No Drawn Games.

West Bromwich Albion and South Shields are the only teams in the three leagues who have not yet participated in a drawn game.

FOOTBALL FIXTURES.

Teams to Represent Scottish League and F.A.

STRONG ELEVENS.

The following will represent the Scottish League against the Irish League at Belfast on November 5:—

Brownlie (Third Lanark); McDonald (Airdrieonians), McStay (Celtic); Gordon (Glasgow Rangers), Cringan (Celtic), McMillan (Partick Thistle); Sinclair (Hearts), McMenemy (Celtic), Ferguson (Motherwell), Cunningham (Glasgow Rangers). Morton (Queen's Park.

The following team has been chosen to represent the Football Association, against Oxford University, at Oxford, on Monday, Nov. 3:—

Reynolds (Fulham); Elvey (Luton); Harrow (Chelsea); R.F. Popham (Casuals); J. E. Payne (Leytonstone); Grimsdell (Tottenham Hotspur); Rutherford (Arsenal); Capt. R.H. Allen (Army); Puddefoot (West Ham United); R. W. Sloley (Aston Villa); H.G. Yates (Corinthians).

Reserves: F.T. Ansel (Oxford City) and Penn (Fulham). Linesman: Mr. J.R. Benson (Oxford).

The team to play for England against Ireland in the amateur international, at Derby, on November 15, will be chosen after the match.

PROFESSIONAL ASSOCIATION.

Revival Movement in Leeds: Committee Appointed.

A movement has been begun to revive professional Association football in Leeds with the ultimate aim of establishing a club which shall aspire to a position in the League similar to that occupied by the late Leeds City Club.

Following upon a largely-attended meeting of the Leeds City supporters, a committee of ways and means has been appointed with Mr. Joseph Henry, jun., as chairman, and Messrs. A. Meek and D. N. Booth as hon. secs.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING.

Excellent First-Class Teams built up with small Outlay.

Transfer fees are very much discussed at the present moment and it is interesting to note that many of our class teams have paid little or nothing for many of their stars, Glasgow Celtic being the shining example in this. Of this season's elevens we have only to look at Newcastle United's young forwards to see a brilliant line that was, to quote a north country saying, "Gotten dirt cheap."

But one of the cheapest teams in the First League is Manchester United. The eleven that defeated Manchester City last Saturday cost the club less than £100. The defence of Moore and Silcock contributed largely to the victory and yet these two players were obtained for next to nothing. Is there another team in the League that was built up for less than £100?

W. Le. C.

CAVALRY IN FORM.

Inniskillings Defeat R.A.O.C. Nippes in Keen game.

At Nippes the R.A.O.C. were defeated by the Inniskillings in a fine game. The opening exchanges were very fast, neither side having any advantage; the ball had been in play about 10 minutes, when the Inniskillings settled down and carried play into their opponents' half. After several fine, but futile attempts to score, in which the Ordnance goalie showed to advantage, the ball went out of play. From the goal-kick, the Ordnance broke away, but only to find a stumbling-block in the Dragoons' defence; an individual effort by Salmon, the Inniskillings' centre-forward, resulted in Bennett, the inside-left, scoring.

Play was then carried into the Cavalrys' half, and the defence had a busy time in staving off the attack. A penalty was given against the Inniskillings, but the Ordnance failed to score from this, and the ball returned to the R.A.O.C. end of the field.

Just before half-time, the Ordnance goal was fairly bombarded, but owing to the brilliant keeping of the goalie, half time found the score—Inniskillings 1., R.A.O.C., 0.

Second Half.

The second half opened at the same rapid pace, and the ball was soon carried to the Ordnance goal, where a penalty was missed by the Dragoons. The right wing of the Ordnance team then broke away, and some spirited play was witnessed in front of the Cavalry goal. The ball returned to the R.A.O.C. end, and Bennett, notched the second point for the Dragoons.

Exchanges were then rather even, but a break-away resulted in Albrecht scoring the third goal with a fine drop-shot. The Ordnance immediately settled down, and good work resulted in Metcalfe scoring the first, and only, goal for the home team.

Though hard pressed, the Inniskillings' defence was again equal to the situation, and, hard though the Ordnance worked, no further advantage was gained. A final rush by the Cavalry resulted in Bennett again scoring, and a good game finished with a score of: Inniskillings 4, R.A.O.C. 1.

14½lb. Cod.

Large cod are beginning to arrive off the Norfolk coast, and a lady angler, Mrs. Hole, has landed a 12½lb. fish at Great Yarmouth where another cod of 14½lb. has been captured.

Fast Outside Right.

Derby County have signed on a promising young player named John Bedwood, an exceptionally fast outside right, from Aston Park Rangers, Birmingham.

AMUSEMENTS AND RECREATIONS.

"The New Sin."

Given certain conditions is to live a sin? That is the problem Mr. McDonald Hastings sets before us in his play "The New Sin," revived on Wednesday night by B.R.A.D.C. Hilary Cutts, an artist who suffers from an eccentric will, not to mention "a laundry with an aversion to post-dated cheques," loves his brothers and sisters "by a law of nature." We only see one of his brothers, and none of his sisters, for this play is one entirely devoid of female characters.

* * *

The brother we do see, one Maximilian, is portrayed by Captain G. Dennis, who acts his part so well that we leave the theatre with a sense of respect for that Home Secretary who by a timely reprieve saves Hilary from sacrificing his life for so wortnless an individual. Maximilian is not only weak; he is also callous, and has such a peculier sense of humour that he sees something extraordinarily funny in the self-sacrifice of Sydney Carton. It seems a pity that this sense of humour was shared by one or two members of the audience, who by untimely laughter very nearly spoilt some of Capt. Dennis's best and most moving lines.

* * *

No one but an actor could have done with the part of Maximilian what Capt. Dennis succeeded in doing on Wednesday night. He is to be congratulated both on his general performance and also in having overcome one or two faults of stage technique which were apparent in his acting when we last saw him at the Deutsches Theatre. Master Pollock as Hilary played a trying part with his usual forcefulness. He gave just the right amount of nobility to his part without concealing that touch of weakness which as the brother of Maximilian we should expect him to have. The fact that Capt. Spiegelhalter's name was on the programme as playing Will Grain, M.P., gave promise of an excellent performance. Needless to say we were not disappointed.

* * *

I was greatly distressed to find that Mr. D. L. Davids, J.P. L.C.C., was murdered in the second act, for Capt. Ball's conception of this bloated and flashy gentleman was worth seeing, and the author "put him away" too soon for my liking. Jim Bensiger (Liet. H. L. Farnell) in the first act seemed in such a hurry to finish the job that it was some minutes before we could catch what he was saying. He soon slowed up, however, and later on did very good work. Lieut. D. A. Onions as Peel played a part rather foreign to him, but nevertheless scored a success. Mr. Landon Ronald might perhaps have made a little more of the part of Stuart Campbell (the Isaacstein variety of Highlander) but he was nevertheless very amusing.

* * *

One word more. Lieut. Percy played no part, but he produced the play. He is a great producer, and I think that some of the audiences confine their criticisms to the actual acting. Let them remember the man who is responsible for the entire whole, and though they may sometimes find fault with individual performances, they can have no "grouse" against the way all the plays are being produced, generally in the face of great difficulties.

E.H.S.

W.O.'s and Sergeants' Dance.

The first of a series of dances by the G.H.Q. Warrant Officers and Sergeants Subcription Dance Club was held at the Bürgergesellschaft on Wednesday. Inaugurated with the idea of promoting a series of pleasant social evenings for the wives and friends of G.H.Q. Warrant Officers and Senior N.C.O.s, the first evening proved such an unqualified success that the rest of the series may be regarded as important fixtures in the social life of Cologne during the winter months. The committee, which comprises. R.S.M., F.W. Sibbald, R.S.M., A. Sibbald, R.S.M., S. Whittaker, Sgt. A. Cleave and Sgt. J. Goldie are duly thankful to the many charmingly-gowned ladies who graced the function, also to the G.H.Q. Jazz Band which provided such lilting music. The catering of R.S.M. Whittaker left nothing to be desired. All information regarding the dates of these dances etc. can be obtained from Sgt. J. Goldie, A.P.O. S,40.

Boxing Films in Cologne.

Considerable interest was displayed yesterday evening at Nos. 1, 2 and 3 Army cinemas in the presentation of the boxing pictures that created so much discussion when first released in England not long ago. Three of the most important fights of recent times were depicted with a clearness of detail that revealed still further development in the cinematograph art. The matches filmed were Beckett-McGoorty, Fulton-Townley and Basham-Charles and in each case the pictures were thoroughly realistic in showing the progress of the bouts. These special films are to be screened to-night and to-morrow.

The "Movie" man.

I recently had the pleasure of meeting Mr. C. A. Johnson who represents the Community Motion Picture Bureau (Gt. Britain Ltd.) on the Continent. Mr. Johnson deals with all the films for the G.H.Q. "movie" shows and is quite an enthusiast on the job. At a private show I saw the boxing films which are the major attraction this week and enjoyed them very much. These films were obtained, Mr. Johnson tells me, by direct negotiation with Mr. Cochrane the promoter of the matches and they come at a moment when the enthusiasm for the pugilistic art is rampant in the Rhine Army.

R.A.D.C. Hours of Performances.

The votes for hours of performances of the B.R.A.D.C. are overwhelmingly in favour of six o'clock. However there is a considerable number in favour of starting at a later hour. The management trust they will satisfy everyone by giving four performances in future at six o'clock and two at eight o'clock. This will take effect from the week of November the third and from that date on Wednesdays and Fridays of each week the performance will start at 8 p.m. and on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 6 p.m. Owing to the length of Friday's and Saturday's performances this week, the B.R.A.D.C. will revert to their old time, six o'clock.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Fri.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10
Sat.	Tiefland	d'Albert	7.30	10
Sun.	Carmen	Bizet	—	—
Mon.	NO PERFORMANCE
Tues.	NO PERFORMANCE

Sunday's Opera.

We are officially informed that Carmen will be given at the Opera on Sunday next, Oct. 26th, instead of Faust as originally announced.

G.H.Q. Jazz Band.

This week, the G.H.Q. Jazz Band, which under the bright conductorship of Lew. Hallwark, plays twice a week for the Officers Club afternoon dances, will provide the music for the hundredth dance in Cologne.

JACQUES.

Gurzenich Quartette.

The first concert given on Tuesday evening by this string quartette opened with the Lento assai by Beethoven in memory of the Cologne violoncellist, Fr. Grutzmacher, who died recently. The artists further performed quartettes by Schumann and Hayden, and Mozart's Divertimento for violin, viola and violoncello. This last piece gives the viola player and the 'cellist plenty of opportunity for an exhibition of their powers. They both command a fine and sweet tone, but the 'cellist, Herr Feuermann, may be advised to use more discretion in the ensemble playing. Comparisons are of course odious, but those who have been fortunate enough to listen to the London Quartette at the "Monday Pops" will never forget those four great ones, and it would be difficult to surpass or even equal them. C.L.

RHINE ARMY SCOUTS CIRCLE.

The usual meeting of the above circle was held at the Y.M.C.A., Lindenthal, on Wednesday 22nd October at 6 p.m. Instead of the customary work being carried out a very interesting discussion was held on Scouting subjects.

On Saturday we meet at the Amusements board at 2 p.m. and, if possible, intend visiting Zons.

On Sunday there will be a debate in the Y.M.C.A., Lindenthal at 7 p.m. on "Wolf Cubs." All who are interested in this subject are cordially invited; especially so the parents of our junior section.

NO. 5 CONTEST.

Last Day for Posting for this Week's Competition.

To-day's issue contains the last coupon for No. 5 contest, and if you have not sent in your efforts, do so at once.

Last week's winners only forecasted 10 correct results. Cannot you do better? It's worth your while trying.

Provided coupons are clearly and distinctly filled in, we will accept pencil markings, but be sure your effort is easily decipherable and print your name clearly.

To clear a point we would say you may submit as many entries as you wish provided the proper amount is enclosed.

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 5,
"Cologne Post,"
A.P.O. S.40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4 In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 5.

Date of matches, Saturday, Oct. 25th.
Closing date, Friday, Oct. 24th.

Preston N. E.	v. Newcastle U.
Sheffield U.	v. Manchester U.
Bradford	v. Chelsea
Grimsby	v. Hull C.
Bury	v. South Shields
Lincoln	v. Clapton Orient
Notts Forest	v. Wolverhampton
Swansea	v. Brighton
Exeter	v. Millwall
Luton	v. Portsmouth
Airdrieonians	v. Hamilton A.
Motherwell	v. Kilmarnock

I enter Football Competition No. 5 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(in block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Rara Avis.

I met what is now a curiosity in Rhineland, yesterday—an Officer of the Australian forces. Instead of returning "Down Under" with his regiment from the East, he has obtained leave to visit Great Britain, France, Belgium and Germany.

New Hours.

Troops on the Rhine are notified that Tattoo will now be at 22.00 hours. All N.C.O.'s and men except on duty or in possession of special passes must be in their billets by that time.

The Boxing Films.

I hear good accounts of the boxing films which are to be shewn this week. I was at a private view of them last night. Considering the difficulty experienced in taking a clear film because of the smoke the operator has done his work well.

Returning Russians.

Another party of Russians reached Cologne the evening before last. It was noticeable that their accoutrements included British and French issues.

Hibernian.

An Irish drill sergeant was putting a lot of green recruits through the different movements. He gave them "Right dress." Try as he would he couldn't get a straight line. Finally in exasperation he shouted:

"What's the matter with yez? Can't ye line up? That line is as crooked as a corkscrew. All of yez fall out and take a look at it."

Should Not Be.

I have heard many complaints of prices in regimental canteens and soldiers are complaining that in many instances they are asked more than they have to pay at the N.A.C.B. Canteens.

Another Mystery.

When do German bill posters perform their work? One frequently observes fresh signs of the activity of these men on the hoardings in the morning, but I have not yet met anybody who has witnessed the actual postings of placards.

Chilly Cinema Houses.

At least one cinema should give attention to its heating apparatus. It is too much to expect a patron to sit through a performance and stamp the feet in order to promote blood circulation.

The Workers' Hot Meal.

What seems to be a good institution in Rhineland is the "Essen" wagon. When the distance is too great for workmen to return home for dinner, the works provide a van with heating apparatus which collects the workers' dinners from their houses and brings them to the factory.

Country Rambles.

A rambling club which has been formed by troops at Wahn is making wonderful headway. Each week-end, rambles into the country are carefully planned and mixed parties find the change very agreeable.

Night-shirts.

"We are putting night-shirts on the apples, Sir" said the Mess Orderly. "Night-shirts?" gasped the P.M.C. "Yes, sir we are folding the pastry round the apples and sprinkling sugar on the top," was the reply. That night the mess had apple dumplings.

A Burglar's Little Joke.

An officer who went on leave recently found on arriving at his flat in London that it had been burgled. After taking all he could and regaling himself with a whisky and soda and a cigar, the cracksman hung a card for all to see, with these appropriate words: "There is so much good in the worst of us and so much bad in the best of us that it hardly behoves any of us to talk about the rest of us."

Make them Salute.

I see that the Americans mete out pretty stiff penalties to any Germans who fail to salute or only do so in a sloppy manner. There have been some stiff but well-merited punishments given at Coblenz lately.

Their Regular Job.

Looking through a recent list of the professions of members of the German government, I see that two were compositors while the others were respectively a baker, gardener, builder, shopman, advocate's clerk, basketmaker, blacksmith, library assistant, printer and teacher. The latter vocation was being followed by Herr Erzberger.

Misplaced Deference.

A rather interesting question was raised a few days ago by a saluting incident in Krebsgasse. A British officer was acknowledging a salute from a young soldier, when simultaneously a uniformed German behind the former did likewise. The writer, walking behind Fritz, could not but take in the humour of the situation, which presents a twofold question, amusing in each respect. Firstly, did the commissionaire, or whatever the official was, mean to acknowledge "Tommy's" salute, thinking it was meant for him? Or secondly, was he so respectful upon meeting a British officer that he was saluting him even when the latter had his back turned? This practice is very common in Russian and Japanese armies, as readers are doubtless aware.

Liquid Language.

In the billet they were discussing a comrade the other day. "Yes," said one Tommy, "old Flibbs is a good conversationalist. I always enjoy listening to him" "What does he say?" asked the other "It's mostly, 'whats yours, mate?'"

Not Understood.

The other night in a Cologne cinema two Indian drivers intensely interested in a film were making comments far too loud to please the rest of the audience. A girl attendant tried to make them understand that silence was required, but without avail. In despair she pointed to her tongue. One of the Indians immediately pulled out his cigarette case and offered her a "Kingfisher" and the talk continued as loudly as ever.

Jerkins.

Calling on a German tailor the other day I noticed his place was stocked up with some thousands of the old familiar leather jerkins which his workpeople were busy overhauling and repairing. Well, we shall need them soon.

The Cheapest.

Far and away the cheapest literature in English that you can buy in Rhineland is that found in the handy well-printed Tauchnitz editions. Even at the enhanced price of three and a half marks a volume, they cost, at the present rate of exchange, a mere nothing.

Pay Fares Now.

In future all ranks proceeding on leave in France and Belgium will have to pay their fares when travelling on the passenger trains of those countries.

Picture Postcards.

Germany being the birthplace of the picture postcard, it is not surprising that there is such a varied selection in the shops. Some are quite works of art, but the comic species is even more vulgar and certainly more coarse than we see at home.

Cheap Hotels.

Outside many hotels in and around Cologne one can still see the following pre-war announcement "Logis mit Frühstück 1.50." Even in the good old days hotel accomodation in Germany was much cheaper than in England.

A Delicacy.

I notice in the poulterers' windows a display of small birds which are but a shade larger than a sparrow. These I am told are considered a great delicacy by many of the civilian population. The name given them is "Krammetsvogel" and they are generally served roasted whole with potatoes and sauce.

Your last chance.

To-day appears the last coupon for Football Contest No. 5. Have you sent in your effort yet? If not don't delay. Three competitors shared 3000 marks in No. 4 contest and the prize money is increasing weekly. Do not let the chance slip.

Back to the Army.

An officer just back from leave tells me that in Blighty it is a sad sight to see so many young men, obviously without work, suggesting that gratuities are rapidly changing hands. To solve the difficulty many are entering the regular army.

New Jobs for Batmen.

With the arrival of so many wives and children in Rhineland, officers' servants are finding fresh duties to perform. For instance: I saw one of these batmen looking very "Father Christmassy" the other morning. He emerged from a large Cologne stores loaded with many toys, including a scooter and a football. A little girl and boy brought up the immediate rear.

Must be Found.

I heard this story about a Labour Battalion in Rhineland. The sergeant-major said to his men, "None of you leave camp to-day until you've been searched" "Why is that?" ventured a corporal. "There's a pickaxe missing, that's why!" snapped the sergeant major.

A Popular Club.

The 10th Corps Officers' Club at Bonn continues to flourish. Throughout the summer months the delightful building overlooking the Rhine became a sort of half-way house for officers from all parts, and although the institution is really a private one, all comers were made welcome and well entertained.

Profitable Fruit.

I hear that an enterprising street fruit salesman. who dispenses his goods from several barrows in Bonn, made three hundred marks profit in five hours yesterday.

Scarcity of Card Players.

It is surprising how few officers take advantage of the facilities in the card room of the N.A.C.B. No. 1 Club, Cologne. Occasionally one sees a bridge party enjoying a happy hour there, but it is usually occupied only by letter-writers.

The three Complaints.

Turning over the leaves of a travel book I learn that invariably British travellers suffer from rheumatism, Americans from nerve disorders and Germans from stomachic complaints. From personal observation I should say the writer had guessed right.

A Strike Benefit.

"Its an ill-wind, etc." That seemed to be the opinion of the officers and men returning on the Cologne-Boulogne Express on Wednesday, nearly all of whom had their leave doubled on account of the strike. The "unexpired portion, plus seven days" was one of the most welcome pronouncements ever made by the War Office.

A Sense of Direction.

Many visitors to Cologne appear to experience considerable difficulty in finding their way about the maze of thoroughfares that constitute the town. A sergeant who has lived here for three months asked me yesterday in the Hansa Ring to direct him to the Dom. This trouble would easily be overcome if people who have not naturally a keen sense of direction would, immediately on arrival, study carefully one of the excellent street maps offered for sale.

The Irony of It.

The country-side is torn and scarred by a devastating and incessant all-night drum-fire. A long line of trench cuts the landscape in twain and great ugly shell holes gave a hideous appearance to Nature's fair face. The explosions of bursting shells are the terror of the only inhabitants of that country-side, who are American soldiers. Then suddenly two of the soldiers stealthily get out of the trench, crawl and wriggle on their stomachs out into No Man's Land, cutting barbed wire to allow their passage, dig in, make a shaft for the insertion of high explosives and a fuse, send this on an errand of deadly work, which consists of the destroying of an enemy mining party, and crawl back from whence they came. Such were the harrowing scenes witnessed the other night at the Solingen Picture Palace in the exhibition of a seven reel play, "The Unbeliever". They were enacted to the soothing strains of "Scenes that are Brightest" from the Opera "Maritana."

Are they Dearer?

I continue to hear from English wives over here, that the charges of the N.A.C.B. for many standard brands of commodities are in excess of those in German shops. An officer was grumbling also at the price asked for the well-known Panatella cigars which can be got in Cologne shops for less than a mark each. Perhaps there is some explanation. RHINELANDER.

FOR BUSINESS MEN IN RHINELAND.

TRADE WITH GERMANY.

INFORMATIVE ITEMS FROM ALL SOURCES

It is rather late in the day to discuss the ethics of trading with our late enemies. It is universally accepted that some commercial relations, however limited and restricted, must exist between all civilised nations albeit one can hardly approach the question without such emotion as must necessarily tend to obscure sound judgment.

"The Advertising World" however puts the case very clearly and some of the editor's remarks are well worth quoting. He says that ". . . any endeavour to wipe Germany completely off the map as far as commercial dealings are concerned, would be mischievous as well as futile. For Britishers to do so while their competitors overseas adopted a less rigorous policy would in any case be to handicap themselves heavily, and possibly fatally, in many of the most important markets of the world."

"Apart from this, it is absurd on the one hand to demand huge sums of money from Germany in part payment of the fearful liabilities she has incurred, and on the other to make it impossible for her to provide them. We cannot have it both ways. If Germany is to be compelled to pay, Germany must be allowed to trade, and Britishers by holding aloft from her, would only be performing that indefensible operation commonly described as 'cutting off one's nose to spite one's face'."

We do not suggest that German traders should be welcomed with open arms — there is no danger of that; but we do say that our business men, should not refuse to deal with them, when it would be advantageous to do so. For the protection of key industries and so on, we must rely upon the regulations and restrictions to which the Government will doubtless subject all commercial relations with Germany for some time to come. Within the limits imposed by these, individual manufacturers and merchants may take it that they will serve the national interest best by a strictly business-like regard for their own interests.

Negotiations to bring about a commercial agreement between Holland and Germany have been successful. A new Dutch syndicate is granting Germany a credit of seventy million florins in order to purchase raw material for the German industries. Part of the manufactured products will be used for export in order to effect an improvement in the rate of exchange. The syndicate in question is prepared to increase the credits to any extent if the resultant business proves regular and successful.

BITS OF BUSINESS.

Owing to the increase of traffic between Germany and Spain the Spanish Government have increased the number of Spanish Consuls in Germany very largely.

Holland is sending very large orders to the manufacturers of Upper Silesia.

The fair committee of Frankfort have decided to hold a spring fair between the 1st and 10th May, 1920.

On account of the coal shortage all mines in Saxony are being worked seven a days a week.

For the same reason no Sunday trains are being run in Bavaria.

The Solingen steelwork manufacturers threaten a lockout of 15,000 workmen who refuse to accept a system of working conditions known as the Taylor system.

Numerous French lorries laden with textile goods arrived at Frankfort from Paris thereby opening up a direct commercial traffic between Paris and Frankfort.

Minister Oeser declared in the Prussian Parliament that it was their intention to run all the German railways by electricity.

The new postage stamps are now ready for Germany. The 15 pfennig stamp is in a new colour. Stamps of the values of 2, 2½, 3, 7½, and 60 pfennigs will no longer be issued.

WHAT TO SEE IN RHINELAND.

MUSEUM OF EAST ASIATIC ART.

There are still a number of interesting places in Cologne which are comparatively unknown or at least insufficiently appreciated by our troops. Among them is the Museum für Ostasiatische Kunst (Museum of East Asiatic Art) situated in the Hansa Ring. No one should miss the opportunity of seeing the wonderful pieces of Chinese and Japanese art-work there displayed. When the danger of falling bombs jeopardised them, many of the most valuable pieces were removed to the cellars and finally all of them were packed up and the museum was closed in October 1917. From an article appearing recently in the "Kolnische Volkszeitung" we learn that it is now open again and the exhibits fully displayed.

The director of the museum is Frau Prof. Adolf Fischer, whose rich experiences in Eastern Asia eminently qualify her for such a position and guarantee that the exhibits receive the care and the display they deserve.

Among the many examples of wonderful coloured enamelled china is a magnificent vase exhibited in Room 14. This was fashioned by a Japanese potter called Eiraku who lived in Kutani in the early part of the nineteenth century and who, with wonderful skill, copied the 15th century Yunglo china with beautiful effects. Such pieces are now rare, because the Kutani cultivated a foreign trade—to sell goods to Europe and America, and in so doing, lost sight of the truer artistic effects.

The Museum normally fulfils a valuable function in displaying and explaining Eastern Asiatic art to amateurs and students, and every soldier in the occupation army should seize the opportunity to visit it while here.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Evacuating.—The Roumanians are evacuating the Slovakian territories.

For the Stage.—A Whitley Council for artistes and stage hands is mooted.

New York's Ban.—New York has banned German Opera.

Farmer's Turn.—There is a strike of farmers in South Wales.

Fini.—The furniture trade lock-out has finished.

Italy's Fete.—November 4th is Italy's national fete day.

Utopia.—Eastbourne's rates are only 5s. 10d. in the pound.

On a Visit.—A party of Belgian judges are on a visit to England.

Working.—Brussels tramway men are back at work.

Development.—Brazilian coal mines are to be developed.

All Gone.—The last Serbian troops have left Murmansk for home.

Banking.—German civilians are now able to have banking accounts in England.

Speedy.—A French airman has averaged 157½ miles an hour.

Comparison.—The Franco-Prussian war of the Seventies cost only £400,000 a day.

Italy's Loss.—The Italian Ambassador in Washington died suddenly while awaiting an operation.

The Fallen.—Designs are invited for a monument to British Guiana residents who fell in the war.

Copper Find.—Hopeful reports have been received on the West Australian copper find.

Back.—The first batch of German civilians interned in France has arrived in Germany.

Missing Husbands.—Leighton Buzzard Guardians are giving a reward for particulars of missing husbands.

Stamps as Change.—Owing to the French silver shortage postage stamps are being used as change.

Seven Times Mayor.—Gillingham will re-elect its present Mayor who serves for the seventh time.

Belgium Concerned.—Belgium is concerned at the concentration of Dutch troops on the Frontier.

Resumed.—There is a service of steamers between Southampton and Danzig.

Distinction.—Eastbourne was the first town to utilize Army huts for temporary housing.

Asquithian.—Mr. Dobson, the Asquithian candidate at the Plymouth bye-election, is not unlike his leader in appearance.

Seashore Sale.—Skegness has purchased its seashore, marine gardens and sands.

Fine Flower.—According to Dean Inge the gentleman is a fine flower of our civilization.

Bread Subsidy.—A statement on the bread subsidy will be made in Parliament next week.

For Christmas.—There will be an a bundance of British toys on the market at Christmas.

Havanas.—Large consignments of Havana cigars have arrived in England from Cuba.

Kids Rejoicing.—All Vienna schools will be closed until next February on account of coal shortage.

A Great Port.—Great extensions on the port of St. Malo are in progress. They will take nine years to complete.

Calamity Checked.—The threatened general strike of all industries in Lorraine has been averted.

Recalled.—General Dupont, chief of the French military mission in Berlin, has been recalled,

Sea Cow.—A sea cow has arrived at the New York Zoo, and is said to be the only specimen in captivity.

Boy Preacher.—A boy aged sixteen is conducting services at the Penzance United Methodist Church.

Economy. — Government departments have been warned to be sparing in the use of coal.

Horsey.—U.S.A. have forbidden the importation of horses except for racing and breeding purposes.

Big Pay.—A man at Thames Police Court said he earned £5 a week by picking apples.

Good Catch.—A 47-lb. salmon has been hooked from the Spey by a girl of 13 years of age.

Randolph.—Appearing before Oswestry Profiteering Committee a fishmonger waving cheques about said he was "Randolph Fear, the Reckless."

Where France Bled.—The King of Spain has been visiting the battle zone of Verdun accompanied by Marshal Pétain.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

If you were to win £12,000.

A PRIZE CONTEST.

As most readers know there is being run at Lille a big sweepstake on the Cambridgeshire. If all the tickets are sold the fortunate winner will receive the very handsome sum of TWELVE THOUSAND POUNDS STERLING. Now this winner may very well be someone in the Rhine Army. Suppose for instance, it were you who suddenly received this big access of wealth.

What would you do with it?

This problem has suggested a prize competition open to all our readers. Just write a letter to the "Editor, Post" A.P.O. S.40—not exceeding 250 words and say exactly what you would do with £12,000 if you came into possession of it.

We offer prizes 50, 20 and 10 marks respectively for the three best answers to the question. The reply you send may be as brief as you like, but it must not exceed the length of 250 words. Write your name and unit below your answer in block letters and let us hear from you not later than November 1st. The Editor's decision will of course be final in judging the merits of the answer to the question, "What would I do with £12.000 if I won it?"

Ceratopogon Pulicaris!

You may not recognise his name—but you know him quite well. He's the little stinging fly which is biting everyone who tries to enjoy the evening outdoors. He will not bite you, however, if you always use. . . .

SAPON RUSSIAN TAR SOAP

You can defy all mosquitos, gnats and other pests which sting and bite.

A Doctor writes:— "I find your Russian Tar Soap gives wonderful results in irritable skin diseases, such as Scabies, Eczema, Pruritus, Insect Bites, Acne, etc." The following is the best method of application:— Moisen the Soap, rub it on the part affected, and allow it to dry.

Sold throughout all the Army Canteens at

OFFICIAL PRICE

Do not pay more. Insist on being supplied. If any difficulty advise us and we will pay postage.

SAPON SOAPS LIMITED
LONDON BRIDGE E.C.4., ENGLAND

FINANCE For a Natural Mineral Water Spring situated at Taunus (occupied Territory) with natural carbon supply. Issued as a first-class Table Water enterprise it was founded previous to 1914 with Belgian capital, and supplied to all foreign contries. To increase output, applications from British or American financiers, are invited. Particulars of H. WÜST, Köln-Klettenberg, Grafenwerthstr. 4.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN at ALHAMBRA
OCT.: 24-30. "TILLYS WEDDING" 11 EHRENSTRASSE

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S./40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

ONE MONTHS' subscription to the Cologne Post including postage for sale. Price 15 Marks. Have it sent home daily.

HIGH dog cart. English built in thorough good condition. Suitable for a tandem. Price £50. Apply, Capt. Harley, Cavalry Barracks, Bonn.

SMALL PHOTO-CAMERA made before war first-class manufacture (GOERZ lens) to sell. Gereonsmühlengasse 3 part. on left. 4-7o'clock.

VIOLIN CELLO, old master instrument, beautiful tone for sale cheap. Weissenburgerstrasse 37 I.

Second-hand cameras, mirror reflex cameras in great variety, cameras with Zeiss, Goerz, Voigtländer. Optic for sale cheap. Feinmechaniker August Lang, Photo-Handlung, Cöln, Kleine Neugasse 9-11.

NEW REVOLVER CASE. Pouch and Sword Frog. Cheap. Box 218 Cologne Post, A.P.O. /S.40.

WANTED.

PRISMATIC binoculars, Zeiss or Goerz, new or second-hand. 30 mm 6, central focussing. Or special 40 mm O.Gs. For particulars & price to Box 200, Cologne Post, A.P.O.S. 40.

EVERY DEMOBBED soldier wanted to continue reading the Cologne Post in Blighty. Send 15 Marks for one month's subscription now.

Typewriter in serviceable condition wanted. No fancy prices. Particulars to A 298. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S 40.

A nest of 4 Cylinders for a 15/25 Benz motor engine, 1914 model (known here as a 16/40) New preferred. Apply to Col. 63rd Bde., R.G.A., H.Q., Schlebusch.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

YOUNG LADY, speaking English, teaches piano and German. Write to A 303 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

MISCELLANEOUS.

VIOLIN and pianoforte instruction given by first-class teacher by successful method. Violins for sale. J. Pöschmann, Cologne, Neumarkt 46.

MASSAGE, PEDICURE. Frau Schmidt, Citifficated. Brabanterstrasse 44.

LOST.

FOX TERRIER. Yellow and white dog. On collar Capt. J. A. Brooke, Inniskilling Dragoons. Suitable reward offered. Any information concerning same forward to above.

TRADE.

LINOLEUM LINCRUSTA, oil-cloth, leather-cloth. Former agent of first-class firm wants agency in same article. Offers A 307 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

LANGUAGES.

GERMAN, well educated young lady, wishes to have conversation with an English lady for exchange of languages. Write Käthe R. 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S 40.

Private Lessons in GERMAN GRAMMAR and CONVERSATION, by permission of British Authorities. WETTLAUFER, certificated teacher. Cöln-Ehrenfeld, Schützenstrasse 40.

SPORT.

THE N.A.C.B. FOOTBALL CLUB require Home and Away Matches for the first and second Elevens. All Dates open except November, 5th and 14th. Replies to:—Secretary, N.A.C.B., Football Club, N.A.C.B., Headquarters, Rhine Army.

OFFICER wants bold Dogs to hunt wild Boar. Good Home. Box 215, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

FOUND.

LEFT my mistake at "E" Mess, G.H.Q., in July, Gramaphone and Records. Claim, with description to Box 216, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

SHOOTS

October, 30, 1919, at 4 p.m. The three shooting districts of the Gemeinde HOENINGEN will be offered for lease for 6 years.

Auction in the public house WELTER in HOENINGEN near OEKOVEN. The three districts are 232.55, 264.20 and 142.44 hectares respectively.

Very good stock of hares and partridges. OEKOVEN is a station on the COLOGNE - M. GLADBACH line.

The shoot can be reached in one hour from the Station CAPELLEN.

Conditions for the lease will be forwarded on application and payment of 2 Mks. to:

Bürgermeisteramt
WIDDESHOVEN.

VILLAU,
Oct. 6, 1919.

Hansen
Gemeindevorsteher.

DON'T FORGET THIS

 THE COLOGNE POST ***
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks. (From U.K. 2/9.)

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

PLEASE WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, October 24, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S/40 British Army of the Rhine.

EVERYONE READS "ECHOES FROM RHINELAND" PAGE 4

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

DON'T WAIT UNTILL THE PAPER STOPS COMING BEFORE RENEWING YOUR SUBSCRIPTION DO IT NOW!

No. 178. COLOGNE, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

NO ADDITIONAL TAXATION.

GOVERNMENT MEASURE TO ALLOW ALIEN PILOTS REJECTED BY COMMONS.

TROTZKY AND CRITICAL DAYS AHEAD.

NO AUTUMN BUDGET.

REDUCING THE COUNTRY'S EXPENDITURE.

In the House of Lords yesterday a lengthy discussion on the financial situation of the country took place on a motion submitted by Lord Buckmaster for the immediate introduction of new taxation. There will be no Autumn budget (a suggestion which has been put forward in several quarters) but probably the Commons will debate the general question of the financial position on Wednesday next, after members have had the opportunity of studying a White Paper which will be laid on the table next Monday.

Lord Buckmaster in his speech called attention to the grave financial position of the country, and moved a resolution that it is essential for further taxation to be imposed forthwith. He advocated a capital levy on war profits, with perhaps an increase of income tax, expressing the opinion that the only alternative was national bankruptcy.

Replying for the Government, Lord Milner declared that the financial position, serious as it was, did not justify the talk of bankruptcy and blue ruin in which many people were indulging, nor did it justify rash changes in the fiscal system. Additional taxation might be necessary, but the necessity is not yet proved. A capital levy might do irreparable mischief to the recovery of trade and industry, which is proceeding rapidly.

He denied the contention that the Government did not realise the seriousness of the position. The Treasury was taking vigorous action with the full support of the Government but the effect could not immediately be apparent. It was true that the estimated deficit for this year would be largely exceeded, but this was the result of various changed circumstances, especially the serious conditions prevailing in the whole of the near East, and to the fact that we should not receive this year large sums which we had expected. These deferred receipts might be looked for in the next financial year.

Barring unforeseen contingencies the movement towards a normal condition of finance would be rapid, though even next year the position might not be really normal. This year's deficit must be regarded as part of our war burden, due to non-recurring commitments. We should eventually certainly receive from Germany a substantial contribution towards the relief of our war burden.

Dealing with the proposed new taxation, Lord Milner said that a capital levy on war profits deserved careful consideration, but there was no urgency about it. We had plenty of means of meeting our immediate requirements. Further whatever we did we must not raise the Income Tax on incomes below £1,500 a year. While there was need for the utmost economy we were not yet a poor country, on the contrary, we were potentially immensely rich.

The debate was adjourned until next Wednesday.

CORNISH DISASTER.

RESCUE WORK STILL PROCEEDING

Up to last night, nineteen bodies had been recovered from the Levant mine, and the rescue parties are still at work.

The inquest was formally opened yesterday and adjourned till the 11th November. Letters of condolence have been sent to the Company by the King, the Prince of Wales and the Home Secretary.

ARMY EXAMINATIONS.

An Army Order announces that the Civil Service Commissioners will hold an examination for Regular officers in London, in European and Oriental languages, commencing on Jan. 20 next. The Commissioners will, if necessary, hold an examination at Zeitoun, Cairo, Egypt, for first and second class interpreters in French, Arabic, Italian, Greek, and German, to be run concurrently with the examination in London. Application to attend the examinations must be submitted through the usual channels in time to reach the Secretary (S.D. 4), War Office, on Dec. 1 next.

PEERAGE FOR MASTER OF THE ROLLS.

The King has conferred a Barony on Sir Charles Swinfen Eady on his retirement from the office of Master of the Rolls.

The Military Governor of Paris has revoked the decree forbidding the sale of alcohol to soldiers.

Michaelmas Term opened at Cambridge University with the record number of 4,969 students.

ALIENS BILL.

GOVERNMENT DEFEAT IN COMMONS.

The Government was defeated in the House of Commons last night over the Aliens Restriction Bill on the question of excluding all aliens from holding pilot certificates. The Government proposed to make an exception allowing French masters to pilot their own vessels in and out of Newhaven.

In opposition it was urged that in view of the country's experiences during the war a clean sweep should be made of all aliens.

On a vote the Government was defeated by 185 votes against 113.

Mr. Bonar Law immediately moved the adjournment of the House till Monday, saying that the Government must consider what course it should take.

Sir Edward Carson hoped no extravagant hope would be based on the division. The House had simply endorsed the Bill as passed by Committee and he deprecated the Government's desire to mitigate the terms of the Bill.

Sir Donald McLean, Leader of the Opposition, welcomed the Government's action as being in strict accordance with precedent.

The House then adjourned until Monday. It is not expected that the adverse vote will have serious political consequences and it is in fact understood that the Government will proceed with the Bill on Monday.

QUESTION TIME.

GERMAN INDEMNITY AND RUSSIAN BLOCKADE.

Several questions were asked yesterday in the House of Commons concerning the indemnity to be paid by Germany and the general question of trade with that country.

Answering Mr. Kenyon's question as to what progress had been made in exacting the indemnity, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth said that steps to recover the amount cannot formally be taken until the Peace Treaty is duly ratified, but it can be taken for granted that much preliminary work has been done by the organised Committee which has been sitting for some months. Deliveries under the 4th and 5th appendices of the Peace Treaty have commenced.

Answering a question by Mr. Arnold as to whether the Supreme Economic Council had instituted a blockade of Russia, Mr. Harmsworth replied that while in the technical sense no blockade had been instituted the Allied and Associated Government had transmitted a note to Neutrals inviting them to co-operate in preventing communication with those parts of Russia controlled by the Bolshevist Soviets. A similar note was also sent to the German Government through the Inter-Allied Commission. Trade with South Russian ports is now proceeding as freely as difficulties of transport permit, and the Government is doing everything possible to encourage the same.

TROTZKY'S APPEAL.

CRITICAL DAYS FOR PETROGRAD.

Reuter's correspondent at Stockholm transmits a communiqué issued by Trotzky announcing that "the day is critical." The Red troops have retired to the heights of Pulkova, which constitute the extreme limits of Petrograd's defences, and any further retirement will mean fighting within the walls of the city. Every effort must therefore be made to perfect the internal defences. Trotzky mentions the entry of tanks into line with the Red troops and says the latter have rallied. He points out, however, that the enemy is only one march from Petrograd, and that therefore work on the fortifications must be continued, and the city's internal defences organised.

MASKED RAID.

MAN BOUND AND WOMEN GUARDED.

Ten armed and masked men raided on Tuesday night the residence of Miss Anna Ninett, Annabeg, Nenagh, Tipperary.

Before searching the house, a Mr. Dyer, a relative, was closely bound with ropes, while Miss Ninett and her two maids were kept under guard in a room by some of the men.

A PRUSSIAN LAMP GLASS.

At a meeting of the Walton-on-Thames profiteering committee a woman produced a lamp glass bought for half-a-crown in Walton on which the words "Made in Prussia" was stamped. The committee decided that the tradesman should appear before them at their next sitting, though not under this indictment.

EX-KAISER IN EXILE.

SUSPICIONS OF ROYALIST CONSPIRACY.

Some anxiety is felt by well informed people concerning the present activities of the ex-Kaiser. Recently he has seen a number of mysterious visitors from Germany and has been sending and receiving many telegrams. A private telephone wire has also been fitted to his residence across the German frontier, which is only some fifteen miles away. Suspicions are entertained that he is in communication with agents of the Royalist party and that von der Goltz's recent movements on the Russian frontier were carried out at his instigation.

Questions on the subject will be put in the House of Commons next week when Ministers will be asked what arrangements are in force for the surveillance of the ex-Kaiser.

The ex-Crown Prince is also reported to be carrying on an intrigue with German Royalists and to be receiving many suspicious visitors.

TAX ON RATS.

VICAR'S INTERESTING SUGGESTION.

The Rev. E. Millard, Vicar of St. Anne's Grantham, suggests that a rat tax would be the most effective way of dealing with the rat plague. Every person should be fined for every rat caught by the police on his premises. He writes: "Police tramp our streets for thieves that never take half so much as rats take. Navies guard our shores against invasion that is a very remote possibility, but no one is set to catch the enemy who takes £80,000,000 from us year after year! Cattle have to be killed remorselessly if likely to carry infection, but the rat that carries more infection than all other animals put together gets off scot free except for individual spasmodic acts of revenge."

DIVORCE COMPLICATIONS.

Captain James Angus Maclean petitioned in the Court of Session, Edinburgh, yesterday for a divorce from Mrs. Agnes Scot Miller Maclean, of Durwoodlaw-avenue, Snawlands, Glasgow, on the ground of her alleged misconduct with James Allan Wilson, stated to have been an Army staff officer.

The petitioner, who in civil life is a Glasgow furniture specialist, and has risen from the ranks to a captaincy, with several decorations, was divorced by his first wife in 1906, and then married the present respondent by declaration before the Sheriff. He said they lived happily for five years, but she became extravagant and went about a lot.

Other evidence showed that last year Mrs. Wilson, wife of the co-respondent, instituted divorce proceedings against him, and that Mrs. Macleau lodged a minute challenging statements made against her. A decree of divorce was granted in that case.

But respondent and co-respondent in the present petition denied misconduct. Mrs. Maclean said that in 1914 her husband told her that he had now a typist, and had no further use for her. The case was adjourned until November 5.

OUR LOANS TO ALLIES.

The obligations of the Allies to Great Britain at the present moment amount to £1,622,000,000, and those of the Dominions and Colonies to £186,000,000. The Chancellor of the Exchequer anticipates that about £6,000,000 will be received in the current financial year in interest payments from the Dominions and Colonies. Sums so received are paid into Exchequer under the head of Receipts from Sundry Loans. With minor exceptions no interest is being paid by the Allies at present.

AN INSANE MURDERER.

Hugh Stanley Jolly, 23, an ex-soldier, was ordered at the Norfolk Assizes to be detained during His Majesty's pleasure, the jury finding that he was insane at the time he murdered a young girl named Gladys May Lupton, at Yarmouth, on May 16. The evidence showed that he was an impulsive and dangerous epileptic.

The prisoner was walking with a young woman, when, as they passed three girls, he overheard one say, "Oh, Gussie." He turned back and went up to Lupton, the other two girls having run away, and cut her throat. She died almost immediately. A policeman was only 14 yards away at the time.

ALDERSHOT COMMAND.

Sir Archibald Murray, who is resigning the Aldershot Command, will go on half-pay. The Aldershot Command will be given to Field Marshal Lord Rawlinson. This course does not preclude the possibility of Lord Rawlinson going to India in twelve months' time.

A PRECOCIOUS YOUTH.

At Willesden Police Court the identity of a witness, a working boy of 16, turned on the question whether he was smoking a cigarette. Asked by the Magistrate if he was doing so, he replied scornfully, "What, me smoking a fag! I was smoking a cigar."

PENNANT CASE.

NAMES OF PERSONS SUPPRESSED.

Pursuing its inquiry into the circumstances attending the dismissal of Miss Violet Douglas Pennant from the Women's Royal Air Force, the House of Lords Committee heard several witnesses yesterday.

Captain Cherry, who was appointed for work in connection with W.R.A.F. hostels, spoke in warm terms of Miss Pennant's services. He described her as a great hustler and denied that she was nervy.

Other witnesses, both men and women, including Captain Norman Hodges, testified that Miss Pennant was tactful and easy to work with.

A cablegram was read from Lady Rhondda stating that she is returning from Vancouver as quickly as possible in order to give evidence.

The Chairman, Lord Wrenbury, said she would probably arrive before the inquiry was concluded but if she arrived later they would hear her.

Counsel for the Air Ministry said they admitted one case of reported immorality at the Hurst Park Camp.

Miss Pennant's Counsel said he was seeking to prove that the officer concerned was removed for a short period to the country by General Brancker but was then brought back with General Brancker's approval to a command in London, where the same thing occurred. The Chairman expressed the hope that anonymity would be preserved.

A non-commissioned officer, who was at Hurst Park, then gave evidence to the effect that Miss B.— (one of the officers who granted night passes for girls) and "the Colonel" were a great deal together.

ALSACE-LORRAINE.

GERMAN SECRET AGENTS AT WORK.

It has been clear for some time past that everything has not been going smoothly in Alsace-Lorraine, and the police have now discovered that German agents have been busily organizing propaganda having, as its object the creation of a neutral republic in Alsace-Lorraine and a demand for self-determination. This agitation has been increasing with the approach of the elections.

Five arrests have been made in connexion with this affair. One of the men arrested, a German named Koessler, was found in possession of a number of neutralist posters and some 35,000 marks. It is reported that Koessler confessed to having received the money from a neutralist committee formed in Baden-Baden.

WOMEN IN GOVERNMENT OFFICES.

At a meeting convened by the National Union of ex-officers on Thursday night for the purpose of calling upon the Government to give preference to ex-officers and men in filling appointments, a letter was read from the Minister of Labour saying that he is having the whole question thoroughly investigated. The Government had already decided upon the policy of substituting male for female labour within the widest possible limits.

A resolution was adopted demanding still more weeding-out of women from Government offices.

SOLDIERS' BURIALS.

Epsom Urban Council having been informed by the military authorities that the number of British soldiers to be buried in any one grave is nine, the council has replied that in the case of Colonial soldiers it is the custom for only one body to be placed in each grave, and pressing for the same treatment to be meted out to British soldiers.

KEEPING MONEY IN FRANCE.

Travellers returning from France are reminded that the war measures forbidding travellers to cross the frontier with more than 1,000 francs in notes and 10 francs in silver per person are still in force.

WIDOW'S CLAIM FOR £10,000.

A claim for £10,000 has been lodged by the widow of Sergeant Brady, of the Royal Irish Constabulary, who was shot last month at Lorrha, County Tipperary, and the widow of Constable Foley, who was seriously wounded on the same occasion, has claimed £3,000.

DEATHS FROM STARVATION.

Though wages were never higher nor unemployment less, there were 25 deaths last year in England and Wales which were due to starvation or accelerated by privation. Of these five occurred within the administrative area of the County of London and 21 in the provinces. For the previous year the total was 63.

BEQUEST TO CHORISTERS.

Among the bequests of the late Miss M. J. Lawford, of Leighton Buzzard, were one of £1 to each choir boy who sang at her funeral, and another of £5 0 0 to the minister who read the Funeral Service.

MINERS' TALK.

COST OF LIVING: STARTLING SUGGESTIONS.

The special conference of delegates of the Miners' Federation, which is sitting at the Central Hall Westminster, yesterday discussed the high cost of living. Mr. Robert Smillie presided. A resolution was moved expressing the opinion that the present method of dealing with the cost of living by the Government had not succeeded in reducing prices, but that on the contrary, prices showed a tendency to rise, consequently adding to the distress of the working classes.

In view of this the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Union Congress is urged to arrange that an opportunity shall be provided for the Labour Movement to decide on a policy having for its object the reduction of the cost of living.

Speaking on nationalization, Mr. Smillie said it would be for the Trades Union Congress, in view of the Governments refusal to carry out the report of the Coal Commission, to say whether pressure should be brought to bear on them by concerted industrial action all over the country. The Conference finally left it to the Executive to take the best steps possible.

The debate on food prices evoked some striking and startling suggestions.

Mr. Hodges, Secretary to the Federation, urged that as excess profits were made by charging unwarrantable prices to the community, the proceeds of this tax, instead of going into the exchequer and being used for the reduction of debt, should be ear-marked and utilized for bringing down prices!

He also suggested that the Government should forthwith release the war stocks of cloth, boots, etc. direct to the public instead of through ordinary trade channels.

Another delegate proposed repudiation of the National Debt!

U.S.A. LABOUR SPLIT.

INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE BREAKS DOWN.

The American Industrial Conference assembled at Washington voted yesterday on a resolution introduced by Mr. Samuel Gompers, recognising the right of workers to collective bargaining, which he characterised as being the last word on the subject. Both the Labour and public groups of delegates voted for this resolution but the Employers' group voted against it. The resolution was consequently lost under the rule requiring unanimity.

Mr. Gompers then announced that the Labour Party would withdraw from the Conference as the result of the rejection of his resolution.

The disruption of the Conference will cause very great disappointment, coming as it does immediately after the reading of President Wilson's letter. This was written from his sick bed and was a strong appeal with a view to the avoidance of just such a breakdown as has occurred.

NO "KNOCK-OUT."

RESTRICTION ON BOXING SHOWS.

Acton Council has given permission for boxing contests to be held at the public baths if the "knock-out" is eliminated.

Councillor Boissonnade declared there was more in the "knock-out" than met the eye. A Congregational minister seconded the motion to allow boxing.

Councillor Howes: I move that each competitor come out in an armoured tank.

Councillor Dunsmore, who said the condition proposed was "mawkish," described the process of being scientifically knocked out as less painful than a ripped nose, a black eye, or a jab on the solar plexus.

GENEROUS SOLDIER'S BIGAMY.

At the Central Criminal Court on Wednesday, before the Recorder, a young Australian soldier named Mounsey, who was charged with aiding a woman to commit bigamy, was bound over in his own recognizances and was discharged.

When arrested Mounsey said:—"My object was to lift her up and put her on her feet. I am determined to stick by her whatever happens. Her husband drove her to the streets, where I found her. I admit breaking the law, but I have nothing to be ashamed of."

Mr. J. D. Cassels, his counsel, said Mounsey had an excellent record and had been recommended for the D.C.M. He wished to take the woman to Australia.

The case of the woman was postponed.

GENERAL DIAZ IN LONDON.

General Diaz arrived in London yesterday. He crossed from Boulogne to Dover in a British destroyer and reached Victoria at 2 p.m. where he was received with full military honours. To-day he will visit the City, to receive the honorary freedom and a sword of honour at the Guildhall. His visit will last until the 31st October.

The National Savings Committee notify that the number of War Savings Certificates sold during the week ended October 11, was 1,640,878, bringing the total to that date up to 365,197,000.

"DUTCH" SHIPS.

PEREMPTORY DEMAND TO GERMANY.

The Memorandum submitted by the British Delegation concerning the five German ships illegally transferred to Dutch ownership, which have not been delivered under the terms of the Armistice Convention, has been unanimously adopted by, and embodied in, a decision of the Supreme Council.

The Inter-Allied Naval Armistice Commission has formally requested the German Government to:

1. Send without further delay to the Firth of Forth the five vessels mentioned for delivery to the Allied and Associated Powers.
2. Withdraw the Dutch crews now actually on board, and replace them with German crews.
3. Cancel immediately the Dutch name and Dutch port of registry now painted provisionally on each vessel.

An immediate reply to these demands is required.

ARRESTED CHAPLAIN.

CABLES TO AUSTRALIAN PREMIER

The case of Captain the Rev. T. O'Donnel, who was arrested over a week ago at the Gresham Hotel and is still in custody, promises interesting developments.

Father O'Donnell has cabled to Archbishop Mannix and Mr. Hughes, the Australian Premier, asking for their intervention in the interests of justice. His cable to Mr. Hughes reads:

Maliciously arrested here. British Government threat deport Australia without chance vindication. Please wire Birdwood protect rights against disgraceful injustice.

Preparations had been made for his deportation to some destination unknown, but at the last moment the order was suspended. It is probable that when the courts open to-day a habeas corpus application will be made in the King's Bench.

NICKEL COINAGE.

NEW FRENCH MINTAGE.

The French Minister of Finance has authorised the manufacture of a new issue of ten million francs worth of nickel money, in order to ease the difficult situation which is resulting from the shortage of small change.—Reuter.

MINISTERS CHANGE.

BALFOUR LEAVES THE FOREIGN OFFICE.

Lord Curzon has been appointed Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, replacing Mr. A. J. Balfour, who has been appointed Lord President of the Council, vice Lord Curzon.

MOTOR CYCLIST KILLED.

A serious accident, involving the death of a British Officer and bad injuries to two others, occurred on the Cologne-Solingen road on Thursday night.

A motor bicycle and side car, with two officers aboard, ran into a motor lorry, the passengers being badly hurt. The lorry pulled up suddenly and a solo motor-cyclist dashed into the back of it and the rider was killed instantly.

REDUCING OUR EXPENSES.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer yesterday submitted fresh details of the country's revenue and expenditure. These showed that the daily deficit is now reduced to £1,255,000 instead of £1,717,000, the average for the first six months of the financial year.

KING OF SPAIN IN ENGLAND.

The King of Spain, travelling incognito, arrived at Victoria on Thursday night and was met by Lord Stanmore representing the King, and Princess Beatrice. He is staying at the Ritz Hotel.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

A fair volume of business was transacted yesterday. Investment securities hardened on the statement that the Government does not propose to tap additional sources of revenue during the current financial year. Egyptian stocks were strong and Soudan Loan script was quoted at 23.8 per cent premium, interest being stimulated by the demand for and consequent rise in Egyptian cottons. Textiles were again the best feature of the market despite the threatened strike of bleachers and dyers. Shares of edible oil concerns were in good demand, the restrictions of exportation of most edible oils having been withdrawn.

Petroleum issues were active notably Mexican Eagles, brisk buying being said to be in connection with an American syndicate. Rubbers were firm, the demand for smaller priced shares hardening under the influence of further excellent divisions.

Diamond shares were in renewed demand. The Russian group showed signs of weakening owing to lack of enquiries.

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Representative Mr. A.J.R. LEE is at OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

Has recently returned from London with a stock of hosiery & a new selection of patterns for mufti wear. Officers requiring shirts etc. for the winter, can now be supplied from stock.

Munchener Beerhalls
Lunapark in Zoological Gardens
Great international Boxing Tournament.
To-day
Curt Sasse, Berlin, 114 pounds
v.
Ludwig Trattner, Vienna, 118 pounds.
CHALLENGE. 10 rounds of 2 mins.
Sergeant Sid. Kloss, Welterweight champion, 139 pounds
v.
Willi Müller, formerly of Australia, 134 pounds.
CHIEF MATCH. 10 rounds of 3 mins
Walter Buchszuhn, Berlin, 140 pounds
v.
Georg Miers, formerly of Chicago, 136 pounds.
CHALLENGE. 10 rounds of 2 mins.
Pte. Fisher, England, 111 pounds, British Soldier
v.
Willi Wieprecht, Berlin, 110 pounds, ex-amateur Bantam-weight, Champion of Germany.

EXHIBITION
of Trained Police Dogs
(arranged by the German Sheep Dog Club)
at the
Cologne Race Course Merheim
(Tram No 11)
on SUNDAY 26th October 1919.
Open during: Morning from 8 a.m. until 12 midday, afternoon from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. Admission.
Box 5 Mk. 1st Enclosure Mk. 2.50.
2nd Enclosure Mk. 1.50.
Entrance through the 1st Encls. gate only.

Visit the British Shop in Cologne
Miss EDITH CAVE'S
Etablishment, 84 Hohenzollern Ring
The best place for Souvenirs, Stationery and Military supplies of every description.
Tram 18 passes the door.

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!
Cheap watches!
6 watches working well, in different beautiful boxes, Marks 48.00.
12 watches Marks 84.00.
With luminous dial 1 Mark extra each.
Packing and transport extra.
Sent against reimbursement.
J. GOLDSTEIN, COLOGNE
Blindgasse 24.
WHOLESALE. EXPORT.

Where can I get my Photo work done?
at the:—
Kölner Photo & Kino Centrale
Neumarkt 32—34.
All repairs done to Kodaks, Ica, Zeiss, Goerz, Ernemann Cameras & Cinema machines.
English spoken.

ENORMOUS SUCCESS OF
"THE JESTERS"
The first civilian music hall party to visit Rhineland.
SIX LONDON VARIETY ARTISTES INCLUDING Mr.
JOE MORLEY
The famous Banjoist of the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN.
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY.
Mr. HARRY KING.
Mr. FRANK HOOK.
Mr. CHASS LEWIS.

Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage The Jesters. Vacant dates Monday Oct. 27th, Thurs., 30th, and Sat. Nov. 1. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office or may be seen personally at 11 o/c each morning at Amusements Office, Komödienstrasse, Cologne.

Church of England Services in Cologne.

1.—THE MILITARY CHURCH
57 Schildergasse, (Turning off Hohe Str).
Holy Comm. 8 a.m., 11-30 a.m. & 7 p.m.
Morning Service 10-30 a.m.
Evening Service, 6 p.m.

2.—THE CHURCH ARMY CHAPEL
Hotel du Nord.
Sundays: Holy Communion, 8 a.m.

Church of England Services in Bonn

IN GARRISON CHURCH, BONN.
SUNDAYS: Holy Communion 7-30, 8-00, 11-45, and 18-45 hours.
Parade Service (Corps) at 10-00 hours.
Parade Service (Div.) at 11-00 hours.
Evening Service at 18-00 hours.
Organ Recital every Sunday from 17-45 to 18-00 hours.
WEEK-DAYS: Holy Communion Daily 7-45 hours.
excepting on Thursday when it is at 10-30 hours.
Evening Prayers at 18.00 hours excepting on Thursday.

IN BEETHOVEN-HALL, BONN.
SUNDAYS: Evening Service at 18-30 hours followed by celebration of Holy Communion at 19.30 hours.

Catholic Services in Cologne on Sundays.

COLOGNE, CATHEDRAL
Mass in Cathedral at 8 a.m. (north Transept) High Mass in Cathedral at 9-15 a.m.
Parade Mass in Minoritenkirche (Minoritenstr.), 2 minutes from Cathedral at 10 a.m.
Rosary and Benediction in Minoritenkirche at 7 p.m. Confessions in Cathedral on Saturdays from 5—7 p.m.

EHRENFELD. Church at the junction of Mechteren Strasse and Vogelsanger Strasse:—
Mass on Sundays 9 15 a.m. Confessions on Saturdays 5 p.m.

LINDENTHAL. Chapel of the Hospital in Josef Stelzmann Strasse—continuation of Giebel Strasse:—
Mass on Sundays 10.30 a.m. Confessions on Saturdays 5 p.m.

Scottish Churches and English Free Churches.

THE MILITARY CHURCH.
6 Filzengraben (Turning off Heumarkt.)
Sunday, 26th October
11 a.m. and 6 p.m.
Preacher: Rev. G. A. SEATH, C. F. (Garrison Chaplain).
Cars 6, 7, 11, 18 and 20.

Welsh Service 2—30 p.m. in Y.M.C.A. Central.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE:
From Nov. 3rd the Deutsches Theatre performances will commence at 6 p.m. nightly, excepting Wednesdays and Fridays, when they will begin at 8 p.m.

Deutsches Theatre, Bismarckstrasse.
To-day at 6 p.m.
British Rhine Army Dramatic Company
in
"MAN OF DESTINY."
FOLLOWED BY "CANDIDA."

Deutsches Theatre, Bismarckstrasse.
SPECIAL SUNDAY CONCERTS
Sunday, Oct. 26th at 6 p.m.
Concert by
THE BAND OF THE INNISKILLING DRAGOONS
(By kind permission of Col. B. Vincent C.B., C.M.G., Commanding)
Bandmaster: G. ADAMS
Vocalists:
Miss CLARA FURMEDGE
Cpl. HAROLD WALTERS
Accompanist: Pte. E. C. HOSIER
Book at the Theatre or Amusements Office

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
Commencing at 7 p.m.
Mr. ALFRED HURLEY'S LONDON COY.
"THE JESTERS"
ARTISTES:
Mr. JOE MORLEY
the Celebrated Banjoist, from the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY
Mr. FRANK HOOK Mr. HARRY KING
Mr. CHASS LEWIS
and "JOEY"

Commencing at 7 p.m.
No: 1 ARMY CINEMA. 32 Komödienstrasse
All the Best Pictures.
No: 2 ARMY CINEMA. Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
Grand Orchestra and Pictores.
No: 3 ARMY CINEMA. PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS, Hohe Strasse
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION
At all Army Cinemas.
Featuring the following fights:—
BECKETT—McGOORTY.
FULTON—TOWNLEY.
BASHAM—CHARLES.

THIS (SATURDAY) EVENING at the
COLOGNE CENTRAL Y.M.C.A.
(44, Friesenstrasse.)
LORELY HALL.—Mr. Arthur W. Hayes in his Dickens Character Sketches.
GREAT HALL.—"Gilbert and Sullivan." Concert Party at 6.30 p.m.
The Dancing Classes for British Children are held every Tuesday and Thursday in the Lorely Hall at 11 a.m.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 653. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S.40, British Army of the Rhine.

Saturday, October 25, 1919.

COMPROMISE.

"That damned word 'compromise' — the beastliest word in the English language," is one of Lord Fisher's trenchant expressions. We are heartily at one with him on this point.

Compromise has been the curse of British policy for many, many years. It has clogged the wheels of progress, rendered negative the best efforts of reformers, stifled the nation's finest aspirations, hampered our foreign policy, and indirectly led to the lamentable position of unpreparedness in which we found ourselves at the opening of war.

And now when we have won the victory and thousands have made the final sacrifice for definite ends, we find the nation's old enemy — compromise — raising its head once more.

The splendid work of sailor, soldier and airman to achieve supremacy in the field, on the sea, and in the air, runs the risk of being nullified by the weak-kneed temporising and concessions of the diplomat and politician.

We see this in many ways. We find that the objects for which we fought are speedily being explained away, attempts are being made insidiously, but no less effectively, to make us forget them.

In the sphere of trade the signs are disconcerting to those who gave up so much to battle for the mother country, to maintain her supremacy, and check the inroads of German competition.

During the war determined efforts were fostered by those in power to regain industries that had been lost to us. Our people were buoyed up with the promise that if they ventured their money in such industries they would have some safeguard as to the future. Dumping was to be no more. British trade was to be re-established firmly and to be free of unfair competition.

The toy trade is but one instance. Ex-soldiers were encouraged to embark in it. England would in future make her own toys, they were assured. Compromise has killed all prospect of that. True, the government says it will not permit this and other trades similarly selected, to be destroyed. But does anybody attach any value to such assurances.

Then there is the question of aliens. The firm drastic policy demanded by the nation is being whittled away by the weak compromises of Government departments. It is a healthy sign that the House of Commons has just put its foot down and defeated the Government in its attempt to handicap our own workers by alien competition.

But the insidious evil of compromise and vacillation continues. And a keen watch needs to be kept on our legislators, or the fruits of victory by arms will speedily fall from our grasp.

"BLOBS."

A WAGON LINE STORY.

The place was a battery wagon line, the time midsummer, 1918. The general and the subaltern were talking together: he was not a great general, neither was the subaltern the most capable of his rank. Wild horses will not draw from me the general's name; but the subaltern was called Blobs.

He was the wagon line commander and his job was thought a rest-cure by his confrères at the guns. Certainly he had to look after the horses and the harness, to compete with inspecting officers, with vets. who complained that his horses were thin and with doctors who said that his sanitation was bad.

He had to—or was supposed to—be up early and late, fighting with neighbouring units for his turn at the water troughs, chasing his chaff-cutting machine that would not cut, and his farrier, whose shoeing met with nobody's approval.

There was the A.S.C. to be visited to see that the battery got full forage and rations, and perhaps a bit over (possibly there was a drink to be got there) and the Ordnance had to be cajoled, entreated and threatened to get the new torches that had to go up to the gun line that night.

On his return journey he must drop in at Signals to try for another mile of D. 5 wire (a certain drink awaited him there); in the afternoon there was ammunition to be drawn and some new harness fitted; also a chit to be written to go up with the ammunition in the evening, telling the doings of the day—the major was very particular about that.

But after evening stables and water and feed he had his time to himself, that is unless he went up with ammunition to the guns, a thing he did twice a week.

But he knew when he was well off: he had no S.O.S's to turn him out of bed, no nasty shell falling into his back garden, no O.P. work, and no major to meet at breakfast in the morning. He did not live in a leaky crazy shelter with water splashing up from the duckboards on the floor, rain dripping through the roof, and driving past the waterproof sheet that served as a door.

At night, when planes buzzed overhead and bombs dropped crashing all around, he had no mathematical puzzles to work out, as when by the light of a single candle and amid shouts of "put out that light there" he had in gun line days tackled the intricacies of a creeping barrage, a damnable problem especially invented for his undoing by the higher command.

It must be acknowledged that Blobs was not great at this game; his work required checking and angles right had an uncanny habit of turning into angles left. But as he explained he wasn't a soldier; he was only "doing his best."

In the halcyon days before the war he was a man of leisure with a yellow motor car and a red face: he had done a bit of "huntin'" and loved to be horsey and to talk horse. His place was obviously at the wagon lines, so when the general dropped in informally to look round, it was Blobs that he found there, looking somewhat pale after an evening that he had not spent going up to the guns.

The general had a liver that morning and some of the horses looked as if they had one too. Blobs tried to pacify him and to explain why No. 28 had not been groomed, and 64 looked as if she had not been shod for three months. But it was no good. "I don't want your excuses," the general snorted.

"Excuse me, Sir," said the now-aroused Blobs, "these are not my excuses, they are my reasons." This stopped the G.O.C. for a moment, which naturally made him crosser than ever. They got round to the harness racks: several explosions were heard there and a subdued undertone of "Up the line last night, Sir"—"went to Hospital yesterday," and the G.O.C. got on his horse and rode away red in the face.

As he went he fired a parting shot: "It's all nonsense your being short of men; it's damned lack of supervision, sir. I shall inspect the wagon lines again this day week, and if things are not more satisfactory—I shall stop your leave."

Blobs was deeply hurt. He could stand a joke with any man but—to stop his leave! Words failed him. He disliked the general and foresaw an unpleasant interview with his major when the latter came down that afternoon for his weekly inspection. "This is a camp of the worst possible description," he said sadly as he mounted his old mare and rode off to the canteen, where rumour had it some new stores had just come in.

By the afternoon he felt better—he had got hold of vast quantities of chocolate and sardines, far beyond his battery allotment. The canteen officer had taken his money at poker the night before, and canteen officers are human—not like generals, thought Blobs.

The major was pretty decent too; things had gone down the hill a bit, but times had been hard, and he liked to do his own damning himself and not have it done for him by red hats. He bustled around, poked his nose into corners, stirred up Blobs, talked to all the men, claimed the lion's share of the canteen stores for the guns, and returned home, cheery and blasphemous.

Furious efforts were made in the next week, but handicapped by hard work and shortage of men, the improvement was not what had been hoped. Blobs found that, easy as it had been to let things slide, it was a superman's job to get back to the old standards. The last day arrived and he saw that the general would not be satisfied: also there was no protective barrage, as the major had a battle on, and would not be able to come down.

His leave was due next week and he would not get it: an impossible affair, for he was going to get married! He had told none of us, being afraid of being laughed at; but it meant a lot to him. He went over to dine with his friends and neighbours—a labour battalion—in a deeply pessimistic mood. They soon found out his troubles and also his richness in canteen luxuries. Before Blobs left a bargain had been struck, and he went home cheerful to his dug-out.

* * *

Reveillé saw extraordinary scenes of activity in the wagon lines Hundreds of infantry covered the ground, sweeping the horse lines, squaring up the camp and generally making themselves useful. When they went away at nine they took some very thin horses and some particularly filthy harness with them.

The General arrived punctually at ten; he was cold and reserved, but his impressions were less unfavourable than he had expected. The horses—he thought—had really come on since the last visit and some polished head chains enhanced the good effect; the harness was clean if it was not smart, and he felt that Blobs might have done worse.

He rode away mollified. "Things have improved, Mr. Blobs, it is now your business to carry on the improvement. These things all rest with yourself: and remember, don't talk damned nonsense to me again about having no men. A good officer, when he hasn't got men, makes them."

Blobs knew all about that. It was exactly what he had done—at a price. Half an hour after the general's departure, the battery Q.M.S. might have been seen paying out tins of sardines and sticks of chocolate to a long line of grinning labourites, who had come forward to help the Royal Regiment in its hour of need.

From "The Gunner." T.C.L.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

EYES AND NO EYES.

Sir,—I often see remarks by your readers which are not exactly complimentary to Germany. They seem to imply that if anything isn't English it is outside the pale of consideration.

I am the last to slavishly admire or copy things Teutonic, and am very bitter about the Germans having launched the awful war which devastated Europe and sent millions to their graves, but I give the devil his due.

The German has had a far better educational training than the average Britisher, and he is more thoughtful and more thorough. It is those characteristics which we must try to emulate. Otherwise the mere winning of the war will find us no better off than we were.

And the scoffer is out of place. The thoughtless conceit which so many display is worse than childish; it is fatal.

Let us keep our eyes open. Let us carefully watch the customs, the methods, and the inventions we see around us while here. Don't pass them by without due consideration. Some may not be suited to England, but many put us to shame and are worthy of adoption. Weigh their merits and demerits if they possess them. See how they can be utilised or adapted so that you may return home on demobilization better equipped for the struggle that faces us.

That is my earnest advice to the men on the Rhine, and I hope to see signs of it being taken. M. A.

REMEMBER THE DEAD!

Sir,—In the beautiful Südfriedhof here are the graves of some forty English prisoners of war who died in the hands of their enemies. They lie with those of the Allies who shared their tragic fate before them, and far outnumbering them; also German soldiers have their last resting-place there.

The graves are all carefully tended: all have the little white soldiers' cross, but the sunlight falls on the many; the conquerors are in the shadow in the conquering position, facing undazzled, those they defeated.

We have no Remembrance Day, yet we remember! Could not we women, here like our sisters in France, lay flowers on these little green hills where the soldiers sleep, on Nov. 1st and 2nd, the festivals of All Saints and All Souls? A. STEEL.

WANTED—AN ALARM.

Sir,—As I pay very frequent visits to the Deutsches Theatre I should like to make the following suggestion. The majority of people will I am sure agree with me that if a bell were put up somewhere in the above theatre, and rung for a few seconds just before the curtain was raised after each interval, it would give warning to those who find it necessary to leave their seats when each act is over.

It would enable these persons to return, and settle down, then all would be quiet once again by the time the curtain rose. Surely the management could think of some simple alarm, because I know it must be very annoying to the artists, also to the members of the audience when people are trying to find their seats in the darkness after the play has recommenced. C.W.H.P.

ARE THEY NECESSARY?

Sir,—None of the specious arguments put forward by correspondents in favour of fancy identification discs or bangles impress me one little bit.

I am convinced that it is not for any of the reasons given that they wear them still. Let them be honest and admit it. It is simply vanity pure and simple.

They look "dinky," and convey the impression that the wearer has been a terrific warrior. And that's the whole thing in a nutshell. PETER BLUNT.

THE SOLDIERS, POWER.

Sir,—I thought the advice you gave in your leading article on the reform of the British Public House — what a horrible name that is! — was excellent.

I hope everyone when they return home will use the knowledge they have gained abroad to reform not only our public houses, but but many other things as well, in which we are so very backward.

It is not by votes alone that these changes can be made, but by personal influence, and everyone who has been outside England can enforce his views by stating his own experiences. What I mean is that he won't be speaking without knowledge gained first hand.

My only fear is that when we all get home we may insensibly fall into the old ruts, and accept the old order because it happens to be there, and it seems no easy task to alter the preconceived insular notions of our fellow-countrymen. There are so many reforms we need besides better public houses, but if the soldier will only realise his power they are all possible. LEGIS.

WILL WAR CEASE?

Sir,—A correspondent in your columns recently made the momentous assertion that "so long as man exists there will always be war."

It seems tragic that so many people hold this opinion and will keep on repeating it, when one thinks of what the world has suffered, and suffered evidently in vain.

One cannot help wandering back to those days of August 1914 upon thought, and trying to unravel the meaning and the causes which immediately aroused the indignant feelings (unparalleled before in their unanimity) of practically the whole civilised world against Germany when she started her mad career of crime against the unwritten laws of nations.

It was that true sense of justice born in every man which resulted in the downfall of Germany. A legacy is left us by those men who died in this supreme fight to see that such a catastrophe shall never happen again. Whether the world takes advantage of the opportunities of this victory and creates a means of applying the strength of international justice to prevent war it is too soon to say.

It must recover from the inevitable reaction which is at present rampant in every country, and from the universal confusion created by the rapid trend of great events which are tumbling over each other to get in the limelight.

But in the future it is the duty of us all to support by every means in our power the idea which is our only hope and which became a reality in the Peace Conference at Paris — the idea of a league of nations so that it may have a fair chance to accomplish the tremendous task with which it is being set. G.H.E.

PLAYS SOME PEOPLE WANT.

Sir,—Lots of men I have spoken with are at one with "One of the Gods," who asks for a more popular style of play for the troops on the Rhine.

Most of us are very fond of good strong melodrama such as we get at home.

In the North Country town I come from, we have touring companies every week giving us the rousing sensational drama that thrills you.

You know the sort of thing I mean, Sir; no social or sex problems with morbid endings, but plenty of exciting scenes, a murder or two, and the falsely-accused hero going through hell to win the heroine, but baffled right up to the last moments of the play, when he comes out of it all in triumph.

I could name a round dozen of such stirring dramas that would bring the house down, as the saying is.

I am open to wager they would go down better than all your "Molluscs" and "Helens with High Hands," and on behalf of many others beside myself, may I ask for a trial of a real exciting melodrama now and again? Why not make a start with the "Still Alarm," the "Lights o' London" or the "Silver King," to name only a few old favourites? GALLERY BOY.

Sir,—I expect your correspondent "One of the Gods" goes to the theatre merely for amusement.

That is the wrong motive altogether. He should look on it as a means of education and of elevating his mind and making him think.

Far from wishing the tone of the R.A.D.C. performances to be lowered or popularised in any degree, I would urge an even higher standard, and press for Shakespeare and the poetic drama.

The caste of the Germans is more serious than ours, and as a nation they benefit by this fact.

Remember the stage has passed, or should have done by now the recreational era of its existence.

It has entered the educational scheme of life, and no one should go to a play unless he feels that he will learn from it and that it will introduce him to new fields of thought.

May the day be far distant when the Rhine Army Dramatists pander to degraded popular taste, such as, I venture to say, "One of the Gods" possesses. C.D.R.

Sir,—I have been wanting to say what "One of the Gods" does, but haven't liked to. Now he has broken the ice, may I trespass on your space to put in a word for farces of the broad rollicking kind? That's the stuff to give 'em.

If we had "Charley's Aunt," "A Night Out," "A Little Bit of Fluff," "The Private Secretary," "Are you a Mason," "The Glad Eye" and other screamingly funny plays like that, you would hear a continuous roar of laughter in the Deutsches that would bring the Germans flocking to the door, wondering what all the row was about.

And we Tommies would return to our billets as merry as sandboys, instead of leaving the theatre depressed and puzzled, as we often are, by the gloomy not-understandable kind of play we see so often now. DURHAM LAD.

RANDOM SHOTS.

The only rate of exchange is one good turn for another.

Play to win but don't lose the playing in the winning.

Only one way to make money — don't spend it.

The best war certificate is your uniform.

Where there's a puddle there's always a duckboard.

Only word not in your dictionary should be failure.

When you'd like to push your cap further back on your head think of the good fellows who used to shine a badge like yours.

Starting where you left off is 100 yards further back now.

Money is nothing; what you do with it is everything.

If you can't rush you can crawl.

Don't judge a newspaper by all that it says; but by what it sometimes leaves out.

Don't forget the other team when you judge the referee.

A pat on the back is worth a hundred pokes in the ribs.

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor

Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???
Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!
The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!
TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.
Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 32-34.

The Team's "Donkey Worker"

WHICH PLAYER HAS THE HARDEST JOB? — BY ARTHUR GRIMSDELL.

(The Famous "Spurs" Half-Back and English International).

I suppose it would be somewhat difficult to find two players who would agree about the relative importance of the various positions on the football field. For instance, if you asked me the question, I should probably reply that the wing half-backs were very important, and such reply would be very natural, for I happen to be a wing half-back myself. In like manner if you went through the whole of a football eleven and asked the same question, the replies would mostly be found to coincide with the actual position of the player questioned.

When you come to think of it, though, it is all for the good that it should be so. The team which is most likely to meet with success is the one which goes on the field with every man of opinion that the position in which he plays is the most important of all, and convinced that if success is to come to his side he must do his level best in that position from the first kick of the match to the very last.

Trying to take an impartial view of the whole team though, it seems to me that foremost in importance you must have a strong half-back line. In fact I think a well-known manager used to say that if you would show him a side with good half-backs he would show you a side which was going to win its matches. The half-backs must of necessity be hard workers. They must be attentive and preventive—that is, attentive to the requirements of their own forwards, and preventive in regard to the attacks made by the other fellows.

HALF-BACKS MUST WORK.

Their duties being summed up thus, then, it is clear that I can't be far wrong, when I say that the half-backs first of all be real workers, and I can assure you that at the end of many a game I have left the field feeling that there was only one place in the world for me and that place a comfortable bed. Try an afternoon at stopping Buchan and Mordue at their best, for instance, or Snea and Simpson, and with the ball flashing about hither and thither between them you won't have much time for wiping the perspiration from your forehead.

The centre-half must be a real worker too, and yet for sheer running about I do not think that in the average game he does quite so much as the wing half-backs. For one thing he hasn't any throwing-in to do, and that little job in itself provides quite a lot of scope for running off one's superfluous energy. But if the centre-half doesn't have quite so much work with his feet as the wing half-backs, he has, I think, more work with his head than any other player on the field, and I use the term both physically and mentally.

The centre-half must be thinking hard all the time, because more than any other man on the side, is it in his power to mould the whole play of the team. He must think which part of his own forward line seems in the best form, and he must feed that part. He must also note where his opponents are weak in defence, and play to that weakness. These things he must do with his "thinking cap," and just to keep his head employed he is usually called upon to head the ball about twice to the once any other player applies it. I once heard it said of Wedlock of Bristol City fame (need I have put that in?) that for each time he played the ball with his feet he used his head twice.

INSIDE WING MEN.

Yet when everything is said and done, and we have given full credit for the half-backs as workers, I don't think we have placed our finger on the real "donkey-worker" of the average football team. You don't find him among the full-backs, and in my opinion he is not among the half-backs, but look for him in the forwards, and you will generally find he is in one of the inside wing positions—that is at inside left or inside right. In my opinion those are the "donkey-workers" of the football team.

Let us examine their duties and we shall see whether in the carrying out of them they best fit the description of the team's "donkey-workers." In the first place the inside wing men are the fetchers and the carriers for the other three forwards. As the game is usually played to-day, the outside wing men and the centre-forward keep well up the field, ready for a dash should the ball come to them. But the inside man must always fall back—sometimes right into goal—when his side is hard pressed.

Take a player like Bliss our inside-left for instance. When our opponents are taking a corner kick, there he is, helping in the defence of his goal. Sometimes he is instrumental in the actual clearing from this corner-kick, but in any case if the ball is kicked clear, off he must scamper to the other end of the field at the very top of his speed, so that he may be able to be in with the rest of the forwards in their scoring efforts.

While the centre-forward and the outside wing men will probably not have more than half the length of the field to run, the inside forward will have practically the whole length to traverse in order to be in at the death.

THE REAL DONKEY WORKERS.

Then, no matter were a throw-in is taken on his wing, the inside man must be right there, whether it is against his own corner flag or the corner flag of the opposition. The full-backs get a rest when their forwards are attacking; the centre-forward and the extreme wing men have time to breathe when their own side is being hard pressed, but where-ever the play is waged, the inside wing men should be there Yes, the amount of running about which falls to the lot of the inside wing men if they are to perform all the duties of their position, brings me to the conclusion that they are the real "donkey-workers" of the average football team.

So it seems that the first qualification for the position of inside left or inside right shall be that the men chosen be real workers who do not know what it means to be tired. But though that may be the first essential, it by no means follows that it is the last. The inside men must be good tricky dribblers so that they can make openings for the centre-forward; they must be able to take hard knocks which they will get from opposing defenders; and they must be able to shoot hard and well, because to them come opportunities of scoring goals. When a team manager has found two players for the inside positions with all these qualifications, then he can consider that he has approached the ideal. But it is rather a lot to ask, isn't it?

ALDERSHOT COMMAND.

Three Days' Horse Show Next Year—New Ground In Preparation.

The remarkable success of the Aldershot Command Horse Show—now in its third year—is reflected in the fact that three days are to be devoted to it next Summer. This unique civil and military event will be held under the patronage of the King on the 6th, 7th and 8th of July. A better equipped and more convenient show ground is being prepared. Many new features are to be introduced, and the open and civilian classes largely extended.

ARMY RUGBY.

Light Blues Win a Fast Game by 11 to 3.

Taking the field for the first time as a regular club fifteen, the Army at Cambridge on Wednesday suffered defeat from the Light Blues by a placed goal and two tries to a penalty goal. In the opening half the passing on both sides proved disappointing.

Twenty minutes from the start Macintosh kicked a penalty goal for the Army, and after each side had narrowly missed scoring Collis just before the interval registered a try for the University.

On resuming the combination improved, especially that of Cambridge, for whom Craigmile and Young gained tries, Greenwood converting in the first instance. Thus a game, contested throughout at a fine pace, ended in a win for the Light Blues by 11 points to three.

UNITED SERVICES BEAT FLEET.

At Portsmouth, in delightful weather. The Services had the better of the play in the opening half, but the Fleet defenders tackled well. Anderson, however, scored an unconverted try, and the Services crossed with this lead. After the interval the Fleet were outplayed. Agnew got over and Graham majorised. Graham also scored a penalty goal, and tries were got by Bicknell and Anderson, both unconverted.

Result:—
United Services 17 pts; Home Fleet 0.

PROFESSIONAL BILLIARDS.

Closing scores Thursday evening:—Reece (in play) 5311; Falkiner 4770; Newman 5837 Stevenson (in play) 3777.

ARE YOU A WRESTLER?

Splendid Opportunity for Training: Write to Lieut. Hayes.

Lieut. W.H. Hayes, 51st Devons, the 10 st. 7 lbs., Rhineland wrestling champion, is eager to get into touch with other exponents of the art, irrespective of weight or rank, in the Rhine Army with a view to getting training, for which purpose he has secured the use of the Gymnasium at the P. and R.T. School, Cologne, by kind permission of Lieut.-Col. Betts.

Furthermore, he is prepared to wrestle or box any officer in the Army of Occupation at his weight and will be glad to arrange contests.

LAWN TENNIS RESULTS.

The chief results in the London Covered Courts Championship, at Queen's Club, were:

Men's Singles.—Second round: A. W. Davson beat R. G. Taggart, 6—1, 6—0, 6—0; Hon. F. M. B. Fisher beat G. Stoddart, 6—3, 6—2, 6—2, 6—3; G. R Sherwell beat Lieut. D. G. O. Sinclair, 6—1, 6—1, 6—1.

Women's Singles.—Second round (concluded): Miss K. McKane beat Miss P. Hawkins, 4—6, 6—1, 6—0; Mrs. Satterthwaite beat Miss Ryan, 6—4, 3—6, 6—4; Mrs. Beamish beat Mrs G Lowe, 6—0, 6—1; Mrs. H. Edgington (holder) beat Miss D. Kemmins Betty, 7—5, 11—9.

Men's Doubles.—First round: Hon. F. M. B. Fisher and C. P. Dixon beat L. de Olivases and J F. Villegas, 6—1, 6—4, 6—1; S. N. Doust and M. J. G. Ritchie beat "W. Smith" and Capt. P. O'Hara Wood, 6—3, 6—2, 9—7.

Open Mixed Doubles.—First round: Capt. P. O'Hara Wood and Mrs. Beamish beat N. Mishu and Mrs. G. Lowe, 6—0, 6—1.

Anxious.

With training grounds and race tracks abnormally hard for the time of the year, trainers of certain Cambridgeshire horses are in an anxious frame of mind.

In Full Swing.

The Rugby game has at length got into full swing, and today practically the whole of the clubs of the country will be seen out.

My Dear and the Cambridgeshire.

Providing she goes on well up to the day of the race, My Dear will be among the runners for the Cambridgeshire, and will, of course, have Donoghue as her pilot.

Celebrating Victories.

To celebrate the victories of his three-year-old Stearine, Baron Ed. Rothschild has presented £80 to the Chantilly jockeys hospital, and a like sum to the fund for necessitous jockeys and stablemen.

FULTON MAKING GOOD.

Knocks out Capt. Gordon Coghill, Australia, in Third Round.

HIS FIRST REAL TEST.

Fred Fulton, the Kansas giant, came through his first real test at the Holborn Stadium on Thursday night, when he defeated Capt. Gordon Coghill of Australia in the third round of a twenty round contest by knocking him out. The brief wire to hand gives no details of the fight, but the result, following the summary dismissal of Townley, suggests that the big American is a man to be taken seriously.

Fulton has thrown out all manner of quaint challenges while in England, which, to our way of thinking, has hurt him rather than helped him. We have had brief opportunities of seeing him in the ring, but his home record stamps him as a good man, if only for the fact that he caused the famous Sam Langford to retire after seven rounds.

The name of Capt. Gordon Coghill is not quite so familiar—not because he is not a formidable boxer, but simply because, from the time he left Australia he was kept too occupied with military duties to be able to give much attention to his favourite pastime. Until a little while before the war broke out he was an amateur. He held the same place in Australian amateur circles as our own John Hopley, and was always a good trial horse. He boxed stubborn bouts with Tommy Burns, Jack Johnson, and the late Bob Fitzsimmons, and it was on the advice of the last named that he turned professional.

MORE ABOUT CARPENTIER.

Still a Natural and Legitimate Cruiser-Weight.

I am able to give your readers most excellent news, which is just to hand, from La Guerche, where Georges Carpentier is hard at work in view of his forthcoming contest with Joe Beckett on Dec. 4 at the Holborn Stadium, says Victor Breyer, writing in the "Sporting Life." As already announced Eddie McGoorty is acting as Carpentier's principal sparring partner, and I understand that the latter's long experience and almost unlimited knowledge are proving invaluable to the French champion, who is gradually rounding into shape, and has, to quote his own words, never felt better since his brilliant pre-war days.

Champion's Avoirdupois.

When put on the scales a few days ago Carpentier was weighing exactly 78½ kilos, or 12 st. 5 lb. His manager claims that these figures represent his normal avoirdupois, and that he will enter the ring on Dec. 4 as he is now. According to this statement it looks as if the Frenchman has not put on much weight during the war, and that he still is a natural and legitimate cruiser. This item of news is made interesting by what Descamps told me in the course of a rather interesting conversation two days ago previous to his departure for London in company with Ledoux, due then to meet Jim Driscoll.

LEEDS F.C. AND MIDLAND LEAGUE.

Invitation Sent to Lord Mayor by Secretary.

The committee who are concerned with the formation of a new professional Association club in Leeds to take the place of the defunct Leeds City club have received an invitation to join the Midland League.

The invitation is contained in a letter addressed to the Lord Mayor of Leeds by Mr. J. Nicholson, of Sheffield United, the secretary of the Midland League, who suggests the new Leeds club might be prepared to enter some competition, and adds:—

If so I think we can find a place for them in this League, as we have only sixteen clubs. I am sorry to trouble you, but I do not know to whom to send this letter, so perhaps you will kindly pass it on. As you are no doubt aware Leeds City made their reputation whilst members of this League, and it might be a step to their promotion again.

The letter has been passed on to Mr. Joseph Henry, jun., the chairman of the Supporters' Club, who is very hopeful that arrangements will be made within the next few days whereby the new organisation will be placed firmly on its feet.

INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL.

Sweden Defeats Denmark at Stockholm Stadium.

On Oct. 12 the international match Sweden versus Denmark was played at the Stockholm Stadium, which was packed with 20,000 spectators. Nervousness on both sides prevented the finer points of the game being shown, but the match was carried through at top speed from start to end. Smarter forward play in front of goal gave the home team a well-deserved victory by 3—0.

ARMY DEFEAT CHELSEA.

At Aldershot the Army defeated Chelsea three goals to one in a fast game. Five thousand spectators were present. Several changes were made in the Army team. Fifteen minutes from the start McMillan was hurt and had to go off, but in the second half, by permission of the Army, he was replaced by McNeil.

IRELAND v. ENGLAND.

J. McCandless (Bradford), who was selected to play for Ireland in the international match at Belfast to-day, has been refused permission to play by his club.

L. Bookman (Luton) has been chosen to fill the vacancy:

DISTANT FRIENDS
read The Cologne Post. Send it daily to yours.

RANELAGH GOLF.

Mrs. Cross and Mrs. Thurgood Successful in Final.

FANCIED PAIRS FAIL.

In the final of the "Ladies Field" Victory Golf Foursome at Ranelagh on Thursday Mrs. Cross and Mrs. Thurgood (handicap 25) beat Mrs. Henderson and Miss Robertson (Handicap 21) by two and one.

A strongly-fancied pair in Mrs. F. W. Brown, the Scottish internationalist, and Miss Hilda Prest, one of the most promising of young lady golfers, were eliminated on Wednesday by Mrs. Plummer and Miss Chubb, but the latter couple were defeated in the afternoon, when they met Mrs. Henderson and Miss M. Robertson, both members of the Hampstead club, who played some of the best golf seen at the meeting.

In the semi-final round Mrs. Henderson and Miss Robertson went out in 35 and stood 4 up at the turn on Mrs. Plummer and Miss Chubb (runner-up in the Ladies' Championship of 1913).

RHINE ARMY GOLF.

Autumn Meeting Prize Competition Next Month.

At the Rhine Army Golf Club Autumn Meeting on Sunday November 16th the following prizes will be competed for:—

(a) 1st scratch prize.
(b) 2nd scratch prize.
(c) 1st handicap prize.
(d) 2nd handicap prize.

The prizes are being kindly presented by the Officers' Sports Club. There will be no entry money for the above, but a 10 Mark Bogey Sweepstake (Handicap) will take place in the afternoon.

Entry to be made for this Bogey Sweepstake on the day of play and the money will be divided as follows—2/3 1st Prize, 1/3 2nd Prize.

The handicaps of all members will be reviewed prior to the meeting, and any member desiring a new handicap must send in 3 certified cards.

ENGLISH RACING.

Hard Going at Sandown and Doncaster Meetings.

The sustained drought has made going very hard during the past few weeks and fields have suffered somewhat as a consequence.

The beautiful weather, however, has attracted huge attendances, and that was a characteristic at the Sandown and Doncaster meetings on Thursday. Details:—

Sandown.

Hersham Plate:—1, Killulagh (evens); 2, Epsom Bay (3—1); 3, Sudden Fancy 3—1). Five ran.

Arbrook Plate:—1, Prevogant (11—8); 2. Hukm (100—8); 3, Royal Plum (20—1). Five ran.

Temple Handicap:—1, The Speaker (5—2); 2, Lady Pergrine (5—1); 3, Tagrag (7—1); Seven ran.

Corinthian Handicap:—1, Aris (6—4); 2, Trench Warfare (10—1); 3, Cricket (100—8). 12 ran.

Orleans Handicap:—1, Elsom (6—4); 2, Incluse (7—1); 3, Fatality colt (100—7); Twelve ran.

Sandown Stakes:—1, Ninon (75—20); 2, Perion (75—20 on); 3, Joli Coener (20—1). Three ran.

Doncaster.

Frickley Plate:—1, Sundrift (11—4 on); 2, Fairy Lantern (4—1); 3, Mowglis Bride (100—8). Three ran.

Stanley Handicap:—1, Agapemone (5—1); 2, Theolin (10—1); 3, Grenhatti (7—2). Eleven ran.

Harewood Handicap:—1, Home Fire (7—4); 2, Sunny Rhyme (5—1); 3, Off-chance (7—1). Nine ran.

Doncaster Stakes:—1, Lucentio (10—1); 2, Carborundum (6—4); 3, Loveite colt (11—8). Five ran.

Clayton Handicap:—1, Paragua (300—100 on); 2, Mari (9—4); 3, Sanegelo (6—1). Eight ran.

Falmonth Handicap:—1, Brother to Eos (13—8); 2, Comet's Tail (100—8); 3, Gathamelata (7—1). Nine ran.

Fitzwilliam Plate:—Dorset (2—1) beat Monazite after dead heat.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE BETTING.

Late Wednesday night Cambridgeshire Betting was as follows:—

Scatwell 6 to 1; Zinovia 100 to 12; Tetrarchia 10 to 1; Alasnam 100 to 9 offered after 100 to 8 taken. Sir Berkeley 100 to 8; Royal Bucks 100 to 6; Clarion and Diadem 18 to 1; Brigand and Dominion 25 to 1 offered; My Dear 33 to 1 offered.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE SCRATCHINGS.

Vice Versa 9 a.m. Thursday.
Milton 3.49 p.m Thursday.

OXFORD CRICKET CAPTAIN.

F. W. Gilligan, of Worcester, has been elected Capt. of Oxford University Cricket Club for next season.

Covered Court Championships.

The World's Covered Courts Championships will be held at the Sporting Club de Paris on Nov. 15.

A Drastic Step.

Newport Rugby Club has taken the drastic step of notifying the Pontypool Club that they will not resume fixtures after the close of this season. This is a sequel to the match at Pontypool on the first Monday in October.

A Dutch Invitation.

The Hyde Seal Water Polo Club have received an invitation from the manager of the "Het Y" Club, the premier club of Holland, to pay an international visit either about Christmas or early in 1920 and play a series of matches in the covered baths at Amsterdam, which are claimed to be the finest in Europe.

RHINELAND FOOTBALL.

18th G.H.Q., Motor Transport Coy v. 20th M.A.C.

12-0 VICTORY.

Played on the former's ground on Wednesday. The play at the commencement of the game was fast. The home team, having most of the play, were soon leading by two goals. The visitors had the sun in their faces, and although they tried hard the 18th G.H.Q. monopolized the play up to the interval when the score read:—18th G.H.Q., M.T. Coy 9; 20th M.A.C. 0.

On the resumption 20th M.A.C. set off in fine style, and pressed for a time but the home defence kept them out. The 18th G.H.Q. gradually obtained the upper hand again and through skilful combined play registered 3 more goals.

Final Score:—18th G.H.Q., M.T. Coy 12; 20th M.A.C. 0.

The goals were scored by Cpl. Mc Kinnell, 6; Pte. Wemyss 4; Lieut. Holloway 1; and Cpl. Rowley 1.

18th G.H.Q., M.T. Coy. v. Rhine Army Siege Park.

The above-mentioned teams met on the former's ground at Braunsfeld on Saturday.

The 18th G.H.Q. got away strongly at the start and scored two goals, by Pte. Wemyss and Sgt. Middlebrook. The game was fast and the play good. The R.A. Siege Park were putting up a greater fight than in the first encounter between these teams. After 30 minutes Cpl. Mc Kinnell scored again for the home team. Interval:—18th G.H.Q., M.T. Coy. 3; R.A. Siege Park, 0. On the resumption play was of an even character. The Siege Park were trying hard to score, and pressed for a time but their shooting was weak. The 18th G.H.Q. gradually was worn down, and Cpl. Phillips scored a beautiful goal midway through this half. This concluded the scoring, and a pleasant game ended in 18th G.H.Q. running out winners by 4 goals to nil.

74 GOALS AGAINST 9.

18th G.H.Q., M.T. Coy's Remarkable Soccer Record.

The 18th G.H.Q., M. T. Coy have established a remarkable football record this season. In all they have played thirteen matches, twelve of which they have won, the other being drawn. This is a splendid achievement, but it is their extraordinary goal average which makes their accomplishment so exceptionally fine. For a total of only nine goals scored against them they have replied with 74, two of their victories being to the tune of 13—2 and 12—0. Their hardest struggle was with the Light Divisional M.T. Coy with whom they could only draw.

Details.

Details of the matches are as follows:—

v. "C" Group R.A.O.C.	won	5—2
v. No. 2 A.A. Workshops	"	4—0
v. Rhine Army Troops M.T. Coy	"	2—1
v. No. 2 A. A. Workshops	"	13—2
v. Rhine Army Troops M.T. Coy	"	2—1
v. Rhine Army Siege Park	"	10—0
v. 231 Field Coy R.E.	"	3—0
"C" Group R.A.O.C.	"	7—1
v. 60th Aux. Steam Coy R.A.S.C.	"	7—0
v. Light Divison M. T. Coy	draw	1—1
v. Rhine Army Siege Park	won	4—0
v. 20th M.A.C.	"	12—0
v. "A" and "C" Sections	"	4—1

Total 74 goals, against 9.

8th Vet Hospital. versus Rhine Army Troops M.T. Coy.

This match took place on Wednesday on the ground of the first-named before a good number of spectators. Owing to demobilization the home team had to make several eleventh-hour changes, but they put up a good fight, although suffering defeat by 4-0.

The game was fast from the kick-off, and the M.T. Coy. were two goals up within ten minutes, the first being the result of a pretty individual effort on the part of Pte. Thompson and the second coming from a first-timer from Cpl. Reasey.

Before half-time Cpl. Thompson, from outside right, scored a third goal for the Rhine Army Troops with a hard drive, the goalie getting to the ball, but being unable to prevent it entering the net.

The second half saw the Rhine Army Troops slacken down somewhat, apparently being satisfied with their three-goal lead, but before the finish they notched a fourth point through Pte. Thompson and a pleasant game resulted Rhine Army Troops M. T. Coy. 4. 8th Vet. Hospital, 0.

Rhine Army Reception Camp v. Rhine Army Remount Depot.

This match was played on the Depot Ground, in ideal weather, on Sunday.

Remounts having won the toss, the Recreation Camp kicked off. The Remounts got possession of the ball, which was passed to Tombs, who missed an easy goal for the Remounts. Remounts seemed to be having the best of the play, and were continually testing the Reception Camp's goalkeeper, who, proving equal to the occasion, brought off some splendid saves. Half time brought no score.

Resuming play the Remounts quickly retaliated, but it seemed impossible for them to find the net. A penalty against the Reception Camp still found no score. From a rush in the Remount's goal the Remount's goalkeeper brought off asplendid save at the expense of a corner, which was cleared, the ball being transferred to the other end of the field, and in a scrimmage around the goal the goalkeeper had to concede a corner. From the corner kick the goalkeeper had to fist out, and the Depot centre-half, getting possession, missed an open goal. Play slowed down a great deal in the latter stages of this half, the ball continually going out of play: The game ended in a draw.

'Chasing at Auteuil.

A good day's 'chasing was offered to Parisians on Saturday, and Auteuil Racecourse was thronged.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Sat.	Tiefland	d'Albert	7.30	10
Sun.	Carmen	Bizet	—	—
Mon.	NO PERFORMANCE
Tues.	NO PERFORMANCE

Hindle Wakes.

"West York" asks who played the part of Allen in "Hindle Wakes" on Friday in the week when the play was produced in Cologne. For his information, and others who have inquired, the part was played by Lieut. Onions.

A Treat for Duren.

On Monday next the "Jesters" who, for three weeks have filled the Palace Theatre, Cologne, will pay a visit to Duren. The performance upon which I have bestowed much eulogy already, is bound to attract a crowded audience to the Stadt Theatre. It will be under the patronage of Gen. Leveson-Gower, C.M.G., D.S.O. There will be another performance by this talented party on Friday of the same week.

The Crumps.

During the past week or two "The Crumps" have been appearing before the troops in the outlying districts with an entirely new show, noted for its comedy, which it possesses in plenty. "The Crumps" are booked for the Palace Theatre next week and although their ranks are sadly depleted owing to demobilization, a good bright show is promised. "The Crumps" have their own orchestra, a very worthy little band of musicians who are a great asset to the party.

JACQUES.

"B" Coy 52nd K.L.R. v. "C" Coy 52nd K.L.R.

From the start "B" Coy. applied pressure and tried hard to open their account, but for a time they could not pierce the defences. "C" Coy., although acting on the defensive for a great part of the game, occasionally gave "B" Coy's defence trouble. Just before the interval Monk scored for "B" Coy. Half time:— "B" Coy. 1. "C" Coy. 0.

Five minutes after the interval Monk increased "B" Coy's lead. Ten minutes later Howel put another goal on for "B." With this big reverse "C" tried hard to wipe off some of the arrears, but failed. Pte. Williams endeavoured to force his forwards through "B"'s defence, but it was of no avail. Full time came with "C" pressing and the score:— "B" Coy 3. "C" Coy. 0. Pte. Williams played a good game for the losers.

IS IT YOUR TURN?

Another Football Competition: Big Prize for Skill.

Below appears the coupon for our sixth football skill competition. Cross out the losing teams; for a draw leave both teams standing. All you have to do is to make a few strokes of the pen and you may possibly be the lucky winner. There are no vexatious conditions attached to this contest. Our prize-money must be won outright. When signing the coupon be sure to add your initials and print your name in block capitals.

Coupons must be addressed:—
FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 6,
"Cologne Post,"
A.P.O. S./40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 6.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov. 1st.
Closing date, Friday, Oct. 31st.

Aston Villa	v. Middlesboro
Bolton W.	v. Sunderland
Blackburn R.	v. Everton
Bradford C.	v. Arsenal
Notts C.	v. West Bromwich
West Ham	v. Birmingham
Huddersfield	v. Fulham
Swindon	v. Queens Park R.
Brentford	v. Plymouth A.
Brighton	v. Exeter C.
Hamilton A.	v. Falkirk
Morton	v. Celtic

I enter Football Competition No. 6 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

The Motascoota.

This handy little machine, which must some day become embarrassingly common, is still a great rarity in Cologne. I saw one yesterday at lunch-time near the Dom, and it attracted a great deal of attention.

Cutting it Fine.

Just how a man can meet all his requirements on a weekly expenditure of ten marks I do not know, but there is one—a Scotsman by the way,—who claims that his outlay does not exceed that amount.

A Lovely Oasis.

One of the prettiest sights in town at present is the little plot of green sward in front of the Dom Hotel. The chrysanthemum blooms make a splendid show, and I admire the scene even more than I did in summer-time.

"Mutter."

Have you noticed the picture postcard in some of the German shop windows depicting an old lady in profile, entitled "Mutter"? It is a reproduction of Whistler's celebrated painting of his mother.

A Rhineland Record.

Some remarkable sporting records have been established by units in Rhineland, and that of the 18th G.H.Q., M.T. Coy. compares favourably with any which have previously come to my notice. Out of a total of thirteen Soccer matches played, they have won twelve and drawn one, while they have the exceptionally good goal average of 74 for to 9 against.

Strange.

I came a cross a man yesterday, who, although he has been on the Rhine since January, was making his first visit to Bonn. This is all the more remarkable when I point out that for some time he was stationed half-way between Cologne and the university town.

Cut Down.

Tommy's discarded tunics and slacks are serving the purpose of "cut-me-downs." I noticed a smutty-faced youngster yesterday wearing a khaki outfit which bore ample evidence of reconstruction.

Wearing the Uniform.

At the same time many grown-ups are to be seen wearing military breeches and puttees. It is only natural that they should seize upon such warm garments, but really, I think they should be compelled to get them dyed.

A Rolling Story.

A friend attracted by the announcement of roller-skating in Cologne bought some skates. He put them to practical use and is now nursing his knee. The skates are for sale.

No Beer To-day.

"Sold out; no ale," reads a notice in a Cologne thoroughfare. Reminds one of the beer shortage at home some time ago.

No Profiteering.

When I was in Mulheim yesterday I saw all the windows of a shop were smashed. Enquiring what caused it I was told that a workman had objected to the price asked for some cheese and was fired out by the shopkeeper. Bystanders took the workman's part and promptly broke the profiteer's windows.

Fur Collars.

Apropos my note on fur collars a unique species of the German fop came my way last evening. He wore an abbreviated version of a British Warm, a huge fur collar which enveloped his ears and—a pair of white summer spats.

Wakes.

Our French friends in Cologne are particularly interested in the productions of the R.A.D.C. I happen to know that "Hindle Wakes" made a strong appeal to them, but it was some time before they could grasp the meaning of the North-country word for holidays.

A REMINISCENCE OF THE LEAVE CLUB "ARABIAN NIGHTS" BALL.

Birched.

The German schoolboy who stole a razor from a British soldier made the acquaintance of a few strokes of a birch-rod the other day I hear. That was the sentence of the Summary Court.

A Little Knowledge.

The other day in a Cologne mess, after a lot of discussion on various operas had been going on, a young "sub" chipped in. "I may be very ignorant," he said, "but can any one of you musical critics tell me who composed 'Tosca?'" Not one of them could.

Sense of Humour.

There has been some correspondence in our columns on the sense of humour. I notice that not a few of the audience watching "The New Sin" at the Deutsches were amused at Maximilian's unnatural mirth occasioned by the pending sacrificial death of his brother. Suppressed laughter, too, followed some of his most cruel and heartless sentences.

From A to Z.

I was chatting with a serious-minded soldier yesterday. He told me he had bought an encyclopaedia and intended reading right through it. "When I've finished I reckon I shall know something", he remarked.

Not a Scratch.

A 1914 veteran was talking big at the Leave Club the other day. "Yes", he said, "it's a fact, I came through all the great battles without a scratch." "What insect powder did you use, sonny"? queried a 1918 young soldier.

Roller skating.

Miss M. Wall, Guides Controller at the Leave Club, would like to see the correspondent who signed himself "Swerver" at that Club any morning between 10 and 12.30.

A Mixed Selection.

The N.A.C.B. is nothing if not enterprising. I notice that the department in the No. 2 Club, which was devoted to the sale of cigarettes, tobacco, chocolate and cigars now makes a feature of tooth brushes, paste, soap and a number of other essentials to a complete toilet.

Oriental Visitors.

Amongst the visitors to the N.A.C.B. club yesterday were several Japanese officers.

Making and Doing.

Another language peculiarity. An Englishman here on business was remarking that when spoken with German commercial men they always talk of "making" business, whereas we always say "doing."

Divisional Markings.

Although I believe that manufacturers were forbidden to copy divisional and other military markings it is noticeable that the German manufacturer is making a show of cigarette cases and match-box covers bearing Southern and Western Divisional signs. I see the Russian soldier is also catered for.

Not from the Zoo.

Passing along a well-known thoroughfare in Cologne the other evening, I was amazed to see, what I at first took to be a bear, walking along the pavement. On passing, it however, I found it was only a respectable citizen going home in an enormous musquash coat.

Be Wary.

Before you entrust yourself to the tender mercies of a German dentist you want to make quite sure of his qualifications. I have heard of several bad cases lately of bungling operations that have had serious results. But there are some first-class practitioners as well as the type to be avoided. In justice to the skilful, properly-qualified German this must be said.

Made in Germany.

I met an officer the other evening who had just returned from Solingen. He looked very martial for he had with him a sword which he had bought at one of the steel works. I don't know if it is generally known that before the war many of our Army swords were made at the German "Sheffield."

No Capital Needed.

I met an officer yesterday, who on being demobbed and despairing of raising capital for a business has hit on a novel notion which will, he thinks, be self-supporting. I hope I am not giving away his secret, but I believe he is going to get a lot of rats and then a number of cats. The cats will live on the rats and both will of course breed all the time. His revenue will be derived from the fur of the cats.

Watches that Strike.

Gold and silver watches that strike each quarter of an hour are not unknown in England, the price, as a rule, being fairly stiff. I see a couple in a Cologne watchmaker's just now, the prices being 1.800 and 1.200 marks respectively.

Any Business?

There is a café in a township not very far from Cologne which has come to be regarded as the meeting place of business men. Here as soon as a stranger appears he is made welcome and the question is "What have you to sell?"

RHINELANDER.

THE WORRIES OF HUBBY.

It's a long way to— — —

So "Dandelion" made a mess of things. We can picture the preliminaries to her trip to join her Algernon. Kisses, scrambles, chatter and one may add exasperated railway porters, and still more exasperated fellow travellers eager to force a passage through a blocked railway carriage doorway, around which is gathered many of "Dandelion's" relatives and friends. "Dandelion" displays the usual weaknesses of womanhood. I experience them day by day but sufficient unto the day thereof that she has lived to don the familiar blue and white brassard. Yet "Algernon" was very lax. It seems to me that he failed in his duties or did "Dandelion" neglect to read, mark, learn and inwardly digest his injunction and pointed instructions?

Shall I ever forget the nightmare? A superman was never called upon to play the part I did. A fortnight of undiluted nightmare and then it is "Gussy, dear, you are not vexed, are you?"

It is a moot question if in those early days before you, Mr. Editor, came to our assistance, I have sufficient energy left to be vexed.

Returning from leave with a verbal contract to have everything fixed up within ten days, each mail brought renewed complaints of delay. There was always someone's fat aunt in the background who was to sail the following day and whose papers had been wireless'd in 36 hours. Each letter brought particulars of a new record set up.

Did I want her to come? She didn't think I did. If so why didn't I get the papers through? Weren't the Permit people horrid? If we waited much longer the summer would be gone? Agnes knew of someone who knew someone else whose brother's wife had received the necessary— — — and so on.

Each mail saw me spurting in the direction of the Permit officer. Small wonder husbands were warned off the turf. Enquirers were tabooed and now in my sane moments I think rightly so. I can imagine those harrassed husbands. "A gentleman" was doubtless one of the crowd.

Dejected I spurred myself after the manner of bachelor days and survived. But my troubles did not end here. There came a time when fortified for what was to come, I boarded the Ostend train with its overflowing human freight travelling sardine fashion and had of that early morning wait in Brussels as the only chance of escaping from a suffocating wheezy atmosphere.

Ostend looked herself in the sunshine, but there was not time to appreciate it, for once again we indulged in wildcat chases.

Those boat sattelites are the saviours of many a dejected being. At least they are not slow to recognise the hubby escort.

"Best wait and see if she comes "Sir," he advised.

Fresh torture seized me. Yes, would she come? Frankly I had not thought of that. It was quite possible that I should have to spend a night in Ostend, a fact which was borne in upon me when a friendly A.P.M. asked were my telegrams were being addressed.

"Telegrams?" I asked. "Yes, we get all sorts of telegrams from wives hung up, cannot travel and half do not get delivered" he said. I gasped. Where would my telegrams be directed? I had not thought of that.

A hurried rush by devious routes in the direction of a certain department and I learnt from a very genial Belgian official that I was roughly three weeks late in making my application for sleeping berths. They were all booked up for that night, the next night in fact, and every other old night for weeks to come.

A hasty lunch and I began my vigil in company with several others who walked about to conceal their emotions. It seemed that that boat crawled into view. A fight reminiscent of the early hours of a cheap bargain sale served to liven things.

Slowly I saw the two seats for which I had schemed and plotted lost to me—and then all smiling, but about 555th to leave the ship was "Bluebell." Grabbing her by the hand and resisting her entreaties to be allowed to say "Goodbye" to a new-found acquaintance, I piloted her through the throng just in time to prevent a fight between my seat guard and a gentleman of Hebrew origin. Safely installed I resumed the chase. Had my injunctions for small portmanteaus been observed? Assured that they were "quite small" I resumed my vigil.

A negative report came from the hold and a personal inspection was of no avail. Just how they got into the Customs House I have never been able to understand, but I breathed freely once again and raced to join a moving train.

I never realised how near I came to—like "Dandelion"—making a mess of it. "Want a brassard?" asked our respected Permit Officer.

I felt like ordering a thousand—the nightmare had ended.

GUSSIE.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

If you were to win £12,000.

A PRIZE CONTEST.

As most readers know there is being run at Lille a big sweepstake on the Cambridgeshire. If all the tickets are sold the fortunate winner will receive the very handsome sum of TWELVE THOUSAND POUNDS STERLING. Now this winner may very well be someone in the Rhine Army. Suppose for instance, it were you who suddenly received this big access of wealth.

What would you do with it?

This problem has suggested a prize competition open to all our readers. Just write a letter to the "Editor, Post" A.P.O. S 40—not exceeding 250 words and say exactly what you would do with £12,000 if you came into possession of it.

We offer prizes 50, 20 and 10 marks respectively for the three best answers to the question. The reply you send may be as brief as you like, but it must not exceed the length of 250 words. Write your name and unit below your answer in block letters and let us hear from you not later than November 1st. The Editor's decision will of course be final in judging the merits of the answer to the question, "What would I do with £12.000 if I won it?"

FROM EVERYWHERE.

The Dole.—Nearly £37,000,000 has been paid in out-of-work donations.

Their Bar.— French Volunteers will wear a bar on the Allied War Medal.

The Only Way. — A steamer was scuttled in Cardiff docks to stop a fire.

Wants to be "Dry."—Ontario is in favour of prohibition.

Revelations.— Sir Percy Scott is to publish a book of memoirs.

Six Seconds.—A six-seconds earthquake is reported from Italy.

For a Penny.—A penny overcharge cost a Wirksworth inn keeper £15.

Children in Taxis.—Infants in arms are entitled to free taxi rides.

Lending to Us.—Argentina will probably make a loan to the Allies.

Herr Haase Dying.—Herr Haase is said to be dying.

For Verdun.—Verdun is to receive the Croix de Guerre.

Dearer Pudding—Christmas puddings will cost more this year than last.

Golden Fleece.—Wool of an old gold tint is being shewn at Kingston.

Bela Breaks Loose.—Bela Kun is reported to have escaped into Italy.

Good-bye Tarts.—A gas explosion at Barry wrecked a confectioners' shop.

No Sign.—Alarm at the moment is not warranted by influenza figures.

The First.—Lord French has become the first freeman of Wallasey.

Up-to-Date.—British doctors are to be lectured on war diseases such as trench fever.

No Ambassador.—The Allied Governments will be represented in Berlin by Chargés d'Affaires.

Terriers.—Sealyham terriers have become popular with sporting men for hunting the badger.

Legal Absurdity.—An invalid tricycle has been ruled to be a motor car for the purpose of licensing.

Soldier Masons.—A new Masonic Lodge for the benefit of ex-soldiers has been formed at Derby.

Tiny Victims.—As a result of German atrocities 8,000 Belgian children are in hospital or convalescent colonies.

A Find.—The missing part of the famous Cullinan diamond has been found on the Premier Mine, South Africa.

Butter as Ornament.—Table decorations fashioned out of butter are one of features of the London Dairy Show.

Turkey in Need.—Turkey has asked America for economic and financial assistance.

Monocles for Women.—The wearing of a single eyeglass is becoming popular among women in Society.

French Training.—Six hundred officers belonging to 23 foreign nations are to be trained by the French.

Disfranchised.—Demobilized Frenchmen who are still in hospital will not be able to vote at the coming elections.

A Second Woolwich.—The filling factory near Hereford has been taken over by Woolwich Arsenal.

Dearer at Home.—A suit of clothes made of pure woollen material costs in Berlin £6 to £7.

False.—The statement of the present strength of the German Army as 400,000 men is described as "ridiculously false."

British Loan.—The Belgian Government has taken a British Loan of £50,000,000 at 5 per cent.

Links.—British and French are negotiating for resumption of telephonic communication between the two countries.

Trust Foch.—Foch is to examine whether all the clauses of the Armistice have been carried out.

Small Change.—Ten million francs' worth of nickel money has been authorized by the French minister of Finance.

Generous. — The Royal Horticultural Society is sending seeds to the devastated areas of France.

The French Way.—Germans guilty of propaganda work in Alsace Lorraine have been arrested.

The Tides.—French scientists are studying the possibility of using the horse power of the tide.

Stolen.—Forty thousand railway carriages have been found in unoccupied Germany.

Prince as Tribal Chief.—The latest title of the Prince of Wales is that of Dawn of the Morning.

Represents U.S.A. Navy.—Captain Sexton is the American Naval Attache in London.

Improving President. — President Wilson's condition shows some improvement.

Cost of a Life.—Relatives of an Irish policeman who was shot have been awarded £1,500.

Stronger.— President Ebert says the position of the German Government to-day is stronger than ever.

Temptation.—It was stated at Chester that a clerk handled £5,000 a week. His wages were 35s.

Unfair Competition.—Kent farmers have protested against the dumping of Dutch agricultural produce.

Coal Hopes.—The Government hopes it will not be necessary to increase the price of coal.

"Winnie's" Hat.— The Basuto chiefs favour the high-crowned hat often worn by Mr. Winston Churchill.

Wait and See.—The scare about cutting down the Navy is said to have fizzled out.

Return of Arthur.—Mr. Arthur Bourchier has acquired a lease of the Strand Theatre.

On Pilgrimage.— Special trams will run on All Saints' Day in France for families who wish to visit soldiers' graves.

Women at Varsities.—Oxford is to obtain parliamentary sanction to the matriculation of women and their admission to degrees.

Black List.—The Board of Agriculture is publishing a list of borough authorities who have not co-operated in the rat hunt.

The Queen Dowager.—There is to be a large gathering of members of the Royal Family at Sandringham on Queen Alexandra's birthday.

FOR ALL W. O's AND SERGEANTS

The

"OLD DUTCH HOUSE"

W.O's AND SERGEANTS

• CLUB •

NEXT TO THE EWIGE LAMPE

KOMÖDIEN STRASSE

A comfortable and convenient meeting place for Warrant Officers & Sergeants and their wives. Superior canteen and bar. No membership. Open to all W. O's & Sergeants

N. A. C. B.

"SERVICE FOR SOLDIERS"

All Miniature Medals & Ribbons & Badges of all Regiments

British-Overseas — U.S.A. — for Officer Service and full dress. Strictly regulation. Finest mounting and quality.

Regimental Jewellery

Medals for Sports

J R Gaunt & Son Ld. Birmingham

and 60, Conduit Street, London W.1. List free.

KODAKS

New and Second-hand at keenest prices. Send for Lists. All Supplies by Post.

Wallace Heaton Ltd.

9, Change Alley, SHEFFIELD

NÜCHEL & HILLEBRECHT

COLOGNE, Glockengasse, corner Kreuzgasse close Schauspielhaus. Tel A 5566

UNIFORM MAKERS

MILITARY OUTFITS

Manufacture of all Uniforms for the Army of Occupation. First-class References

Binoculars

at original factory prices of the firms

ZEISS

GOERZ

LEITZ

PHOTO

Cameras — Plates

Roll-Films—Pack-Films

SLIDE RULES

MICROSCOPES

ZEISS-PUNKTAL-GLASSES

for single glasses and spectacles.

The best for the eyes.

OPTICAL Institute S. Goldfinger Limited

founded 1869

Hohestr. 88 COLOGNE Hohestr. 88

On parle français English spoken

AUNTS

read The Cologne Post. Send it daily to yours.

SHOOTS

October, 30, 1919, at 4 p.m. The three shooting districts of the Gemeinde HOENINGEN will be offered for lease for 6 years.

Auction in the public house WELTER in HOENINGEN near OEKOVEN. The three districts are 232.55, 234.20 and 142.44 hectares respectively.

Very good stock of hares and partridges. OEKOVEN is a station on the COLOGNE - M. GLADBACH line.

The shoot can be reached in one hour from the Station CAPELLEN.

Conditions for the lease will be forwarded on application and payment of 2 Mks. to:

Bürgermeisteramt WIDDESHOVEN,

VILLAU, Oct. 6, 1919. Hansen Gemeindevorsteher.

SPARKES HALL

303, REGENT ST. LONDON W.

4, AVENUE FRIEDLAND, PARIS and

ROOM 71, DISCH HOTEL

Brückenstr. COLOGNE

(Next Door to N.A.C.B. Canteen)

FIELD, HUNTING & POLO BOOTS

Hand-Sewn Field Boots, Civilian Boots, Shoes and Pumps made to order and delivered to Germany in 18 days or in England in 10 days.

EXPANDERS

with 4—10 detachable strands in rubber or steel-springs.

D. JANSEN

CÖLN, Columba Str. 1 (close to Breite Str.)

Photo House HARTSTEIN

Margaretenkloster (close to the Cathedral)

Cameras and all Articles for Amateur Photography

Developing and Copying within 24 hours

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O.S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

ONE MONTHS' subscription to the Cologne Post including postage for sale. Price 15 Marks. Have it sent home daily.

Second-hand cameras, mirror reflex cameras in great variety, cameras with Zeiss, Goerz, Voigtländer, Optic for sal cheap. Friemann & Wintz August Lang, Photo-Handlung, Cöln, Kölner Str. 94-1.

ENGLISH black retriever bitch. Good game hunter. Will catch hares. Price Mks. 750 or nearest offer. Pte. R. Kennedy, 49 Labour Coy., Bickendorf, Barracks.

EASTMAN KODAK 9×12 to sell. To be seen 1—1 p.m. and 7—9 p.m. Deutscher Ring 11.

WANTED.

PRISMATIC binoculars, Zeiss or Goerz, new or second-hand, 30 mm. 6. central focussing. Or special 40 mm O. S. For particulars & price to Box 200, Cologne Post, A.P.O.S. 40.

A nest of 4 Cylinders for a 15/35 Benz motor engine, 1914 model (known here as a 16/40) New preferred. Apply to Col. 63rd Bde., R.G.A., H.Q., Sculebusch.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 4.5. if poss. but not smaller than 6.8. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O.S. 40.

COLOGNE — Honeymooning — Educated young lady requires English conversation in exchange for German. Write to Frl. Kätne R. 13, Cologne Post.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

GERMAN, wife English, extensive commercial experience in England, France and Germany seeks responsible position. Free from January 1, possibly sooner. Reply A 3 9, Cologne Post, A.P.O.S. 40.

LOST.

FOX TERRIER. Yellow and white dog. On collar Capt. J. A. Brooke, Inniskilling Dragoons. Suitable reward offered. Any information concerning same forward to above.

TRADE.

GOOD AGENCY wanted by two pushing travellers Offers A 3 8 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

LANGUAGES.

FRENCH LADY desires to give French Lessons to English resident in Cologne. Terms. Mlle. Jouvenet c/o Mme Steinmulder, 19 Aachenerstr.

SPORT.

THE N.A.C.B. FOOTBALL CLUB requires Home and Away Matches for the first and second Elevens. All Dates open except November, 5th and 11th. Replies to:—Secretary, N.A.C.B., Football Club, N.A.C.B., Headquarters, Rhine Army.

OFFICER wants bold Dogs to hunt wild boar. Good Home. Box 215, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

FOUND

LEFT my mistake at "E" Mess, G.H.Q., in July, Gramaphone and Records. Claim, with description to Box 216, Cologne Post, A.P.O.S.40.

DON'T FORGET THIS

BEFORE YOU LEAVE FOR BLIGHTY.

THE COLOGNE POST

HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks. (From U.K. 2/9.)

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

PLEASE WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

15 Marks covers all British possessions.

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, October 25, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

ANOTHER FOOTBALL SKILL CONTEST GOING STRONG!

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

DON'T WAIT UNTIL THE PAPER STOPS COMING BEFORE RENEWING YOUR SUBSCRIPTION: DO IT NOW!

No. 179. COLOGNE, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

AMENDING THE ALIENS BILL.

CONFLICTING REPORTS OF OPERATIONS IN NORTH WEST RUSSIA.

FRENCH GENERAL TO BE PLACED ON TRIAL.

IN THE COMMONS.

OVERCOMING THE ADVERSE VOTE.

As the result of a conference between the Government and their supporters who voted against them, an arrangement has been reached by which the Government will move a new clause to the Restriction of Aliens Bill.

This clause will continue to France the rights secured her under the old convention and will at the same time satisfy the House of Commons that its apprehension of the possibility of a further extension of pilotage certificates to aliens is adequately guarded against.

FALL OF MAUBEUGE.

GENERAL FOURNIER AND OFFICERS TO BE TRIED.

M. Clemenceau, acting in his capacity of War Minister, has decided, as the result of a Committee of Inquiry presided over by General Guillaumat, that General Fournier, who was Governor of the fortress of Maubeuge at the outbreak of the war, and eight other officers who were under his command, shall be tried by court-martial on charges arising out of the surrender of the position to the Germans.

Maubeuge, which had a garrison of 30,000 men and contained an enormous quantity of war material, was surrendered unconditionally, it will be remembered, on September 7, 1914. The court-martial for the trial of the officers concerned will begin its sittings at the Palais de Justice on November 4. In the absence of the three Marshals of France, who are prevented for various reasons from undertaking the duty, the court will be presided over by General de Maistre.

Brigadier-General Fournier is accused of capitulation before the enemy. The charges are brought under Article 209 of the Military Code, which renders liable to the death penalty, with degradation, "any governor or commandant who is found guilty of having capitulated before the enemy, surrendered without having exhausted all the means of defence at his disposal a position entrusted to him, and without having done all that which duty and honour prescribed."

The eight officers who are accused in connection with the same matter are charged under Articles 210 and 213, which prescribe the penalties of death, degradation, and dismissal.

PAYMENT BY RESULTS.

OFFER REJECTED BY THE IRONFOUNDERS.

The Engineering and National Employers' Federation yesterday issued a long statement on the ironfounders' strike. After giving details of the origin of the strike, the Federation points out that the men since the beginning of the war have received advances averaging about 36s. 6d. a week, and that the new demand, in addition, would mean an advance far in excess of that given in any other industry.

The result of the persistent refusal of the foundrymen to allow any extension of the systems of payment by result has both curtailed production and has prevented the workmen increasing their wages, though the employers by agreement (1) guarantee time rates of all piecework; (2) guarantee that piecework prices shall be such as to enable a workman of average ability to earn not less than 33 1-3rd per cent. above his time rate; and (3) give every safeguard to the workman to provide against the cutting of piece prices. If the foundry workers withdrew the embargo on the increased production which would result from a system of payment by results, the extra earnings of their members would be very considerably in excess of the 15s. now asked for.

DIAZ RECEIVES FREEDOM OF LONDON.

The famous Italian, General Diaz, had a great reception on Friday in the City of London, where he was presented with the Freedom of the City and a sword of honour at the Guildhall. He afterwards lunched at the Mansion House. The large and distinguished gathering at the Guildhall included Mr. A. J. Balfour, Mr. Winston Churchill, General Rawlinson, General Ian Hamilton, General Cavan, General Monash, and the Italian Ambassador.

The Comrades of the Great War have 1,800 units established, including branches in South Africa, West Africa and South America.

RUSSIAN EBB AND FLOW.

BOLSHEVIST SUCCESS WITH TANKS.

A War Office Communiqué says that the Bolshevists have captured Pavlovsk with the aid of tanks. On the other hand the advance of Judenitch's troops in the Pskoff sector continues successfully. In South Russia General Wrangel's advance North of Tsaritsin continues. The 280th Soviet Division has been completely defeated. Three thousand prisoners are already reported and more are arriving. The Cossack advance to the West of the Khoper river is also progressing very successfully, two thousand prisoners having been taken. The enemy has also been defeated in the Bryansk region, abandoning eight guns and eight machine guns and losing several hundred prisoners. In the operations against Petlura, Denikin's forces have taken Bratislar and Tulekin with a thousand prisoners, including Petlura's Army Staff.

FIGHT FOR PETROGRAD.

OPERATIONS BY THE FLEET.

Chief interest in the fight for Petrograd now centres in the struggle on the coast. A Reuter telegram reports that the Esthonians have begun an offensive in the direction of Krasnaya Gorka, Southwest of Kronstadt, which is proceeding successfully. Present signs indicate that Krasnaya Gorka is being evacuated by the Bolshevists, and if this is so Petrograd may be expected to fall within a few days.

Lettish troops still hold the Riga front with the support of Esthonian armoured trains.

A Helsingfors paper says that the cannonade believed to be heard from Kronstadt was really from Krasnaya Gorka, which is being bombarded by a British Fleet. The same paper declares that owing to the lack of long-range guns neither British nor French vessels have hitherto bombarded Kronstadt.

All Russians able to bear arms have been mobilized in Finland by order of General Judenitch. Bolshevist newspapers announce the arrival of Trotzky in Petrograd to prepare the city's defence, All theatres are closed and the public are not allowed out after eight o'clock at night. The Bolshevists state that they intend to defend the city street by street and house by house. Destructive fires are reported to have broken out.

TIME-SAVING AT THE WAR OFFICE.

Certain branches of work at the War Office are to be either abandoned or postponed in favour of matters more urgent and of greater national importance. Amongst such classes of work are the great number of enquiries and minor complaints from the general public.

As far as possible correspondents will be informed that "the matter will receive attention," although "it may not be possible to deal with it at an early date." In other cases correspondents will be frankly told that "in consequence of the heavy and continous reduction which are being effected in the staff of the War Office in the interests of national economy, it will not be possible to deal with your letter."

AMERICAN COAL FOR EUROPE.

It is stated that arrangements have been concluded for the shipment of 6,000,000 tons of gas and steam coal from the United States to Continental ports.

A large number of steamers have lately been chartered to carry coals from the United States to Europe. Greek and Spanish vessels have been especially prominent in this trade. Certain British steamers have received licences for the work.

BRITISH GENERAL FOR LITHUANIAN ARMY.

Brigadier-General Crozier, who is on the retired list of the British Army, has reached Kowno. He has joined the General Staff of the Lithuanian Army with the rank of Major-General. Other officers of various armies will follow and will help General Crozier in his work of reorganisation.

BOLSHEVIST CLAIMS.

The latest wireless sent out by the Bolshevists claims that they have occupied Pavlovsk and Tsarkoe-selo, capturing many prisoners and much booty.

Mr. C. B. Fry is proposing to stand for Parliament as a Labour candidate.

PENNANT INQUIRY.

THE SUPPRESSED NAMES REVEALED.

On the resumption of the Pennant inquiry the names of various persons, which were suppressed the previous day, were revealed. The officer commanding at the Hurst Park camp, alluded to as "the Colonel," was Lieutenant Colonel (now plain Mr.) S. Janson, while Miss B was a Miss Glubb.

Mr. Turnbull, the registry clerk at Hurst Park, stated that although many names appeared in the W.R.A.F. absentee reports, no steps were ever taken against the delinquents. Once he entered Colonel Janson's room unexpectedly and found him and Miss Glubb sitting in a peculiar attitude on the table, articles which were usually on the table being on the floor. The Colonel ordered him out in violent tones. Turnbull admitted that he himself had been cautioned by the second in command in connection with an allegation of undue familiarity with girls, which he denied.

Mrs. Stuart testified that Miss Glubb took a room in her house at Wormwood Scrubbs in the spring of this year and some weeks later Lieut.-Colonel Janson, then commanding at Wormwood Scrubbs Camp, took another room at her house. On three successive nights Miss Glubb went to Colonel Janson's room and stayed there for hours. Witness then asked Miss Glubb to leave.

This closed the case for Miss Douglas Pennant.

Mr. Rigby Swift, for the Air Ministry, referred to the Chairman's comparison of the inquiry to an action for wrongful dismissal and contended that Miss Pennant had failed to make out her case. He declared there was ample justification for her dismissal. She had made the cruellest charges with a reckless disregard of and absence of evidence and he described her allegations as "hallucination run mad."

Lord Weir then began his evidence. He said that General Sir Godfrey Paine, Master General of Personnel, always described the women's department to him as a difficult and unsatisfactory department, and one that was not going at all well.

The inquiry was adjourned until Monday.

FRENCH MONEY DECREE.

VANDERBILT'S SMALL CHANGE CONFISCATED.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, the American millionaire, and several of his compatriots, on their arrival at Cherbourg from Paris, en route for America, were the first victims of the decree prohibiting travellers from carrying out with them from France more than 1,000 f. in French notes and more than 10 f. in small change. When embarking on board the Lapland, Mr. Vanderbilt declared to the Customs officials that he was in possession of more than 40,000 f. in notes. A local banker was asked to take charge of all the confiscated money, to the great discontent of the passengers.

NO STANDARD CLOTHING.

Sir Charles Sykes presided at a meeting of the Central Standard Clothing Committee on Thursday, when a resolution was passed that the Standard Clothing Scheme be wound up as on the 31st inst. A further resolution was adopted that in respect of the cloth and clothing still existent under the Scheme, it be an honourable obligation on the trade to sell at prices not exceeding those already fixed under the Scheme. The Central Committee appeal to the trade in the interest of the consuming public to meet this obligation.

In a statement the Committee appointed by the Wool Council to carry on the negotiations with the Board of Trade with reference to standard clothing, attribute the delay in carrying out the scheme to that Department.

DISTINGUISHED OFFICERS DEAD.

The death is announced of General Sir Robert MacGregor Stewart, G. C. B., Colonel Commandant of the Royal Artillery and Governor of Bermuda from 1904 to 1907, and Lieutenant of the Tower from 1907 to 1909.

Another distinguished officer, who died on Thursday, was Major-General Spencer William Scrase Dickins, C. B., who led the 28th (Scottish) Brigade at the Battle of Loos and subsequently commanded the 37th Division until he was invalided home in November 1917.

INCREASE OF DRUNKENNESS.

Replying in writing to a question in Parliament with regard to the number of convictions for drunkenness in August and September as compared with the number in the same months last year, Mr. Short states that the total convictions in England and Wales for this year in the two months mentioned were 5,364 and 6,123 respectively, as compared with 2,097 and 2,068 for the same months of 1918. The figures for Scotland were 1,212 and 1,706 in 1919, as compared with 484 and 374 in 1918.

TAXI-EXTORTIONER FINED.

Sidney Preston, taxi-cab driver, at Tottenham Police Court yesterday was fined 30s. for demanding £1 from a fare whom he had conveyed from Euston to Tottenham, the legal amount being 4s. 2d.

TRAIN WRECKERS.

ATTEMPT TO DERAIL A DOVER EXPRESS.

Active police inquiries are being made into a fiendish attempt to wreck the 10.23 passenger train from Dover to Deal on Thursday night. Wooden sleepers had apparently been placed on the rails, and the train dashed into the obstruction with such force that they became firmly fixed to the engine's guard irons. The journey had to be completed with a sleeper still fixed there. No mention is made of any casualties.

ARMY RIDING.

NEW METHODS OF INSTRUCTION ADVOCATED.

Brigadier-General John Vaughan, commanding Aldershot Cavalry Brigade, took the chair at the Royal United Service Institution, on the occasion of the reading of a paper by Lieutenant-Colonel M. F. McTaggart, 5th Lancers, on "Instruction in Equitation." The lecturer contended that greater detail was required in our riding instructions. He was of opinion that in training the recruit the first principle was to make riding as attractive as possible; hence early lessons should be of short duration, and only carried out at a walk. Moreover, he would like to see it put down as a hard-and-fast rule that in training both the young rider and the young horse they should never be asked to perform anything which they could not do with ease and certainty. Riding without stirrups in the elementary stage he looked upon as anathema, and he felt sure that slowly this idea would gain ground.

He would summarise the texts he was preaching on, because he thought they constituted the fundamental principles of good instruction: Never ask pupils to perform what they cannot do with ease and certainty; to see that anticipated propulsion is previously counteracted by either shortening the stirrup or the reins, or both; to teach all men to blame themselves before blaming the horse; to learn to criticise your own teaching before you blame the pupil; and to see that the stirrup leathers are perpendicular

MASQUERADED AS COLONEL.

At Bow-street Police Court John Henry Taylor, 38, diamond dealer and betting commission agent, of St. George's-avenue, Tufnell Park, was sentenced by Mr. Graham Campbell to six weeks' imprisonment in the second division for wearing the uniform of a lieutenant-colonel of the General Staff with a number of military decorations without authority.

Detective-sergeant Gillard stated that the defendant had been a sergeant in the R.A.S.C.

The defendant pleaded "Guilty," but denied that he had any fraudulent intention. He said that he simply masqueraded as a colonel out of foolish vanity and "swank."

TO RING UP AMERICA.

Professor J. A. Fleming, lecturing on wireless telephony at University College last night, said he confidently looked forward to the time when a London business man would be able to ring up New York and speak to his agent there with as much ease as he now rang up Edinburgh or Glasgow.

The Marconi Company had experimented to determine how little power could be used for speech transmission, and with current developed by a three and a half h.p. motor, speech was quite good enough to be regularly understood within that distance.

EXECUTION OF LENOIR.

The French traitor Lenoir, who was condemned to death on the 8th May for intelligence with the enemy, was shot shortly after seven on Friday morning at Vincennes, his appeal having been refused. The condemned man had to be supported by gendarmes on the way to the execution post.

THANET BY-ELECTION.

Mr. Esmond Harmsworth, having undertaken to support the Coalition Government, only reserving the right to criticise the Government on the waste of public money, has been adopted by the Isle of Thanet Conservative Association as the Conservative candidate. Sir Walter de Frece was the alternative nominee.

EXPENSIVE POOR RELIEF.

Examination of the accounts of the Lambeth Board of Guardians shows that last year, while only £79,505 was spent on indoor maintenance and outdoor relief, £72,010 was expended on salaries and other establishment charges.

LADY ASTOR ADOPTED AS CANDIDATE.

Plymouth Conservatives yesterday decided to invite Lady Astor to contest the Sutton Division of Plymouth as Coalition Unionist-Candidate. The seat is vacant owing to her husband's succession to the Peerage.

PENNY A PAIR BOOTS.

SALE OF SURPLUS ARMY STOCK.

The sale of surplus army boots at the White City on Friday included over half a million pairs, of which 229,457 pairs were in one lot, although an order had been issued to give small purchasers the opportunity of buying.

Certain categories were offered in twenty-fives and fifties, but the lots were of the most heterogeneous character, including not only men's and women's boots and shoes, but also children's and even infants'; also running shoes, football boots, and women's satin shoes. How these came to be included in Army surplus stores is not explained, although an explanation seems to be needed.

Big lots of army boots, absolutely unwearable but some repairable, were sold for a penny a pair. Even good saleable boots fetched only from three to six shillings a pair, a tremendous drop as compared with the average of 6s. 9d. to 11s. 9d. obtained for corresponding lots only a few days ago.

FLIGHT TO AUSTRALIA.

AVIATORS DELAYED BY FOG.

Some anxiety has been entertained in England concerning Captain Matthews and Sergeant Kay, who left Hounslow on Tuesday last at noon on the first stage of their attempt to fly to Australia in a Sopwith-Rolls-Royce aeroplane.

As a simple matter of fact, Captain Matthews is still at Merheim, his first descent from Hounslow. He is held up by fog, and will proceed as soon as conditions are favourable.

HIGH BORN THIEF.

Described as "a lady of high birth," Mary Theresa Greenaway, artist, at the London Sessions yesterday, was sentenced to nine months in the second division for stealing articles of jewellery.

Detective Harman stated that the woman had confessed to over seventy similar cases. Her method was to answer advertisements for situations, and when shown into the dining or sitting room to steal anything she could lay her hands on. She immediately realised on the articles stolen by selling them at jewellers' or second-hand dealers' shops. "She is a lady of high birth" (declared the detective). "and at the age of fifteen was sent to Australia, where she became an actress." She subsequently married an actor, but their marriage turned out a most unhappy one. On returning to England she carried on business in a small way, doing embroidery work. Then she had drifted into a life of crime.

WHAT IS A CAPON?

Does "capon" come within the meaning of the terms "cockerel, pullet, cock, or hen," which are found in the Poultry and Game Prices Order, 1918? The Exeter justices said a short time ago that it did not, and that therefore Mrs. Brazier was within her right when she charged another poultry dealer named White 14s. 7d. instead of 13s. for a capon. The Lord Chief Justice and Justices Avory and Sankey have decided that the Exeter magistrates were in the wrong.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS SUNDAY.

All the churches in the Kingdom are being asked by the League of Nations Union to set aside Sunday, November 9, as a day of preparation, commemoration, and thanksgiving that the national celebration of November 11, as the League of Nations Day, may be conducted "in a spirit of chastened thankfulness for the opportunity of world peace offered by the League of Nations."

PROFITEERS TAKE FRIGHT.

A grocer told the Yarmouth Profiteering Tribunal that his invoices now showed extraordinary changes. The profiteering committees, he said, are frightening wholesalers and importers. Prices have been reduced by thirty-five per cen., on a dozen different articles. One eight teen-penny article had actually been reduced to eightpence a pound.

DONNINGTON HALL CLOSED.

What was known as the German Internment Camp de Luxe, Donnington Hall, Leicestershire, was vacated on Thursday, when 300 German officers with their 117 servants left for Hull on their way home.

NOT HOME, SWEET HOME.

Nearly five hundred deported Germans arrived at Plymouth from South-West Africa yesterday on the ex-German liner Lucie Woermann. The majority of them were as loth to return to Germany as six hundred others who arrived from Australia aboard the Rio Negro.

OLIVER TWISTERS.

Among a series of new demands adopted at a special meeting of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen held at Leeds on Friday was one for 7s 6d per week special rent allowance, payable in addition to wages.

RISE IN SILVER.

MAY LEAD TO THE ADOPTION OF NICKEL COINAGE.

Yesterday the price of silver showed a further rise of one-eighth of a penny to 5s. 3½d. an ounce, and thus reached within 2¼ of the figure at which it will begin to pay to melt down our silver coins.

As soon as it exceeds 5s. 6d. an ounce—not an unlikely event in view of the persistent rise shown for some time—the cost of the minting will have exceeded the face value of the coins and the question of using another kind of metal or of issuing paper notes will have to be considered.

"The fall in the world's production of silver since 1914," says a City of London authority," has not been nearly so important a factor in the persistent rise in price as that of the heavy demand for the metal by India and China, the former country particularly. China denuded herself of silver during the war to help India over her difficulties, and is now a keen buyer.

"The recent record prices of silver, however, are really due to the forced purchases in the past few years by the Indian Government to meet the local demand for currency purposes, because the natives will not be satisfied with any other form of metallic currency than that to which they have been accustomed for ages past. They have prospered also during the war, and great quantities of rupees have been turned into jewellery."

Another City authority, discussing the possibility of the adoption by this country of nickel coinage, pointed out that nickel has proved to be most successful in the past in Belgium and Germany, and its use is now being extended in France.

A director of the Mint declares that the shortage is unreal and is due to a baseless public panic. He refuses to believe that silver coinage has been smuggled out of the country or melted down in sufficient quantities to have any influence on circulation.

LETTERS FROM POILUS.

NATIONAL COLLECTION TO BE FORMED.

A Bill has been introduced into the French Senate asking that the State should undertake to collect some of the most striking letters written by French soldiers during the war, which would form a permanent record of every part of the battlefield and every phase of fighting. Generals, war correspondents and members of the Government have all had their turn, but the Poilu has not yet been given a chance to describe the war. Such a collection would of course include letters from all ranks, of all stations and callings in civil life, from men killed in war as well as those still living.

OFFICER BREAKS ARREST.

An unprecedented incident occurred at Aldershot on Wednesday at a General Court-Martial. An officer had been summoned before the Court, but when his name was called there was no reponse, and it was found subsequently that he had broken close arrest and escaped from his guard.

The officer concerned was Lieutenant Harkin, of the King's Liverpool Regiment.

Brevet-Colonel A. D. McPherson, President of the Court, dismissed the members until such time as the prisoner is recaptured.

DIRECT SEA ROUTE TO POLAND.

The Royal Mail Steamer Packet Company announces the inauguration of a service passenger and cargo steamers between Southampton and the new Republic of Poland. The boats will call at Rotterdam, Bremen, Hamburg and Copenhagen on the way to Danzig and make the same calls on the return journey. The steamer Barima makes the first trip next month.

NOBEL PEACE PRIZE.

The Norwegian Mercantile Shipping Gazette proposes that the Nobel Peace Prize be given to Viscount Grey, "who has done more for the world's peace than any man now living."

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

An average business turnover was effected yesterday, the defeat of the Government having no effect on a cheerful House. Investments were considerably harder, attributed to Lord Milner's speech on the national financial position. Foreign Bonds were firm, except Mexicans, which were weak. Disappointed holders were selling owing to delay in the resumption of interest payments. Argentines were in renewed demand, caused by the optimistic trade outlook together with excellent crop prospects. Russians were also in better demand. Textiles were buoyant; further sales at big prices to various syndicates being reported. The leading oil shares, notably Burmahs, substantially advanced. Diamonds opened with a further improvement but weakened later on profit taking. Rubbers were hardening, especially in investment descriptions, and the outlook in this trade is decidedly healthy. Marconis were active. The rise is said to be in connection with the development of an electrical undertaking and also a report of the sale of American interests to the General Electric Company of New York.

FLIGHTS LTD.
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Representative Mr. A.J.R. LEE is at OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

Has recently returned from London with a stock of hosiery & a new selection of patterns for mufti wear. Officers requiring shirts etc. for the winter, can now be supplied from stock.

SPARKES HALL
308 REGENT ST. LONDON Wand.

4. AVENUE FRIEDLAND, Paris
ROOM 71, DISCH HOTEL
Brückenstr. COLOGNE
(Next Door to N.A.C.B. Canteen)

FIELD, HUNTING & POLO BOOTS

Hand-Sewn Field Boots, Civilian Boots, Shoes and Pumps made to order and delivered to Germany in 18 days or in England in 10 days.

KODAKS
New and Second-hand at keenest prices. Send for Lists. All Supplies by Post.
Wallace Heaton Ltd
Incorporating Newnes
19, Change Alley, SHEFFIELD

ODEON COLOGNE
HOHESTRASSE 9
Variety performance from 7-10.45 p.m.

Rosenhof
COLOGNE, Hohestrasse 9.
5 o'clock Tea and evening entertainment. From 8.00 till 10.45 p.m. continous performance. Renowned singers, dancers and reciters. First Class House for Officers and Civilians only.

Football
Sunday 26th October 1919, 2.30 p.m.
Cologne Ballspielclub versus
Bonn Rasenspieler
First-class Championship
on the grounds behind Klettenbergpark.
Electric car No. 20.

Sound Import and Shipping firm in Saxony, well connected and introduced to the leading wholesale and manufacturing firms in the Textile line, wish to act as REPRESENTATIVES for first class manufacturers. Preference given to Silk, Cotton goods, Cloth, Linen, Yarns etc.
Apply to A 297 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

SIB MÜLLER
Leather - Travelling - Articles
COLOGNE
Corner Andreaskloster
opposite the Officer's Club
(Ewige Lampe)
undertakes all repairs.

PHOTO SHOP
FRANZ MÜLLER
COLOGNE, Brückenstr. 7
Tel. A 6173
The oldest shop for amateur photography in Cologne
ENGLISH EXPOMETERS
Speciality: All photograghic work and repairs are carefully executed and promptly attended tow.

Paula Desborough
Is leaving Cologne on Nov. 1st for a short holiday in London.

She will be resuming lessons in ballroom dancing on Wednesday Nov. 12th.

Appointments may now be made with her for lessons on or after that date at:

The KAISER WILHELM HOTEL
Kaiser Wilhelm Ring
or by letter to Box 131, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40. Telephone A 4325.

Munchener Beerhalls
Lunapark in Zoological Gardens
Great International Boxing Tournament.
Sunday Oct. 26th 1919.
To-day at 7.30 p.m.

CHALLENGE MATCH. 10 rounds 2 minutes.

Jack Sharpe, Bantam-weight Champion South Scotland, 120 pounds.	v.	Fritz Jungwers, Berlin. Lightweight Champion of the Navy 118 pounds.
Willi Spörl, Munich Lightweight Champion of Bavaria. 122 pounds.	v.	Otto Bloch, Berlin. 122 pounds.
Hans Kabelitz, Berlin 136 pounds.	v.	Hans Hermann, Berlin. 140 pounds.

Extra Fight.
Box Office opens and Concert begins at 6 p.m.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE:
From Nov. 3rd the Deutsches Theatre performances will commence at 6 p.m. nightly, excepting Wednesdays and Fridays, when they will begin at 8 p.m.

ALL AMUSEMENTS START AT 6 p.m. THIS WEEK

Deutsches Theatre, Bismarckstrasse.

SPECIAL SUNDAY CONCERTS
Sunday, Oct. 26th at 6 p.m.
Concert by
THE BAND OF THE INNISKILLING DRAGOONS
(By kind permission of Col. B. Vincent C.B., C.M.G., Commanding)
Bandmaster: G. ADAMS
Vocalists:
Miss CLARA FORMEDGE
Cpl. HAROLD WALTERS
Accompanist: Pte. E. C. HOSIER
Book at the Theatre or Amusements Office

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.
At 6 p.m. Monday and during the week
The Y.M.C.A. presents
A GILBERT AND SULLIVAN CONCERT PARTY
including
Miss Mary Hilliard. Soprano
Albert Hall Concerts Last Season
Miss Aimée Sivergold. Contralto
D' Oyly Carte Principal Opera Co.
Miss Gwendolyn Teagle. Violinist
8 times in France during the war with Lena Ashwell Parties
Miss Nora Drake.
Accompanist and songs at the piano
Mr. Clay Thomas.
The well known London Baritone
Mr. Patric Playfair.
The celebrated Conjyurer

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
At 6 p.m. Monday, October 27th, and during the week
The London Division presents
"THE CRUMPS"
in a complete change of programme

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA.
32 Komödienstrasse
At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures
Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.
Grand Orchestra and Pictures.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA. Hohe Strasse
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS,
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

Church of England Services in Cologne.

1.—THE MILITARY CHURCH
57 Schildergasse, (Turning off Hohe Str).
Holy Comm. 8 a.m., 11-30 a.m. & 7 p.m.
Morning Service 10-30 a.m.
Evening Service, 6 p.m.
Holy Comm. at 8 a.m., on Tuesday, S. Simons and S. Judés Day, on Wednesday, on Saturday, all Saints Day.

2.—THE CHURCH ARMY CHAPEL
Hotel du Nord.
Sundays: Holy Communion, 8 a.m.

Scottish Churches and English Free Churches.

THE MILITARY CHURCH.
6 Filzengraben (Turning off Heumarkt.)
Sunday, 26th October
11 a.m. and 6 p.m.
Preacher: Rev. G. A. SEATH, C. F. (Garrison Chaplain).
Cars 6, 7, 11, 18 and 20.

Welsh Service 2-30 p.m. in Y.M.C.A. Central.

British Empire LEAVE CLUB
Hon. Dir. Gen. Miss Decima Moore, C.B.E.

ENTERTAINMENTS

TO NIGHT.
SPECIAL CINEMA
at 6.30 p. m. ADMISSION FREE.
PROGRAMME for the WEEK.
Monday 27th Oct.—PRACTICE DANCE.
Tuesday 28th Oct.—By special request. EXHIBITION of CLASS CAL DANCES by Mlle. LAURE AMAN and Mlle. BRANTSKI.
Songs by Miss MARJORIE MOORE, Miss JAMIESON, Major GREENLEES and Lt. MEARNS.
Wednesday 29th Oct.—DANCE, with BAND of the 15th HAMPSHIRE REGIMENT.
Thursday 30th Oct.—WHIST DRIVE.
Friday 31th Oct.—7 p.m. in the Music Room. Col. GORE-BROWN, on THE OPERA, illustrated on the piano.
CONTINUOUS CINEMA.
Saturday 1st Nov.:—DANCE.
CINEMA
EVERY DAY. From 2.30 p.m.
Admission 2 Marks.

TO-MORROW (Monday) EVENING
at
COLOGNE CENTRAL Y.M.C.A.
(44, Friesenstrasse.)
LORELY HALL. — 6.30. Chamber Concert Y.M.C.A. Staff and Others.
GREAT HALL. — 6.30 to 9.30. Cinema and Orchestra.
The Dancing Classes for British Children are held every Tuesday and Thursday in the Lorely Hall at 11 a.m.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 653. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.

Sunday, October 26, 1919.

THE NEW IDEAL.

We are far removed from Kipling's illiterate soldier, and the Great War has raised the Army to a mental standard never before equalled.

The fighting spirit alone remains unchanged, and Tommy of to-day is only separated by time from his peers of old, who fought at Agincourt and Crecy.

In those dark days of 1914, the golden youth of Britain responded with a gallantry beyond compare, men of every grade and class, aristocrat and plebeian, rallied to the colours, and out of that vast throng, was born the first fruits of a a new ideal, which, if rightly directed, will yet place our country higher in the scale of civilisation than ever she was before.

Was there ever such a re-adjustment of values? People as far apart socially as the poles became on friendly terms. My Lady whose son was fighting in Flanders felt a kinship she had never known before with the humblest charwoman. Theirs was a kindred maternity suffering equally in those dark days of strife and tragedy.

Out in France and Flanders all types of men faced "Hell" who otherwise would never have come together or rubbed shoulders. The new ideal was self sacrifice and service; and was embodied in a thousand ways by batman and Colonel, dustman and Duke. It is this ideal that is needed to shape the Britain of the future.

Now that Peace is proclaimed, will it survive? Or shall we see the old evil spirit of caste raise its head again. Shall we find all sections pulling together as comrades just as they did in trench and battery.

The price has been paid in rivers of blood and oceans of tears, and all should realise that it is up to them to maintain and hold fast this spirit of self sacrifice and service. Our boys fought that a better world might result. Shall this sacrifice of their lives be in vain? There are ominous signs which point to this possibility. Too many are mindful only of personal gain. They are drifting back to the old sordid grooves, the miserable snobbery and grasping, mercenary aims.

War has left its aftermath and if we are not careful those who still remain to carry on will have to fight on keenly against a return of the old narrow enmity between the classes—the old abuses and crimes against civilization.

There is much work to do before our country can claim to be an example to the rest of Christendom. Most of the ills which are so apparent to-day are the result of gross selfishness and the greed of individual vested interests.

To make a better Britain, the ideal of comradeship, which brought us through the war victorious must be fostered.

Our country, impoverished by the struggle, stands to-day on the threshold of a new era. The issue is in the hands of all of us.

A TOUCH OF NATURE.

Editor's Note. The Author's constant parenthetic remarks are intended merely to stimulate the journalistic market as regards some of his less successful productions, and we trust that their inclusion will in no way detract from the literary beauty of the main dissertation

The western sky was imperceptibly changing its hue and preparing a luxurious oasis for the autocrat of Day; ("Metaphors. Their use and abuse" A striking essay by Horatio Ricardo Plugg. 3/6 nett.) the steely blue dissolved gradually into a warm, attractive pink — deepening, in places, into a rich carmine, ("Colours, and their Mixing" by Horatio Plugg. A handy text-book for the artist and the house decorater. 2/6 nett. Of all book sellers.) whilst stray yellow rays blended pleasantly with that mysterious purple of closing day which revealed itself in the infinitive. ("The Split-Infinitive—its Pitfalls", by H. R. Plugg. A volume for the Grammarian. 12½ nett.)

Presently, a delicious breeze sprang up, laden with delicate perfume from the blossoming countryside, and seemed to emanate from the very bosom of the languid sky—where, surrounded by silent splendour, the sun, with apparent reluctancy, was sinking slowly beyond the horizon.

The trees and foliage, with that peculiar note of sadness which betokens eventide, whispered softly in the gentle zephyrs.

Two lovers had wandered into the view, and, silhouetted against the gorgeousness of a summer sunset, tarried awhile to appreciate the magnificence and bounteousness of Nature. ("Silhouettes, or Shadowgraphy", an amusing game for old and young. Read Horatio Ricardo Plugg's book on Parlour Pastimes. 9d. nett. Of all toyshops, etc.)

Soon, the clear tuneful voice of the maiden was heard—the first notes of a dainty folk melody.

The strong man knelt on the grassy bank and listened in rhapsody. ("Songs, and their Singers" Mr. Plugg's remarkable treatise at reduced price: 6½d. Formerly 15/-. Sold everywhere.)

In the now rapidly-waning twilight the damsel's dulcet dissemination harmonized subtly with the sighing of the lofty oaks. ("How to Distinguish a Tree by its size" by a well-known expert. 17d. each; 10/- per gross. Of all newsagents, or direct from publishers.)

Still the song continued; and the swain followed intently every inflection of the bell-like tones with a growing yearning to synchronize his rustic soul with the beautiful thoughts discoursed musically by the other.

At last he rose, gazing earnestly at his fair companion; then as the final stanza approached, the girlish voice swelled loud and sweet over the dim meadows—and the culminating note echoed and re-echoed mystically into the far. ("Into the Far." Read the grand serial of that name by Horatio Ricardo Plugg. First instalment in the next issue of "Mammas' Monthly." Order your copy in advance.)

The full moon emerged from behind some floating cloud as if simulating the artificiality of the stage, ("What's On!" A review of current amusements, by H.R. Plugg. Of all Smith's bookstalls. 2d. each. Fits pocket.) and the lover, with fluttering heart, gently kissed the small white hand of his lady love. ("One Hundred Best Jokes About Love," compiled by Mr. Horatio R. Plugg. Invaluable to touring comedians. 1/6d. nett.)

MORE WAR REVELATIONS.

The Truth About No. 5 Platoon.

(Being an extract from the sort of review we may expect if the fashion of writing candid war-histories spreads downwards.)

In his new book, "Four Years of It," the author, Corporal Bloggins, of "B" Company, 20th Loamshire Battalion, has given us a most illuminating story of the Great War. His style is terse and lucid, and his meaning is nearly always unmistakable.

The author is quite aware that he is risking censure by his outspoken criticism of other men in No. 5 Platoon, but, as he aptly remarks in a very candid preface, he has now received his gratuity, so there is no longer any need to keep silence. Once or twice he even feels it his duty to cast his net of criticism wider, and in Chapter VI. his remarks on the Colonel's dispositions for the attack at Arras are very instructive. The Colonel, it seems, put "B" Company on the left flank, which was known to be a heavily-shelled area. Corporal Bloggins is justifiably bitter about this, and the matter seems to us to call for some explanation.

At last we get the full story of the author's famous argument with the Regimental Sergeant-Major in 1917. The immediate result of this at the time was that Corporal Bloggins was temporarily reduced to the ranks; but from his account of it here he seems to have had distinctly the best of the argument. It would not be fair to form a final judgment until we get the Sergeant-Major's version of this incident—and we understand that he will deal with it in his forthcoming volume, "The Recent Quarrel and my Share in it."

Another very intriguing passage deals with the Battle of Messines. The incident where the author told his platoon sergeant to "shut his mouth," as he (the author) wished to hear the mines go up, is told with dramatic vigour. We think ourselves that Corporal Bloggins was justified. Platoon-sergeants have no right to be eating biscuits at such a moment.

But the whole book is full of pointed criticism and snappy anecdote and will well repay reading, as the criticism is often helpful both for officers and men. For instance, the author makes legitimate complaint of his having to go up the line three nights in succession in January, 1918, with a working-party. There certainly seems scope here for an inquiry. It is not as though the weather was at all fine at that time; on the contrary, it was distinctly inclement.

But perhaps the chief charm of this book is its open and racy description of the personalities and inner life of No. 5 Platoon. Libellous it may be, but it has the supreme merits of truthfulness and simplicity. The passion of Private Sikes for getting up a game of poker on pay-day and his singular good luck at all card games; the peculiar good fortune of Corporal Smith, a brother of the well-known Quartermaster-Sergeant, in the matter of blankets when in rest billets; the fierce arguments as to who was actually nearest when a 'Minnie' dropped in the trench in March, 1917; and the homely joys of the estaminet at Bully-Grenay—all these are set down with a fine impartial vigour.

The only regret we have in reading this book is that the author is so interested in the doings of No. 5 Platoon that he only gives a line or two to the action in which he captured a German machine-gun and won his Military Medal. But even as it is, the book is bound to give rise to much discussion and may even lead to several letters in our columns from the many soldiers mentioned in its pages. We hope so.

From "Punch."

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

THE SENSE OF HUMOUR.

Sir,—The fires of wrath have descended upon a more or less innocent head.

I suggested that E.A.D. was lacking not in a sense of humour, which is a broad term, but in humorous inspiration: and while agreeing with his arguments to a certain point, I still contend that it is an utter impossibility to explain the differences between the English sense of humour and the German by drawing parallels between the two.

Both are moulded by environment, training and education, and they are cast in different moulds. We believe that "All work, etc." Therefore Jack is taught to play. That is how he learns to laugh.

I am afraid E.A.D. entered upon rather a big subject, and if he wishes to continue the discussion, how is he going to avoid metaphysical argument?

Personally I would rather trust to my humorous inspiration to solve the difficulty and remain for ever

LAUGHABLE.

WILL WAR CEASE?

Sir,—Your correspondent G.H.E. is evidently an incurable optimist. If he will look around him he will see that in spite of Peace being signed, there is no real peace in the word at all.

If anything, the strife and turmoil are greater than before. Is there not ample evidence in the East?

And though in some countries it may not be a war with martial weapons, the fighting goes on. There is just as much ill-feeling between nations and classes, and the far-seeing among us can plainly see that war is by no means killed—not even stifled.

The nations are just as full of bitter rivalry as before. It is the human instinct to fight. The nation that hasn't the combative spirit is decadent. All life is a struggle, and the wars of commerce are as deadly and even more unscrupulous than those conducted by shot and shell.

I do not believe the precious League of Nations will be one whit more useful than that other farce, the old Hague Conference. I may not be an optimist like G.H.E., but I think I know what human nature is and always has been.

K. B.

THE PLAYS SOME PEOPLE WANT.

Sir,—When your correspondent "Durham Lad" writes about leaving the R.A.D.C. performances "depressed and puzzled" I think he hits the right nail on the head.

I don't agree that in order to be educated and enlightened it is necessary to have plays of morbid tendency, which either leave a nasty taste or make one utterly perplexed when the curtain descends.

You can teach the greatest moral lessons with bright stirring wholesale drama. Most of us like striking situations, incident and excitement in a play, and though some of the suggestions made go too far in the other extreme, on the whole I can't help feeling they express the views and tastes of the great majority.

Take plays like "The Christian", "The Sign of the Cross", or "The Rosary" for instance. Are they not elevating and yet appealing to popular taste? E.V.

Sir,—That "One of the Gods" cannot understand "Damaged Goods" and "Strife" is all the more reason why he should see such plays and so improve his knowledge of English.

To say that Brieux, Galsworthy and Bernard Shaw are too ambitious for the R.A.D.C. is both uncomplimentary and untrue. A better rendering of "Strife," "Man & Superman," "You never can Tell," etc., could not be wished for, even by the playwrights themselves.

The crowded houses at the Deutsches Theatre are a sufficient answer to "One of the Gods" suggestion. CORPORAL.

A SPORTY DOG.

Sir,—I am the owner of a dog that goes hunting on its own accord and sometimes kills a hare while out walking about the country in Rhineland. Three Germans carrying sporting guns threatened to shoot it the other day.

Not knowing anything about the game laws of this country and not being able to stop the dog from chasing hares, I should like to know whether it would be legal for any German to shoot it.

If any readers can enlighten, it would assist me in knowing what to do should I get threatened by Germans again.

D.W.J.

BOXING FILMS.

Sir,—I am surprised and pained to think that an institution like the Y.M.C.A., ostensibly existing for elevating the mind as well as catering for our creature comforts, should sink so low as to encourage the brutal "sport" of fighting, by showing films of recent pugilistic encounters, as I understand they are doing in Cologne.

There was a time when prizes fighting was tabooed by all decent people, but now it is coming back into favour; and to think that a so-called Christian organization should encourage anything so low and degrading is repulsive to me.

To fight our fellow-men except in cases of sheer necessity such as a war that imperils our country is quite wrong. Prize-fighting—no matter by what pretty name you call it—is bad. It breeds feelings we should try to rise superior to.

I hope it won't be long before the Y.M.C.A. realises the error of its ways.

ANTI-BOX

THE SOLDIERS' POWER.

Sir,—I also hope that the soldiers who have gone back to civil life are not being absorbed into the mass which at home continues in the old ruts, and because they have no knowledge of anything better are content to jog along as their fathers did before them.

We, who have been in the Army and have seen something of life outside our own little island and the way the Army looks at things in a less narrow and more commonsense way than the average civilian at home, have a great responsibility.

If we allow this knowledge to be wasted and don't do our very best to educate others so that our beloved country can emerge from its present out-of-date habits and be a better place to live in, then I say we shall be guilty of a great neglect of duty.

Five million men who have had the advantage of Army life can do wonders in shaping public opinion at home, if they only have the will. We ought really to make our influence felt in the future government of England. W.J.J

EYES AND NO EYES.

Sir,—What are all these things that M.A. sees in Germany and thinks are worth adopting in England?

I have been here six months now, and though I suppose I have kept my eyes open as much as anyone and have been learning German so as to be able to understand better the life and habits of those among whom we live, I cannot say that much impresses me.

Although it is the fashion to belittle Britain and say she is behind the times, I won't believe it.

Are we behind the German in railways or trams, postal facilities and telephones; is our drainage and sanitary work generally inferior; are our houses less comfortable, our shops less well stocked, our manners or our morals not so good?

Where are all these marvellous inventions and improvements that M.A. talks about?

Let him put his cards on the table and tell us what they are in detail. That would be more useful than vague assertions without proof. ANGLIA.

WANTED—AN ALARM.

Sir,—Replying to G.W.H.P. I think that were a bell used on the lines he suggests it would prove a great boon, not only to the audience, but to the artistes, themselves. It would also abolish the unpleasantness of people pushing in after the act has commenced.

This system is adopted at the Opera House with marked success, giving the audience ample warning and thus enabling them to return to their seats and be comfortably seated when the next act starts. DI-DO.

WHY NOT WIVES?

Sir,—I visited Bonn last Sunday with my wife and went to the 10th Corps Club with the intention of getting lunch. At the front door of the club I met a couple of officers coming out. I asked them if my wife and I could get lunch there.

One of them kindly went back into the club to find out. He returned and informed us that the club was only for the use of Officers of the 10th Corps, and that ladies were not allowed in it.

I mention this as, from your note in today's "Post" under the heading "A Popular Club," others might think it is a club open to the use of all officers and their wives, like our Officers' Club here, or the French Mess in the French Area.

Lt. COLONEL.

REMEMBER THE DEAD!

Sir,—It is surely a most healthy sign of the changed opinion of our people that the dead should be worthily remembered as suggested by your correspondent, A. Steel.

Up to the war period it was not thought consistent with our national doctrines to give much thought to those who had gone before.

But we are getting broader-minded. We use the beautiful words "Requiescat in pace" on our burial crosses, hold requiem services, and in many other ways show that the departed are worthy of our thought.

As I have said, this is a good sign, and it is to be hoped that A. Steel's thoughtful suggestion will be carried out.

PADRE.

REMEMBER THE DEAD.

EDITOR'S NOTE. In reference to the excellent suggestion made by Miss Steel that the graves of our men who died while prisoners of war here should be furnished with wreaths on All Souls' Day, we have received an offer from Mrs. Gresham-Shaw, of the British Red Cross. This lady is willing to contribute £5 towards the cost of such wreaths provided that other offers are forthcoming. The total cost would probably be of the order of £25 or £30.

We shall be glad to receive contributions on behalf of this laudable object, and Mrs. Gresham-Shaw, working with Miss Steel, has undertaken to organise the purchasing and deposition of the wreaths.

As the time is so brief will all those who wish to take part in this tribute to our soldiers who died while in enemy hands, please send their contributions to us not later than Wednesday next, the 29th instant? No matter how small the contribution, it will be welcomed and acknowledged in the Cologne Post. Please address envelopes, Mrs. Gresham-Shaw, c/o Cologne Post, A.P.O.S./40, British Army of the Rhine.

AT FIFTY.

Ages have rolled within my breast, though yet
Not nigh the bourn to fleeting man assigned;
Yes: old—alas! how spent the struggling mind
Which at the noon of life is fain to set!
My dawn and evening have so closely met
That men the shades of Night begin to find
Darkening my brow, and heedless, not unkind,
Let the sad warning drop without regret.
Gone Youth! had I thus missed thee, nor a hope
Were left of thy return beyond the tomb,
I could curse Life:—but glorious is the scope
Of an immortal soul.—O Death! thy gloom,
Short, and already tinged with coming Light,
Is to the Christian but a summer's night.

BLANCO WHITE.

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor

Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???
Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!
The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!

TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.
Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 32-34.

RHINELAND FOOTBALL.

Rhine Army Remount Depot v. 140th Field Ambulance.

A REMOUNT VICTORY.

Im excellent weather the Rhine Army Remount Depot Football Team turned out to meet the 140th Field Ambulance. Kalk. The ground of the Remounts was in grand condition.

The Remounts having won the toss elected to play with the sun at their backs. The Ambulance started the ball rolling and from the start the Remounts pressed the Ambulance goal and sent in some very hot shots. The Ambulance forwards got going and tested the Depot goalkeeper, who saved.

The Depot forwards combined in good style and raided the Ambulance goal. The inside left put in a very nice ground shot which found the net. From the restart the Remount forwards got the ball and broke through. The outside right scored with a splendid shot, the homesters then leading by two goals. About five minutes from half time from a corner kick a scrimmage ensued around the Ambulance goal, the Remounts' inside-left again beating the goalkeeper. Half time brought the score: Remounts, 3; Ambulance, nil.

From the restart the Ambulance seemed to pull themselves together, play being very even. Towards the end of the game the Ambulance were penalised for hands, the kick being taken by the Remounts' centre who failed.

Play continued very evenly to the end, there being no further score.

Final Score:—Remounts, 3; Ambulance, nil.

X. CORPS RUGBY SEMI-FINAL.

12th Loyal North Lancs. v. 51st Manchesters at Bonn.

Played on the Hofgarten, Bonn, before a small attendance on Thursday afternoon. The Lancs. took the lead with a try by Kennedy after three minutes, Kelt just failing to convert. Progress on the left on the part of the Lancs. was checked when Kennedy was collared, while Gore cleared well from a rush on the Lancs. line. No score accrued from a free-kick awarded to Lancs. for offside.

After twenty minutes Henson, levelled matters for the Manchesters, Bates adding the extra points from a difficult angle. The Manchesters now settled down and Henson again ran over in good style.

In the second half the Lancs. defence was hard-pressed, Mills adding a try from an unmarked position, the place kick failing. Bates scored a fourth try and again the major points were not secured. The Manchesters were good value, by reason of the superiority of their forwards, for their win by 14 points to 3 points.

IRISH FOOTBALL ITEMS.

The Irish League have agreed to the suggestion of the Southern League to postpone the Inter-League match until after the New Year.

The proposal of the Football League to play Ireland an Inter-League match at Liverpool on Wednesday, Nov. 19, has been accepted by the Irish League.

LAWN TENNIS.

Mishu defeats F.M.B. Fisher at Queen's Club.

The Hon. F.M.B. Fisher and N. Mishu, of Rumania, met in the London Covered Courts Championships at Queen's Club, a delightful set ensuing. Both players are unorthodox in style and broke many of the recognised tenets of lawn tennis. Mishu has an amazing repertory of services, and tries them all at intervals. He is fond of the half-volley, and the dead true wooden surface at Queen's enabled him to bring off a surprising number of them both on the back and forehand.

Mishu won the first set so easily—at 6—1 —that the event looked almost all over. Fisher played much better in the second set, and the score was called "5 all" before Mishu won. The New Zealander played splendidly in the third set, and, hitting harder than ever, won at 6—2. The score was 3 all in the fourth set, and then Mishu got to 5—3. Fisher pulled up to 5 all, but Mishu took the next two games, the set, and the match.

EPSOM STABLE LADS' DEMANDS.

Trainers Offer of Two Guineas a Week Rejected.

At Epsom a conference of racehorse trainers and stable lads was held under the chairmanship of a representative of the Ministry of Labour to consider the lads' demands, which included a minimum weekly wage of 53s.

The trainers would not consent to pay more than two guineas a week, and declined to accept a suggestion that the matter should be referred to arbitration. The lads, whose representatives include officials of the National Union of General Workers, to which the lads belong, expressed themselves as dissatisfied with the trainers' offer.

A late wire states that it is practically certain that the lads will strike.

SIR. T. LIPTON SAILS FOR U.S.A.

Sir Thomas Lipton sailed for New York yesterday to make arrangements for the American Cup Yacht Race.

It is probable that the race will take place next July. Mr. Charles E. Nicholson, the designer of the Shamrock IV, is already in America.

Cambridge Hockey.

The Freshman's hockey match was played at Cambridge, when the Colours were beaten by 4 goals to 1. The play on the whole was better than that of the Seniors' match. The stick work was quite good, and, unlike the Seniors' match, the men played with confidence, and were quite as fast.

INTER-ALLIED BOXING.

Great Tournament at Coblenz under American Auspices.

BRITISHERS MAY ENTER.

An Inter-Allied Boxing Tournament given under the auspices of the American Army will be held at Liberty Hut, Coblenz, on October 30th, 31st, and November 1st, 1919. Preliminary bouts for competitors from the American Army were be held at Liberty Hut on October 23rd, 24th and 25th.

Entries from the British, French and Belgian armies should reach the promoter before October 29th.

All boxing bouts will be governed by the Marquis of Queensberry rules. The preliminary bouts for the American Army were six rounds of two minutes each, with one minute's rest between each round. The final bouts will be ten rounds of two minutes each, with one minute's rest between each round. Officers are not allowed to enter this tournament.

The classes and their corresponding weights are as follows:—

Bantamweight ...	118 lbs.	and under,
Featherweight ...	125 „	„ „
Lightweight	135 „	„ „
Welterweight	145 „	„ „
Middleweight	160 „	„ „
Light heavyweight	175 „	„ „
Heavyweight ...	175 and over.

A maximum difference of three pounds is allowed between the competitors' weight and the above scale.

The following prizes will be presented by the Y.M.C.A. for each final bout:—

To the winner 600 marks, and silver medal.

To the loser 200 marks and bronze medal.

FULTON'S EASY VICTORY.

Coghill Starts Well, but no Match for American.

We are now able to suppliment the brief wire published yesterday giving the result of the Fulton v. Coghill fight. As the result suggests the victory was an easy one for the American, though the Australian showed to advantage in the opening round.

The contest, like the majority of those between men in the heavier divisions, was a brief affair, Coghill being counted out in the third round. He did exceedingly well during the first round, and was loudly and heartily applauded at the close for his enterprising display. True, his blows were not very heavy, but they landed cleanly and crisply, and, what is more, he had withstood all Fulton's attempts to get in an effective counter. The American, indeed, was seen to but poor advantage in these first three minutes, and although he loosened out a bit in the second round, he was still faulty in his judgment, many of his blows going over Coghill's head or round his neck.

But those that did land, though badly delivered, carried a lot of weight, and before the end of the round one could see that Coghill would not go much further. Nor did he, as early in the third round two short, sharp jolts to the jaw, first with the left and then with the right, put him down for the count. He was, however, up almost with the "out."

BECKETT AND DEMPSEY.

Huge Offer for Early Meeting by American Syndicate.

A New Orleans message dated 24th Oct. states that Tortorich, representing a local syndicate, has offered one hundred and fifty thousanddollars for a twenty, round championship fight between Jack Dempsey and Joe Beckett, to be held this winter in New Orleans. No date was mentioned.

FRENCH HEAVY-WEIGHT CHAMPION BEATEN.

In a boxing contest at Paris on Wednesday night Hams, a negro boxer, beat Nilles, who thus loses the title of heavyweight champion of France.

Outsider wins Curragh Cesarewitch.

The Curragh Cesarewitch was won by Col. Croft's Picture Saint, Wildfellow being second and Gleneffy third. The winner was one of the unfancied division. 20 to 1 being on offer.

CRIQUI FOR AMERICA.

Eugene Criqui, who recently beat Walter Ross, will leave shortly for the United States. Before he leaves he will meet Sam Keller on Oct. 29, 20 rounds of 3min. each.

BROTHERS
read "The Cologne Post". Send it daily to your.

FOOTBALL GOSSIP.

Ex service players who are Figuring prominently to-day.

BY W. LE C.

Richard Cragg, who is understudying Freeman of Burnley, was "discovered" by Watson, their clever half back, in France. More will be heard of this player.

Butler of Middlesboro' and Robinson of Newcastle United both played for the 2/1st Northern Cyclist Battn. when stationed in Lincolnshire.

Harrison, a youth with great ability, has displaced "Tim" Williamson the international in the Teesiders' goal.

No fewer than eleven of the Leeds City players come from places within a 30-miles radius of Newcastle. "Some" nursery.

Tatton, the ex-Southern League player, is the only ever-present of Preston, this season.

Evans, the old Welsh international goalkeeper, who used to assist Blackburn Rovers, has recovered sufficiently from his wounds to take up refereeing.

Gowdy, who leads Ireland's line to-day, was six weeks ago playing in junior football. He played in the 109th Bde. team in France and served with the famous Ulster Division. He is but 22 years old. Such is footballers' luck, unknown to-day, famous to-morrow.

Trammere Rovers applied for Leeds City's place in the Central League but were refused permission to secede from their present body.

Messrs. McKenna, Lewis, Sutcliffe and Keys were very much annoyed that their deliberations re Leeds City's players were published by a local newspaper. More will be heard of this affair.

Aston Villa have made a great effort to secure Cresswell of South Shields. But in the words of the classics, "Nothing doing."

Barrow-in-Furness are now playing Carter in goal. He is the old West Ham custodian and joined the "Hammers" from the Barrow club.

Queens Park Rangers submitted plans for a grand stand to the L.C.C. These have now been passed, and the Queen's club are to be congratulated on their enterprise.

Walker of Birmingham has been receiving much undeserved attention from the most detested thing in football, i.e., the "barracking" section.

Anderson of Aberdeen, is well known in Sunderland, where he used to "keep" the Wearsiders goal. Mark well the Pittodrie men, they will create some surprise ere long.

Rangers have secured the services of Meiklejohn, the Maryhill team star, another Glasgow idol in the making.

A GREAT GOAL-GETTER.

Some Experiences of Charlie Buchan, the International.

Buchan's goal scoring abilities are known wherever football is played and the famous Wearsider has stated that he cannot recollect all the goals he has scored. We quite believe him, as he would require a wonderful memory to be able to remember all the points he has notched. He has however, said that one of the best goals he ever had the honour of scoring was netted this season at Highbury against the Arsenal. Looking over a report of the match one finds that this was obtained after a clever bout of passing between the Sunderland centre, Travers and the international.

The goal, however, that Charlie says he can never forget was scored against Burnley in the replayed English Cup semi-final of 1913, when the Wearside club, it will be remembered, failed at the last hurdle. From a centre by Martin, the left winger, Buchan headed in a great goal. He afterwards confessed that the ball travelled more quickly off his head than many a drive has off his foot. Those who have witnessed some of his drives will have some idea of the "impossible" nature of the leader.

VILLA'S NEW CENTRE-HALF.

The Barnsley Club have transferred Frank Barson, their centre half-back, to Aston Villa.

Barson learnt his football in Sheffield, and went to Barnsley eight years ago. He is a brilliant and resourceful player.

The Barnsley directors recently declared that offers for other players would not be entertained; but Barson, who had a benefit a few weeks ago, strongly desired to be transferred for personal reasons.

The transfer fee has not been disclosed, but is thought to be very substantial. Barson played for Aston Villa at Middlesborough yesterday.

BREAK OF 689.

Magnificent Display by Newman against Stevenson.

JUGGLING WITH THE BALLS.

Newman continues to prove successful in his 16,000 match with Stevenson at Burroughes Hall. On Thursday afternoon the former registered a total in just an hour's play of 626, while Stevenson could account for no more than 188. When a halt was called, Newman had increased his lead to 2,590.

Newman on resuming at night added 195 to his incomplete innings, making the full break 689, and then missed a run-through cushion cannon.

Stevenson scored 991 to Newman's 461, and averaged 58 to 25½. Closing scores (as published yesterday):—

Newman	5,837
Stevenson (in play)	3,777

Friday's Play.

On Friday Stevenson turned the tables on his opponent scoring 1830 to Newman's 979 and thereby reducing the latter's lead from 2060 to 1173.

Latest available scores are:—

Newman (in play) 6816; Stevenson 5637.

ENGLISH RACING.

Welcome Rain at Doncaster and Sandown on Friday.

The rain which fell at Sandown and Doncaster on Friday was very welcome, all courses being badly in need of a sustained downpour; it had no detrimental effect upon the attendances at either meeting.

An objection to Not Much, the winner of the Wheatsheaf Handicap, for bumping, was over-ruled. Details.—

Sandown.

Trafalgar Handicap:—1, Eftichia (8—1); 2, Wait Week (11—8 on); 3, Bit of a Lad (100—8). Eight ran.

October Handicap:—1, Gunda (7—1); 2, Gally Strickland (100—8); 3, Condottiere (100—8). Eight ran.

Great Sapling Plate:—1, Comrade (5—4 on; 2, Tete-a-Tete (5—1); 3, Lady Meave (11—2). Four ran.

Wheatsheaf Handicap:—1, Not Much (9—4); 2, Vice Versa (5—4); 3, Golly Eyes (10—1) and Mintleaf (10—1) dead heat. Six ran.

Hook Plate:—1, T.L. (4—1); 2, Ocean Light (2—1); 3, Bayete (20—1). Nineteen ran.

Coombe Plate:—Footplate walked over.

Doncaster.

Arksey Handicap.—1, Prerogative Lilly (7—1); 2, Babette (3—1); 3, Beltenebros (6—4). Five ran.

Rossington Handicap:—1, Staples (10—1); 2, Still Better (3—1); 3, Houplines (10—1). Eight ran.

Downe Handicap:—1, Adorna (100—6); 2, Jaunting Car (100—8); 3, Skyfuse (4—1). Ten ran.

Durham Handicap:—1, Elsinore (6—5); 2, Granchester (9—2); 3, Skagerrack (100—8). Six ran.

Vyner Handicap:—1, Ocydrome (6—4); 2, Flowerbed (9—4); 3, Will o' the Wisp (4—1) Five ran.

Moderate Plate:—1, Missouri (2—1); 2, Devonport (2—1); 3, Brussiloff (7—1). Six ran.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE BETTING.

Cambridgeshire betting late Thursday night was:—Scatwell 6 to 1; Zinovia 100 to 12; Tetrarchia 10 to 1; Sir Berkely 100 to 9; Alasnam and Royal Bucks 100 to 8; Clarion 18 to 1; Diadem, 20 to 1 offered after 22 to 1 taken; Dominion 20 to 1 offered after 25 to 1 taken; My Dear 25 to 1; Brigand 28 to 1.

THE CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

Report of Recent Gallops of Candidates.

Thursday's work of the Cambridgeshire candidates is summarised below.

Alasnam (R Day) good pace 5f.
Brigand (Pratt) not reported.
Chuette (Beatty) not reported.
Clarion (Dewhurst) healthy exercise.
Diadem (Lambton) cantered 5f.
Dominion (Barling) cantered 5f.
Dromio (Persse) sharp 6f.
Glaciale (Lambton) not mentioned.
King John (Griffin) healthy exercise.
My Dear (Taylor) covered 1m.
Roideur (Per se) sharp 6f.
Royal Bucks (Sievier) not mentioned.
Scatwell (Barling) cantered 5f.
Sir Berkely (W. Waugh) healthy exercise.
Wilson (R Day) sharp 5f.
Zinovia (F. Hunt) strolling 1¼m.

Cambridgeshire Scratching.

Snowmaiden, 12.9 p.m. on Friday.

AMUSEMENTS AND RECREATIONS.

Cologne Amusements.

The experiment of starting Cologne amusements at 7 p.m. instead of 6 p.m. was a dismal failure. The new time was adopted on Monday, but it very soon became evident that the later hour was extremely unpopular. Consequently all the Army shows will revert to 6 p.m. commencing to-morrow.

La Tosca.

A crowded and enthusiastic audience is certain to be present whenever this opera, which has become so popular in recent years, is given. This was proved once more at the Opera-house by Friday's performance. Puccini's music to Sardou's "La Tosca" is wonderfully characteristic. From the very beginning we are in the grip of that sombre, mournful, musical atmosphere which makes us anticipate the ensuing drama. Every true musician must admire the splendid orchestration typical of the modern school, and on Friday the conductorship and execution were all that could be desired. Anna Scheffler as Tosca struck the wonderful dramatic note of this exacting role. She gained well-deserved applause, which she shared with Fritz Kraus as Cavaradossi, Jul. Lenz as Cesare Angelotie, and Schorr as Scarpia. The other parts were also well enacted by H. Robert, Lindlar an Salomon. (C. Le S.)

Jazz Band at Smoker.

A most successful smoking concert was held at the 15th Battalion Hants recreation room. The chair was taken by Lieut. Morris. The opening item was a well-known march namely "Old Comrades" which was ably rendered by the Battalion Jazz Band. This was followed by a varied programme, the most popular items being the three songs rendered by Lieut. Betteridge entitled "Old fashioned Town," "Glorious Devon" and "When You Come Home." The violin solos of Cpl. Palmer were also of exceptional merit. A most enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the rendering of "Raggin' thro' the Rye" by the Jazz Band, after which the National Anthem was lustily sung by all ranks. The accompanist for the evening was Cpl. Nixon. The success of this new departure was largely due to the untiring efforts of Lts. Betteridge and Morris.

A Bonn Affair.

121st Heavy Battery held an enjoyable smoking-concert in celebration of their success in winning the cup for the 10th Corps Junior Football Competition. Several artistes contributed to the evening's programme and during the interval light refreshments were served. The proceedings were terminated by a speech given by the Chairman, Major J.P. Jordan, M.C., who is shortly leaving the Battery, and the singing of "He's a jolly good fellow."

The Man of Destiny.

Yesterday evening, the British Rhine Army Dramatic Company gave a second performance of the "Man of Destiny," followed by "Candida" at the Deutsches Theatre, this bringing to an end a particularly busy week. Owing to lack of space, the criticism of the plays is held over.

"The Jesters."

There was a packed audience at the Palace Theatre last night, when the "Jesters" were in their usual happy mood. To-morrow this talented party commence a week's tour of Rhineland. By the way, I hear that the genial and energetic Mr. Alfred Hurley, who runs the show, has left Cologne for a visit to France.

B. E. L. C. Whist Drive.

The splendid score of 164 was reached by Pte. J. Tordoff at the Whist Drive held at the B.E.L.C. on Thursday evening, a record score at the Club, I believe. For this he gained 1st gentleman's prize, while Pte F. Crook was second with 150, and Dvr. H. H. Hopkinson 3rd with 147. The first ladies' prize was carried off by Pte. Mold with 147; Pte. Macdonald was second with 146, and Pte. Fearis third with 145. The games were much enjoyed by everyone, and the success of the evening was greatly due to Lt. Rouch, who presided, and L/Cpl. Foote, who acted as M.C.

The Palace.

"The Jesters" will be succeeded at the Palace by a return visit of "The Crumps," a party which is doing its level best to maintain the excellent reputation achieved. Several of the old and well-known have returned to England, but still the merry crowd carry on with a bright show, of which humour is the keynote.

The Cinemas.

At the Army Cinemas new programmes are announced, with a varied selection of films that should suit all tastes.

Next Weeks Attractions.

After a long steady run, the Dramatic Company are to take a well deserved rest from the Deutsches Theatre next week to prepare for the production of "The Silver Box", a week to-morrow. The Deutsches bill will be filled by the Gilbert Concert Party, the members of which, as reference to our advertisement columns will indicate, are first-rate artistes. Their performances promise to be particularly attractive.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Sun.	Carmen	Bizet	6.30	10
Mon.	NO PERFORMANCE
Tues.	NO PERFORMANCE
Wed.	Tannhäuser	Wagner	7	10.45
Thurs.	Ein Maskenball	Verdi	7	9.45
Fri.	Der Barbier von Sevilla	Rossini	7	10
Sat.	Orpheus and Eurydice	Gluck	7	9.15
Sun.	Die Walküre	Wagner	5 30	10.30
Mon.	Madame Butterfly	Puccini	7	9.45
Tues.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10

A Famous Banjoist.

Mr. Joe Morley, of whom this is a little impression, is undoubtedly one of the most popular members of the "Jesters" variety company. His skill as a banjoist is world-famed, and he has the happy knack of selecting numbers that cannot fail to appeal to his audience. He was one of the first members of the successful party, and since the beginning of 1915, when there was a great clamour for entertainments for the troops, he has delighted many thousands of soldiers.

JACQUES.

Light-weight to Ride over Hurdles.

Fitton, the light-weight who rode Saintly Maude and Bayudo in their respective races at Lingfield, is to ride over hurdles this winter, and he had an engagement to fulfil at Sandown Park yesterday.

ANOTHER PRIZE TO BE WON.

The Sixth Opportunity Football Enthusiasts.

Four substantial sums have already been won in our great football competition, the popularity of which is weekly increasing. The result of Competition No. 5 will soon be announced, and to-day the publication of the coupon for the sixth test of skill gives yet another opportunity for football enthusiasts to make a bid for the prize. Your part is ridiculously simply. All that is essential is a knowledge of form in the great leagues at home, and one doubts if there is a single British soldier in Rhineland who is not a follower of such form. As guides to the relative value of competing teams we publish periodically the league tables, also football notes dealing with the doings of the leading clubs. Send along your effort now.

Coupons must be addressed:—
FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 6,
"Cologne Post,"
A.P.O. S.40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 6.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov. 1st.
Closing date, Friday, Oct. 31st.

Aston Villa	v. Middlesboro
Bolton W.	v. Sunderland
Blackburn R.	v. Everton
Bradford C.	v. Arsenal
Notts C.	v. West Bromwich
West Ham	v. Birmingham
Huddersfield	v. Fulham
Swindon	v. Queens Park R.
Brentford	v. Plymouth A.
Brighton	v. Exeter C.
Hamilton A.	v. Falkirk
Morton	v. Celtic

I enter Football Competition No. 6 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed _____
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. _____

Unit _____

Full Address _____

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE IN A NUTSHELL.

Tottenham Transfer.

Tottenham Hotspur have transferred A. Rednath (inside left) to Gillingham.

Dangerously Ill.

Jack Cowdrey, the well-known Queen's Club lawn tennis professional, is dangerously ill with pleurisy.

T. Clay's Injury.

The injury T. Clay received on Saturday in the Tottenham Hotspur v. Clapton Orient match is more serious than was thought at the time.

Late of Leeds City.

Northampton Town have secured the signature to professional forms of William Pease, an amateur outside-right, who has this season assisted Leeds City. Pease played against Reading last Saturday, and his display was full of promise, and greatly pleased the Northampton spectators.

McCracken Vindicated.

The goal averages clearly indicate the Newcastle defence as the best in the First Division, but it is to be hoped the fact will not influence other backs to imitate McCracken's off-side exploits. Their adventures in this direction might not only be less successful than those of the Irishman, but also carry with them a few cheap goals for the other side.

Major Allen.

West Ham hope to have the assistance of Major R. H. Allen, the Corinthian forward, in their match on Saturday at Birmingham.

Roneo's Best.

Roneo, in beating Upminster away by 2 goals to nil in the Essex Junior Cup, accomplished their best performance of the season. Grey obtained both goals.

Three-Year-Olds.

For six years past the Cambridgeshire has been won by a three-year-old, and the records of the race show that horses of that age are singularly successful at the Houghton Meeting.

Aston's Venture.

Aston Villa tried a new and expensive centre forward against Preston North End. This was Boyman, from a local club, Cradley Heath St. Luke's, but his inexperience was pronounced, and he was easy prey for such a centre-half as M'Call.

Contradictory.

It is amusing to read that while the Newport Rugby Club have decided not to give Pontypool any further fixtures—as the sequel to rough play when the teams last met—Pontypool have been given the option of fulfilling their fixture at Newport on Easter Monday.

Match Postponed.

Owing to the clashing of the Stoke match, Tottenham Hotspur and Port Vale, who should meet in the Potteries next Saturday, stands postponed.

Racing Revival.

The Tremblay Meeting will, it is said, be revived next season. The course was badly damaged during the war while in the occupation of the Army.

Luton Retains Bookman.

L. Bookman, the Irish international, will continue to play for Luton Town, the West Bromwich Albion club having met the Southern Leaguers in a generous way.

L.P.C.F. Match.

The London Professional Charity Fund match between Chelsea and Fulham has been definitely arranged for Monday next, at Stamford Bridge. The kick off will be at three o'clock, and both clubs will be powerfully represented.

Some Victory.

A scoring record for the Headingley Rugby Club was established when they visited Chorlton and defeated Broughton Park by 11 goals and 12 tries (91 points) to nil. For the greater part of the match the winners played with only thirteen men.

The Jumping Season.

Several small meetings under National Hunt Rules have already been held, and the new season will be fairly started at Sandown Park on Saturday.

Odol's Temporary Retirement.

The crack French two-year-old Odol will not be seen in public again this season. He will be reserved for the classic events of next year.

Newmarket to Chantilly.

The horses bought by Captain Gilroy at Newmarket for the Greek owner, Mr. Ambatielo, are expected at Halsey's establishment at Chantilly, where it is said they will be put to jumping.

A Welsh Loss.

The Cardiff Rugby Club and Welsh Rugby has lost a promising player through the signing of a Northern Union form by E. Caswell, the inside half-back. It is probable that Doctor Wallace will take his place against Neath.

West Ham Signatory.

West Ham United have signed on Capt. R. H. Allen, the Corinthian forward and old Carthusian. Capt. Allen is a speedy, go-ahead player, with a wonderful control of the ball. A present he is stationed close to London, but expects to go abroad shortly with his regiment.

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Our Dead.

That idea mooted in our "Letterbox" of placing floral tributes on the graves of our dead at Südfriedhof on All Saints and All Souls days is likely to take practical shape I hear; see p. 2.

Listen to the Band.

I intend to go and hear the band of the Inniskilling Dragoons at the Deutsches Theatre to-night. We have not heard too many military bands in Cologne lately.

Runaway Car.

I am told that an army motorcar while being "cranked up" on the Duren road, the other day, started off on its own. It raced along for a hundred yards or so when the driver managed to catch it, scrambled up to the steering wheel and drove off.

Police Dogs.

All the "doggy" officers and men will, I expect, be going to see the exhibition of trained police dogs which is taking place at the Merheim racecourse to-day. I'm told they are rather wonderful.

Oyster and Irony.

I heard of an Ordnance sergeant who was served with an oyster patty in a Cologne restaurant the other night, but after tasting a mouthful suddenly laid down his fork. "Something very nasty seems to have died inside this bun" he remarked in disgust.

Eating Dahlias.

This is the dahlia season and I was told by a German yesterday that it is quite customary to eat the dahlia root in this country. The Germans are very fond of it as a vegetable.

Toy Planes.

Motoring through a village near Bensberg not long ago, I saw children in a field amusing themselves by flying miniature aeroplanes which seemed to be of their own making. Each had the German black cross on the wings.

Is it True?

Someone who claims to know the inside life of Cologne thoroughly assures me that in spite of the apparent prosperity of the people there is a great deal of acute proverty in those quarters not usually frequented by the British soldier.

A German Gunner.

Near the beautiful village in Rosrath in the Konigsforst is a wayside cafe kept by a German ex-artilleryman who speaks English well and has a fund of anecdotes on service during the war.

A Good Start.

A padre was telling me that when visiting a C.C.S. in Rhineland he offered to write a letter home to a patient's wife if he would dictate it. Tommy seemed to find it hard to make a start, so the Padre said, "Shall I begin, 'My darling wife'"? "Oh! yes," was the reply, "that'll amuse her, anyhow."

Not Yet.

I heard it is quite an unfounded rumour that in deference to the clamour for melodrama the R.A.D.C. contemplates putting on "Maria Martin, or the Murder in the Red Barn."

Rewards for Service.

Some of the Cologne tram conductors have stripes on their sleeves. I asked what they indicated. I was told that when a man has been ten years in the service he gets one stripe, for every 5 years more another stripe. When he has been working for twenty-five years he gets shoulder-straps.

Very Black.

I hear that shopkeepers and others in Cologne found guilty of profiteering find their names published in a black list of the German papers. Besides this, everyone who deals with such people runs the risk of seeing his own name on the black list.

Not Yet.

The hanging up of peace ratification is having one good result. The day when "Tommy" has to pay his fares on train and tram is put back also.

Fine Feathers, Etc.

A British Naval Officer on his way to Germany for the first time pointed to a uniformed figure on a station platform and asked which branch of the German Army the "officer" belonged to. He was greatly surprised when told that the finely bedecked person, carrying a sword, was merely a policeman on duty.

Tommy Farming.

I wonder if it is generally known that there is an extensive Army farm in Rhineland, where many cows and hundreds of fowls are kept. The butter and eggs produced are appreciated by many messes.

Walks the Wire.

One of the R.E. companies in Rhineland has a professional slack-wire performer among its personnel. His comrades, I hear, have great difficulty in preventing him from doing trick stunts on the signal wires.

Have no Great Boxers.

The German method of advertising boxing-shows and the like on posters strikes one as somewhat strange. Not content with the announcement of the event in big letters, huge figures of men in striking aggressive poses are displayed. They are not of celebrities, as would probably be the case were the method adopted in England, but merely drawings of men of super-physical development.

Creatures of Habit.

I remember everyone who joined the Army swore that never again would they wear stiff linen collars. Yet from all I hear, on return to civil life, the majority drop back into the old groove and encase their necks in starched collars again.

Excelsior.

The offices of this paper now occupy the whole of the fourth floor at the old address. Having to climb umpteen steps to attain this giddy height, the staff is getting into fine condition. But some, I believe, are investing in alpenstocks.

Silver Marks.

A funny thing about the mark is that its exchange value is only about twopence, but the actual silver in the mark coin is worth 11¼d. at the present market price of silver. But silver marks seem very scarce.

No Grievance now.

Recently I mentioned that a soldier had lost his camera in the cloak-room of the Church Army Hostel. He now tells me he has been amply recompensed for the loss by the club officials, although he admits he should have placed so valuable a possession in the personal custody of the Superintendent and not left it in the ordinary cloak-room.

No Tipping.

The prohibition of tipping operates in Bonn. A friend over in the University town yesterday had his tip politely but firmed declined by a waiter.

In a Difficulty.

Evidently a victim of the war, a German wearing an artificial leg found himself in a difficulty. The limb refused to work properly, and to discover the cause of the trouble he pulled up his trouser leg. Friends went to his assistance and put things right. Others laughed at his trouble.

Domesticated.

I noticed that somebody was wondering if he would ever see a married soldier pushing a pram in Cologne. Well it wasn't exactly that, but I saw one wheeling his youngster in a go-cart yesterday. RHINELANDER.

OPINIONS OF THE MOMENT.

DANGERS OF A CLASS WAR.

Lord Robert Cecil, M.P., writing on the above subject says:—It certainly would be a tragedy if this country drifted into a class war. No one wants it except a few extremists on both sides. Nothing could have been more remarkable than the statesmanlike action of all the reasonable leaders of Labour in the railway strike. They were evidently profoundly convinced of the immense national danger of the situation. Nor can it be doubted that other sections of the community are equally anxious to avoid a class war. At the same time, unless employers and employed can be brought to see that their common interests are much greater than their separate interests, the danger of the situation will remain. The great thing, therefore, is to bring the two sections of the industrial community together.

THE DANGER YEAR.

Sir George Lewis, the eminent lawyer in an article, asks:—Is there a danger year in marriage? People studying the enormous recent growth of divorce suits have asked me that question. Without fixing upon any particular year, because that is impossible, I would put the dangerous period at between the seventh and tenth year of marriage. It would also appear that if the married couple can succeed in bridging over this "danger period" the possibility of divorce becomes more and more remote. Happily, many thousands of people bridge that period successfully.

BRITISH FAIR PLAY.

Mr. Philip Gibbs, writing on his study of conditions in the Rhineland, says:—The Germans find our men "gemütlich," which means more than "good-natured," and they say, "The English 'Tommy' is a gentleman—with few exceptions." They have a sincere faith in our sense of justice and fair-play as it has been proved by our administration, and the women especially are captivated by the manners of our men.

COSTLY COURTSHIPS.

Miss Nora Shannon says:—Courtships are becoming much more costly to young men of the clerk and business office class. Revelations in law courts have drawn attention to the extensive scale on which these young men undertake the entertainment of their girl companions. The regularity of the programme of these youths and girls is astonishing. Each evening brings its appointed part of the week's routine.

C 3 CHILDREN.

Mrs. Boyd Dawson, writing on the nation's neglected health and the high death rate among the young, says: It is quite impossible to make an A 1 population out of C 3 children, no matter how we try. The Army medical tests have shown us that we have a dangerously large proportion of young men of low physical standard. It is only too probable that, had there been a similar test for women, the average would have been no better. Where does the cause lie? Our sanitary and medical science is not less advanced than that of any other country, and our systems of health insurance, hospital treatment, medical inspection of school children, bring them within the reach of all. The answer to the question lies in the infant mortality rate. One baby in every ten dies before it is one year old, and of the other nine three or four at least suffer from the same ills, but just manage to survive with enfeebled health and impaired constitutions. These are the C 3 children, who, when they grow up, fail to pass the Army test, if they are men, and become mothers of weakly children if they are women.

ASHAMED NEXT MORNING.

The Rev G. Wilton, Rector of St. Anne's, Soho, expresses the appended view: There can be traced a real connection between the debased tone of some stage performances and the huge number of divorce cases. To say that these things—bedroom plays and semi-nude women—make men laugh does not prove that it is healthy laughter. It is perfectly possible in the smoke-room of a club to make men laugh all night by immoral talk and jokes; but next morning the man is often ashamed of his laughter.

GARAGE BY THE HOUR.

Sir Albert Stanley writing on a coming difficulty for motorists says:—Very soon cars will become cheaper. More business men will drive their own cars—the practice is already increasing in London, and I am the last convert—and you will have a smaller proportion of chauffeurs employed. The result of these conditions you can already see in any American city; hundreds of cars lined up the sides of the main streets. You cannot have that sort of thing in our streets. Imagine the Strand, for instance, with long lines of waiting cars. The only remedy I can suggest when our cars become much more numerous is that a system of garages should be established in the City, garages in which cars can be left for an hour or so until business or pleasure is finished.

INFLUENCE.

That many a man who points a finger of scorn at Cleopatra would himself be an "Antony" if force of circumstances permitted, is only too true of the present day.

It would seem then, that environment tends to mould the human life, and shape it according to the good or evil which surrounds a man.

The Arab sits with half-closed eyes gazing into the unknown desert, and talks of fate, thus letting that environment make of him a butt for the wills of others; the vastness only speaks to him of time to come, and gives to him a dogged perseverence, only because he thinks not of the possibilities of the present.

To others, that vastness speaks only of antiquity, and they think of those same sands as they stretched out under the burning sun in bygone years, when the people of Israel were groaning under the lash of Pharaoh's taskmasters: They are only influenced by the mighty past.

Again that boundless waste is like some great book, which only few may read, but all can see on the title page the word Eternity, which God has written over His handiwork in letters that can never fade away.

It can be seen that circumstances are among the greatest influences in a life, but at the same time that influence does not affect every one in the same way, for a circumstance in the path of one may bring out some noble deed, while in the way of another it may lead to the ultimate ruin of that character.

If this environment is such a factor in our lives, it must be that each man has a task before him to make that environment, such, as will help mankind to better things, rather than allow them to be governed by the life into which they may happen to be born.

How futile a thought it is really to think that the greatest creation of heaven, man, must absolutely be governed by force of circumstances. Surely it is better for a man to throw off that yoke of environment which may be cast about the neck of some, and with a greater force within combat against circumstances, and instead of being moulded by that force, take things in his own hand, and mould those circumstances as he would have them be. Such a man will find no obstacle in his way towards the achievement of great and noble things in that life which God has given him. Science and philosophy may give a man the power to think for himself, in that they help him to understand in a certain measure the riddle of life, but to attain the ideal one is only helped by the power within.

The man whose life is overshadowed by the principles of Christianity has the force of character required to mould circumstances, and to enable them to guide him towards the ideal.

High or low, rich or poor, can make a grand success of life, if influenced by the words of Christ. At the present time many find fault with those who call themselves Christians, but no fault has ever been found with Christ and His Gospel. "I find no fault in Him," said Pilate, and the world must say the same to-day.

The greatest influence for good, the strongest force in the world, is true Christianity. C. E. R. WHEELER, C.F.

THE SEMI-FINAL.

Six motor lorries packed with an enthusiastic crowd of men wended their way through the streets of Cologne to the Kalk football ground.

In the first was their idolised team thirsting for the conflict which was soon to be theirs. The last one contained the Battalion band in all their glory ready to blow their instruments into bits in order to cheer their heroes. Never was there such a sight in the streets of this city by the Rhine. It reminded one of Lord George Sanger's circus procession an the Germans stared in open-mouthed astonishment at the passing convoy. Well they might, for the band played, the buglers blew, and the rattles rattled all through the streets.

"What did it all mean?" the anxious Germans asked "Is it some new offensive"?

"True! true!" was the reply. "It is the semi-final offensive".

So our men went into the football battle even as in the old days they went to meet the foe with music and singing.

That is the spirit which overcomes all things. Arriving at the famous ground they were greeted with yells and challenging bugle blasts by the supporters of the opposing team—a mighty crowd.

It was a case of when Greek meets Greek, for the teams were both from the North Country, so renowned for great sportsmen. Nothing daunted, the visitors left their lorries and the band got to work and above the tumult the old regimental march rang forth, effectually silencing for a time their astonished rivals, who had no band and could only boast one feeble bugle. The band rested from the labours and then a battle royal, accompanied with yells and cheers, took place between the rival buglers on either side of the field.

Deafening yells and a mighty noise from all kinds of instruments greeted the teams as they entered the field. How evenly matched they looked, sound in wind and limb with a death or glory attitude!

The referee girding up his loins, to use an old phrase, blew his whistle and the semi-final was soon in full swing.

For a minute or two there was a deathly silence, soon followed by excited shouts of encouragement "Shoot! Shoot! Good old George, etc." with banter across the field by rival supporters.

The Tykes scored the first goal and this was the occasion of a terrific outburst; shins were kicked, drums beaten, cymbals clashed, sticks and caps flying in all directions. Shouts of derision from their rivals added interest to the wonderful moments. A second goal from the same side produced an earthquake. Half-time relieved the tension, to be followed after the whistle blew by the keenest play ever witnessed even in the great League matches at home.

The Durhams pressed hard and scored, and for a moment their supporters went mad with delight. How they fought to secure a tie, but it was all in vain and the great semi-final, the fight of a lifetime, ended in a victory for the Tykes.

Alas! There was one casualty. A big brass instrument was squashed by a motor lorry running over it, but what mattered it? The semi-final was won. G. K.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Bad for Shoe-leather. — A Sussex postman has walked 206,000 miles in 47 years.

Haunt of the Smart.—Ciro's, the famous night club, has been re-opened.

In Chile.—Baron von Bissing is now in Chile where he has business interests.

Cornish.— The Cornish oyster trade is developing.

Lyric Writer Dead.—Mr. A. J. Mills, the writer of many successful songs, has died.

Gone.— Over one million inhabitants have left the devastated areas of France.

A Landmark.—Steephill Castle at Ventnor is for sale.

At the Castle.—The Basuto Chiefs, now in England, have visited Windsor Castle.

Expensive Silver.—Record prices are still being paid for silver.

First Lord Honoured.—Lord Beatty has been made a freeman of Bristol.

Thrift.—Nearly 13,000 British schools have War Savings Associations.

Getting Better.—President Wilson continues to make satisfactory progress.

London Pageant.—Camberwell is to have an Armistice memorial pageant.

Three Balls.—Trade in pawntickets has been made illegal in France.

Growing.—Comrades of the Great War have now 1800 units established.

Out East.—There are 21,000 British troops in Mesopotamia.

Poor Piggies.—Eleven pigs were roasted alive by a fire at a Willesden piggery.

On Travel.—M. Clemenceau is to visit Egypt.

The Price.—The Duke of Sutherland's Trentham estate realised £272,000.

Municipal Action.—The municipality of Paris is selling fish in its street markets.

Next.—Direct action on the cost of living is now mooted by the miners.

Notorious.—The Dutch authorities will not allow Marks, the German spy, to proceed to Holland.

This Week.—Clemenceau is expected to make an important political speech at Strasburg this week.

Lille Troubles.—There is a general strike in the building trades and public services at Lille.

"The Army."—The Salvation Army is resuming its weekly conducted parties to Canada.

The Cost.—The British Army of Occupation in Egypt and Palestine costs £2,400,000 monthly.

Records Gone.—Rochester Labour Exchange has been destroyed by fire together with all records.

Quoth the Raven.—"Good-bye—ee, I see you nevermore", was the parting message of a repatriated German prisoner.

For Europe.—Nearly all the 5,000 United States troops coming to Europe are new men in training since the Armistice.

Lord Mayor's Show. — Mr. Louis N. Parker has been asked to manage the next Lord Mayor's Show.

At Last.—A "local delivery letter" has reached an Ealing tradesman after being five months in the post.

Blackleg Bagged.— A Liverpool strike breaker is being tried on a charge of stealing letters from a mail bag.

Exempt.—All printing paper for newspapers is to be exempted from Customs duties by the Italian Government.

Distinction.—Saskatchewan has won the world's prize at the Kansas Exhibition for the best spring wheat.

Survived.—Pont-à-Mousson, which was subjected to 234 bombardments, is to be awarded the Croix de Guerre.

All Correspondents.—A postal Sunday school, instituted in the diocese of Saskatoon, has about 1,000 members.

The First.—A German merchant vessel, the first since the outbreak of war, has arrived at Genoa.

Anglo-French.—An Allied Victory pilgrimage to Lourdes, in which 19 French and four British generals will take part, is being organized for Armistice Day.

Free Export.—The licence system hitherto in force for the export of goods from Antwerp to the Belgian Congo has been abrogated.

Willing to Exchange.—An advertiser in the "Times" who is minus his left hand wishes to exchange single gloves with a man minus his right hand.

V.C. As Secretary.—Lieut. Davies, V.C., of Colwyn Bay, has been appointed Secretary to the Conway War Pensions Committee.

Last a Century.—A system of road-making which, it is said, will last a century, is being put down in Oxford Street.

Revanche.—The French High Commissioner for the Rhineland declared that everything should be done to prevent Germans being educated in a spirit of "revanche."

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

If you were to win £12,000.

A PRIZE CONTEST.

As most readers know there is being run at Lille a big sweepstake on the Cambridgeshire. If all the tickets are sold the fortunate winner will receive the very handsome sum of TWELVE THOUSAND POUNDS STERLING. Now this winner may very well be someone in the Rhine Army. Suppose for instance, it were you who suddenly received this big access of wealth.

What would you do with it?

This problem has suggested a prize competition open to all our readers. Just write a letter to the "Editor, Post" A.P.O. S/40—not exceeding 250 words and say exactly what you would do with £12,000 if you came into possession of it.

We offer prizes 50, 20 and 10 marks respectively for the three best answers to the question. The reply you send may be as brief as you like, but it must not exceed the length of 250 words. Write your name and unit below your answer in block letters and let us hear from you not later than November 1st. The Editor's decision will of course be final in judging the merits of the answer to the question, "What would I do with £12.000 if I won it?".

Ceratopogon Pulicaris!

You may not recognise his name—but you know him quite well. He's the little stinging fly which is biting everyone who tries to enjoy the evening outdoors. He will not bite you, however, if you always use. . . .

SAPON RUSSIAN TAR SOAP

You can defy all mosquitos, gnats and other pests which sting and bite.

A Doctor writes:— "I find your Russian Tar Soap gives wonderful results in irritable skin diseases, such as Scabies, Eczema, Pruritus, Insect Bites, Acne, etc." The following is the best method of application:—Moisen the Soap, rub it on the part affected, and allow it to dry.

Sold throughout all the Army Canteens at

OFFICIAL PRICE

Do not pay more. Insist on being supplied. If any difficulty advise us and we will pay postage.

SAPON SOAPS LIMITED
LONDON BRIDGE E.C.4., ENGLAND

PRIVATE DINING ROOMS

ANOTHER N.A.C.B. INNOVATION

Private Dining Rooms for farewell dinners and so on for parties up to twenty may now be engaged at the Officer's Club, Ewige Lampe. Larger parties by arrangement.

HAVE YOUR DEMOB. PARTY AT THE CLUB.

Apply O i/c Clubs
N.A.C.B., H.Q. COLOGNE.

"N.A.C.B. SERVICE"

THOS. COOK & SON

BANKERS, TOURIST, ARMY AND FORWARDING AGENTS

THE FIRM'S COLOGNE BRANCH HAS BEEN RE-OPENED FOR THE CONVENIENCE OF OFFICERS N.C.O'S. AND MEN OF THE ARMY OF OCCUPATION

FOREIGN MONIES EXCHANGED

ADDRESS: 1 DOMHOF
OPPOSITE THE CATHEDRAL

COUSINS
read The Cologne Post. Send it daily to yours.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN at ALHAMBRA
OCT.: 24-30, "TILLYS WEDDING" 11 EHRENSTRASSE

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S./40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

COMPLETE MINERAL WATER PLANT, in running order, with large stock of bottles, Crown corks, and a few syrups. Price complete 15,000 Marks.
COMPRISING:—
1. Bottle and Syphon Machine (Hand Run) made by Barnett & Foster, London. Fitted with foot controlled Filler, Patent Crown Corking Apparatus, water regulating cistern, pressure gauge, water pump and gas cylinder (GO 2) The whole in perfect order, and capable of turning out 200 Doz: bottles, and 100 Doz.: Syphons daily. Cost 15,557 Marks.
2. Motor driven Bottle washing and rinsing Machine by Laubach (Cologne) capable of washing and rinsing 8000 bottles daily. Fitted with brushes both for the inside and outside of bottles, patent revolving rinsing Stand and Automatic Squirts. The whole built of iron throughout. Cost 2,496 Marks.
3. 8 H.P. Petrol Motor, (Water Cooled) with driving bands and all accessories for running the above. Nearly new. Cost 2,625 Marks.
4. Steel Cafe and pedestal new 900 Marks value. The above Plant is the property of the Lancashire Division, and can be viewed at any time on application to the Divisional Canteen Officer, Divisional Reception Camp, close to BONN Station.

TYPE WRITER which has been used one month for sale Marks 1200, on account of change of business. Merkens & Grohé, Köln, Berlich 30.

REGIMENTAL DRAG. Perfect condition. A bargain. Apply Capt. McGuffie, 16th Lancs. Fusiliers, Euskirchen.

GOERZ—ANSCHUTZ 9×12, self capping shutter 1/7 sector 1/1000 T and B, Dagor f. 618 also Nettel 1/5 to 1/1375 sec. and 2 Reflett-Caneras, a bargain. Pohl, Boissereestrasse 12, I Floor (near Hohenstaufen Bad.)

ZEISS—GOERZ—BINOCULAR 6X30 and 8× in splendid condition. Pohl, Boissereestr. 12, I Floor (near Hohenstaufen Bad.)

ATTENTION BRITISHERS. An almost complete collection of War Postage stamps from the central nations for sale. Price moderate (good proposition for speculation.) Can be seen between ten and one o'clock at Waldheim, Venloerstrasse 178.

AQUATIC SPORT. Canoe saleable with all accessories. Apply work day to Michel, Leyendeckerstrasse 37, Ehrenfeld.

WANTED.

A nest of 4 Cylinders for a 15/25 Benz motor engine, 1914 model (known here as a 16/40) New preferred. Apply to Col. 63rd Bde., R.G.A., H.Q., Schlebusch.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 4.5. if poss. but not smaller than 6.8. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

COLOGNE — Hohenstaufenring — Educated young lady requies English conversation with lady in exchange for German. Write to Frl. Käthe R. 13, Cologne Post.

PERSONAL.

WILL ADVERTISER A.B. "Rugger Player," please send name and address to Advt. Manager who has letters waiting.

SPORT.

OFFICER wants bold Dogs to hunt wild boar. Good home. Box 215, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

FOOTBALL. Will all teams who have matches with the R.A.O.C., Nippes please write the Secretary giving dates, as the fixture list has been lost.

* THE COLOGNE POST *
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks. (From U.K. 2/9.)

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

PLEASE WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

15 Marks covers all British possessions.

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, October 26, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S/40 British Army of the Rhine.

THE RHINELAND FORUM "OUR LETTER-BOX" PAGE 4

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

YOUR HOME SUBSCRIPTION RUNNING OUT? SEE TO IT NOW

No. 180. COLOGNE, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

FORTUNES TO BE WON DAILY.

WILL ENGLAND FOLLOW THE LEAD OF FRANCE AND GERMANY WITH PREMIUM BONDS?

U.S. SEETHING WITH LABOUR TROUBLES.

ENORMOUS PREMIUMS.

THE GREAT PRIZE BOND ISSUES OF FRANCE AND GERMANY.

Sir Clement Kinloch-Cooke, M.P., is asking the Chancellor of the Exchequer about the advisability of raising funds by means of a prize loan on similar lines to that announced by the French Government banking authorities.

In the City it is held that the only way to prevent a big sum leaving the country for the French premium bond issue is for the Government to make an attractive premium or bonus bond issue in England. It could not only secure by such a loan the money it needs to pay off the floating debt, but would also derive any extra benefit that might acrue through paying less in prizes and interest, if any, than the ordinary loan would cost in interest.

FRENCH LOTTERY.

The attractiveness of the French scheme undoubtedly has been enhanced by the size and frequency of the prizes. It has been expressly devised in order to settle the country's finances on a sound basis.

The French issue will cost the French Government only about 3 per cent. per annum, including the payment of the prizes. The British Government finds difficulty in borrowing at over 5 per cent.

M. André Lefevre, who has the French proposal in hand, declares that his scheme would not only procure at a very low rate very substantial amounts, but at the end of 20 years there would also be an important annuity available, which would suffice in a short time to write off the whole of the war debt of the country, and this, he contends, would remain after providing the prize of £50,000 to be drawn every day for the first two years, with weekly prizes of two at £20,000, 10 at £4,000, 100 at £400, and 2,000 at £200—every £2 bond entitling the holder to the chance of one of these prizes and to the return of his money, in any case, within 20 years.

GERMANY'S SCHEME.

The forthcoming German Government prize bond issue, while not on so large a scale presents many attractive features.

No less than 5,000,000,000 marks, or in pounds sterling £250,000,000 being involved at normal exchange.

In making this appeal the German Government proposes to create eighty millionaires via the ballot box.

Eighty years is to be the period of the loan, with yearly drawings, 3,000 million marks being drawn for payment in the first 40 years.

Twice yearly there are to be premium drawings, at each of which there will be 2,500 prizes, with total prize money of 25,000,000 marks. The prizes vary in quantity and value, the maximum being five prizes of 1,000,000 marks each, and the lowest 1,000 prizes of 1,000 marks each, all payable under a discount of 10 per cent.

Every second certificate drawn for repayment receives in addition the very considerable bonus of:—

If drawn during the first 30 years	Mks. 1,000
If drawn during the ensuing 10 years	2,000
If drawn during the ensuing 40 years	4,000

Altogether 53 per cent. of the certificates issued can receive prizes and bonus (apart from the interest bonus), while the total prize money distributed during the 80 years' currency of the loan will be 9,875,000,000 marks.

BALTIC STATES.

ALLIES URGED TO OCCUPY TWO TOWNS.

A telegram was communicated to the Supreme Council on Saturday from the British representative at Riga reporting intensified German attacks and urging the Allies to occupy Tilsit and Memel.

M. Pichon said the departure of the Inter-Allied Commission to superintend the evacuation of the Germans from the Baltic provinces (which is still at Paris) will be hastened, and as General Mangin preferred not to go, General Niessel would probably replace him.

Sunday's Paris papers, however, say that General Franchet D'Esperey, commanding the Allied Forces in Turkey, will be sent.

COLOGNE CENSUS.

According to the census taken on the 8th October the population of Cologne is 620,090. There are 292,254 males and 327,736 female inhabitants in the city, an excess of 35,382 females. Amongst the populace there are only 534 persons described as military, a big contrast to 1916, when there were 60,000.

The "beautiful Mrs. Atherton" left £8200 sterling.

AMERICAN UNREST.

TWO MILLION WORKERS THREATEN TO STRIKE. CRITICAL DAYS.

Industrial unrest is spreading in the United States, and serious trouble is feared in a number of vital industries in consequence of the breakdown of the Washington Conference, on which President Wilson had placed great hopes. After the withdrawal of the Labour delegates the Conference ended without any agreement being reached. The Miners' leaders announce that the strike of miners becomes effective on the 1st November.

Before the Conference separated a plan was adopted for a permanent organisation.

Resolutions recommending that natives of each country should be accorded reciprocal recognition in foreign countries, and that Government restrictions on the purchase, shipment and distribution of American coal should be abandoned as soon as practicable. were carried.

Mr. Beuford, Chairman of the Executive Committee, alluding to problems of international credits and methods, whereby the American people may co-operate with Europe in hastening reconstruction, said that saving was necessary on the part of Americans in order to lend Europe the stupendous sums needed.

Mr. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, said there was no reason to believe that the Government could, without the most harmful inflation, continue its advances to foreign countries. He was convinced, therefore, that the financing of Europe, as far as America was concerned, was for private initiative and individual enterprise.

The dock strike at New York has tied up 500 vessels in the harbour. Cargoes of fruit and other perishable foods are rotting in the holds or on the piers. The Shipping Board issued an ultimatum that troops would be used for dock work unless the hands returned to work by Monday.

A statement issued by President Wilson and approved by the Cabinet declares that the proposed strike of bituminous coal miners is unjustifiable and unlawful. It calls upon the officials of the Unions concerned to recall the strike notices, and declares that the law will be enforced and means found to protect the nation. The Cabinet has also decided that a new Industrial Conference shall be called to continue efforts to establish peace.

The situation is regarded as critical in view of the collapse of the industrial conference. It is feared unless a solution of the industrial problems is found quickly 2,000,000 workers will strike within a fortnight.

LONDON TRAMS.

PROPOSED NEW CENTRAL LINES.

The London County Council's new tramway proposals include a line along Holborn linking up the termini at Grays Inn Road and Farringdon-street. A scheme is also propounded to make the Marble Arch a great tramway centre for lines to Victoria (via Grosvenor Place), Cricklewood and Shepherds Bush. With the exception of the Cricklewood line it is anticipated that these proposals will meet with much criticism. The total estimated cost of these and other proposed extensions is four and a-quarter millions.

REMEMBER THE DEAD.

We print below the list of contributions already received for the purpose of placing wreaths on the graves of the British dead interred in the Südfriedhof.

	Marks
Mrs. Gresham Shaw	547.50
Miss A. Steele	200.00
Church Army, per Commandant Howes	50.00
A. M.	15.00
C. J. S. C.	25.00
Captain Stephen E. Bennett	20.00
Anon.	109.00

As the number of graves in the Südfriedhof is greater than at first estimated some 4.500 Marks will be needed. Will all those who are wanting to take part in this tribute to our comrades, who gave all, please send in their contributions at once? Mark envelopes Mrs. Gresham Shaw, c/o Cologne Post, A.P.O., S/40.

THE GOVERNMENT DEFEAT.

Sir Donald McLean, leader of the Independent Liberals in the House of Commons, speaking at Edinburgh on Saturday, declared that there was a great deal more behind the Government's defeat on Thursday than the mere point at issue. The House had determined to reassert its independence, and deeply resented its continued neglect by the Premier.

Royal Choice.—The Queen's Christmas Card bears the title "England and her daughters."

AIR TRAGEDIES.

TERRIBLE STORY OF TRAIL OF DEATH.

Grave allegations of official incompetency, resulting not only in the loss of at least £110,000 but, in the deaths of eleven flying officers, are to be investigated by a commission appointed by the Air Ministry.

On a flying trip to Nice, Lieut.-Colonel G.L.P. Henderson, M.C., found, so he says that on the other side of Marseilles our No. 1 Air Route from London to Egypt is a veritable death-trap owing to lack of organisation.

"Between Marseilles and Nice I came across wrecked Handley Pages, or rather all that was left of them," said Mr. Henderson yesterday. "Pilots whom I met begged me to do my utmost to get the present state of affairs remedied. I gave a solemn promise to do all in my power.

"Shortly after the armistice the Air Ministry decided to open up aerial routes all over the world. The first of these was from England to Egypt. The idea was to make Egypt the world's air traffic junction. Three squadrons of Handley Page machines were ordered to proceed from their depots in France to Egypt. Barely 30 per cent. of them arrived at their destination.

ELEVEN PILOTS KILLED.

"To my knowledge, 11 pilots were killed, including Captain Darley, the hero of the London-Madrid flight. One Handley Page, with two pilots on board, fell into the water. One pilot was rescued by the Italians and his colleague was drowned. The rescued man was immediately sent back for another machine, and it was on his second attempt that I found him, down with troubles of all sorts doing his utmost to repair his machine.

"NO ORGANISATION."

"It was not the fault of the machines nor of the pilots. There was no organisation, and after leaving Marseilles the conditions were appalling. There is a 250-mile flight across water to be made, and at present there is no machine that could be run on that route by any commercial firm with a hope of making it a success.

"I asked a lot of fellows whom I came across stranded on what the Air Ministry calls the 'blazing trail' the cause of their troubles. In nearly every case it was the same, rubber connections in various parts of the engine that had perished. The other parts were in a deplorable condition, and there was no expert assistance within hundreds of miles.

"I want to make it clear that I do not think the responsibility rests with the military side of the R.A.F. who, I know, are engaged on very excellent work."

PENDING BY-ELECTIONS.

"LIBERAL WITHOUT ANY LABEL."

Viscountess Astor, who has been asked by the Plymouth Unionist Association to become a candidate at the ensuing by-election, has consented.

Mr. W. T. Gay, who opposed the Hon. W. Astor at the last election, is again standing as Labour candidate.

Another prospective lady Parliamentary candidate is announced in the person of Miss Mabel Billson, President of the Shrewsbury Women's Liberal Association for the past fifteen years, who has been adopted by the Shrewsbury Liberal Association as prospective Liberal candidate for the division. She announces herself as a follower of Mr. Asquith and a "Liberal without any label."

The situation in the Isle of Thanet division is most confused and there is again a split in the Conservative Party. It transpires that the voting of the Central Council at the meeting which adopted Mr. Esmond Harmsworth was equal, and Mr. Harmsworth was selected in preference to Sir Walter De Frece by the casting vote of the chairman.

A strong movement has been started to induce Sir Walter de Frece to stand as an Independent Conservative, and a third candidate may take the field in the person of Mr. George Foster, a notable figure in Margate.

Meanwhile the Liberals are actively prosecuting the candidature of Captain West, but a large body of electors are urging Mrs. Hatfield, Chairman of the Board of Guardians and member of the Borough Council, to stand. The Labour Party is undecided whether to run a candidate or wait for the next general election.

WAR GRATUITIES.

The War Gratuity granted in December last has now been issued to the legal representatives of over 250,000 officers and men who died in the war. The rate of issue of these gratuities is increasing rapidly, and is now approaching 30,000 weekly. The cases of all officers, including those holding permanent commissions, and men who died on or before the 30th June 1917, have now been taken in hand.

KENTISH WAR MEMORIAL.

Field Marshal Lord French, who unveiled a war memorial at Otham, near Maidstone. on Saturday was able to claim some of the names thereon as comrades of his own in the field. He said he was grateful for the opportunity afforded him to join in paying a last tribute of affection to their memory. Their names would be handed down with a well deserved halo of glory to future generations.

RUSSIAN MYSTERIES.

AMUSING OUTBURST BY TROTZKY.

English newspapers continue to complain of the bewildering inconsistencies in the news from Russia. For example, both the War Office communiqué and the Bolshevist wireless claim for opposing sides the capture of Pavlovsk, twelve miles South of Petrograd, and both announce successes in the neighbourhood of Luga.

French newspapers ironically comment on the Soviet dictatorship being compelled to proclaim a twelve-hour day. Also on their belated single army command, suppression of soldiers councils, and concession of full liberty of action to officers.

Trotzky has issued a "shrieking" wireless message against England, complaining that it is British guns, rifles, ammunition and other material which is being used against the Bolshevists. He urges the Reds to hate "predatory, fallacious, bloody, false-faced England."

TROTZKY'S NARROW ESCAPE.

The Reval correspondent of the "National Tidende" telegraphs that Trotzky's entire staff has been captured at Tsarkoe-selo Trotzky himself jumping out of the railway carriage and escaping in a motor car. The Whites are said to have pursued and fired at him, but Trotzky eventually reached Petrograd.

General Judenitch's left flank is being fired on by the Bolshevist Dreadnought Poltava, which is lying in the Neva inside Petrograd and firing over the housetops at a distance of nine versts (nearly six miles). The Finnish Press Bureau reports that the Reds are making a strong stand at Tsarkoe-Selo which the Whites have outflanked. Tanks are doing very effective work on this front.

NO FINNISH INTERVENTION.

Another Helsingfors paper states that Judenitch has requested the Finnish Government to assist in suppressing the Bolshevist rising in Russia. The Finnish State Council, however, has decided that at present there is no cause for changing the previous policy of non-intervention in the internal affairs of Russia.

The latest Bolshevist communiqués mention the tanks sent against Judenitch as having been made at Petrograd.

The Soviet executive has decided to close all factories at Petrograd and send the workmen to the front. Women employees will have to undergo military training and will be formed into medical corps.

700-MILE FRONT.

Saturday's War Office communiqué reports heavy fighting on the entire 700-mile front from Tsaritzin to Kieff. Red Armies are frantically attempting to restore the morale of the troops concentrated on narrow fronts against the important junctions of Voronej and Orel, which were recently captured, but these successes have entirely failed to stem the general progress of the South Russians.

General Wrangel's Caucasian Army advances successfully on the Tsartzin front. Tows fifty miles North-West of Tsartzin with 1,500 prisoners and much booty have been captured. The Don Army is advancing on a mile front between Tsartzin and Voronej, and has progressed to an extreme depth of fifty-five miles, capturing the important junction of Povorino and occupying Novahigla and Shashovka, with 502 prisoners and some armoured trains. On the 23rd October the Volunteer army occupied Yulets, 230 miles South-east of Moscow. Denikin, who had been compelled to withdraw slightly to the south of Orel, has re-advanced to the outskirts where fighting continues. Heavy fighting has taken place east of Orel, the Volunteers defeating and scattering eight enemy regiments and capturing some hundred prisoners, including a Brigade-Commander's Staff.

Meanwhile the Letts officially announce that Riga has been bombarded with poison-gas shells, 100 civilians falling victims, with many fatalities.

GLASGOW STUDENTS.

ELECT BONAR LAW AS LORD RECTOR.

Polling took place on Saturday for the election of a new Lord Rector of Glasgow University voting proceeded briskly, and the students in grotesque garb created some lively scenes.

The contest afforded the undergratuates the first opportunity for eight years of displaying their political leanings. In time-honoured fashion the students were astir as early as two o'clock in the morning, and by the time the rest of the City awoke there had already been many conflicts between the opposing parties in the streets leading to the University, where the atmosphere was soon heavy with the odour of rotten eggs and the pavements bespattered with red ochre. Many students donned their old khaki, while others were attired in dungarees or football clothes. Many minor injuries were sustained in the scuffles, but the only serious case was that of the Secretary to the University Union, who was forcibly tackled. His head struck the kerb and he was removed to the infirmary.

The result was declared, amid cheers, as follows:—Mr. Bonar Law, Coalition Unionist, 1073, Professor Gilbert Murray Liberal, 726, and the Honourable Bertram Russell, Socialist, 80.

Precious Velours.—Velour hats which went up fabulously in price during the war are now being made in London from rabbit skins.

FRENCH AND "1914."

CRITICISMS AND COUNTER-CRITICISMS.

Strong criticisms of Lord French's book "1914" are published in the Quarterly Review by the Honorable John Fortescue, official historian of the war.

He declares that "when the battle of Le Cateau was being fought Lord French and his staff completely lost their heads and in a vain endeavour to conceal this French has taken leave of all sense of accuracy."

The "Sunday Herald" claims to have the highest authority for stating that Lord French adheres to every word in his book. He is indifferent to Fortescue's charges against himself, says that journal, but resents those against his Staff, which included distinguished men like Sir Archibald Murray, Sir H. H. Wilson, Sir William Robertson and Sir Nevil Macready. Such, continues the journal, are men of whom the Hon. John Fortescue, who has not been a soldier and was not on the spot, coolly says that they lost their heads!

With reference to the allegations that French, in his strictures on the battle of Le Cateau, had a "down" on Smith-Dorrien, who had been sent out to replace Grierson, whereas French wanted Plumer, the journal remarks, "That is a matter easily tested. French's critics are fond of quoting French's despatch wherein he spoke with generous praise of Smith-Dorrien's action in fighting the battle. That was the verdict given before all the facts were known which compelled French to revise that verdict, but the fact that he should have passed such a verdict at all shows that he could have had no such petty prejudice towards his subordinate as is charged against him."

The article proceeds to refute in detail some of the Hon. Fortescue's statements, which it describes as a travesty of the truth. The paper understands that French wrote his book in self-vindication against a campaign initiated by friends of Smith-Dorrien.

V.C. WON IN RUSSIA.

AUSTRALIAN'S FATAL HEROISM.

The King has approved of the award of the Victoria Cross to late 133002 Sergeant Samuel George Pearse, M.M., 45th Batt. Royal Fusiliers (Mildura, Australia),

For most conspicuous bravery, devotion to duty, and self-sacrifice during the operation against the enemy battery position north of Emtsa (North Russia) on Aug. 29.

Sergeant Pearse cut his way through the enemy barbed wire under very heavy machine-gun and rifle fire and cleared a way for the troops to enter the battery position. Seeing that a blockhouse was harassing our advance and causing us casualties, he charged the blockhouse single-handed, killing the occupants with bombs.

He met his death a minute later, and it was due to him that the position was carried with so few casualties.

His magnificent bravery and utter disregard for personal danger, the official record adds, won for him the admiration of all troops.

FOOD AND DRINK.

PROFITEERING IN AMERICAN ZONE.

The American police have unearthed a wholesale traffic in cognac, champagne and rum in the American zone. It is said that since last May one dealer has sold 99,000 marks' worth of cognac and rum to civilians. Another dealer has been sentenced to six months imprisonment and fined five thousand marks. Other arrests are expected. An American proclamation forbids the sale of liquors other than wines and beer.

Profiteering is rife in the American zone, farmers withholding supplies from civilians in order to obtain bigger prices by selling to the Army. This practice will be prevented by fixing the maximum prices to be paid by the military at the same figure as the German Government pays for similar supplies.

PLAIN SPEAKING.

WARNING TO SOUTH AFRICAN DISLOYALISTS.

Sir Thomas Smartt, Leader of the Opposition in the South African Parliament, addressing a meeting of Unionists, referred to republican propaganda and declared that Britishers in South Africa and the Dominions are not going to allow a band of disappointed politicians to disintegrate the Empire (cheers). "There might arise a position in which it would be necessary to fight — and they would fight." (loud and prolonged cheers). "That," said Sir Thomas, "is not braggadocio, but plain truth."

KING OF SPAIN'S VISIT.

The King of Spain visited Ex-Queen Amelie and ex-King Manoel at Richmond on Saturday.

In the evening he dined with the Spanish Ambassador at the Spanish Embassy. The Prime Minister was present.

General Diaz, the Earl and Countess of Athlone, the Lord Mayor of London and the Lady Mayoress, the Chinese Minister and Lord Northcliffe, were among those who called at the Ritz Hotel to sign the visitors' book.

GAOL BREAKERS.

SINN FEIN M.P.S ESCAPE FROM PRISON.

Six Sinn Fein prisoners, including Mr. A. Stack (W. Kerry) and Mr. P. Beasley (E. Kerry), Members of Parliament, escaped from Strangeways gaol, Manchester, on Saturday.

The escape took place at tea-time, the warder being overpowered, gagged, bound and thrown into a cell. The prisoners then scaled the outer wall by means of a rope ladder thrown over from the street and descending by a wooden ladder placed in readiness on the other side.

WAR REUNIONS.

HONOUR THE BRAVE DEAD AND THE LIVING.

Field Marshal Lord Grenfell presided at the reunion dinner of the survivors of the 16th Bn. King's Royal Rifles in London, in submitting the toast of the Regiment he said he had nothing but praise for their splendid gallantry in France, notably at High Wood, Bullecourt and Neuve Eglise. A famous General had told him that at the latter place it was to a large extent due to the gallant fighting of the battalion that the attempt of the German Army to force its way through to Calais was defeated.

He was pleased to be able to say that through their bravery on the battlefield more money had come into the Church Lads Brigade than ever before, and now that the war was over and many other organisations were exhausted, the finances of the Brigade were in good condition.

13th HUSSARS,

Comrades of the 13th Hussars, with 110 members of the regiment now serving at Aldershot, met at a dinner on Saturday at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet-street, for the first time since 1913. Lieutenant-general Baden-Powell, Colonel of the Regiment, presiding, said the regiment had set a glorious example to the present and future generations. He mentioned that Sir Harry Eve, whose son was killed in Mesopotamia, had inaugurated a benevolent fund for the regiment. The amount aimed at was five thousand pounds.

47th (LONDON) DIVISION H.Q.

The first reunion of the 47th (London) Division H.Q. took place at Anderton's Hotel under the Chairmanship of Major-General Sir William Thwaites, K.C.M.G., C.B. Amongst others present were Brig.-General A.F. Turner, C.M.G., D.S.O., Lieut.-Colonel Blyth, Lieut.-Colonel Galbraith, Lieut.-Colonel Maade and Major Carlisle.

The great feature of the smoking concert was the appearance of several members of old Divisional Follies, which during the war, under the name of the "Quarante Se(p)t." was one of the best concert parties on the Western Front.

In thanking General Thwaites for his presence some amusing references were made by the Hon. Secretary to the work of the London Divisions. Whilst certain London troops were bathing their feet in the Sea of Galilee, the feet of the 47th were being treated with whale oil in Flanders; and whilst the 60th Division were encountering whatever dangers their entry into the Garden of Eden entailed, the 47th were withstanding the temptations of the Eves of Abbeville and Amiens.

The Hon. Secretary, Mr. H. Hinton, would be glad if any late members of the Div. H.Q. Staff would communicate with him at Room 90, Royal Courts of Justice, London.

NEW LABOUR CABINET.

The scheme for creating a Central Labour Authority—a "Labour Cabinet"—to co-ordinate Trade Union activity and deal with any emergency that may arise in industrial disputes, is making progress. As at present devised, the plan is to establish a special department under the control of the Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress. This scheme will shortly be discussed by the Labour leaders. Mr. Harry Gosling, who was one of the leaders of the Mediation Committee in the recent railwaymen's strike, states that the proposed body will act in an advisory and consultative capacity.

PADRE TO BE TRIED.

An application in the Dublin King's Bench Division for a writ of Habeas Corpus in the case of the Australian Chaplain O'Donnell was refused.

It is expected that he will be handed over to the Australian military authorities for Court-martial.

INCREASED NAVAL PENSIONS.

Replying to a Deputation from the Federation of Discharged and Demobilised Soldiers and Sailors which waited on him at the Admiralty, Dr. Macnamara said that the Admiralty were submitting to the Treasury a revised scheme of naval pensions which would involve substantial increases.

CONSUL KIDNAPPED BY BANDITS.

The Senate Department at Washington has sent an ultimatum to Mexico demanding the release of the American consular agent Jenkins, who has been kidnapped by Mexican bandits, even if the Mexican Government itself has to pay the ransom of 150,000 dollars demanded.

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Representative Mr. A.J.R. LEE is at OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

Has recently returned from London with a stock of hosiery & a new selection of patterns for mufti wear. Officers requiring shirts etc. for the winter, can now be supplied from stock.

KODAKS

New and Second-hand at keenest prices. Send for Lists. All Supplies by Post. Wallace Heaton Ltd. 9, Change Alley, SHEFFIELD

SIMPLICISSIMUS
Cabaret and Wine-Room
— Hohestrasse 152—154. —
Twice daily first-class singing and dancing performances. Open from 4.30 to 10.45 p.m.
— For Officers and Civilians only. —

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!
Cheap watches!
6 watches working well, in different beautiful boxes, Marks 48.00.
12 watches Marks 84.00.
With luminous dial 1 Mark extra each.
Packing and transport extra.
Sent against reimbursement.
J. GOLDSTEIN, COLOGNE
Blindgasse 24.
WHOLESALE. EXPORT.

Court Hairdressers & Beauty Specialists
FR. TH. STOELTZNER, Gereonstr. 16.
London Experience—Reasonable Charges
Tram-lines 11, 18, 20 past the Shop

AGENTS
Exportation Importation
Nettesheim & Karbach
Godesberg a. Rh.

We are wholesale buyers of sporting goods such as:
FOOTBALLS & BLADDERS
FOOTBALL BOOTS
JERSEYS, RUNNING-SHOES, TENNIS SHOES
BOXING GLOVES, HOCKEY STICKS & BALLS ETC.
EKERT & CO., COLOGNE
Kamekestrasse 31, Telephone A 6628

FURS
in SKUNK — AUSTRAL OPOSSUM — SEAL — FOX, in all forms and colours, newest models or, if desired, manufacturing to own design.
No shop — therefore equitable prices
E. KAUFFMANN, Rich. Wagnerstr. 411
(near Opera House)

KULA CARPET
about 3 · 4 yards, family heirloom emanating from ancient castle, having beautiful colouring and artistic design, in excellent condition, to be sold on account of special circumstances, to private individual only, price 70,000 Marks. Experts opinion has been obtained Serious buyers may apply under A 313 Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40.

BREECHES
WELHAUSEN
Uniform-Manufactory founded 1873
COLOGNE
Kreuzgasse 22, first floor close Schauspielhaus, Tel. A 4705.

Cologne- Gymnastic and Sporthouse
Willpütz-Güsten
COLOGNE
Mühlenbach 28, near Waidmarkt.
SPECIAL SHOP FOR SPORT ARTICLES.
We recommend:
Footballs and football boots.
Rubber bladders — Football stockings.
First-class German and foreign make.
Football jerseys, Sport breeches.
Nailed running shoes with steel-pieces.
Hockey sticks with rubber pieces.
Expanders in different strengths.
Rubber knee socks - shinbone protectors
Umpire's whistles.—pumps and all articles of sport at low prices.

Optician
C. Pichon
COLOGNE, Hohestr. 150
Careful examination of eyes
in specially fitted rooms
PRISMATIC FIELD GLASSES

ENORMOUS SUCCESS OF
"THE JESTERS"
The first civilian music hall party to visit Rhineland.
SIX LONDON VARIETY ARTISTES INCLUDING Mr.
JOE MORLEY
The famous Banjoist of the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN.
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY.
Mr. HARRY KING.
Mr. FRANK HOOK.
Mr. CHASS LEWIS.
Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage The Jesters. Vacant dates Monday Oct. 27th, Thurs., 30th, and Sat. Nov. 1. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office or may be seen personally at 11 o/c each morning at Amusements Office, Komödienstrasse, Cologne.

FOR ALL W. O's AND SERGEANTS
The
"OLD DUTCH HOUSE"
W.O's AND SERGEANTS
• CLUB •
NEXT TO THE EWIGE LAMPE
KOMÖDIEN STRASSE
A comfortable and convenient meeting place for Warrant Officers & Sergeants and their wives. Superior canteen and bar. No membership. Open to all o W. O's & Sergeants o
N. A. C. B.
"SERVICE FOR SOLDIERS"

Paula Desborough
Is leaving Cologne on Nov. 1st for a short holiday in London.
She will be resuming lessons in ballroom dancing on Wednesday Nov. 12th.
Appointments may now be made with her for lessons on or after that date at:
The KAISER WILHELM HOTEL
Kaiser Wilhelm Ring
or by letter to Box 131, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40. Telephone A 4325.

Do you require
Saddles, horse-harness, leather leggings or other saddler's work ?
We have all these things well made in our own workshops.
Saddlery PETER DECKER
23 Venloerstr., COLOGNE.
Tram 3, 4, 5, 6 & 17 pass the door.

EXPORT EXPORT
IMPORTANT FOR BUYERS
Solingen Steelware
RAZORS
Conyar, Bismarck, Hamburg-Ring and other first-class razors.
Scissors of every kind.
Pocket-knives — manicure — alyaka — aluminium — knives, forks and spoons with wooden handles. — Safety-razors, blades for cutting-machines for sale cheap at
FABRIKLAGER ADAMS, COLOGNE
GLADBACHERSTRASSE 21.

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor
BESTE ☆ QUALITÄT ☆ Tückmar ☆ FEINSTER ☆ SILBERSTAHL
Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???
Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!
The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!
TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.
Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 32-34.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE:
From Nov. 3rd the Deutsches Theatre performances will commence at 6 p.m. nightly, excepting Wednesdays and Fridays, when they will begin at 8 p.m.

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.
At 6 p.m. Monday and during the week
The Y.M.C.A. presents
A GILBERT AND SULLIVAN CONCERT PARTY
including
Miss Mary Hilliard. Soprano
Albert Hall Concerts Last Season
Miss Aimée Shergold. Contralto
D' Oyly Carte Principal Opera Co.
Miss Gwendolyn Teagle. Violinist
8 times in France during the war with Lena Ashwell Parties
Miss Nora Drake.
Accompanist and songs at the piano
Mr. Clay Thomas.
The well known London Baritone
Mr. Patric Playfair.
The celebrated Conjurer

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
At 6 p.m. Monday, October 27th, and during the week
The London Division presents
"THE CRUMPS"
in a complete change of programme

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA.
32 Komödienstrasse
At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures
Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.
Grand Orchestra and Pictures.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA. Hohe Strasse
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS,
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

THIS (Tuesday) EVENING
at the
COLOGNE CENTRAL Y.M.C.A.
(44, Friesenstrasse.)
LOVELY HALL. — 6.30. Conjouring Entertainment.
GREAT HALL. — 6.30 to 9.30. Cinema and Orchestra.
The British Children's School will be opened next week. In the meantime, the Dancing class will be held every Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a.m.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 659. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.

Tuesday, October 28, 1919.

FORTUNES FOR THRIFT.

In spite of all statements made at the time of issue we now know that the last Victory Loan was a comparative failure.

The mere offer of fair interest has ceased to be a sufficient inducement for most people to invest their savings. Especially in the case of small sums the yearly revenue is too insignificant to make much appeal to the masses.

What does appeal to everyone is an investment that offers some chance of a substantial prize or premium. We do not mean simply a lottery, for in that, one's capital is lost if a prize is not secured.

But if our leaders will throw off the timidity which hinders them from honestly admitting that an issue of bonds giving large prizes instead of mere interest actually has less gambling element than most other financial operations, then we shall find an almost unlimited amount of money forthcoming from every class to wipe out the huge deficit which now faces our country.

Our ally France, and our late enemy Germany, are bolder and wiser. Both countries are making an issue of prize bonds on a scale hitherto unheard of, France for 2,400 million pounds, Germany for 5,000 million marks. The features of the two issues are similar. In neither case will interest be paid, but in lieu of this very large prizes will be drawn for at frequent intervals.

In the case of the French Bonds, some holder will gain £50,000 every day for the first two years and smaller amounts at weekly intervals through the life of the issue. Besides these attractive premiums each bond must be drawn at some time or other for redemption at par. The bondholders' capital thus remains intact.

We have only space to give the outstanding features of these bonds. The German issue, though on a somewhat smaller scale, has equally advantageous features. Twice a year, 25 million marks will be distributed in prizes.

Of course premium bonds are no novelty, except in England. They have been the favourite investment of the masses in Europe for years, but nothing so big has been projected before. The urgent need for money to pay for the war has brought these huge issues into being.

Both will raise without difficulty and in a popular way, immense sums; and if our legislators have the wisdom and courage to follow suit there would be an overwhelming response from our people. And Tommy, we know, would support such a scheme to a man.

THE ROAD TO HEALTH.

TAKEN AT YOUR OWN RISK.

"Health enables us to walk and talk and in many other ways contributes to our ease and comfort. Yet how many realise that it can be had at a slight cost?"

The above is an utterance by a well-known physician, and his question about cost suggests that a few hints and facts should be given.

First, digestion. It should be noted that no food can be digested until it is eaten, unless, of course you hunger strike and the tube method is resorted to. You can see teeth; and the stomach is also visible, but the appetite, which is a very important item, is invisible. It should, however, always be present if it is not, send for it.

The teeth are used to chew with and should not be misused i.e., to untie knots or for smiles. The stomach surrounded by nerves is a delicate piece of industry. These nerves are supplied for the purpose of keeping the stomach off the ground.

The alimentary canal is the stomach's chief assistant, and its canal boats humbly ply their way with food to the distributing centres. This canal, though usually placid, is very apt to be disturbed by "fizzy drinks." And this wrecks many boats.

Food is very essential. Without it, the eyes glaze, the nose twitches, the legs totter and the stomach flutters in the breeze. Opinions differ as to what are the best foods for man. Nitrogenous substances with carbo-hydrates and fruit-salts, fats and leans are recommended for all.

It is very necessary to observe the nitrogen in all food and to test its genuineness. Each carbo-hydrate should be turned over to see that it conceals nothing before it is swallowed.

Water is good for drinking, albeit wine is better. The wine should always be drunk from a glass, as the physical effect of wine that is seen by the eye as it goes towards the alimentary canal cannot be overestimated. If water is drunk care should be taken, as each drop contains germs of bacteria, some of which are friendly but others equally hostile. Before a drop enters the system it should be carefully examined and the hostile germs sent to an internment camp.

Shakspeare has said, "Health is wealth." And he might also have said "Exercise obtains Health." The lungs need exercise as they are composed of innumerable cells.

A cell is a place where microbes hold councils of war and seek whom they wish to devour. When the oxygen atoms come in they travel by subway after conversion, to other parts of interest. When the breath is expelled, the walls of the lungs fall in.

Therefore, deep breathing is necessary. To do this inhale till the chest reaches the ceiling, then let it fall back to the abdominal region which will be waiting for it with open arms. While doing so whistle "Rule Britannia" or "Finnigan's Ball."

Bathing in cold water is an excellent help to health. Fill a bath with cold water, throw in a few lumps of ice to give it body, and you will experience an invigorating change.

Swiftly remove your fur lined overcoat and step quickly into the bath whistling as you go, or better still sing "It's nice to get up in the morning, but its nicer to lie in bed."

Take a sharp walk in the fresh air daily. If there is no fresh air, you can get it in tins from any ironmongers' shop.

Cold feet can be easily cured if you follow this advice. Put them in a not oven for fifty minutes, then plunge them into an ice-cream freezer. This is a remarkable cure.

Any person who cannot follow the advice given here should apply to the nearest blacksmith, and allow the latter to hit him once (once is sufficient) on the head with a hammer.

Then he can painlessly pass into the next world. It is a certainty he will be better off there as he can never be healthy unless he makes use of these hints.

W.L.C.

TRAGEDY!

A faint haze hung over the distant line of hills.

The air was heavy with the scent of new-mown hay.

The lazy droning of bees and the twittering of the birds acted as sweet music to the ears.

Old Father Rhine flowed silently beneath me.

It was an earthly paradise for the poet, a Mecca for the artist.

Across the river the ground rose gently from the water's edge. Like some delicate tracery of Dame Nature's, the vineyards could be seen, whilst the roof of a diminutive house here and there peeped out from amid the foliage of the trees.

Stretched on my back I revelled in the scene.

Dreamily I watched a string of barges with their attendant tug glide silently by.

A crowded pleasure steamer threshed its way up stream, the strains of sweet music came across the water.

It was indeed good to be alive in this the year of our Lord 1930.

How my thoughts went back to those halcyon days when I had been a member of His Majesty's Army of Occupation.

Rhineland knew them no more.

Long since had they been relegated to the limbo of forgotten things.

A vista of cheery faces floated before me, of pals I had known.

Duffy with his dry humour, Green with his "wet" humour, scintillating at its best after acquaintance with the bottle.

I wondered what they would be doing now.

But I had not regretted remaining in Rhineland.

After all, Germany had begun to regain her commercial prestige, and, —well I had no cause for complaint. But time pressed and reluctantly I rose to go.

Regaining the high road I footed it blithely homeward. Then it was that I came across a link with the dim past. Staggering along the road in evident distress I saw a bearded patriarch.

His face was haggard, he had the look of a man who had known better days. Beneath the grime I saw a faint semblance to a uniform. He tottered feebly and just in time I caught him, saving him a nasty fall.

Tenderly I assisted him to the roadside, and while seated he told me his pitiful tale.

"Do you remember the Army of Occupation of 1919?" he commenced, seeing that I could speak English.

I informed him that I had been a member of that happy community.

"Ah!" he sighed "those were happy days."

He paused and reflected. For some time he appeared lost in thought and kept murmuring to himself "G.R.O." "G.R.O." "Well?" he continued "in the year 1919 I commenced to walk from Cologne. An unsympathetic War Office had deprived me of the use of a car. A.P.M.s were very conscientious in those days. I could not get a lift."

Like a flash it all came back to me.

Therein lay the meaning of those mystic words "G.R.O."

Dusk was falling when I left the bearded patriarch.

I wonder if he has reached Coblenz yet.

HAWKEYE.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

THE PLAYS SOME PEOPLE WANT.

Sir,—Several correspondents have recently offered, through your columns, suggestions as to plays suitable for production by the B.R.A.D.C.; these suggestions are very flattering to the capability and versatility of the performers, but they make it very evident that the writers of the letters are unaware of the difficulties under which the R.A.D.C. are labouring.

Take, for instance, the suggestion that "The Still Alarm" should be produced. This requires a fully-equipped fire-station, engine, and horses on the stage, not to mention numerous other mechanical devices.

Not only is the supply of scenery and properties limited, but wardrobe also is a factor to be considered, most of the male members of the cast being entirely dependent on the producer's private theatrical wardrobe.

Limited time for rehearsal is another point overlooked by your correspondents, who also seem to imagine that any play can be put on without application or payment to author or publisher.

It is rather amusing to find a suggestion from someone who wishes to avoid plays which prudes might consider immoral, that "Mr. Wu" and "The Yellow Ticket" be played.

Another correspondent, evidently one who should not visit any other form of entertainment than the cinema, suggests lurid melodrama, and after referring to plays with morbid endings or dealing with sex problems, quotes "The Mollusc" and "Helen with the High Hand." Has he seen either of these productions?

Finally, there are the limitations of the performers, the majority amateurs, several of whom had never previously appeared on any stage. This is a point which has to be carefully considered in selecting and casting plays, consequently those pieces in which "straight parts" preponderate must be the first choice. Character comedians are very necessary for farces and comedies like those suggested, and though most of us have benefited greatly by the admirable training we receive under such a capable producer as Lieut. S.E. Percy, he would scarcely be justified, even in his most generous mood, in entrusting us with parts like those played by W. S. Penley or James Welch.

CECIL SPIEGELHALTER,
Captain, Lancs Fus

Sir,—With regard to the correspondence on the R.A.D.C., I for one would dearly like to see several of the more recent London plays, for instance "Within the Law," which appealed to me more than any play I have yet seen, "Bella Donna" and all those mentioned by "One of the Gods."

Let them also give us the comedies mentioned by "Durham Lad" including "Grumpy." These are far more interesting than such as "Helen with the High Hand" and such like.

"POP-FOR-ME."

Sir,—I read "One of the Gods" letter with amazement. He says he would prefer plays such as he mentions. But does he realise that such plays as "Mr. Wu," "Romance," etc. are difficult plays to produce?

The London stars take about three months to rehearse them. Does he expect the B.R.A.D.C. to devote so much time just for one week's run?

True, it could run for two or more weeks, but would it be advisable?

I can assure "One of the Gods" he wants something for his money.

As for the B.R.A.D.C. aiming high I have not noticed anything difficult in Bernard Shaw's plays. As for "The Title," "Hindle Wakes," etc., they are London plays. So really your correspondent has nothing to shout about. SATISFIED.

A CORPORAL'S PLAINT.

Sir,—Hearing that a club for N.C.O.s had opened next to Ewige Lampe, I repaired there in great glee and butted into an ominous notice which read, "W.O.s and Sergeants only."

Therefore being only an insignificant corporal I put my coat-tail between my legs and crawled away.

Are not corporals entitled to a similar institution or cannot the new club be opened to all N.C.O's including corporals?

G.H.E.

THANKS FROM THE W.R.A.F.S.

Sir,—Most of the "Wrafs on the Rhine" have left for Blighty, and we who remain expect to follow very soon.

We have had a very happy time both here and in France, and innumerable dances and entertainments have been arranged for us, and everything done to make our after duty hours as pleasant as possible.

We would like to thank all the officers and men of the different regiments who have so generously entertained us, and to let them know how we have appreciated all the good times they have given us.

Having done our little "bit", we are returning to "civvies" once more, all to different parts of the globe, but wherever we go we shall always look back on the days spent in Rhineland and France in 1919 as some of the happiest days of our lives.

W.R.A.F.

CIVILIANS IN CANTEENS.

Sir,— Surely the time has come when some provision might be made by the authorities of the N.A.C.B. Officers' Canteen for the increasing number of civilian customers.

This afternoon I spent fifteen minutes, and other British officers and ladies presumably more, waiting for access to the counter, while a party of civilians proceeded with a leisurely inspection of various cigars, incidentally filling up the very limited space open to the public and demanding the entire attention of the one assistant available at the counter.

One is prepared to wait one's turn and to meet with some delay at a busy time at the canteen, but not to stand aside while a party of civilians with an evident surplus of spare time on their hands examine box after box of cigars, enquire after whisky, translate prices volubly into three different languages, and haggle over a missing mark in the change when they finally decide on a purchase, regardless of the growing crowd in waiting.

This is not what the N.A.C.B. is for.

J. S.

BOXING FILMS.

Sir,— The "Movie Man" regrets to inform "Anti-box" that the "Community Motion Picture Bureau" is responsible for the boxing film at present being exhibited and is sorry such an unseemly exhibition has been attributed to the Y.M.C.A. "Anti-box" should leave pictures and return to knitting.

"MENS SANA IN CORPORE SANO."

BOOKING OPERA SEATS.

Sir,—Cannot better arrangements be made at the Opera house booking office to enable insignificant "subs" to obtain a seat occasionally instead of all the seats being booked up by 'phone by a few?

On Wednesday evening I enquired if I could book a seat for Sunday, but was informed that no booking could be done until Thursday, and was told to come in the morning at 10 o'clock.

I arrived at 10 sharp on Thursday morning to find a queue of about 150 people waiting. The office did not open until nearly 10.15 and from then until I got to the office at 11.20 the telephone was incessantly ringing and was attended to whilst those requiring tickets were kept waiting.

When I finally got to the office I was politely informed that there were no more for Sunday, as over fifty had been booked over the 'phone.

Incidentally, an officer with whom I was talking whilst waiting, told me he had come from Bonn for tickets. He also went empty away.

During my wait I noticed people going away with six or even more tickets. I suggest that telephone bookings be washed out and everyone shall take their chance in the queue. Also that no person be allowed more than two tickets for any one person. This would prevent one person booking seats for others.

Another thing I would suggest is that people, especially ladies who come late, should take their proper places in the queue. Several ladies who were a considerable distance behind me, discovered they had friends in front and then remained with them, thus taking an unfair advantage over those who arrived earlier.

FED UP.

AT HOME AND HERE.

Sir,—Your correspondent who draws comparisons between the external appearance of the Britisher and German as regards clothes must be very green.

It is not so many months ago that the average German was shabby and down-at-heel as a result of a shortage of materials and the present, prosperous air has only been acquired of late. Thank God, we did not have to contend with his experiences.

Putting that on one side, is there not a call for economy? The wearing of a shabby suit is to be commended if it means that the country benefits, even in a small way.

J.A.

DOESN'T LIKE JAZZ.

Sir,—After listening to the efforts of a combination styling themselves a Jazz Band I have come to the conclusion that it should be made a penal offence for any such crowd of individuals to thrust themselves upon an audience claiming pretensions to sanity.

A more weird, idiotic, soul-rasping din I have never listened to before. If such folk want to mimic a party of uncivilised savages then let them hie away to the centre of a wood and amuse themselves to their hearts' content. Individuals are now occupying padded rooms for a lesser offence.

JACKO.

BUDDING PLAYWRIGHTS.

Sir,—Lieutenant Percy has a positive genius for discovering good actors. Could he not do something for aspiring playwrights? I feel sure there are a few in the British Rhine Army.

Why not have a competition and stage the prize-winner at the Deutsches Theatre?

C.W.J.

TO A SMALL BOY.

Bang, bang the drum my son, and blow
The trumpet loud and shrill,
And wave thy tiny sword, although
There's no one there to kill.

Stand up thy soldiers one by one
Along the chequered hall
And shoot them with thy tiny gun
And laugh to see them fall.

To thee the war is but a name,
Its horrors unrevealed;
But father plays the self-same game
Though in a grimmer field.

He plays at soldiers far away
Although it's not for fun
That in the future thou mayst play
At soldiers— . . . with thy son,

(From "Poets in Picardy" by Major E. De STEIN.)

BRITISH v. AMERICANS.

10th Corps Poloists Defeated by Yankees at Coblenz.

A LIVELY GAME.

The American Cavalry Four recently played a polo team from the 10th Corps of the British Army of the Rhine on the Airdrome Field at Coblenz, when the former piled up 11 goals. In consequence of fouls, however, the American team was penalized three times, and the score at the end of the match was 9½ to 0.

The game was characterised by fast and lively encounters, the Arabian ponies ridden by the British officers showing remarkable cleverness. The British players were individually good, but for want of practice as a team they were heavily defeated by the Yanks. The following was the line-up with names of goal scorers:—

Cavalry team—Lieut. Col. J. M. Wainwright, No. 1; Maj. Terry Allen, No. 2; J. S. Tate, No. 3, and Capt. D. L. Rumbough, No. 4.

Goals—Lieut. Col. Wainwright, 5; Maj. Tate, 2; Maj. Allen, 4.

Fouls against Lieut. Col. Wainwright, 1; Maj. Tate 1; Maj. Allen, 1.

10th Corps—Maj. G. Fleming, No. 1; Col. G. H. Jackson, No. 2; Lieut. Col. G. C. Kelly, No. 3, and Brig. Gen. A. C. Sully-Flood, No. 4.

Col. J. C. Montgomery was referee.

COVERED COURTS TENNIS.

Great Struggle between Ritchie and Mavrogordato.

The light was more favourable to the players engaged in the earlier matches when play was resumed at Queen's Club.

A large company was present in the hope of witnessing a keenly-contested match of the good old English type between those old opponents, M. J. G. Ritchie and T. M. Mavrogordato.

Mavrogordato opened strongly and won the first set, but Ritchie gradually played himself in and annexed the second and third sets by some sterling play. His passes were strong and accurate, so much so, indeed, that Mavrogordato, when he reached the ball, either found the net or failed to get the ball into court. Base-line play was mostly indulged in by both men, but the rallies were singularly free from monotony. When Mavrogordato had won the fourth set Ritchie appealed against the light, and it was agreed, with the consent of the referee, to replay the match at 12.30 p.m. on Saturday.

ENGLISH BILLIARDS.

Stevenson Steadily Reducing Newman's Lead.

The closing scores in the Stevenson-Newman and Reece-Falkiner billiards matches on Saturday were:—

Newman 7896; Stevenson (in play) 7012.

Reece (in play) 7750; Falkiner 7325.

REECE ACCEPTS CHALLENGE.

Reece apparently is just as keen as Smith to get to grips, for yesterday the Lancastrian informed a "Sporting Life" representative that he accepted the Darlington player's new challenge in its entirety. This means that Reece is ready to play 16,000 up level for £200 a side, the winner to take the whole of the gate receipts after expenses are met.

Reece submits the two weeks commencing Monday, Jan. 12 as a suitable date, and is waiting to hear if this meets the convenience of Smith and what venue the latter suggests for the match.

STABLE LADS STRIKE.

After drawing their pay on Friday evening, Epsom stable lads decided to strike on their demand for 50 shillings per week minimum and 10 shillings per day expenses when they attend away meetings. The trainers offer £2-2-0 and 5/- a day expenses when the lads get home the same night and 10/- when they remain away the night.

AUSSY CRICKETERS IN AFRICA.

The Australian Imperial Forces cricket team opened their tour, which will consist of five matches at Capetown, Johannesburg, and Durban, by defeating the Western Provinces. In the first innings the Western Provinces scored 160, P. Hands accounting for 63. Lampard took five wickets for 29.

In the second innings the South Africans compiled 179, Hearne making 55. Lampard's analysis was seven for 71.

The Australians' first innings yielded 141, Lampard scoring 55. Budgen secured seven wickets for 70.

The visitors in their second innings knocked up 200 for eight wickets (Trennery 55) thus winning the match.

"JACK HOBBS, LIMITED."

"Jack Hobbs, Limited, 59, Fleet-st., London, E.C.4," does not necessarily mean that the famous Surrey and international cricketer is in future to limit himself to a certain number of runs per innings or the number of runs he will save at cover-point. It simply means that he has become a specialist in sports requisites, and opened a place of business at the address given above yesterday.

SCOTTISH LADIES' GOLF FINAL.

The final of the Scottish Ladies' Golfing Association's "Victory" Tournament, played on the Old Course, at St. Andrews, on Saturday, lay between two members of the St. Rule Club, St. Andrews, in Miss Ida Kyle and Miss Lena Scroggie. Miss Kyle won by 3 up and 2 to play, making her the holder of the Cup She represented Scotland in 1910 and 1911, and in the latter year was runner-up in the Scottish Ladies' Championship.

SATURDAY'S FOOTBALL.

Villa Spring a Welcome Surprise at Middlesborough.

IRELAND AND ENGLAND DRAW.

Ireland were a goal down less than 30 seconds after the game began at Belfast; it was a nasty jar, but the Irishmen soon settled down and gave Hardy some rare handfuls. A stubborn game was fought out at a splendid pace, and the representatives of Erin got an equalising goal midway through the second half, to the great delight of the huge crowd.

DIVISION I.

West Bromwich greatly assisted their championship aspirations, by the terrible trouncing they gave Notts County. Eight goals without a reply needs some explaining away. Newcastle are still hard on the "Throstles" heels, their win at Preston without McCracken being a smart performance.

Aston Villa provided the biggest surprise of the day; to conquer Middlesboro' at Ayresome Park, following their recent displays, was a staggering blow to followers of form. The Arsenal again failed at home, and it is a fact that their best displays have been given on foreign pastures. Burnley's failure at home was an unexpected happening.

DIVISION II.

The "Hammers" did well at Birmingham, as also did the "Seasiders" at Leicester. Hull City failed at Grimsby; as this, however, is always a "needle" match one cannot attribute their defeat to form. Coventry's second draw against top teams in two weeks indicates that their team is blending together and the City should soon climb away from the bottom.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE.

Portsmouth's failure at Luton was a big surprise; the absence of Bookman seemingly did not affect the "Hatters" line. Brentford fell at Merthyr, but Queens Park continued their conquering career. Reading's failure to account for the Palace was a big disappointment and Northampton's six against the "Saints" created a mild sensation.

SCOTTISH LEAGUE.

In Scotland, Rangers and Celtic were again victorious while Morton put paid to St. Mirren's account.

There were no less than four draws of one goal all, in this league, and but two home teams failed.

In all ten away teams succeeded on Saturday, a remarkable happening.

THE RESULTS.

Notts County Heavily Trounced by the "Throstles".

The results of the principal football matches played on Saturday were:—

Victory International.

Ireland	1	England	1

English League.—First Division.

Woolwich Arsenal	1	Bradford City	2
Bradford	1	Chelsea	0
Burnley	1	Live pool	2
Derby County	1	Oldham A.	1
Everton	3	Blackburn Rovers	1
Manchester City	4	Sheffield Wed.	2
Middlesbrough	1	Aston Villa	4
Preston North End	2	Newcastle United	3
Sheffield United	2	Manchester United	2
Sunderland	2	Bolton Wand.	0
West Bromwich A.	8	Notts County	0

Second Division.

Barnsley	0	Stockport County	0
Birmingham	0	West Ham United	1
Bury	2	South Shields	1
Coventry	0	Bristol	0
Fulham	2	Huddersfield T.	2
Grimsby Town	2	Hull City	1
Leicester City	2	Blackpool	3
Lincoln City	2	Clapton Orient	1
Nottingham Forest	1	Wolverhampton W.	0
Stoke	3	Rotherham	0

Southern League.

Bristol R.	4	Southend	1
Cardiff	3	Swindon	3
Exeter	3	Millwall	1
Gillingham	1	Newport	3
Luton	2	Portsmouth	0
Merthyr Town	2	Brentford	1
Plymouth	4	Norwich City	0
Queen's Park R.	3	Watford	0
Reading	0	Crystal Palace	0
Southampton	2	Northampton	6
Swansea	1	Brighton and Hove	1

Scottish League.

Airdrieonians	2	Hamilton Acad	0
Ayr	1	Hibernians	0
Celtic	3	Queen's Park	1
Dumbarton	1	Raith Rovers	1
Dundee	0	Glasgow Rangers	2
Falkirk	1	Albion R.	1
Heart of Mid.	1	Aberdeen	1
Motherwell	1	Kilmarnock	1
Partick Thistle	3	Clydebank	2
St. Mirren	1	Greenock M.	3
Third Lanark	4	Clyde	1

Rugby Union.

London Welsh	0	Merchant Taylors	11
Cardiff	21	Neath	6
Leicester	0	Newport	11
Exeter	6	Plymouth	35
Swansea	12	Gloucester	5
Pontypool	3	Bristol	0
Harlequins	3	Cambridge	43
Oxford	38	Richmond	0
Rossyn	0	Guy's Hospital	24
London Scottish	3	Blackheath	25

Northern League.

Barrow	13	Warrington	4
Batley	9	Hull	5
Halifax	19	Dewsbury	6
St. Helens Rec.	16	Bramley	6
Hull Kingston R.	3	Hudders-field	26
Keighley	0	Bradford	12
Leeds	37	York	8
Oldham	26	St. Helens	3
Leigh	11	Salford	6
Wakefield	2	Hunslet	5
Wigan	10	Broughton R.	3
Swinton	0	Rochdale Hornets	5

SIR T. LIPTON'S CONFIDENCE.

His Faith in Captain Burton, Skipper of Shamrock IV.

Sir Thomas Lipton, interviewed prior to his departure for New York, expressed himself as confident of success in the America Cup race, and said that Captain Burton was going to sail the Shamrock IV., describing him as a fine skipper. "I suggested," he added, "that the race should be sailed in June and personally hope the course will be off Sandy Hook."

CHUMS
read "The Cologne Post". Send it daily to yours.

MULHEIM SKATING RINK.

Rink Hockey Club in Course of Formation.

SKATES MORE NUMEROUS.

The Committee of the Mulheim Skating Rink state, in response to numerous enquiries, that the skating rink at Mulheim will in future be reserved for Officers and Ladies from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m., each Wednesday. Tea will be obtainable at the Rink.

It has also been decided to open the Rink each afternoon (Wednesdays and Sundays excepted) for all ranks.

A Rink Hockey Club is in the course of formation, and the Committee will be pleased to receive the names of all enthusiasts. The number of skates available has now been considerably increased, and a further supply is expected.

STRENUOUS SOCCER.

No. 2 C.C.S. (R.A.M.C.) Versus No. 11 Stationary Hospital.

A large crowd of spectators witnessed the above teams engage in a most strenuous game of football on Volksgarten Ground on Friday.

No. 2. early showed that they were again in winning mood, the game had only been four minutes in progress when Pte. Jones sent across a lovely centre, which Pte. Foggan smartly tipped into the net. The teams were evenly balanced, and much give and take play ensued. After thirty minutes play No. 2 came away again, and from a melee in front of the goal, Pte. Dodds cleverly caught on the ball, and sent home a magnificent shot which allowed the custodian no possible chance of saving. Half Time:—No. 2 C.C.S. (R.A.M.C.) Two goals; No. 11 Stationary Hosp. Nil.

The second half opened briskly, and after three minutes, No. 11 secured a goal which was well taken by Pte. Austin. With the score as 2—1, it was now evident that No. 11 were determined to equalise, but their efforts to do so were fruitless, and their defence had more than enough to do to check the superb play of No. 2's. forward line.

Two minutes later No. 2 added a third goal, Pte. Foggan again being the marksman, and after this it was clearly their game. They bombarded the opposing goal, and did everything but score, until a few minutes from time when Pte. Holmes snapped a good goal, making No. 2's. total four. Final Result:—

No. 2, C.C.S. (R.A.M.C.) 4; No. 11, Stationary Hospital 1.

RUGBY SEMI-FINAL.

51st Manchesters Defeat 12th Loyal N.L.'s in 10th Corps Tourney.

This match, which took place on the Hofgarten, Bonn, on Thursday last, was fast from the start to finish, and the spectator could not complain of lack of excitement.

The Manchesters started off very raggedly; their opponents, in the first few minutes, broke through after some smart passing, and scored a try which they failed to convert. This reverse seemed to pull the Manchesters together, for they played much better, and shortly afterwards from a scrum near goal Lieut. Henson got the ball, and although tackled, managed to score a try wich Lieut. Bates converted. Lieut. Henson repeated his performance shortly afterwards, but this try was not converted.

Half time came with the score 8 points to 3 in the Manchesters' favour.

Upon resumption tha Lancs, got away again, but were pulled up before they could materialise; then the Manchesters got going and, from a pass by Lieut. Hamilton, Sgt. Mills got away with the ball on the left wing and scored a fine try, but this was not converted. It seemed pretty safe for the Manchesters after this, but their opponents played a plucky losing game and were always dangerous. Ten minutes before time from a scrum near the touch line Lieut. Bates got the ball and dashed in with a try. The attempt at conversion failed.

Neither team added to their score after this, and the whistle blew for time with the score:— 51st Manchesters 14 points. Loyal North Lancs 3 points.

The outstanding players in the winning team were: Lieuts. Henson, Hamilton and Thwaits, Sgt. Mason, Cpl. Lawton and Pte. Ramsden.

2nd M.G.C. FIXTURES.

Owing to being broken up, the 2nd Bn. M-G.C. will not be able to fulfil their soccer, rugger, and hockey fixtures.

WALKING 25,000 MILES.

William C. Brown, M.M., late of the Leicester Regiment, for no particular reason, has set himself the task of walking 25,000 miles in the United Kingdom.

Since he left Darlington on May 8, Brown has had only one train ride—when he was summoned hurriedly from Dewsbury to attend a medical board at Darlington.

He is averaging 23 miles a day, and at that rate his task will take three years. His progress is recorded by police stamps in a small ledger.

NO MOTOR GRAND PRIX IN 1920.

In view of the decision of a large number of French motor manufacturers not to take part in the race, the Automobile Club de France, says "Le Temps," has decided not to hold its Grand Prix in 1920. French makers, however, favour the revival of the race in 1921.

INTERNATIONAL YACHT RACING.

The conference called to consider the question of yacht measurement has decided that the new international rule should be a modified form of the old metre rule, which, after a life of ten years, expired whilst the war was in progress. It was also decided unanimously to adopt as an international class the 18 ft. raters to be built to Major Maldwin Heckstall Smith's formula. Further, it was agreed to adopt as an international class the 12 ft. dinghies, which already exist in Holland, Great Britain, and Belgium in considerable numbers.

ENGLISH RACING.

Minstrel Park Finishes Alone in Sandown Steeplechase.

ALL OTHERS FALL.

There was an improvement in the going at Sandown and Stockton on Saturday, thanks to the rain which fell on Friday. Attendances were again large, the weather being showery.

In the Chertsey Steeplechase at Sandown there was a remarkable occurrence. Five started, and Ministrel Park finished alone, all the others falling. Bedfellow was remounted and finished the course, and was placed second.

Details:—

Sandown.

Chertsey Steeplechase:—Minstrel Park (5—2 on); 2, Bedfellow (5—1). Five ran.

Pirbright Handicap:—1, Longerline (7—4 on); 2, Castle in Spain (10—1); 3, Jack Sheppard (6—1). Five ran.

Park Steeplechase:—1, Sgt. Murphey (100—8); 2, Spoil V. (100—8); 3, Mask off (7—1). Nine ran.

Morbiton Handicap:—1, Sea Voyage (5—1); 2, Kings Coat (8—1); 3, Pennant (100—8). Twelve ran.

3 Year Old Handicap:—1, Crest (20—1) 2, Vertigo (11—8); 3, Procuration (6—1). Twenty-one ran.

Busbridge Steeplechase:—1, Rathleague (13—8); 2, Templebar (5—2); 3, Eclaireur (13—8). Four ran.

Sandown course Cambridgeshire betting was:—Sir Berkeley and Tetrarchia (10 to 1); Golden Fleece (33 to 1); all taken freely.

Stockton.

Cleveland Handicap:—1, Black Peter (9—4); 2, Fertility (3—1); 3, Mask Dear (7—1). Seven ran.

Blytheholme Handicap:—1, Three Royals (5—2); 2, White Bud (5—1); 3, Chairvoyant (3—1); Twelve ran.

Tees Handicap:—1, Black Crag (5—2); 2, Fair Oake (6—4 on); 3, Kincraig (8—1); Six ran.

Stockton Handicap:—1, Chaltoi (4—1); 2, Black Lamb (5—2); 3, Nuit Blanche (4—1); Eight ran.

Facely Plate:—1, Coat of Mail (5—2); 2, Telenlara (7—2); 3, Waterwitch (4—1). Eight ran.

Ironopolis Plate:—1, Radiacy (3—1); 2, Flying Duck (5—4 on); 3, Hectoring Lassie (10—1). Seven ran.

Cambridgeshire Scratchings.

Chuette 9 a.m. and King John 10.45 on Saturday.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE "SWEEP."

Result of Inniskilling Dragoons Draw.

The result of the Inniskilling Dragoons "Stuff to give em" Cambridgeshire sweepstake draw is appended. The winner is to receive 1,000 marks, the second 500, the third 250, and fourth 100.

110 Dromio.	585 Glaciale.
479 Clarion.	306 Diadem.
435 Rocksavage.	491 Dominion.
57 Sir Berkeley.	857 Royal Bucks.
950 Riversnore.	454 Alasnam.
680 Elfterion.	652 Zinovia.
425 Viceroy.	410 Planet.
454 Golden Fleece.	594 Frank Webber
423 Scatwell	997 My Dear.
880 Aynsley.	955 The Field.
862 Lady Earn.	679 Mintleaf.
708 Tetrarchia.	508 Viviani.
742 Monteith.

THE PROBABLE FIELD.

List of Likely Cambridgeshire Starters and their Riders.

The field for the Cambridgeshire promises to be up to the average both in point of quantity and quality, the following being the probable starters and jockeys:—

*MY DEAR (Mr. A. R. Cox), 4-9-2 . . . S. Donoghue.
DIADEM (Lord D'Abernon), 5-8-12 . . . J. Childs.
ZINOVIA (Mr. Z. G. Michalinos), 4-8-11 V. Smyth.
SCATWELL (Lord Glanely), 4-8-6 . . . A. Smith.
RIVERSHORE (Mr. Ambatielo), 4-8-2 . ——
PLANET (Mr. G. Barclay), 5-8-0. . . . . H. Robbins.
GOLDEN FLEECE (Mr. W. Parrish), a-7-11. H. Beasley.
ROYAL BUCKS (Lady Queenberry), 6-7-10, G. Hulme.
ROCKSAVAGE (Lord Wilton), 4-7-9 . . T. Leader.
VICEROY (His Majesty). 3-7-8 . . . . . F. Fox.
CLARION (Sir G. Noble), 3-7-4 (inc. 10 lb ex.), F. Lane.
ELFTERION (Mr. W. Parrish), 4-7-4 . . ——
*AYNSLEY (Mr. H. Bottomley), 6-7-3 . ——
TETRARCHIA (Lady Nelson), 3-7-1 . . J. H. Martin.
VIVIANI (Sir E. Cassel), 4-6-12 . . J. Ledson.
FRANK WEBBER (Mr. H. M. Hartigan), 3-6-12 (inc. 5 lb ex.), ——
SIR BERKELEY (Mr. James White), 4-6-11, A. Garnett.
DROMIO (Mr. O. Baru), 3-6-10 . . . . J. Leach.
GLACIALE (Lord Derby), 3-6-9 . . F. Huxley.
LADY EARN (Mr. D. Sullivan), 4-6-8 . C. Ringstead.
MONTEITH (Mr. R. B. Thorburn), 3-6 6 ——
MINTLEAF (Mr. F. J. Benson), 4-6-5 . ——
ALASNAM (Sir A Bailey), 3 6-0 . . T. Weston.

* Doubtful.

OBJECTION UPHELD.

Espladian Disqualified in Newcastle Scurry Handicap.

The Objection to Esplanadian winning the Scurry Handicap at Newcastle last Wednesday on the ground of contravention of Rule 177 of the Rules of Racing was considered at Stockton on Saturday, when the objection was upheld. The race was awarded to Weston. Vendetta, wne finished fourth, becomes third.

SIR BERKELEY CHANGES HANDS.

Probable Cambridgeshire Starter Secured by Mr. James White.

The Duke of Portland has sold his racehorse Sir Berkeley to Mr. James White, and he is now in care of the latter's trainer, Cothill, at Foxhill. Sir Berkeley is a probable starter in the Cambridgeshire on Wednesday.

AMUSEMENTS AND RECREATIONS.

"The Man of Destiny" at the Deutsches.

A masterpiece of Shavian subtlety. The start was full of promise of good old melodrama with the usual appurtenances—stolen papers, spies, galloping horses, and all the rest of it. I had to take another look at my programme to make sure that it really was a play by Shaw. I began to suspect a printer's error, and when the Lieutenant on the staff got to work I held my breath for fear he should any minute address Napoleon as "Old Bean." He came very near doing so before I suddenly realised that George Bernard was at his old tricks again and had thoroughly fooled me—fooled us all,— in fact, even his own characters on the stage. Napoleon, his lieutenants, the innkeeper all were successively "had." Napoleonic costume used as a device to extol the Irish and work out a tirade against the English! I wonder what percentage of the audience realised the subtlety of it all!

* * *

Lt. Percy gave us a very fine rendering of the part of Napoleon The lines given him by the author suited his style of acting to perfection. His make-up and costume once more proved the great attention he pays to detail, and despite the handicap of a bad throat, he gave a masterly performance. Major Pollock, as the Lieutenant, obviously understood his author's purpose and gave full effect to the wit and humour of his lines. Lieut. Leigh Farnell as Guiseppe, was a priceless innkeeper. The piece de resistance of the evening, however, was the lady—played by Miss Shirley King. This lady gave a finished performance of a part admirably suited to her. The play was excellently produced and went smoothly from start to finish.

"Candida."

Another Shaw play, but of a different order from its predecessor. Did I get rather bored once, I wonder, or was it that Shaw can be taken in too large doses at one time? If I did feel the least bit bored, it must have been in the last act, for when one's brain has been busy for three hours appreciating other people's brains, two anti-climaxes leave one with a sense of lassitude. But that is Mr. Shaw's fault, not that of any of the actors, who were all up to their very best form. During the course of the play Mr. Burgess, remarks to the Rev. James Mavor Morell "Just the same as hever, James." Lieut. Humphrey Hope in the part of Morell was "Just the same as hever," or I should perhaps amend to "Better than hever." He gave an excellent rendering of a clergyman whose belief in his own stength and the power of his "gift" o'the gab" is rudely shaken. About Miss Shirley King as Candida, I can only repeat what I said about her in "The Man of Destiny."

* * *

Lieut. Percy as Eugen Marchbanks gained my admiration and respect for playing two utterly different types of characters in the same evening so well. There was nothing very Napoleonic about Eugen. I am not judging a competition, and I am therefore taking the characters as nearly as possible in the order of their importance in the play, and not in the order of their merits. If I did the latter, I should have a hard task. Miss Gabrielle Paul as the typist, and Capt. Dennis, as the curate who was so doubtful of the wisdom of taking her home, were both excellent. Intoxication, "however slight" on the stage, needs care to avoid vulgarity and repulsiveness, especially when acted by a woman. Miss Paul escaped this pitfall by miles, and I shall not forget in a hurry the curate's efforts to find his hostess' hand when saying "good night."

* * *

One of the finest pieces of character acting I have seen was given by Pte. J. Terry as Burgess, We want to see much more of Pte. Terry in the future. It is an undeniable fact that owing to the difficulties the B.R.A.D.C. have to face, many of their performances do not go without some little hitch or other, but I have seldom seen a performance at the Deutsches Theatre work so smoothly, and with so little necessity for prompting as the one given on Friday and Saturday last.

E. H. S.

Sunday Night at the Deutsches.

The occasion of the second Sunday concert found a well-filled house at the Deutsches Theatre, and judging from the applause and encores the audience enjoyed itself thoroughly. Miss Clara Furmedge displayed a voice of wonderful power and sweetness in "My ain Folk" and other songs, and was repeatedly encored. Cpl. Harold Waters possesses a voice of wide range and tone. His "Tommy Lad" was greatly appreciated, and with a little more practice in the control of his voice he should secure a high place in the list of our entertainers.

* * *

The main portion of the programme was taken up by the band of the Inniskilling Dragoons, under the able conductorship of Bandmaster E. Adams, and their playing was wonderful, despite the fact that music practice is to them their relaxation from their normal duties. The various numbers were greatly appreciated, but I would suggest that at these Sunday concerts more classical music might be attempted. I am in no way suggesting a concert of sacred music, but considering the number of popular turns we get from various sources throughout the week I cannot help but feel that the Sunday "Pops" might well be devoted more exclusively to higher flights of music.

Leave Club Happenings.

A dancing class for beginners will be held today, from 5 to 6 and an impromptu concert will take place at the same time in the music room. At 7 p.m. two French dancers, Mlle. Laure Aman and Mlle. Brantzki, from the Opera will give an exhibition of classical dances (by special request). Miss Marjorie Moore and Miss Jamieson, Major Greenlees and Lt. Mearns have kindly consented to sing solos. There will be an impromptu concert from 5 to 6 in the music room on Wednesday, and a dance at 6.30. at which the band of the 15th Hampshire Regt. hope to be able to play. An impromptu concert will be held from 5 to 6 on Thursday, and a whist drive will take place at 6.30 p.m.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Tues.	NO PERFORMANCE
Wed.	Tannhäuser	Wagner	7	0.45
Thurs.	Ein Maskenball	Verdi	7	9.45
Fri.	Der Barbier von Sevilla	Rossini	7	10
Sat.	Orpheus and Eurydice	Gluck	7	9.15
Sun.	Die Walküre	Wagner	5.30	10.30
Mon.	Madame Butterfly	Puccini	7	9.45
Tues.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10

"Carmen."

Georges Bizet's "Carmen" requires no introduction; his most fascinating musical creation has for long ranked as one of the foremost operas produced. Its presentation at the Opera House on Sunday evening attracted a full house, and many had to be turned away. The drama was portrayed in masterly fashion — music, scenery, and dresses being such as to gladden the ear and eye of all opera lovers. The leading characters, Carmen and Don José, were most realistically played, while the other parts were admirably sustained. The singing was always of a very high standard, certain of the choruses being exceptionally fine. The vocal efforts of Micaela, the peasant girl, and Escamillo (Toreador), as well as those of the principals, reached a very high standard.

Sing-song at the Leave Club.

Owing to the sudden demobilisation on Saturday night of the 15th West Yorks Band, the Sunday band concert at the British Empire Leave Club had to be cancelled. An informal sing-song was held, however, in the music room, which was crowded to overflowing. Miss Lavie opened the concert with a charming violin solo, and Mrs. Shorten and Miss Jamieson followed with a delightful duet, "Wild Thyme." L/Cpl. Hugh Williams rendered "Take a pair of sparkling eyes," and L/Cpl. Rushton sang "Stone Cracker Jack." The audience, with Miss Clark at the piano, next sang a selection of popular songs, and Miss Richmond played Rachmaninoff's Prelude with great artistic charm. During the course of the concert, L/Cpl. Hugh Williams and Cpl. Rushton sang several duets, and Misses Skinner and Jamieson and Capt. Dent also helped to make the concert an enjoyable one while Miss Ramsay Smith's rendering of "Loch Lomond" was one of the successes of the evening.

JACOBUS.

SEIZE THIS OFFER.

Large Prize Awaits Football Competition Winner.

Competitors in our Contest No. 5 were set a comparatively easy task, out of the 12 matches on the coupon, there being no less than seven home winners. Three teams drew and only one away club was successful, this being Newcastle United.

Our competition staff is busily engaged adjudicating the coupons, but as yet no entrant has submitted a correct forecast. The result of this contest will be published in Thursday's issue.

The coupon for No. 6 competition appears below; if you have not yet sent in your efforts do so at your earliest. Don't neglect this opportunity of securing our prize. The sole winner in No. 3 contest was paid at the rate of 2833 to 1. Where can you obtain better odds?

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 6,
"Cologne Post,"
A.P.O. S.40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 6.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov. 1st.
Closing date, Friday, Oct. 31st.

Aston Villa	v. Middlesboro
Bolton W.	v. Sunderland
Blackburn R.	v. Everton
Bradford C.	v. Arsenal
Notts C.	v. West Bromwich
West Ham	v. Birmingham
Huddersfield	v. Fulham
Swindon	v. Queens Park R.
Brentford	v. Plymouth A.
Brighton	v. Exeter C.
Hamilton A.	v. Falkirk
Morton	v. Celtic

I enter Football Competition No. 6 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Bright and Cheery.

Sunday afternoon being wet and cold, quite a number of soldiers found the Army Reading room in the Hohestrasse Arcade an ideal place to pass the hours of inclement weather.

Irreverent.

The old soldier was again giving the youngster accounts of the wonders he had experienced, especially in the way of climate. Said he: "I remember when we were in Fyzzardun we used to toast our bread in the sun, and—" Youngster (interrupting): "Yes, I know, and you were supplied with corkscrews to draw your breath!"

Prefer Cologne.

Advertisements for demobilized girls to remain in Rhineland as nurse-girls to officers' families have brought ready responses. It is quite evident the girls do not wish to go home yet.

Missed Opportunities.

High scoring is quite a usual feature of Rhineland "footer" matches, and on Saturday last I witnessed a game in which one side put on seven goals to their opponents nil return. The game was far from one-sided however, and a different tale might have been told nad the losers inside forwards taken advantage of at least five "gifts" which came their way.

Officers in Duren.

The closing of the club at Duren has resulted in the few officers who remain there forming frequent bridge parties, and amalgamating messes for dinner and musical evenings. In this way matters are enlivened after the "common round."

Like Little Tich.

At a Cologne café one of the artists is exploiting the "big boot" stunt, more or less as performed in England by Little Tich. His antics draw much applause from both soldier and civilian, although to compare him with the inimitable English prototype would be absurd.

Took the "Post".

The company of a certain Battalion stationed at Cologne was visited by thieves the other evening. A sum of 1200 marks was completely overlooked, but a small packet containing only eighty marks was taken and copies of the "Post" running right back to July.

A Privilege of Greatness.

I heard of a sergeant in Rhineland who last week had occasion to reprimand a private for a slight offence, and the private attempted to explain. "Look here," said the sergeant, "are you the sergeant here or am I?" "Well, certainly, I'm not," said the private. "Then if you're not the sergeant," spluttered the N.C.O., "why are you talking like an idiot?"

Is it a Record?

I am told that the men of "C" Company, 52nd Northumberland Fusiliers, bought savings certificates last week to the tune of 27,588 marks. As the effective strength of the company is only 91 men I should say this record will take some beating.

Against Cruelty.

The writer of a recent letter in our columns on cruel animal performances sends me some particulars of the "Jack London Club" which has been founded to combat the cruelties prevalent in trained animal turns. Anyone who wishes to join should write to the secretary R.S.P.C.A. 105 Jermyn Street London S.W.

Fond of Balloons.

On Sunday night I saw a considerable crowd round a street seller of coloured balloons. When I got nearer I found it consisted almost entirely of Indian troops who were eagerly buying them and proudly walking down the street each carrying a balloon on a string.

The Warning Bell.

I hear that the suggestion of an alarm bell at the Deutsches Theatre which was made by a correspondent a few days ago is to be adopted. The Letter-box scores again.

SKETCHED AT THE HEIGHT OF ITS "JAZZINESS".

A Novel Pet.

Near Lindenthal the other evening I saw a girl walking in the street with an animal on a "lead" which at first I took to be a puppy. When I got closer, to my astonishment I found it was a guinea pig.

Piracy.

I am told that a Berlin newspaper is publishing Lord French's reminiscences without any permission from the author or the English publishers.

Not Shoes.

I have heard one or two grumbles regarding Leave Club dances and am told that although it was announced that dancing in shoes was permitted several men who brought them were debarred from that pleasure. They complain that "Wrafs" in thicker shoes than they had were permitted to dance. There may be another side to the case, of course.

Rather Mixed.

Bill stickers are unconscious humourists. In the centre of Cologne we read "The British Rhine Army Dramatic Company presents," and immediately below appear the names of several of the competitors at a recent German fistic show.

American Advertising.

American advertising is always novel, but the "Buddie" who advertises in our American Contemporary for the return of his cap exchanged Coblentz barber's shop has a fine sense of humour. "Yours is too large, Sarge," he informs the wearer of the cap in his possession. Anxious of course to get his own back.

Our Musical Taste.

A lady lectured on Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" and another lady played the piano to a pitiful paucity of people in the Lorely Hall recently.

A Good Try.

The way the Germans, especially youngsters, are picking up the English language is very amusing. The other evening a small youth, who looked about sixteen, accidently struck me with a box, where upon he politely said "Elocuse me."

Smoking in Tramcars.

It is not a general complaint, but there are individuals who are tempted to ignore the prohibition against smoking in tramcars.

Controlling the Food Supply.

From what I hear it is not unlikely that it will be impossible for visitors other than Germans to obtain dinner at restaurants. Regulations governing this may be anticipated.

A Good Idea.

The staff at the Annexe club have hit on the excellent idea of pasting specimens of all paper money, which they refuse to accept, on a board. Officers have only to consult this guide and try their luck elsewhere.

In Picardy.

To quote George Robey, "I stopped an' I looked an' I listened." It was in a Cologne cabaret and the singer occupying the stage was rendering "Roses are blooming in Picardy"; she sang it partly in English and partly in German, and was accorded great applause. The song took my mind back to a misty morning in the old days when our late foes first made the acquaintance of the British Tanks. I wondered if the civilians present had ever heard the parody Tommy used to sing, "The tanks they are moving in Picardy." Doubtless not or that song would not have received such applause.

Varying Prices.

I am constantly having complaints of profiteering in newspapers. The other day a soldier who wanted to buy "The News of the World" was asked 1 mk. 50 pfg., 1 mk. 25 pfgs., and finally 1 mk. for it.

German Trade Secrets.

I believe considerable concern is felt in German industrial circles lest trade secrets which Germany has always carefully guarded may become known through visits paid to German factories and industries by Entente economic missions. The provision that the owner's consent to such visits must be secured has given satisfaction to manufacturers.

Got a Job?

In view of the unsettled conditions at home it is not everyone who is frantic to be demobilized, and the chasing round for jobs in Rhineland just now is just a little pathetic when it is not amusing.

RHINELANDER.

FOR BUSINESS MEN IN RHINELAND.

THE MERCHANDISE MARKS ACT.

INFORMATIVE ITEMS FROM ALL SOURCES.

"The Times" Foreign Trade supplement publishes a letter which was recently addressed to an important British firm offering certain German-made goods "stamped with your own trade mark." The letter pointed out that "owing to the low labour costs in Germany these articles will be turned out at figures representing from 10 per cent to 20 per cent under those at present being quoted by the British and American manufacturers, taking into consideration that a German workman capable of working in this industry is paid one hundred marks weekly, equal to 18s. at the present rate of exchange." The suggestion is made that the letter is a strong argument in favour of the necessity of amending the Merchandise Marks Act. There is no doubt many German firms are quite under the impression that it is for them to resume business on the old lines and that they will once more be able to supply large quantities of cheaply-made goods into the United King without any mark of origin, or even false marks if required to suit the purchaser. It cannot be too strongly emphasised that this practice is no longer permissible, and that firms buying or accepting goods falsely marked or endeavouring to do so are running very grave risks.

GAMBLING IN MARKS.

The recent appreciation in the value of German marks to about 90 to the pound has since been followed by a reaction to 116, which serves to emphasise our recent comments as to the danger of gambling in them, says "The Daily Express." Many have doubtless been badly bitten by these fluctuations, and the fact that the value of the German mark note is gradually drawing nearer to that of German exchange tends to show that gambling on the part of the public is dying out. Intrinsically, the mark note and exchange are practically of the same value, but as a result of the recent gambling there was a difference of about twenty points between the two quotations. Now German exchange is quoted at 116 and mark notes at about 19s. per 100 marks—a difference of about ten points only.

BITS OF BUSINESS.

The German Chamber of Commerce have asked that negotiations with the High Commission should be commenced with the object of re-establishing Central European time in the occupied area.

A German Polish agreement has been arrived at for the exchange of coal for potatoes.

Russia seems very much inclined to resume commercial relations with Germany just now.

Italy allows the importation of German goods with the exception of articles of luxury.

In response to a complaint by the Cologne Chamber of Commerce on the shortage of small change, the German minister of Finance states that 20 million marks in 5 pfennig pieces in iron and fifty million marks in 50 pfennig pieces in aluminium are to be made.

Last year a large quantity of sugar could still be delivered by the German Government for the manufacture of spirits. This year the sugar shortage makes it impossible for any to be supplied for that purpose.

The German press is complaining bitterly of the enormous quantities of English cigarettes imported since the occupation. They say that if instead of four million marks of cigarettes an equivalent value of food for cattle and pigs had been imported the result would have been plenty of cheap German bacon now.

French spinners are complaining that German spinners have been provided with cotton supplies first.

France will need 700.000 tons of American cotton next year.

THE GREAT SEAL.

The affixing of a "wafer Great Seal" to the Treaty of Peace is a somewhat less laborious work than the making of a seal, which is a considerable business. The wax is not put upon the paper as with more humble seals, but is in the form of a large disc with an impression on either side. It is kept in a wafer case attached to the document by a tag imbedded in the wax. The seal itself consists of two heavy silver plates, in one of which is cut the impression for the front of the device, in the other that for the back, and new plates cost—or cost in pre war times—£700. When a seal is required a mass of wax is softened in warm water, cooled in cold, placed between the two plates and impressed.

RAIN AFTER BATTLE.

People with a smattering of scientific knowledge have suggested that cannonading may cause rain by liberating large quantities of water-attracting gases, thereby hastening the process of condensation. Such gases are undoubtedly evolved in the discharge of artillery, though in smaller proportion from modern high explosives than from the old-fashioned gunpowder. But they are poured into the air in much greater volume from the factory chimneys of every industrial city without producing any effect on the rainfall. Naturally rain often follows a battle, in the ordinary course of events, just as it often follows a ball game, a bridge party, or a dog fight. By the familiar process of "counting the hits and not the misses," it would bee asy to gather evidence in support of the assertion that rain is the usual sequence of any of these occurrences. There is, however, a particular reason why rain is rather more likely to occur soon after a battle than shorty before one. The movements of troops that precede a battle must generally be carried out in fair weather, as dry roads are an important factor in such movements. As these preliminaries often take several days, the end of a dry spell of average duration is quite likely to be reached by the time the engagement is fairly begun, and rain will then be due in accordance with the normal programme of nature. But the battle does not cause the rain.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Leicester's Rejected.—Mr. Ramsay Macdonald is ill.

Thanksgiving.—Sunday, Nov. 9th is the League of Nations thanksgiving day.

No Water.—Monmouthshire is suffering from acute water shortage.

Remunerative.—The Paris motor car show realised nearly £40,000.

The B.M.A.—The British Medical Association will meet at Cambridge next year.

Rat Week.—Liverpool is paying sixpence for each rat killed.

Not Excessive.—Bank messengers want a minimum wage of £3 10s. per week.

Getting Rid.—The Duke of Rutland is selling the best part of his Haddon Estate.

Pass It.—An anti-dumping bill is under the consideration of the Cabinet.

Cheap?—At a London sale blankets sold at four for 32s.

Family of Mutes.—A deaf and dumb witness at a Shoreditch inquest was said to belong to a family of mutes.

His New Post—Sir Ian Malcolm M.P. has accepted the post of resident director of the Suez Canal in Paris.

Hung Up.—Posted in Bucks fifteen years ago a card has reached its destination a mile and a half way.

His Royal Happiness.—The King of Spain always buys his clothes in London.

Are You There?—London—Brussels telephonic communication was resumed yesterday.

Foolish.—A man found lying drunk in a Willesden road had over £300 in gold and notes on him.

Loss.—Four hundred cows have had to be destroyed in the Isle of Wight owing to foot and mouth disease.

The Minimum.—New South Wales minimum wage of £3. 17s. per week for male adults is in operation.

Earning a Wage.—Hairdressing classes for disabled soldiers is the latest scheme.

The Way.—At Reading University disabled men have replaced women as porters and attendants.

Queen Inspects.—Queen Mary goes to Hounslow to-day to inspect her own regiment of cavalry, the 18th Hussars.

Another Line.—The Canadian Pacific Railway promises a Southampton-Canada steamship service.

Another Contests.—Sir Thomas Lipton is on his way to America for another cup race.

King George's Guests.—Arab chiefs on a visit to England will visit the King to-day.

Excess Profits.—Lord Beaverbrook will address the House of Lords next week on taxation of war fortunes.

New Honour.—General Fayolle has been awarded the French Military medal for war services.

Economy.—Several Government Ministers are making a practice of carrying their own despatch boxes.

Dangerous Practice.—Jumping from a tramcar at Portsmouth, a woman broke her neck.

Lord Mayor's Show.—Ladies are to ride in a tableau group symbolising the League of Nations.

New Divorce Judge.—Lord Justice Duke may succeed Lord Sterndale in the Divorce Court.

"P. G."—Sir John Tudor Walters M.P. has been offered the post of Paymaster General.

Wonderful Peat.—A square mile of peat will produce 80.000 cubic feet of gas.

Controlling the Coal.—Mr. Andrew Rae Duncan has been appointed the new Coal Controller.

Bantam v. Heavyweight.—A R.A.F. machine came down and collided with a steam roller naturally with disaster to the aeroplane.

A Silent Strike.—Curtailing their purchases, Isle of Wight housewives forced the price of milk down from 10d. to 8d. per quart.

Reciprocated.—A prisoner sentenced in connection with the Luton riots wished the judge a Merry Christmas. The judge thanked him.

Inconvenient.—An Aldershot telegraph boy, charged with failing to deliver telegrams, said he felt too lazy to deliver them.

Recognition.—A Leicestershire soldier has left £100 to the Salvation Army in recognition of the work of the Army Huts in France and at home.

Married Unawares.—In a wife desertion case at Chester the defendant who claimed to be suffering from shell-shock said he had been married unawares.

Another Great House.—The Duke and Duchess of Sutherland have bought Hampton House from the Duke of Abercorn.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

If you were to win £12,000.

A PRIZE CONTEST.

As most readers know there is being run at Lille a big sweepstake on the Cambridgeshire. If all the tickets are sold the fortunate winner will receive the very handsome sum of TWELVE THOUSAND POUNDS STERLING. Now this winner may very well be someone in the Rhine Army. Suppose for instance, it were you who suddenly received this big access of wealth.

What would you do with it?

This problem has suggested a prize competition open to all our readers. Just write a letter to the "Editor, Post" A.P.O. S 40—not exceeding 250 words and say exactly what you would do with £12,000 if you came into possession of it.

We offer prizes 50, 20 and 10 marks respectively for the three best answers to the question. The reply you send may be as brief as you like, but it must not exceed the length of 250 words. Write your name and unit below your answer in block letters and let us hear from you not later than November 1st. The Editor's decision will of course be final in judging the merits of the answer to the question, "What would I do with £12.000 if I won it?"

Mr. W. N. Channon.

EX-SOLDIER'S

SORE EARS

Wonderfully Healed By Zam-Buk

"Ten years ago—whilst serving in the Royal Engineers—running sores broke out all over my ears through frost," says Mr. W. N. Channon, of 142, Nelson Road, Gillingham. "I re-joined the R. E's from the Reserves in 1914. My ears were still very troublesome, and I couldn't get them better. They would scab over, and the discharge would temporarily dry up, only to burst out again later. For four years in Flanders I suffered agonies. I occasionally reported to my M. O. and tried remedy after remedy but failed to get any relief.

"A short time ago, just after I was demobilised, I decided to try Zam-Buk. The discharge stopped soon after I started with Zam-Buk, the scabs fell away, and new skin appeared. The improvement steadily continued until there was no trace left of the disfiguring sores. Zam-Buk had covered my ears with healthy skin."

Zam-Buk

EVERY SOLDIER NEEDS A BOX

Of all chemists, canteens or the Zam-Buk Laboratories Leeds.

VENUS PENCILS

VENUS PENCILS cannot be imitated or equalled. There is a wonderful smoothness, a delightful ease in writing, a certainty of exactness of grading, and non-breaking, non-smudging characteristics in the "VENUS PENCILS" that makes them matchless.

17 Degrees Black Lead, 6 B (soft st) to 9 H (hardest), and in 3 styles copying

Of all Stationers and Stores throughout the world.

"VENUS," 173|5, Lower Clapton-road, London, E. 5.

for Every pencil purpose

ALLIES VICTORY MEDAL
GENERAL SERVICE MEDAL
1914—1915 —— MEDAL

We stock all these Ribbons together with a wide range of Decoration & War Ribbons.

Any Combination Mounted on Brooch Bars. MONS ROSETTES. Miniature Medals and ribbons & all Military and Naval Requirements

NO ORDER TOO SMALL FOR ATTENTION. SPECIAL QUOTATIONS FOR LARGE QUANTITIES ... WRITE TODAY FOR WHAT YOU WANT TO—

I. MARCUS & Co

Dept. C
54a HOUNDSDITCH
LONDON E. 1.
ENGLAND
TERMS—CASH WITH ORDER

CHARLIE CHAPLIN at ALHAMBRA
OCT: 24-30, "TILLYS WEDDING" 11 EHRENSTRASSE

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

ATTENTION BRITISHERS. An almost complete collection of War Postage stamps from the central nations for sale. Price moderat (good proposition for speculation.) Can be seen between ten and one o'clock at Waldheim, Venloerstrasse 178.

WEIGHTY SILVER COFFEE-SERVICE and case of eating utensils ca. 9½ kg, Biedermeier as new, also a fitted trunk for sale Price 13,000 Mks. Apply to A 312 Cologne Post. A.P.O./S. 40.

MOTOR CAR. Two seater, 14 h.p. Opel. Excellent condition. Tyres nearly new. Spare wheel and accessories. Trial by appointment Apply Major H.C. Terry, R.F.A., 53, Alfredstrasse, Siegburg, near Bonn.

REGIMENTAL DRAG. Perfect condition. A bargain. Apply Capt. McGuffie, 16th Lancs. Fusiliers, Euskirchen.

WANTED.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 45. if poss. but not smaller than 6.8. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

COLOGNE — Hohenstaufenring — Educated young lady requies English conversation with lady in exchange for German. Write to Frl. Käthe R. 13, Cologne Post.

WANTED to purchase num ah saddle. Apply Capt. Reeves, Civil Administration Solingen.

LANGUAGES.

GERMAN quickly learnt. Easy method. Spandow, 7 Rudolfplatz, near Opera House. 0 years experience English schools.

GERMAN LADY wishes to have exchange of languages. Write Gerta S. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40.

GERMAN wishes English conversation in exchange for German. Offers A 310 Cologne Post, A.P.O. S 40.

YOUNG LADY gives German conversation Benesisstr. 35.

PERSONAL.

WILL ADVERTISER A.B. "Rugger Player," please send name and address to Advt. Manager who has letters waiting.

SPORT.

OFFICER wants bold Dogs to hunt wild boar. Good home. Box 215, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

FOTBALL. Will all teams who have matches with the R.A.O.C., Nippes please write the Secretary giving dates, as the fixture list has been lost.

BY SPECIAL REQUEST

We have secured a large assortment of

GENUINE SOUVENIRS

Razors Watches Perfumes
Knives Clocks Wallets
& every description of local souvenirs

YOU ARE INVITED

to call in and inspect our stock without obligation

OUR SPECIALITY

MILITARY REQUISITES

ROBARTS & QUANTOCK

Late R. Sussex Rgt. Late E. Yorks Rgt.

ALL ENGLISH CONCERN

100 HOHESTRASSE 100

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, October 28, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

MONEY FOR SKILL
ENTER FOR FOOTBALL CONTEST NO. 6.

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

IS YOUR HOME SUBSCRIPTION RUNNING OUT? SEE TO IT NOW

No. 181. COLOGNE, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

DOUGLAS-PENNANT INQUIRY.

CROSS-EXAMINATION OF FORMER HEADS OF AIR MINISTRY.

COMMONS PASS FRENCH PILOTAGE CLAUSE.

PENNANT INQUIRY.

AIR MINISTRY CHIEFS GIVE EVIDENCE.

When the House of Lords Committee resumed on Monday its inquiry into the circumstances attending the dismissal of Miss Violet Douglas Pennant from the W.R.A.F., further witnesses for the Air Ministry were called.

Counsel read a letter from Lord Weir to Mr. Roberts, Minister of Labour, dated the 31st July, in which he expressed his dissatisfaction with the state of things in the W.R.A.F., but added that "Miss Pennant was only appointed three months ago. It would be unfair to expect any marked improvement before now but the result of her work should begin to show itself henceforth if she is to justify her appointment."

Lord Weir said that the letter reflected exactly what he and Sir Godfrey Paine felt. What determined him to supersede Miss Pennant was a letter from Sir Auckland Geddes written about the 23rd August expressing anxiety regarding the personnel of the force. He wrote to Sir Auckland Geddes on the 26th August announcing his decision.

He had made up his mind before seeing Lady Rhondda's report on the W.R.A.F., which report he only saw on the day he wrote to Sir Auckland Geddes. Dame Katherine Furse had not influenced his opinion. He had not even seen her at that time. It was simply a problem of a department which domestically was not running well. Miss Pennant's demand for an enquiry was refused because he could not see of what use it would be. He knew Mr. Harmsworth recommended the Premier to grant an inquiry, but when the three of them got together nobody could see that any useful purpose would be served.

Lord Weir was severely cross-examined. He admitted there were no definite charges against Miss Pennant when she was dismissed, either of inefficiency or otherwise, but asserted that confidence was weakened by the impression he formed from what Sir Godfrey Paine told him.

Pressed by Counsel for a definite instance, Lord Weir said he was unable to recall one.

Asked why, if Sir Godfrey Paine thought that things were not going well, he declined to let Miss Pennant resign on the 17th August, Lord Weir replied that that was his responsibility.

Counsel then asked: As Miss Pennant had been refused her right of resignation so shortly before, and there was no definite charge against her, was it fair to supersede her without any enquiry?

Lord Weir replied that it was a fair thing to the R.A.F., and he was not considering what was fair to Miss Pennant.

Further pressed as to why he thought Miss Pennant was not the right woman for the job, he replied, "Because I had come to that conclusion."

Counsel: You have no other reason for that conclusion except that you thought so?—Lord Weir: Exactly.

Under further cross-examination he said he wanted Lady Rhondda as successor to Miss Pennant but she would not come.

General Higgins, commanding the Midland Area, said he told Mrs. Beckett that she must submit reports through him and not send them direct to the Air Ministry, but he never blocked any report.

General Livingstone denied taking a dislike to Miss Pennant. In fact, he said, he had forgotten her existence until he came back from America and found she had made various charges against him. There was no foundation whatever for the charge that he desired to permit immorality or that he abstained from taking steps to prevent it.

The inquiry stands adjourned.

ARMY ESTIMATES.

CAUSES OF THE INCREASE.

The Army Estimates were issued on Monday as a White Paper, the figures as revised showing an increased expenditure of £118,000,000. Gross expenditure is estimated at £500,000,000 and receipts at £95,000,000, leaving a net expenditure of £405,000,000. The original figures were: Gross, £450,000,000; receipts, £153,000,000; net expenditure £297,000,000. The official explanation of the increased estimates says that the increase is due to increases in pay of railway strike volunteers, the rise in the rupee exchange, and to war gratuities, while the fall in receipts is ascribed to deferred payments by Germany for the cost of the Rhine Army and deferred payments by the Dominions for maintenance of their troops.

CORNISH MINE DEATH ROLL.

The death roll as a result of the disaster at the Levant Mine, Cornwall, numbers 31, and there are 75 orphaned children in the village, eleven being in one home.

The public telephone service between London and Paris reopens to-day.

FRENCH PILOTS.

BRITISH CERTIFICATES TO BE GRANTED.

In the House of Commons on Monday Mr. Bonar Law made a statement with reference to the amendment to the Restriction of Aliens Bill on which the Government was defeated on Thursday. He emphasised the importance of the impression which would be created in France by the matter, especially at a time when there had been for some months in a certain section of the French Press, and once or twice in speeches in the Parliament, suggestions that the British people have already forgotten the way in which the two nations worked together throughout the war and that the British were no longer friendly to France. Such criticism, he was perfectly sure, had no foundation whatever.

British pilotage, he said, ought in principle unquestionably to be confined to British pilots, but if, when we and the French were fighting side by side a year ago, we had been told we were going to throw over an agreement to which the French attached such importance, it would have been unthinkable.

So it was to-day and the Government must adhere to their agreement. He therefore moved an amendment insisting on words being incorporated in the Bill providing for a continuance of the issue of certificates entitling a master or mate of French nationality to navigate his ship into the ports of Newhaven and Grimsby.

The amendment was carried unanimously.

BOLSHEVIST SUCCESSES.

REDS GAIN CONSIDERABLE GROUND.

The latest official reports from the Russian North-Western Army, giving the situation to 6 p.m. on the 26th, show that the Bolshevists have been counter-attacked in considerable force immediately south of Petrograd. After bringing up some of their best Communist troops, led by specially selected commissaries from Moscow, they succeeded in forcing back at several points the troops of General Judenitch. The latter were compelled to evacuate Tsarkoe-selo and Pavlovsk by the evening of the 25th.

On the 26th another strong attack by Red forces recaptured Krasnoe-selo, and the Russians fell back to the general line two miles south of Ropscha, four miles south of Krasnoe-selo-Vladimuskaya.

This line, covering Gatchina and the railway southwards towards Pskoff, has been held successfully against furious Bolshevist attacks, which are now reported to have ceased.

Elsewhere on the front there is no change, except that twenty miles South-west of Luga the Reds have recaptured Piyussa station.

ARMY COLLEGE ART EXHIBITION.

A wonderful collection of designs and drawings executed by students of the Army General and the Army Technological Colleges were exhibited at the Army General and Commercial College (Handelreaischule, Hansa Ring) last evening. Many of them bore the inscription, "no previous experience in drawing", but all showed a remarkable development of talent. To enable everyone to see these works of art, and to grasp the possibilities of Army tuition, the exhibition will be kept open to-day and to-morrow (Thursday), and all troops admitted free between the hours of 10.00 and 16.00.

LONDON-PARIS AIR RECORD.

The ninth week of regular operation between London and Paris has been completed by the Airco aeroplanes, which have now flown 94,000 miles with passengers and parcels. The average speed maintained has been 105 miles an hour, and out of 139 flights scheduled, one was interrupted by weather, one prevented by weather, and two interrupted by mechanical defect.

MUNITION CAMP THEFTS.

Charged at Cambridge with stealing over £300 worth of Government property, chiefly bedding, from a munition camp at which they had been employed, Albert Clelford and Annie, his wife, were sentenced to six months' imprisonment, and Annie Sargent to one month. Ernest Lawton, Clelford's 15 year-old stepson, was bound over.

Two local innkeepers, charged with receiving part of the goods, knowing them to have been stolen, were acquitted.

NO CONFIDENCE.

TO-DAY'S DEBATE ON FINANCE.

The basis of the discussion for to-day's debate in Parliament on the financial position of the country will be a motion by Sir Donald MacLean, which the Government will treat as a motion of "No Confidence." This motion demands that the Government submit to the House proposals which will secure drastic and sweeping reductions in expenditure for the current financial year.

The Labour Party will also submit a motion calling for severe economies in war services, a Levy on Capital and reversion to the State of all fortunes made as the result of national emergency.

The Government will move the following: "That this House, realising the serious effects upon the nation's trade and industry of the enormous burdens resulting from the war, promises its support to the Government in all reasonable proposals, however drastic, for the reduction of expenditure and diminution of debt."

AUSTRALIAN FLIGHT.

MR. HUGHES'S MESSAGE TO THE PILOT.

Mr. Hughes, the Australian Prime Minister, has sent a telegram for transmission to Captain Matthews, the pilot of the Sopwith Wallaby machine which left England on Tuesday last week as a competitor in the Commonwealth Government's prize flight. Mr. Hughes, after wishing the pilot every success, says: "I want you to take no unnecessary risks. Plug on day after day doing your best, but do nothing foolhardy. If you cannot make Australia in thirty days never mind. The main thing is that an Australian should get here first. If you do that you need not worry.'

Captain Matthews made his first landing at Merneim, which was not in accordance with his pre-arranged plans.

ROUTED WITH UMBRELLA.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY BY ARMS.

A case of attempted highway robbery by armed men has been reported to the Dublin police. It appears that Mr. Carmel, a director of the Princess Cinema Theatre in Rathmines, was going home at night with a bag containing between £30 and £40 when he was stopped by two masked men with revolvers. They ordered him to throw up his hands.

Mr. Carmel struck one of the men with his umbrella and the man fired, but the bullet went wide of its mark. The robbers then turned and fled along Ardee-road. The police are investigating the matter.

NEW IRISH OUTRAGE.

CLERGYMAN SHOT.

The Rev. Edward Foy, a prominent Orangeman, incumbent of Lisnadill, four miles from Armagh, was shot at and seriously wounded by an unknown man about ten o'clock on Saturday night. Mr. Foy, who is 60 years of age opened the hall door in response to a knock, and a man standing outside whipped out a revolver and fired at close range, running away immediately. Mr. Foy was taken to the county infirmary, where it was found that a bullet had passed through the lung and lodged in the shoulder. The bullet has been removed, but Mr. Foy's condition is serious.

THE ARRESTED PADRE.

MR. HUGHES'S REQUEST TO LORD MILNER.

Mr. Hughes, the Prime Minister, has sent a cablegram to Lord Milner asking for the release of Father O'Donnell, who, he says, during the war by word and deed proved himself a patriot. Archbishop Mannix endorses Mr. Hughes's view that the matter should be probed to the very bottom.—Reuter.

OUR HUGE DEFICIT.

An official statement issued by the Chancellor of the Exchequer shows that civil expenditure for the financial year ending in March next is now estimated at £1,642,295,000, or £191,195,000 more than was estimated in the Budget. On the other hand the estimated revenue is given as £1,168,650,000 or £32,450,000 less than the Budget. The total deficit is now estimated at £473,245,000, or an increase of £223,645,000. In a normal year the revenue amounts to £806,000,000 and expenditure to £808,000,000.

RAILWAY STRIKE ECHOES.

The organisation established by Government in order to cope with the railway strike is to continue. The strike, by the way, cost the Treasury £10,000,000.

NEW PAYMASTER-GENERAL.

Sir John Tudor Walters succeeds Sir Joseph Compton Rickett as Paymaster-General. The new Minister was created a knight in 1912, and has been the Member of Parliament for the Brightside division of Sheffield since 1906. He is a surveyor by profession.

SALE OF R. 38.

GIANT AIRSHIP GOES TO AMERICA.

Mr. Daniels, the United States Navy Controller, announces that negotiations have been completed for the purchase by America of the British airship R. 38 at the price of £500,000. The cost of the dirigible was £350,000.

Answering a question about this transaction, Brig.-General Seely said in the House of Commons yesterday that arrangements had been made whereby the airship R. 38 would be completed without delay and handed over to the United States Navy. It will proceed to America with an American crew as soon as the shed is ready for its reception. The United States Naval authorities take over the vessel at cost price. Meanwhile our Air Ministry is training the crew free, except for their pay and rations.

TRANSPORT THIEVES.

SOLDIERS THROW ARRESTED MAN OVERBOARD.

During the voyage of the transport Plassy to Melbourne a number of soldiers and nurses were reported to have been systematically robbed of jewellery, and while the vessel was at Colombo two cases of robbery occurred, in which the victims were sandbagged.

After the voyage had been resumed four men were arrested, suspected of the crimes. The feeling on the boat was so high that as the men left the orderly room the enraged soldiers attacked them and hurled one of them overboard. The boat which went to his assistance capsized. Through this delay the man was in the water for an hour, floating by the aid of a lifebuoy, and was ultimately taken on board exhausted.

The four were subsequently tried by court-martial. Three of them were sentenced to 12 months imprisonment, and the fourth to nine months. No further thefts were reported.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

THE "COLOGNE POST"
will be published next
MONDAY MORNING
instead of Sunday, as is usual.

This alteration is necessitated by reason of Saturday being which is observed as a general holiday in Germany.

ALL SAINTS DAY

Therefore, look out for

THE "COLOGNE POST"
on
MONDAY MORNING.

It will contain the English Sporting and Football results of Saturday and all the usual features.

TURKS AND BRITISH.

CONTRASTS IN TREATMENT.

A report received by the Directorate of Graves Registration from Mrs. Doughty-Wylie, who is carrying out enquiries in Asia Minor on behalf of the Directorate regarding the location of the graves of the Turks, is eloquent of the agreeable surprise of the Turkish peasant at the humane regard shown by the British Government for the individual soldier. The comments of the peasants, says Mrs. Doughty-Wylie, are often very bitter when they contrast the attitude of the British Government with that of the Turkish Authorities, who give little if any news of the fate of the ordinary private soldier. "It is not extraordinary," she adds, "that with this contrast before their eyes, people of all grades of society are led to express a hope that the British intend to remain in the country, and give them some form of government which will bring justice and security and the same measure of consideration which they themselves enjoy."

ET TU, KOLTCHAK!

Admiral Koltchak has ordered General Rozanoff, commanding the Russian troops at Vladivostok, on no account to withdraw his troops from there as requested by the Allies The order is couched in terms very unfriendly to the Allies, who all through have favoured and helped Koltchak's cause.

FAMOUS SINGER MURDERED.

News has been received in London that Chaliapine, the great Russian singer, who appeared at Drury Lane in 1913-14, has been killed by Bolshevists, who feared he was suffering from plague.

ROOSEVELT'S FORTUNE.

Affidavits have been filed by the executors of the late Mr. Theodore Roosevelt showing estate valued at $810,807 (£162,162).

MORE MEMOIRS.

ADMIRAL SCOTT RUSHES INTO PRINT.

"Of making many books there is no end", wrote Solomon. Nowadays reminiscences, apologia, impressions and histories of the war jostle each other off the printing machines.

Sir Percy Scott is the latest Admiral to issue a volume of reminiscences. His book of memoirs, under the title "Fifty Years in the Royal Navy," will be published to-morrow by John Murray. Meanwhile the "Evening Standard" has arranged to print some excerpts from the forthcoming volume, the first instalment of which appeared yesterday.

Admiral Scott's preface is an indictment of the Admiralty System. He says that the civilian element, being permanent, has too much influence, while the naval element, being continually changed, has too little influence. The spirit in which the work is done is wrong, there being not sufficient incentive to encourage the best men. The safest thing is for a man to do nothing; then he will do no wrong and not endanger his career. Hence arises the general desire to evade responsibility.

Writing on the condition of affairs when war broke out Sir Percy says the Admiralty was in a state of dislocation and confusion. We had no up-to-date mine-layers nor efficient mines; no properly fitted mine-sweepers; no arrangements for guarding ships against mines nor efficient method of using guns at night; no anti-Zeppelin guns, no anti-submarine precautions, nor any safe harbour for the fleet. Our torpedoes were so badly fitted that in the early days of the war they went under the German ships instead of hitting them, which was naturally very galling to submarine officers—men who displayed great gallantry in getting at the German ships. At the same time we regarded German submarines as toys, and in consequence we lost the Pathfinder, Hogue, Cressy, Aboukir, and Hawke within a few months, before we realised our mistake.

Admiral Scott describes a journey he made to Scapa Flow in November 1914, where he had a long interview with Admiral Jellicoe, who said he was doing all he could to make the anchorage safe, but that his measures were not even then complete, and any night submarines might come in and send the Grand Fleet to the bottom. Why the Fleet was not destroyed Sir Percy admits he cannot imagine. If the Germans had had half a dozen men of the type of our submarine commanders we should now be a German colony.

The first instalment of the book concludes: "Of the landing in the Dardanelles and the subsequent retirement we can for ever be proud. Our nation must ever be ashamed of the authorities responsible for the plan of attack."

THE 1917 OFFENSIVE.

A FOCH CANARD REFUTED.

In connection with the report published recently in the French and foreign Press, to the effect that on the occasion of the visit of President Poincaré to the King of the Belgians, Marshal Foch declared that if General Nivelle had been given a free hand in the spring of 1917 Northern France might have been freed 16 months earlier, M. Painlevé, who was Prime Minister and Minister of War at that time, has issued the following signed statement:

"I am authorised by Marshal Foch to declare firstly that the statement attributed to him is absolutely false, and, secondly, that at no time in the presence of King Albert was there any conversation concerning General Nivelle."

MARLBURIANS' MEMORIAL.

Marlburians who foregathered in London on Monday decided that Marlborough's war memorial to old Marlburians fallen in war shall take the form of a memorial hall to be built in the college grounds.

Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, who presided, announced that one of the original objects for which subscriptions were asked, namely, the education at Marlborough of sons of Marlburians fallen or incapacitated in the war, had been taken over by the Council of the school.

Dr. Norwood, Master of the College, said the suggested site was the paddock below the chapel in the Bath-road. The estimated cost was £35,000, of which £25,000 had already been received.

FOOD ON CREDIT FOR STRIKERS.

An arrangement has been made between the men's union and co-operative societies in Blackburn by which moulders and core-makers who are on strike can obtain goods on credit of the value of 10s. per week for each family. The union acts as guarantor, and the position will be reviewed at the end of a month. It is stipulated that the strikers must be, or become, co-operators.

WOMEN PETITION THE PRIME MINISTER.

The Women's Freedom League have received over 6,000 signatures to a petition, which will be presented to the Prime Minister, asking for the immediate release of Elsie Smith, a member of the W.R.A.F., for attempting to murder her infant child.

AIRMEN MURDERED.

MISSING PATROL MYSTERY SOLVED.

Reuter's San Diego (California) correspondent telegraphs the official announcement that the two United States Army aviators, Lieutenant Connolly and Lieutenant Waterhouse, who have been missing since the 21st August, were murdered by two fishermen at Bahia, Los Angeles, Lower California, where the airmen alighted after losing their way during a border patrol flight.

Search is bing made for the murderers, who are known both to the American and Mexican authorities.

Investigators who solved the hitherto mystery, found messages scrawled on the aeroplane showing that the airmen were without food for nineteen days and were compelled to drink the water from the radiator. On September 6th two fishermen from the sloop Esperanza rowed the airmen ashore from their floating machine. They then stabbed them while they lay asleep and looted everything portable from the machine.

TRAIN DISASTER.

SPIRIT SMUGGLERS BURNT TO DEATH.

A railway disaster has occurred in Upper Silesia at Kranowitz station, where a passenger train collided with a good. train. Up to the present the number of victims has been ascertained to have been 50 killed and 50 seriously injured, in addition to whom 100 have been slightly injured.

Some of the railway carriages and waggons caught alight. It is reported that many of the travellers had large quantities of spirits in their possession, which they had smuggled from abroad, and that from this cause the force of the flames was much increased. Many of the corpses are so much carbonised that they cannot possibly be identified.

R.A.F. GROUND OFFICERS.

COMPULSORY FLYING RESCINDED

According to the "Globe," the Air Ministry has decided to establish a new class of officers, to be known as stores officers, who will not be required to fly, in spite of the recent decision to the countrary.

Amongst genuine pilots and observers, the new order is received with something akin to disgust, for they suspect in it the thin edge of the wedge which may eventually excuse all administrative officers under the Air Ministry from obtaining practical experience in the air.

"REMEMBER THE DEAD." FUND.

More money is still required for the graves of our fallen comrades. We publish below the amounts received to date:—

	Marks
Already acknowledged	966 50
Staff of the Cologne Post..	500.—
G.P.L.	20.—
Lieut. Stanley Cock	55.—
Principal Matron and Miss Daly (Q.A.I.M.N.S.). ..	325.—
General Services V.A.D. Members at G.H.Q.	70.—
Per Lieut. Stanley Cock (H.Q. London Div. Train):—
Lieut.-Col. F. B. Lord.. ...	100.—
Lieut.-Col. W. I. Webb-Bowen	100.—
Lieut.-Col. Galloway	100.—
Major R. G. Saunders	50.—
Major J. C. Lloyd	50.—
Capt. J. W. D. Norman.....	50.—
Lieut. C. D. Hodgson	20.—
C.S.M., A. R. Perry	20.—
C.Q.M.S., C. Baxter	20.—
Pte. H. R. T. Hope	10.—
Cpl. C. E. Wass.....	10.—
Dvr. J. E. Stunger.....	10.—
Pte. E. Blackbourne	10.—
Dvr. D. Mayne	10.—
Dvr. S. Lilly	10.—
Dvr. T. E. Shorter.....	10.—
M.I. Room 52nd Northumberland Fusiliers	100.—
A Colonel.	110.—
Military Church Collection.	1300.—
Mrs. C. H. Osborne	10.—
Total to date	4036.50

Total amount required is about 6,000 marks. Please send subscriptions at once to Mrs. Gresham Shaw C/o. Cologne Post A.P.O, S/40, British Army of the Rhine.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

The active and outstanding feature of Tuesday was the spectacular advance in Oils, notably Mexicans and Burmahs, attributed to operations by large interests. Diamonds were buoyant, under the lead of De Beers, the principal buying emanating from Capetown. Marconis commenced active, rising in expectation of a bonus from the sale of American interests. Rubbers are broadening and business is improving, due to the favourable statements regarding production and consumption. Textiles were strong in connection with negotiations on behalf of a syndicate with a capital of seven millions for acquiring over twenty spinning mills in Lancashire. Shippings are improving on the announcement that shipping built under inspection of Lloyds Register this year is the largest on record, namely 4,767,000 tons.

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Representative Mr. A.J.R. LEE is at OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

Has recently returned from London with a stock of hosiery & a new selection of patterns for mufti wear. Officers requiring shirts etc. for the winter, can now be supplied from stock.

"cloisters where the bottle Meditates on joys to bestow" (George Meredith in "The Egoist")

DOORWAY of the Master's house, Hospital of the Gaunts (15th Century)—leading to the extensive cellars of John Harvey & Sons, Limited, where the world famous old golden sherry "BRISTOL MILK" and other choice wines are stored.

HARVEY'S "Bristol Milk"

114/- per doz. f.o.b.

This Trade Mark is the recognised guarantee all over the world of consistently High Quality and Value.

J H & S BRISTOL REGD BRAND

John Harvey & Sons, Ltd.
Send for Duty-free Price List BRISTOL, ENG.
Purveyors of Wines to H.M. King George V.

"Café Prinzess"
Corner of Waidmarkt.

Open to all Troops of the British and Allied Armies

DAILY CONCERT

Winehouse Köhler
(formerly Carlton)
Grosse Sandkaul 24—26
behind "Coffeehouse Germania"
The most fashionable place in the city.
Small-Orchestra starting at 5.0 p.m.
For officers and civilians only.

SERVUS Viennese wine room Marsplortengasse 7 near Hohestrasse between Obenmarspforten and Höhle.
CONCERT DAILY
Viennese cooking. — First class wine.
FOR OFFICERS AND CIVILIANS ONLY.

Agrippina Café
Breitestr. 92—98, Ist floor. Tel. B9935.
Artiste Concert daily from 4 p.m.
First class wines

Professional photographers
in the Rhine Army buy cheapest through
"HARBERS" Köln-Mülheim
"Rival Brand" Prinz Heinrich Str. 44 Telephon 858 Mülheim
Mfrs. of Photo-printing machines.
Camera studio and all supplies, (papers, plates, chemicals &c)
PRICE LIST SENT POSTPAID

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!
Cheap watches!
6 watches working well, in different beautiful boxes, Marks 48.00.
12 watches Marks 84.00.
With luminous dial 1 Mark extra each.
Packing and transport extra.
Sent against reimbursement.
J. GOLDSTEIN, COLOGNE
Blindgasse 24.
WHOLESALE. EXPORT.

EXPORT
Manufacturers of Surgical Instruments
NEUMANN & CIE.
COLOGNE, Minoritenstraße 21A.

! TO-DAY !
AT
VI CORPS OFFICERS' CLUB

Special Engagement of KAMMERSINGER
CARL ROST
The Great Baritone

GRAND ORCHESTRAL AND VOCAL CONCERT
under the Direction of
HERRM. BLUM

Wednesday October 29th 1919
3.30 to 6.30.

ENORMOUS SUCCESS OF
"THE JESTERS"
The first civilian music hall party to visit Rhineland.

SIX LONDON VARIETY ARTISTES INCLUDING
Mr.
JOE MORLEY
The famous Banjoist of the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN.
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY.
Mr. HARRY KING.
Mr. FRANK HOOK.
Mr. CHASS LEWIS.

Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage The Jesters. Vacant dates Monday Oct. 27th, Thurs., 30th, and Sat. Nov. 1. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office or may be seen personally at 11 o/c each morning at Amusements Office, Komödienstrasse, Cologne.

By order of the IX. Light Division at Ohligs.
AUCTION OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS ETC.
on Thursday, 30th Oct. 1919, at 2 p.m at Auction Rooms, Thieboldsgasse 140, COLOGNE.
1 Piano, 1 Bass, 1 Cello, 2 Violas, 6 Violins, 2 Clarinets, 1 Concert Flute, Fort Pedal and 1 Bass Drum Side, 1 Box Strings, Caps and Accessories, 1 Box resin, fiddle bridges & pegs, 170 Music copies for Brass and String Band, 1 Fife (Wilson & Co.) Generator complete, built 1917 only used for three months. One Trolly Cinematograph Machine (Gaumont), Machine complete & accessories, professional model, in first-class condition. On view two hours before sale in the Auction room.
Auctioneer Mathias Caspar
Friesenwall 87. Telephone A 3305.

Well situated house on the Hansaring paying 7% interest, to be sold at moderate price.
Inquire at
LOUIS HERZBERG
COLOGNE, Eifelstrasse 13.

23 old pictures from old masters of the 14th to 18th Century to the value of £2000. For sale from a private person. May be inspected from 1-4 o'clock in the afternoon, Luxemburgerstr. 311.

Where can I get my Photo work done?
at the:—
Kölner Photo & Kino Centrale
Neumarkt 32—34.
All repairs done to Kodaks, Ica, Zeiss, Goerz, Ernemann Cameras & Cinema machines.
English spoken.

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor

Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???
Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!
The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!
TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.
Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 32-34.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE:
From Nov. 3rd the Deutsches Theatre performances will commence at 6 p.m. nightly, excepting Wednesdays and Fridays, when they will begin at 8 p.m.

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.
At 6 p.m. Monday and during the week The Y.M.C.A. presents
A GILBERT AND SULLIVAN CONCERT PARTY
including
Miss Mary Hilliard. Soprano
Albert Hall Concerts Last Season
Miss Aimée Shergold. Contralto
D' Oyly Carte Principal Opera Co.
Miss Gwendolyn Teagle. Violinist
8 times in France during the war with Lena Ashwell Parties
Miss Nora Drake.
Accompanist and songs at the piano
Mr. Clay Thomas.
The well known London Baritone
Mr. Patric Playfair.
The celebrated Conjyurer
Next week—The British Rhine Army Dramatic Company in production of
"THE SILVER BOX"
by JOHN GALSWORTHY.

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
At 6 p.m. Monday, October 27th, and during the week
The London Division presents
"THE CRUMPS"
in a complete change of programme

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA.
32 Komödienstrasse
At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures
Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.
Grand Orchestra and Pictures.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA Hohe Strasse
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS,
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

THIS (Wednesday) EVENING at the
COLOGNE CENTRAL Y.M.C.A.
(44, Friesenstrasse.)
LOWER HALL. — 6.30. Limelight Entertainment. W.M. Manning and Party.
GREAT HALL. — 6.30 to 9.30. Cinema and Orchestra.
The British Children's School will be opened next week. In the meantime, the Dancing class will be held every Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a. m.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 650. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S.40, British Army of the Rhine.

Wednesday, October 29, 1919.

AMONG THE RUINS.

During the past five years when history exceeded the normal speed limit most of us became addicted to thinking in headlines. The headlines of to-day, however to quote Mr. James Douglas, are the tombstones of to-morrow, and there are themes that occupy our minds daily which seldom find an echo in the newspapers.

How rarely do we find, for example, any detailed allusion to the manner of life now being lived by the French and Belgian peasantry and townspeople, who after years in the wilderness have returned to their shattered homes amid the rack and ruin of pestilential war. What is the landscape like in the region of the Steenbeck; does the Menin road resound to the wheels of the baker's van; have the lads and the lasses of Bethune and Bapaume resumed their courting in the moonlight; has kindly nature been at work in High Wood since the tragic days when "there were nane but Highland bonnets there"?

These and similar queries occur and recur daily whereever two or three seasoned warriors are gathered together, but the public prints of the day are peculiarly dumb and dissatisfying.

That our thoughts should run so frequently in this particular channel is not to be wondered at. Is not the impression made upon the tablets of the memory indelible? When the Old Kent Road is forgotten if not forsaken, scores of the sacred highways and byways of France and Belgium will be carefully and reverently tended.

But there is another and more prosaic reason why the thoughts of many of us should revert so frequently to those scenes of desolation and of woe, and compel us in compassionate moments to wonder how the returned exiles are faring amid their new surroundings.

The cold was sometimes intense and inhospitable winds beat upon us so that provender for fires had to be "scrounged" at all costs. Doors "went west" as well as windows and shutters: even household gods were committed to the flame. Small wonder if the natives search for these and search in vain.

Britain, happily, despite her own trials and tribulations has not forgotten their plight and is lending a helping hand in the regenerative process. Live stock for breeding purposes has been freely exported to the stricken areas and now it is made known that the Royal Horticultural Society of England has gifted a large sum of money for seeds, etc. for orchards and gardens. Assuredly the sun will shine again on the fair fields of Flanders.

MEDAL RIBANDS.

THE ORDER OF WEARING THEM.

BY A MILITARY EXPERT.

In these days medal ribands are a fairly common sight. Nearly every other man one passes proudly displays on his left breast such badges of his warrior prowess, and, likewise, not a few women.

What is not quite so common, though, is to see the ribands, where the wearer is the enviable possessor of several, worn in their correct order. That is in their proper order of precedence, the senior being farthest away from the left shoulder, with the remainder following in their order of seniority until the junior one is nearest the shoulder.

It is not, of course, a very easy matter for the average individual to understand what is the correct order in which medal ribands should be worn—particularly in cases where he or she has ceased to serve with the forces. In the first place, the official list detailing the order of their wear is a very long one—extending from the Victoria Cross and Order of the Garter to Foreign Orders, Decorations and Medals—and, in the second, is, for some unexplained reason, not very widely published; its publication is practically confined to official quarters.

However, the information given herein, based on the information contained in the official list, should afford enlightenment to the majority of those entitled to wear ribands as to the correct order in which they should be worn.

V.C. ALWAYS FIRST.

First in point of precedence comes the Victoria Cross; it is absolutely senior to all other ribands, whether of Orders, Decorations, or Medals.

Next to the V.C. comes the riband of the Order of the Garter; then follow, in order as named, the ribands of the Order of the Thistle, Order of St. Patrick, Order of the Bath, Order of Merit, Order of the Star of India, Order of St. Michael and St. George, Order of the Indian Empire, Order of the Crown of India, Royal Victorian Order (Classes I., II., III.), Order of the British Empire (Classes I., II., III.), Order of the Companions of Honour, Distinguished Service Order, Royal Victorian Order (Class IV), Order of the British Empire (Class IV.), Imperial Service Order, Royal Victorian Order (Class V.), and Order of the British Empire (Class V.).

That completes the ribands of the various principal Orders.

Immediately next comes the riband of the decorations known as the Royal Red Cross (Class I.).

Then follows the Distinguished Service Cross (Naval), the Military Cross, the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Force Cross, the Royal Red Cross (Class II.), the Order of British India, the Indian Order of Merit (Military), the Kaisar-i-Hind Medal, and the Order of St. John of Jerusalem in England.

A MATTER OF PRECEDENT.

Any man or woman holding the riband of any one or more of the Orders and decorations mentioned should, when wearing same on the breast, give precedence thereto in the manner already explained, by placing farthest from the left shoulder and before any other medal or decoration.

Next in order comes the Albert Medal, then the Distinguished Conduct Medal. Next junior to the D.C.M. is the Conspicuous Gallantry Medal (Naval), and that is followed, in the order named, by the Distinguished Service Medal (Naval), Military Medal, Distinguished Flying Medal, and Air Force Medal.

Any one or more of the various ribands so far mentioned should be worn in front of any war medal riband.

Only where an individual has none of the ribands mentioned is precedence given on his or her breast to the war medal ribands he or she may hold.

War medal ribands should be worn in the order of their date. For instance, the Queen's S.A. Medal riband comes before the King's S.A.: either South African before the present war ribands, the 1914 or 1914-15 Star before the British War Medal riband, and the British War Medal riband before the Victory Medal riband.

AFTER THE WAR MEDAL RIBANDS.

All other medal ribands other than those specifically alluded to should be worn after the war medal ribands.

The following is the order of precedence of some of the most frequently to be met with of such other medal ribands:—

King's Police, King Edward's Coronation, King Edward's Police Coronation, King Edward's Durbar; King Edward's Police (Scotland), King's Medal, 1903 (Ireland), King George's Coronation, King George's Police Coronation, King's Visit Police Commemoration, 1911 (Ireland), King George's Durbar, the Long Service and Good Conduct (Army), Naval Long Service and Good Conduct, Meritorious Service, Royal Marine Meritorious Service, Volunteer Officer's Decoration, Volunteer Long Service, Militia Long Service, Yeomanry Long Service, Territorial Force Efficiency, Territorial Decoration, Special Reserve Long Service, Decoration for Officers of the Royal Naval Reserve, Decoration for Officers of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, the Royal Naval Reserve Long Service, Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve Long Service, and the Medal of the Order of the British Empire.

FOREIGN RIBANDS.

Last in point of seniority as far as wearing is concerned come the ribands of foreign Orders (in order of date of award), foreign decorations (in order of date of award), and foreign medals (in order of date of award).

One other point only needs to be alluded to in conclusion, and that is the correct number of ribands that may be worn in one row in cases where the individual possesses a goodly number. The official regulation is that where there is not sufficient room to wear the ribands in one row, without one riband overlapping another, they should be worn in two rows, the lower row being placed half an inch below the upper. That regulation is certainly a simple enough one.

CAN YOU WRITE?

We pay for all literary contributions to "The Cologne Post," and are pleased to consider articles, humorous sketches and poems by members of the Rhine Army. No article should exceed 500 words, and even shorter ones can be submitted.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

STREET OBSTRUCTIONS.

Sir,—From time to time various correspondents have called attention to points of town management wherein the German is said to surpass our home authorities. I would like to protest against this as a general principle and quote one special case where the Cologne authorities show themselves utterly regardless of the public welfare as opposed to private convenience, viz., in the matter of street obstructions.

A few nights ago I passed a large stores in an ill-lighted street and was surprised to find a huge mass of coke, several waggon loads, blocking the greater part of the street, and it was to be left there all night.

Last night, passing up the Hunnenrucken abut 9 p.m. I saw two loads of bricks carelessly dumped in the roadway and covering half its width.

There will be serious motor, cycle, and car accidents so long as this practice is permitted. It may be all right for natives; they may expect to find such barriers to their nocturnal progress, but our people do not and accidents are bound to accrue.

A funny sight which I saw this morning struck me as being the limit. In a street where the tramway passes close to the pavement was a huge load of coke. To keep the cart there or dump the stuff meant blocking the trams, so the difficulty was overcome by drawing the wagon on to the footpath, thereby blocking the foot passengers.

That the latter had to walk into the trams or wait, did not seem to matter. In fact the foot passenger in Cologne does not seem to have any rights.

L.C.C.

ARE THEY NECESSARY?

Sir,—I should like to take this opportunity of informing your correspondents "Micky" and A.H.T. that the wearing of identity discs by all ranks in the British Army is compulsory, failure to do so being contrary to G.R.O. 3310.

In any case, there is no justification whatever for a grouse in this direction seeing that the identity disc is practically the only official means of identification left, since the exodus of our old friend A. B. 64.

DEV.

RINK HOCKEY.

Sir,—Referring to "Swerver's" letter I regret that I shall be unable to give any assistance in the formation of a Rink Hockey League as I am proceeding on demobilization.

I think the formation of an inter-regimental competition would prove to be the seed of real sporting weekly contests. It's surprising how keen new players get when shewn what skill can be obtained in this sport, and this I feel sure would be imbibed by "Swerver" as I still have vivid and pleasant memories of the old tussles with many of the northern clubs, such as Leeds City, Burnley Coliseum, Leicester, etc., with "stick wizards" like the Bros. Duxbury as opponents.

D. HEATH. Capt. R. E.

Sir,—In reply to "Swerver's" I may say that every effort is being made to raise Rink Hockey teams to play at Mulheim.

The services of "Swerver" in connection with this will be much appreciated, and if he visits the Rink at Mulheim he will find the M.C. prepared to supply all information and discuss any practicable suggestions.

MÜLHEIM.

PRICES AND PROFITS.

Sir,—I am interested to see that other officers have noticed that the portion of whisky served at the N.A.C.B. Officers' Club changes inversely with the rise of price, and has reached the stage where a little attention is needed.

The other evening I was served among others with the usual "double." I took it to the mess, and on measuring it out I found it went 16 or 17 portions to the bottle.

Now at this particular time bottles of whisky could be bought at the wholesale canteen at 25.40 marks per bottle, less 5 per cent. discount, while the price charged per portion in the Ewige Lampe was 6.40 marks.

A little calculation shews that four portions pay for the bottle. Now what becomes of the approximate 70 marks profit on each bottle sold? And is this considered a fair profit?

OBSERVER.

EYES AND NO EYES.

Sir,—Every intelligent reader of "M.A.'s" letter in to-day's "Post" will endorse both its purport and its timeliness.

Before the war we all considered Germany as a progressive and efficient country to be very seriously reckoned with in the race for intellectual and commercial supremacy.

The violation of the laws of war has not changed our respective positions by one iota, save apparently to render Germany still keener, and ourselves more complacently self-satisfied, than ever. Never, perhaps, was that childishly silly egotism more clearly manifested than by those of your correspondents who denied to Germans a musical faculty greater than our own.

Let every man realise that Germany is just as big a nut to crack now as she ever was during the war, and the only way to crack the nut is by work, not by words.

We are now British workers with a decided tendency to talk and argument rather than work.

We are in competition with a nation whose pre-war efficiency and national discipline left us standing at the post.

That efficiency is now asserting itself again, and should that discipline do likewise it will require the last ounce of our national effort to hold our place in the world,—to hold any place at all.

The policy of burking hard facts has become a habit with us during the war, and may easily be our undoing. Those of us who know the average German, know that in industrious effort and general intelligence he is, at least, quite up to his British prototype, and his efficiency will be in no wise impaired by any amount of "crabbing."

We shall never get the measure of the Germans until we put on our pre-war spectacles again.

T.W.P.

THE PLAYS SOME PEOPLE WANT

Sir,—Your correspondent "One of the Gods" seems to be one of those persons who is never satisfied. I think the B.R.A.D.C. are really doing wonders in producing the great number of plays they do.

If "One of the Gods" can find nothing else to do but grumble about these productions I feel very sorry for him.

If the latter's suggestion was adopted I wonder if the house at the Deutsches would be as crowded as it is at present.

G.W.H.P.

Sir,—With reference to this correspondence, there are one or two points which seem to have escaped the notice of your correspondents. To judge from "One of the Gods" letter the only two plays he has seen are "Strife" and "Damaged Goods".

Other and more amusing plays have been produced at the Deutsches Theatre which he does not appear to have attended. e.g., "Man and Superman", "Importance of being Earnest", and "General Post," and I suggest he should see some of these before he condemns the R.A.D.C. of always giving serious problem plays; merely because he happens to have witnessed these two plays only.

But there are several points which suggest correspondence on this subject

1. There are several good Concert Parties performing in Cologne if "One of the Gods" prefers something in lighter vein.

2. Some of the plays he suggests are quite beyond the scope of the R.A.D.C. This is mainly due to technical difficulties connected with elaborate scenic effects, etc.

Moreover if "One of the Gods" appreciation of good drama is limited to "Pigeon Post," etc. or the strong melodrama beloved of "Gallery" I submit that there is ample opportunity whilst on leave for seeing these kinds of plays which are typically representative of theatrical taste in England.

C. G. R.

BANDS IN PLENTY.

Sir,—In Sunday's issue of the "Cologne Post" there appeared a notice saying that very few bands had been heard in Cologne of late, and I am writing to point out that since May 18th till October 19th we have had, without fail, a Band Concert once every week at the British Empire Leave Club.

Two concerts have been given by the 17th Lancers, two by the 12th Lancers, the 1st Eastern Brigade, the Inniskilling Dragoons, and the 20th K.R.R.C., while the Western Divisional String Orchestra, the 18th K.R.R.C., the 13th K.R.R.C., 3rd Hussars, 51st Leicesters, 23rd Royal Fusiliers, 52nd Durham Light Infantry, and 9th East Surreys have all given one concert in our Hall, and the Royal Dragoons have given two. Last, but not least, we have had a visit from the Belgian Band of the 1st Grenadiers, besides innumerable bands for dances.

CONTROLLER OF ENTERTAINMENTS.

BOXING FILMS.

Sir,—Why is your correspondent "Anti-box" so surprised and pained to see films exhibited in the Y.M.C.A., showing pugilistic encounters? Does he realise what boxing, and the numerous other sports, has done for the community in general in the late war? Does he imagine that this country of ours could have brought the war to such a successful issue, on the "glass of milk and a bun" tactics, he evidently prescribes?

It is high time he thought a bit more rationally, or if, as it seems, such a thing is impossible, allow other, and more able people, to do it for him. I should imagine an organization such as the Y.M.C.A. are too "old in the teeth" to be taught what to do for the amusement of its patrons, and the repulsion which "Anti-box" feels for such an exhibition is not shared by the majority.

In conclusion, let me point out that the number of our clergy who are adepts at the "noble art" is sufficient proof that brawn as well as brains are not necessarily incompatible qualities.

NOBBIE.

Sir,—I am surprised and pained to think that "Anti-box" should take the opinion of boxing that he does. He describes it as a low and degrading sport; far from it. It teaches a man self-reliance, and a man who can rely on and defend himself is worth a dozen of "Anti-box's" type. Also a man who takes to boxing as a profession must keep himself fit both morally and physically.

I have found from experience that the majority of these "creatures" who protest against boxing are of the "Mother's Darling" variety.

It is largely the spirit and doggedness of the men in the field, such as is essential to a boxer, that brought us successfully through the War.

PUGILIST.

"SHOU'DER TO TH' WHEEL."

If yo'r business is bad,
And yo' know not the cause;
And yo'r wark turns out wrong,
O'erridden wi' flaws;
There's a shortage o' summat,
As yo' may well know,
Perhaps there's a lacking
O' grease at th' elbow,
So get out yo'r oil,
Give the bearings a drop—
If yo' don't, the result—
Will be nowt but a stop!
Keep yo'r shou'der to th' wheel.

It matters not much
Wot yo'r business may be,
Whether building or farming,
Or felling a tree,
Or courtin' a lassie
To mak' her yo'r wife;
Yo' mun do it i' ernest,
Wi' some show o' life.
Energy's wanted
In wotever yo' do,
Half-hearted wark
Will ne'er pull yo' through!
Keep yo'r shou'der to th' wheel!

NED O' RAINHILL.

OUR FOOTBALL CONTEST

FELTON BEATS BARRY.

Australian's Easy Win in World's Sculling Championship.

LOSER BECOMES WATER-LOGGED.

Alfred Felton, Australia, by virtue of defeating Ernest Barry, British Champion, at Putney on Monday, becomes sculling champion of the world.

The match, which was for £500 a side, created considerable interest in the rowing world, and large crowds watched the Australian win by six lengths.

There was a strong north-westerly wind blowing, which caused very rough water. Felton, who had the luck of winning the toss, chose the Middlesex side. The men got away by mutual consent, Felton striking fourteen and twenty-six, and Barry fifteen and twenty-eight.

The Australian hugged the Middlesex shore, while Barry kept to the centre of the river, where he shipped a great amount of water. He became water-logged before reaching Craven Steps. Felton rapidly added to his useful lead. He covered the distance in 25 minutes 40 seconds, Barry taking approximately 26 minutes. The winner was loudly cheered.

THE OPPONENTS.

Felton scales 13st. 7lbs., and stands 6ft. 2½in., against Barry's 11st. 8lb. and 6ft.

Barry's first race for the championship was in 1910, when he was beaten on the Zambesi by Arnst. Two years later he turned the tables on Arnst over the Thames course, whilst the same year he beat E. Durnan. In 1913 he vanquished H. Pearce, and J. Paddon fell a victim to his prowess in 1914.

Barry's time of 21min. 12sec. against Towns in 1908 is a record for the championship course in a sculling boat.

"JOCKY" SIMPSON.

The Retirement of Blackburn Rover's Famous Winger.

BY W. LE. C.

The compulsory retirement of the famous "Bairn," which means a deplorable loss to football, and the passing of one of England's cleverest players, has been greatly felt by all lovers of the game. "Jocky" Simpson, as we shall always remember him, was born at Pendleton about 33 years ago, and first began his football career at the age of seventeen. Glasgow Rangers gave him a trial and then Falkirk snapped him up. He signed for this club in the season 1904-5. The fame of the "Bairns'" winger soon spread, and club after club angled for his services, offers up to £1,500 being made.

Then in 1911 (January 23rd to be exact) he played in the English International Trial at Tottenham, and on the evening of the same day he signed for the Rovers. The transfer fee was £1,800, a record then, but events proved he was worth it, every penny.

He turned out in the Blackburn jersey for the first time on January 28th, 1911 against Sheffield United at Bramall Lane, and since then has regularly assisted his team.

Snapped up by Rovers.

When Simpson intimated to Mr. William Nichol, the Falkirk secretary, that he wished to sever his connection with the club, letters were sent out to Sheffield Wednesday, Newcastle United, Everton, Aston Villa, Bradford and Tottenham informing them that he was on transfer. When these clubs were, to use a common expression "thinking it over", Blackburn stepped in. The Rovers three years previously had offered £1,000 for the famous winger and the chance was too good to be missed.

His last appearance for the Ewood club took place at Blackburn against Middlesboro' on April 24, 1915, when he, along with Aitkenhead and Dawson, scored the four goals which defeated the Teesiders. How many of the crowd who delighted in his brilliance that day, thought that would be the last appearance of their idol in the Rovers' jersey. But events have proved it was.

During the war he assisted his old club Falkirk and made his last appearance in football, with the "Bairns" practically eight years to the day he left them, on January 25th last, against Greenock Morton.

When Falkirk's line consisted of Simpson, John McTavish (his famous partner who later joined Newcastle United) Skene, Mitchell and Davidson, he scored 33 goals from outside right, a splendid performance.

His First Cap.

The accident of birth entitled him to play for England and in 1911 the English selectors, threw custom to the winds and invited Simpson, not then connected with an English club, to play for the land of his birth. He got his first cap at Derby against Ireland on February 11, 1911, and performed with dazzling skill. Since then he has been seven times the recipient of International honours, representing England on eight occasions.

Blackburn, always liberal-handed to their players, are seeking permission to pay the International in full for this season and to play a benefit match on his behalf. They also intend to raise a testimonial to him. While he is not legally entitled to a benefit, I think the League will not make any objections and the permission should be readily forthcoming. When this is given "Wee Jocky Simpson" as they call him over the border, should find that Blackburn folk appreciate his services to their club.

Never a "Gallery" player, he was an untiring worker, and got to the front rank of football stars by sheer hard work. A gentlemanly player and one who delighted in his game, the football world is all the poorer by his retirement; and I echo the wish of thousands of his admirers, out here and at home when I say that I trust his days may be prolonged, and that the illness which has made him say "Good-bye" to football may be successfully combated.

MIXED HOCKEY.

Proposed Formation of a Team in Cologne.

Hockey is attracting many followers this season in Rhineland, and there are rumours of many teams being formed. A number of ladies have put their heads together and expressed the opinion that a mixed team in Cologne would be bound to meet with popularity. Other people of the same mind who have suggestions to make anent the project, should drop a line to Mrs. Hall, 12 Krumentz Strasse, Lindenthal.

TO-DAY'S BIG RACE.

Will Succession of Winning Outsiders be Maintained?

CAMBRIDGESHIRE PROBABLES.

The present flat racing season has been remarkable for the number of favourites that have failed in big races. The Panther's ignominious performance in the Derby was perhaps the most notable of these, and, in view of past experience, followers of racing are showing more inclination to support long shots, in trying to spot the winner of to-day's Cambridgeshire, than usual.

Many outsiders are being mentioned as possible winners, although Zinovia and Scatwell remain at the head of the betting list. On account of the hard going, Planet was, until Monday, looked upon as a doubtful starter, but, with the fall of rain, these doubts have been dispelled. According to latest reports from England, however, it is unlikely that rain will fall in sufficient quantities to render the ground really soft. Should this presumption turn out to be correct, Scatwell, who has a great partiality for fairly hard going, will shorten still further in price.

PROBABLE STARTERS.

My Dear (Donoghue)	Glamerin (Slade)
Diadem (Childs)	Clarion (Lane)
Zinovia (V. Smith)	Aynsley (—)
Scatwell (A. Smith)	Tetrarchia (Martin)
Rivershore (—)	Viviani (Ledson)
Planet (Robbins)	Sir Berkeley (Colling)
Dominion (Whalley)	Dromio (Leach)
Roideur (—)	Brigand (—)
Golden Fleece (Fox)	Glaciale (F. Huscley)
Royal Bucks (Holme)	LadyEarn (Ringstead)
Rocksavage (Leader)	Mintleaf (—)
Viceroy (—)	Alasnam (Weston).

RECENT SCRATCHINGS.

Frank Webber and Vertigo at 9 a.m.; Elfterion 11.57 on Monday; Polygnotus and Monteith after 1 on Saturday.

LILLE "SWEEP" DRAW.

First Prize £11,178; Second Prize £5,589; Third £2,794.

The draw for the "Victory Army Cambridgeshire Sweepstake" took place at Lille on Monday.

The first prize will be £11,178; the second £5,589 and the third £2,794, while all horses drawn, including the whole ninety entries will each receive £238.

Nunovia was drawn by 36,069 Air-mechanic Sharp, Folkestone.

Scatwell, 07,661, Lieut. Easterbrook, Cologne.

Sir Berkeley 57,907, Pte. Masher, Rugby.

Tetrarchia 34,255, Pte. Riley, Engineer Workshops, Somme, France.

Dominion, 98,486, Provost Marshal's Office, G.H.Q., Rhine Army.

LATEST BETTING.

6 to 1 Zinovia	7 to 1 Scatwell
15 to 2 Sir Berkeley	9 to 1 Tetrarchia
100 to 8 Alasnam	100 to 7 Royal Bucks
100 to 6 Diadem	18 to 1 Golden Fleece
22 to 1 Clarion	22 to 1 Dominion

33 to 1 Lady Earn.

BIRMINGHAM RESULTS.

Favourite again Beaten in Big Race.

Dull clouds and cold winds characterised Monday's meeting at Birmingham. The going was on the hard side. Results:—

Estates Plate:—1, Slurbowe (5—2); 2, Sucrose colt (9—4); 3, Skookum Joe (10—1). Nine ran.

Solihull Handicap:—1, Orange William (5—1); 2, Kaloolan (9—2); 3, Danunzio (5—1). Seven ran.

Atherstone Handicap:—1, Home fire (7—2); 2, Pourboire (4—1); 3, Starida (100—7). Thirteen ran.

Birmingham Handicap:—1, Jupiter (5—1); 2, Grand Fleet (9—4); 3, Unicoi (11—8). Six ran.

Coventry Handicap:—1, Happy Girl (100—6); 2, Willblend (5—2); 3, Light Blue (100—6). Fourteen ran.

Maiden Plate:—1, Hagrology (2—1); 2, June Rose (7—4); Ring Again (10—1). Six ran.

LIVERPOOL CUP WEIGHTS.

(1m. 3f. Run Friday, Nov. 7.)

	Age	st	lb		Age	st	lb
My Dear	4	9	5	King's Idler	3	7	0
Arion	4	9	3	Alasnam	3	6	13
Zinovia	4	9	3	Tourville	3	6	12
Grand Fleet	5	9	1	Danegelt	3	6	11
Scatwell	4	8	12	Glaciale	3	6	11
Rich Gift	5	8	5	Mapledurham	3	6	11
King John	4	8	4	Tomatine	3	6	11
Planet	5	8	3	My Land	4	6	10
Flying Spear	3	8	2	Roamer	3	6	9
Chinette	3	8	2	Patrick's Day	a	6	8
Dominion	3	8	2	Schamyl	a	6	8
Royal Bucks	6	7	13	Silvanite	4	6	7
Good Night	3	7	8	Ramda	6	6	7
Sandmole	a	7	7	Control	3	6	6
Sir Berkeley	4	7	7	King Carnival	4	6	5
African Star	3	7	4	John Jackett	6	6	5
Lady Earn	4	7	2	Thermogene	4	6	3
Rotessay Bay	3	7	2	Kerry Lass	3	6	2
Pastures New	a	7	0	Dorelus	3	6	0
Silver Bullet	4	7	0	Poilu	4	6	0
Zulanda	5	7	0	Win the War	3	6	0
Square Measure	4	7	0	Warways	3	6	0
Roseacre	4	7	0	Tangiers	3	Dr.
Dionysos	4	7	0	Carados	4	Dr.
Daphne	3	7	0

VARSITY HOCKEY.

In playing Beckenham, at Cambridge, the University lost their first match of the season. The feature of the play was the speed of both teams, although the visitors showed the superior combination, and won 1—0.

Oxford University accomplished a very creditable performance at Wimbledon in beating the Wimbledon team by 5 goals to nil.

BARRY DEFEATED BY FELTON

"KNOCK-OUTS" FORBIDDEN

Strange Decision by English Borough Council.

AMUSING SKIT.

The Borough Council has decided to allow Acton Baths to be let for Boxing Contests on condition that knock-outs are not allowed.

The above decision, which is causing much amusement in English boxing circles, has moved Mr. W. Buchanan Taylor to write the following "intelligent anticipation" for "Sporting Life":

The combatants entered the ring at five o'clock p.m. precisely, fresh from afternoon tea in the Kindergarten. It was calculated that as the combat was one of six half-minute rounds the boys would be able to retire at their usual bedtime, 5.45 sharp.

Gerald the Gentle (nicknamed the Apple of Acton) was in the corner nearest the nursery, whilst his opponent, Harold the Harmless (the Pride of Peckham), being the guest, completed his toilet in the angle abutting on the incubator.

Gerald was looked after by his mother and two maiden aunts, and Harold had as mentor his V.A.D. cousin and two of her char-lady colleagues. Both lads had undergone a strict training on Glaxo and Allenbury's, and the respective trainers reported them "fit to fight for a Kingdom."

The referee called the combatants together and read the usual instructions, which, consisted of a by-law of the borough setting forth the conditions of the contest, with a full list of penalties for slapping, scratching, biting, and pushing.

Both lads were deeply moved at the recital, and having kissed each other on the brow, the ring was cleared.

3rd Round.

Then follows a detailed account of the first three rounds, the third being described as follows:—

Round 3.—This will be known as one of the most sensational set-to's in the annals of the Acton prize-ring. The round had not been in progress more than ten seconds when Harold's bootlace became unfastened, and no sooner did he stop to give it his attention than Gerald raised his right hand and landed fairly heavily with the flat of his hand on that part of his opponent's anatomy which was uppermost at the critical moment. The sufferer of this cowardly blow protested vehemently, but manfully refrained from retaliating. Disorder reigned in the auditorium, and cries of "Foul!" were heard in all directions. The referee consulted with the Baths Committee, and when order was at last restored, it was announced that after a profound discussion of the incident the committee had decided by 7 votes to 3 to disqualify the offender. So the prize, a "Treatise on the Dangers of Physical Development, and How to Avoid Them," was given to Harold. The decision was not accepted with entire unanimity by the audience, but the committee remained firm.

NEW TENNIS STAR.

Concluding Stages in London Covered C. C.

The London covered court lawn tennis championships reached the concluding stages on Monday.

T. M. Mavrogordato qualified as finalist in the mens' singles, defeating A. C. Hunter 6/2; 6/1; 6/3. The other finalist will probably be the Roumanian, N. Mishu, who has yet to meet Parton in the semi-final.

Mrs. Beamish creditably won the ladies' singles championship, defeating Miss McKane in the final round 2/1; 6/1; 9/7. Miss McKane is unquestionably the most promising young English player, her masterly style being quite reminiscent of Suzanne Lenglin.

In the mens' doubles third round the Hon. F. B. Fisher and C. P. Dixon beat N. Mishu and Eames in a most spectacular match of terrific hitting 9/7; 6/3; 6/4; P. M. Davson and T. M. Mavrogordato beat Stoddard and Yencken 6/2; 6/3; 6/2.

In the mixed doubles third round Capt. O'Hara Wood, Australia, and Mrs. Beamish beat T. M. Mavrogordato and Miss Ryan 6/3; 6/3.

In the semi-final the Hon. F. B. Fisher and Mrs. Lambert Chambers beat Doust and Mrs. McNair 7/5; 6/2.

FAMOUS GOLFERS PLAY.

To mark the post-war reopening of the Betchworth Park course, near Dorking, on Saturday, the champion, Harry Vardon (South Herts), the ex-champions, J. H. Taylor (Mid-Surrey), and James Braid (Walton Heath), and the local professional, George Carter, took part in a couple of competitions for which the club put up prize money to the amount of £50. The scores were: Taylor 75, Carter 79, Braid 81, Vardon 84.

VILLA'S NEW TALENT.

Aston Villa surprised even their most sanguine supporters by visiting Middlesbrough and defeating the home team by 4 goals to 1. The Villa had Barson, of Barnsley, as centre-half, and Kirton, of Leeds City, in the forward line. Middlesbrough led at the interval by a goal, scored by Butler, to nothing.

In the second half a surprising change came over the game. Boyman accomplished the hat trick for the Villa, and Darrell registered their fourth point. The visitors displayed remarkable form, and well deserved their win.

THE STABLE LADS' STRIKE.

Stablemen at Newmarket are unlikely to take action to support the Epsom stables as very few of them belong to the owner. An open air meeting was held at Newmarket with the object of getting men to join the union, but it met with small response.

Both the trainers and the stable lads have taken up a determined attitude, and the sympathy of the people of Epsom is with the lads on the ground that they are receiving insufficient pay. About 100 stable lads are affected.

CHUMS

read "The Cologne Post". Send it daily to yours.

THE LEAGUE TABLES.

Leaders Maintain Positions in Various Competitions.

SPURS STILL UNBEATEN.

The position of the clubs on Saturday in the chief League Competitions was as follows:—

The League.

	Pld.	Won.	Drn.	Lost.	Goals For	Goals Agst.	Pts.
West Bromwich Albion	11	9	0	2	36	14	18
Newcastle United	12	7	3	2	19	9	17
Burnley	12	6	3	3	21	17	15
Middlesbrough	12	6	3	3	17	17	15
Sheffield United	12	5	4	3	27	17	14
Manchester United	11	4	6	1	20	14	14
Sunderland	11	6	1	4	20	15	13
Derby County	12	4	5	3	17	15	13
Bradford City	12	5	2	5	21	20	12
Bolton Wanderers	12	5	1	6	23	20	11
Bradford	11	5	1	5	15	14	11
Everton	11	5	1	5	22	21	11
Liverpool	11	5	1	5	13	14	11
Chelsea	11	5	1	5	12	13	11
The Arsenal	11	4	3	4	16	17	11
Blackburn Rovers	12	3	4	5	13	17	10
Manchester City	11	4	2	5	25	29	10
Notts County	11	3	3	5	16	25	9
Preston North End	11	3	2	6	18	19	8
Oldham Athletic	11	2	2	7	14	21	6
Aston Villa	11	2	1	8	12	25	5
Sheffield Wednesday	11	1	3	7	6	19	5

Second Division Of The League.

	Pld.	Won.	Drn.	Lost.	Goals For	Goals Agst.	Pts
Tottenham Hotspur	10	9	1	0	35	6	19
Fulham	12	7	3	2	21	9	17
Bristol City	11	5	5	1	15	8	15
Blackpool	12	7	1	4	27	15	15
Stoke	11	7	1	3	19	1	15
Barnsley	11	6	2	3	26	10	14
Birmingham	11	6	2	3	23	12	14
Hull City	12	6	2	4	20	16	14
West Ham United	11	6	2	3	13	15	14
Huddersfield Town	11	5	3	3	19	10	13
Stockport County	11	4	4	3	16	9	12
Bury	11	5	1	5	12	15	11
Burslem Port Vale	9	4	2	3	17	12	10
Nottingham	12	3	4	5	11	13	10
Wolverhampton Wand.	11	3	3	5	14	14	9
South Shields	10	4	0	6	8	16	8
Leicester City	11	3	2	6	12	26	8
Rotherham County	12	3	1	8	10	25	7
Grimsby Town	11	3	1	7	7	20	7
Clapton Orient	12	2	1	9	11	20	5
Lincoln City	11	1	3	7	9	37	5
Coventry City	11	0	2	9	4	27	2

Southern League.

	Pld.	Won.	Drn.	Lost.	Goals For	Goals Agst.	Pts
Queen's Park Rangers	13	8	4	1	18	4	20
Reading	14	7	6	1	18	8	20
Portsmouth	13	7	3	3	23	10	17
Exeter City	12	5	5	2	16	10	15
Watford	11	6	3	2	13	9	15
Millwall Athletic	13	5	4	4	22	20	14
Plymouth Argyle	12	5	3	4	17	7	13
Crystal Palace	12	3	7	2	16	13	13
Southend United	13	4	5	4	15	17	13
Cardiff City	11	3	6	2	19	13	12
Norwich City	10	5	2	3	18	15	12
Swindon Town	12	4	4	4	19	18	12
Brentford	12	3	5	4	14	15	11
Merthyr Town	13	3	5	5	16	18	11
Luton Town	12	4	3	5	14	19	11
Southampton	13	5	1	7	18	26	11
Brighton & Hove Albion	13	3	4	6	12	17	10
Bristol Rovers	11	3	4	4	17	21	10
Swansea Town	11	3	2	6	10	14	8
Gillingham	13	3	2	8	8	22	8
Northampton Town	12	2	3	7	20	30	7
Newport County	14	2	3	9	10	27	7

Scottish League.

	Pld.	Won.	Drn.	Lost.	Goals For	Goals Agst.	Pts
Glasgow Rangers	14	12	1	1	40	7	25
Celtic	11	10	0	1	30	12	20
Motherwell	14	7	5	2	25	19	19
Airdrieonians	13	7	3	3	26	18	17
Greenock Morton	13	7	2	4	23	11	16
Heart of Midlothian	13	7	2	4	18	14	16
Partick Thistle	12	6	2	4	19	18	14
Dundee	13	6	1	6	17	15	13
Aberdeen	13	5	3	5	17	16	13
Hibernians	14	6	1	7	28	29	13
Third Lanark	13	4	4	5	18	22	12
St. Mirren	14	5	2	7	16	25	12
Raith Rovers	15	4	3	8	29	35	11
Queen's Park	14	4	3	7	20	26	11
Clyde	15	3	5	7	19	26	11
Falkirk	15	4	2	9	15	29	10
Dumbarton	14	2	6	6	16	28	10
Kilmarnock	14	4	2	8	16	35	10
Clydebank	12	4	1	7	18	19	9
Albion Rovers	12	3	3	6	11	21	9
Hamilton Academicals	14	3	2	9	22	34	8

SECOND LEAGUE RESULT.

Port Vale 0; Tottenham H. 1.

CAMBRIDGE V. THE ARMY.

The Light Blues had a hard task on Saturday for their opening Rugby match, and, all things considered, they did well to make a draw of it, although they were leading until the last minute of the game, when the Army got level. There was more combination about the Army side, and had their shooting been as good as their mid-field play, they might have won by a respectable margin, but on quite a number of occasions, particularly in the second half, their shooting was rather wild.

20 M.A.C. v. 36 C.C.S.

It was only a moderate game at Klettenberg on Saturday, when 20th M.A.C. defeated 36th C.C.S. by two clear goals. The M.A.C., opened the scoring a few minutes from the start, the ball rolling into the net during a misunderstanding between the "36" backs, and the custodian. The C.C.S. tried hard to equalise but their forwards, who lacked initative and cohesion, never looked like scoring, for they failed to shoot when well-placed.

The second half was much the same as the first, the M.A.C., adding to their lead early on, after a spirited forward movement. Near the end of the game the losers were awarded a penalty, which the right back failed to convert. Both sides were well served by the backs, but the forwards, particularly those of "36", were weak, and neither goalkeeper was really tested.

844—NEWMAN'S RECORD BREAK.

The following were the closing scores in the leading billiard matches in London on Monday evening:—

Newman 9648; Stevenson (in play) 8563. Newman made his record break 844, beating his previous record 829.

Reece 8854; Falkiner (in play) 8796.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE PROBABLES

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

At the Palace.

"The Crumps" opened a week's engagement at the Cologne Palace on Monday under the happiest auspices. Although billed all over the town as the "Grumps" (as a result of inadvertance on the part of the printer I suppose), the performance was far from being grumpy in its tone. On the contrary, humour and brightness were the chief qualities, albeit the comedy items were judiciously relieved by many excellent "straight" numbers.

The whole programme is varied and well arranged and has the estimable quality of being quite free from any trace of vulgarity. Sketches play a prominent part and the latest production of the party, a burlesque drama, described as a thrilling story of love and hatred, with a couple of suicides thrown in, abounds with humorous situations. The presentation which is in every way excellent, is in the hands of Jack Knight, Tich Whetton, Tolly de Macne, Tom Fenwick, Ted Moody, Billy Lamb and Jim Rees.

* * *

One of the most popular items in the entertainment is undoubtedly the treatment of Marie Lloyd's well-known number "A little of what you Fancy" by "Tich Whetton". He is a particularly successful dame whose facial expressions are distinctly funny. "Daisy" Bell is another hard worker in the party. His female impersonations are an enjoyable feature throughout, but his happiest effort is towards the end when he contributes fireside memories. Tom Fenwick and Ted Moody submit a bright cross-talk act besides doing clever individual turns, while "Doris" Howell ably sustains the female element.

* * *

On Monday a thoroughly finished violin solo was contributed by a member whose name I could not find on the programme. His playing was a feature of the show. In conclusion the production under the able supervision of Lieut. Knight, left nothing to be desired, the whole programme going perfectly smoothly, while the orchestra well maintained the high standard of the programme.

No Lorries for Entertainers.

The chief result of the decision not to allow concert parties to utilise motor transport for moving about the occupied area will be felt by the soldier inhabitants of the tiny villages "miles from anywhere." Many of these little places are a long way from the railways and trams and the amusement caterers are wondering how they can possibly place their wares before troops in these outlying spots. Even supposing that by train, the artistes, with their scenery and dresses, could reach a station within reasonable walking distance of their destination, there would still be the problem to be faced of how to return after the show.

Coblenz Entertainment.

I hear that the Elsie Illingworth concert party, which was with the A.E.F. six months in France, is now in Coblenz to give a series of concerts for the A. F. under Y. M. C. A. auspices. The personnel of the party comprise: Miss Elsie Illingworth, Mezzo-Soprano, Miss Nellie Norway, Band Bell soloist, Miss Mollie Seymour, Violin and Ragtime, John E. Nester, Entertainer, and Miss Barbara Hope, Pianist.

Gurzenich Concert.

What promises to be an excellent concert is announced to take place to-morrow at the Gurzenich. The famous tenor of the Berlin opera house, Herr Robert Hutt, and the well-known pianist, Herr Karl Friedberg, will take part. Herr Karl Friedberg came back last autumn from a triumphal tour. He will play different pieces of Chopin, in which he is inimitable.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Wed	Tannhäuser	Wagner	7	0.45
Thurs.	Ein Maskenball	Verdi	7	9.45
Fri.	Der Barbier von Sevilla	Rossini	7	10
Sat.	Orpheus and Eurydice	Gluck	7	9.15
Sun.	Die Walküre	Wagner	5.30	10.30
Mon.	Madame Butterfly	Puccini	7	9.45
Tues.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10

Organ Recital.

At the Asylum Church, Langerfeld, on Sunday evening, Capt. A. S. Blackwell, R.A.M.C. gave a second recital on the organ. The programme included Bach's prelude and Fugue in C minor, Prelude to Parsifal, Wagner, and the Symphonic Poem "Finlandia", Sibilius. The performer was in good form, and again rendered a true interpretation of Bach's master mind in the fugue. The organist's stop registration was a very happy one in the Parsifal prelude, showing in the softer tone the broad passion chords, and again in the bold diapason, the fluctuations and sorrows in the quest of Parsifal were brought to memory. The Finlandia item too, was delightfully rendered, bringing a very pleasant recital to a close.

"ORGANUM."

The Deutsches Theatre.

There was a crowded audience at the Deutsches Theatre on Monday evening to witness the opening performance of a Gilbert and Sullivan Concert Party. The artistes, who all did remarkably well, included Miss Mary Hilliard, soprano; Miss Aimee Shergold, contralto; Miss Gwendolyn Teagle, violinist; Miss Nora Drake, entertainer and pianist, Mr. Clay Thomas, baritone, and Mr. Patric Playfair, conjurer.

Chess.—Married v. Single.

On Thursday, October 30th at 6,30 p.m. besides the usual Whist Drive, there will be a Chess Match at the British Empire Leave Club "Married versus Single," and on the following Thursdays, tournaments will be arranged directly the class of the players has been determined. The Secretary is Sgt.-Major Graham, who has kindly consented to be in charge.

Leave Club Programme.

On Friday, there will be a dancing class from 5 to 6, and Colonel Gore Brown has very kindly consented to give a lecture on the Opera, illustrated on the piano, at 7 p.m. On Saturday, November 1st there will be an impromptu concert from 5 to 6, followed by a dance in the theatre at 6.30 p.m.

In Few Words.

Siegfried Wagner, the great composer's son, will conduct a concert at the Gürzenich in a few days.

JACQUES.

RHINE ARMY SCOUTS.

At Lindenthal Y.M.C.A. to-day several interesting matters will be discussed by members of the Rhine Army Scouts Circle at the usual weekly meeting. The programme for the week includes scout training, "pow wows", and rambles during the week-end.

Boys of 11 years of age or more are invited to become members of the Junior Section.

DISTANT FRIENDS

read The Cologne Post. Send it daily to yours.

2,637 MARKS PRIZE MONEY.

Contest No. 5 Result To-morrow: Another Coupon Below.

The result of contest No. 5 will appear to-morrow. In this competition 2,629 coupons were entered. However there are 2637 marks to be awarded owing to competitors sending in more marks than required with their efforts. Only one mark should be sent with each coupon, but any number of coupons may be sent in by one competitor.

Referring to the matches for No. 6, we find that Middlesboro' are away to the Villa, and Aston have a chance to prove whether their victory was, or was not, a flash in the pan.

Arsenal will be all out at Bradford and it should be noted that their best wins this season have been on foreign soil.

Notts County will give the "Throstles" all they need; no team gets 8 goals against them in one match without trying to retrieve such a defeat.

Birmingham smarting under last week's failure will take some holding at Upton Park, while in the Scottish League, Morton and Celtic should provide a rousing contest with the odds on the visitors.

Study to-day's League Tables, fill in your coupon and send it in. The prize-money is awaiting your effort.

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 6,
"Cologne Post,"
A.P.O. S./40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disquality the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 6.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov. 1st.
Closing date, Friday, Oct. 31st.

Aston Villa	v. Middlesboro
Bolton W.	v. Sunderland
Blackburn R.	v. Everton
Bradford C.	v. Arsenal
Notts C.	v. West Bromwich
West Ham	v. Birmingham
Huddersfield	v. Fulham
Swindon	v. Queens Park R.
Brentford	v. Plymouth A.
Brighton	v. Exeter C.
Hamilton A.	v. Falkirk
Morton	v. Celtic

I enter Football Competition No. 6 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed _____
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. _____

Unit _____

Full Address _____

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

A Gentle Hint.

When you get glasses at the Opera House now, a notice, is shown to you requesting that great care should be taken with them, they being "so easily lost."

English Inconsistencies.

Learning English presents many difficulties owing to the disregard of rules in our language. A British Tommy was trying to make a fraulein at his billet understand the significance of "Your Ladyship." "Oh, I understand, your Mistership," she replied.

German Boy Scouts.

The other day I was shown a very interesting badge, that of the German Boy Scouts. It is a small iron cross with a red band inscribed "D.P.B.1914" (German Pathfinder's Union). Inside the red band are black and white chequers. The badge is thus truly Germanic, as it embodies the former Imperial Colours together with the famous Prussian decoration.

Still Watching.

A Scots officer who has just returned from leave tells me that there is still a faithful Anti-aircraft Battery on Arthur's seat, watching day and night for Zepps.

Greasy Roads.

I cannot understand why the authorities in Cologne persist in watering the streets during the busiest hours of the day. Yesterday, walking from the Amusements Office to the Post Office I passed no fewer than four horses that had fallen as a result of the slippery road surface. Motor cyclists, too, have an anxious time immediately after a watering operation.

German Smartness.

In spite of the cost of livng the average German dresses smartly and well. An officer back from leave was remarking that on the average there is less shabbiness in Cologne than in London.

A Cheery Send-off.

Yesterday I passed through a tiny picturesque village just in time to see the departure of a body of troops. Practically the whole of the inhabitants turned out to watch their visitors move off, and more than one pair of moist eyes was to be noticed.

Squashed.

"No smoking!" The speaker was a car conductor to an offending Tommy, to which the latter replied "Nicht verstenen." The conductor's polite reply to this was given in good English. "You will 'Verstehen' at the next stop; there's an M.P. generally there." The one addressed "Verstehened."

Left About.

A small advertisement about a gramophone and records left in a certain mess by mistake has I hear brought several replies. I wonder who will get it and how it is people are so careless with their gramophones.

Different Glasses.

Have you noticed that when served with the different wines in most "weinhausen" the glasses in which they are served differ? For red wine the glass is of a deep squat kind; for champagne a smaller glass shaped like a funnel is used, while for white wine a long stemmed cup-shaped glass is in general use.

Not Grumpy.

According to the large posters which can be seen in nearly every main street in Cologne advertising the famous London Division Concert Party, they have been re-christened "The Grumps." I went to the Palace Theatre last night, but they appeared to me to be merrier than ever in spite of their new title.

Scouts in Cologne.

I am asked to remind once more any boy now in Cologne of the existence of the Scouts' Circle at the Lindenthal Y.M.C.A. Quite a number attend already, I hear.

Smart Turn-out.

In the course of my walk yesterday, round the town, I did not fail to be struck by the smart turn-out of the men doing duty in the streets. Their equipment was spotlessly clean, fitted well; indeed the general effect was typically that of Guards in town.

Controlling the Food.

The proclamation on the subject of the control of food which appears over the signature of the Military Governor came in for a deal of attention yesterday. Right through the day there were small groups of Germans engaged in reading it, and an officer or a "Tommy" were there each time I passed.

A Little Knowledge.

I have been told of a signal officer who has laid out a series of lines to a forward exchange. The distance was considerable, and the wires having to dodge many obstacles took rather a zig-zag course. A General came to inspect the work. "But why the blazes couldn't you lay the lines straight?" he asked. "Quite impossible, sir" replied the officer "Ridiculous. Make them straight. Messages take too long that way," rapped out the general.

Who does the Bill-Sticking?

Apropos the paragraph in this column as to when the bilposting was done at various Cologne stations, I noticed a youthful "Tommy" amusing himself with bills advertising Army amusements. Whether he was endeavouring to promote warmth, I do not know, but he liberally bespattered the boards, and the bills went up with surprising quickness.

Banjos and Song.

I was in the Church Army Club, in Antoniter Strasse, the other evening, when I heard the "Pang pang" which could arise from nothing else but banjos. On arriving upstairs I found it was the Rhine Army Choral Society rehearsing a "Nigger" song. It was really delightful, but it would have been considerably more so if the singers had been in greater numbers. The Society, I am told, is urgently in need of new members.

Which is Best?

Which is the best German dictionary of handy size to buy? Several readers have asked me this. Until yesterday I thought Feller's pocket dictionary quite good, but I happened to find a much better one at the Army Book Shop. It contains both the German-English and English-German in one neat volume, is compiled by J. B. Close, and published by Eyre and Spottiswoode.

RHINELANDER.

VANITY FAIR.

A Feature for the British Woman in Rhineland.

The Nondescript Chignon.

Hairdressing is much what it was; a nondescript chignon or short hair, with curls about the ears bunching out under a hat, thus softening any line that may be hard in millinery or features. There is a slight tendency to rather untidy hairdressing, but it is to be suppressed for neat heads are much more becoming and go far to give an effect of good dressing.

Women With Originality.

The woman with original ideas on the subject of dress has plenty of opportunity of exercising them. Fashion is not really the narrow-minded tyrant she is sometimes painted, and, given taste and discretion, it is possible for anyone to be modishly as well as becomingly dressed without looking like a mere fashion-plate.

Broad Shouldered Beauty.

Modern tendency inclines towards smaller men and bigger women. Go where you like, this phenomenon appears true. Probably due to war work, women have become bigger generally. Added to the beneficial effect of war work—that is, influence derived through fresh air and exercise—there is effect wrought by clothing; women expand physically as a result of looser dress. Women have altered particularly as regards waist, expression, hips, and bust.

Popular Jewellery.

There is a "boom" in jewellery. Stones, especially pearls, are rare and expensive, and advices from Bond-street report a great influx of Parisian jewellers, who are buying all the good jewellery they can get. It is surmised that in France fears of a levy on capital are leading people to invest in jewellery.

In Amiable Rivalry.

That which is beginning to concern us all is how to dress warmly. Of course, there are always jumpers. But it is conceivable one may weary of these in time, save, of course, from the purely utilitarian standpoint. And diversified and obliging as jumpers are, they cannot cover every dress contingency. Moreover, it is something of a relief to turn to the coat frock, or all-in-one gown of serge, wool jersey, or gabardine.

Fashion Changes in Paris.

What has happened to old Dame Fashion? asks a correspondent. Has she had her head turned like other old dames? The women are cutting their hair short. What has become of the hair of so many Parisiennes? Has it been sold to the women of Brittany, to those whose ancestors were forced to send theirs to the ladies of the Court? Another peculiarity of the moment is in footgear. Women are wearing high boots, men are wearing shoes. Then there is the night attire. Who would ever have imagined that French women would discard the linens and laces that have been the accepted raiment for women of all degrees for conturies in favour of the pyjama? We also see a change at the neck in both sexes. Women are adopting the soft turn-over high collar, while their brothers are opening theirs at the throat.

AGNES.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Advent of "Flu."—Influenza is spreading rapidly in South Wales.

Overwhelmed.—German manufacturers cannot cope with orders for motor-cars.

Unpopular.—Daylight saving will not be continued in the United States.

Bavaria's Lost.—Bavarians lost 270,000 through the war.

No Coal.—Factories in Northern France are closing down.

Three Days.—M. and Mme. Poincairé will be in England three days.

Accepted.—Lady Astor has decided to stand for Parliament.

In Favour.—A number of M.P.'s are in favour of a state lottery.

Cheap.—An old state coach sold the other day for 84s.

Discarded.—Many obsolete destroyers are lying at Chatham awaiting sale.

Souvenir.—A huge German gun has been shipped to Australia as a war memento.

Village Clubs.—Plans are on foot to brighten village life at home.

The Place to Live.—Paraguay proposes to abolish all taxes on food.

Jellicoe's Progress.—Lord Jellicoe has arrived at Honolulu.

Whole-hearted.—The entire population of Kingston, (Ontario), turned out to welcome the Prince of Wales.

Memorable.—A solemn commemoration of the battle of the Yser has taken place at Dixmude.

Converted to Wood.—A village of 132 wooden houses has been erected outside Copenhagen.

Profitable.—Virginia leaf tobacco growers of Essex County (Ontario) realized £111 per acre.

Royal Movements.—On Friday the Queen of Norway will leave Christiania on a visit to England.

Linking Up.—A regular steamship service has begun between Helsingfors and Hull.

U.S. Shipping.—Three vessels were launched daily in the United States in the month ending October 19.

Berlin's Choice.—Three performances a week will be given in Berlin in the Russian language by the Russian Players.

Nimble Nickels.—The nimble silver sixpence is in danger for before long we may have the nickel "tanner."

No Proof Yet.—The seemingly interminable examination of Landru, the French Bluebeard has made a fresh start.

Cheap Living.—In a colony for demobilized unemployed near Paris, the cost of living is only about 3/- a day.

Unready.—Admiral Sir Percy Scott charges the Admiralty with unpreparedness for war in 1914.

To Cavalry.—The suggested memorial to cavalry is surmounted by the figure of St. George and stands forty feet high.

Halved.—The Bishop of Liverpool is willing to sacrifice half his income for his fellow clergy.

League Oratory.—Armistice Day will be marked by an outburst of oratory on behalf of the League of Nations.

Expensive Cycles.—There is every prospect of cycles being much more expensive next summer.

London's Freeman.—Prince Albert receives the Freedom of the City of London to-day.

London Rifles.—The reunion of the London Rifle Brigade will take place on November 5th.

Export More.—Great efforts are being made in France to increase exports with a view to improving the exchange.

Nipped in the Bud.—A plot for a revolution in Switzerland on November 7th has been discovered.

Downed Tools.—There is a serious strike among Lille builders, 80,000 men being out.

England Neglects it.—The decimal system which helped Germany so much in international trade was invented by James Watt in the eighteenth century.

Shop Assistants out.—3,000 employees of the world-famed Bon Marché in Paris are on strike for higher wages and shorter hours.

Rising Russians.—People who had the courage to buy Russian bonds have the satisfaction of seeing them bounding up in value.

Re-Populating.—The birth-rate in Cologne is picking up. Four hundred children were born last week and the number of marriages was double the average.

Whitley Councils.—There is a movement on foot to have the principles of the Whitley report extended to professional workers.

Against Sunday Closing.—The French Chambers of Commerce are protesting against the closing of post offices on Sunday.

Big Thefts.—Ten people have been arrested in Tours for robbing the American Army of quantities of side-cars, typewriters, sewing machines and many other articles.

Joined.—The Army Pay Offices of the R.A.S.C. (Horse and Supply) and R.A.S.C. (Mechanical Transport) will be amalgamated as with effect from 10th November next.

OPINIONS OF THE MOMENT.

BETTER THAN ANARCHY.

Pope Benedict XV. in an audience His Holiness granted to Mr. Philip Gibbs, the war correspondent and novelist, saying little of the Catholic Church's works of mercy in a world of suffering, and nothing of politics in a world of battles, he talked of the poor and the rich, of capital and labour, of strikes and taxation, and the exigencies of living, and the ways and means to make the world better. He expressed the hope that heavy taxation would not lead to violence and anarchy, but that the problems would be solved by goodwill and charity.

DUTY AND REMEMBRANCE.

General Lord Byng, Chairman of the United Services Fund, says: I make no claim to having invented a Tank. I make no claim to having written reminiscences in which the abuse of one's colleagues form so prominent a part. There is but the simple fact that I served my country. We all, I think, served our country and did our best. It was this time last year that the Third Army was in the middle of the last successful push, when Cambrai was captured and I am sure every one in England said, 'Well done!' Is it too much to say if you thought they deserved well of their country in October, 1918, they deserve well of their country in October 1919?

A JUST INCOME TAX.

Sir Edward Brabrook, the great Economist, says: A just income tax would appear to be the best of all possible taxes. Without suggesting that it should be the single tax, we may urge that it should be the tax upon which the State may most safely rely. Income tax has, nevertheless, met with stronge opposition in this and other countries. Brougham described it as the worst and most odious of all taxes. Gladstone said that from the inequality of its incidence, the inquisition it entailed, and the temptation it affords to fraud, it ought not to be part of the permanent and ordinary finances of the country.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH US?

Mr. Alexander Thompson says:—Human swank takes strange and wondrous forms. Men are proud of a pleat in their trousers, of their dog's skill in catching rats, of the dimple in their wife's cheek, of the disgraceful "head" they collected at the club last night, or even of their baby's fat legs. But the most curious and gaudy conceit of all is that derived by chronic invalids from the calamitous symptons of their pet maladies. Catch a group of the cranks discussing their ailments—and you shall behold human pride in its most amazing stunt.

THE PREMIER ON THE NAVY.

The Premier paying a tribute to the Navy said:—The British Navy did not ask for praise. It never advertised itself. It did its work in silence. It was its own judge, and its standards were those of an old and very glorious tradition. It was the dogged tenacity of our sailors which wore down their opponents. Love of country still called out the heroism of the ordinary man as nothing else could. War, with all its horrors, revealed and exalted the nobility of human nature.

MUSTARD GAS.

Col. B. C. Goss, who has written on "Gas Warfare at the Front," says:—"I am firmly convinced that if the Germans had had mustard gas, our St. Mihiel and Argonne attacks would have been a failure. We gave them every opportunity to defend their positions with gas. They had used up their supply of mustard gas at the same time they used up their reserves in the series of spring offensives. After the St. Mihiel attack, in which we fully expected quantities of mustard gas to be fired on us, we found German orders in captured dug-outs absolutely prohibiting the use of mustard gas except on orders from Army headquarters, and we found no mustard gas in their dumps. It developed, after the Armistice, that they had used only the old, chlorohydrin method for making mustard gas, which is slow. The best spy Germany had was in France during October trying to find out how the French were making such quantities of mustard gas. They eventually found out, because they were using our method during October, but not in time to get mustard gas to repel these attacks."

LURE OF THE STAGE.

W. Henry Oscar, of the Actors' Association Council, voices a grave indictment of the morals existing in a certain class of the theatrical profession. He says: Young girls of a sentimental, impressionable age are easily attracted to the stage without any knowledge whatever of its economic conditions. They are tempted by a prospect of glamour and thrill and a whirl of gaiety. But sooner or later comes the depressing out-of-work period, when everything seems a blank. Then the net opens! Once in the country she is soon reminded of more ways than one of adding to her income. Night after night the thoughtful manager introduces her to his "friends" in the various towns, with the hint (which nine times out of ten is a threat) that here is a chance for a "good time." Her debts are mounting up; her pride will not let her leave the company and confess failure to her friends and family; she must keep in favour with the management; and so the inevitable happens.

TAXING WAR FORTUNES.

Mr. Herbert Samuel, speaking at Portsmouth recently, said: One of the sources to which the country may legitimately turn for necessary increased revenue is war fortunes made by favoured individuals and classes. The capital levy proposed by the Labour party is not the same thing as a tax on war fortunes. A capital levy is a proposal that all property indiscriminately should be taxed. One of the great objections is that there are owners of property, large and small, who, so far from gaining by the war, have lost heavily by depreciation of their property. I do not think the proposal in accordance with the right principle of finance, which is to tax people according to their ability to pay.

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE AND MART AND PERSONAL MEDIUM

If you don't want it, sell it. buy it. An 8 mark "small" Some reader is waiting to in the Cologne Post does it.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O.S. 40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

MOTOR CAR. Two seater, 14 h.p. Opel. Excellent condition. Tyres nearly new. Spare wheel and acces-ories. Trial by appointment. Apply Major H.C. Terry, R.F.A., 53, Alfredstrasse, Siegburg, near Bonn.

REGIMENTAL DRAG. Perfect condition. A bargain. Apply Capt. McGuffie, 16th Lancs. Fusiliers, Euskirchen.

Second-hand cameras, mirror reflex cameras in great variety, cameras with Zeiss, Goerz. Voigtländer. Optic for sale cheap. Feinmechanik r August Lang, Photo-Handlung, Cöln, Kleine Neugasse 9-11.

N.S.U. MOTORCYCLE. First-class machine. Sport model 3 H.P. 2 speeds, almost new. Ready for use with tyres for sale. Henning & Berntgen, Aachenerstrasse 15.

1 GOERZ CAMERAS 9×12 Doppelanastigmat "Celor" f. Portraitaufn. bes. geeignet 1 Zeiss Teleobj ctiv Brennweite 45. 1 Camera Rapid-Aplanat 9×12. Jackels, Elisenstr. 18. Zwischen 1 und 3 Uhr.

GOERZ-BOSCH-BINOCULARS 6× and 8× very small glasses for ladies as new. Pohl, Boisseréestrasse 12, Ist floor, (near Hohenstaufen Bad).

SECOND-HAND CAMERAS with GOERZ and ZEISS lenses, a bargain. Pohl, Boisseréestrasse 12, Ist floor, (near Hohenstaufen-Bad and Königsplatz).

SECOND HAND metal-camera, 9×12 for plates and films; Optic: Vogtländer, Dyna-pre-war article, to be sold. Im Dau 17, first floor, near Severinstrasse.

Piano for sale, maker "Jost Paris", 2 000 Mks. or nearest offer. Reply P.R.J. 1/6th West Yorkshire Regt., Schiller Gymnasium, Ehrenfeld.

WANTED.

WANTED to purchase nummah saddle. Apply Capt. Reeves, Civil Administration, Solingen.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 45. if poss. but not smaller than 6.8. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

We buy constantly, every quantity of old ENGLISH BEER BOTTLES, if free house FRITZ ERLE G. m. b. H., Holbeinstrasse 36 38, Cöln-Nippes.

FOREIGNER seeks well furnished bed and sitting-room near Paulus Kirche. Apply to A 316 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

MISCELLANEOUS.

2 NICELY furnished rooms, Hohenzollernring to be let. Kindly address A 315 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40

LOST.

LOST in centre of Cologne or at VI th Corps Club, gold bar brooch, amthyst in centre. Reward if returned to Advt. Manager, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

GOOD COOK seeks position. Speaks English. Harry Schmitz, Cologne, Vogelsangerstr. 277.

GERMAN seeks situation as Interpretor or otherwise. Sanders, Landahnstr, 9, Cöln-Lindenthal.

YOUNG LADY, speaking English and French, wishes situation as typist. Nine months with British Unit. Write A 311 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S 40.

PERSONAL.

WILL ADVERTISER A.B. "Rugger Player," please send name and address to Advt. Manager who has letters waiting.

EXPERIENCED cook wants situation in Officer's mess or hotel. First-class British testimonials and references. 20 years in England. Write to G 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S 40.

TRADE.

AGENCY wanted by active business man who has been in London in the meat trade and speaks English. Loosen, Perlengraben 83.

LANGUAGES.

GERMAN gives lessons in German languages in exchange for English conversation. Apply to A 314, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

Ceratopogon Pulicaris!

You may not recognise his name—but you know him quite well. He's the little stinging fly which is biting everyone who tries to enjoy the evening outdoors. He will not bite you, however, if you always use. . . .

SAPON RUSSIAN TAR SOAP

You can defy all mosquitos, gnats and other pests which sting and bite.

A Doctor writes:— "I find your Russian Tar Soap gives wonderful results in irritable skin diseases, such as Scabies, Eczema, Pruritus, Insect Bites, Acne, etc." The following is the best method of application:— Moisen the Soap, rub it on the part affected, and allow it to dry.

Sold throughout all the Army Canteens at

OFFICIAL PRICE

Do not pay more. Insist on being supplied. If any difficulty advise us and we will pay postage.

SAPON SOAPS LIMITED
LONDON BRIDGE E.C.4., ENGLAND

BY SPECIAL REQUEST

We have secured a large assortment of

GENUINE SOUVENIRS

Razors Watches Perfumes
Knives Clocks Wallets
& every description of local souvenirs

YOU ARE INVITED

to call in and inspect our stock without obligation

OUR SPECIALITY

MILITARY REQUISITES

ROBARTS & QUANTOCK

Late R. Sussex Rgt. Late E. Yorks Rgt.

ALL ENGLISH CONCERN

100 HOHESTRASSE 100

G.H.Q. TECHNICAL COLLEGE

WANTED

INSTRUCTORS IN WORKSHOP PRACTICE, ETC.

Vacancies on the instructional staff of the above College have now been filled, with the exception of the following who are urgently required:—

Civilian trained skilled tradesmen required with an intimate knowledge of modern workshop practice in their respective trades and ability to give advanced instruction under Officers direction. Responsible for all tools and stores in their departments. Any qualifications held, additional to those required, should be stated.

1. ELECTRICAL TRADES. ONE.

Electrical power-plant construction. Engineer-Foreman qualified in Armature and Field Magnet-Winding for A.C. ad D.C. dynamos and motors etc. Assembly and erecting of these and of Switchboards for power, lighting, heating etc.

2. SHEET-METAL WORKING ETC. ONE.

Tin and Coppersmith qualified in Sheet-metal Working generally.

Other ranks desirous of obtaining the above appointments should apply forthwith through the usual channels enclosing a statement of their previous experience, and at the same time forward a copy direct to:—

THE ADJUTANT OF G.H.Q. TECHNICAL COLLEGE, SIEGBURG.

NÜCHEL & HILLEBRECHT
COLOGNE, Glockengasse, corner Kreuzgasse, close Schauspielhaus. Tel. A 5566
UNIFORM MAKERS
MILITARY OUTFITS
Manufacture of all Uniforms for the Army of Occupation. First-class References.

AGENTS

Exportation Importation
Nettesheim & Karbach
Godesberg a. Rh.

KULA CARPET

about 3×4 yards, family heirloom emanating from ancient castle, having beautiful colouring and artistic design, in excellent condition, to be sold on account of special circumstances, to private individual only, price 70,000 Marks. Experts opinion has been obtained. Serious buyers may apply under A 313 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, October 29, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

THE LIGHT SIDE OF RHINELAND
'JOAN'S" LETTER PAGE 4

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

IS YOUR HOME SUBSCRIPTION RUNNING OUT? SEE TO IT NOW

No. 182. COLOGNE, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

"FIRST FOOT" IN ENGLAND.

GERMAN AND AUSTRIAN POLITICIANS TO VISIT LONDON NEXT WEEK.

NAMES OF NEW CABINET MINISTERS.

AFTER FIVE YEARS.

GERMAN POLITICIANS GOING TO LONDON.

The first gathering of Germans and Austrians in England since the outbreak of war will take place next week, when a conference will be held with a large party of well-known people. The visitors will be entertained at dinner by Lord Parmoor (formerly Sir Alfred Cripps, K.C.)

Included in the party are fourteen Germans and seven Austrians viz:—

GERMANS:—

Herr Edouard Bernstein. (The Socialist journalist, who may be the next German Ambassador in London.)

Prof. Bonn, Munich. (A specialist in Colonial policy.)

Prof. Lujo Brentano. (Writer on Christian Socialism.)

Herr Arthur von Gwinner. (Head of the Deutsche Bank.)

Herr Karl Kautsky. (Socialist leader.)

Herr Richard Martin. (A writer on war in the air.)

Count Max Montgelas, Berlin. (Commanded the 4th Bavarian Division in 1915.)

Herr Max Warburg. (The Hamburg banker, who for a long time was entrusted with all the Rothschild business.)

Herr M. Hilserding, Herr Kahn, Professor Oppenheimer, Dr. Karl Schlesinger, Prof. Schultz and Herr Wissell. (Politicians.)

AUSTRIANS:—

Herr Otto Bauer, Dr. Ellenbogen, Prof. Lammasch, Herr F. von Wieser, Dr. S. Hertz, Herr K. Mendoff and Prof. Redlich. (Politicians.)

The objects of the conference are not stated.

MILLIONS OF RATS.

SUCCESS OF LAST WEEK'S CAMPAIGN.

An official of the Board of Agriculture states that on the whole the Board was satisfied with the results of the "National Rat Week." "It is naturally impossible to collect statistics," he added, "but it would be safe to assume that millions of rats have been killed as a direct result of the campaign."

Kent is reported is have been the most active county in the war of extermination.

CITY FREEDOM FOR PRINCE ALBERT.

Wearing the uniform of the Royal Air Force, Prince Albert, who was attended by Major Louis Greig, went to the City on Tuesday to receive its Freedom. He was made the recipient of a gift of silver vases as a memento of the occasion.

Afterwards he lunched at the Mansion House with a distinguished company.

In acknowledging the bestowal of the Freedom of the City, the Prince said it was a hard task for him to find words to express how sensible he was of the great honour. He was proud to think that he represented, with the Prince of Wales, the fifth generation of his family to be admitted to the Freedom of the City and prouder still when he recalled the names of the celebrated men who during the past few months had received the same honour for the great and distinguished services they had rendered in the war.

DEBTS FROM GERMAN FIRMS.

The Nottingham Chamber of Commerce has decided to press upon the Government the urgency of recovering debts owing by firms in Germany to the Nottingham lace trade. It is computed on good authority that the amount of these debts exceeds half a million sterling. A great part of the finishing and bleaching trade in Nottingham before the war was executed for firms in Plauen, whose withholding of payment has seriously crippled some Nottingham houses. One local firm has over £170,000 owing to it in Germany.

WELL DONE, WEST SURREYS.

Every officer and man of the 10th Battalion Queen's Royal West Surrey Regiment, now serving in the Rhine Army of Occupation, has given a day's pay as a contribution to the fund for the erection of the regimental memorial in Holy Trinity Church, Guildford.

"PUSSYFOOT" IN DUBLIN.

Mr. "Pussyfoot" Johnson arrived in Dublin on Monday from Belfast. He addressed a meeting, in a house in Great Ship-street, of representatives of the temperance movement in Ireland. His arrival excited no interest in the city.

THE NEW CABINET.

BROUGHT UP TO PRE-WAR STRENGTH.

The Cabinet in future is to consist of twenty members.

Mr. Bonar Law made the announcement in the House of Commons on Monday in reply to a question whether it was the intention to re-establish the system of Cabinet Government with collective responsibility.

The Prime Minister, he said, had invited the following to be members:

Leader of the House.....Mr. Bonar Law
Foreign Secretary.....Lord Curzon
Lord President of the Council Mr. Balfour
Chancellor of the Exchequer
Mr. Chamberlain
Minister without Portfolio ..Mr. Barnes
Lord Chancellor.....Lord Birkenhead
Home Secretary.....Mr. Shortt
Colonial Office.....Lord Milner
War and Air.....Mr. Churchill
India Office.....Mr. Montagu
First Lord of the Admiralty
Mr. Walter Long
Secretary for Scotland.....Mr. Munro
President of the Board of Trade
Sir Auckland Geddes
Ministry of Health.....Dr. Addison
Board of Agriculture.....Lord Lee
Minister of Transport.....Sir E. Geddes
Education Department.....Dr. Fisher
Minister for Labour.....Sir R. Horne
and
Lord-Lieut. of Ireland...Viscount French or
Chief Secretary for Ireland
Mr. Ian Macpherson

The five members who composed the superseded War Cabinet were: Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Bonar Law, Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Barnes, and Lord Curzon. Mr. Asquith's Cabinet, which the War Cabinet displaced in 1916, had twenty-three members.

SUNDAY "PITCH AND TOSS."

At Old-street Police Court twelve men were charged with gambling in the streets.

It was stated that every Sunday a gang of 50 or 60 men collected in a back street where it was most difficult for the police to approach secretly. Every week the police endeavoured to secure some of the gamblers, but owing to the complete scouting system maintained they were often unsuccessful. A small van had been used on one occasion to convey policemen to the spot, but they were detected and the gamblers decamped. About 20 policemen carried out Sunday's raid.

A police officer said that when the gamblers saw him keeping observation they merely laughed derisively. Tenshilling and £1 Treasury notes were used, and many of the men lost or won £30 or £40 in a single day. "Pitch and toss" was the game usually played.

Each defendant was fined 30s.

NO PENSIONS FOR W.R.A.F.S.

A ruling has been obtained by the Yarmouth Pensions Committee from the Air Ministry on the question of pensions for members of the W.R.A.F.

The Ministry states that officers and members of the W.R.A.F. are not eligible for pension gratuity or other benefit for deterioration of health during service, except where there is physical incapacity causing reduction of earning power, which is directly attributable to injury arising out of, and in the course of, employment within the meaning of the Workmen's Compensation Act, or to an industrial disease scheduled under the Act.

CIVIL SERVANTS' CLAIMS.

The Civil Service Arbitration Board has concluded the hearing of claims for increased war bonus for all grades of the permanent Civil Service. The bonus at present in force, under an award issued by the Board last April, is (for men of 21 years and over) 24s. a week, or £60 a year, plus 20 per cent. of wages or salary, with a maximum bonus of £300 a year. An award will be issued in due course.

NEW GERMAN ARMY.

It has been announced in the Reichstag that the German Army will in future consist of 63 battalions, as against 600 battalions before the war; 79 cavalry squadrons, as against 44. Foot artillery formations will no longer exist.

CEMETERY THIEVES.

Repeated thefts of wreaths from graves in the cemetery at Dunstable, Bedfordshire, have led the borough council to offer a reward of £1 for each culprit traced.

THE DEATH ROUTE.

AIR MINISTER ADMITS EIGHT FATALITIES.

In the House of Commons on Tuesday Mr. Joynson Hicks asked Brig. General Seely whether his attention had been called to a statement recently made by Lieut.-Colonel Henderson about the number of deaths which have occurred on the new air route to Egypt.

General Seely said that broadly speaking the facts were that in spring and early summer the War Office communicated to the Air Ministry urgent demands from Egypt for aircraft of large size and endurance to cope with the critical situation then existing.

In view of the fact that no Handley-Page machine had ever previously been packed and sent by ship it was decided that machines should be sent by air to meet the emergency, despite the risks involved. At the end of April the first squadrons were prepared, an officer with knowledge of the route being sent out to arrange facilities. Flying-boat escorts were provided and other precautions adopted.

The first squadron left on May 3rd. A number of accidents occurred, and many officers were stationed at different aerodromes to provide assistance for the machines but encountered many difficulties in getting messages through by telephone or telegraph, in transporting spares, and also in communicating by train. Personnel was also hard to find owing to rapid demobilization.

Up to date fifty-one Handley-Page machines had left. Of these, twenty-six had arrived, ten were at various stages of the journey, and fifteen had been written off. One machine crashed badly and four lives were lost. Three other bad accidents had occurred, involving four fatalities and three cases of serious injury.

BEER 1s. A PINT.

"ONE OF THE WORST CASES OF PROFITEERING."

The Richmond Bench yesterday fined Emily Jessuram, licensee of the Roebuck Hotel, Richmond Hill, £10 for selling beer at a price above the maximum and £10 for not displaying a list of prices.

The defendant told the police that she thought she was not bound by the list of prices because she did not keep a public-house.

The Chairman said it was one of the worst cases of profiteering they had ever had before them.

GALE CAUSES DELAY AND DAMAGE.

Tempestuous weather considerably interfered with cross Channel traffic yesterday. Telegraphic communication was interrupted and damage is reported from various districts.

The three aeroplanes which started from the Continent reached England safely but were compelled to descend short of their destinations. The Paris plane alighted at Marden (Kent), the Brussels and Amsterdam planes coming down at Lympne, near Folkestone.

St. Margaret's Church at Ormesby, near Yarmouth, was struck by lightning. Surplices in the vestry were scorched and the belfry damaged.

Off Scarborough several vessels were extricated from peril with the utmost difficulty.

WAR WORDS.

The latest edition of Cassell's new English Dictionary contains many new words which the preface states are likely to make good their claim to be included in the English language. The following are some examples: cushy, conchy, dud, eyewash, fed-up, funk-hole (defined as a Government job), hot stuff (meaning an unscrupulous or formidable person), cut no ice, movies, the push (meaning kicked out) strafe, top-hole, umpteen, wind up, old bean, bus and brass hat.

LABOUR TROUBLE IN EGYPT.

Disturbances have again broken out in Egypt and there has been considerable trouble in Alexandria. Ostensibly it is industrial, but it is probably partly political in origin. Reuter's Cairo correspondent says that both Press and public are much concerned at the possibility of a strike of railway and telegraph employees, who are demanding all-round increases in pay and shorter hours.

MORE CASES OF INFLUENZA.

The Ministry of Health announce that during the last few weeks there has been in the ninety-six great towns in England and Wales a slight but gradual increase in the number of deaths attributed to influenza, and a coincident rise in the number of notifications of acute primary and acute influenzal pneumonia. Whilst the possibility of a fresh outbreak of influenza cannot be excluded, the data available do not at present afford any indication of an immediate recrudescence of the disease in epidemic form.

A GIDDY PERFORMANCE.

At the Four Winds aerodrome (Madrid) on Monday a French aviator named Flamval created a record by looping the loop 624 times in two and a-half hours.

FOR EXCHANGE.

ENGLISH PRISONERS IN RUSSIA.

Questions were put by Commander Kenworthy in the House of Commons on Tuesday as to what progress has been made in the negotiations for the exchange of British prisoners in the hands of the Soviet Government in Russia.

Mr. Cecil Harmsworth stated that the Government is endeavouring to negotiate the exchange, and hoped that a meeting would shortly take place with Soviet representatives for this purpose. The Danish Government has agreed to allow the conference to take place in Denmark provided the Soviet Government agree to certain conditions. At present negotiations are being conducted by wireless.

As to the number of prisoners, twenty-three officers and seventy-seven men of the Navy, Army and Air Force, who were reported as missing, are believed to be prisoners. There are besides, about seventeen civilians imprisoned for various reasons by the Soviet Government.

FOOTBALL FATALITY.

UNDERGRADUATE'S DEATH.

An inquiry was held on Monday at Oxford into the death of Mr. Geoffrey Ronald Goddard, twenty, an undergraduate of Jesus College, who substained an injury to his spine while playing football on the 11th inst., and who died on Sunday. Mr Goddard was elected in 1918 to an open classical scholarship at Jesus College from Dulwich College. His parents reside in Palace-road, Streatham Hill.

The Rev. W. T. Havard, chaplain of Jesus College, said he was playing in a College Rugby game, and as the side were lining out the ball came to him. He turned to pass it to the backs when Goddard tackled him, and witness fell on him. Goddard groaned and complained of having no feeling in his legs, arms, and chest. There was no undue roughness, and the occurrence was a pure accident.

Medical evidence having been given, a verdict of accidental death was returned, the jury adding that no blame attached to Mr. Havard.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

The next four issues of
THE "COLOGNE POST" will be on FRIDAY
SATURDAY
MONDAY TUESDAY
and thereafter as usual.

There will be no Sunday issue this week, Saturday (All Saints' Day) being observed as a general holiday.

MEMORIALS IN CEMETERIES.

It was originally intended to erect in each of the British cemeteries on the various battle fronts a replica of the monolith designed by Sir Edwin Lutyens for the Whitehall cenotaph. This memorial, with its simple inscription, "Their name liveth for evermore," was deemed likely to resist the ravages of time and incapable of giving offence to any nation or creed. But the alternative, the huge cross of Sir Reginald Blomfield's design, has appealed to many, as having rival dignity and beauty. The Imperial War Graves' Commission has therefore overcome the difficulty of deciding between the designs by arranging that both forms shall be used, wherever that course is practicable.

ITALY AWAITS OFFERS.

Commenting on American attitude towards the question of Fiume the Italian newspaper "Tribuna" writes: "Italy, who did not bend before the Kaiser, will not yield before others. Italy will remain at Fiume and in Dalmatia, strong in her right and in the valour of her army. Italy will make no other offers, but will await offers."

COLONEL COURT-MARTIALLED.

At the Middlesex Guildhall on Tuesday Lieut.-Colonel J. Sherwood Kelly, V.C., C.M.G., D.S.O., Norfolk Regiment (attached First Batt. Welsh Guards) appeared before a General Court-martial charged with contravening the King's Regulations by writing three letters to a newspaper, to wit, the "Daily Express."

Brigadier-General J. Steele, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., presided, Captain J. Sutherland Graeme was judge-advocate, and Captain Eastwood, of the Grenadier Guards, prosecuted.

Accused, who pleaded guilty, conducted his own defence. The inquiry was closed, and the finding will be promulgated in due course.

The Duke of Northumberland had denied the rumour that he is designated as the next Viceroy of India.

SCOTT v. BERESFORD

INCIDENTS OF AN OLD DISPUTE.

Further selections from Admiral Sir Percy Scott's reminiscences appeared in Tuesday's "Evening Standard." They deal mainly with his efforts to get the Admiralty to adopt his system of "director firing."

Sir Percy expressed the disappointment he felt in 1886, when appointed Captain of the Scylla in the Mediteranean fleet under Sir Michael Culme Seymour, at finding that no progress whatever had been made in gunnery or signalling. The only objective was to have the cleanest ship in the fleet and nothing else mattered.

Incidentally he deals with matters that took place when he was second in command to Sir Charles Beresford in the Channel fleet. Beresford attempted to get Scott to back his protest against Sir John Fisher and the Board of Admiralty when they were forming another Fleet to be called the Home Fleet, which was not to be under Beresford's command. Scott refused, and ascribes to this refusal the subsequent charges of insubordination brought against him and Beresford's application to the Admiralty for his supersession.

In a footnote Sir Percy says of Lord Charles: "Afterwards he was raised to the peerage as Lord Beresford. He was a most popular officer. In the Navy we knew that he was not a sailor but thought he was a politician. In the House of Commons, I have been told, they knew he was not a politician but thought he was a sailor."

RAILWAY CRISIS.

GUARD'S REINSTATEMENT DEMANDED.

A railway crisis is threatened in the Liverpool area through the non-reinstatement of a passenger guard.

The Liverpool Executive Committee of the men have passed a resolution demanding the reinstatement, otherwise drastic action will be promptly taken. Ten thousand railwaymen are affected.

DISCLOSING SOLDIERS' ADDRESSES.

An application was made in the Divorce Court on Monday for leave to serve a co-respondent, who had been in the Army, with a citation by registered letter directed to the Officer in Charge of Records the military authorities having refused to disclose the address of the man (a Sergeant-mechanic in the R.A.F.)

Mr. Justice Shearman, in granting the application, said:—I must express my dissatisfaction with this refusal to disclose the man's address. During the war there were, no doubt, good reasons for such a refusal, but now that we are at peace there seems to be absolutely no reason why the military authorities should not be prepared to facilitate the cause of justice by giving information about the addresses of soldiers. I hope that after this expression of my view these applications will not again be necessary.

BRITISH AMBASSADOR TO ROME.

A telegram from Rome says that the entire Italian Press welcomes the new British Ambassador Sir George Buchanan, expressing the hope that he and his work will succeed in further strengthening the good relations between the two countries.

Interviewed by the "Giornale d'Italia", Sir George Buchanan declared that Italy and Great Britain were necessary to each other. "We must all work for a better knowledge of each other" he said "and must spread the Italian language in England and the English language in Italy."

In reply to a question about Fiume, Sir George described it is an anxious and painful problem which must be solved by the Peace Conference and that D'Annunzio's action has not hastened a diplomatic solution.

HIGH HONOURS FOR NAVVY M.P.

Among the visitors recieved by the King on Tuesday at Buckingham Palace was Colonel John Ward, the "navvy M.P.," of the 25th Bn. Middlesex Regiment. The King had a long talk with him, and subsequently invested him with the insignia of the Companionship of the Bath and the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

BRITISH INDUSTRIES FAIR.

Next February the Crystal Palace will again become the home of great exhibitions. It will then be reopened, fitted up as the "British Industries Fair, 1920" by the Board of Trade. Foreigners are excluded from exhibiting but every available inch of floor space—some twenty acres—has already been booked.

PEACE AMENDMENT DEFEATED.

Senator Johnson's amendment to the Peace Treaty, designed to secure for the United States equal votes with the British Empire in the Council of the League of Nations, has been thrown out by the Senate by 49 votes to 38.

TWO TENDERS.

BRITISH FIRM UNDERBID BY SWISS.

On account of a difference of nearly £70,000 between the estimate of a Swiss firm and that of their nearest British competitor, for the new power station at Portobello, the Edinburgh Electric Lighting Committee recommend that the contract be given to Brown, Boveri and Co., Baden, Switzerland.

The Swiss tender and two other tenders from Switzerland were the lowest of sixteen submitted, and it amounted to £106,618. The alternative was to accept the tender of C. A. Parsons and Co., Ltd., a British firm, whose estimate was £174,075.

The Board of Trade suggested the desirability of stipulating that as far as possible the goods should be of United Kingdom manufacture, but in an interview, the Assistant Secretary of the Board admitted that they did not contemplate any such enormous difference between foreign and British tenders.

The Board intimated that they could not insist upon the Corporation accepting a British tender in face of such figures, unless it was felt proper to do so on general grounds.

The circumstance has created a sensation in Corporation circles. The Electric Lighting Committee recommend the acceptance of the Swiss tender.

INDIAN COLLEGE CRIME.

ENGLISH PRINCIPAL SHOT DEAD IN HIS SLEEP.

Mr. C. de la Hey, Principal of the Court of Wards Institution, Newington College, Madras, has been shot dead in bed. At the inquest a verdict of culpable homicide was returned against two of the wards, Young Zemindars (landed proprietors) of Kadambur and Singampati.

The murdered man graduated at Keble College, Oxford, in 1901.

PEACEFUL IRISH GUARDIANS.

Wild scenes, with frequent bouts of fisticuffs, were witnessed at the last meeting of the Omagh, co. Tyrone, Board of Guardians. There were two applicants for the post of medical officer, and when the chairman announced that one of the two was elected by a majority of two votes, the supporters of the second candidate challenged the vote, and for forty minutes the room was in pandemonium, the supporters of the candidates pulling one another and striking at each other, while several of them got into grips. Amidst the noise the voice of the assistant clerk was heard announcing that the vote was a tie, whereupon the chairman declared that the appointment was adjourned.

Later, one of the members, while moving an increase of salary for a nurse, was struck in the face by another member, and there was another disgraceful scene as the assailant was hauled away.

"REMEMBER THE DEAD" FUND.

Amount already acknowledged	4033.50
Lieut. W. Romaine Patterson ..	50.—
Miss Kathleen A. Smith	20.—
Rfn. R.N.	10.—
H. M. Foster	50.—
H.B. N.F.	100.—
A Friend	20.—
Anon. (Lond. Div.)	20.—
Nursing Staff, 33. C.C.S.	500.—
Matron Q.A.I.M.N.S. and Nursing Staff. No 3. General Hospital	500.—
Military Mounted Police, VI Corps	53.—
L/Cpl. R. A. Baragwanath	10.—
Soldier and Comrade	20.—
Kathleen N. Hood	20.—
M.E.B.	50.—
Lieut. J. Coxon	50.—
R.E's. Wife	50.—
Officers of Q.M.A.A.C.	770.—
N.A.C.B. Women's Corps	500.—
Total to date	6829.50

"PLAY UP AND PLAY THE GAME."

At the Foundling Hospital in London Prince Albert reviewed 1,500 boy scouts and girl guides and other juvenile organisations. The Prince, in a pointed speech, said, "If you are keen on your Brigade, Troop or Club, you make yourselves efficient and smart, not so much for your own personal ends, as for the good of your side. So you learn the great lesson of playing up for the good of your side. By your own self-sacrifice you become unselfish, and there never has been a time in the history of this country when we, as a nation, needed to learn that lesson more. We have all, no matter who we are, to learn the lesson that the community is more important than the individual."

TROOPS FROM THE EAST.

The War Office states that since 17th September last, 22 vessels have sailed from Bombay, Basra and Karachi carrying 339 officers, and 9245 other ranks from Mesopotamia, and 1018 officers and 7518 other ranks from India. The total number of troops embarked since 26th July is 852 officers and 19567 other ranks from Mesopotamia, and 1347 officers and 8217 other ranks from India.

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Representative Mr. A.J.R. LEE is at OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

Has recently returned from London with a stock of hosiery & a new selection of patterns for mufti wear. Officers requiring shirts etc. for the winter, can now be supplied from stock.

COLOGNE, Gürzenich
FIRST MASTER-CONCERT
Thursday 30th October 7.30 p.m. repeated on Friday, 31st October, 7.30p.m.
Singer Robert Hutt (Tenor) Berlin
Pianist Carl Friedberg Munich
Pianoforte: Ibach
For the first concert Tickets at 8 M, and 5 M, for the repetition tickets 4 M. Advance sale at Tonger am Hof 30 and Könemann, Rudolfplatz 4

Original-Schulze Razors are the best!
ON SALE AT
CARL MERGENBAUM, COLOGNE
Post Strasse 53, Tel. B 1057.

We are wholesale buyers of sporting goods such as:
FOOTBALLS & BLADDERS
FOOTBALL BOOTS
JERSEYS, RUNNING-SHOES, TENNIS SHOES
BOXING GLOVES, HOCKEY STICKS & BALLS ETC.
EKERT & CO., COLOGNE
Kamekestrasse 31, Telephone A 6628

EXPORT EXPORT
IMPORTANT FOR BUYERS
Solingen Steelware
RAZORS
Couyar, Bismarck, Hamburg-Ring and other first-class razors.
Scissors of every kind.
Pocket-knives — manicure — alyaka — aluminium — knives, forks and spoons with wooden handles. — Safety-razors, blades for cutting-machines for sale cheap at
FABRIKLAGER ADAMS, COLOGNE
GLADBACHERSTRASSE 21.

Optician
C. Pichon
COLOGNE, Hohestr. 150
Careful examination of eyes
in specially fitted rooms
PRISMATIC FIELD GLASSES

RAZORS very sharply ground and completely polished at
C.A. LÜTTERS, COLOGNE
Breitestr. 23.
Special store for razors.

Wool, knitted goods and stockings are always bought
by the
Mechanische Strickwarenfabrik G.m.b.H.
COLOGNE, Schildergasse 85

ENORMOUS SUCCESS OF
"THE JESTERS"
The first civilian music hall party to visit Rhineland.
SIX LONDON VARIETY ARTISTES INCLUDING
Mr.
JOE MORLEY
The famous Banjoist of the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN.
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY.
Mr. HARRY KING.
Mr. FRANK HOOK.
Mr. CHASS LEWIS.
Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage The Jesters. Vacant dates Monday Oct. 27th, Thurs., 30th, and Sat. Nov. 1. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office or may be seen personally at 11 o/c each morning at Amusements Office, Komödienstrasse, Cologne.

Paula Desborough
Is leaving Cologne on Nov. 1st for a short holiday in London.
She will be resuming lessons in ballroom dancing on Wednesday Nov. 12th.
Appointments may now be made with her for lessons on or after that date at:
The KAISER WILHELM HOTEL
Kaiser Wilhelm Ring
or by letter to Box 131, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40. Telephone A 4325.

FOTAX 1030

Dark room Lamp	2.75
" "	3.50
Bromide Postcards, per hundred	6.—
" " per thousand	55.—
Self toning Postcards, per hundred	12.—
Tripods, wood	9.—
" " folding	20.—
Tripods, brass telescopic	30.—
Camera 6×9 cm	65.—
" 6×9 cm double anastigmat	150.—
" 9×12 cm	70.—
" 9×12 cm double anastigmat	200.—

SCHILDERGASSE 55a
Next the C. of E. Military Church.

Binoculars
at original factory prices of the firms
ZEISS
GOERZ
LEITZ
PHOTO
Cameras — Plates
Roll-Films—Pack-Films
SLIDE RULES
MICROSCOPES
ZEISS-PUNKTAL-GLASSES
for rimless glasses and spectacles.
The best for the eyes.
OPTICAL institute S. Goldfinger Limited
founded: 1869
Hohestr. 88 COLOGNE Hohestr. 88
On parle français. English spoken.

WANTED.
Manufacturers Agent doing extensive trade in good class Dolls in London and provinces would like to get into communication with German Manufacturers able to turn out large quantities. Good securities offered and Bankers references. Address: to Box No. 219, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

SINGING-PIANO-GUITAR-LESSONS.
THERESE & LIANE MENGELBIER
English spoken. Klapperhof 48II On parle français.

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor

Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???
Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!
The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!
TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.
Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 32-34.

Kodaks Ica, Zeiss, Goerz Ernemann, Nettel Cameras
Developing and Copying
All photographic work and repairs done.
Photographic Specialists
Nelles & Wolffram, Cologne, Unter Fettenhennen

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE:
From Nov. 3rd the Deutsches Theatre performances will commence at 6 p.m. nightly, excepting Wednesdays and Fridays, when they will begin at 8 p.m.

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.
At 6 p.m. Monday and during the week
The Y.M.C.A. presents
A GILBERT AND SULLIVAN CONCERT PARTY
including
Miss Mary Hilliard. Soprano
Albert Hall Concerts Last Season
Miss Aimée Shergold. Contralto
D' Oyly Carte Principal Opera Co.
Miss Gwendolyn Teagle. Violinist
8 times in France during the war with Lena Ashwell Parties
Miss Nora Drake.
Accompanist and songs at the piano
Mr. Clay Thomas.
The well known London Baritone
Mr. Patric Playfair.
The celebrated Conjyurer
Next week — The British Rhine Army Dramatic Company in production of
"THE SILVER BOX"
by JOHN GALSWORTHY.

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
At 6 p.m. Monday, October 27th, and during the week
The London Division presents
"THE CRUMPS"
in a complete change of programme

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA.
32 Komödienstrasse
At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures
Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.
Grand Orchestra and Pictures.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA. Hohe Strasse
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS,
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

THIS (Thursday) EVENING
at the
COLOGNE CENTRAL Y.M.C.A.
(44, Friesenstrasse.)
LORELY HALL. — 6.30. "Russian Experiences. Dr. Francis.
GREAT HALL. — 6.30 to 9.30. Cinema and Orchestra.
The British Children's School will be opened next week. In the meantime, the Dancing class will be hel de very Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a. m.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 659. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.

Thursday, October 30, 1919.

WEARING RIBANDS.

There has been a good deal of discussion lately in our columns and elsewhere as to whether medal ribands should be worn on civil attire after a man has left the Army.

There are those who indignantly declare that to display one's ribands thus, is an indication of mere vanity; that it is utterly out of place and a piece of vulgar swaggering.

On the other side it has been stated though we cannot say with what authority, that his Majesty the King favours the wearing of medal ribands by those who have gone back to civil life.

The old Army generally, as we can tell seems aversed to the practice and one argument against it is that ribands being easily obtained, there is no guarantee that the individual who puts them upon his civilian garb is actually entitled to them. This seems one of the strongest reasons we have heard against doing so.

Yet, in our view, the preponderence of opinion points favourably towards the practice. It must be borne in mind that the past war was one of no ordinary kind. It was comparable to all the wars Great Britain has engaged in rolled into one.

It was not a war of a comparatively small force of regulars as most others have been. It was waged by a nation in arms, by non-professional soldiers who came forward largely as volunteers in their millions to save the mother country in the dark days before Victory seemed possible.

They became soldiers "for the duration," leaving civil life, sacrificing much with the sole thought of patriotic duty.

There were thousands to whom those watchwords had no meaning. By subterfuge many contrived to stay at home and a considerable proportion waxed fat by this means.

Is it not natural then that those who braved the risks of war and did their best overseas for the old country should wish some mark whereby they may be distinguished from the "profiteer" and the "munitionaire" with whom they will rub shoulders on returning home?

We feel that it is; and we have no sneers for the ex-soldier now carrying on his job in Blighty if he elects to wear on his vest the ribands he has won with honour.

After all no decoration given by the King as head of his glorious army, for services rendered, is a thing to be ashamed of.

ART AND THE SOLDIER.

Music and Pictures at the Army Colleges.

While most people know that the three R's. languages, commercial and technological subjects may be studied at the Army Colleges, but few are aware of the enormously greater scope of the educational facilities now offered to the troops in the Rhine Army. An exhibition at the General and Commercial College in the Hansa Ring was an eye-opener for many who attended on Tuesday evening last.

The function was one to which senior officers, especially those commanding units, and their wives were invited to tea, art and music: and all three gave the greatest satisfaction.

There in the large library were set out recent examples of the work executed by students of the Technological College at Siegburg and of the General and Commercial College, while later the audience were highly gratified by a demonstration of how singing, and especially part singing, may be soundly developed even among unpromising songsters.

VARIED TALENT.

To deal first with the technological work; we were primarily surprised by its wide scope. Artistic designs prepared by men who previously had little experience in drawing, were shown for more than a dozen trades. Jewellery and cast iron foundry work, toolmaking and woodcarving, smithing and plumbing were all represented, and in all cases the results were highly gratifying as showing to what extent a man may be taught a trade while still in the Army. Among other beautiful objects we noted a carved wooden letterbox; and the wiped joints on the plumbing work would do credit to many a man who comes to put the waterpipes in order.

In the pure art section there was an amazing show of really good work. Some of the studies from life were remarkably "living", and we have seen many not so good produced by students who have spent years at the subject. A girl's head done by a soldier in the 5th R.I. Regiment, and a series of studies, including the head of an R.G.A. gunner, executed by L. G. Studd are full of vigour and artistry. "The Dancing Faun" drawn by Dr. F. R. Gibson and by Spr. K. T. W. Muir, R.E., is beautifully modelled and there is a pleasing study "Illumination" by Lieut. J. W. Rourke: but where so much is excellent it is perhaps not fair to specify.

ART IN COMMERCE.

It may be problematical whether pure art pays in after life, but we can see great scope for those "commercial" artists who have produced advertising posters. There are excellent, inevitably catching the eye and impressing the memory, yet withal well-drawn and pleasing.

The Art School is at 23, Kaiser Wilhelm Ring and on visiting there we find the men working under excellent conditions. A certain amount of freedom is permitted in the matter of actual working hours, the men being given the free run of the studio. Lieut. Jemmett who is in immediate charge of this branch of the College's activities is very enthusiastic about the real enthusiasm displayed by the men drawn from every branch and grade of the service.

The singing demonstration was intensely interesting and somewhat amusing. Dr. Adcock, the singing instructor, set out to show that in the three short weeks any group of men who "never had sung and could not sing" could be taught to perform part songs and melodies with great success; and he did it.

SHOUTING BECOMES SINGING.

At first each group of students is given some more or less meaningless verse to enunciate. If they "cannot sing" they are told to shout it. Soon the rhythm of the melody catches them, then the idea of unison and discord, and by gradual stages they develop into really pleasing glee parties. They are inoculated with music, it is not drummed into them. Of this we will say no more here, but we hope shortly to publish an article from Dr. Adcock explaining how it is done.

The outstanding fact is that such performances as we listened to on Tuesday evening could be developed in companies and would prove a perfect godsend for the troops during the long winter evenings we are just beginning not to enjoy. It is sincerely to be hoped that Commanding Officers will keep in touch with the Education H.Q. and develop this idea for all it is worth, and it is worth much.

The art exhibition will remain open to-day (Thursday) free to all troops from 10.00 to 16.00.

EX-SERVICE MEN AS DOMESTICS.

The war has brought about a reversal of the order of things, where domestic economy is concerned, and discharged soldiers are doing housework and cookery, in most cases much more efficiently than the pre-war "general," whilst a knowledge of housework is now looked upon as a necessary part of the future male aspirant for matrimony. Not long since a lady in London, having tried every possible means of procuring a good general servant—the wages offered being £40 a year—and failed to find one, in desperation inserted an advertisement for a discharged soldier at 15s. a week, all found. She was overwhelmed with replies, from men who had served the country on the battlefield, whilst more than one wore the Mons ribbon! Within two hours there were at least a dozen good applicants to choose from, and a selection was speedily made.

SEEDS DISPERSED BY ANIMALS.

Many plants growing in our hedge banks, and in other places, rely upon animals to disperse their seeds. Horses, cows, sheep, rabbits, rats, and mice brush past the plants, and in doing so the fruit is detached from its moorings, and carried off. Sometimes it is a long time before the animal rids itself of the fruits that cling to its hair or wool. Among many others there are three very familiar plants that have adopted this method for the scattering of their seeds. The first is goosegrass. Its whorls of narrow oval leaves, and its minute starry white flowers are common everywhere. Children like to gather the twin balls of prickly fruit and put them on one another's coat back. Burdock fruit being much larger is useful as a more noticeable practical joke.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

REMEMBER THE DEAD.

Sir,—The timely suggestion of Miss Steel that we on the Rhine should remember our dead by placing wreaths on their last resting places on All Soul's Day, which, thanks to the practical initiative of Mrs. Gresham Shaw, is likely to be carried out, is one that should never be allowed to lapse.

I see that France has fixed All Souls' and All Saints' Days for perpetual days of remembrance for her glorious dead who fell in the war, and when we have our cenotaphs and calvaries erected in Britain, I hope we as a nation shall follow suit.

The custom may not quite be in conformity with strict British religious tenets, but the war has given most of us a wider outlook, one is glad to see.

J.T.A.

EYES AND NO EYES.

Sir,—I am at one with "Anglia" in his assertion that there is little in Germany which impresses one, and I decline to subscribe to the belief that the German public services are any better than our own.

Take the London policeman. Who for instance would be so foolish as to suggest that his German confrére compared in any way with the efficient custodian of the law to be found in our metropolis?

But to come to the individual; does M. A. suggest we should copy the manners of the average German?

It is rather amusing to see the elaborate display of courtesy in the vestibule of any place of amusement, and a few minutes later to see the game of musical chairs as played by a German with one of the opposite sex. My contention is that the German is one who lacks balance or sincerity. JOCKO.

BOXING FILMS.

Sir,—Really I can't believe that "Anti-Box" can be a man.

If it is a "he", I can figure his picture in my mind's eye, tall, thin, possibly knock-kneed, with a vacant look.

I wonder what he is doing in the Army; surely he can't bear the sight of a rifle, and probably would get shell-shock if he saw an eighteen pounder.

Had it not been for the English love of boxing, which incidentally for your education, I may tell you means fighting, where would you and your family be now and under those circumstances?

J.P.S. CAPTAIN.

Sir,—I admire the courage of "Anti-Box" in making a stand against the showing of films representing glove fights by such a body as the Y.M.C.A., because there is sure to be an avalanche of letters on the other side.

For myself I object to such films being publicly displayed anywhere, whether by the Y.M.C.A. or anyone else.

This boxing craze has gone too far, and is having a brutalising influence. I am glad to see that this is now being realised at home. At Acton I noticed that the council refused to allow a public hall to be used if "knock-outs" were allowed and at Inverness the magistrates have refused a boxing licence. One of them said he admired all forms of sport, but drew the line at boxing.

So that "Anti-Box" and myself are not alone in our views. A.P.N.

Sir,—"Anti-Box" calls for little notice. He is doubtless one of those weedy individuals who should have found work of national importance at Dartmoor.

A word re the films. I have seen them and I must say that a more unconvincing display of the noble art it would be difficult to conceive. Several rounds are missing, and no wonder. It would be tedious to get through twenty rounds of "clinching".

Boxing, like a great many other branches of sport, is being reduced to a money-making medium. Cut out the professional element and you get the real thing, as any one who has seen 'Varsity contests, be it boxing, rugger or soccer will testify.

RINGSIDE.

BOOKING OPERA SEATS.

Sir,—Your correspondent "Fed Up" appears to be a very selfish sort of person. He seems, to me, to have the opinion that the Opera House was built for his sole amusement, and no one else should be allowed to attend the performances.

Why should booking by 'phone be washed out, just to suit the convenience of one "sub."? There are plenty of people who have work to do during the hours that the box office is open. Is it right, therefore, that they should miss their enjoyment by being unable to book seats, while he can go and stand in a queue and wait for them? L. E. F.

HANDS IN POCKETS.

Sir,—It is to be noticed that the habit of walking about with hands in pockets is very prevalent amongst O.Rs in Cologne.

This, to some extent, may be due to October's chilly breeze. But as it is necessary to maintain our dignity before German civilians this practice should be discouraged.

It has a tendency to make the offenders slack in their duty towards officers as regards saluting. I am sure these men could take an example from our officers who are very seldom seen walking out in this careless manner.

After all there is no reason for this practice, since gloves are issued to all ranks, and if the habit has got too firm a hold, the pockets can easily be sewn up. M.M.

WHIST DRIVE HOURS.

Sir,—The time for starting Whist Drives at the Leave Club is 6-30 p.m. and they finish about 8-15. In my opinion this time is too early. If they commenced about 7-15 or 7-30, they would be over for 9-15 or 9-30. If this were so, it would give more soldiers opportunities of attending them.

Nearly all other amusements commence about 6-0 p.m. now, but that is because the entertainments last about 3 hours, but in this case the Whist Drive does not last 2 hours. N.F.

IN DEFENCE OF THE JAZZ.

Sir,—There is no satisfying some folk. What reasonable objection there can be to the Jazz or the popular jazz band I do not know, providing the performers know their business and give us the right soul-stirring stuff.

There is vim, go and ginger about such performances. The sort of combination which gives zest to life, makes the aged and rheumatic dance for the sheer joy of it, the weedy take a real interest in the one joy of existence, the dance. Not that dreamy sloppy-come-Sunday contraption beloved by our forefathers—the waltz.

Give me Jazz and ragtime.

WHAT O.

WIVES AND GOLF.

Sir,—In view of the fact that subscriptions for the month of November to the Rhine Army Sports Club will shortly be due for payment, it would be a matter of interest to know whether, owing to the limitations imposed on wives as to playing golf after 2 p.m. on week-days or at all on Sundays, the subscriptions for wives will be correspondingly reduced.

In no club are ladies charged at the same rate of subscription as men if conditions of membership are different.

At present golf is practically the only game which ladies can join in.

MINUS TWENTY (MARKS).

PRICES AND PROFIT.

Sir,—Apropos the letter from a correspondent on the subject of prices chargeable at the N.A.C.B. club, I hope it will not become the general rule to carry away "doubles" of whisky, or we shall ere long have self-appointed Inspectors of Weights and Measures tearing away slices of say German sausage intent upon demonstrating that there being 2.003 slices to the average creation showing that a profit of at least 800 marks 30 pfennigs was secured by the authorities, or if a goose costs 40 marks what should we pay for the "parson's nose,?"

Observer should carry his bottle of the stuff about with him. YORKY.

THE SOLDIER'S POWER.

Sir,—If the majority of soldiers go back to civil life with the spirit displayed by W.F.F. our beloved country need not fear.

It is no doubt an opportunity to all us fellows as we dribble to civil life again, to use our influence in combating the selfish element which is pervading our country and trying to lose all that has been won at such a cost.

I am sure none of us want England rewarded like the nation that wanted a "place in the sun" and got it, but alas, many degrees too hot.

What an England it would be if we could mould a comradeship as true as when brothers in arms prepared to sacrifice all for the general good, heedless of class or clique. SAPPER.

THE PLAYS SOME PEOPLE WANT.

Sir,—For all that the "highbrows" write in praise of the plays of problem and perplexity and gloomy outlook that have been the chief items of the R.A.D.C. repertoire lately, I am convinced from what I hear from Tommy in the clubs and other meeting-places that he would prefer plays of more popular character.

The remark of G.W.H.P. that the Deutsches is always full, is no answer to this demand. When one considers the number of troops in Cologne and district it is not surprising that the theatre is filled. There is no competition, no choice in the matter. It's a case of Hobson's choice—the Deutsches or nowhere.

The test would be if a rival house started playing wholesome, "straight" melodrama, farce, or comedy. Then you would see which the boys would flock to.

POPULAR.

Sir,—I sincerely trust that the R.A.D.C. will not consider seriously the suggestions put forward in regard to plays.

It is sad indeed that a man cannot appreciate anything of an intellectual standard higher than that of "Monty's Flapper" or the "Ticket-of-Leave Man."

I would advise such people to go to the cinema instead of the Deutsches Theatre: they can, at least, laugh at Charlie Chaplin without having to use their brains.

Let the B.R.A.D.C. continue to give us the excellent stuff they have given us in the past. I append the signatures of twenty others who agree with me.

ANOTHER CORPORAL.

THE NEW IDEAL.

Sir,—The excellent leading article under the above heading is one which will commend itself to anyone who has had experience of the democracy of the trenches.

I am sanguine enough to believe that readjustment of values will continue between different social grades, and the country will be the better for the understanding which was bred of life in France and Flanders, but we shall fall short of the ideal unless that section of the community which has derived benefit from the war realises its responsibility.

What is more likely to promote that enmity between classes to which the writer refers than the failure of employers to fulfil their contracts, the wild search for employment by the saviours of the country, while the profiteer waxes fat and indulges in an orgy of extravagance which makes the average thinking man hold up his hands in dismay.

There is only one way of dealing with the present position, and that is to make them disgorge some of their ill-gotten gains. T.H.

WINDS.

Some winds, like robins, nest in trees,
And some, like meadow larks, in grasses
While others cling to flowers, like bees.
The gales that sweep the salt morasses,
Like petrels, brood on stormy seas;
And eagle-winds, as wild as these,
Their cyries make on beetling masses
Of crag in rugged mountain passes.
But wiser is the nestling breeze—
The laughing, elfin breeze, that furls
Its fragrant wings among your curls!

ARTHUR GUITERMAN.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE RESULT

THE CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

Brigand Wins Big Race: Diadem Second.

FAVOURITES AGAIN FAIL.

The result of the Cambridgeshire run at Newmarket yesterday afternoon was as follows:—

Mr. J. A. de Rothschild's Brigand (E. Crickmere) 1
Lord D'Abernon's Diadem (J. Childs) .. 2
Mr. A. R. Cox's My Dear (S. Donoghue) . 3

VICTORY SWEEP.

Lucky Ticket-Holders in Cambridgeshire Draw.

SEVERAL RHINE ARMY-ITES.

Yesterday we were able to give briefly the ticket-holders who had drawn some of the favourite horses in the Lille Cambridgeshire sweepstake. Appended is the complete list.

GRAND VICTORY CAMBRIDGESHIRE.
Result of the Draw.

02894	Jutland	Lieut.-Col. J. A. Crump, c/o. Cox and Co.
27296	Viceroy	Stkr. R. Clements, Victoria street, Gillingham.
06 65	Aynsley	S.S.M. Prescott, Aldershot.
69172	Baily Easton	Cpl McLolland, R.E.P.S., A.P.O., 4.
72643	Golden Fleece	Major C. H. Fournoaux, R.A.S.C., Grantham.
94 66	Elfterion	Sgt. P. J. Darcy, 15th Hussars, Hounslow.
84398	Mountaineer	Pte J. Forus, 60 Meadow Rd Clapham.
69192	Vice Versa	Pte. D. G. Porter, 73 Windmill Hill, Enfield.
34265	Tetrarchia	Pte. P. Riley, 6 R.E. Workshops, Lommo.
22993	Warways	Lieut.-Col. G. Hill, H.Q., Gym. Aldershot.
36376	Not Much	Pte. H. Blackton, K.R.R. City Hosp., Newcastle.
98527	Laurentian	Dvr. D. Jones, Cardiff.
86231	Somerville	Pte. A. S. Totloy, Harper Place, Leeds.
57597	Ardavon	Capt. C.T. Mullen, Surrey.
86162	McLean	Cpl. Butcher, Playgoers Club.
84160	Irish Elegance	S/S. Chamberlain, London N.Z.E.F.
52285	Gay Lord	Cpt. Marshall, 3rd H. Bde., Clipston, Camp.
52782	Diadem	Sub. Lt. Tatcher, H.M.S., Sarpia.
36729	Dionysos	Pte. Waterhouse, Sheffield.
89830	Rizzio	T. G. Parks, Chatham.
45 02	Vertigo	J. Cooper, S. Tottenham.
5841	The Vizier	Major Cockerhill, G.H.Q., Rhine Army.
33455	Propagation	Lieut. Snowdon, Devon.
59691	Milton	T. J. Gibson, Ilford.
898 6	Planet	Fahy, Chatham.
6070	Brigand	Pte. H. Meadows, Stoke; Newington.
12004	Kaboodles	Pte. W. J. Davis, Newport.
72008	Miss Richard	Lieut. Jameson, East Church.
66275	Mint Leaf	Cpt. A. Rosomero, Craig, Houl.
57097	Sir Berkeley	Pte. Malshor, Rugby.
2776	Rich Gift	Lieut.-Col. Brown, Winchester.
72295	Water Bed	Lieut. Loinol, Muswell Hill.
89356	Control	Capt. Stevens, Worcester.
69188	Royal Bucks	Sgt. George, Aldershot.
67641	My Dear	Cpt. Ambler, Prees Heath.
74715	Queens Square	Miss Deardon, Y.M.C.A., Cologne.
62606	Manilardo	Lieut. Falker, Leicestershire.
25119	Flying Spear	Pte. Essex, Aldershot.
14420	Carrodes	Cpt. Grace, A.D.L.R., 5 Area.
63038	Glanmerin	Gnr. Blackmore, Hove.
19856	Sir Douglas	Sgt. Lawton, 51st H.L.I., Rhine Army.
54676	Palestricia	Cpt. Haydor, c/o. Cox and Co.
32887	The Panther	Lieut. J. Croighton, Sussex.
62097	Earna	Pte. Harman, Camberwell.
41206	Roseway	Lieut. Facer.
98882	Frank Webber	Pte. B. Burnaby, London.
36369	Zinovia	Pte. Sharp, Folkestone.
35869	Square Measure	L/Sgt. Horsham.
55384	Sweet Land	F. J. Whitehurst, Burton on Treat.
62052	Paper Money	Lieut. Hawkins,
15701	Monteith	Pte. Knightsbridge.
854	Arion	Sgt. Duran, Preston.
19573	Chuette	2 Lt. Dumont, G.H.Q.
16619	Panusha	Cpl. Evans, Abbeville.
83395	A Sitter	Pte. A. Board, Epsom.
8410	Golden Orb	Spr. Finnigan, Manchester.
14363	Sand Mole	Capt. Cross, 125 C.L.C.
28163	Roideur	Lieut. Thomas, c/o. Holt and Co.
93084	Chiffre D'Amour	Lieut. Webb.
96810	Dromio	A. McKenzie, Westgate on Sea.
51826	Knight of Blyth	C. H. Clay, Shornelife.
23863	Bay of Naples	Lieut. T. P. Stains.
6470	Damagele	Pte. J. Mard, Essex.
19655	Clacikle	Lieut. Bowenport, Windsor.
95047	Callendar	Pte Monks.
65399	Grand Fleet	Butler, Wandsworth Common.
7661	Scatwell	Lt. R. J. Easterbrook, 24 Vet. Hosp., Cologne.
98486	Dominion	P. M.'s Office, G.H.Q., Rhine Army.
22935	Broughbridge	Lt. Graham, Aldershot.
90081	Clarion	Lt. Gooch, c/o D.O.S., G.H.Q.
21420	Nikita	Pte. Sherlock, Dublin.
32582	Rock Savage	Cpt. Butler, Sussex.
11628	River-hore	Mjr. Little, Stroud.
25495	Polygnotus	Cpt. Everett, No. 1 Con. Camp, Cologne.
96034	Daphne	Sgt. J. Brown, Lt. Div, M.T. Co., R.A., Rhine Army.
45641	Good-night	Rfm. Westhook, Batter-ea.
59365	Wilson	Cpl. Shedrack, Shrewsbury.
26138	Gipsy Lad	Cpt. G. Hore.
66203	Alanam	C.Q.M.S. Betts, Aldershot.
78543	Cyclist	Pte. H. Jones, Camberwell.
84437	Viviani	Lt. Woodhead, Sedbergh.
76110	Iron Hand	Lt. Masters.
53714	Baroceo	Pte. Hutchins.
5256	Royal Robe	Lt. Hide, Glasgow.
81268	Athlone	G. C. Pickup, Wendover.
93527	Snow Maiden	Cpl. Teescott, Catterick Camp.
70460	Prince Phillip	A. Webley, Woolwich.
17066	King John	Q.M.S. Tunnee, No. 2 Club, Cologne.
33578	Lady Earn	Lt. Dickenson, Bedford.
3239	Laughing	Cpt. Bennett, Tidsbury.

Xth CORPS RUGBY TOURNAMENT.

The replayed final, Xth Corps Troops v. 51st Manchester Regt. will take place on the Hofgarten, Bonn, this afternoon at 14.30 hours.

17th LANCERS AND C.P.C. CUP.

OUR CRICKET CUP.

Cheery Acknowledgment from 17th Lancers.

POPULAR WINNERS.

When, in the early days of the summer, we offered a silver cup and twelve miniature replicas for the most successful cricket team in the Rhine Army, we decided that the formal handing over of the trophy should be the occasion of an interesting function in Cologne. The ambition, alas, could not be fullfilled.

For a variety of reasons, the cup did not reach these offices until a week or so ago, by which time the winning team, the 17th Lancers, had left Rhineland for England.

A member of the "Cologne Post" staff was forthwith despatched across the Channel to deliver the cups to the secretary of the team that, by playing consistently good cricket throughout the season, deservedly won them.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF THE CUP.

A letter addressed from the Cavalry Club, London, to the Editor has been received from Capt. Fowler, the secretary of the 17th Lancers, team. He says:

"We are all more than delighted with the very beautiful trophy, which will always be a magnificent souvenir of our stay in Rhineland. It was a surprise to all of us to find that you had also given twelve miniature replicas for each member of the team, and we are all extremely pleased to have these little cupcs, which will remind us of a most sporting and pleasant cricket season, even after we have left the Army. With many thanks for your generosity and the good times we had playing in your Cup competition . . ."

A REAL SPORTING TEAM.

It may be fitting to give here the views of Mr. W. E. Pinnell, (ex. R.E. and now demob'd.) who was formerly secretary of one of the other competing teams. He "waxes eloquent" over the good qualities of the winners, as evidenced in the following extracts from a letter sent to this office a little while back:

"I have just received a "Cologne Post" giving me the result of the C.P.C. final, and I must say how delighted I am to know that the 17th Lancers have won the Cup. I heartily congratulate them. They are a real sporting and good all-round team, always pulling together. They whacked us fairly and squarely (111—32) and flabbergasted our chaps.

GOOD LOSERS.

"As I have said, I am very glad they have won, seeing they are in my old Division, which is very natural. But one must congratulate the losers, too, for their plucky fight. It must have been a great game and quite the best played in Rhineland."

We feel confident that all those who were interested in our competition (which, in point of popularity, far exceeded our most sanguine expectations) will join us once more in congratulating the 17th Lancers.

With the knowledge that their success was on all hands recognised as being particularly well deserved, the members of the winning team should find the contents of the flowing bowl extremely palatable when the time comes for it to be passed round, if this has not already happened.

Here's to them!

OFFICERS v. SERGEANTS.

51st Bn. Northumberland Fusiliers Hockey-Match.

An interesting match took place on Sunday on the Stadt Wald, Lindenthal, between the Stars and Stripes of the above Battalion. Both teams opened out in good style, the Officers evidently being determined to have their revenge for their defeat at Soccer on the previous Tuesday. The Officers attacked sharply, their forward line working well together. The play moved quickly to the other end of the field, but only to return with the result that Lt. Ruddock scored. Sgt. Smith was much in evidence in the position of centre-half, also Sgt. Mole played a good game on the left wing. The forwards too worked very well together but always seemed to fall to pieces when it came to scoring and Lt's. Connolly and Worthington had little difficulty in keeping the defence firm. When the play was nearing the front of the Officers' goal, Lt. Ruddock got possession of the ball and after a fine run passed it to Lt. Mason, on the left wing, who put it into the Sgts'. net. Shortly afterwards Lt. Ruddock again scored, making the score at half time 3—0.

After the recommencement, play was taken into the Sgts'. territory and there were numerous exciting episodes in their goalmouth, their sticks and legs were very much in contact. At last however the ball was cleared only to be returned to the Sgts'. half and Lt. Thomas breaking through the good defence put up by C.Q.M.S. Scott and C.S.M. Mann scored a fine goal. The game though out was very fast and displayed the keen sportsman-like rivalry between the two teams.

DEATH OF THE MARQUIS OF ORMONDE.

The death is announced of the Marquis of Ormonde at his Irish seat, Kilkenny Castle. His lordship, who was in his seventy-sixth year, was the third Marquis and twenty-first Earl of Ormonde, and by his death the yachting world has sustained a heavy loss. He was Commodore of the Royal Yacht Squadron, and was at Cowes practically the whole of the summer, when he appeared to be enjoying excellent health. He was an intimate friend of King Edward, and was for years vice-Commodore of the R.Y.S. while King Edward (then Prince of Wales) was nominally Commodore. As long ago as 1874 Lord Ormonde made a voyage in his yacht, Mirage, to the then little known coasts of Spitzbergen.

The heir to the title is Lord Arthur J. Wellington Foley Butler, a brother of the late Marquis.

1½ MILE RECORD.

Another Winans Success: Distance Covered in 4 min. 12⅖ secs.

SPLENDID RACING.

It was bleak and bitterly cold at Parloes Park when the forty-first of this season's meetings of the National Trotting Horse Breeder's Association was held.

Among fresh horses engaged were Mr. T. Walker's Little Bobby and Real Lady. Both scored readily in their heats, but had strong opposition in their respective finals. Little Bobbie was beaten in good time by Polly R., a local pony owned by Mr. Randall, Chadwell Heath, but Real Lady scored in the chief event of the day after a fine race with Master Bingen and Dolly Bingen.

Mr. Harry Smith, owner of Richmond, had a running match for £30 aside with Mr. Alfred Bray, and lost by two yards. Mr. Walter Winans attempted to lower the mile record of 2min 49sec to wagon held by his hackney sired Discord, but failed, the time being 2min 52sec.

His son, Mr. Julian W. Winans, however, rode the same horse to saddle, carrying 12st 7lb in 2min 49sec. Mr. Walter Winans was more successful with his hackney sired Harmony, creating a record of 4min 12 2-5sec for a mile and a half. The mile time was 2min 46 3-5sec.

NEWMARKET RACES.

Short Priced Winners on Opening Day.

The going was still on the hard side at Newmarket on Tuesday, when a large crowd assembled in dull weather. Results:

Trial Plate:—1, Prevoyant (5-4); 3, White Prince (6-1). Four ran.

Limekiln Stakes:—1, Perion (9-2 on) beat Church History. Two ran.

Criterion Stakes:—* Sarchedon (2-1); * Gleneskaki (11-10). He Goes (100-30). Three ran. (* stakes divided).

Rutland Handicap:—1, Rock Den (7-4); 2, Zulanda (4-1); 3, Skager Rack (100-8). Ten ran.

Old Nursery Stakes:—1, Fancy Man (evens); 2, Golden Spurs; 3, Lama (8-1). Fifteen ran.

Dalham Plate:—1, Swinfen (6-5 on); 2, Beltenebros (10-1); 3, Kuntala (3-1). Six ran.

Fordham Handicap:—1, Tagrag (7-1); 2, Sunny Rhyme (4-1); 3, Long Tail (100-8). Eleven ran.

VICTORY NOVEMBER SWEEP.

The draw will take place at Calais on November 20 for the Victory Manchester November Handicap Sweepstake, organised by Commander W. Bickford, D.S.O., 53, Quai de la Tamise, Calais, for officers, N.C.O.'s, and men of past and present service in H.M. Forces. Tickets are 10s. each, and the list closes on November 19.

IRISH STEWARDS AND FRACTIOUS HORSES.

The Irish "Racing Calendar" states that after the race for The Curragh Grand Prize the Stewards, having observed that Mertoy, Cracknel, Miss Orby, and Lady Orb were particularly fractious at the post, sent for the starter, who corroborated their views.

The stewards consequently cautioned the trainers of the above horses that unless they find on subsequent occasions that these horses are more amenable at the post the stewards will be compelled to take drastic measures with the trainers in question.

MIDDLE-WEIGHT JOCKEY DEAD.

James Woodburn, who had been suffering from cancer, and on whose behalf a subscription was recently started, died yesterday morning. He was at one time a popular and successful middle-weight jockey, but had not followed his vocation for a considerable period, and definitely retired from the saddle last March. He rode for many prominent patrons of the Turf.

PROFITABLE RACING.

The French Ministry of Agriculture has issued some interesting figures concerning betting in that country. From the beginning of the racing season in May to the end of July the pari-mutuel booths handled a sum of 227,167,990 francs (£6,310,221, roughly, on the present rate of exchange), of which 4 per cent., or 9,086,719 francs (£252,408), went to the three great clubs which govern racing in France.

AMUSING COINCIDENCE.

A correspondent sends to a sporting contemporary the following short account of a quaint coincidence at Sandown Park on Saturday:—

Directly after Longerline had won the Pirbright Hurdle Race for Mr. Bottomley, a terrified hare came out of the spinney and bolted down the course, hotly pursued by pedestrians. Top hats and other missiles were hurled at her, but puss got away all right somewhere near the last fence in the steeple-chase course. The incident, following as it did immediately after two winners trained by Hare, was distinctly amusing.

DAVIS CUP MATCHES.

The English Lawn Tennis Association has agreed to the suggestion of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association that the Davis Cup matches shall be played on January 16, 17, and 19 instead of starting on January 9, as originally proposed.

NEW MOTOR SCOOTER.

A motor scooter of a new design, known as the "Whippet," made a non-stop trip from London to Brighton yesterday, carrying two passengers, and covering the distance in 2½ hours.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION WINNERS

A GAME SCOT.

Fine Display Against Reeves the Ex-Cruiser Belt holder.

BEATEN IN 13th ROUND.

One of the gamest men who ever boxed, Bob Whiteford, of Glasgow, was beaten in the thirteenth round by Harry Reeve at the Blackfriars Ring this week.

The winner was evidently in no condition for a protracted struggle, and commenced by lunging out indiscriminately with both hands, but before he could land a blow Whiteford sent the left hard to the body. The force of the blow not only made Reeve give a shout of pain, but he had the greatest difficulty in getting his breath, and had only just sufficient strength to hang on for a respite.

Subsequently, Whiteford did remarkably well with his workmanlike left hand, which repeatedly found its way to Reeves' face.

The ninth, tenth, and eleventh rounds went greatly in favour of the ex-champion. Whiteford having to take no fewer than five counts, varying from three to eight seconds, yet his better condition enabled him to recuperate and finish each round the stronger.

A magnificent right to the point in the 13th round almost completed his downfall. With commendable gameness he struggled on, but after being put down again the referee stopped the bout in favour of Reeves.

SPURS' GOAL DISPUTED.

Grimsdell the Man of the Match Against Port Vale.

It was a case of sheer doggedness opposed to science in the game at Hanley, where 18,000 people saw Tottenham Hotspur defeat Port Vale in their first home match in the Second Division, by one goal to nothing.

The goal came late in the game, for there were only seven minutes to play when Cantrell headed the ball past Hammond from a corner kick, admirably placed by Chipperfield. The legality of the point was strongly contested by the Port Vale players, who held that the ball was over the line before Cantrell played it, but the referee, who was in an excellent position to decide, ruled that a goal had been scored.

The man of the match even in such a good all-round side as the Spurs, was Grimsdell who played splendid football.

STARS v. STRIPES.

51st N. F. Officers and Sergeants at Sulz.

Two very keen teams met at Sulz on Saturday. Both the Officers and the Sergeants of the 51st N.F. were anxious to come to a definite understanding, as the result of the last match between these two teams was a goalless draw. At the outset the Sergeants attacked well and by some good passing by the outside right, C.Q.M.S. Martin, the ball was placed almost in front of the goal-mouth and after a short sharp tussle C.S.M. Murray scored. Twice during the first half the Sergeants seemed like scoring again, the ball being dangerously near its objective, but the Officer's goal-keeper was alive and at half time the score remained at one up for the Sergeants.

At the commencement of the second half the forward line of the Officers combined well and for the first ten minutes the play was in the Sergeants' half. By an excellent head by Capt. Pigg, the ball was put almost over the goal line into the net, but was saved in the nick of time. Following on this, the game went to the other end of the field, and Sgt. Spencer, from another good pass from the outside right, was able to add another goal to the Sergeants' score. For the next ten minutes the play was fairly even but Sgt. Spencer, getting possession of the ball in his own half, dribbled it to the defence of the Officers without assistance and again scored. Eight minutes before play was due to cease Lieut. Veitch took a good corner kick and, after placing it well, Lieut. Thomas succeeded in heading it into the net.

Result:—Sergeants 3; Officers 1.

52 DEVONS.—A COY. v. C COY.

Played at Hilgen on Sunday resulting in an easy win for A Coy. In the first half Martin at inside left registered two goals for A Coy., and Lieut. Abrahams headed the ball very neatly from a corner kick and scored for C Coy.

In the second half A Coy's "goalie" only had three shots. C Coy.'s forward line did not pass the ball sufficiently; C.Q.M.S. Selby at outside right was very fast and might have beaten A Coy.'s defence if he had been fed from the centre more frequently.

A Coy.'s forwards showed fine form; C.S.M. Bradley played brilliantly at outside left, and Cpl. Barrow at inside left banged in some very hot shots adding four goals. For A Coy's. defence Sgt. Cotterrell was a tower of strength, and C Coy.'s backs and "goalie" played a good game.

Result:—A Coy., 6; C Coy., 1.

IREMONGER SUSPENDED.

The Emergency Committee of the Football Association have suspended Iremonger, the Notts County goalkeeper, for a month.

He was sent off the field during the Derby County and Notts County match at Derby on the 11th inst.

FOOTBALL FRIENDLY.

A team from No. 1 G.H.Q. W.O.'s and Sgt.'s mess played A.P.O.S./40 on Tuesday, a pleasant game resulting in a draw 1-1.

Q.M.S. Gardner scored for the Mess in the first half, and Cpl. Mack equalised during the second half.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

French Dancers.

Those who had the pleasure of seeing the French Dancers at the British Empire Leave Club about three months ago can readily appreciate the welcome they received at the Leave Club on Tuesday. It was a most artistic performance and a treat for lovers of colour and form and music because it included all three. Mlle. Laura Amann and Mlle. Marte Brantzky danced together as Les Deux Pierrots to a scherzo by Schumann and as two Highland lassies to a real Scotch Schottische and they danced a wonderful wild dance in red and black Russian costume.

* * *

Mlle. Laura Amann danced fascinating solo dances. Perhaps the most attractive was Violette when she danced the daintiest steps and wore white and mauve, and strewed violets in her own path. In a brilliant green frock with countless frills Mlle. Marte Brantzky coquetted in real French fashion to Chopin's well known waltz in A major. Between the dances were songs from Miss K. Campbell ("To Daffodils," and as an encore an old Scotch love song) and Miss Jameson, who sang, a Grieg song called "My Mother" and the "Hatfield Bells" by Eastnope Martin. Their singing gave great pleasure and is a credit to the Leave Club. Major Greenlees sang the prologue from Pagliacci with splendid tone and rhythm. His other songs included Homer's Requiem, Songs of Araby, and Maire my Girl.

* * *

In the middle of the programme there came a wonderful scene called the Birth of Dawn which was full of beauty. Miss K. Campbell as an angel with wings, charmed everybody. She sang a morning song and then unveiled the clouds whose colouring ranged from the palest yellow to the deep flame of Dawn who was lying asleep on a rock and gradually awoke to the strains of Sinding and Grieg. The dance ended with a winding dance in which all the clouds joined—a signal that dawn had come. Miss Campbell and Mrs. Shorten danced a fascinating Gavotte and Miss Littleton and Tinney as two gnomes and Mrs. Bamford and Misses Smyth and Jameson as nymphs danced a joyful spring dance. The B.E.L.C. ladies orchestra Miss Lavie, Miss Smyth, Miss Tyrer, Miss de la Pasture, and Miss Hester Clark accompanied throughout and their efforts added greatly to the success of a very successful evening.

Next Sunday.

I hear that the great Wanda Achsel has definitely promised to sing at the Deutsches Theatre again on Sunday next; that Alfred Barker will play; and that another star of magnitude is also being arranged for. Good advice would be to book early.

Next Monday's Concert.

A concert likely to attract considerable interest is that announced to take place at the Burgergesellschaft, Cologne, on Monday next. A new work, Reger's variations and fugue, on a theme by Bach will be played by Backhaus for the first time in Cologne. The great pianist will also play various selections of Chopin.

In Few Words.

Next Sunday Herr Fritz Paulsen is going to give at the Burgersaal an interesting performance of telepathy, suggestion, hypnotism and fakirism.

On Tuesday modern dances will be performed at the Wolkenburg by Suse Elsler and Gustav Hölzer.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Thurs.	Ein Maskenball	Verdi	7	9.45
Fri.	Der Barbier von Sevilla	Rossini	7	10
Sat.	Orpheus and Eurydice	Gluck	7	9.15
Sun.	Die Walküre	Wagner	5 30	10.30
Mon.	Madame Butterfly	Puccini	7	9.45
Tues.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10

The "Crumps" Dame.

This is an impression of the successful female impersonator of "The Crumps," who, with his song. "A Little of What you Fancy" is causing roars of laughter at the Palace Theatre, Cologne.

JACQUES.

ARMY REMOUNT DEPOT.

Little Scoring in Two Home Football Matches.

On Sunday, the Rhine Army Remount Depot entertained the D.L.I. on the Depot Ground. From a corner kick Remount's inside left sent in a nice shot which completely beat the goalkeeper. The Durhams continually made rushes on the home goal, but the backs were equal to the occasion. Half-time brought the score: Remounts 1, D.L.I. 0.

From the restart the Remount forwards, who were in fine form, were constantly around the Durham's goal, but they could not find the net. Result: Remounts 1; D.L.I. 0.

After the match a tea arranged by Lieut. C. Norman took place at the Depot which was thoroughly enjoyed by both teams.

15th HANTS.

An exciting game ensued between Rhine Army Remount Depot and the 15th Hampshire Regt. on the formers' ground on Saturday in ideal weather. Just before half-time a scramble around the home goal resulted in the Hampshires just managing to put the ball over the line. In the second half, play was very fast. Towards the end of the game hands was given against the Hampshires inside the penalty area. The Depot inside left took the kick and beat the custodian with a lovely shot. Each side tried very hard for the winning goal but the backs were too good for the forwards and kept the ball out of the danger zone. Thus the game ended in a draw of 1 each.

THREE WIN 880 MARKS EACH.

Result Of Our Football Skill Competition Number 5.

In our No. 5 contest despite the easy task set competitors, no all-correct coupon was submitted. The Grimsby v. Hull City, Luton v. Portsmouth and Swansea v. Brighton matches caught many competitors, albeit on recent form the results did not occasion any great surprise.

Numerous entrants were successful in sending in forms with eight results correct and nine competitors submitted coupons showing nine correct forecasts. Three contestants however managed to predict ten results and thereby become entitled to our prize, their names and addresses being:—

Lieut. J. R. West,
c/o D.O.S.
G.H.Q. Rhine Army.

Pte. L. P. Crangle, 110073,
52nd D.L.I.
Hqrs. 3rd Northern Bde.

Pte. B. S. Smith, 670475,
G. S. Intelligence,
G.H.Q., Rhine Army.

As stated yesterday the amount of the prize money was 2,637 marks to which we have added the sum of three marks making a total of 2,640 marks, thus each of the above successful entrants will receive the tidy sum of 880 marks.

Turn your attention now to No. 6 contest. Another big prize is waiting to be won. Have you sent in your effort yet?

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 6,
"Cologne Post,"
A.P.O. S./40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disquality the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disquality any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 6.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov. 1st.
Closing date, Friday, Oct. 31st.

Aston Villa	v. Middlesboro
Bolton W.	v. Sunderland
Blackburn R.	v. Everton
Bradford C.	v. Arsenal
Notts C.	v. West Bromwich
West Ham	v. Birmingham
Huddersfield	v. Fulham
Swindon	v. Queens Park R.
Brentford	v. Plymouth A.
Brighton	v. Exeter C.
Hamilton A.	v. Falkirk
Morton	v. Celtic

I enter Football Competition No. 6 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

In one World.

Two members of a Labour Company were, I hear, discussing the prize we are offering for the best answer to the question, "What would you do if you won £12,000?" "Well, mate, what would you do?" one asked. "Nuthink," replied the other.

A Trifle Mixed.

The tickets issued at the Modernes Picture Theatre provide another example of mongrel English. They read "Tickets for British Army."

More Suppers.

I am told that the British Empire Leave Club has increased the number of tickets to obtain suppers for men visiting Cologne. This will be welcomed by many who hitherto have been unable to avail themselves of the excellent supper provided and the good music which accompanies it.

The Skating Boon.

I notice that the skating boon has spread to the American area, but as in Cologne the absence of suitable premises interferes with full development of the craze.

Unreasonable.

I heard of a soldier who was discontented with the billet provided for him in a farm-house not a hundred miles from Bonn and complained to the Sergeant. "What's wrong with it" he was asked. "Matter; why there's a couple of mice fighting in one corner." "Well, what do you expect, a blinkin' bull fight?" replied the sergeant.

No More Changing.

I am told that all official facilities for exchanging Foreign currencies at Post Offices and railway stations in the United Kingdom are to be withdrawn at the end of the month.

Opportunities for Clerks.

I hear there are a number of positions to be had as clerks to the Rhineland Commission. Applicants must be demobilizable and preference will be given to unmarried N.C.O.'s and men with a knowledge of French and German, though these qualifications are not essential.

The Priceless "Bine."

At last we have been blessed with a ration of—Woodbines. Perhaps, if we stay here long enough it will be De Reszkes. Who knows?

One day.

A Londoner who has been in Cologne for nearly nine months chased across the Channel on urgent business the other day, motoring from Rhineland to Ostend. He and his wife spent one day at their home and then very reluctantly returned.

No such Thing.

Another unfounded rumour which needs nipping in the bud is that in deference to the strongly expressed desire of a certain section of the Rhine Army, the R.A.D.C. is staging "Cou Chin Chow" with its enormous caste and fabulously expensive dresses.

Can't Get Home.

I believe the reason why so many Indian troops have still to remain in Rhineland is the scarcity of transport to the East.

The Army "Mudie's."

I don't think it is too well known that if you wish to borrow books from the Rhine Army Library on the Rhine that all you need do is to deposit, five marks. Then you can have three books out at a time. And the selection of fiction and general reading is a wide one.

His Calculation.

A young subaltern on leave from Rhineland had been to his first dance in Blighty, and was staggered at the scantiness of some of the gowns. "How do you like my frock?" said his sister. "It's-er-quite simple," he stammered. "Simple!" She laughed. "Do you know what it cost? Do you know twenty golden sovereigns wouldn't cover it?" "Perhaps not," said he; "but thirty might, well spread out."

The Cardinal's Home.

Not many soldiers in Cologne seem to know that the massive, sombre building in the Gereonstrasse is the Palace of the Cardinal.

Result of our Occupation.

I heard yesterday of a young German, who during the war was office boy in a Cologne newspaper office. He is now the owner of several houses bought out of his earnings on newspaper sales at the main tram terminus, where he is always to be found.

Will be Run After.

Another miracle in our small advertisement columns: two furnished rooms to let and in Cologne where there is an absolute famine of houses. In Munich, I understand the homeless number 3,000.

Dud Engines.

German locomotives are in a very bad state of repair. An officer just back from Berlin told me that between there and Cologne six separate changes of engines had to be made owing to breakdowns.

IF!!

If we were demobbed by a Medical Board.

One up.

The American Army Rhineland paper "The Amaroc News", having completed six months service, has awarded itself a chevron which adorns the top left hand corner.

A Loss.

Readers of this paper who have enjoyed many a good laugh from the humorous contributions of the writer signing himself "E. J. Tellum" will be sorry to hear that he has been demobbed and is now proceeding Blightywards. Luckily the Editor has still one or two of his contributions in hand.

Bad for the Eyes.

Several soldiers who are studying German have complained recently of eye strain. This is caused by poring over the trying Gothic type which is one of the abominations that ought to be abolished.

Love Finds a Way.

One young "sub." on the Rhine innumerably starts his daily letter to his lady-love in Blighty by saying "There is absolutely no fresh news to tell, so I will be very brief." His letter seldom covers less than ten pages all the same. Mostly "sweet nothings" of course.

Convincing.

A German offender in the American Summary Court at Coblenz, summoned for threats had as witnesses against him his wife, his son, and daughter-in-law.

Ringing in Advance.

I am told that the ringing of the bells at all Catholic churches in Cologne at six each evening is in connection with the celebration of All Saints' Day on November 1st. It is a custom to ring tunes on the bells at this hour for seven days in advance of the festival.

RHINELANDER.

EAU DE COLOGNE.

THE LIGHT SIDE OF RHINE LAND.

Dear Folks at Home:

It is sad how quickly autumn makes itself felt. The trees are rapidly losing their leaves and the cold bite in the air makes one realise that winter is drawing near, with its attendant cold and frost. Many well-known faces have disappeared from our midst. A good many have gone home for good while others, being only on leave, we hope to see again.

* * *

I was at the VI Corps Club dance the other night and I was glad to see again a certain Colonel who has been for some time past away in the wilds of the country. He used to be at G.H.Q. and was a most enthusiastic organiser of certain mess dances. I hope his is not a fleeting visit.

* * *

At every turn I regret that I do not know the language of this country, not because I think it melodious in sound, but I feel it would be useful on occasions. Which reminds me of a story I heard, which shows the utility of understanding it. An officer and his wife were travelling in a tram in this neighbourhood and at one of the stopping places some Germans got in; one of whom deliberately trod on the lady's foot. She said nothing except intimating to her husband what had happened and the Germans proceeded to gloat over the deed and make rude remarks.

* * *

The officer calmly read his paper but when the tram stopped and the Germans prepared to descend he calmly but forcibly forbade them to do so, and made them travel some distance, to his own destination. Arrived there he, with the assistance of a Tommy, escorted them to the police station. One German protested at the treatment and demanded an interpreter whereupon the officer — (and here I must say I admire him for keeping so calm) replied in perfect German that he would interpret, knowing the language very well and having understood everything they had uttered. You can imagine they had a mauvais quart d'heure and got their deserts.

* * *

The restriction on the use of cars has made it rather difficult for getting to and from dances, but nothing damped the enthusiasm for the weekly Lions' Club, and private cars and taxis rose nobly to the occasion. At last I have been one of the privileged few: I have only one regret, and that is, I have never been before. The tables for six, four, or even tete-a-tete are arranged on one side of the room, and the other half was reserved for dancing. The enthusiasm with which everyone leapt to their feet after and even during each course showed that no one intended to waste a moment. The band was good, and the whole proceedings went with a swing and one could read enjoyment on everyones' faces.

* * *

Conspicuous among the dancers was a slender lady in black, whose graceful dancing has made her noted out here. I don't think I admire the dancing of one or two of the ladies, which is nothing more or less than a stilted walk and gives the impression of double-jointed marionettes. There is nothing graceful about their style and it is certainly not to be imitated. It was a most enjoyable evening, and I hope to go again some day.

* * *

The other day, I'm told, the wife of a married officer in Cologne went out, leaving her hubby in charge of the billet. "The fishmonger will be calling, dear" she said. "Right ho, I'll carry on," he said. Soon there was a ring. "Well, have you any cod?" asked the officer in his best German. "Nein," was the reply. "Any sole, plaice, salmon, skate or any old fish?" "Nein," was the reply. "Well, why not?" demanded the officer sternly. "Because I'm the greengrocer."

Love to all

JOAN.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Ugh.—Paris suburbs have no coal.

Back.—Dowlais steel strike has finished.

What Now?—The Gattie transport inquiry is ended.

Late. — Loganberries are still being picked in Leicestershire.

Changes Hands.—"Freeman's Journal" has been sold for £132,800.

Unhealthy.—Cattle disease is spreading in the Isle of Wight.

In Town.—The King and Queen are back in London.

Disabled.—Over 14,000 men are on the disablement register for North Wales.

Wilful Boys.—German boys in the state schools are on strike.

No Water.—South Africa is experiencing the worst drought for 50 years.

Get Ready.—Frankfurt Fair will be held in May, 1920.

Japan in Line.—An air mail has been started between Tokyo and Osaka.

More Coal.—A rich coal-mine is said to have been discovered in South America.

A helping Hand.—A Dutch syndicate is granting Germany a credit of £6,000,000.

A Pioneer.—Commander Porte, of flying boat fame, has died at Brighton.

Coal Scarcity.—It is said that the coal scarcity will last for five if not ten years.

Vetoed.—President Wilson has vetoed the Prohibition Enforcement Bill.

Poor Hubby.—Ladies' hats are said to cost £12 each in Constantinople.

In Favour.—Diamond shares are in favour at home.

Really!—Brazil is opposed to the trial of the ex-Kaiser.

Eastern Potentate.—The Shah of Persia arrives at Dover to-day.

Economising.—The War Office has only eighteen motor cars now for official use.

The Best. — The Bishop of Hereford supports early marriages.

The Japanese way.— Japan is to sign the Peace without consulting its Parliament.

Strange.— Ramsgate, which claims the finest sands in Kent, is short of sand for builders.

Net Smasher. — In landing a shark at Plymouth £70 worth of damage was done to the nets.

Municipal Honours.— Though blind, a woman is seeking municipal honours at St. Pancras.

About Time.—It is likely that the building of cinemas will be restricted in the near future.

Nationalisation.— It is not intended to refer the question of nationalisation to a referendum.

Young.—Many of Glamorgan men summoned for non-payment of income-tax were young miners.

Demobbed.— To date, 130,000 officers and over 3,000,000 men have been demobilized.

The First.—The first case of dislocated spine sustained at Rugby football has occurred at Oxford.

New Ministry. — There is much talk among London lawyers over the creation of a Ministry of Justice.

Profitable.— A witness in a "pitch and toss" case said some of the players won £40 a day.

Not True. — There is no truth in the rumour that the Duke of Northumberland is to become Viceroy of India.

Good Use. — National factories are to be used for the manufacture of railway wagons.

The German Army.—The German Army will in future consist of 63 battalions, as against 600 battalions.

The Pari-Mutuel.—From May to July the sums paid into the French pari-mutuel amounted to £9,086,719.

Unpopular.—The film, entitled "Kaiser Wilhelm's Fortune and End," has been confiscated by the German authorities.

Closed Galleries.—Complaints are made that the great national galleries in London are still unavailable to the public.

The Faithful.—According to Mr. J. H. Thomas, less than one per cent. of the membership of the N.U.R. failed to strike.

Cheap Clocks Gone.—A clockmaker says the day of cheap alarum clocks has gone.

Blackmail.—Complaints are made that the Profiteering Act is being used as a means of blackmail.

The Ex-Master.—Sir Charles Swinfen Eady will be known as Lord Swinfen of Chertsey.

England's Hope. — England's coming lady lawn tennis player is Miss Kitty McCane.

Coppers.—To raise a war memorial fund, Hastings is appealing for a mile of pennies.

The New Fashion. — Lady working housekeepers are very much in demand at present.

The Penalty.—A Bridgend hotel keeper was fined three pounds for charging a penny too much for a drink.

Coming Down.—Camberwell is suffering from an epidemic of falling ceilings, the result of air raids and motor vibration.

A Third Crop.—An apple tree near Porthcawl is blossoming for the third time this year.

Young Nelson.—Southwark's certificate commemorating the signing of peace bears the portrait of Jack Cornwall.

His Next Tour.—It is probable that King Alfonso will visit the Latin American Republics next spring.

Red Letter Day.—Nov. 1 and 2 have been officially fixed for annual memorial war ceremonies in French communes.

"P.M's." Guest.—Though the King of Spain lunched with the Premier yesterday, few kings have ever been to No. 10 Downing Street.

Cause and Effect.—"Major..... previously reported dead has been awarded the O.B.E.," appears in a current Army list.

CAN YOU WRITE?

We pay for all literary contributions to "The Cologne Post," and are pleased to consider articles, humorous sketches and poems by members of the Rhine Army. No article should exceed 500 words, and even shorter ones can be submitted.

BY APPOINTMENT

Trophies

THE Goldsmiths and Silversmiths Company's Cups, Bowls and Regimental Trophies, are of finest quality and offer the best value obtainable. A most excellent collection is always available from which to make a selection.

A Catalogue will be posted free on application.

WARNING.

The Goldsmiths and Silversmiths Company have no branch establishments in Regent Street, Oxford Street, or elsewhere—in London or abroad—only one address, 112 REGENT ST., LONDON, W.1.

THE GOLDSMITHS & SILVERSMITHS COMPANY LTD.
(with which is incorporated The Goldsmiths Alliance Ltd. Est. 1751)
JEWELLERS TO HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
112 Regent Street, London, W.1.

BY SPECIAL REQUEST

We have secured a large assortment of

GENUINE SOUVENIRS

Razors Watches Perfumes
Knives Clocks Wallets
& every description of local souvenirs

YOU ARE INVITED

to call in and inspect our stock without obligation

OUR SPECIALITY

MILITARY REQUISITES

ROBARTS & QUANTOCK

Late R. Sussex Rgt. Late E. Yorks Rgt.

ALL ENGLISH CONCERN

100 HOHESTRASSE 100

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

REGIMENTAL DRAG. Perfect condition. A bargain. Apply Capt. McGuffie, 16th Lancs. Fusiliers, Euskirchen.

1 GOERZ CAMERAS 9×12 Doppelanastigmat "Celor" f. Portraitaufn. bes. geeignet 1 Zeiss Teleobjectiv Brennweite 45. 1 Camera Rapid-Aplanat 9×12. Jackels, Elisenstr. 18. Zwischen 1 und 3 Uhr.

Piano for sale, maker "Jost Paris", 2,000 Mks. or nearest offer. Reply P.R.I. 1/6th West Yorkshire Regt., Schiller Gymnasium, Ehrenfeld.

CAMERA 8×10½, extra rapid aplanat for films and plates. 260 Marks. Hohestrasse 15.

ZEISS-GOERZ-BINOCULARS 6×30 and 8× in splendid condition. Pold, Boisseréestr. 12, I Floor (near Hohenstaufen Bad.)

ATTENTION BRITISHERS. An almost complete collection of War Postage Stamps from the central nations for sale. Price moderate (good proposition for speculation.) Can be seen between 10 and 12 o'clock, and 5—7 at Waldheim, Venloerstrasse 178.

OLD VIOLIN, first-class instrument (Hopf) to be sold at reasonable price. Apply: Raschke, Cologne, Mühlengasse 21 II.

WANTED.

WANTED to purchase nummah saddle. Apply Capt. Reeves, Civil Administration, Solingen.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 4.5. if poss. but not smaller than 6.8. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

2 GIRLS, 18—20 years, want situations for housework or children. Speak a little English. Address: Hedwig Mertens, Tönnisbergstrasse 31, Siegburg.

TRADE.

WANTED Ser. Agencies or Representation of good firms by experienced Agent in Bonn. Apply to A 318 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

WANTED position in Officers Mess, or in an Officers house as cook. First-class ref. Paula Hof, Bonn, Bornheimerstrasse 74 a, II.

WANTED situation as Butler and Waiter in Officers Mess. Speaks English and French well, good character from A.M.B. Squadron K.O. Hussars, Duren. Apply A 319 Cologne Post. A.P.O./S.40.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PIANO lessons given by young pianist who speaks English well. Offers to Clara Lohmer, Cöln-Lindenthal, Theresienstrasse 70 I.

ALTERATION, REPAIRING, Cleaning and Ironing at moderate terms. August Bender, Crefelderstr. 40, lately Battery Tailor, R.H.A., G. Battery. Only send a card.

LOST.

LOST in centre of Cologne or at VI th Corps Club, gold bar brooch, amethyst in centre. Reward if returned to Advt. Manager, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

IN BONN. Schäferhund ("Wolfhound"). Bitch puppy, half-grown, answers to "Lady." Finder rewarded. Rev. Illingworth, 84, Bonnertalweg Bonn (North Lancs.).

THE COLOGNE POST lost daily, owing to not sending subscription before demob. Send 15 Marks now with your Blighty address.

PERSONAL.

EXPERIENCED cook wants situation in Officer's mess or hotel. First-class British testimonials and references. 20 years in England Write to G 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

LANGUAGES.

GERMAN Gentleman, with knowledge of English, wishes to exchange German conversational lessons for English with English gentleman. Offers to A 317 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

THE COLOGNE POST
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks. (From U.K. 2/9.)

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

PLEASE WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

.....

15 Marks covers all British possessions.

AROUND AND ABOUT.

ARMY'S BOOT BILL.

Seventy million pairs of boots—this was Britain's output in footwear for the Allied armies during the war. This interesting fact was disclosed at the International Shoe and Leather Fair. Practically every factory of any size was commandeered at one time or other for the supply of army requirements. There were 70 distinct types of boots, including the Wellingtons worn by the Cossacks and the Alpine mountaineering variety with clinkers on the sole. The Russians' average size was 13, due not so much to big feet as to the extensive bandaging over the socks as a precaution against chafing. The Ghurkas had a dainty, delicate, short foot, with a high arch, which meant the manufacture of special lasts. Our men who manned the tanks were provided with woven jute soles to their boots so as to minimise the danger of slipping. There were sandals for tropical wear and snow shoes for the Arctic regions. The latter were made according to Sir Ernest Shackleton's design.

THE RIGHT AGE FOR MARRIAGE.

What is the age limit—if any—for falling in love? The young man who, in a recent breach of promise case, said he was only 24 and too young to know if he was genuinely in love, will have few sympathisers.

At his club last week a "Daily News" representative obtained many lively expressions of opinion. One married member, still under 30, said: "There are some people who are never old enough to know whether they are in love or not. If they are the right sort, any time is good enough, whatever the age."

"I can never understand why it is that anyone falls in love at all," said a middle-aged bachelor. "A man's too young at 25 to be serious, and at 30 he is generally too blasé. As a matter of fact, the greater one's capacity for love, the less is one likely to attach a deep importance to any one object."

After all, the best answer to the young man who is too young to know his own mind at 24 is to be found in the Registrar General's latest returns. There it is stated that in 1917 more men married at the age of 24 than at any other age.

TOO MUCH FOR THE DUCKS.

Carlton, the well-known conjurer, is writing his "Memories," and this is one of the stories the tellsin them: "A young matron gave a house-warming dinner to her friends. It was not a striking success, but the guests managed fairly well until the last course—a pudding. This they had to leave on their plates for fear of breaking their young hostess's new forks. The bride was heart-broken. 'Put the pudding out of my sight,' she said to the little maid; 'give it to the ducks at once.' A few minutes later the little maid popped her head round the door and cried: "Oh, missus, I give the puddin' to the ducks and they've all sunk.'"

COMMERCIALISING AVIATION.

The Lawson bi-plane which has recently attracted much attention through its long-distance passenger-carrying flights is one of the largest American machines in existence, and marks another step forward in commercialising aviation. This machine is equipped with two Liberty engines. The wing spread is 95 feet, and the length of the body is 50 feet. The speed is given as 90 to 100 miles an hour, and one engine is sufficient to maintain the flight in case the other breaks down. With a full load of passengers and a large cargo of mail or other material, this machine will climb 4,000 feet in ten minutes. It has a ceiling of 15,000 feet. The Lawson machine has a carrying capacity of 26 passengers.

BELGIAN ASTRONOMERS.

An interesting evidence of the industry and devotion of Belgian astronomers during the occupation of their country by the Germans is the recent appearance of the Annuaire de l'Observatoire Royal de Belgique for the years 1915, 1916, 1917 and 1918. The prefaces of the last three volumes are all dated November 11, 1918, the day of the armistice. It appears that the books were printed in Brussels year by year without the knowledge of the Germans, but were not issued because they would have had to be submitted to the enemy censor. Much current information had to be omitted from the volumes later than 1916 for the reason that astronomical publications did not reach Belgium during the war.

WINTER VISITORS.

To the bird lover the two migratory seasons are full of never-failing interest. Next month our feather winter visitors will be arriving in vast numbers from the colder lands of Northern Europe. Some of these visitors bear the same name as many of our familiar friends, and are, in fact, but hardier members of the same families. Among them may be mentioned the grey crow, starling, skylark, short-eared owl, swans, several varieties of geese and ducks, sandpipers, great grey shrike, shore lark, rough-legged buzzard, and grebe. Early in the month the rearguard of the insectivorous birds will pass from our shores to seek countries for the colder months. Warblers, wagtails, and swallows are among those who linger until the first early frosts of autumn warn them to depart. Missel thrushes, red wing, fieldfares, blackbirds, starlings etc., are among those who take flight with the frost, but their absence is rarely for long, and at the first sign of a milder spell they find their way back again.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

If you had won £1,2000.

As most readers know there was a big sweepstake run at Lille on the Cambridgeshire. The winner receives the very handsome sum of nearly TWELVE THOUSAND POUNDS STERLING. Now suppose it were you who had suddenly received this big access of wealth.

What would you do with it?

This problem has suggested a prize competition open to all our readers. Just write a letter to the "Editor, Post" A.P.O. S.40—not exceeding 250 words and say exactly what you would do with £12,000 if you came into possession of it.

We offer prizes 50, 20 and 10 marks respectively for the three best answers to the question. The reply you send may be as brief as you like, but it must not exceed the length of 250 words. Write your name and unit below your answer in block letters and let us hear from you not later than November 1st. The Editor's decision will of course be final in judging the merits of the answer to the question, "What would I do with £12,000 if I won it?"

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, October 30, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

ALL SAINTS' DAY
SEE ANNOUNCEMENT COL I PAGE 4

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

YOUR PEOPLE WOULD LIKE TO SEE THE "POST" DAILY
SEE FORM ON PAGE 4.

No. 183. COLOGNE, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

COMMONS DISCUSS FINANCE.

REASSURING STATEMENT BY THE CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER.

TROOPS FIRE ON EGYPTIAN RIOTERS.

FINANCE DEBATE.

CHANCELLOR ON NATIONAL ECONOMY.

The important and eagerly-awaited House of Commons debate on the financial position of the country was opened on Wednesday by the Chancellor of the Exchequer. Mr. Austen Chamberlain, who moved the Government motion as follows:—

"That this House, realising the serious effects upon the nation's trade and industry of the enormous burdens resulting from the war, promises its support to the Government in all reasonable proposals, however drastic, for the reduction of expenditure and diminution of debt."

The situation to-day, he said, was better than he anticipated in August. Tax revenues were coming in extraordinarily well, while Customs and Excise duties were now estimated to yield 38½ millions above the Budget estimate. Revenue from tea and tobacco would also exceed the Budget estimates by four and fourteen millions respectively. This was very important, as it was eloquent of the spending power of the people, which is a great factor alike in social stability and revenue production. He no longer thought that new taxation would be required to balance incomings and outgoings.

Dealing with various criticisms regarding extravagance, Mr. Chamberlain pointed out that the War Expenditure had continued right up to the signing of the Peace Treaty owing to uncertainty whether Germany would sign.

He declared no single feature in the present world situation placed a heavier strain on Great Britain in men and money than the fact that peace with Turkey is not yet signed, pending America's decision as to whether or no she will share the white man's burden.

As regards the increase in expenditure over the Budget estimates, Mr. Chamberlain mentioned that Italy and France are owing us much more than had been anticipated. Replying to denunciations of administrative expenditure he declared that if the whole of the organisation created by the war were swept away and the staff of all departments returned to pre-war salaries only twenty-two millions would be saved. The House cheered the announcement that the unemployment donation will cease on the 21st November. With regard to the bread subsidy the Government thought it would be impossible to terminate it immediately.

Proceeding to announce drastic reductions in the Army and Navy the Chancellor stated that between the 1st September and 15th November the following reductions will have been made:—Home Forces by 217,000; Rhine Army by 116,000; Army in France and Flanders, 130,000; Black Sea, 6,000; Egypt and Palestine, 22,000; Mesopotamia, 7,000. The reductions would be effective by the 15th November, while by the 1st December the Army in Mesopotamia would be reduced by 94,000, including Indians.

Naval reductions included five battleships in the Home Fleet gone to special reserve and various battleships for sale. There had been large cancellations of construction orders, showing a saving of eighteen millions. The permanent personnel of the Navy would be reduced by 16,000. All this showed that Great Britain was leading the way in disarmament among the nations of the world.

Various proposals for the reduction of the National Debt had been made. He denounced a general Capital Levy because it was unfair. It encouraged extravagance and deterred saving. It was also detrimental to the influx of foreign capital and if once introduced, even for a good purpose, the public would feel no security against its introduction for other purposes.

The question of a special levy on capital accumulated by reason of the war stood on a different footing. He did not dispute the equity of the absolute principle of such a tax, but the difficulties were immense. However, a Select Committee would be appointed to advise the Government thereon.

The Chancellor concluded his survey by prophesying that a substantial surplus would be available in 1920 for the reduction of debt without the necessity of additional taxation or further borrowing.

"Our burdens are heavy but our shoulders are broad," he said, "and while there is every reason for caution there is none for panic." (cheers).

RAILWAY CONFERENCE.

Negotiations between the Government and the Railwaymen's delegates continued yesterday, the subjects of discussion being wages and various new proposals of the Government having reference to new machinery for dealing with industrial matters and sharing in management of the railways. Counter proposals were made by the men.

There are no farms in England unlet at the present time.

TROUBLE IN EGYPT.

RIOTERS FIRED ON BY TROOPS.

A Reuter's message from Alexandria dated 25th October says that the Nationalist demonstration on the 24th led to serious rioting, the crowd attacking the native police with sticks, stones and bottles, to which the police retaliated with their batons. The arrival of the Governor of Alexandria restored order for a time but later on the rioting broke out again and many police and rioters were injured.

Finally two motor lorries filled with troops appeared. They were pelted with missiles and after a volley fired in the air had failed to disperse the rioters the troops were compelled to fire on the crowd. Two rioters were killed and ten injured, while twenty-seven police are reported injured. Shops and cafés in the affected districts were closed the whole afternoon.

Rioting broke out again on the morning of the 25th and two officers who were chased by the crowd had to take refuge in a chemist's shop. A motor lorry on the quayside was burned. Again shots were fired and many arrests made.

A Cairo message of the 26th states that the railway strike which was to have taken place on that day as a demonstration proved a failure. Traffic was uninterrupted, the men not being unanimous, and few responding to the Committee's order.

Lord Allenby is reported to have sailed from Marseilles on Wednesday. He is due at Cairo at the end of the week. No date has yet been arranged for the departure of Lord Milner's mission from England.

FIUME QUESTION.

UNITED STATES NOT SATISFIED.

There is little room for doubt that the latest proposal of Signor Tittoni, the Italian Premier, for a solution of the Fiume question has not proved acceptable to the United States. It is still hoped, however, that a solution to the question will be found, and it is understood that a further strong appeal has been addressed to the United States Government by the Italian Premier. The British and French Governments are using their good offices to ease what is undoubtedly becoming a critical situation.

WHITEHALL CENOTAPH.

It has been suggested that the Government should transfer from overseas the body of an unkown private soldier for burial in Westminster Abbey as a memorial to our gallant dead. Mr. Bonar Law, replying to Colonel Ashby on the point, said that the feeling expressed on this question, with which not only the Government but the whole nation deeply sympathised, is carried out in a more impressive way by the decision already announced to reproduce the Whitehall Cenotaph in a permanent from.

CRUISERS AND COMMERCIALS.

A novel proposal was made by Sir Hamar Greenwood, Parliamentary Secretary to the Department for overseas trade, at the British Chamber of Commerce luncheon. He said he had asked Mr. Long, First Lord of the Admiralty, for permission to put aboard every battleship sailing for abroad, commercial travellers and representatives of British firms. Mr. Long agreed with the idea, and it therefore only remained for him to convince the Lords of the Admiralty.

BOLSHEVIST NEWS.

The latest Bolshevist communiqué says that stubborn fighting continues in the direction of Gatcnina. A Russian North-West Army report says that Bolshevist forces, mainly composed of sailors and pupils of the military schools, fought desperately in front of their machine gun positions despite the murderous fire.

The Esthonian Commander, General Lardener, says the Bolshevists have obtained big reinforcements from the Finnish frontier and the Archangel front. The General also said that the Esthonian Army would be thrown into the fight as soon as Koltchak and Denikin recognise the Republic.

OUR BALTIC CASUALTIES.

Replying to Commander Kenworthy's question about the total casualties in the Eastern Baltic since the Armistice, Mr. Long stated that thirty-nine officers and men are killed, wounded or missing. The vessels lost include two light cruisers, two destroyers, one submarine, three coastal motor boats, and three mine-sweepers.

PENNANT INQUIRY.

EVIDENCE OF WOMEN OFFICIALS.

Sir Auckland Geddes was the first witness at the Pennant Inquiry on Tuesday. He said that as Minister for National Service in 1918 he was responsible for all policy in connection with the recruiting of women for the Air Force. On the 19th August, owing to the unsatisfactory state of the W.R.A.F. as regards personnel, he sent a communication to the Air Ministry counselling complete reorganisation of the Central Women's Department, with new personnel. He did not then know that Miss Pennant was head of that department.

He emphatically denied that he wanted to get rid of Miss Pennant in order that his sister, Mrs. Chalmers Watson, might take her position. It was suggested to Mrs. Watson that she might accept the post for a short time, but he, knowing her domestic position and what she had sacrificed when organizing the W.A.A.C., told her the suggestion was preposterous, but she said that if it were her duty she would do it.

Dame Katherine Furse, director of the W.R.N.S. in 1917, denied intriguing against Miss Pennant, or having any feeling against her. She had never recommended her dismissal.

Cross-examined, Dame Furse said she did not recollect telling Colonel Bersey that Mrs. Beatty and other officers were going to resign before the resignations were actually presented. She had never entirely ceased communicating with Miss Pennant, but after Mrs. Beatty's resignation she considered that Miss Pennant would never be able to get the best out of the women working with her, and she decided neither to see her nor communicate with her more than was absolutely necessary.

Miss Pratt, formerly Deputy Commandant of the W.R.A.F., described a heated scene which took place between Miss Pennant and Mrs. Beatty at which she was present, Miss Pennant having objected to Mrs. Beatty writing to a member of Parliament about W.R.A.F. matters.

Colonel Williams, who worked with Colonel Bersey, denied participating in any intrigue to get Miss Pennant dismissed, and also denied that when he heard Colonel Bersey had been superseded he asked Miss Pennant to recommend him for the position. He did say, however, that it would be an affront to him if he were passed over, as he knew all the work and thought he was entitled to the job.

Asked if he had organised a protest meeting on the appointment of Colonel Powell to succeed Colonel Bersey, witness said, "There was an informal meeting in my room, but it could hardly be called a protest meeting."

Colonel Powell was the next witness. He said that Miss Pennant told him she was anxious about her staff at Hurst Park, but made no definite statement as to the nature of her anxiety. He did not at the time gather that she referred to immorality, and he had never heard it said that the commanding officers were keeping back reports.

Doctor Letitia Fairfield, formerly women's medical director of the W.R.A.F., said there was no foundation for the general charges of immorality. Counsel for the Air Ministry referred to the report of an officer and a lady being seen sitting on the side of a table at Hurst Park, and asked, "Was any more serious allegation than that made to you about Hurst Park?" "Absolutely none", replied the witness.

Replying to further questions, witness said "It was the newspapers and the public we had to protect the women against, not the men. They were a very plucky and splendid lot of girls."

The inquiry stands adjourned.

CLEMENCEAU'S ADIEU.

ADVANCED AGE COMPELS RETIREMENT.

The following is the text M. Clemenceau's reply to the invitation of the Radical Party of the Lower Rhine that he should stand as candidate for the district in the coming elections:

My Dear Fellow-Citizens,—I am more touched than I can say by the friendly offer you have been so kind as to make—to appoint me a successor to Gambetta at the head of your list of candidates to represent the Lower Rhine. I should be proud to accept such a high post of honour if there were not too many signs warning me that the time has come for the rest which I have not kown for so long. My advanced age—which has, however, enabled me to experience the immense joy of victory—and the consequent state of my health oblige me to retire from political life. I must express my keenest regret, but I add the request that you will allow me to remain morally your representative, and to devote myself as far as my strength will permit to the defence of Alsatian interests whenever you do me the honour of inviting me to do so.—Yours affectionately, Clemenceau.

MAROONED MEN RESCUED.

H.M.S. New Zealand has rescued two white men and one native who had been marooned for 18 months on Christmas Island. They did not know the war had finished, and the white men covered the landing party with revolvers, believing them to be Germans.

LONDON DEFENCES.

SCOTT'S ANTI-AIRCRAFT EQUIPMENT.

Yesterday's batch of revelations by Sir Percy Scott in the "Evening Standard" concern his appointment as Director of the Air Defences of London after the first Zeppelin raid. He states that after fourteen months of war, when he took over the defences they consisted of eight three-inch high-angle guns, four six-pounders with defective sights, six pompoms and some maxims which could not fire high enough to hit a Zeppelin and were only dangerous to the population. The ammunition supplied was also quite unsuitable. He had no trained airmen and no lighted aerodromes.

Sir Percy narrates how he sent out one of his staff, Commander Rawinson, to beg or borrow a specimen French "seventy five" mounted on a motor carriage. Eventually he says, he obtained thirty-four of these guns with twenty thousand shells from General Gallieni, commanding at Paris.

Of the future of the Navy Admiral Scott says "The battleship is dead. The future is with the aeroplane, which is going to develop rapidly in the next few years." He points out the difference in cost between big super-dreadnoughts and aeroplane-carrying ships with planes.

MASTER OF THE ROLLS.

IMPORTANT LEGAL APPOINTMENTS.

Lord Justice Sterndale has been appointed Master of the Rolls in succession to Lord Swinfen (resigned). Lord Justice Duke will be President of the Probate and Divorce Division in succession to Lord Justice Sterndale, while Mr. Justice Younger has been appointed a Lord Justice of Appeal and Privy Councillor.

The vacancy on the Chancery Bench will be filled by the Hon. Frank Russell, K.C., son of the late Baron Russell of Killowen.

REMEMBER!

There will be no

"COLOGNE POST"

on

SUNDAY

(Saturday being a German holiday)

but

DO NOT FORGET

to buy it on

MONDAY

THAT MARRIAGE MYTH.

DENIED IN THE HOUSE.

Replying to a question by Colonel Burn regarding alleged marriages between British officers and men at Cologne and German girls, Mr. Churchill stated in the House of Commons that the register at Cologne Cathedral had been examined. It contained no record of marriage between any British officer, non-commissioned officer or man with a German girl since the Armistice.

GERMANY AND THE BALTIC STATES.

The Inter-Allied Commission to superintend the German evacuation of the Baltic provinces was definitely constituted by the Supreme Council on Tuesday when General Niessel was appointed president. The Commission will break its journey at Berlin in order to inspect the official instructions given by the German Government to von der Goltz and the German troops.

PITCHED BATTLES WITH NEW YORK STRIKERS.

An attempt to resume work at the Brooklyn docks on Monday resulted in pitched battles between 2,000 of the longshoremen on strike and several hundred voluntary workers.

Many revolver shots were fired, and stones, bricks, and clubs were freely used by the combatants.

Scores of persons were injured.

DISABLED A.B.'S.

Under the National scheme for employment of disabled men, the City of London Employment Exchange was recently asked to provide a submarine crew to take charge of the German submarine Deutschland. A full crew, recruited entirely from disabled men, was soon forthcoming and engaged at a weekly wage of fifty shillings.

TRAINING SHIP DAMAGED.

The training ship Northampton, which has been moored for the past six years between the Temple and Charing Cross Bridge, was on Saturday being towed down the river to a shipbuilding yard. Owing to the high tide the ship failed to clear Blackfriars Bridge, and her bridge and funnel were torn away.

NEW CHANCELLOR.

CAMBRIDGE HONOURS MR. BALFOUR.

A picturesque and dignified ceremony took place at the residence of Mr. A. J. Balfour yesterday when he was installed as Chancellor of the University of Cambridge.

The Vice-Chancellor, Dr. Peter Giles, of Emmanuel College, handed the Chancellor elect the patent of election and presented him with a copy of the statutes. He recalled the fact that Mr. Balfour was a graduate of the University and that he succeeded Lord Rayleigh in the office. The University had passed through five very lean years and had no reserve funds on which to draw. They had been living from hand to mouth upon the fees of members. He trusted Mr. Balfour would long be spared to maintain the high traditions of the office and would aid the University to pursue noble ideals which exalted a University as they exalted a nation.

Sir John Sandays the Public orator, then read a Latin oration.

Arranged in his black and gold robes of office, Mr. Balfour in reply expressed his profound sense of the honour which Cambridge had done him. He claimed that his family had been most intimately connected with the University, Lord Burleigh and Robert Cecil having filled the chair in the remote past, and concluded by saying that he knew the Cambridge of the future will be worthy of the traditions which she inherited and will take an even greater share in that development of knowledge which science, literature and scholarship are able to give us.

The new Chancellor subsequently entertained a distinguished company at luncheon.

ARMY STATISTICS.

GERMANY PAYS £1,000,000 ON ACCOUNT.

Mr. Winston Churchill, giving various figures relating to the Army, said that in February he assumed that we would receive seventy millions from Germany for maintenance of the Army of the Rhine, but as we are maintaining a smaller army than was originally thought necessary, our claim against Germany is reduced to forty-eight millions. Of that amount we had received little more than one million in the shape of currency, and that was for local use of the troops in Rhineland, (laughter) but these forty-eight millions would come to the State later.

As regarded expenditure, increases in pay accounted for twelve millions and increases in gratuities for thirteen millions. At the date of the armistice there were in possession of the Quartermaster General's department, stores scattered all over the globe valued at 11,000 millions. Over 250 millions of marketable stores had already been sold or handed to the Disposal Board. There remained on hand between three and four hundred millions of marketable stores which are being handed over in great blocks every day. The cost of salving all this material was nearly thirty millions, which had increased the apparent expenditure on the Army.

Mr. Churchill paid a warm tribute to the soldiers who had been employed in North Russia under such difficult circumstances. He also said that Denikin had been notified that we expected his armies to become self-supporting by the 31st March 1920.

SILVER COINAGE CRISIS.

The price of silver in London yesterday reached 65½d per ounce—a new record. As this is above the price at which it would pay to melt down silver coins there is much curiosity to know what steps the Government will take to prevent large amounts of silver coinage from disappearing, as has happened already in France.

TRADE DISPUTE SETTLED.

After protracted negotiations the dispute in the building trade in the Manchester district has been settled. The National Conciliation Board made an award under which the workers will receive the wage advance asked for on a graduated scale and by instalments. The decision will remain in force for nine months from October 31.

SOLDIERS' MONEY EXCHANGES.

An Army Council Instruction states that after Friday, October 31, it will be necessary for troops overseas to exchange their foreign money into English money before they embark for this country, as the facilities hitherto given at railway stations, post-offices, and elsewhere for such exchanges will then be withdrawn.

M.P.'S TO TRAVEL FREE.

It is stated that the Cabinet has decided to grant free railway passes to members of Parliament while the House is in session or when members are serving on Parliamentary Committees.

The "Morning Post" announces the forthcoming marriage of of Major W. H. Brooke M. C., West Yorks, and Marjorie, youngest daughter of Field Marshal Lord Plumer.

KUT PRISONERS.

CRUELTY COURT-MARTIAL RESUMED.

At the Middlesex Guildhall yesterday Assistant Surgeon W. Fratel appeared before the adjourned court-martial to answer various charges of neglect and cruelty to British prisoners captured at Kut.

Sergeant Ballam (Indian unattd. list) appeared for the defence and said he had always found the accused to be thoroughly loyal. Other witnesses said that Fratel did his work conscienciously in circumstances of great difficulty.

Several other former prisoners at Bagtsche gave evidence of kind treatment received there from Fratel. The prosecuting officer, however, intimated that he is going to take the line that conditions at Bagtsche undoubtedly improved after Captain Crane and Captain Martin were sent there and he asked the Court to pay no attention to any evidence about Fratel's actions after that time.

18th HUSSARS FOR INDIA.

PRESENTATION TO THEIR QUEEN-COLONEL.

Her Majesty, Queen Mary, Colonel-in-Chief of the 18th Hussars, who are about to leave for India (probably for ten years), motored to Hounslow on Tuesday afternoon, accompanied by Princess Mary, and inspected the regiment on parade, after which she was presented with a silver statuette representing a mounted Hussar in the uniform of the Waterloo period.

Major Bayford, who made the presentation on behalf of the regiment, explained that it is the regimental custom to present a replica of the same figure to any officer of considerable standing in the regiment, either on his marriage or other special occasion.

Before leaving, the Queen briefly addressed the regiment on the way it had distinguished itself during the war, and expressed confidence that its record during its coming absence would also be one of which she could always be proud.

GAS EXPLOSION.

FOOLISH MAN'S NARROW ESCAPE

A terrific subterranean explosion occurred at Wirksworth, Derbyshire, on Tuesday when a workman searching for an escape of gas, applied a light to a backyard drain. The heavy manhole cover was blown high in the air and fell fifty yards away, leaving a shell-like crater in the street. Nearly every house in the district was filled with gas owing to the explosion. The man who applied the light was blown backwards but was absolutely uninjured.

REMEMBER OUR DEAD.

The "Cologne Post Fund" to provide wreaths to place on the graves of those of our men who died while prisoners in German hands is now closed, and we print below the total amount received. Mrs. Gresham-Shaw (British Red Cross) and other British ladies in Cologne have put Miss Steel's idea into practical form and wreaths will be placed on some 180 graves of British dead in the Sudfriedhof on Saturday (All Saints' Day).

As noted in other columns there will be a special Communion service at 8 a.m. at the Garrison Church Schildergasse, on All Saints' Day and a special memorial service is to be held, by permission of the Commander-in Chief, at the Sudfriedhof at 2.30 p.m. on Sunday, November 2nd, All Souls' Day.

One subscriber informs us that there are four British soldiers buried in the cemetery at Kalk and it is hoped to deposit wreaths on their graves as well.

	Marks
Amount previously acknowledged:—	6829.50
K. M. Unwin	20.—
Anon.	20.—
Anon.	20.—
A. J.	20.—
Mrs. C. Lansdown	50.—
Staff of H. R. H. Princess Victoria's Club	100.—
Chest	50.—
Pte. B. Smith	20.—
In Memory of H. A. P.	20.—
W. H. C.	15.—
Matron and Sisters, 11th Stationary Hospital	500.—
Once a Prisoner of War	109.50
Pte. F. Glover	25.—
K. F. L.	25.—
Lady Cooper	50.—
Total	7874.—

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

Renewed activity was exhibited in oils, rubbers, and diamonds at further improving values, otherwise the figures in the revised Budget had a sobering effect. As an undertone there was a steady demand for tax-compounded issues, this being the only feature in investments. Foreign bonds were dull. Among industrials, wireless issues, textiles and shippings continued in favour. Towards the close there was disposition to take profits in speculative descriptions.

The feature of the mining market was the demand for Anglo-American Corporation shares on the reported acquisition of the South-West African diamond interests.

Employment exchanges cost during the financial year 1918-19 the sum of £1,600,000

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Representative Mr. A.J.R. LEE is at OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

Has recently returned from London with a stock of hosiery & a new selection of patterns for mufti wear. Officers requiring shirts etc. for the winter, can now be supplied from stock.

SIMPLICISSIMUS
Cabaret and Wine-Room
— Hohestrasse 152—154. —
Twice daily first-class singing and dancing performances. Open from 4.30 to 10.45 p.m.
— For Officers and Civilians only. —

Agrippina Café
Breitestr. 92—98, 1st floor. Tel. B9935.
Artiste Concert daily from 4 p.m.
First class wines

NOW OPEN
Wine restaurant
ZUR "FRIEDENSKLAUSE"
Ursulastr. 14 Tel. B9576
First-class wines. Good cooking.
Officers and Civilians only.

CAFÉ BIOSCOP
Breitestr. 58—60. Corner Langgasse.
Near the Empire Leave Club.
Every day 5 o'clock tea with Concert
First Class Ice Creams. Special Tea Room.
Concert on Sunday morning.

ATTENTION
Hotel—Capitalists
Modern Hotel (which can be enlarged) situated near a beautiful lake of the Bavarian mountains—excellent summer watering place with big future—marvellous place for winter sport, in direct connection with one of the most important international mineral springs of Germany, to be sold. Only first-class applicants write to Direktor O.F. Stappen
MUNISH, OHMSTRASSE 11
No intermediary.

Export of all
Solingen Steel Ware
HANS LINZ
Stahlwarenfabrik-Solingen
Depot and Offices:
COLOGNE, Hansaring 106
Telephone Cologne A 6434

KODAK
Wulff & Kleinholz, Hohestr. 112
Cologne
Developing and Printing.
All Photographic work carefully executed.
— Prompt attention. —

Ladies and Gentlemens Hairdressing saloon
EUGEN HOLLAND
COLOGNE, Röhrergasse 1—3.
Near British Empire Leave Club.
Special shop for British Public.
Shaving, Haircutting, Hairdressing, Shampoo, Massage, Hair curling and washing.
English spoken.

Manufacturer of tool machines
wants connection with British firms.
Apply to K.A. 3320 Cologne Post A.P.O./S.40.

FURS
SKUNK — AUSTRAL. OPOSSUM — SEAL — FOX, in all forms and colours, newest models or, if desired, manufacturing to own design.
No shop — therefore equitable prices
E. KAUFFMANN, Rich. Wagnerstr. 41 I
(near Opera House)

AGENTS
Exportation Importation
Nettesheim & Karbach
Godesberg a. Rh.

As representatives of big Silk firms I offer
SILK AND VELVET
to be delivered over at Cologne.
TERHEGGEN, Commission, C.-DEUTZ
Kasemattenstr. 4 Telephone B 7580

Young women wants situation as cook or similar employment in British Officers or N.C.O's Mess.
FRAU MAGER
COLOGNE-BAYENTHAL, 7III Goldsteinstrasse.

ROLLER SKATES
Large assortment.

Sport House D. JANSEN
COLOGNE, Columba Str. 1
(Please note name and address.)

ENORMOUS SUCCESS OF
"THE JESTERS"
The first civilian music hall party to visit Rhineland.
SIX LONDON VARIETY ARTISTES INCLUDING
Mr.
JOE MORLEY
The famous Banjoist of the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN.
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY.
Mr. HARRY KING.
Mr. FRANK HOOK.
Mr. CHASS LEWIS.
Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage The Jesters. Vacant dates Monday Oct. 27th, Thurs., 30th, and Sat. Nov. 1. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office or may be seen personally at 11 o/c each morning at Amusements Office, Komödienstrasse, Cologne.

WANTED.
Manufacturers Agent doing extensive trade in good class Dolls in London and provinces would like to get into communication with German Manufacturers able to turn out large quantities. Good references offered and Bankers references. Address: to Box No. 219, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

Accordions Sole sale of the well-known International Accordions Chromatic and Scottish pitch.
Julius Lüdemann, Cologne, Kreuzgasse 5-7.

BOOKSHOP & READING ROOM
In the arcade off the Hohe Strasse, right-hand side. The bookshop recently vacated by the R.A.F. is now reopened as a bookshop and reading room. Free to British troops.
10.30—12.30 : 14.30—19.30.

DON'T FORGET TO RENEW YOUR MONTHLY HOME SUB.
Send 15 Marks or 2/6 and we continue to send daily.

ORDER YOUR
"COLOGNE POST"
REGULARLY
FIRST & CHEAPEST
EVERY DAY
—All the news from home
—All the news of the world
—What's on everywhere in Rhineland, what to see, where to go
—All the sport from home and units
—Articles, echoes and bits from everywhere.
TUESDAY & FRIDAY
—Business Men's Column.
SATURDAY
—Photography for all, and other special features.
Great Football Skill Competition. Specially contributed articles by all the big football experts
—Vanity Fair for our womenfolk in Rhineland. The Lighter Side of Rhineland.
LOOK OUT FOR FURTHER BIG FEATURES BY WELL KNOWN WRITERS

THIS (Friday) EVENING
at the
COLOGNE CENTRAL Y.M.C.A.
(44, Friesenstrasse.)

LORELY HALL.— 6.30. Whist Drive.
GREAT HALL.— 6 to 6.45 Cinema; "Tabs and Tonics", Concert.
The First Term of the British Children's School commences on Monday at 9.00.am. Syllabus on application to Dr. Francis.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE:
From Nov. 3rd the Deutsches Theatre performances will commence at 6 p.m. nightly, excepting Wednesdays and Fridays, when they will begin at 8 p.m.

DEUTSCHES THEATRE.
SPECIAL SUNDAY CONCERTS
SUNDAY, 2nd NOVEMBER 1919.
MISS WANDA ACHSEL . . . Soprano of the Cologne Opera House,
HOWARD FRY . . . . . Baritone
ALFRED BARKER . . . . . Violinist
10 marks — 6 marks — 4 marks — 2 marks.

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.
At 6 p.m. Monday and during the week
The Y.M.C.A. presents
A GILBERT AND SULLIVAN CONCERT PARTY
including
Miss Mary Hilliard. Soprano
Albert Hall Concerts Last Season
Miss Aimée Spergold. Contralto
D'Oyly Carte Principal Opera Co.
Miss Gwendolyn Teagle. Violinist
8 times in France during the war with Lena Ashwell Parties
Miss Nora Drake.
Accompanist and songs at the piano
Mr. Clay Thomas.
The well known London Baritone
Mr. Patric Playfair.
The celebrated Conjyurer
Next week — The British Rhine Army Dramatic Company in production of
"THE SILVER BOX"
by JOHN GALSWORTHY.

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
At 6 p.m. Monday, October 27th, and during the week
The London Division presents
"THE CRUMPS"
in a complete change of programme

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA.
32 Komödienstrasse
At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures
Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.
No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.
Grand Orchestra and Pictures.
No: 3 ARMY CINEMA. Hohe Strasse
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS,
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 659. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.

Friday, October 31, 1919.

GUILT FOR WAR.

A rather interesting article appeared recently in "The New Europe" by Dr. Seton Watson on War Origins.

Not so long ago, when the Austrian Red Book appeared, the German Press and public endeavoured to make it appear as though the whole guilt for the war rested on Austria, Germany being merely the innocent second dragged in against her will by her ambitious Ally. Now we have the even stranger spectacle of a Serbian diplomatist championing the old régime.

Posing as an impartial witness who has the courage to tell his country that she has been in the wrong, this Serbian chargé d'affaires appears as a wholehearted champion of German innocence. We are indebted to Dr. Seton Watson for the following details regarding Mr. Bogicevic. Having overcome the initial difficulty of pronouncing this gentleman's name, we feel entitled to enquire on what grounds he feels called upon to enlighten us as to War Origins.

Mr. Bogicevic is the son of a former Serbian minister at Vienna and Berlin. Entering the diplomatic service, he spent seven years at the Serbian Legation at Berlin. Hence we can discern without difficulty the colour of his political sympathies.

The whole guilt for the war, according to our author, is to be ascribed to sinister and irresponsible influences at the Czar's court, as well as to intrigues by Russian ministers in the Balkans. Russia and the Czar are represented as the only guilty parties, and Germany and Austria as the innocent victims.

Recalling to mind the manner in which Germany played upon the rivalries in the Balkan States, with a view to furthering her own ends, we find some difficulty in stomaching this simple explanation of the matter.

Count Czernin's memoirs, which have recently been reviewed in "The Times", make it clear that Count Tisza desired to prevent Serbia having access to the sea, in order that he might be sure of securing Serbian agricultural products when he needed them. The "Pig War" which followed the Balkan struggle was mainly waged in order that the export of Serbian pigs might be prevented, and the high price of the Hungarian article maintained.

All the more astonishing therefore is it that we should find a Serbian ascribing his country's efforts to gain access to the sea as a Russian intrigue. The plain fact of course was that it was the deliberate policy of Vienna to strangle all attempts by Serbia to gain access to the sea; to force her down the Vardar Valley to the Aegean, and thus embroil her with Bulgaria, and destroy the Balkan League.

Mr. Bogicevic is at great pains to prove Germany's desire for peace, as proved by a peace offer made to Serbia through the intermediary of Prince Nicholas of Greece. The offer simply amounted to the maintenance of the status quo, Serbia however to cede to Bulgaria the disputed zone in Macedonia, viz., Monastir-Prilip.

All this appears to us strange writing from the pen of a patriotic Serb. It is, however, understandable when we recollect Mr. Bogicevic's environment and the source whence he derived his inspiration.

As Dr. Seton Watson justly remarks, "Serbia owes her independence not to such equivocal champions as Mr. Bogicevic, but to the moral endurance of the nation in arms, and to the sterling qualities of the Serbian peasant."

TO COLOGNE BY AIR.

It was a glorious morning as I motored out from Folkestone to the aerodrome. There was not a cloud in the sky, and over the acres of yellow charlock in the fields the butterflies were flitting in the sunshine.

About halfway across the Channel there lay a belt of heat haze. The machine in which I was to make the trip was a "D.H. 9a. (two-seater). My pilot was a self-possessed officer of two-and-twenty.

It was somewhat of an ambitious undertaking for me, since it was only my second flight — the first having taken place two years before and lasted but twenty minutes.

We had a false start to begin with, and after rushing up over Folkstone to about 1,000 feet had to return to the aerodrome to effect a readjustment.

This done, we got away again, and after circling once over the town and harbour we headed straight out across the sea for Boulogne.

Beneath us the perfectly calmed sea looked like a sheet of mother-of-pearl, and the tiny ships which one saw here and there upon its surface had each two little streaks of foam spread out fanwise astern of them — the only indication that they were moving.

Just as we entered the bank of mist we saw an aeroplane plunge downwards away on our right, making for the landing ground we had left. It was like a brightly painted minnow, and it seemed to flash into our limited sphere of vision and then out again, with strange suddenness and aloofness.

In less than twenty minutes after starting we were over the shoal water which lies along the French coast with Boulogne down below on our left, and every detail of the landscape showing up with crystal clearness. Our powerful engine was running with admirable smoothness, and we pointed somewhat north of east, as we made for St. Pol and the line of railway to Charleroi.

Exactly one hour after leaving the ground I saw the first line of trenches, and almost immediately afterwards one marked the beginning of the devastated area.

Poor France! up to now the pattern of the earth had been one of alternate brown and light green squares and oblongs, mile after mile, as one flew over cultivated land, with here and there the tiny specks made by teams and labourers. The villages and towns had appeared quite undamaged, grouped about their churches. But now the pattern ceased altogether. The earth seemed to have turned mangy. We flew high over Arras which was very easily recognisable. Then came Douai, Valenciennes, Mons, Charleroi, Namur and Liege.

When passing over some of these the pilot made the machine swoop quite low so that I could see them all distinctly. In the Meuse valley I was sure I saw the Boulogne-Cologne leave train crawling tediously by. How I pitied the people in it

We bumped a good deal when crossing a forest about the frontier, and very soon we were over Aachen heading for Düren.

Exactly two hours after leaving Folkestone I caught sight of the twin towers of Cologne Cathedral poking up out of the Rhenish fog.

Ten minutes later we made a perfect landing on the polo ground at Merheim.

B.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

REMEMBER THE DEAD.

MEMORIAL SERVICE ON SUNDAY.

Sir,—By sanction of the Commander-in-Chief, a Memorial Service will be held on Sunday afternoon next, (Nov. 2nd) at 2.30p.m. in the Military Cemetery, the Sudfriedhof, Cologne, in memory of the British prisoners of war who are buried there.

On this day, (All Souls') our French Allies make a strong point of showing respect to the graves of their fallen, and it is certain that many members of the British military and civilian population within reach of Cologne will be glad of the opportunity of doing honour to our comrades who were buried far from the country in whose service they lived and died.

J. FERGUSON COLQUHOUN, C.F.
for the Assistant Chaplain General.

PRICES IN CANTEENS.

Sir,—Referring to the many letters in the "Cologne Post" on the above subject I wish to bring to notice a case of sheer profiteering.

At the Central Y.M.C.A., it is possible to purchase a bar of Cadbury's chocolate for 45 pfgs., which at the present rate of exchange is about the correct price, viz. one penny.

The price for the same article at the N.A.C.B. Canteens is 75 pfgs., an addition of 30 pfgs.

As it is probable that the cost price is under 40 pfgs., it is hard to understand why an institution which boasts of "Service for soldiers," and which aims to make only a small margin of profit, should make nearly one hundred per cent. on an article.

While granting that the N.A.C.B. does a lot of good work in providing amusements for the troops, etc., I venture to suggest that it is high time that pressure is brought to bear on those responsible for such flagrant profiteering to revise the prices in the canteens generally.

W.F.G.

THANKS TO THE W.R.A.F.S.

Sir:—

"There's a cute little crowd, of whom we're awfully proud,
Perhaps you can guess who I mean,
But they're going away, at least so they say,
So how awfully flat it will seem,
No more will their laughter enliven a dance,
No more shall we one-step or otherwise prance,
But still if they'll wait, 'till we are back home once more,
We'll meet and again dance those dances of yore,
Be it Germany, France or places elsewhere,
Play the game is their motto, and never 'don't care'
You have proved to us Tommies, and we don't care a----
That you may be a woman, but you equal a man,
So here's to the 'Wrafs'—may your future be bright,
May your days back in Blighty be days of delight."

"THE MAD POET."

BANDS IN PLENTY.

Sir,—We are indebted to the Controller of Entertainments for particulars of recent band performances, but she misses the point of the paragraph referred to. What I have no doubt was meant was bands in public. For instance, I would suggest band performances in the open space by the Dom, say on Sunday mornings or an afternoon in mid-week, or any old time, as long as our regimental bands are given opportunity to show their worth. Martial music does us all good.

BANDSMAN.

BOOKING OPERA SEATS.

Sir,—The only remedy for the unsatisfactory state of affairs disclosed by "Fed Up" is, to my thinking, a return to the allotment system, especially as a considerable portion of the accomodation available for the Army, the boxes, is at present allotted.

This resuscitation would give outlying units a fair share of seats, and also, what is more important, units allotting could ensure a more equal distribution and so prevent the same people from getting seats all the time.

MUSARIUM SACERDOS.

BOOKING OPERA SEATS.

Sir,—When are the present scandalous arrangements for booking seats at the Opera to cease? I have now made some half-dozen attempts to obtain them, but up to date without success.

To-day was the final straw. Having wasted several precious hours myself on previous occasions, only to be informed on arriving at the booking-office that all seats were booked, sent my batman, to obtain three seats for my wife, a brother officer and myself, and he was informed that owing to a letter which had appeared in your paper, no more than two tickets could be sold to any one person.

I once again proceeded to the Opera House, together with the above mentioned officer at 14 hours and after waiting till 14.45 hours together with some forty or fifty other people outside closed doors I gave the matter up as hopeless.

It seems impossible for any officer who has work to do to obtain tickets for the Opera and think it is about time some proper arrangements were made to avoid those who cannot afford the time to stand hours in a queue meeting with continued disappointments.

N. O. LEISURE.

BOXING FILMS.

Is "Anti-Box" serious or is he pulling our legs?

"Brutal Sport" he names the art of boxing. Ye Gods, that an Englishmen should harbour, much less air, such an opinion of the sport which is first and foremost English. He says that it "breeds feelings we should try to rise superior to." May I ask why should this be so? Boxing is essentially for sportsmen alone, and in a true sportsman it breeds no feeling except love of clean sport.

Does "Anti-Box" realise that boxing, besides being a sport, is an art? It is the art of self-defence, and therefore an art in which every true man should try to be proficient.

The average Englishman is not afraid of a few knocks. He is a sportsman. The material damage done in clean boxing is practically nil. An eye in "deep mourning", a "puffed" lip, or perhaps a small cut, is in nine cases out of ten the maximum injury received by either combatant. Does an Englishman shrink from trifles such as these? I think the popular answer is no.

I sincerely hope contrary to "Anti-Box," that the Y.M.C.A. will continue to show films of the "Clean Sport." There are probably better men than "Anti-Box," and certainly better men than I, at the head of the Y.M.C.A. and I consider, therefore, that it is not for either of us to criticize what they think fit to show the troops. May I add that I think that what we owe the Y.M.C.A. is Gratitude, not Advice?

GATE.

ARE THEY NECESSARY?

Sir,—In answer to "Dev" I fail to find anything in G.R.O.s. which refers to identity discs suspended by a thin gold chain which would not stand two hours of active service.

By all means carry identification discs of the right kind suspended from the neck or from the braces, but discard the effeminate productions being worn by individuals who had no need to wear a disc even when the war was on.

VI CORPS.

PLAYS SOME PEOPLE WANT.

Sir,—It amazed me to read "Popular's" letter in your paper, because I have not yet heard any "Tommy" say a word against the plays produced by the R.A.D.C., and I visit a great many clubs in and around Cologne during the course of a week.

If he so objects to these plays, why does he go when scores of others outside would willingly give double the price to occupy his seat?

Again, what can he be talking about when he says it is the Deutsches or nowhere? What about the Palace Theatre and the Army Cinemas? Does he also forget the Leave Club and other institutions in Cologne? Then there is the Opera-house and various other German entertainments in the town.

If these do not meet with his approval, there is only one more thing for me to say, that is, let him interest some of his friends and open the rival house suggested.

Perhaps he could then give us that wholesome straight melodrama he speaks of.

G. W. H. P.

PREHISTORIC FINDS.

THE RHINELAND'S CONTRIBUTION TO ANTHROPOLOGY.

Much has been written concerning the beauty and the history, legendary and actual, of the Rhine and its surrounding country. But so far no mention has been made of two very famous discoveries which shed much light upon the evolution of the human race.

In the year 1857, near Düsseldorf, was unearthed a curious skull. It was found in a cavern by the side of the river Dusselat, a place named Neanderthal. The skull was lying under five feet of loam, and near to the entrance of the cavern, further inside, were bones, lying on the same horizontal plane as the skull. Unfortunately the workmen, in ignorance of the great scientific value of these remains, scattered the bones, of which many are thereby lost and only the largest ones recovered.

Upon the first exhibition of these remains at Bonn in 1857, much doubt was expressed as to whether they were actually human. The forehead is very narrow and low, and the bony projection above the eyes is enormous, which is a decided Simian feature. Against this however, the brain capacity was found to be well within human limits and far above that of the largest gorilla (75 cu. ins. as against 34.5 cu. ins.)

Despite the capacity of the brain cavity, the Neanderthal skull is by far the most brutal of all known remains, and is obviously a relic of the time when man had climbed but a very little way from the Simian.

The other bones which form part of the same skeleton reveal many interesting facts regarding the size and strength of the individual. In all bones there are small hollows here and there into which fit the muscles. In the bones of the Neanderthal man, these ridges and hollows are developed to an enormous degree. The bones themselves agree quite well with the dimensions of those of a present day individual of large size, but their thickness is extraordinary.

The man himself must have been of very low type, no very great cerebral development, but of enormous strength, far beyond that possessed by present-day man. No animal remains were found in the same cavern, so that it is impossible definitely to state with what mammalia he was contemporary. Some distance from the spot where the skull and bones were discovered the tooth of a bear was found two years later. Even upon minute examination, however, it is impossible to say whether it is the tooth of a still existing type of bear, or that of the extinct cave bear. This was found on a level corresponding with that of the human remains.

An equally remarkable specimen of human remains was unearthed in the Mauer Sandpit, near Heidelberg, in 1907. This discovery consisted solely of a jaw, complete with teeth, and is known to science as the "Mauer jaw."

The Mauer jaw presents some interesting features. The first is its unusual size and massiveness, and complete absence of chin. The lower jaw slopes away from the teeth in a sharp curve, with no protuberance whatever. The portion between the teeth and the rear of the jawbone (the ascending ramus) is of a size absolutely unheard of in any existing man.

In comparison with the three largest anthropoid apes, the jaw of the orang-outang appears to offer the most similarity, but this cannot be accepted as any great argument, owing to the huge variation in the jaws of the above-mentioned animal. Another feature of the jaw of the Heidelberg man (Armo Heidelbergensis) is the small size of the teeth compared with the rest of the jaw. It may be noted in this connection that the remains discovered in Java in 1891 (the Pithecanthropus erectus) and assigned to Pliocene antiquity, exhibited signs of provision for large jaw-muscles, to carry a jaw almost totally disproportionate to the size of the cranium, and the teeth, when compared with the surviving part of the skull, are inadequately small.

The Homo Heidelbergensis and Pithecanthropus Erectus are in all probability the oldest of all human remains — the Java remains probably being the older and more related to our Simian progenitors.

Thus in the neighbourhood of the Rhine have been unearthed two of the most valuable sets of remains of which science is in possession, the Neanderthal skull and bones and the Mauer jaw.

F. A. L.

AUTUMN.

The brooding stillness of the autumn days
Is like a benediction. All things rest,
And even birds have ceased their eager quest;
They raise an anthem now of thanks and praise;
While over all there lies a tender haze.
And dead leaves flutter softly to Earth's breast.
The sun with mellow radiance seeks the West,
As ever shorter grow these beauteous days.
Who but forgets amid a scene so fair
The swift approach of Winter, dark and drear;
How soon the trees will bend before the blast;
The first chill touch of frost be in the air,
For close, and ever closer, death draws near,
Since autumn beauty is too fair to last.

FRANCIS.

'VARSITY ROWING.

Cambridge Light Fours in Strict Training.

DRAW NEXT WEEK.

Trial eight practice at Cambridge has been suspended for a fortnight, as the President has overhauled all the candidates sent in, and the training eights have also ceased work, so that light fours, which commence racing a week yesterday, are now in strict training. The draw takes place on Monday.

Yesterday afternoon most of the crews were doing useful work below the railway bridge, which part of the river is now reserved after 3 o'clock, says "The Sporting Life." The length of the course is shortened. Instead of finishing at the Chesterton Horse Grind, the crews will only race over the Colquhoun course, finishing just below the railway bridge. Apart from cutting off nearly half a mile, this will avoid that bad bend at the Pike.

On Wednesday there was a nasty north-west wind, which came off the bank in gusts and tested the watermanship of the crews. In view of their experience, Third Trinity are rather strong favourites. Coached by the Old Blue, Mr. G. E. Temwer, they are fairly well together and showed quite useful speed to the Red Grind. They all rowed in the head-of-the-river crew. Jesus "A" rowed a course paced by their second boat, and advised by Mr. Steve Fairbairn, they are quite good and row with plenty of life, as do Christ's, who were out earlier in the afternoon. Lady Margaret, coached by Mr. R. H. Nelson, are promising, but they are rowing as two pairs rather than as a four. Stroke and three are splendidly together.

First Trinity, advised by President I. Swann, were not together and are wisely discarding their swivel rowlocks. Caius, under D.C.H.S. Taylor, another old Blue, are ragged and slow with their hands. King's and Emmanuel are rowing more like clinker fours than light fours. Third Trinity II. are fairly good and can pick up their stroke well.

SENIORS' SPORTS AT OXFORD.

A bitterly cold wind prevailed, when the first part of the Seniors' sports' programme was run through on the Iffley-road ground at Oxford. The results did not reach a very high standard, the unfavourable conditions, of course, having something to do with this.

The best performance was accomplished by Jacob (King Edward's School, Birmingham, and St. John's), who won the hundred in 10 4-5sec., and will doubtless improve on this with further practice. Montague (Magdalen), who won the three miles on Friday, was again successful in the half-mile after a good race with Lawrence, but the time, owing to a slowly run first lap, was very moderate. Yoranovitch showed promising form in the weight.

Second Day.

In the hurdles on the second day, Jeppe, of Trinity, won in 17 4-5sec.—quite a good performance, but one upon which he will doubtless improve. Montague, of Magdalen, followed up his success in the three miles and half-mile by an easy victory in the mile, and, although the time was 4min. 47 2-5sec., this does not represent his capabilities. Henry, of New College, the well-known lawn tennis player, won the quarter without difficulty.

DEATH OF FAMOUS CRICKETER.

The news that Edward Wainwright has died in Sheffield after a long illness recalls the wonderful period of Yorkshire cricket under the captaincy of Lord Hawke.

Top of the bowling averages in 1892, and second in batting to Ernest Smith when Yorkshire stood sixth among the nine first-class counties, Wainwright enjoyed many individual triumphs. He took five Sussex wickets in seven balls at Dewsbury in 1894, and all ten Staffordshire wickets fell to him in 1890.

He made his name by playing an innings of 165 against the Australians, who had Turner and Ferris bowling in 1893, and altogether made a hundred or more 20 times for Yorkshire, his highest innings being 228 against Surrey, at the Oval, in 1893, when he and George Hirst put on 340 for the seventh wicket. Wainwright was 54 years of age.

SCOUTS' CORNER.

The usual meeting of the Rhine Army Scouts' Circle was held on Wednesday, when an important discussion on recruiting for the Circle was resumed. It was decided to alter the time of the "pow-wow" on Sunday to 2.45 p.m.

Another interesting lecture on 'first aid' was given by Cpl. Sands, and work amongst the junior scouts was carried on.

Saturday being All Saints' Day, a visit to the graves of those who died while prisoners of war in Cologne was decided upon, the meeting-place being the Amusements board, outside the main station. The time of starting is 2.30 p.m., and we proceed to Sudfriedhof cemetery by the No. 10 tramcar. A visit to the Opera house will terminate the day.

On Sunday afternoon at 2.45 p.m. a "pow-wow" will be held at the Y.M.C.A., Lindenthal, when Cpl. Sands is again to the fore with one of his favourite subjects,—"Old Scout".

ARMY FENCING.

The Army Fencing Union (hon. secretary, Major H.F.S. Huntington, O.B.E.), have arranged the following Army matches:—

Nov. 19.—Army v. R.A.F.
Dec. 6.—Army v. Royal Marines.
Dec. 12.—Army v. Royal Navy.

The contests will be with foils, epees, sabres, and bayonets, except in the case of the Royal Navy, when there will be no bayonet fight. All the matches commence at 2 p.m., and take place at Bertrand's Fencing Academy, 1a, Tenterden-st., Hanover-sq., W.1.

Charles O'Malley Full for Next Season.

Charles O'Malley's list for next season is full. His fee is 200 gs.

FOOTBALL JOTTINGS.

Exclusive Chat about English Players and Clubs.

By W. Le. C.

West Bromwich are great believers in "direct action" as applied to goal getting.

What would Liverpool give for a leader of the Raybould type? But, they will improve.

Buchan, of Bolton Wanderers, is a brother of the famous Sunderland International.

Chelsea, at the opening of the season, played Abrams at left half. Now he is shining as an outside left. Wilding, their forward leader, now plays centre half, and Halse is appearing as a half back. Some changes!

Gosnell the old Newcastle winger had not a little to do with the introduction of Ramsey (who is performing so well for the "Magpies") to the St. James' directorate.

When you read of Dicky Downs, Barnsley's clever back, being sought after by "needy" clubs, ask yourself what Barnsley folk do. Can they afford to let him leave Oakwellgate? The answer is decidedly in the negative.

The heaviest defeat ever sustained by Sunderland, was 10 to 1 administered at Bolton by the "Trotters" in 1888.

Partick Thistle is the only Glasgow club which has never won the Glasgow cup. Celtic have held it eleven times.

When are Middlesboro to give Bert Mascall, the amateur international a show on the right wing? He deserves a trial.

Muirhead, Glasgow Rangers' left winger, was discovered by Hibernians when playing with an army team in Perth.

Brig.-Gen. Kentish, to whom army sport does so much, was a Captain in the Royal Irish Fusiliers when war broke out. When in France, he would often visit his old Battalion and find interest in its doings on the "soccer" field or in the ring.

Fanny Walden and Sam Chedgzoy both state that the best back they ever faced was Dave Taylor, of Burnley.

Dockray of Exeter City is a winger, who may be seen in Lancashire shortly.

What price Billy Meredith going to Preston North End as player-coach? 'Tis so whispered.

Barrie, the ex-Queen's Park and Third Lanark defender, is working on Tyneside. Sunderland are rumoured to have sought his services.

Tim Williamson, of Middlesboro' cannot get his place and Williamson of the Arsenal who was recently "capped" will have to fight hard, for his. Dunn the Arsenal reserve keeper is a brilliant custodian.

Auld the Wearside reserve half-back is a son of Johnny Auld whose skill delighted Sunderland folk years back.

Tierney, of Durham City, was watched by no fewer than nine agents the other Saturday. Something doing, Durham way!

F.A. CUP DRAW.

The following draw in connection with the Third Round of the Qualifying Competition of the F.A. Cup was made yesterday:

Desboro' Town v. Kettering, King's Lynn v. Colchester or Cambridge, Leytonstone v. Grove Athletic, St. Albans or Luton C. v. Chesham U., Hampstead T. v. Wycombe W. or Slough, Guildford v. Wimbledon, Northfleet United v. Sheppey United, Bournemouth Tramways v. Thornycrofts (Woolston), Clandown v. Bath City, Ton Pentre v. Mid-Rhondda.

To be played Nov. 8. Kick-off 2.30.

Q.P. RANGERS' BIG PROFIT.

The report of the directors of the Queen's Park Rangers Club has just been issued and reads as follows:—

"In submitting the statement of accounts for the year ending April 30, 1919, your directors are much gratified at the profit shown. Since the last annual general meeting, Mr. A. E. Pearsall and Mr. C. W. Fielding have been co-opted as directors."

The total gate receipts for season 1918-19, after deducting entertainment tax, £1,021, amounted to £3,631 while the total expenses only amounted to £2,106, leaving a net profit of £1,530. The chief items of expenditure were: Match expenses, £1,147; repairs, £324; rent, rates and taxes (very moderate), £111; and players' transfer fees, £175.

The profit and loss deficiency on April 30, 1918, was £7,763, while on April 30, 1919, it had been reduced to £4,345. Among the liabilities, loans are shown at £2,539, while players' deferred wages amount to £537.

RUGGER RESULTS.

Oxford University 16; Army 6.

Royal Military Academy, Woolwich 22; London Scottish 0.

Royal Naval College Greenwich 3; United Services 40.

ARMY RUGBY FIXTURES.

Nov. 1, Yorkshire County, at Bradford; 8, Richmond, at Queen's Club; 22, Leicester, at Leicester; 29, Northampton, at Queen's Club.

Dec. 3, United Hospitals, at Queen's Club; 6, London Scottish, at Queen's Club; 13, Woolwich and Sandhurst, at Queen's Club.

Jan. 10, Richmond, at Richmond; 17, Northampton, at Northampton; 24, Leicester, at Queen's Club.

THE MEN WHO SCORE.

FIRST LEAGUE.—Kitchen (Sheffield United), 12; Morris (West Bromwich A.), 11; Browell (Manchester C.), 11; Smith (Bolton), 10; Buchan (Sunderland), 10; White (Arsenal), 9; Gault (Everton), 8; Roberts (Bolton), 7; Barnes (Manchester C.), 7; Butler (Middlesbrough), 7; Woodcock (Manchester U.), 7; Hibbert (Newcastle), 7; Roberts (Preston), 7; Fazackerley (Sheffield U.), 7.

SECOND LEAGUE.—Lane (Blackpool), 14; Cock (Fulham), 13; Bliss (Tottenham), 12; Halliwell (Barnsley), 9; McLeod (Leeds City), 9; Newton (Barnsley), 8; Jarvis (Stoke), 7.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE.—Broad (Millwall), 13; Doran (Norwich), 8; Bovne (Brentford), 7; Smith (Crystal P.), 7; Turner (Merthyr), 7; Whitworth (Northampton), 7; Armstrong (Portsmouth), 7; Stringfellow (Portsmouth), 7; Davies (Swindon), 7.

Sandown Park Stewards.

Sir Hedworth Meux, Sir W. Bass, and Mr. W. M. G. Singer were the stewards who officiated upon the objection to Not Much at Sandown Park.

BRIGAND'S EASY WIN.

Outsider Reaches The Post Six Lengths Ahead.

NEWMARKET RACING.

Wednesday's meeting at Newmarket was held in fine but dull weather, the morning being wet but improving later. The attendance though large did not come up to Cesarewitch day.

As briefly reported yesterday the result of the Cambridgeshire was as follows:—

Mr. J. A. Rothschild's Brigand (F. Crickmore) (25-1) 1
Lord D'Aberon's Diadem (J. Childs) (9-1) 2
Mr. A. R. Cox's My Dear (S. Donoghue (22-1) 3

Eighteen ran, Glanmerin being ridden by Lister.

Also ran:—Zinovia, Scatwell, Rivershore, Planet, Dominion, Roideur, Golden Fleece, Royal Bucks, Viceroy, Glanmerin, Clarion, Aynsley, Tetrarchia, Viviani, Sir Berkeley, Dromio, Graciale, Lady Earn, Mintleaf, Alasnam.

The Race.

There was a good start. When well on the journey Roideur led from Brigand, Alasnam Sir Berkeley, Diadem, and My Dear. At the half way Zinovia was beaten by Brigand who went out with a nice lead and never being seriously challenged won easily by six lengths. Three quarters of a length separated Diadem and My Dear, Alasnam being fourth. Time 1 minute 54⅕ secs.

"FORM" NO INDICATION.

The vagaries of previous form as an indication to spotting winners is once more emphasised by reference to the past performances of the first three in Wednesday's race. The horses achievements are as follows:

Brigand (rec. 22 lb.) ran 2nd to Violoncello (rec. 27 lb.) at Derby in September over one mile with Sir Berkeley 4th in a field of eight.

Diadem beat Freesia (rec. 8lb) ¾ length at Newmarket Oct. (6f.) Won at Doncaster Sept. (7f.) by a head from Quadrille (rec. 24lb), with Brigand (rec. 28lb) a neck further off, 3rd, Wilson (rec. 24lb) 5th of 7.

My Dear (gave 32 lb) ran 6th to Grand Fleet (gave 9lb) Sir Berkeley, Palestrina and others over 1 ¼ mile at Kempton in October.

LATEST WAGERING.

Owing to telegraphic delay, the complete list of starting prices for the horses in the Cambridgeshire are not to hand. We append, however, the latest available anti-post prices which will give an indication of the wagering shortly before the race:

15 to 2 agst	Zinovia, 4-8-11 (t & o)	....	Hunt
8 to 1 —	Scatwell, 4-8-6 (t & o)	..	Barling
8 to 1 —	Sir Berkeley, 4-6 11 (t & o)		Cottrill
17 to 2 —	Tetrarchia, 3-7-1 (t & o)	.	Nugent
10 to 1 —	Diadem, 5-8-12 (t & o)		Lambton
100 to 9 —	Royal Bucks, 6-7-10 (t & w)		Sievier
100 to 9 —	Alasnam, 3-6-0 (t & o)	..	R Day
100 to 7 —	Clarion, 3-7-4 (t & o)	..	Dewhurst
18 to 1 —	Dominion 3-7-13 (t & o)	.	Barling
20 to 1 —	My Dear, 4-9-2 (t & o)	..	Taylor
25 to 1 —	Golden Fleece, a-7-11 (t & o)		Ireland
33 to 1 —	Dromio, 3-6-10 (t & o)	...	Persse
33 to 1 —	Glanmerin, 3-7-8 (t & o)		Pickering
33 to 1 —	Lady Earn, 4-6-8 (t & o)		Ireland
33 to 1 —	Roideur, 4-7-12 (t & o)	..	Persse
40 to 1 —	Brigand, 5-6-10 (t & o)	...	Pratt
66 to 1 —	Viceroy, 3-7-8 (t & o)	..	R Marsh

Other Results.

All Aged Plate:—1, Green Fruit (2—1); 2, Ella (9—2); 3, Shoemaker (5—4). Five ran.

New Nursery Handicap:—1, Incense (10—1); 2, Dark Dawn (5—2); 3 Willblend (8—1). Sixteen ran.

Moulton Stakes:—1, Polydipsia (10—1); 2, Aldersey (10—1); 3, Eighth Division (2—on). Five ran.

Maiden Plate:—1, Bairaw, colt (7—4); 2, Wee Betty (20—1); 3, Brilliant Jester (20—1); Eighteen ran.

Houghton Handicap:—1, Flying Squadron (8—1); 2, Grand Court (6—1); 3, Sangelo (5—2). Ten ran.

Scarborough Stakes:—Kentish Cob (7—4); and Trowbridge (4—1) dead heat 3, King Alfred (8—1). Five ran. (Stakes divided).

RACE FIXTURES.

November.

Alexandra Park	1	Auteuil	13
Leopardstown	1	Saint Cloud	14
Auteuil	1, 2	Hurst Park	15
Saint Cloud	3	Enghien	15
Lincoln	3, 4	Auteuil	16
Maissons-Laffitte	4	Maisons-Laffitte	17
Tralee	4, 5	Warwick	17, 18, 19
Saint Cloud	5	Curragh	18, 19, 20
Newport	5, 6	Enghien	19
Liverpool	5, 6, 7, 8	Auteuil	20
Auteuil	6	Manchester	20, 21, 22
Saint Cloud	7	Maisons-Laffitte	21
Windsor	7, 8	Lingfield	21, 22
Phœnix Park	8	Auteuil	23
Maisons-Laffitte	8	Enghien	24
Auteuil	9	Birmingham	24, 25
Cheltenham	10	Maisons-Laffitte	26
Saint Cloud	10	Newbury	26, 27
Leicester	10, 11	Auteuil	27
Maisons-Laffitte	11	Kempton Park	28, 29
Derby	12, 13, 14	Auteuil	30
Limerick	13

BILLIARDS.

Afternoon.

Closing scores:—Reece (in play) 10 637; Falkiner 9442.

Newman 10 717; Stevenson (in play) 10 481.

Evening.

Closing scores:—Newman (in play) 12 251; Stevenson 11 462.

Reece 11 747; Falkiner (in play) 10 793.

JOE BECKETT AT PRESTON.

Mr. John Mortimer states that the heavy-weight champion Joe Beckett is having a very successful fortnight's engagement at the Royal Hippodrome Preston, where he is sparring with his brother George and Jack Curphey. Immediately after this engagement Beckett will commence training for his contest with Georges Carpentier, when his principal sparring partner will be Jack Curphey.

DELAYED REFEREE.

Protest not Upheld by F. A. Cup Emergency Committee.

UNIQUE SITUATION.

At a meeting of the F. A. Cup Emergency Committee at Russell Square, London, Llanelly protested against the result of their tie in the second round with Ton Pentre being allowed to stand.

The appointed referee not having put in an appearance when the time for the kick-off arrived, it was agreed to play a friendly, with a local referee, short time to be played. During the first half the official referee, who had been delayed, arrived and took charge of the game, full time was played, and Ton Pentre won.

The committee decided that the result must stand, as provided by the rules, but the protest fee would be returned.

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING.

South London Harriers Race for Gibb Challenge Cup.

Over a five-miles course at Coulsdon the South London Harriers held their race for the Gibb Challenge Cup. Lieutenant F. J. Morbey, who is with his regiment in Germany, could not defend his holdership, gained six years ago, and, in his absence, L. G. Housden, as expected, proved the winner.

He led practically all the way, and covered the course in 30min. 37sec., but was well hunted home by F. J. Martin, whose time was 30min. 41sec. Gordon D. Innes was third in 31min. 17sec., A. A. Williams fourth in 31min. 29sec., F. C. Wright fifth in 31min. 42sec., and J. L. Churchill sixth in 32min. 11 sec.

The Blackheath Harriers' five miles challenge cup race was won by B. N. Lymbery, who thus repeated his victories of 1912 and 1913. His time was 30min. 11 4-5 sec., and C. H. Watson was second in 30min. 52 4-5sec.

Herne Hill Harriers.

The Herne Hill Harriers carried out an open three-miles road handicap at Dulwich Village. Thirty-three started, and the first man home was H. W. Payne, G.E.R., with 50sec. start, his net time being 17min. 8sec. He was only beaten by Sergeant C. T. Clibbon (Birchfield), who, from scratch, finished seventh in 16min. 52sec.

In the Road Walking Association's seven miles race at Mitcham, the first six men home were: A. M. W. Hehir (R.A.F. and Surrey A.C.), 54min. 15 3-5sec.; F. E. Roberts (Herne Hill Harriers), 56min. 02-5sec.; R.W. Ricketts (Belgrave Harriers), 56min. 31sec.; E. C. Horton (Surrey W.C.), 57min. 23sec.; R. D. McMullen (Ashcombe A.C.), 57min. 40sec.; and H. Evans (Belgrave H.), 57min. 45sec.

LAWN TENNIS AT QUEEN'S CLUB.

Dixon Plays Remarkable Game in Covered Court Championship.

The following were the results on Wednesday:—

Men's singles- Semi-final: Mishu, Rumania beat Parton 6/4; 6/0; 6 1.

Mixed doubles:-semi-final:-O'Hara Wood and Mrs. Beamish beat Myers and Mrs. Satterthwaite 6/4; 6/3;

Men's Doubles: Final.-P.M. Davson and Mavrogordato beat the Hon F.M.B. Fisher and C.P. Dixon 3/6; 9/7; 6 3; 5/7; 6/4. Dixon played a remarkable game which almost beat his pre-war standard. Fisher was often brilliant but so erratic that this cost the losers the match as they led 4/0 in the second set after capturing the first. They subsequently led 4/1 in the final set after which they rapidly lost five successive games without much fighting.

CONCLUDING SCORES.

Men's singles:— Mavrogordato beat Mishu 6.2; 5/7; 6 3; 6 2.

This was a great fight, wherein Mishu indulged in a terrific hurricane of drives both on forehand and back hand. He invariably attacked, and set a tremendous pace. His ultimate downfall was chiefly due to the temperament aroused in the final set by a series of plucky net strokes, which gave Mavrogordato two games at the most critical juncture.

The mixed doubles final was a brilliant win for the Hon. F. M. B. Fisher, New Zealand, and Mrs. Lambert Chambers, against Captain O'Hara Wood, Australia, and Mrs. Beamish. All four played a fast and furious game, the issue being at doubt until the last. O'Hara Wood, in the second set, had the commanding lead of 4 0. He and his partner then lost five games in succession.

QUEEN'S CLUB.

The following entries have been received for the Queen's Club Members' Class A Autumn Handicap:—N. Haig, C. L. Phillips, M. Bovill, Major Cooper Key, E. A. O. Druce, and A. L. Prinsep. For Class B Handicap the following have entered:—R. M. Roberts, C. A. Hill, O. F. B. Force, W. H. Tribe, E. G. Toye, and J. E. Moore-Brabazon.

ARMY V. YORKSHIRE.

Against Yorkshire at Bradford on Saturday the Army will have the following fifteen:—

Captain C. A. Baker; Lieutenant Q. E. M. A. King, Major P. M. Scobie, Sergeant C. M. Mackintosh, and Lieutenant H. L. V. Day or Major E. G. G. Harrison; Captain G. H. Hedley and Lieutenant P. J. Gethin; Captain A. H. MacIlvaine, Major W. N. B. Roderick, C.S.M. Jones, Major P. H. Lawless, Lieutenant G. Young, Captain L. H. Kitton, Corporal C. Hyland, and Lieutenant D. R. Tittle.

BADMINTON FIXTURES.

It has been decided to hold the London Open Badminton Championships at the Logan Club, Kensington, on December 12 and 13, and the All-England Championships at the Royal Horticultural Hall, Westminster, on March 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 next.

Football Transfer.

Mr. A. J. Dickenson, Sheffield Wednesday, has arranged for the transfer of James Blair from the Alloa Athletic Club. Blair, who was Wednesday's left back prior to the war, had played during hostilities for Clydebank and the Glasgow Rangers.

"P.T." FOR CHILDREN.

Welsh A.B.A.'s Argument for Sport at Schools.

MAKING AN "A1" RACE.

The importance of adequate physical training in British elementary schools, if we, are to build up a nation of "A1" men, is emphasized in a letter from the Welsh A.B.A., which has been sent to every member of the Cardiff City Council. The letter states: "It was considered by the Welsh A.B.A. that if we could interest the lads of the elementary schools in themselves, along the lines of physical development and its consequent moral advantages, we should by means of these evening classes achieve the object in view. In the first place, at a young age the lads, instead of being on the street-corners, would be attending their gymnasium classes, and, with their characters moulded in the early stages of their career, would, when they came to the age of discretion, drift into athletic clubs and gymnasiums instead of idling their evenings amidst the temptations of town life, which dangers we, as parents, all know exist.

"We believe we have the same object in view as the Free Church Council, but we travel different roads.

"We would point out that the Premier of England has already drawn the attention of the nation to the fact that we are in danger of becoming a C3 race. Our object is to mould the coming generation into an A 1 race, morally and physically.

"If the Free Church Council can suggest an alternative scheme that will improve the coming generation, morally and physically, then the Welsh A.B.A. will readily co-operate with them at any time."

The letter is signed by Messrs Tom White (Newport), president; Alec Matthew, vice-president; W. A. Sanders, chairman; and C. V. Sederman, hon. secretary.

CONTINENTAL RACING.

Former Cambridgeshire Runner Doing Well at Berlin.

The victory ten days ago at Vienna in the Rascal Handicap (1½ miles) of a six-year-old son of Sorrento, called Axanos, recalls that his sire was one of the best horses got by Martagon. Sorrento won the Hungarian St. Leger as long ago as 1903, while among the other stayers sired by Martagon were Mazagan, winner of the Goodwood Cup, Balsarroch, who secured the Cesarewitch, and Wool Winder, who, after finishing an unlucky second to Orby for the Derby of 1907, won the Doncaster St. Leger, and was subsequently sent to Austria. Of Martagon's other staying sons and daughters, Musa carried off the Oaks, and Wuffy (first called Pane) scored in the Ebor Handicap.

The Rascal Handicap was so named in commemoration of Rascal, which son of Raeburn was one of the best horses foaled in the now defunct Dual Monarchy in the present century.

I see, by the way, from "Deutscher Sport," (writes "Vigilant" in the "Sportsman") that the well-known trainer, Richard Waugh, who was responsible for the Graditz Stud horses for a period of twenty-five years, before the day when R. Day took charge of the stable, has now established himself at Dahlwitz, where he has a useful string in his care.

Mr. Heinemann's former horse, Malua—who ran second years ago for the Cambridgeshire won by Land League, thanks to the dashing riding of W. Higgs—has done much since he went to Germany to keep the line of Marco in the forefront. At Berlin-Karlshorst the other day, for example, he was credited with two successive races over obstacles, one of two miles and a-half and the other of one mile and seven furlongs.

SPORT IN BRIEF.

F. A. Team Change.

Penn, of Fulham, will be at outside left in the F.A. team to play Oxford University at Oxford next Monday in place of H. G. Yates.

Corinthians XI.

The following have been chosen to represent the Corinthians against Oxford University at Queen's Club on Saturday: N. V. C. Turner; F. H. Plaistowe, G. N. Foster, Rev. K. R. G. Hunt, M. Woosnam, A. M. Wilkinson; F. W. H. Nicholas, H. A. Dupuis, R. Sloley, V. Edwards, H. G. Yates.

Accident Sequel.

Owing to an accident, W. J. A. Davies, the International Rugby half-back, will be unable to assist either the Royal Navy or United Services for some considerable time.

Ross v. Lewis.

Seaman Walter Ross, the holder of the bantam-weight belt, will box Jim Lewis, of Merthyr, at the Hoxton Baths next Monday afternoon.

Transferred to Palace.

T. Barber, Stalybridge Celtic the ex-Aston Villa and Bolton Wanderers inter-league half-back, has been transferred to Crystal Palace.

Deciding a Wager.

To decide a substantial wager, Mr. W. D. Chamberlain, of Plaistow, drove his gelding, Nobby, from London to the White Hart, Newmarket, inside eight hours, the full time being 7hrs. 42min. The gelding pulled up apparently as fresh as paint.

Football Fatality.

Mr. Geoffrey R. Goddard, an undergraduate of Jesus College, Oxford, whose spine was injured in a college football match, has died in the local infirmary. He was twenty years of age, and his parents reside in Palacerd, Tulse Hill, London.

Women Athletes.

The French Federation of Feminine Sports Societies have decided to ask the Olympic Games Committee to include events for women in the programme. Women athletes in France are actively drawing up their winter programmes.

The America Cup.

The Americans have not yet decided whether the Resolute or Vanity will defend the Cup, nor have they selected which of the rival courses, Sandy Hook or Newport Race, shall be sailed.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Fri.	Der Barbier von Sevilla	Rossini	7	10
Sat.	Orpheus and Eurydice	Gluck	7	9.15
Sun.	Die Walküre	Wagner	5.30	10.30
Mon.	Madame Butterfly	Puccini	7	9.45
Tues.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10

At The Deutsches Theatre.

It is extraordinary that such a bright and talented combination as the Gilbert and Sullivan Concert party, appearing at the Deutsches Theatre this week, should not attract packed houses. I dropped in to see them yesterday evening, and found the auditorium less than half filled. The prospect of an indifferent show was suggested as a natural consequence since the amount of business at the box office is usually recognised as a fairly safe indication of the merits or demerits of the performance submitted. I was accordingly very agreeably surprised when there was submitted one of the most refined, varied, and thoroughly entertaining programmes seen in Rhineland for a long time.

* * *

As the title of the party implies excerps from the famous comic operas take up a large part of the programme, which is particularly refreshing and a pleasing contrast from the average type of concert party entertainment with which we are all now so familiar. But the artistes do not depend entirely upon the presentation of delightfully tuneful Gilbertian solos and duets for the success of their performance, attractive as these are in themselves. There is, in addition, the accompanist, a young lady who not only possessed considerable ability as a pianist but also a very pleasing stage presence and a fresh voice thoroughly suited to the dainty numbers she renders at the piano. Then there is an accomplished conjuror whose turn is brightened by a genuinely funny string of pleasantries, and a lady violinist, whose playing is characterised by wonderful tone and precision. Altogether, the Deutsches is well worth a visit this week.

Lecture on the Opera.

All lovers of the Opera will be glad to hear that Colonel Gore Brown is giving a talk on the different Wagner operas at the British Empire Leave Club this evening at 7 p.m., illustrated by Miss Clark at the piano.

German Class.

On Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays, German classes will be given at the British Empire Leave Club at 6.30 p.m., beginning from November 3rd.

New Jazz Band.

The new Jazz Band will play for the dance on Saturday next at 6.30 instead of Wednesday as announced.

JACQUES.

CHUMS
read "The Cologne Post". Send it daily to yours.

FOOTBALL CONTEST.

Coupons must be addressed:—
FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 6,
"Cologne Post,"
A.P.O. S./40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 6.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov. 1st.
Closing date, Friday, Oct. 31st.

Aston Villa	v. Middlesboro
Bolton W.	v. Sunderland
Blackburn R.	v. Everton
Bradford C.	v. Arsenal
Notts C.	v. West Bromwich
West Ham	v. Birmingham
Huddersfield	v. Fulham
Swindon	v. Queens Park R.
Brentford	v. Plymouth A.
Brighton	v. Exeter C.
Hamilton A.	v. Falkirk
Morton	v. Celtic

I enter Football Competition No. 6 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

All Saints' Day.

To-morrow, (Saturday) being All Saints' Day there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at the Garrison Church, Schildergasse, Cologne, at 8 a.m. Names of departed friends may be handed in to the Chaplain in the vestry before the service, and these will be remembered with thanksgiving. The services on Sunday next will have special reference to our glorious dead and the "Christian Hope".

It's Not That.

Some people are unconscious humourists. A letter containing a home subscription form arrived at this office addressed to "The Conscription Dept.".

The Girls Speak English.

How is it that it is generally the daughter of the house who is able to speak enough English to help you out of your difficulties. One would think that with the German commercial educational system, it would be boys who would be the linguists.

No Rations.

Persons in Germany for business or other purposes will not be supplied with rations; only civilians living permanently in the occupied area.

No Stamps.

A great many stamp collectors have been making pilgrimages to the Cologne General Post Office, to buy the stamps of the new issue that were announced. They go away empty-handed, for they are not yet on sale, I hear.

The Scramble.

In these days when the mark runs 120 or more to the pound the act of cashing a cheque is no speedy process. Messrs Cook's establishment has been crowded these last few days.

Panto?

Are we going to have a Christmas pantomime in Cologne? I heard something about one that was being projected a month or two back. Has the notion been dropped?

Dearer at Night.

Owing to the higher wages paid to the workers in German electricity generating stations for night duty and "overtime," current costs more per unit to the householder when consumed after the hour of eleven p. m. It resumes its normal price approximately twelve hours later.

Women Commercials.

I have met several French and Belgian women in the business centres of Cologne lately, carrying attaché cases. They are commercial travellers, I understand, and are booking good orders from the shops and stores.

Dancing Practice.

To those who want practice in dancing I can strongly recommend the Church Army institution in Bischofsgarten Strasse near the Cathedral, where, every evening, a small but efficient string orchestra plays a lively succession of waltzes, two-steps, jazz tunes, etc., for this very purpose.

Sweepstakes.

We have heard of sweepstakes for motor-cars, cameras and the like, but the latest being run in Cologne is that for a a cow. The history of that animal and its category would form interesting reading.

Many British Visitors.

A friend back from the devastated area tells me that Britishers are in great force there. Evidently intent upon seeing things before order is restored. But won't there be a rush next spring!

PROPOSED MONUMENT TO JAZZERS.

Dangerous Trams.

I am told that there are few towns anywhere which have more tramway accidents than Cologne and can well believe it. Its narrow winding streets are the cause. I saw a distressing fatal accident near the Dom yesterday.

A Novel Lamp.

The other day I happened upon a rather ingenious device. It was dusk, and a street-hawker who was trailing his barrow along the Rhine embankment was carrying a lamp—for the double purpose of picking his way, and warning others of his approach. It consisted merely of an empty beer bottle carried upside-down, its bottom taken out, and a candle burning inside.

Warm in Winter.

Have you an observation balloon on your bed? That is the latest name for the huge stuffed coverlets on German beds.

"Gone West."

I have often been asked where the phrase "Gone West" originated from. It came first, I believe, from the Canadian contingents in the war, who must have borrowed it from the Red Indians, who looked beyond the Rockies as the region of the "Happy Hunting Grounds."

Literary Officers.

Among the officers on the Military Governor's and Censorship staffs I hear several possess high literary attainments.

Fairly Quick.

Certain photographers in Cologne profess to take, develop, print, and dry photographs "immediate to have," which of course means "no waiting!" Curious to test the powers of one of these experts, I made enquiries, and learned, to my surprise, that, although the promise was a little extravagant, I might certainly secure a finished picture an hour after facing the camera.

A Festive Day.

The feast of St. Nicholas on the 6th of December is a day of high festival here and those who are fortunate enough to be privately quartered will find themselves regaled with fruits, nuts and wine, and all good things.

A Picture Gallery.

Some very fascinating war pictures are hanging on the walls of the Army reading room and library in the Arcade of the Hohestrasse, and a pleasant quarter of an hour can be spent in looking at them. Among the photographs are "Daylight Patrol." "Seaforths." "A Machine Gun Nest." "H.Q. Section, Middlesex during an attack." "West Yorks coming out of action." "H.R.H. the Prince of Wales asks the way." "In gassed Bethune." "The Tokers of Martinpuich" and the "Worcesters going into Battle."

For our French Friends.

By the way this cosy reading room boasts of quite a number of French publications of interest to both sexes, and a courteous welcome is cordially extended to French soldiers and civilians.

College Rivalries.

In the streets of Cologne one often sees students with coloured caps and coloured ribbons across their chest. They belong to the societies of "Akademiker" or students of the Universities. Between the different societies there is often a strong feeling of hostility, which is used as a pretext for duels.

A Tempting Bribe.

In an Army revue I saw the other night the reward for doing the inevitable desperate deed was a packet of "Kingfishers."

Lights on Vehicles.

I was surprised to find on a lorry journey after dark, from Bonn to Cologne, that the lighting restrictions, if any, are simply ignored by the natives. The clumsy country carts are the chief offenders, and we narrowly missed running into several of them.

When you go Home.

Those who are going into business on demobilization and need good advice on the best methods will find the new monthly "Business Organisation and Management" issued by Pitman's at 1s. 6d., a safe guide. I have just seen No. 1. It is excellent and is written throughout by experts.

Five Hundred Passed.

Another lengthy list of passes in various examinations held in the Rhine Army has been issued. It contains something like five hundred names.

FOR BUSINESS MEN IN RHINELAND.

FAIRS EVERYWHERE NEXT YEAR.

COLOGNE THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL CENTRE.

Arrangements are being made for industrial fairs to be held in the following German towns next year. Berlin (spring and autumn), Breslau (Apl. 25—May 1), Danzig (February and autumn), Elberfeld (Textiles only, Jan. 6—9), Frankfort (spring and autumn), Hamburg (building trade-only, spring), Konigsberg (last German textile fair in the spring), Stuttgart (January). Cologne is preparing to hold a big fair at the beginning of April. At Saarbruck a fair was held in which French firms participated to an even greater extent than the German. Mayence is also preparing. The main object of the Cologne fair is to demonstrate what German industry is able to do and to effect by means of business transactions an improvement in the rate of exchange. Every assistance will be rendered to both exhibitors and visitors. Eight hundred and forty firms have already applied for space in the metal, textile and general exhibition sections.

It is now certain that the Rhineland will in future be the centre of international traffic and commerce. Already it is the pivot of business with the western nations so that the Cologne fair is expected to do much towards regulating this traffic and facilitating future operations. The question of actual location of the fair is a difficult one, and is at present engaging the earnest attention of the authorities. The British powers that be are taking a great interest in all these preparations and have promised to simplify pass regulations for visitors. Austria has already asked for 2,000 square metres of space, and has offered an equivalent space at the Oriental fair to be held at Vienna in the spring. Difficulties of accommodation and the acute coal shortage have been urged in some sections of the local press as reasons militating against having fairs both in the spring and autumn, the alternative suggestion being one fair only in the summer.

Meanwhile British trade fairs are to be a big feature of our commercial activities in the future and already fairs are being organised for London (Crystal Palace) under the auspices of the Board of Trade, Birmingham and Glasgow. Belgium is organising a fair at Bale.

Following our previous remarks on the subject of the marking of German goods, the following answers to questions in Parliament are instuctive. The President of the Board of Trade, replying to questions, said:—The requirements in regard to the marking of German goods are the same in every way as those applicable to goods imported from any other country. They are set out in a memorandum issued by the Commissioners of Customs. Speaking broadly, goods are only required to bear on importation a definite indication of their country of origin when they already bear marks which without that indication would be calculated to deceive. I have recently appointed a committee, under the chairmanship of the hon. member for Wells, to inquire, inter alia, into the question whether the law at present in force in regard to this matter requires any extension or amendment.

For the information of several correspondents who have written us on the subject of taking German-made articles into the United Kingdom, we have ascertained that the forbidden articles are very few and mostly in the optical and chemical classes. More detailed information, especially for those who wish to import for trade, should be sought at the Military Governor's Bureau, but we may mention that there is no objection to taking, for instance, a personally owned camera or pair of binoculars for one's own private use. All articles will however, of course, be declared, and if dutiable, paid for accordingly.

The following list of British Economic Delegates with Allied Headquarters is published for the information of many enquirers: Aachen, British Delegate, Section Economique, 31, Wilhelmstrasse. Crefeld, British Delegate, Section Economique, via A.P.O., G.R. Coblenz, British Delegate, Economic Section, Oberpräsidium, Room 239. Ludwigshafen, British Delegate, Section Economique Francais. Mainz, British Delegate, Section Economique Francais. Cologne, per Courier C.I.P.A., Restitution Industrielle.

The German Government are taking very severe measures to prevent the excessive import of merchandise from unoccupied to occupied Germany.

Messrs Nestle & Anglo Swiss Milk Coy. are now established in their new offices at 98, Hansa Haus, 16, Friezenplatz, where they have a good stock of all their well known brands of milk. etc.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

If you had won £12,000.

ENTRIES CLOSE TOMORROW.

As most readers know there was a big sweepstake run at Lille on the Cambridgeshire. The winner receives the very handsome sum of nearly TWELVE THOUSAND POUNDS STERLING. Now suppose it were you who had suddenly received this big access of wealth.

What would you do with it?

This problem has suggested a prize competition open to all our readers. Just write a letter to the "Editor, Post" A.P.O. S.40—not exceeding 250 words and say exactly what you would do with £12,000 if you came into possession of it.

We offer prizes 50, 20 and 10 marks respectively for the three best answers to the question. The reply you send may be as brief as you like, but it must not exceed the length of 250 words. Write your name and unit below your answer in block letters and let us hear from you not later than November 1st. The Editor's decision will of course be final in judging the merits of the answer to the question, "What would I do with £12.000 if I won it?"

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Daring.—A British pilot flew under Stockholm Bridge.

Good.—According to Mr. Bonar Law, the Profiteering Act is having effect.

Belgium's List.—Belgium is going to ask for the extradition of 1150 Germans.

Plucky.—Two septuagenarian ladies have flown from Brussels to London.

Renovation.—Work of renovating the Crystal Palace begins next month.

Opera.—Covent Garden will definitely open on Monday with Verdi's "Othello."

Herald of Winter.—Snow has fallen at Aachen.

More Premiums.—Argentine is projecting a big lottery loan.

No Medal.—It has been decided not to issue a Peace Conference medal.

A Unique Collection.—The Imperial War Museum opens next May.

The Light Fantastic.—Hunt balls are to be revived this winter.

Rejuvenating.—The "monkey gland" cocktail has arrived.

Royal Tribute.—King Alfonso placed a wreath on the Whitehall cenotaph.

Ambitious.—Willesden is to apply for a charter as a borough.

Repatriated.—Over 30,000 German prisoners have been repatriated to date.

To see the Army.—The King of Spain visits Aldershot shortly.

Hullo.—Switzerland has decided to renew international telephone relations.

Yanks Tour.—American warships are visiting Portugal.

No Gas.—Aachen is without gas on account of coal shortage.

Rabies Again.—A case of rabies in a horse has been confirmed near Bridgend.

Unwanted.—German opera in New York is forbidden owing to the recent riots.

Link Boys.—The London streets are to have a specially trained staff of fogmen.

As Usual.—Croydon National kitchens show a loss.

Boulogne Honoured.—Boulogne is to have the Croix de Guerre conferred upon it.

London's Lesson.—Norwegian police have been forbidden to join trade unions.

Retiring.—M. Delcassé will not seek re-election.

Spurious Notes.—Berlin's police have arrested 24 gangs of counterfeiters.

From Brazil.—Brazil is sending her interned Germans home.

Soldier Servant.—The rush for soldier servants at home continues unabated.

Their big day.—The Cologne Socialists will celebrate the anniversary of the German Revolution next Sunday week.

Four.—The wife of a Great Yarmouth farm labourer gave birth to four babies, but they all died.

Aristocratic Shopkeeper.—Lady Limerick has opened a shop in the West End for the sale of antiques.

Curious Justices.—The latest question heard from the bench. "And who is this Mademoiselle from Armentieres."

The Young Idea.—Children near Blackpool objecting to walking four miles to school held a demonstration.

For Offenders.—Corporal punishment has been re-established in the Polish Republic.

Saving.—Earlier closing of London elementary schools during the winter is proposed.

The Prince.—The Prince of Wales is due to leave the United States on or about Nov. 17th.

Unpopular.—French authorities are taking action with regarded to marriages between French girls and Chinese.

Not Invalids.—Though not discharged as invalids, 500,000 demobilized men have applied for pensions.

How they like us.—Christian communities in Turkey are appealing for Allied occupation.

Epicures.—During rat week it has been demonstrated that rats are fond of a change of diet.

Sugar Surprise.—During the past fortnight the sugar situation has gone from bad to worse.

The only way.—"This is a far better thing than I have ever done before" read a Marylebone suicide's last message.

A Trick.—Discharged soldiers in South Wales are declaring themselves deserters in order to obtain lodgings.

They must Go.—There is an agitation at home against the continued employment of women bank clerks.

For Nights.—Police on night patrol duty in certain districts in Dublin are provided with motor cars.

Anticipatory.—London Corporation has purchased £500 worth of salt in anticipation of falls of snow.

Horseflesh.—There are now two million horses in Germany against four million in 1913.

The Watch.—London night-watchmen now get 10s a night as compared with 4s in 1914.

Cup that Cheers.—Some exceptionally high prices are being paid for tea at the London sales.

Scandalous.—According to Judge Crawford the costs in the High Courts are a perfect scandal.

The new Vocabulary.—It transpired, through the Willesden Court, that "snags" are insulting words.

Herrings for Germans.—Thousands of barrels of cured herrings are being shipped from Scotland to Germany.

Mystery Colds.—London doctors believe that the mystery colds which refuse to be cured are really influenza.

Teapots For Soldiers.—Soldiers returning to Longdon near Tewkesbury are being presented with silver teapots.

A Year Ago.—A year ago the Italians and British having crossed the Piave, were advancing.

A Legal Point.—Judge Cluer held at Shoreditch that a sister of one of the parties in Court was not a member of the family.

He Shuddered.—Asked why the Government did not open shops and sell boots at the market price Mr. Kellaway said he shuddered at the prospect.

No Baths.—According to a medical authority fifty per cent of Tommy's complaints were due to his not being able to keep his skin clean.

Ceratopogon Pulicaris!

You may not recognise his name—but you know him quite well. He's the little stinging fly which is biting everyone who tries to enjoy the evening outdoors. He will not bite you, however, if you always use. . . .

SAPON RUSSIAN TAR SOAP

You can defy all mosquitos, gnats and other pests which sting and bite.

A Doctor writes:— "I find your Russian Tar Soap gives wonderful results in irritable skin diseases, such as Scabies, Eczema, Pruritus, Insect Bites, Acne, etc." The following is the best method of application:— Moisen the Soap, rub it on the part affected, and allow it to dry.

Sold throughout all the Army Canteens at

OFFICIAL PRICE

Do not pay more. Insist on being supplied. If any difficulty advise us and we will pay postage.

SAPON SOAPS LIMITED
LONDON BRIDGE E.C.4., ENGLAND

G.H.Q. TECHNICAL COLLEGE

WANTED

INSTRUCTORS IN WORKSHOP PRACTICE, ETC.

Vacancies on the instructional staff of the above College have now been filled, with the exception of the following who are urgently required:—

Civilian trained skilled tradesmen required with an intimate knowledge of modern workshop practice in their respective trades and ability to give advanced instruction under Officers direction. Responsible for all tools and stores in their departments. Any qualifications held, additional to those required, should be stated.

1. ELECTRICAL TRADES. ONE.

Electrical power-plant construction. Engineer-Foreman qualified in Armature and Field Magnet-Winding for A.C. ad D.C. dynamos and motors etc. Assembly and erecting of these and of Switchboards for power, lighting, heating etc.

2. SHEET-METAL WORKING ETC. ONE.

Tin and Coppersmith qualified in Sheet-metal Working generally.

Other ranks desirous of obtaining the above appointments should apply forthwith through the usual channels enclosing a statement of their previous experience, and at the same time forward a copy direct to:—

THE ADJUTANT OF G.H.Q. TECHNICAL COLLEGE, SIEGBURG.

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S./40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

ATTENTION BRITISHERS. An almost complete collection of War Postage Stamps from the central nations for sale. Price moderate (good proposition for speculation.) Can be seen between 10 and 12 o'clock, and 5—7 at Waldheim, Venloerstrasse 178.

1 GOERZ CAMERAS 9×12 Doppelanastigmat "Celor" f. Portraitaufn. bes. geeignet 1 Zeiss Teleobjectiv Brennweite 45. 1 Camera Rapid-Aplanat 9×12. Jackels, Elisenstr. 18. Zwischen 1 und 3 Uhr.

ONE MONTHS' subscription to the Cologne Post including postage for sale. Price 15 Marks. Have it sent home daily.

OPEL-PHAETHON 5/12 P.S. Leather Upholstery, 4 seater, with tyres, 1 extra tyre, complete in perfect order. Rheinische Handelsgesellschaft, Zeppelinstrasse 9.

GRAPHITE WORKS near the Rhine to be sold at once at 1 1/2 million Marks. Write to 321 Cologne Post, A.P.O. /S. 40.

OPEL CAR 6 SEATER 14/38 horse power quite new and up to date, engine in finest condition and body fitted with all comfort, for sale at Joh. Bachem, Bonn, Coblenzerstr. 6a.

WANTED.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 4.5. if poss. but not smaller than 6.8. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

GIRL FROM THE COUNTRY, experienced in all domestic duties and used to horses, seeks place in English family. Käte Justen Niederembt, Erft, Mudstr. 157.

MISCELLANEOUS.

APARTMENT TO LET to Officer and lady in a pretty one-family house near Stadtwald by small family without children. Pianoforte, Telephone, bath and central heating. Write A 320 Cologne Post, A.P.O. /S. 40.

LOST.

LOST in centre of Cologne or at VI th Corps Club, gold bar brooch, am thyst in centre. Reward if returned to Advt. Manager, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

PERSONAL.

EXPERIENCED cook wants situation in Officer's mess or hotel. First-class British testimonials and references. 20 years in England. Write to G 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

DON'T FORGET THIS

BEFORE YOU LEAVE FOR BLIGHTY.

THE COLOGNE POST
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks. (From U.K. 2/9.)

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

PLEASE WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

15 Marks covers all British possessions.

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, October 31, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

REMEMBER THE DEAD!
ALL INFORMATION PAGE 2

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

YOUR PEOPLE WOULD LIKE TO SEE THE "POST" DAILY
SEE FORM ON PAGE 4.

No. 184. COLOGNE, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

COLOGNE'S NEW COUNCIL.

PROJECTED GREAT ENTREPOT CENTRE FOR INTERNATIONAL TRADE.

LLOYD GEORGE WINDS UP FINANCE DEBATE

COLOGNE COUNCIL.

AMBITIOUS PLANS OF THE OBERBURGERMEISTER.

The newly-elected Town Council of Cologne held its first meeting on Thursday evening, and the usual hall at the Rathaus being too small to accommodate the 114 members recourse was had to the big hall of the University.

The main feature of this first session was a long speech by the Oberburgermeister, Herr Adenauer, who spoke mainly about the future of Cologne.

After outlining a scheme to surround the city with a belt of woods and lawns, he dealt with the commercial development of the city. This part of his speech is of much more than local interest. He said: "The Peace Treaty of Versailles is bringing to Cologne the possibility of economic prosperity. A large proportion of the goods traffic which up to now has gone through German ports will in future go through Rotterdam, Amsterdam, Antwerp and Le Havre. The Rhine becomes thereby of great importance, and the creation of a big commercial centre in North-western Germany is necessary. Cologne will probably be this place. Numerous firms have established themselves here, and several Hamburg import and export firms have opened branches here. We must develop our ports, we must ameliorate our means of traffic, build depots, storehouses, premises for offices and hotels. I intend to ask for this purpose 100 million marks from you. I know there is some risk in that. But, however!"

WAR IN RUSSIA.

PREMATURE BOLSHEVIST SUCCESS.

An official communiqué regarding the situation on the front of the Russian North-Western Army says that on October 29th a strong Red force attacked the junction of the North-Western Army and the Esthonian contingent on its left, the operation taking place along the Southern shores of the Gulf of Finland, a gap having opened between the two to the South west of Ropscha.

The situation was restored by a strong counter-attack which cut off the Bolshevist column advancing southward through the gap and destroyed it, fifteen hundred prisoners being taken. General Pirimikin, who led the counter-attack, then continued the advance northward towards Ropscha, and according to the latest reports, having turned eastwards, was marching on Krasnoe-selo.

ENGLAND-AUSTRALIA.

SECOND COMPETITOR LEAVES.

The second competitor for the Australian Commonwealth prize of ten thousand pounds for the England-Australia flight was due to leave Hounslow shortly after dawn yesterday, weather permitting. The machine is an Alliance biplane fitted with a 450 H.P. Napier-Lion engine. It is piloted by Lieutenant Roger Douglas, M.C., with Lieutenant Ross as assistant pilot and navigator. The first stop will probably be Brindisi.

GERMAN NAVY ESTIMATES.

Over M.18,000,000 (£900,000 pre-war) are asked for in the German Supplementary Estimates for 1919 now before the National Assembly for putting into commission six battleships and six small cruisers and torpedo crafts. The manpower of the Navy as provided by the budget is as follows:— 594 officers, 142 engineers, 580 warrant officers, 3,121 petty officers, 9,097 men, 293 medical personnel, 36 paymasters and writers, and 869 officials of all kinds.

UNEMPLOYMENT DONATION.

The Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress yesterday discussed Mr. Austen Chamberlain's announcement that the ordinary civil unemployment donation will cease on the 21st November.

They decided immediately to ask Mr. Lloyd George to state the intentions of the Government towards the unemployed after the 21st November, with a view, if necessary, of submitting his reply to a special congress.

WILSON'S FRUITLESS APPEAL.

A conference of mineworkers' officials at Indianopolis has issued a statement asserting that a strike is unavoidable despite the appeal of President Wilson, who called upon them to rescind their strike notices. The miners accordingly cease work to-day.

FINANCE DEBATE.

PREMIER REPLIES TO CRITICS.

In the House of Commons on Thursday the debate on the financial situation was continued by Mr. Clynes, who moved the Labour Party's amendment calling for severe economies in the War Services, a levy on capital, and a reversion to the State of all fortunes made as the result of national emergency.

He argued that the situation was so extraordinary as to demand extraordinary measures, and urged that an enquiry be held into the possibility of making a Capital Levy.

Lord Robert Cecil supported this.

The Prime Minister replied to the debate. Referring first to the charges of extravagance he said the greatest expenditure was on the Army and Navy. The Navy was now, however, only equivalent to the pre-war Navy, and by the end of the financial year it will be less than that. At the Armistice the Army, Navy and Air Force had 4,400,000 men. In November they would comprise 720,000, and by the 31st March, 1920, less than 500,000.

Next year there would be a substantial surplus for the reduction of debt. The provision made for the liquidation of debt in fifty years was a splendid testimony to British courage and foresight. He was asked, "Why were men retained for so long when everyone knew that Germany would sign?" "To the last moment," said the Premier, "those at the Peace Conference did not know whether Germany would sign. The majority believed she would not sign. We had to send for Marshal Foch to make arrangements for marching to Berlin. Foch concluded that the Army of the Rhine was insufficient, and we accordingly had three or four divisions in reserve which we could place at Foch's disposal to make him feel that he could compel the signature. Germany knew that. Would she have signed if she had not known it? Had we not done this we should have substituted defeat for deficit, and thrown away in vain sacrifices hundreds of thousands of brave men, merely to make your accounts balance for the year 1919."

"The greatest military power in Europe", continued the Premier, "was now without an army and her navy was at the bottom of the sea. That gave ground for confidence in our financial stability for the future. Great Britain could weather this storm as she had weathered every other. There must be economy but not a refusal to spend money on essential objects like education and the people's health. There could be no greater folly than that."

Finally he appealed to the nation to face its responsibilites all round and above all to remember its debt to those men, who were prepared to sacrifice their lives on the battlefields of the world for the country they loved. (cheers.)

FORMER R.E. OFFICER'S NAME.

At Bow-street Police Court on Wednesday, Guy Harold Unwin, 45, of Gillingham-street, Pimlico, was charged with making a false declaration for the purpose of procuring a licence of marriage for himself and Miss Marie Louise Delphine van Uytven, a Belgian Red Cross nurse.

Mr. Wallace, prosecuting, said that the defendant met Miss van Uytven while he was serving as a captain in the Royal Engineers. They were married at the Henrietta-street Registry Office, Covent-garden, on July 2. The defendant then gave the name in which he had served in the Army, Edward Robert Evans, and described simself as a bachelor whereas his real name was Unwin, and he was a widower with three children.

The defendant, who reserved his defence, was committed for trial.

CHARGE OF STRANGLING A GIRL.

At Tonbridge Police Court on Wednesday Ernest Ebenezer Cosham, of Edenbridge, aged 19, was charged with the murder of Beatrice Annie Dawes, by strangling her in a wood at Edenbridge.

Superintendent Neaves said that he saw the prisoner at the police station on Monday afternoon. When charged Cosham made a statement which he did not propose to put forward that day. He applied for a week's remand, which was granted.

35,000 GERMAN DESERTERS.

The Government has decided that any German soldier who has not recrossed the Russian frontier by the 11th November will be considered as a deserter and will forfeit his German nationality. Up to now only 5,000 men out of 40,000 have obeyed the order of the Government and these are mostly technical troops. The remaining 35,000 men have gone over to the Russian service.

PENNANT INQUIRY.

COLONEL BERSEY'S STRONG DENIALS.

When the House of Lords Committee of Inquiry into the dismissal of Miss Violet Douglas Pennant from the Women's Royal Air Force was resumed on Thursday Colonel Bersey was called to give evidence.

He denied ever having hindered Miss Pennant in any way, and said it did not matter to him who was commandant. He declared he had nothing to do with the recommendation of five ladies for appointments. None was a personal friend of his, though one was the wife of a friend. There was no truth in Miss Pennant's suggestion that he desired the continuance of immorality at Hurst Park. Miss Pennant never mentioned immorality to him nor said anything implying it. She never even mentioned difficulties.

Counsel: So Miss Pennant invented the discussion with you about Hurst Park? Colonel Bersey: It never happened.

Continuing his evidence Colonel Bersey, said that when Miss Pennant was appointed to the office the organisation was inadequate and she made improvements, but he denied ever having said that he was "fed up" with her owing to her many schemes. He possibly did tell Miss Pennant that he had promised five ladies certain appointments and she did not approve of them.

Mrs. Beatty was the next witness. She said she was in charge of probationary officers. She related a conversation she had with another officer—Mrs. Unwin—who said to her, "She treats me like a scullery maid. She cannot be a lady."

Witness added that she promptly assented to this.

Cross-examined, she admitted resigning from the Women's Volunteer Reserve with five other officers, adding, "I am afraid history has repeated itself."

General Brancker was then heard. He said Lord Weir and Sir Godfrey Paine both told him of their dissatisfaction with things. Lord Weir asked him first of all to find out what was going wrong, and Sir Godfrey Paine told him that he had got rid of Colonel Bersey because he thought that that officer and Miss Pennant were unable to get on together. Sir Godfrey added, "Well, I don't know how long she will last with you, old boy" (laughter.) Miss Pennant told him, continued General Brancker, that a good deal of the existing trouble might be due to the fact that her station in life was considerably better than those with whom she had to deal. She was intensely earnest and hard-working but ineffective.

With reference to the allegations of immorality at Hurst Park he had ordered the arrest of Colonel Janson but the order was afterwards quite rightly countermanded. In his opinion Colonel Janson had out-soldiered the "regular" soldier inasmuch as the condition of his men was admirable. He was a very efficient officer.

Witness declared that all the allegations about intrigue were absolute nonsense. He denied the allegations of immorality levelled against the W.R.A.F.'s and pointed out that the examination had proved that immorality was only conspicuous by its absence. He had never commanded a body of men and women with higher ideals or less crime.

The inquiry was adjourned.

LARKIN'S PASSPORT.

THREATENED GENERAL STRIKE IN IRELAND.

The Labour Party in Dublin may call a general stoppage of work throughout Ireland as a protest against the action of the Government in withholding passports from James Larkin for his return to Ireland from the United States. At a meeting of trade union delegates in Dublin on Monday night a majority was in favour of a 24 hours' strike, but a decision was deferred until next Tuesday.

NO CIVILIAN TRAINS ON SUNDAYS.

Commencing on Sunday, Nov. 2, no civilian trains will run to and from Cologne on Sundays.

The International trains, Cologne-Paris and Cologne-Ostend, will run both to and from Cologne.

MEMORIAL TO LONDON TROOPS.

A meeting of the Joint Committee representing the City and County of London of the Lord Mayor's Fund for the recent march through the Metropolis of the London troops engaged in the war and for a memorial to those who have fallen, was held at the Mansion House on Wednesday. The Lord Mayor presided.

The committee approved of the proposed memorial at the Royal Exchange, designed by Sir Aston Webb, P.R.A. It consists of a square Portland stone pillar, surmounted by a lion with panels bearing the names of the regiments, the principal battles and other details. On either side would be a statue of a soldier in marching order. The cost would be £7,000.

COST OF 8-HOUR DAY.

With the adoption of the eight-hour day on the London omnibus services, tramways, and railways operated by the Underground, an additional expenditure, we are officially informed, is incurred of nearly £700,000 per annum. Approximately, an addition of 20 per cent. to the staff is required to work the services.

ANARCHIST PLOT.

TERRIBLE CONSPIRACY DISCOVERED.

A telegram from Cleveland, Ohio, states that five men and one woman have been arrested by the police in four simultaneous raids on suspicion of plotting the destruction of the central police station.

These arrests are the first results of the discovery of a plot to terrorise the nation by a series of bomb explosions in the coming spring. The suspected persons are stated to be members of a group of anarchists which has been working in more than a hundred cities, and it is almost certain that the mysteries of the bomb outrages last June will now be be solved. Together with the prisoners the police secured a quantity of high explosives, bombs, pistols, and anarchist literature.

TOWN'S PENNY RATE.

SEQUEL TO ANTI-GERMAN RIOT.

At Cornwall Assizes on Wednesday Mr. Justice Darling heard a case in which a girl of eighteen, named Florence Alexandria Richards, pleaded guilty to feloniously setting fire to a coachhouse in the possession of Mr. George Poole, Mayor of Penzance, on June 30.

It was stated on behalf of the defence that there had been considerable feeling in the town regarding a naturalised German who, after being interned, had returned to Penzance to resume business. Certain discharged soldiers became possessed of the idea that the authorities had been lax in this matter. The man's house was raided, and the damage committed was such that the compensation necessitated an additional penny rate.

Mr. Justice Darling—A penny rate for the whole of Penzance for his benefit.

Counsel, continuing, said that the prisoner, who was in the service of the Mayor, maintained that an ex-soldier who had been acquitted as an accomplice had instigated her to commit the offence. His lordship expressed the conviction that the prisoner did not commit the offence "out of her own head," and ordered her to be bound over to come up for judgment if called on.

THE NEXT NUMBER of the

"COLOGNE POST"

will be issued on

MONDAY.

ENGLISHWOMAN KILLED BY A NEGRO.

An Englishwoman, Mrs. Arthur Giles, was stabbed to death in a busy street in Brantford (Ontario) by a negro, named George Jones, on Wednesday.

The murder was committed in the presence of witnesses, old and young, of both sexes. The negro chased the woman out of her house, followed her into the street, and inflicted wounds with a long knife. He had been paying attentions to the woman, and the police allege that the pair eloped six weeks ago.

After the murder the negro was beaten into insensibility by a bystander before the police arrived.

BRITISH TROOPS IN RUSSIA.

Mr. Forster, replying to Lieutenant Commander Kenworthy (L, Hull, C.), said that there were in Siberia 190 British officers and 340 other ranks; in South Russia, 356 officers and 1,102 other ranks; Baltic States Mission, 44 officers and 54 other ranks; and a detachment of the Tank Corps engaged in instructing Russians—22 officers and 29 other ranks. The withdrawal of the latter detachment has been ordered.

DANGEROUS PLAYTHINGS.

Over two hundred fully-charged detonators have been discovered scattered here and there in a part of Aberdeen near the Joint Railway Station. One in the possession of a messenger boy exploded inside the station. There was a serious explosion, and another lad was stunned. Schoolboys were found carrying these detonators without being aware of their dangerous character.

EARLY SCHOOL HOURS IN WINTER

The London Education Committee is to consider a proposal to close the elementary schools earlier during the winter months. The afternoon session in L.C.C. and non-provided ordinary elementary schools and centres would be from 1.30 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the senior departments and 1.30 p.m. to 3.30 p.m. in the infants' departments, from the first Monday in November until the last Friday in January.

GRENADIERS RECRUITING.

It is desired to bring the Grenadier Guards up to full strength at an early date. The Grenadiers used to average over 6ft. 2in. in height, but to-day, owing to the ravages of war, few of them are over 6ft. and the weight falls considerably below the pre-war standard.

THE LIE DIRECT.

LABOUR MEMBER'S ODIOUS COMPARISON.

It will be remembered that an American journalist named Bullitt recently declared that he was asked to go to Russia to ascertain on what terms the Soviet Government was willing to conclude Peace, and that the terms, although eminently favourable, were refused consideration by the Council of Four. His version of the happenings included an alleged breakfast with peace delegates and accounts of various conversations which gave his story an air of verisimilitude.

In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. W. Lunn (Lab., Rothwell) elicited a categorical denial of the American's story. Mr. Lunn asked: "Am I to understand that the narrative of the American journalist Bullitt is a tissue of lies, including the statement regarding the breakfast he says he was invited to attend?"

Mr. Bonar Law replied that the statement made by Mr. Bullitt was so absolutely inaccurate as to deserve the epithet applied to it by the Prime Minister.

Mr. J. C. Swan (Lab., Barnard Castle) asked what steps are being taken by the Government to get a reply from Mr. Bullitt, admitting that there was no truth in his statement, so that members may be able to appreciate the veracity of the Prime Minister's statement.

Mr. Bonar Law replied: "Any members who wish to pit the assertions of this gentleman against those of the Prime Minister must take their own method."

"HOMOPHONES."

POET LAUREATE ON PURE ENGLISH.

The Poet Laureate, Dr. Bridges, fears that public school pronunciation is ruining our language. He has written a short tract for the "Society of Purer English," of which he is a member, on English "homophones," or words which are pronounced alike although they differ in meaning. One of his axioms is that languages are faulty in proportion to the number of homophones they contain.

He attributes the large number of homophones to the prevalence of the Southern English standard of speech which is used by public schools and fashionable society generally.

One pronouncing dictionary gives over 800 ambiguous English words.

PLAGUE IN PORT OF LONDON.

EIGHT CASES AND ONE DEATH.

The Ministry of Health have been notified of cases of plague on the steamer Nagoya. The ship arrived in the Port of London on Saturday, and the Assistant Medical Officer of Health found that six cases of an illness which he regarded as plague had occurred among the native crew.

The diagnosis of plague has been confirmed by the bacteriologist of the Ministry from material obtained from the second case. The vessel is being disinfected by the Port Sanitary Authority and all necessary precautions have been taken

DAYLIGHT ROBBERIES.

There was a daring robbery on Monday afternoon at the sub-post office at Aston Manor, Birmingham. A landau was driven up in broad daylight, and the driver entered the premises, and, reappearing with the safe, which contained about £400, drove away.

In Eglinton-street, Glasgow, yesterday two men entered a jeweller's shop, and when the proprietor, aged 64, put his head from behind to see who was there, felled, bound, and tied him to a chair. The safe was then rifled, and gold and silver watches were carried off, the miscreants getting clear away.

GERMAN DUMP EXPLODED.

A terrific explosion of munitions—chiefly gas shells—occurred at a depot near Munsterlager on the 24th. So great was the quantity of deadly gas liberated that troops and civilians had to wear gas masks. All trains ceased running, and two villages were completely untenable and had to be evacuated.

For several days it was impossible to approach the depot owing to the fire which started, and the constant explosion of shells. The cause of the explosion is unknown at present, but it is variously attributed to Spartacists or to discontented workmen involved in a labour dispute.

PRINCE AT MONTREAL.

The Prince of Wales was accorded a magnificent welcome on his return visit to Montreal. The people several times broke through the cordon of police and soldiers. Speaking at a civic luncheon the Prince emphasised the importance of a close union between the French and British races in Canada.

KIDNAPPED CONSUL FREE.

Mr. Jenkins, the American Consular agent who was kidnapped by Mexican bandits at Pueblo, in Mexico, and held to ransom, has been released.

KUT COURT-MARTIAL.

WITNESSES CONCLUDE THEIR EVIDENCE.

The Court-martial on the Eurasian Assistant Surgeon W. Fratel, who is charged with neglect and cruelty to British prisoners, reached its penultimate stage yesterday.

Captain Keeling, who after the Armistice was sent to Mesopotamia to investigate hospital conditions which had prevailed during the war, said he received many complaints against the German and Armenian doctors but none against the accused.

After speeches by the accused, his counsel, and counsel for the prosecution, the Court adjourned. The judge-advocate will deliver his summing up to-day.

STORE OF EXPLOSIVES.

REMARKABLE POLICE DISCOVERY

The police, while searching a tenement house in Thomas-street, Cork, for stolen property, found under a bundle of rags between thirty and forty sticks of gelignite, sufficient to blow up the entire district, and sixty rounds of service ammunition. The authorities regard the present find as one of great importance.

ALLIED BATTLESHIPS.

Commander Viscount Curzon asked the First Lord of the Admiralty how many capital ships were now in full commission belonging to the United States of America, France, Italy, Japan, and the British Empire. Mr. Long.—The figures asked for are as follows:—United States of America, 28; France, possibly three; Japan, 16; Italy, seven (possibly fewer); British Empire, 18. These figures, with the exception of the British, are necessarily approximate.

BRITISH PRISONERS SHOT.

The commission to inquire into complaints regarding the treatment of prisoners of war in Germany in contravention of international law held a public sitting yesterday. The cases to be dealt with include the shooting of a British prisoner named Cafferey, the wounding of a British prisoner named Bennett in Muecheln, and the shooting of the two Irishmen, named respectively Moran and Devlin, in the Limburg Camp.

FUTURE BAGDAD EXPRESS.

Sir Arthur Fell, M.P., speaking at the Aldwych Club yesterday, claimed that the War Cabinet was in favour of the Channel Tunnel, although they would not make an open declaration in Parliament.

He prophesied that within the next 15 years there would be a Bagdad express starting every day from Charing-cross.

REMEMBER OUR DEAD.

We have received further contributions towards this fund and have thus been able to provide a large wreath to stand in the British Military Cemetery wherein lie the remains of those of our soldiers who have died while serving in the Army of Occupation.

The fund is now closed, and an account of its disposal will be given in "The Cologne Post" when ready.

	Marks.
Amount previously acknowledged:—	7874.—
R.F.W.	100.—
Brigadier-General and Mrs. H.S. Rogers	50.—
Ex. P.O.W.	50.—
W.B.	10.—
Salvation Army	100.—
Voluntary Workers at the British Empire Leave Club	835.—
44 Casualty Clearing Station:—
Matron and Sisters	600.—
Officers	350.—
V.A.D.s	75.—
Patients and Personnel	641.—
Total:	10585.—

Readers are reminded that a Memorial Service will be held at the British Military Cemetery in the Südfriedhof at 2.30 p.m. to-morrow, Sunday.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

The speech of the Chancellor of the Exchequer had a steadying effect on 'change yesterday. Investments were somewhat overshadowed by pending new extensive industrial capital issues. There was a fresh outburst of activity amongst speculatives, notably in oils, and diamonds, which fluctuated frequently but finished firm. Shippings were brisk under the lead of the Peninsular and Oriental, which rose to 670 on the announcement of a dividend of 12 % per annum, also the distribution of £200,000 of deferred stock to deferred stock holders, this constituting a substantial bonus. Rubbers hardened and lower priced shares increased in demand. Russians were depressed by the news from Russia. The high record price of silver, 66½d per ounce, was maintained, a figure at which it is no longer profitable to mint British coins. The continuance of the high price of silver depends entirely on China buying, which is the key to the whole situation.

War Savings Certificates sold during the week ended October 18 numbered 1,410,213, bringing the total to 366,607,303.

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Representative Mr. A.J.R. LEE is at OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

Has recently returned from London with a stock of hosiery & a new selection of patterns for mufti wear. Officers requiring shirts etc. for the winter, can now be supplied from stock.

SERVUS Viennese wine room Marspfortengasse 7 near Hohestrasse between Obenmarspforten and Höhle. CONCERT DAILY
Viennese cooking. — First class wine. FOR OFFICERS AND CIVILIANS ONLY.

COLOGNE, Bürgergesellschaft
MODERN CONCERT
TWO PIANOS AND SONGS
Wednesday, 5th Nov. 1919, 7.30 p.m.
Frau Olga Bölsche | Piano
Frl. Sophie Moser |
Engelbert Haas, Baritone
Accompaniment:
Prof. v. Othegraven. Fritz Fleck
at Ibach grand piano
Tickets 6.90, 5. 0, 4.40, 2.30
at Tonger's, am Hof 30 and Könemann, Rudolfsplatz 4

BACKHAUS
plays
on MONDAY 3rd Nov. 7.30 p.m.
at the Bürgergesellschaft

Visit the British Shop in Cologne
Miss EDITH CAVE'S
Etablishment, 84 Hohenzollern Ring
The best place for Souvenirs, Stationery and Military supplies of every description.
Tram 18 passes the door.

Binoculars
at original factory prices of the firms
ZEISS
GOERZ
LEITZ
PHOTO
Cameras — Plates
Roll-Films—Pack-Films
SLIDE RULES
MICROSCOPES
ZEISS-PUNKTAL-GLASSES
for rimless glasses and spectacles.
The best for the eyes.
OPTICAL Institute S. Goldfinger Limited
founded 1869
Hohestr. 88 COLOGNE Hohestr. 88
On parle français. English spoken.

SIB MÜLLER
Leather - Travelling - Articles
COLOGNE
Corner Andreaskloster opposite the Officer's Club (Ewige Lampe) undertakes all repairs.

NÜCHEL & HILLEBRECHT
COLOGNE, Glockengasse, corner Krenzgasse, close Schauspielhaus. Tel. A 5566
UNIFORM MAKERS
MILITARY OUTFITS
Manufacture of all Uniforms for the Army of Occupation. First-class References.

Manufacturer of tool machines
wants connection with British firms.
Apply to K.A. 3320 Cologne Post A.P.O./S.40.

PHOTO SHOP
FRANZ MÜLLER
COLOGNE, Brückenstr. 7
Tel. A 6173
The oldest shop for amateur photography in Cologne
ENGLISH EXPOMETERS
Speciality: All photographic work and repairs are carefully executed and promptly attended tow.

British Empire LEAVE CLUB
Hon. Dir. Gen., Miss Decima Moore, C.B.E.

ENTERTAINMENTS

Sunday TO-MORROW, Nov. 2nd.
SPECIAL CINEMA
Continuous Performance from 2.30 p.m.
6.30 p.m. SING-SONG in the MUSIC ROOM.
Vocalists:—Mrs. SHORTEN, MISS JAMIESON, L/Cpl. HUGH WILLIAMS, L/Cpl. RUSHTON and others.

PROGRAMME for the WEEK.
Monday Nov. 3rd.—DANCE.
Tuesday Nov. 4th—THEATRICAL PERFORMANCE and CONCERT. "The Impertinence of the Creature" and "The Bath-room Door."
Wednesday Nov. 5th—DANCE.
Thursday Nov. 6th—WHIST DRIVE. CHESS TOURNAMENT. 6.30 p.m. DANCING CLASS followed by PRACTICE DANCE.
Friday Nov. 7th — CONTINUOUS CINEMA.
Saturday Nov. 8th—DANCE.

CINEMA
EVERY DAY. From 2.30 p.m.
Admission 2 Marks.
NOTE. GERMAN CLASS free. Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday, beginning from Nov. 3rd.

Gold Krone
EKS
Registered Mark
Ewald Kron, Solingen
Special Razor Manufacturers
Tel. 1934 Telegr.-Address: Goldkrone Solingen
Registered EKS Trade Mark
First quality only. Guarantee with each article. To be obtained in all good shops.

Church of England Services in Cologne.

THE GARRISON CHURCH (Schildergasse.
All Saints Sunday, Nov. 2nd 1919.
Holy Communion: 8.00, 11.30, 19.00.
Parade Service. 10.30. Rev. J.D.S. Parry Evans, A.C.G. Rhine Army.
Afternoon Service 14.30 (at the Sudfriedhof Cemetery) Commemoration of the Fallen.
Evening Service. 18.00.
This Service will be offered as a Tribute to our glorious dead.
Preacher: Rev. J. Ferguson Colquhoun C. F.

THE CHURCH ARMY CHAPEL
Hotel du Nord.
Sundays: Holy Communion, 8 a.m.

Church of England Services in Bonn

IN GARRISON CHURCH, BONN.
SUNDAYS: Holy Communion 7-30, 8-00, 11-45, and 18-45 hours.
Parade Service (Corps) at 10-00 hours.
Parade Service (Div.) at 11-00 hours.
Evening Service at 18-00 hours.
Organ Recital every Sunday from 17-45 to 18-00 hours.
WEEK-DAYS: Holy Communion Daily 7-45 hours.
exeepting on Thursday when it is at 10-30 hours.
Evening Prayers at 18.00 hours excepting on Thursday.

IN BEETHOVEN-HALL, BONN.
SUNDAYS: Evening Service at 18-30 hours followed by celebration of Holy Communion at 19.30 hours.

Special Requiem Mass.

ON SUNDAY MORNING (ALL SOULS' DAY) A REQUIEM MASS WILL BE CELEBRATED AT THE GARRISON CHURCH (MINORITEN STRASSE) At 10 a. m. for the repose of the Souls of British Soldiers who have fallen in the War; and at 9 a. m. on Monday morning in same Church, for all Allied Soldiers who have fallen.

Catholic Services in Cologne on Sundays.

COLOGNE, CATHEDRAL
Mass in Cathedral at 8 a.m. (north Transept) High Mass in Cathedral at 9-15 a.m.
Parade Mass in Minoritenkirche (Minoritenstr.), 2 minutes from Cathedral at 10 a.m.
Rosary and Benediction in Minoritenkirche at 7 p.m. Confessions in Cathedral on Saturdays from 5—7 p.m.
EHRENFELD. Church at the junction of Mechteren Strasse and Vogelsanger Strasse:—
Mass on Sundays 9 15 a.m. Confessions on Saturdays 5 p.m.
LINDENTHAL. Chapel of the Hospital in Josef Stelzmann Strasse—continuation of Giebel Strasse:—
Mass on Sundays 10.30 a.m. Confessions on Saturdays 5 p.m.

Scottish Churches and English Free Churches.

THE MILITARY CHURCH.
6 Filzengraben (Turning off Heumarkt.)
Sunday, 2nd November
11 a.m. and 6 p.m.
Preacher: Rev. G. A. SEATH, C. F. (Garrison Chaplain).
Cars Nos. 6, 7, 11, 18 and 20.

Welsh Service 2—30 p.m. in Y.M.C.A. Central.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE:
From Nov. 3rd the Deutsches Theatre performances will commence at 6 p.m nightly, excepting Wednesdays and Fridays, when they will begin at 8 p.m.

DEUTSCHES THEATRE.
SPECIAL SUNDAY CONCERTS
SUNDAY, 2nd NOVEMBER 1919.
MISS WANDA ACHSEL . . . Soprano of the Cologne Opera House,
HOWARD FRY . . . . . Baritone
ALFRED BARKER . . . . . Violinist
10 marks — 6 marks — 4 marks — 2 marks.

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.
Last Concert to-night of The Y.M.C.A.
GILBERT AND SULLIVAN CONCERT PARTY
including
Miss Mary Hilliard. Soprano
Albert Hall Concerts Last Season
Miss Aimée Sheergold. Contralto
D' Oyly Carte Principal Opera Co.
Miss Gwendolyn Teagle. Violinist
8 times in France during the war with Lena Ashwell Parties
Miss Nora Drake.
Accompanist and songs at the piano
Mr. Clay Thomas.
The well known London Baritone
Mr. Patric Playfair.
The celebrated Conjyurer
Next week—The British Rhine Army Dramatic Company in production of
"THE SILVER BOX"
by JOHN GALSWORTHY.

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
Last night here of
The London Division
"THE CRUMPS"
in a complete change of programme

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA.
32 Komödienstrasse
At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures
Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.
No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.
Grand Orchestra and Pictures.
No: 3 ARMY CINEMA Hohe Strasse
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS,
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 653. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.

Saturday, November 1, 1919.

IN THE LAND BEYOND.

To-day all ranks on the Rhine are paying homage to the memory of those who gave their lives for home and empire in the great war.

The floral emblems which will be laid reverently on the graves of the British soldiers who died while captives of war on an enemy soil and of many others whose lives became forfeit while doing their duty in the Army of Occupation, represent not alone our tribute of remembrance for those brave souls, but mark our sense of gratitude and admiration for every man who gave up his life in the terrible ordeal through which Britain has passed.

Nothing could be more gratifying than the way in which the idea of setting apart to-day as one of Remembrance for our Dead, first mooted in our columns, has been taken up by everyone in Rhineland. The response was immediate and generous, and if there was one section of the Rhine Army that supported it more whole-heartedly than another, it was our splendid women workers. Be it remembered that the timely and appropriate suggestion itself emanated from one of these.

The thoughts of remembrance which fill our minds to-day, express those that must be felt by thousands of our own compatriots. They signify intense and loving gratitude. "May they rest in Peace" is the prayer that will be fervently uttered by us all.

At eight o'clock this morning those who belong to the Established Church will be able to attend Holy Communion at the Garrison Church, when the departed will be remembered with Thanksgiving.

Then to-morrow, the Church of England will hold several special appropriate services which are announced elsewhere, and at the Roman Catholic Garrison Church—the Minoriten—at 10. a.m. there will be celebrated a Requiem Mass for the repose of the souls of British soldiers who have fallen in the war; followed on Monday morning by a Requiem Mass for all Allied soldiers who have fallen. In the afternoon of to-morrow there will be held by sanction of the Commander-in-Chief a Memorial Service at 2.30 p.m. in the Military Cemetery at Südfriedhof.

The solemn occasion will therefore be worthily observed, and we hope that all who can will unite in doing honour to our glorious dead now resting in the Land Beyond.

To quote a recently written poem:

"And there the noble slain
"Take great delight again
"And rest from all their wars:
"Fresh and unscathed they show
"In Him whose own wounds glow
"More glorious for their scars."

WHAT TO SEE IN RHINELAND.

THE APOSTLES' CHURCH, COLOGNE.

Few cities in Europe possess so many interesting churches as Cologne. There are at least six of real importance and many more decidedly worth a visit. Some time ago I wrote a short article on S. Gereon's Church which to my mind is the best of all—to-day I am writing a few lines on the Apostles' Church.

It stands at the north-west corner of the Neumarkt, and the exterior of the East end presents a very striking appearance due to the pleasing grouping of its towers and colonnades, with the dome rising behind.

The West end which faces Aposteln-kloster is singularly plain, but it is characteristic of all the churches in Cologne built about the same period, that their architects expended their utmost skill in adorning the East end leaving the West severely plain.

One usually enters the Church by the North door and one is struck at once by the beauty and richness of the interior.

But though rich, it is full of dignity and there is nothing gaudy about it. Everything strikes one as good.

In plan the Church is a basilica with aisles and transepts and is beautifully proportioned. The High Altar is very handsome and the reredos above the altar at the East side of the South transept contain some charming representations of Our Lord's childhood.

The glass is good, and in the pavement at the West end of the Nave are the signs of the zodiac: there is also a quaint representation in mosaic of the Blessed Virgin above the Holy Water stoup just inside the North Door.

The rich appearance of the church is largely due to the fact that the dome ceilings and upper part of the walls are entirely covered with mosaic work on a gold background and to see this properly it is wise to choose a sunny day for a visit—and yet, a visit in the late afternoon has a charm of its own. Then somehow the Church seems to grow in size.

It is dark save for a votive candle burning here and there before some side altar, the rays of which light up some tiny piece of the mosaic of walls or roof. Before the High Altar gleams the red lamp bearing silent witness to the age-long mystery faith, and one feels indeed that which

"Around us rolls the ceaseless tide
Of business, toil and care."

it is good to turn aside for a brief moment and be still in God's House of Prayer. A.B.G.

A GERMAN VISITORS' BOOK.

The long-threatened rain was beginning outside, and the children who were whipping tops in the Sunday quiet of the little paved square were thinking of going home. I sat at a corner of the big well-scrubbed table beneath the diamond-paned window, and felt most agreeably easy after a long walk. I had ordered lunch; I could hear frying going forward in the kitchen and could smell a familiar aroma, while I speculated what they would give me.

Reminiscences of Hazlitt's essay "On Going on a Journey" drifted through my mind, but unlike Hazlitt I was not "drinking whole goblets of tea, and letting the fumes ascend into the brain." Tea, though I have a Johnsonian appetite for it, has its places and seasons. Here the still, full, golden wine that stood in my glass was the appointed drink.

And while the Wirtin laid the cloth, I looked at the visitors' book. It went back to the dim days before the war. It was not unlike most of its kind, except that the entries were less restrained and formal, perhaps with reason, than in the book's English prototypes.

It is not possible to praise highly the average country inn in England. People driven there by hunger or by force of circumstances write commonly and coldly: "An excellent lunch—shall certainly come again," when they know that the lunch was villainous and they have no intention of returning.

Here, however, one had things worth praising, for one was in a home of the grape. The tone of the book was Anacreontic, even bibulous. Nenus danced in company with Bacchus. It was full of rather gross, but roughly humorous sketches, celebrating vinous joys. For man is primarily earthy, let the idealists say what they will.

Pre-war revels did not interest me. I looked through the entries of the war years to find how the German holiday maker, for there were holiday makers in Germany as in England, looked at the world. Psychologists will hardly be surprised to hear that the war was not unduly prominent.

It is true that some patriotic souls burst into occasional praise of Germania and the Rhine, but I found few records of hatred. One gathered that here, as in England, folk strove desperately to cling to the belief that life in a tumbling world was the same as it had always been.

"We have had enough to eat and more than enough to drink" was a little human confession from the end of 1917, followed by five signatures. One can realise the feelings of that party of five—they were not all men—who had managed to forget for the space of one meal that food cards and tickets had ever been, and who, through a golden haze of wine, saw the Fatherland's future secure.

A hot indignant patriot—had he struck a corked bottle of wine or had he been overcharged for his lunch—had written at the top corner of one page: "Schweigen ist Gold; Reden ist Silber; Lügen ist Britannia," which interpreted is: "Silence is gold, speech is silver, lying is Britannia." He had further relieved his feelings by scrawling obliquely across the page: "Gott strafe England," an inscription which some Britisher had struck through.

And as I went on, I discovered that some diligent American patriots had been before me. They were outspoken in a Western way. I chanced upon a reference to "our U-boat heroes," and a sketch of the Lusitania sinking. It was well that the sketcher had given his picture a name, for the great liner looked uncommonly like a tramp steamer. The forcible American comment pencilled in the margin was: "The man who drew this, was in plain American, the son of a bitch." The book held more than one such sketch, which an American had rubricated: "What lost the war for Germany."

One soldier's entry, from 1916, is worth noticing: "After the horrors of Verdun, I have found peace and rest here by the Rhine. To be an artist in life—I must strive for that. Here one can make studies in that direction."

And while I fell to wondering what kind of man had written this, and to picturing him as a student and artist sick at the waste and senselessness of war, the Mädchen arrived with lunch. There was soup, and a steak—no niggardly steak—smothered in onions, and a bunch of dusky grapes.

And while I ate, I promised myself that I would come here again. But I am not going to name the place. There are discoveries a man selfishly keeps to himself. I lingered over my wine and planned a holiday here when I was well out of it all.

And in the visitors' book I wrote two stanzas of the Rubaiyat and some lines of Horace. LOOKER ON.

TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT.

It was the morning after the night before, and we were all feeling in that subdued mood which generally succeeds a night watch on the wine. For six days, or rather six nights had we laboured in the vineyard so to speak, with the result that we were ready to sign umpteen pledges of alcoholic abstinence.

Spatty, who was young enough to recall certain texts of his more sober days, quoted feelingly:

"Look not upon the wine when it is red."

The counsel, however wise, did nothing to restore our throbbing heads to normality. It even irritated Switton into retorting a little irreverently:

"Wasn't red last night; t'was white. If we'd stuck to red we'd have been all right."

"All the same," put in Soaker, we shall have to cut out this six performances a week stunt. Can't manage to get four of you home every night after you've had a couple of glasses. Had quite enough of it last night with Spatty walking home zoologically and Switton lying musically about the harmless effects of "another little drink."

"Tell you what" suggested Lettum "suppose we form ourselves into a Club and agree only to have a night out when we're something definite to celebrate, such as, for example, a pal's demobilization. That'll hit the happy medium between the late Mr. Lushington and the recent Mr. Pussyfoot."

Thus was born the Niersteiner Club of which Gunner Soaker was elected President.

* * *

Minutes of a meeting of the Niersteiner Club held on Saturday October 14th. at 18.30. the President in the Chair. Present:—Gunner Drayhard, Ptes. Spatty, Blackie, Switton and Lettum.

The health of the Club was drunk, a little shamefacedly, by the company.

The Chairman, after reminding the members of the purpose for which the Club was formed, explained that the object of the meeting was to consider the programme for the ensuing week. He was glad, he meant he was sorry, to announce that a large number of important events were pending which, he hoped, he meant feared, it would be the pleasure, he meant, of course, the duty, of the Club to celebrate in the usual manner (subdued cheers intermingled with mild groans greeted this announcement). He understood that Pte. Spatty had a motion to propose, and he would call upon him to move it at once.

* * *

Pte. Spatty, rising with some difficulty, proposed:—

"That the Niersteiner Club learns with satisfaction that the Football Team, as a result of a happy coincidence of crime involving seven days C.B. for its forwards has, at length, won a match. It congratulates the forwards on so happy a result of their week's enforced temperance and issues them a cordial invitation to join the Club at wine on Monday the 16th inst. at 18.30 hours."

Seconded by Pte. Switton the motion was carried unanimously.

* * *

The Chairman then reminded the Club that Gunner Drayhard was proceeding to the Dispersal Camp on Wednesday. In the course of a speech which brought moisture to the throats of the company, he pointed out the loss Gnr. Drayhard was sustaining at having to leave the Club almost at its inception. No one, he asserted, stood in greater need of the Club's moderating influence in respect of the consumption of wine than his old Battery pal now about to leave them, and the least they could do, to express their commiseration with Drayhard at having to leave them when he stood so greatly in need of their help, was to give him a "rouser" on Tuesday the 17th inst.

The Chairman's proposal finding general acceptance, the following resolutions were put from the Chair and carried in the same harmonious manner.

"Pte. Spatty having won the Football Sweep, resolved that so happy an event calls for early celebration by all Niersteiners, who are invited to be present in force on Wednesday the 18th inst.

* * *

"Further, that Pte. Lettum having received payment from "The Cologne Post" for sundry contributions to that paper, he be invited to offer wine to the club as a small measure of compensation to the members for the pain to which they have one and all been subjected in their vain endeavours to make head or tale of the aforesaid contributions. Agreed that Thursday the 19th inst. be fixed for the gathering.

"Resolved that the Club meet on Friday the 20th inst. to pool its financial resources with a view to a toast to next pay day."

"Agreed that pay day be celebrated in the usual manner, at the usual time, at the usual place on Saturday 21st inst."

"We appear to have a busy week before us," concluded the Chairman.

Remembering the object of the Club's inauguration, we sighed in acquiescence.

E. J. TELLUM.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

Our Readers' Varied Views.

THE ART OF THE HOARDINGS.

Sir,—The observant reader will no doubt have noticed the striking difference between the posters of Rhineland and those of our own country. In England the poster is recognised as one of the best methods of advertising and one of the most forcible suggestions to purchase that has ever been evolved.

The contention put forward by some people and even supported by some firms that a good article will sell itself does not alter the fact. An article that is not advertised may remain untried and unbought by the purchasing public for ever. Advertisement has been used, it is true, to push worthless goods.

But such advertising defeats itself in the long run. Only the best commodities which the makers can produce are worthy of good posters, and the English hoarding is fast becoming the shopping guide of the people.

But here in Germany this is yet to be realised. The hoardings of England are picture galleries compared with the amateurish pointless drawings which cover the walls and fences of Cologne. So far from detracting from the beauty of our towns artistic posters are a source of pleasure and interest to the passers-by.

However much we may cry our country down in other things, however much we may feel disposed to praise Germany's business methods, in poster-designing, at any rate, England holds the field.

F. H. B.

BOXING FILMS.

Sir—The letter signed "Anti-box" in Sunday's "Post" must have surprised your readers not a little.

It is difficult to understand the reason underlying such a letter. Is "Anti Box" a man or a woman? If a woman, one is tempted to remind her that the Y.M.C.A. is a men's association, and can be left to look after men's interests.

But if "A.B." should happen to be a man, I should certainly like to ask if he has had any actual experience of boxing. If not, he has no right to judge something of which he has no knowledge. He probably does not know that glorious feeling of guarding a good hard punch through his own speed or of winning a contest, although a little knocked about. Good Britishers do not mind a few hurts received in games, and spectators should also not object.

After all, no one is compelled to watch boxing or boxing-films, and if one has objections, it is better to keep away. If the men enjoy such things, they will attend them and perhaps will be encouraged to take up the game.

ATHLETE.

BOXING FILMS.

Sir, Please blame "Anti-Box" for the following:—

"Brothers dear, hark to my word,
To my idea it is absurd
That you to Kinemas should go,
To view an awful boxing show,
Why they a low upon the screen,
Such dreadful sights I cannot deem.
Good records of Y.M.C.A.,
Have now a stain as large as day,
If I could only have the power,
All boxers from this earth I'd scour.

Now "Anti-Box" you talk just rot,
Your narrow mind, progresses not,
To spheres whereby real men attain,
The gift that nature bids them gain,
A healthy body firm and strong,
Why do you think this game is wrong?
Should your poor nose a Jerry punch,
No doubt you'd take him back to lunch,
And if by chance this reason's true,
I'll come each day and lunch with you."

THE MAD POET.

PLAYS SOME PEOPLE WANT.

Sir,—Lieut. S. E. Percy must have been snowed under by the suggestions of his numerous correspondents, and I suspect repents of his bargain to consider them.

There seems to be only one play which has escaped the notice of his would-be adviser. I refer to "The Anarchist Terror," but as that gave me nightmare it will be as well to let it pass.

Why not leave matters with the B.R.A.D.C.? Up to a week ago I had no idea there were so many budding dramatists on the Rhine. GINGER.

A TIP RE PROFITEERING.

Sir,—On passing a large field, situated on the outskirts of a Rhineland town a few days ago, I was amazed to see between fifty or sixty people busily engaged in digging potatoes.

At first I thought it was the town allotment, and on making enquiries I was informed that the field belonged to the town.

This town had the potatoes planted and when these were fit for use, anyone requiring some were allowed to dig them up; then having weighed them on the ground, paid a very small sum for them and took them home.

I noticed that the majority of the people dug enough to last them until next season. I consider this is a scheme that would pay the British towns to make note of, and a fine way to dodge the profiteer. What do other readers of the "C. P." think? MURPHY.

REST ON.

(In the Köln Sudfriedhof there are a number of Graves of English Soldiers who died whilst in captivity here.)

Rest on: Ye that by thought and deed,
Have once again fulfilled the Christian Creed,
And followed in the steps of Him who died,
With Crown of Thorns, with pierced hands and side,
Upon the Cross.

Rest on: Ye who had seen the need,
Of Britain, stricken sore; and without heed,
Of self or sorrow, or of sacrifice;
But willingly gave all and paid the price,
Beneath the Cross.

Rest on: Ye sons of Britain, sleep.
We who are left 'nor mourn 'nor weep,
But proudly tell to all as we pass by,
"Here rests a man who did not fear to die, Beneath the Cross".

REX.

HOLDING AN ADVANTAGE

BY W. McCRACKEN.

(THE FAMOUS NEWCASTLE UNITED AND IRISH INTERNATIONAL FULL-BACK).

Some Reflections On The One-Back Game.

It may be said that when a team goes on to the field it has two chief objects in view. The first is to gain an advantage over its opponents, and the second is to retain the advantage when gained. As both teams enter the field with these objects in view, however, it follows that the attainment of them may prove rather difficult.

Personally, and as captain of a side, I am a great believer in the value of "getting a blow in fust." If your side scores the first goal, then the other chaps have to score two to win the match, and if you will look at the number of games which are won by the side which does score the first goal, then I think you will get a fairly accurate idea of the value of an early point. I have not watched particularly, but if from this moment you will be good enough to take a note, I reckon you will find that in the results on a Saturday, not one team out of four which is in possession of a lead at half-time loses at the end.

Consequently, ever since I have been connected with Newcastle United we have gone all out on the principle of gaining an advantage. To do that means full steam ahead right from the kick-off, and even if the players spend themselves in that great supreme opening effort, I still think it is worth while.

RETAINING AN ALVANTAGE.

But the title of our article assumes that a side has gained an advantage. Then comes the question of how to hold on to it. Different captains have different ideas of how this should be done. Having got a goal or two up, some teams adopt the principle of concentrating on defence, and with this end in view will bring a forward or two a bit further back, and instruct the half-backs not to go too far up the field. Personally, however, I don't think such tactics pay as a general rule. I am a great believer in the old adage that attack is the very best defence, because so long as you keep your opponents busy on the defence, then they have precious little time to develop attacks of their own.

I recall a cup-tie in which the Newcastle team figured a few years back which demonstrated the folly of concentrating on defence in order to hold an advantage. Our opponents that day started out with great dash, and their forwards being in tip-top form, they carried the Newcastle defence by storm, so that at half-time they had got a couple of goals lead. During the interval, these opponents of ours evidently had a quiet talk among themselves as to how they could hold the advantage gained, and they decided that it would be wiser to hang on to the lead obtained rather than to attempt to increase that lead. Anyway, if that wasn't the actual decision at which they arrived, the effect was on those lines.

When the game restarted, the inside forwards, who should be part of the attack, became additional half-backs, and at least one man who should have been a half-back fell into the rear among the full-backs. When we saw what the game was, we crowded all our strength into attacking ourselves, and before the end of the game we had not only wiped off the two goals lead, but had actually scored three times ourselves, and in our goal-scoring efforts we received quite valuable assistance from the fact that our opponents' temporary defenders rather got in the way of the real defenders. It was a case of "too many cooks."

CHANCES THROWN AWAY.

I am convinced that if our opponents of that day had continued to concentrate on attack, as they had done in the first half, they would have given us a sound whacking, but in their anxiety to hold what they had gained, they threw their chances of success clean away.

There is one way of holding an advantage, which, I am pleased to say, is not resorted to so frequently in these days as it used to be. I refer to the expedient of kicking the ball over the stand in order to waste time—a ruse which used to be adopted quite a lot by hard-pressed full-backs. The rule which ordered referees to knock off time in the case of wild kicking out of play, has rather reduced the effectiveness of this method, however, for which I think the football spectator must be quite pleased. It must have been rather annoying from the onlookers' point of view to see a team try to hold an advantage by kicking the ball over the grand stand time after time with the sheer object of wasting time.

I must be quite plain, however, on this matter of kicking the ball out of play. As I say, I am not in favour of sending the ball over the stand, or into the next field, but at the same time a gentle kick into touch always seems to me quite a legitimate way of stopping your opponents. To keep the ball in play should always be one of the objects of the defenders, but unless your side is in such a strong position that it can afford to run risks with the advantage gained, a full-back is never justified in endangering his goal in an effort to keep the ball in play.

A SIGN OF STRENGTH.

Even so, however, there is very often quite an effective alternative to kicking the ball out of play, and that is for the full-back to pass to his goalkeeper when hard pressed. For some reason or other passing back to the goalkeeper is defensive play which sometimes seems to strike the man in the crowd as a confession of weakness. Why it should be so I don't know. To me it seems a sign of strength—it shows understanding between the goalkeeper and his backs which there should always be.

The real time of trial comes for the captain of a football team when he is faced with the problem of holding an advantage after one of his players has been compelled to leave the field owing to an injury. What the captain does then must be largely dictated by particular circumstances of each occasion. I have known such occasions when we have tried the one-back game with disastrous results, because the opposing forwards have quickly tumbled to it and got the better of it. On the other hand, one-back tactics when left with only ten men, have often proved very successful, for the adoption of this ruse has succeeded in throwing our opponents' forwards off their game almost entirely. Speaking generally, however, I think if your team is ahead when a player has to go off "safety first" is a good wheeze, and safety first in such a case usually arises by keeping the defence strong, even at the expense of the attack.

BILLY McCRACKEN.

A few Words about the Magpies Brilliant Defender.

Billy McCracken, who contributes a splendid article to-day, was easily the craftiest back on the field in last week's international. "Mac" as Newcastle folk know him is the idol of the St. James's crowd. Clever, brainy, untiring and a "general" above all, he has time and again, in sporting parlance, "pulled the game out of the fire." He took over the captaincy of Newcastle from Colin Veitch, and his stentorian voice can be ever heard in matches giving advice to his team, or a word of praise where it is due. Albeit he is often in the picture when playing his offside game, and although to some annoying, yet it is often amusing to hear his, "How's that!" or "Offside, that man."

Mention of offside tactics leads me to state McCracken would be the last man to call it the "One back game." The secret of its success lies in this, that every member of the defence is as isting in its adoption and the understanding between the Newcastle halves and rear division is so near perfection that the whistle invariably stops some promising attack.

A great player and a sportsman he can give and take hard knocks with the best, and a good deal of his popularity is due to his smiling face and good humoured remarks during a game.

He is always a worker and I remember him some years ago against Chelsea in a replayed Cup-tie (when Newcastle though beaten, were all over the Pensioners) right up in the forward line doing his best to score. This was where his forwards failed and the genial Irishman came very near to saving the game.

His advice against his own tactics is "Let the forwards think." W. Le. C.

OXFORD v. CAMBRIDGE.

The date of the forthcoming Oxford and Cambridge Association football match at Queen's Club has been changed, and instead of being played on Monday, Dec. 8, it will take place on Wednesday, Dec. 10, and will therefore follow the inter-'Varsity Rugby fixture.

BILLIARDS.

Closing Scores.—Newman (in play), 13,500; Stevenson 12,427.

Reece (in play) 13,333; Falkiner 11,7[illegible]; W. Pearce (Catford Southend).

LAWN TENNIS.

Davis Cup Team sail for Australia.

After a strenuous season, the British Davis Cup Lawn Tennis Team, which comprises Lt. Col. Kingscote, Major Lowe and Capt. Beamish, sailed for Melbourne yesterday morning. The telegram which announces this fact adds that all three players were fit and well.

TO-DAY'S SOCCER FIXTURES.

League I.

Aston V. v. Middlesbrough; Blackburn v. Everton; Bolton v. Sunderland; Bradford C. v. Arsenal; Chelsea v. Bradford; Liverpool v. Burnley; Manchester U. v. Sheffield U.; Newcastle U. v. P.N.E.; Notts C. v. W. Bromwich; Oldham v. Derby; Sheffield W. v. Manchester C.

League II.

Blackpool v. Leicester; Bristol C. v. Coventry; Clapton v. Lincoln C.; Huddersfield v. Fulham; Hull C. v. Grimsby T.; Rotherham C. v. Stoke; S. Shields v. Bury; Stockport v. Barnsley; Tottenham v. Port Vale; W. Ham v. Birmingham; Wolves v. Notts F.

Southern League.

Brentford v. Plymouth; Brighton v. Exeter; C. Palace v. Southampton; Millwall v. Cardiff; Newport v. Swansea; Northampton v. Luton; Norwich v. Bristol R; Portsmouth v. Gillingham; Southend v. Reading; Swindon v. Q.P.R.; Watford v. Merthyr.

Scottish League.

Aberdeen v. Airdrie; Albion R. v. Ayr; Clyde v. Dumbarton; Clydebank v. Dundee; Hamilton v. Falkirk; Hearts v. Motherwell; Kilmarnock v. S. Mirren; Morton v. Celtic; Queen's Park v. Hibs; Raith R. v. Partick; Rangers v. 3rd Lanark.

The results of the above matches will appear in our issue of Monday.

PARIS v. LONDON.

This week-end will witness the renewal of the acquaintance on the field of teams representing the London League and the Paris League.

As the professional clubs are not now taking part in the London League, the team that will go out will not be equal to the pre-war sides who represented the League. The following twelve have been selected to make the journey: G.H.R. Hebden (Barking Town), G. H. Curtis (L.G.O.C.), E. Pendergast (Ordnance), G. B. Harris (Barking Town), F. W. Carpenter (Custom House), A. J. Kingsley (Charlton Athletic), W. S. Clarke (Ordnance), J. H. Richards (Ordnance), J. F. Leslie (Barking Town), J. D. Barnfather (Grays Athletic), E. Hermitage (Grays Athletic), and [illegible].

NUMBER THIRTEEN.

How a Friend Shared in First Lille Sweep Prize.

LUCKY LONDON PRIVATE.

Pte. H. Meadows, of Manor-road, Stoke Newington, who drew Brigand in the Lille Cambridgeshire Sweepstake, instead of winning nearly £12,100, the value of the first prize, has to be content with only half this amount.

This is because—believing, probably, in the old axiom about the bird in the hand—he sold half his "draw" to a friend.

The number of the ticket he bought was 03070, and he showed it to his friend who, totalling the two numerals, discovered they made thirteen. The number was his lucky one, so he immediately offered Meadows five shillings for half the ticket. The price was accepted and the deal completed.

Pte. Meadows saw possibilities as a result of the transaction, and did his level best to dispose of some more shares. Fortunately for him, he was unsuccessful, for, had he found purchasers, instead of a profit of a few shillings which he would thus have made, he now finds himself the richer to the very comfortable extent of £5,589.

ANOTHER SWEEPSTAKE.

It has been decided to transfer the whole of the monies (£23,000), received too late to be included in the above event, to a new sweepstake on the Manchester November Handicap, run on Nov. 22, for which 100,000 tickets at 10s. will be issued. Subscribers who do not agree to their subscriptions being transferred will have their money refunded in full. The first prize will be 30 per cent. (£12,000), second 15 per cent. (£6,000), and the third 7½ per cent. (£3,000), while 35 per cent. will be divided between the 63 entries. Application for tickets (10s.), in books of thirty, must be made at once to Major Denison, 33, Rue de Loos, Lille, France. The latest date for receiving subscriptions will be Nov. 16, the draw taking place at the Bellevue Hotel, Lille, on Nov. 17.

ENGLISH RACING.

NEWMARKET.

Results of Thursday's races at Newmarket and Worcester are appended:

Jockey Club cup:—Gay Lord (9—4 on) beat Queens Square, two ran.

Selling plate:—1, Lucky (2—1); 2, Petrusin (6—5); 3, White Prince (3—1). Three ran.

Richmond Nursery:—Luckentio (6—4); 2, King Harry (10—1); 3, Adorna, (7—1). Ten ran.

Ditch mile handicap:—1, Tom Powrie (7—4); 2, Sallycrag (4—1); 3, Jack Role (7—2); Eight ran.

Dewhurst plate:—1, Prince Galahad (4—1); 2, Orpheus (6—5 on); 3, Southern (8—1). Seven ran.

Two year old plate:—1, Quartz (8—1); 2, Sudden Fancy (1—1); 3, L'Espion (3—1)

Apprentice plate:—1, Freesia (13—8 on); 2, Will of the Wisp (100—8); 3, Exford (3—1). Six ran.

WORCESTER.

Riverside nursery:—1, Happy Girl (9—1); 2, Light Blue (10—1); 3, Grave Mac (9—1). Twelve ran.

Visitors plate:—1, Another Saint (5—1); 2, Night Flip (4—1); 3, Condottiere (3—1). Six ran.

Witley handicap:—1, Holystone (5—1); 2, Double Dew (3—1); 3, St. Gingoulph (9—2). Fourteen ran.

Worcester handicap:—1, Dumfries (6—1); 2, Muscovite (6—1); 3, Patricks Day (5—1). Twelve ran.

Dudley plate:—Gwenevere (21—20 on); beat Devils Dyke. Two ran.

Coventry plate:—1, Sunflower (evens); 2, Wood Ant (6—1); 3, Fornaway (5—1). Five ran.

SURPRISING BRIGAND.

Brigand, the winner of the Cambridgeshire, is a five-year-old, with 6st. 10lb., the weight of a bad horse, Diadem, who ran the race of her life, is the same age, and put up 8st. 12lb.—30lb. more than that carried by the winner. Hitherto Brigand has been known as a sprinter, and a sprinter only. He had never before won over a longer distance than six furlongs.

At the last meeting at Derby Brigand ran second in the race won by Violoncello. This is the easiest mile in England, and Brigand was then beaten because he failed to stay. On Wednesday he stayed better than anything in the race over a severe nine furlongs, with an uphill finish.

It was an amazing performance. He passed the winning post six lengths in front of Diadem, and a huge crowd looked on in a frozen silence. It was a stunning blow.

THE OWNER OF BRIGAND.

Mr. J. A. de Rothschild, the owner of the Cambridgeshire winner, Brigand, has won several good races, mostly with horses at an outside price. Perhaps his greatest triumph was that with Bomba in the Ascot Gold Cup of 1909. Another useful animal owned by Mr. Rothschild was Beppo, who won the Manchester Cup of 1907.

KING OF SPAIN.

At a meeting of the Jockey Club at Newmarket on Thursday, the King of Spain was elected an honorary member by acclamation.

McGOORTY-TOWNLEY MATCH OFF.

Eddie McGoorty did not, after all, meet Arthur Townley at the Holborn Stadium last night. His excuse is that he injured his hand. McGoorty is still in Paris.

Mr. B. B. Cochran secured Balzac, the French boxer, who beat McGoorty on a foul in Paris recently, as substitute.

Rugby Results.

United Hospitals "Rest", 8; London and Barts., 4.

Soccer.

Cambridge, 7; Casuals, 1;
Oxford, 1; Swindon, 3.

CHUMS

read "The Cologne Post". Send it daily to yours.

WINTER CRICKET.

Australians and Transvaal Draw at Johannesburg.

BIG SCORING.

A Johannesburg telegram states that rain interfered with the match between the Australian Imperial Forces Cricket team and the Transvaal eleven on Wednesday. The match ended in a draw.

The Australians batted first and were all out for 392, the chief scorers being Collins (51), Gregory (50) and Lampard 68 not out.

In reply, Transvaal totalled 245, Zulch contributing 60 and Frank, a new comer to representative cricket, 108.

Going in a second time, the Australians declared at 222 for four, Hennery scoring 74 and Gregory 86. The home side put up 44 for two when stumps were drawn

4 MILES PAPER CHASE.

Aldershot Command A.A. Open Winter Season.

An invitation run which took the form of a four-miles paper chase from Queen's Avenue via Wharf Bridge, Watts Common, Felmoor Bridge, Laffan's Plain to the back of Government House marked the opening of the Aldershot Command Athletic Association's winter season this week. At Government house the entrants were lined up for a mile race home, there being three sections, viz.,—fast pack, novices, and veterans.

For the winners there was a good field of over 150, the East Lancashire Regt. and Highland Light Infantry each sending something like fifty men, the rest emanating from the 2nd Manchester, 1st Manchester, R.A.O.C., R.H.A., R. Fusiliers, Cameron Highlanders, and R.F.A.

Major W. D. Whiter laid the trail, assisted by C.S.M. I. Usher and another member of the P.T. Staff, and the major also acted as starter of the run in. Major C. Newington sent the packs away, and General Sir Archibald Murray acted as referee, and presented the medals to the winners at the finish.

Results.

The order of finish was as follows:—

First Pack.

1, Lt. G. L. Morgan, 1st Manchesters.
2, C.S.M. Evans, Highland L.I.
3, Lt. Witham, 13th Hussars.
4, Cpl. Walpole, R.A.O.C.
5, Pte. Gaywood, E. Lancs.
6, Pte. Boag, Cameron H.

Novices.

1, Pte. Rimmer, 2nd Manchesters.
2, L/Cpl. Kelly, 2nd Manchesters.
3, C.S.M.I. Caplin, East Lancs.
4, Pte. Wilkinson, East Lancs.
5, Pte Lewis, 2nd Manchesters.
6, Lt. Lloyd Carson, East Lancs.
7, L/Cpl. Hales, Military Police.
8, Pte. Watts, East Lancs.
9, Cpl. Appleton, Military Police.

MEDICALS AT FOOTBALL.

36 C.C.S. defeat 44 C.C.S. by Five goals.

These teams met at Stadtwald on Thursday, 44th C.C.S. being deservedly beaten by five clear goals. The winners did practically all the attacking in the first half during which Turner, Raby, Nicholson and Lewis scored goals.

In the second half, the 36th again set the pace, and Bates shot the finest goal of the match. The home team continued to have the better of the game, but the shooting of the forwards was wretched, several opportunities of increasing the lead, being badly missed. Sgt. Harrington, the losers' custodian, played a capital game, and undoubtedly saved his side from a severe defeat. He was ably assisted by his full backs, but the halves and forwards were rather poor and lacked finish. The 36th defence always had the measure of their opponents and was difficult to elude. The forwards were still on the weak side, their chief faults being ill-considered shooting and haphazard passing. Result:— 36 C.C.S. 5; 44 C.C.S. 0.

FOOTBALL QUERIES.

Recently a correspondent "Whiffey" asked the following questions:—

1 Did Hudspeth of Newcastle United play in war time football for a London Combination Club?

2. How many matches did Leyton play in the Southern League?

The answer to the first is that Hudspeth played for the Crystal Palace team during the war.

With reference to the second, Leyton were first in Division 2 of the Southern League in the season 1905—6. They were promoted in the following season and resigned in 1913.

TWO MISSED PENALTIES.

"C" Coy., 52nd K.L.R. v. "The Drums", at Bonn.

Both teams opened well, but the "Drums" were slack in front of goal. After fifteen minutes' play, Sergt. Davidson gave "C" Coy. the lead. The "Drums" then tried hard to draw level, but were unsuccessful. When the game was about half-an-hour old, "C" Coy. were awarded a penalty, but Hampson put the ball into the keeper's hands. At half-time, "C" Coy. were leading by 1—0.

After the interval, "C" Coy. endeavoured hard to add to their score and, in ten minutes, another penalty awarded to them was missed by Spence, whose shot went wide. A continuous bombardment of the "Drums" goal followed, and Moss was eventually successful in adding to the score. Result:—"C" Coy., 2; "Drums" 0

"A" COY. v. "D" 52nd K.L.R.

This football match was also played at Bonn when "A" Company made a promising start by scoring in the first minute. "D" Coy. then forced the pace, and after some exciting mid-field play Lce. Cpl. Macey equalised.

After the interval, the pace slackened somewhat, but the defences of both sides had opportunities to shine. Result:—"A" Coy., 1; "D" Coy., 1.

AMUSEMENTS AND RECREATIONS.

NEXT WEEK'S ATTRACTIONS.

The Deutsches Theatre.

After a well-earned week's rest, the Rhine Army Dramatic Company will resume activities at the Deutsches Theatre on Monday. John Galsworthy will once more be represented, the play selected this time being "The Silver Box." The caste is a large one and the artistes who are billed to take part will include all the old favourites. Past experiences of the packed houses that are always the rule when the B.R.A.D.C. are performing render a reminder to book seats early almost unnecessary.

The Palace.

Mr. Alfred Hurley, who has been in France for the past few days, is due back in Cologne this week-end. He will bring with him another party of entertainers, which, if reports are reliable, should be as successful as Mr. Hurley's other band, "The Jesters," which won wide popularity in Rhineland. The new party to arrive, called "The Eccentrics," is due at the Palace for a week commencing Monday.

The Cinema.

Good business is reported from the three army cinemas. The programmes are always carefully selected and well screened. Perfume sprays employed occasionally during the performances refresh the atmosphere wonderfully.

British Empire Leave Club.

To-morrow (Sunday) the Rev. C. E. Wheeler will talk in the writing room from 5—6, and at 6.30 there will be a sing-song in the music room, at which, Mrs. Shorter and Miss Jamieson will sing duets, Capt. Ramsay, L/Cpl. Hugh Williams, L/Cpl. Rushton and others will sing and play. The Cinema will be continuous throughout the afternoon and evening. An impromptu concert will be held on Monday, from 5—6, followed by a practice dance in the theatre at 6.30. A German class will be held at the same time in the quiet room.

Leave Club Whist Drive.

The ladies generally seem to gain the top scores at the weekly whist drive at the B.E.L.C., but this certainly was not the case on Thursday, when Pte. W. C. Keeble won the first ladies' prize with 154. Cpl. P. Davis was second with 147, and Pte. H. B. Kay and Pte. Wrightson were third with 146 each. The gentleman's prize was won by Pte. A.W. Wilson with a score of 148. Cpl. Jackson equalled his score (but lost the cut). He gained second prize, and Pte. C. Partridge carried off the third with 145. Lt. Rouch and L/Cpl. Foote organised the evening.

Chess Club.

The opening match "Married v. Single" of the weekly chess tournaments at the B. E. L. C. proved a great success on Thursday. The result was a victory for the married men by 5½ to 2½. Now that the nucleus of a club has been formed, a series of tournaments will be arranged every Thursday evening at 6.30 p.m. Sgt. Maj. Graham, is the organising Secretary.

The Army Choral Societies.

Members, and intending members, of the male and mixed voices Choral Societies are notified that as from to-day, rehearsals of the Male Voice Society will commence at 5.45 p.m. instead of 7.45 p.m., and those of the mixed voices at 7 p.m. instead of 7.45 p.m. For the information of those who may wish to join either or both of these Societies, membership of both Societies is open to all Officers, N.C.O.'s and men stationed in Cologne, who are interested in unaccompanied choral music, and that of the Mixed Voices Societies to all wives of Officers and other ranks, and all other English ladies in Cologne. All rehearsals are held in the lecture room on the 1st floor of the Church Army Soldiers' Club in Antoniter Strasse, and take place as follows:—Male Voice, Mondays and Fridays at 5.45 p.m. Mixed Voices, Wednesdays at 7 p.m.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Sat.	Orpheus and Eurydice	Gluck	7	9.15
Sun.	Die Walküre	Wagner	5.30	10.30
Mon.	Madame Butterfly	Puccini	7	9.45
Tues.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10
Wed.	Cosi van tutte	Mozart	7	10
Thurs.	Tannhäuser	Wagner	6.30	9.30
Fri.	Hoffmann's Erzählungen	Offenbach	7	10
Sat.	Mignon	Thomas	7	10.15
Sun.	Lohengrin	Wagner	5.30	10
Mon.	Cav. Rusticana / Der Bajazzo	Mascagni / Leoncavallo	7	10
Tues.	Die Entführung aus dem Serail	Mozart	7	10

Farewell Dinner.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the Lancashire Divisional Headquarters clerks' mess, Bonn, on Wednesday, taking the form of a farewell dinner to celebrate the approaching disbandment of the Division. Many of the members of the mess are to be demobilized shortly and it is expected that in the course of a few weeks all members will be scattered to the corners of the earth. As was to be expected a very merry evening was the result. The dinner was highly successful, chiefly owing to the energetic efforts of the Mess President, Harry Atkinson, 15th Lancashire Fusiliers. An impromptu dance and concert terminated the proceedings.

Lieut. Humphrey Hope.

This sketch will be recognised by my readers as Lieut. Hope in "You never can tell," which the British Rhine Army Dramatic Company produced recently at the Deutsches Theatre, Cologne. He joined the Company upon its formation and by the sterling quality of his acting he has established himself a firm favourite with Deutsches audiences. To him is attributed the origin of the following joke, which is now going the rounds:—

1st Soldier: I hear candles are to be cheaper in England.

2nd Soldier: How is that?

1st Soldier: Because they are sending all the Waacs from France!

Mr. Hope had considerable experience in amateur acting in England in pre-war days, and doubtless on returning thence will speedily enhance his histrionic reputation. Should he care to aspire to the professional ranks a highly successful future is assured him.

VI Corps Club Concerts.

The afternoon concerts recently inaugurated by the management of the VI Corps Club, Cologne, are invariably well patronised and the fare submitted is always agreeable. Yesterday afternoon, the huge tea room was filled to its utmost when the well-known baritone Carl Rost sang several enjoyable numbers. The orchestra, conducted by Herr Blum, played delightfully.

JACQUES.

ANOTHER FOOTBALL COUPON.

Seventh Weekly Contest Opens To-day: Try Your Skill.

We publish to-day the coupon for our seventh football contest and as several matches have been selected from each of the four leading Leagues, a chance is presented to competitors to utilise and profit by their local knowledge of a team's doings. This in addition to the items of interest which we publish daily ought to help competitors.

Aston Villa figure on our coupon and this match is far from the certainty it looks. Newcastle should win at Middlesboro, but anything may happen there, while Burnley and Manchester will afford Cup followers a hard nut to crack.

Luck plays a big part in football and one of our winners confessed he had never seen a big match in his life. He won because he tried. Have you entered yet; you may be the lucky one this week. Why not?

Again we point out local bank notes for small amounts cannot be accepted and will result in disqualification if sent with coupons.

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 7,
"Cologne Post",
A.P.O. S/40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 7.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov. 8th.
Closing date, Friday, Nov. 7th.

West Bromwich A.	v. Aston Villa
Middlesboro	v. Newcastle U.
Arsenal	v. Bolton W.
Burnley	v. Manchester U.
Stoke	v. Bristol City
Leicester	v. West Ham
Coventry	v. Huddersfield
Queens Park R.	v. Millwall
Southampton	v. Southend
Luton	v. Crystal Palace
St. Mirren	v. Hearts
Partick T.	v. Rangers

I enter Football Competition No. 7 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed _____
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. _____

Unit _____

Full Address _____

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

For Our Dead.

To-day is a memorable one in Rhineland, for are we not doing honour to-day to our glorious dead who rest in the Sudfriedhof at Cologne. The graves will be gorgeous with wreathes provided by the generosity of our readers.

Bang up to Date.

A friend who has been borrowing books from the Y.M.C.A. lending library tells me he was greatly impressed by the up to date selection he was able to choose from.

A Sad Outlook.

I met a young flying officer garbed in pale blue and gold who hadn't a good word to say for the new dark blue Air Force uniform with black bands. "In that outfit I quite expect to lose my best girl," he said sadly. "It was through the gold that I got engaged to her."

Zoo Dinners.

Although the weather is too inclement now for outdoor dining at the Zoo I know several friends who often have lunch or dinner in the restaurant. It possesses an excellent chef and prices are fairly reasonable I'm told.

Worthy of Record.

I said something about tramcar accidents the other day. Yesterday I saw a German postman pull a Tommy out of the way of a car just in the nick of time. A moment later and he would have been knocked down.

Built by our Boys.

Walking near Eil the other afternoon I came across a big shed constructed of steel and asbestos, which I was told sheltered a German observation balloon during the war and was entirely built by British prisoners.

A Lady Chapel.

In that secluded little square, the Maria Ablass Platz, stands a quaint old chapel dedicated to the Virgin. Seeing lights inside I entered last evening and found a number of devotees kneeling in prayer—an impressive sight.

Who Pays?

A friend of mine received from England in payment of a debt of 650 marks, six £1 notes. Cashing them at the new commercial rate he received 750 marks. With the extra 100 marks he bought himself some necessaries and is worrying me with the question "Who paid for the articles?" I give it up.

Sharing the Honour.

The wife travelling overseas whose luggage was seen to be labelled. "Mrs. Blank, V.C." is doubtless very proud of her gallant husband, but seems to have been somewhat carried off her mental balance.

Mystifying.

To the average individual who has seen service the references to Army life which fall from the lips of our soldier comedians require no explanation and rarely fail to provoke a laugh. But to the wife, unless she has made a study of Army parlance, much of this side-play is mystifying. Hence the appeal to a husband which I overheard at a concert show last evening. He, poor man, missed much of the show endeavouring to interpret the meanings.

Musical Comedy.

Some of us miss musical comedy in Rhineland. Many do not seem to know that there are two or three theatres in Cologne presenting this kind of fare, but of course in German.

Few Fires.

Have you noticed since you have been in Cologne how few premises seem to catch on fire as compared with places of similar size elsewhere? I wonder what the reason is.

Ramshackle.

The Cologne mail carts are anything but picturesque, showing signs of much service, and suffering severely from the scarcity of paint. The other day I saw one of them fully loaded being dragged along on three wheels, the fourth having collapsed.

Cologne Houses.

Many of the more sumptuous houses in Cologne, by reason of their size and the sculpture and adornment generally on their frontages, would almost pass for public buildings. In the Volksgarten Strasse and adjacent thoroughfares I love to linger of an afternoon, there being much of an architectural interest to attract, if not to please, the eye.

Artistic Hairdressing.

Most young German women, and many middle-aged ones as well, do their hair up very nicely, at least that is the opinion of a mere male observer. Female hairdressers call at their clients' abodes at regular intervals; hence the artistic appearance of the hair.

Need For Real Girls.

With so many women on the Rhine is there no talent to take the place of many of the man-girls we see? I saw one recently who had used the major portion of the contents of a powder box endeavouring to conceal a black beard, while his voice was more like a sergeant-major's than a fair damsel's.

Protectiing Covers.

Some, I see, affect a celluloid cover for their ribbons — no doubt, for the purpose of retaining their brightness. Opinions vary, of course, but I am inclined to regard this practice as somewhat unsoldierlike.

Tally Ho!

Monday is the day of Hubertus, the German patron saint of hunting. All hunting folk on this day take to the field and hold high festival in his honour. Hunters will be seen everywhere in the early morning following the hounds. Horrem is a favourite hunting centre in Cologne.

The Dom Guide.

The ancient guide who escorts sightseers to the giddy heights of the Dom must indeed think himself handsomely recompensed as far as the British troops are concerned. Nearly every soldier hands him a generous "tip" when the tour is ended. This guide is an excellent linguist and describes each object of note in both German and English, and, when necessary, in French also.

A New Fashion.

We are all familiar with the direction arrows which are to be met with at every turn. We recall the glut of direction boards throughout France and Flanders. Have these provided inspiration for the newest type of hatpins? The arrow point is screwed on after the pin has been passed through the hat.

On the Films.

"Why does the word "Community" appear on every film now shown at the Army Cinemas?" I was asked recently. For the enlightenment of those who may be similarly curious, I may say that this trade mark is of the renters and distributors who supply us with the films. The "Community" people are, in no way, producers.

RHINELANDER.

RECONSTRUCTION.

"A century ago the mass of the people of Great Britain were dependent upon the demands or whims of the capitalist, to a degree almost incredible in these days, for their means of life and their manner of living."

This present century has seen a change in all the economic conditions of the people of our land. This change has been one for the betterment of the majority of our citizens, and to-day is the great Democratic Age, when education has opened the eyes of men to the fact of life and all it can mean to the individual.

Social problems have been discussed and a change advocated in numerous ways, in order that the great scheme of emancipation may go on until all men can use the word free in its fullest sense.

In all departments of civil life the word reorganise has loomed large over the horizon of men and things, and new policies have been adopted for the welding together of national industries and private ventures. Men have called for a revolution in our Educational system, reorganization of Manufacturing Production, as well as our policy of Foreign Trade.

Every plan for highering the standard of comfort and the growth of freedom has been met with a ready response from all classes of men, from the financier to the humblest workman in the land, thus bringing about a bloodless revolution for the advancement of civilization.

Reconstruction is then the greatest problem of modern times, and the fruit of this striving for better things can be seen in the condition under which the majority is now living or will live as soon as the financial crisis is past, a crisis brought about by the world, war of the last five years.

In the religious life of our country one longs to see the same spirit of reconstruction allowed to have its sway. One longs to see the community as a whole, grasp the fact of the importance of a religious policy, one that will insure mankind against the disaster of drifting into the clutches of the powers of evil.

How can one speak of emancipation as long as a man is held by those powers which are seeking to enslave him in a servitude far more galling than those conditions under which our ancestors groaned for hundreds of years, a servitude which can bind a man body and soul until that one is not able to move a finger to ward off the fate which will be his sooner or later, unless that spirit of freedom is brought into the life of all?

In this Democratic Age surely one would be led to a religious policy which gave the same to all regardless of wealth of position.

Among the problems of Reconstruction the greatest is that one which not only frees a man for time but through eternity, a policy which advocates the freedom of all and gives to all an equal opportunity for advancement in this life.

Let us then reconstruct our ideas of Christianity and fully understand the ideals of its Founder, who never meant that religion to be one as was often represented in the past, but a gospel of Peace to all men, glad tidings sent forth to a world, the laws of freedom taught by the Greatest Democrat of all times, our Saviour Jesus Christ.

C. E. R. WHEELER, C.F.

Goodbye Gatherings.

Tommy has his "goodbye" meetings as well as others more fortunately situated. In a certain restaurant the other evening I saw five such farewell gatherings of chums. All were making the most of their last night together.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

An Admrality "Extra."—Lord Jellicoe's empire tour will cost £89,225.

An Autumn Fashion.—Squirrel collars are a vogue at present.

Economy Cut.—Civilian out-of-work doles will end on Nov. 21.

Paris Weaknesses.—Breadth of figure is now deemed the height of fashion.

The Toll.—In all seven, and a half million men fell in the Great War.

The King's Guest.—The Shah of Persia arrived in London yesterday.

Coming Home.—British troops are leaving Syria.

They Must Pay.—There are to be no free railway passes for M. P.s.

Lead To Yanks.—Poland has ratified the peace treaty.

Tasty.—There is a glut of soles at Ramsgate.

Popular.—Willesden has seven street markets.

More Fish.—Swansea trawling dispute has ended after ten weeks.

Happy Kids.—Holiday play centres are to be organised by the L.C.C.

Companionship.—A Bristol widower aged 83 has married a widow of 78.

The Example.—Whitehall cenotaph is to be reproduced in various parts of Blighty.

The Limit.—Two thousand Glamorgan miners are idle because one man refuses to join the federation.

Thrifty.—Soldiers at Aldershot are depositing their increased pay in savings banks.

Now We Know.—Irish fishermen threw over £3.000 worth of mackerel into the sea rather than sell it at 8s a hundred.

Moving On.—Board of Trade move to new offices in Great George Street within the next few days.

Unscrupulous.—Arrests have been made by French in connection with traffic of gold with Germans.

Poor Outlook.—The Paris coal supply for the last three months shows a shortage of 300,000 tons.

Out Again.—De Veuille, who figured in the Billie Carleton case, has been released from prison.

The New Way.—A Highgate milk-man who gave short measure was sent to prison for a month.

Judicial Dictum.—Mr. Justice Darling says the difficulty to-day is not to get divorced but to keep married.

Britain's Heaviest.—A Leicester boy aged sixteen who weighs 29st. is said to be the heaviest boy in Great Britain.

What's the Game? — Prince August Wilhelm is with the ex-Crown Prince.

Converted. — German workmen after refusal, are now undertaking piece work.

Five Million. — The remuneration of German M.P's. totals nearly five million marks yearly.

Silent.—Owing to attacks on the State President the "Deutsche Zeitung" has been suspended until further notice.

Waiting.—Captain Mathews, who is attempting the flight to Australia, is still held up at Merheim.

Aerial Travel. — A major of the R.A.F. has reached Egypt by aeroplane from the South of France.

Souvenirs. — Several captured German machine guns have been presented to the Government of Jamaica.

Brought Down.—The German air force lost 8.500 officers and men during the war.

Bricklayer Laird.—A Sunderland bricklayer has established his claim as next heir to a Scottish estate.

Any Other Claims.—The Bulldog mascot of the Tank Corps is believed to be the only mascot to survive going over the top.

On Foot.—Hunting with the beagles in English lakeland often involves mountain climbing.

Two Hours!—The Shah's principal meal of the day is breakfast, which takes about two hours to serve.

Awkward.—A telegram addressed, "The League of Nations" arrived marked, "The Plague of Nations."

Bishop as Initiate.—The Bishop of Derby will shortly be initiated into Freemasonry.

Banking Union.—Barclay's Bank has entered into partnership with the Union Bank of Manchester.

A Super Scheme.—A super power station to serve four counties with electricity is to be erected at Nottingham.

Dirty.—Influential French electors have received letters bearing the forged signature of Clémenceau.

London's Traffic.—Mr. Kennedy Jones, M. P., is to be chairman of the Advisory Committee on London Traffic.

Young Briton.—A Kingston boy dived into the river, rescued a girl and then without waiting for praise, walked away.

Gallant Land Girl.—A Lichfield land girl has been awarded a distinction for keeping on a tractor when out of control.

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor

Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???

Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!

The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!

TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.

Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 32-34.

Peacock's Military
RUBBER SOLES & HEELS
MADE IN ENGLAND.
MEN'S Mk. 15 to Mk. 20 per Set
LADIES' „ 10 to „ 14 „ „
(& Childrens)
Sport House WILLPÜTZ—GÜSTEN
Mühlenbach 28 (1 minute from Hohestrasse & Handelshof).

CAMERAS
STEREOSCOPES
BINOCULARS
CINEMAS.
DEVELOPING AND PRINTING DONE

SPARKES HALL
308, REGENT ST. LONDON W.
4, AVENUE FRIEDLAND, PARIS and
ROOM 71, DISCH HOTEL
Brückenstr. COLOGNE
(Next Door to N.A.C.B. Canteen)
FIELD, HUNTING & POLO BOOTS
Hand-Sewn Field Boots, Civilian Boots, Shoes and Pumps made to order and delivered to Germany in 18 days or in England in 10 days.

ENORMOUS SUCCESS OF
"THE JESTERS"
The first civilian music hall party to visit Rhineland.
SIX LONDON VARIETY ARTISTES INCLUDING
Mr.
JOE MORLEY
The famous Banjoist of the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN.
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY.
Mr. HARRY KING.
Mr. FRANK HOOK.
Mr. CHASS LEWIS.
Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage The Jesters. Vacant dates Monday Oct. 27th, Thurs., 30th, and Sat. Nov. 1. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office or may be seen personally at 11 o/c each morning at Amusements Office, Komödienstrasse, Cologne.

WANTED.
Manufacturers Agent doing extensive trade in good class Dolls in London and provinces would like to get into communication with German Manufacturers able to turn out large quantities. Good securities offered and Bankers references. Address: to Box No. 219, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

Mention The Cologne Post when replying to advertisements. It helps you and the advertisers.

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE & MART & PERSONAL MEDIUM

You can sell or buy anything through the medium of The Cologne Post. Someone is waiting to buy your surplus personal kit. Advertise it.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O.S./40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

1 GOERZ CAMERAS 9×12 Doppelanastigmat "Celor" f. Portraitaufn. bes. geeignet 1 Zeiss Teleobjectiv Brennweite 45. 1 Camera Rapid-Aplanat 9×12. Jackels, Elisenstr. 18. Zwischen 1 und 3 Uhr.

ONE MONTHS' subscription to the Cologne Post including postage for sale. Price 15 Marks. Have it sent home daily.

TWO CEILING pushballs with or without platform. Write Sports Officer, 52nd Devons.

BILLIARD-TABLE (with pockets), in good condition. For particulars apply to A 325, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40

TWO very old violins, 1 cello and cornet, cheap for sale Assenmacher, Vogteistrasse 29 pt. (near Hansaring).

SECOND-HAND CAMERAS with GOERZ and ZEISS lenses a bargain. Pohl, Boisserée-strasse 12, 1st floor, (near Hohenstaufenbad and Königsplatz).

OFFICERS' WIFE wishes to sell child's mail cart. Used three weeks only. Price 200 Marks. Apply Box 300, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

FILM developing tank complete with instructions almost new. Price 100 Marks. Write to R.S.M. Smeeth C/O S.O. in chief Signals G.H.Q.

WANTED.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 4.5. if poss. but not smaller than 6.8. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

RUSSIAN young woman, refugee from the Bolsheviks (speaking little English) wishes situation as cook to English family. Good references. Apply to A 323 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

LOST.

LOST in centre of Cologne or at VI th Corps Club, gold bar brooch, amethyst in centre. Reward if returned to Advt. Manager, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

PERSONAL.

EXPERIENCED cook wants situation in Officer's mess or hotel. First-class British testimonials and references. 20 years in England. Write to G 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

WILL THE BRITISH OFFICER (medical who bought Thoma Zeiss Hamasitometer for 96.00 mks. at Messrs. Neumann and Cie. on Tuesday Oct. 30, communicate with the firm.

TRADE.

A WELL-EDUCATED LADY in reduced circumstances wishes to correspond with British or American Officer with a view to doing business. Speaks German, English and French. Write A 322 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

SERIOUS and energetic business man with offices in Cologne and Düsseldorf seeks agency of first-class firms. P. Schleuter, Düsseldorf, Lennestr. 19.

LANGUAGES.

GERMAN quickly learnt. Easy method. Spandow, 7 Rudolfsplatz, near Opera House. 20 years experience English schools.

VIENNESE LADY wishes to exchange German for English. Apply Lindenthal, Franzstrasse 60.

WOULD ANY young Englishman like to converse with young German student? Reply to A 324 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

OPINIONS OF THE MOMENT.

THE SHYER SEX.

Kathleen L. Murray says: I am convinced that there are ever so many more shy men in the world than shy women. Women's whole training goes to eliminate shyness. She is always in command, seldom in abeyance. No shy person could interview prospective cooks or tell the butcher what she thinks of the quality of his steak. A man defers to the opinion of his tailor, but no living woman would consent through sheer diffidence to have three buttons on her cuff when her predilection is for two.

STEADY PLODDING.

Lord Moulton, our judge-scientist, who developed the High Explosives department of the Ministry of Munitions during the war, says: The thing that is necessary after the war, when the nation is discovered to be lying under a crushing burden of debt, with its people having lost the steady habit of monotonous and continuous work on which all successful production must be based, is not the reconstruction of those great edifices that are sketched out by hopeful theorists, but of the foundations of industry.

A CAUSE OF TROUBLE.

Mr. Justice Marshall, writing on "Our Guardianship in the East," remarks that there can be no doubt great harm has been and is being done both to Eng and and the East, by sending shoals of students to England at their most impressionable age. They become the prey of secret political societies at an age when they are unable to form a sound opinion on any given subject, and the very young almost always regard themselves as infallible. On their return home they find they have lost touch and that things are not as they were. The result is unhappiness, discontent, and a desire to turn their old conservative institutions upside down the moment they have landed. It is this young turbulent minority which causes much of the discontent and unrest in the East.

OUR NATIVE COMPOSERS.

Sir Thomas Beecham, replying to the criticism of having included "Naïl" in his forthcoming season at Covent Garden, says:—I found my range extraordinarily limited. Excellent British composers exist, fortunately, in large numbers; British operatic composers I can count on the fingers of one hand. To write a successful grand opera one must have a sense of the stage, great experience in operatic matters, and some peculiar and indefinable virtue which, for some reason I cannot pretend to discover, is found in our native composers with extreme rarity. I am not going into the musical value of "Naïl," but I ask the musical public to place themselves in my position.

PAGAN SELFISHNESS.

Sir Rider Haggard, the famous novelist writing on the troublous outlook, says: The real troubles of the world to-day come from the witherings of the spirit of Christianity. If you were to run every one of these difficulties to earth, you will find that its roots are back in selfishness and you will find that selfishness is a lack of the spirit of Christianity. If civilisation is to triumph, if it is not to fall in the great coming struggle with which it will presently find itself envisaged, then it must in truth and in deed cultivate that ancient spirit of Christianity without which it must inevitably die.

THE DECIMAL SYSTEM.

The Editor of "Business Organisation" says:—The Report of the Royal Commission which has been considering the decimal system of coinage, has been issued. No legislation is recommended, the report being more or less of a neutral type. If the members of the Commission had been set to keep books and make calculations for one week in England, then to do the same on the continent, where the decimal system is universal, there is no doubt their report would have been quite decisive. No one who had had experience of Continental methods would revert to the archaic ways of this country.

WOMEN AS SAVIOURS.

Mr. J. L. Paton has been giving some "Thoughts for the times." He says: The person who directs the forces of life is the mother. In the mother you have the antithesis of war. War destroys life, woman bears it. War maims, woman heals and cherishes. War wrecks the home, woman makes the home. War deals with masses of men, woman deals with units. The great women of history have been saviours. Joan of Arc saved France. Genevieve saved Paris. Florence Nightingale saved our army.

WOMAN PREDOMINANT.

Judge Parry has been giving his views on the position of woman in the new world that is in the making. He says:—If I were to venture a prophecy about women in the New World I would make bold to say that they will continue to fill the same dominant position that history tells us they filled in the past. Even King Solomon, whose experience of the nature of womenkind was extensive and peculiar, and whose legal power over the sex was absolute, is bound to confess—

The women on my dotage build their sway:
They ask: I grant; they threaten: I obey.

In every play and romance you will find that the heroine is the leading lady, and the hero, what Vincent Crummles called, a walking gentleman. So it has been and so it will be, world without end.

DON'T FORGET THIS
BEFORE YOU LEAVE FOR BLIGHTY.

* THE COLOGNE POST *
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army
I enclose remittance for 15 marks. (From U.K. 2/9.)
Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

PLEASE WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

.....

15 Marks covers all British possessions.

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, November 1, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S/40 British Army of the Rhine.

THE SOLDIERS' FORUM
WRITE TO THE "LETTER-BOX"

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

YOUR PEOPLE WOULD LIKE TO SEE THE "POST" DAILY
SEE FORM ON PAGE 4.

No. 185. COLOGNE, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

AMERICAN MINERS STRIKE.

GOVERNMENT DETERMINED NOT TO SUBMIT TO AVOWED COERCION.

SERIOUS ILLNESS OF BISHOP OF COLOGNE.

AMERICA'S TURN.

MINER'S CHALLENGE TO GOVERNMENT.

The hope that a settlement would take place at the eleventh hour proved a vain one and the most ominous strike in the history of the American nation began at midnight on Friday. Half a million miners ceased work. They are demanding higher pay and a forty-eight hour week and have stated that they intend to force acceptance of their claims by a national stoppage.

The Government remains firm and Mr. Palmer, the United States Attorney General, has issued a grave warning to the men. Plans for combating the strike have been placed before the President, and Mr. Daniels, the Navy Secretary, has announced that sailors will be used to take the place of strikers.

Mr. Palmer describes the strike as a deadly attack on the nation, a challenge to supremacy of law and he proclaims that every resource of the Government will be brought to bear to prevent the national disaster which would inevitably result from a cessation of mining.

According to reports which the United Mineworker's officials have received from various parts of the country the strike thus far has been characterised by the absence of violence or trouble of any kind.

Under an injunction obtained by the Government in the Federal Court at Indianapolis the Strike Headquarters Union Officials have been ordered to withdraw the strike notices and forbidden to disburse Union funds as strike pay. The Government emphasises the fact that the case does not involve the general right of workmen to organise a strike but merely the right of labour to restrict or destroy the supply of food and fuel. Writs were served on eighty-four Union leaders as soon as the injunctions were obtained.

Mr. Gompers, the Labour leader, warns the Government that the injunctions can only result in creating new disturbing issues which may not be confined solely to miners.

Mr. Stone, Head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, together with other Labour leaders, conferred on Sunday with the Attorney General. He said that he could not answer for the railwaymen if the injunctions were pressed. The temper of members of the Brotherhood was strained to breaking point and he feared they would pass out of the control of their leaders.

Troops have been moved quickly to strategic points to protect, firstly, such miners as desire to continue working, and secondly, the strike breakers if the Government decide to take over the mines.

The situation is especially serious for shipowners, who have only just won their battle with the New York longshoremen and are now faced with new difficulties in obtaining bunker coal.

FINLAND AND RUSSIA.

SECRET SESSION TO DECIDE INTERVENTION.

The Swedish newspaper Politiken has received a private message from Helsingfors indicating that the Finnish Government will probably decide to assist General Yudenitch and that a definite decision will probably be taken by the Finnish Parliament, sitting in secret session. Troops, ammunition, guns and other war material have already been sent to the Russo-Finnish frontier.

The cabinet crisis which has been brewing ever since the Finnish Diet assembled has now become acute. M. Procopes, a member of the Diet, asked on Thursday why the Government of the Baltic States had opened peace negotiations with Soviet Russia. The reply of the War Minister, Vennola, provoked sharp criticism from certain deputies, who contended that the Government's Russian policy was vacillating and vague and that several dark points were not elucidated by the Minister.

IRISH HOME RULE.

FEASIBLE SCHEME BEFORE THE COMMITTEE.

One of the plans before the Cabinet Committee which is drafting an Irish Parliament Measure accords to Ireland self-government practically on Dominion lines, with a Parliament for the whole country. Counties would have the right to exclude themselves by vote from the general scheme and could constitute themselves self-governing areas. This is obviously a safeguard for Ulster. Over all authorities would be an independent council nominated by the Lord-Lieutenant and the Irish Privy Council. The scheme should find much support in Committee.

Sir James Barrie was elected Rector of St. Andrews University, defeating the Marquis of Bute.

COLOGNE'S BISHOP.

CARDINAL HARTMANN SERIOUSLY ILL.

We regret to announce that Cardinal Hartmann, Bishop of Cologne, is very seriously ill and on Saturday at 2 p.m. he received the Last Sacrament.

For a long time he had been suffering from facial neuralgia, which has now developed into hemorrhage of the brain, with resultant paralysis.

Dr. Felix von Hartmann, Cardinal of Cologne, was born at Munster, 15th December 1851, coming of an old and well-known family of lawyers. He studied at Munster and was ordained priest on the 19th December 1874, in spite of the severe Prussian laws which then oppressed the Catholic Church.

He went to Rome to study canonical law and became Doctor juris in 1877. In 1880, as the persecutions began to abate, he returned to Germany and became first chaplain at Emmerich, and then secretary of Bishop Dingelstad. In 1910 he was appointed Dean of the Cathedral, having in the meantime been made apostolic protonotaris by His Holiness the Pope. In 1911 he became Bishop of Munster and in 1912 Archbishop of Cologne.

Before the war he was made Cardinal and during the war he was very actively interested in the succour of prisoners and wounded. Only a few weeks ago he presided at the Congress of German Bishops at Fulda.

As we go to press we learn that the Bishop is regarded as in extremis.

LABOUR ALARMED.

STABILISATION OF WAR WAGES.

The Minister of Labour is introducing in the House of Commons to-day a Bill regarding stabilisation of war wages. Two of the clauses sought to make awards and agreements binding on the whole of the trades concerned and further provided that Trade Unions should not support out of their funds any strike by their members against such awards or agreements.

These clauses aroused considerable opposition amongst Trade Union leaders, who regarded them as an attempt to make Labour a party to legislation which would make strikes and lock-outs illegal. After a Conference between the Trade Unions leaders and the Minister of Labour the latter announced that he had decided to omit the two challenged clauses from the Bill.

BOLSHEVIST SHIPS SUNK.

It is reported that the Bolshevists attempted a landing near Petrograd on Thursday but were attacked by British vessels, three Bolshevist ships being sunk. The British are still bombarding Krasnaya Gorka and besieging Kronstadt. The suffering at Petrograd is said to be intense, as the Moscow reinforcements are eating up all the supplies. A Reval telegram says that severe fighting is proceeding between Krasnoeselo and Gatchina, the enemy using armoured trains and armoured motor cars. General Yudenitch reports that he has captured a Communist battalion with commissaries and a large amount of booty.

AFTER EFFECTS OF BOMBS.

On the 29th October the hydro-electric station at Padua, a large building on granite foundations, suddenly collapsed with a deafening crash into the canal on which it stands. The disaster is attributed to the action of Austrian bombs, several of which fell near by in the early part of 1918. The damage is estimated at three million lire and the town remains at present without water or light.

CARDINAL MERCIER IN CANADA.

Cardinal Mercier, who reached Ottawa on the 30th October, was warmly welcomed by members of the Cabinet, civic officials and all classes of the population. He was the guest of honour at a luncheon held at Government House.

In the afternoon the Cardinal gave a public reception and addressed the Canadian Club. In an after-dinner speech he declared "It is a great joy to be with you to celebrate our common victory."

INCLUDING ACTING RANK?

Any officer or employee of the London County Council who has held his Majesty's commission as captain, or higher officer, is to be addressed in the future by his rank whenever spoken to or referred to in official reports and correspondence.

Owing to the shortage of coal all German railway passenger traffic will be stopped for ten days from the 5th November.

PENNANT INQUIRY.

ALL ROUND DENIALS OF IMMORALITY.

The taking of evidence in the Pennant case concluded on Friday.

Colonel Janson denied all Miss Pennant's allegations of immorality at Hurst Park and Wormwood Scrubbs and the suggestion that he connived at such conduct. He also denied the allegations of personal misconduct with Miss Glubb at Mrs. Stewart's house at Wormwood Scrubbs or elsewhere. Hurst Park, he said, was frequently inspected by Staff officers and no adverse report was ever made. He denied that he granted the girls night passes. He was not responsible for the girls after six in the evening. He had no recollection of the incident described by the witness Turnbull. He had never allowed Miss Glubb to sit on his table. Miss Glubb's mother and father, General Sir Frederick Glubb, had been to Hurst Park and taken tea in his room and he had since dined with them in London. The attendance of women officers at the mess was with the full knowledge of headquarters. He once allowed a woman private to attend mess on a guest night as she was the financee of a brother officer.

Witness declared that for months he had suffered from the speech made by Lord Stanhope in the House of Lords, but though his solicitors had asked for details of the allegations none were forthcoming.

At his Area Headquarters he was called before a number of staff officers, who asked about the rumours of immorality, but after investigation they were satisfied that there was evidence to warrant even a formal inquiry. With reference to incidents in Mrs. Stewart's house he said he was never in Miss Glubb's room. One night when he came home after dark, he said, Miss Glubb was standing on the staircase in her dressing gown and stood talking with him there for about a quarter of an hour. Another evening, seeing a light under Miss Glubb's door, he knocked and asked for a match. She brought him some matches downstairs. He told her he thought he was going to have an attack of trench fever and she insisted on getting him a hot water bottle. Next morning she enquired how he was and brought him a thermometer and gave it to him in bed.

Major Carey, who stayed in the same house, denied ever telling Colonel Defries that Colonel Janson had asked him to help get him out of a mess as Mrs. Stewart had found him with Miss Glubb at three in the morning. He did not recollect Mrs. Stewart saying to him "My house is not going to be a disorderly house."

Dr. Sharpe, who was called on behalf of Miss Glubb, said he was of opinion that Miss Glubb had never had sexual intercourse.

Miss Glubb gave evidence corroborating Colonel Janson's account of incidents at Mrs. Stewart's house. She denied having committed immorality with Colonel Janson or anyone else.

The last witness was the well-known authoress, Mrs. Flora Annie Steel, who stated that prior to the 30th June, 1918, Dame Katherine Furse told her that Miss Pennant was ruining the W.R.A.F. She was very unpopular and lacking in tact and did not give the latitude which ought to be allowed young boys. Dame Furse said it was impossible to judge by ordinary standards a boy, who, for all anyone might know, might be killed in the air next morning.

Witness demurred, not merely on moral grounds but on service grounds, pointing out that if a night were spent in roystering, a boy could not safely go flying next morning.

The Attorney-General said that seldom had such grave charges been made with such complete absence of evidence and he proposed to show how completely devoid of substance they were.

The inquiry was adjourned.

JAPANESE NAVAL DISASTERS.

A terrible explosion occurred on a Japanese warship on the 26th October as the result of which a gun turret was blown into the sea and the entire gun crew, consisting of one officer and twelve men, were killed and a number of others injured. The Emperor was a spectator of the disaster.

Another serious accident had occurred earlier in the day, when the destroyer Hamakaze was swept by a great wave. Captain Kawita, who was in the conning tower, was fatally injured and Commander Gasao, commanding the destroyer squadron, was killed.

DISMANTLING HELIGOLAND.

The work of dismantling the fortifications of Heligoland under the terms of the Peace Treaty has been begun by the German authorities.

An Allied mission will later inspect the island to ascertain whether the provisions of the Treaty have been carried out.

DEVIL'S DYKE SOLD.

The famous Devil's Dyke estate, near Brighton, was sold privately on Thursday to a purchaser unconnected with any public body. The estate, comprising 190 acres and a fully licensed hotel, was withdrawn at the auction at £4,900.

Millicent, Duchess of Sutherland, was married at the British Consulate Paris, on Monday, to Lieutenant-Colonel Dawes, D.S.O., M.C., Royal Fusiliers, Knight of the Legion of Honour.

NEGRO RUNS AMOK.

EXCITING SCENE AT THE CORNER HOUSE.

An amazing scene occurred on Saturday afternoon in the Corner House, the well-known restaurant at the corner of Coventry street and Piccadilly Circus, when a coloured man, named Walter Earl, armed with a hatchet ran amok and began destroying crockery. He caused a panic among the visitors, many of whom fled for the exits.

The negro attacked the two superintendents of the restaurant, but finally was overpowered by a chef and arrested. In the course of a statement, Earl, who is an ex-employé of the firm, said he had no intention of hurting anyone but simply wanted to draw attention to his case.

RAVAGES OF WAR.

GOOD PROGRESS WITH RESTORATION.

M. Clavielle, the French Minister of Public Works, has returned from a tour of inspection of the devastated regions with most consoling impressions. He says, inter alia, that at the time of the Armistice there were 33,000 kilometres of main railway lines, 12,000 bridges, and numerous great depots and workshops destroyed.

To-day the main lines have been restored and forty per cent of the work of restoring depots and workshops is completed. Of 48,000 kilometres of roads destroyed 12,000 have been remade, while the majority of the wrecked bridges have been reconstructed.

EX-SERVICE MEN AND SELF-HELP.

Presiding at a meteing of the Imperial Ex-Services Association, Major-Gen. Sir Frederick Maurice estimated that at the present moment 1500 ex-officers are unemployed. He said their motto must be "Self-help". They were against any appeal to the public and it was not practical politics to expect further assistance from the Government.

Captain Board said the number of ex-officers and men on the books of the Ministry of Labour's Appointments Department was 19000 and the number of vacancies at their disposal 4070.

A resolution was carried declaring that in the national interest all ex-service men should unite and organise with a view to placing their services at the disposal of the State, whichever party was in power, in cases of national emergency, for the preservation of live, maintenance of social order and food communications.

RUSSIANS REGAIN GROUND.

According to the latest report, giving the situation as at noon on the 31st October, Yudenitch's Army has regained some ground which had been lost to the South-West of Petrograd. His troops have recaptured Ropscha, within ten miles of Petershof, taking 400 prisoners, whilst on his left the Esthonians have occupied Liiy. South of Krasnoeselo the Russians have advanced to Taiyoy. The gap which opened between the right of the Esthonians and the left of the Russians has now been closed and connection re-established.

Concentration of Bolshevist troops continues, particularly in the area South-West and South of Petrograd. Reinforcements are being sent up from Moscow and the Southern front, including a large number of Communist battalions and detachments from the officers training schools.

LONDON SCOTTISH RALLY.

Olympia was thronged by a great company on the occasion of the London Scottish After-War Reunion. At dinner Colonel B. C. Green presided over a large gathering which included Earl Haig, Honorary Colonel of the regiment, the Marquess of Aberdeen, the Earl of Wemyss, and Lord Balfour of Burleigh. The toast of "Our Chief" (Earl Haig) was enthusiastically honoured.

The war honours gained by the regiment during service on the Western Front and in Palestine comprised two Victoria Crosses, four C.M.G.'s, 18 D.S.O.'s, and numerous other decorations.

AIRMEN IN TROUBLE.

Four of the airmen on their way to the Far East are held up at Valona, Albania, by bad weather. Among them is M. Poulet, the Frenchman who is attempting the Australian flight. He is endeavouring to leave every day, but in addition to other troubles his luggage has been stolen.

ST. ANDREWS' UNIVERSITY.

The Marquis of Bute and Sir James M. Barrie have been nominated for the Rectorship of St. Andrew's University in succession to Earl Haig, whose term of office is expiring. Voting takes place to-morrow.

NEW MASTER OF ORDNANCE.

Lieutenant-General Furse will shortly be vacating the post of Master General of Ordnance on his retirement from the Army to take up a post under the Ministry of Pensions. He will be succeeded by Lieutenant General Du Cane.

REMEMBER OUR DEAD

TOUCHING CEREMONY AT THE SUDFRIEDHOF.

The Sudfriedhof presented a remarkable sight on Saturday morning, when a party of workers journeyed thither to place the wreaths subscribed for by our readers, on the graves of those of our men who died while prisoners in German hands.

Outside the cemetery there was a huge flower market where wreaths, crosses and bunches of flowers might be purchased. Enormous crowds of German people journeyed thither by tram and on foot carrying innumerable floral tributes to their dead. Inside, the cemetery was uncomfortably crowded and progress to one's destination was a slow process. There were dozens of "Vereins" or societies, in processions, carrying various banners, while several bands were playing funeral marches and sacred songs. On many of the tombs candles had been lighted, while flowers and evergreens literally covered the place.

Shortly after ten o'clock the party of British workers, two lady representatives from each of the British institutions on the Rhine, met at the main entrance and waited for the arrival of the wreaths. When the lorry containing these drew up, the party carrying our wreaths moved in the direction of the Prisoners of War plot, the other wreaths being transported in several journeys on a bier provided by the German authorities.

In addition to some 180 wreaths for the individual graves of prisoners of war, there was a large cross surmounted by a wreath, and standing some six feet in height, which was reverently carried up and placed in that portion of the cemetery allotted to the interment of those British soldiers who have passed away while serving with the Army of the Rhine. Exclamations of "schön!", "sehr schön!", "grossartig!" were heard on all sides as this emblem to our departed comrades passed through the crowds of German people.

The Prisoners of War cemetery contains the graves of many nationalities. Cologne was a great clearing centre, prisoners and wounded being sent here for distribution to other places in Germany. Those who were too ill to proceed further were kept here and many succumbed. So we find graves of British, French, Russian, Hindoo, Turk and other combatants all mixed together in the circles surrounding the central patches of German dead. On the grave of each man belonging to the British Empire was placed a wreath of evergreens and white flowers, ornamented with red, white and blue ribbon, to which was tied a card bearing the following inscription:

"In loving Memory of (Name and Regiment)
from the British Colony in Cologne,
Nov. 1. 1919."

"Tell England, ye who pass our monument,
Men who died serving her, rest here content."

On Sunday afternoon an impressive service was held, by permission of the Commander-in-Chief, at the cemetery and was well attended by all ranks. What a difference in the scene! On Saturday the cemetery was bathed in splendid sunshine, although the weather was bitterly cold, but on Sunday all was covered in a pall of snow, and presented an emblematic setting on All Souls' Day to a most impressive ceremony.

The simple service was attended by representatives of the Navy, Army and Royal Air Force. Lady Robertson and Miss Robertson were also present.

The hymns, led by the band of the Inniskilling Dragoons, were "Thine for ever," "For all the Saints" and "On the resurrection morning." An eloquent address by the Chaplain concluded with the inspiring words:

"We are the dead . . .
To you, from failing hands, we throw
The torch. Be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep."

Then, after a telling pause, the preacher gave the answer to the spirits of those who rest in this "corner of a foreign field that is for ever England" — — — "There shall be no faith broken! God rest you, splendid gentlemen!"

The "Last Post" was sounded, after which the Inniskillings' band recalled one's thoughts to mundane affairs with the "Spirit of Pageantry," a stirring march by Percy Grainger.

Another similar ceremony was also conducted over the resting place of Belgian soldiers, on which a large wreath had been deposited, Major Dumont, C.I.N.C., giving the oration.

Photographs of the graves, etc., may be obtained at the British Empire Leave Club, or the Army Publicity Department, The Arcade, Hohestrasse.

Since our last list of contributions was published several further sums have been received. This leaves the fund with a surplus and a Committee will meet during this week to decide to what purpose this shall be devoted. The result of this conference, with the accounts of the fund, will appear in the Cologne Post in due course.

Amount previously acknowledged	10,685.—
Collected, Military Church Service on Saturday morning	330.85
No. 2 Advanced Depot Medical Stores	35.—
Pte. John M. Rougerell, 9th Seaforths	50.—
Mrs. C. Denfield	20.—
Instructional Staff, School of Cookery	50.—
	11,170.85

The Conservative Government of the province of Ontario has resigned. The Leader of the United Farmers' and Labour Coalition has been requested to form a new Government.

KUT COURT MARTIAL.

EVIDENCE IN FAVOUR OF ACCUSED.

The Deputy-Judge-Advocate delivered his summing-up at the court-martial on William Fratel, Assistant Surgeon, who is being tried on charges of neglect and cruelty to British prisoners at Kut.

Addressing the Court he said that the accused, whatever restrictions were placed upon his functions, was regarded as the British Medical officer and was the only man in Bagtsche to whom the prisoners reported. On the other hand the fact must not be overlooked that most of the persons who had given evidence were smarting under a sense of wrong. They had suffered terribly and they had seen men desperately ill and dying and nobody seeming to care. In such circumstances there was also a tendency to seek a scape-goat.

The Court retired to consider its verdict and when they returned evidence of character was taken, the prisoner producing a telegram from the Viceroy of India stating that Fratel was intelligent, efficient, regular, temperate and active but slovenly and inexperienced. Fratel's Counsel said that after the siege of Kut accused received a communication from the commander of the 87th Heavy Battery thanking him for "most excellent work done at No. 9 Indian General Hospital." Counsel appealed for leniency in view of the evidence that accused was a humane man who had done his best in unparalleled circumstances.

Sentence will be promulgated later.

LABOUR CONFERENCE.

GERMANY AND AUSTRIA ON EQUAL TERMS.

Germany and Austria have been admitted on equal rights with other nations to the International Labour Conference now sitting at Washington, by seventy votes to one. The Conference has elected three vice-presidents, Mr. George Barnes of England, representing the Government, Mr. Jules Carlier, Belgium, representing the employers and Mr. Jouhaux, France, representing the workers.

34th DIVISION BATTLEFIELD MEMORIALS.

A meeting representative of the 34th Division was held at York, Major-General C. L. Nicholson being in the chair, to consider the erection of war memorials of the division's exploits in France and Belgium. It was decided to utilise the surplus divisional funds, supplemented by private subscriptions, for the erection of memorials at La Boiselle (Somme, 1916), Mont Noir (battle of the Lys, 1918), and Broonbeck (Paschendaele, 1917). The last memorial will be for Artillery and Engineers only.

ENGLISH MEMORIAL TO GERMAN DEAD.

At the prisoners of war camp at Dorchester forty-four prisoners died during internment. Their comrades have just erected a memorial in Fordington Cemetery, where the men are buried. It is of stone, and represents a kneeling German soldier clasping a rifle in his hands, and beneath is the inscription in German: "Here rest German warriors in foreign soil, but not forgotten." The group is finely sculptured by Josef Walter, of Augsburg. The architect is E. K. Bartholomay, of Elberfeld. Both were prisoners at the camp.

MILKMAN SENT TO PRISON.

At Highgate Police-court John William Jones, of Calverley-grove, Upper Holloway, a milk roundsman, was sentenced to one month's imprisonment on two summonses for overcharging for milk, and the Premier Dairies Limited, of Seven Sisters road, were ordered to pay a fine of £5 on each of four summonses for like offences. The evidence showed that Jones gave short measure to certain of his customers.

The chairman, in sending him to prison, said that a fine would be inadequate to meet the case.

The costs against the dairy company amounted to £8.

ARMISTICE DAY REMEMBRANCE.

On Tuesday, 11th November, Armistice day, a member of the suite of the President of the French Republic will place a wreath on the Cenotaph in Whitehall. He will be received at the Cenotaph by representatives of the Navy, Army, and Air Force.

GERMAN AGENT GUILTY.

Werner Horne, the German agent, who blew up the International railway bridge at St. Croix with dynamite in 1915 and was recently extradited from the United States, has been found guilty.

Brigadier-General H. W. Wilberforce, Base Commandant at Boulogne, has been made a Commander of the Legion of Honour.

The Council of the National Rifle Association have decided that the King's Prize for 1920 shall be open to past and present members of His Majesty's Forces, as it was this year.

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Representative Mr. A.J.R. LEE is at OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

Has recently returned from London with a stock of hosiery & a new selection of patterns for mufti wear. Officers requiring shirts etc. for the winter, can now be supplied from stock.

Rosenhof
COLOGNE, Hohestrasse 9.

5 o'clock Tea and evening entertainment. From 5.30 till 10.45 p.m. continuous performance. Renowned singers, dancers and reciters. First Class House for Officers and Civilians only.

ODEON COLOGNE
HOHESTRASSE 9
Variety performance from 7-10.45 p.m.

COLOGNE, Bürgergesellschaft
MODERN CONCERT
TWO PIANOS AND SONGS
Wednesday, 5th Nov. 1919, 7.30 p.m.
Frau Olga Bölsche } Piano
Frl. Sophie Moser }
Engelbert Haas, Baritone
Accompaniment:
Prof. v. Othegraven. Fritz Fleck
at Ibach grand piano
Tickets 6.90, 5.50, 4.40, 2.30
at Tonger's, am Hof 30 and Könemann, Rudolfsplatz 4

Cologne, Tuesday, 4th November, 8 p.m.
WOLKENBURG
Modern dances
Suse Eisler · Gustav Hölzer
Tickets at Tonger, Am Hof, Könemann Rudolfp a z.

Gold Krone
EKS
Registered Mark
Ewald Kron, Solingen
Special Razor Manufacturers
Tel. 1934 Telegr.-Address: Goldkrone Solingen
Registered EKS Trade Mark
First quality only. Guarantee with each article. To be obtained in all good shops.

WHOLESALE TOY CENTRE
Novelties
Musical Instruments of all kinds.
PAUL HORSTMANN
COLOGNE, Schildergasse 112
Export to all countries
Representative of first-class manufacturers
Sale from Depot open 8-1, 3-7 pm.

Court Hairdressers
& Beauty Specialists
FR. TH. STOELTZNER, Gereonstr. 16.
London Experience – Reasonable Charges
Tram-lines 11, 18, 20 past the Shop

FOTAX
Dark room Lamp 2.75
" " 3.50
Bromide Postcards, per hundred . . 6.—
" " per thousand . 55.—
Self toning Postcards, per hundred 12.—
Tripods, wood . . . . . 9.—
" " folding . . . . . 20.—
Tripods, brass telescopic . . . . . 30.—
Camera 6 X 9 cm . . . . . 65.—
" 6 X 9 cm double anastigmat 150.—
" 9 X 12 cm . . . . . 70.—
" 9 X 12 cm double anastigmat 200.—
SCHILDERGASSE 55a
Next the C. of E. Military Church.

First-class manufactory of furniture wants
Foreign partner with 300 000 M. capital against participation for half.
Apply to M.M. 3932 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

ENORMOUS SUCCESS OF
"THE JESTERS"
The first civilian music hall party to visit Rhineland.
SIX LONDON VARIETY ARTISTES INCLUDING
Mr.
JOE MORLEY
The famous Banjoist of the London Palladium
Miss MABEL MARTIN.
Miss JESSIE MOUNTJOY.
Mr. HARRY KING.
Mr. FRANK HOOK.
Mr. CHASS LEWIS.

Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage The Jesters. Vacant dates Monday Oct. 27th, Thurs., 30th, and Sat. Nov. 1. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office or may be seen personally at 11 o/c each morning at Amusements Office, Komödienstrasse, Cologne.

Paula Desborough
Has left Cologne for a short holiday in London, and returns Wednesday Nov. 12th.

Information reparding appointments for, and lessons in dancing after that date may be obtained, during her absence at:

The KAISER WILHELM HOTEL
Kaiser Wilhelm Ring. Telephone A 4325.

BACKHAUS
PIANO RECITAL
AT THE BÜRGERGESELLSCHAFT
COLOGNE
TO-NIGHT
at 7.30 p.m.

BEETHOVEN, Sonato in D minor
MOZART, Sonato in A major
REGER, Variations on a theme by BACH
CHOPIN, Ballade in G minor
Waltz in A flat
Berceuse
Schertzo in B flat minor

Book at the hall or usual Agents and Music sellers.

Reflex camera (Klapp-Spiegel) with Zeiss-Tessar 4. 5. Also Goerz Taro Tenax 9 by 12, with D. A. Dagor lens. Zeiss, Goerz and Voigtländer prismatic glasses.
Good opportunity to purchase.
Funk, wholesale photographic dealer
Köln, Elstergasse 8. near Museum.
'phone B 4484.

FOOTBALL
Boots 85.– Football 25.–
Mind the address
Schuhhaus SPIEGEL
COLOGNE-EHRENFELD
Venloerstrasse 308 B.

PELZHAUS WEILLER
FURS
COLOGNE, 4 Rudolfplatz
(Near Opernhouse) — Refined work
English spoken

ART PORCELAIN
for sale. Beautifully coloured, comprising Dinner, Coffee and Tea and Fruit services, Centre piece, Vases, Figures and Groups.
Only finest quality.
JOSEF MARTIN Steinweg 6, am Gürzenich.

One Fox-skin rug, comprising 20 choicest selected pelts, for sale. Write A 326, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

PARENTS
read "The Cologne Post". Send it daily to yours.

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor

Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???
Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!
The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!
TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.
Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 32-34.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE:
From Nov. 3rd the Deutsches Theatre performances will commence at 6 p.m. nightly, excepting Wednesdays and Fridays, when they will begin at 8 p.m.

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.

Monday, November 3rd,
at 6 p.m. and nightly
THE BRITISH RHINE ARMY DRAMATIC COMPANY
presents
"THE SILVER BOX"
A Comedy in three acts by
John Galsworthy
Large Caste. Special Attraction.

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.

Monday, November 3rd,
and nightly at 6 p.m.
ANOTHER SPECIAL ATTRACTION
First Visit of
Mr. ALFRED HURLEY'S FAMOUS LONDON CONCERT PARTY
"THE ECCENTRICS" including the great
"DATAS"
The man with the marvellous memory
Usual prices. Book Early.

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA. 32 Komödienstrasse
At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures
Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.
Grand Orchestra and Pictures.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA. Hohe Strasse
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS,
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 653. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.
Subscript.: In Rhine Army area 9 mks. 50 pfg. a month, post free.
To Great Britain or Colonies, 15 marks a month post free.

Monday, November 3, 1919.

BOXING ETHICS.

"Pussyfoot" proper is a narrow minded "wowser" who objects to his neighbour imbibing strong drinks, even in moderation, what time he himself drinks innocuous beverages to excess. Among his half-brothers is the equally irrational individual who regards the noble art of boxing as a degrading exhibition detrimental to participant and onlooker alike.

Quite recently a good deal of indignation was aroused in certain quarters in consequence of the letting of the Royal Albert Hall of Arts and Sciences in London to a sporting syndicate for a series of professional prize-fights. Artistic "Pussyfoots" who had been silent while the same building re-echoed with the sounds of dance music, were up in arms.

A little later the Cardiff freechurchmen prevailed over an enlightened and progressive School Management Committee who had the wisdom to approve of the teaching of boxing in schools.

Not to be outdone in the realms of premeditated folly the Acton Borough Council immortalised itself last week and added to the gaiety of nations by permitting boxing in one of their institutions on condition that "knock-outs" were strictly forbidden. If only the gentle slaps can be kept in moderation, Angelic Acton may yet become a "Pussyfoot" paradise.

In Rhineland, and in the Army of all places, a little bleat has now been heard in consequence of a bold bad firm showing films depicting pugilistic encounters. With a lily-white hand, and, fortified we venture to presume, by a glass of water, a correspondent signing himself "Anti-Box" has written to us taking grave exception to such an exhibition.

The Army was ever a nursery of master-boxers, and what is equally creditable, the lure of a heavy laden purse is not required among us in order to bring exponents of the art together. Sport of every variety and notably boxing, at present, is admittedly not what it was. We have a grievious insufficiency of peerless Jim Driscolls in the arena. Exponents of the noble art such as he recently gave at the National Sporting Club in his memorable fight with Charles Ledoux are few and far between, but that scarcely justifies detractors in denouncing the sport as a sport.

The ring and brutality are certainly not synonymous terms, and if the "Pussyfoots" desire to render mankind a service let them endeavour to find more Driscolls or Wildes, who are the embodiment of perfect chivalry and manliness, rather than denounce pugilism as low and degrading.

THE SENSATIONS OF FLYING.

"THE SWAYING OF THE EARTH."

The forces on an airplane can be measured by a delicate little instrument called an "accelerometer." Although it has a good scientific name, it has all the merit of being a very prosaic instrument which measures the heaviness with which a pilot sits on his seat. Ducking the nose of the airplane tends to throw the aviator out, and at the moment at which he loses his seat the instrument reads zero.

During a loop it may indicate that instead of a real weight of 10 stone, the pilot's apparent weight is 40 stone. His head is then very heavy on his shoulders, and on the one occasion on which I experienced the sensation my head was distinctly unstable, and an incautious movement brought it forward "out of control."

One record made occupied nearly half-an-hour in the taking, of which about 20 minutes was in the air. The instrument, designed by Dr. Searle, F.R.S., of the R.A.E., was strapped to the knee of an observer, and at intervals the pilot interposed some of the trick evolutions of flying on the more normal course of the flight.

The first clear deduction from the record is the uneventfulness of straight flying, especially at good heights. This is shown by the tendency of the record to keep about the value 1, so that the pilot and passenger have their usual weight.

Flying low down it was noticed that the changes called "bumps" sometimes reduce a pilot's apparent weight to half its ordinary value, and at other times increase it to nearly one and a-half times.

The sensations are very like those experienced on a switch-back or mountain railway, and in a well shielded cockpit this is the only noticeable effect of motion on the sense of feel. The earth, however, becomes far less impressive as the representative of solidity and has its attributes transferred to the airplane.

So much is this the case, that in a loop it is the earth which goes over your head, whilst in a banked S turn the waves of a high sea are less wonderful than the swaying of the earth.

These impressions are very real, and have a rational basis; we are so accustomed to living on the earth and to the use of such instruments as levels that it needs a definite effort to realise that on an airplane a level does not indicate the horizontal.

On the contrary a level will consistently say horizontal when the airplane is banked to 45 deg. or more, and not only does the level say this, but the pilot's sensations of feel tell him he is sitting upright. In the absence of side-slipping the local level is given by the wings of an airplane.

With an horizon visible a pilot can keep level relative to the earth by the use of his eyes, but this power is removed by immersion in a cloud. By the use of instruments of a not very intricate nature, straight flying can be conducted in a cloud, and fog is not by any means an insuperable bar to aerial navigation.

Leaving the record of ordinary flight and coming to the "stunts" it will be found that on two occasions the pilot was in danger of leaving his seat, and the importance of a belt will be appreciated. Looping and spinning produce heaviness on the whole, the extreme value being nearly three times the normal.

A rapid turn almost always increases the apparent weight, and in a mock fight it is very noticeable that the greater number of manœuvres seat the pilot more solidly, and therefore help in the accurate control of the airplane's motion. In a few instances and for a few seconds the apparent weight is zero, whilst the extreme in the other direction is as great as four times the normal. — L. Bairstow in "Engineering".

SHERLOCK HOLMES IN GERMANY.

There is no doubt that much can be learned of a country from a study of its novels and its theatres. Fiction and plays are written to please the taste of the people who are to patronise them.

They are written to be read or to be acted, and the writers of them therefore do their best to make them acceptable to their public by catering for it's taste.

Of late years the generalisation that a people is reflected in its drama and its stories, has become even more applicable to the cinema, since the appeal of the "movies" is wider than that of either the theatre or the novel. It was interesting, therefore, a few days ago, to see a popular Cologne Lichtspielhaus advertising a Sherlock Holmes film, and I eagerly took a seat to see what the German producer would make of our national detective hero.

Alas! how are the mighty fallen! The central figure of the story bore his name and certain of his bodily characteristics, but of his essential self, nothing at all.

He was sentimentalised out of all possible recognition. His intellectual qualities were nil; the very idea of Holmes the sleuthhound combining sentimentality with the practice of his profession is unthinkable to his many acquaintances in England.

Indeed he makes no attempt to hide his scorn of poor old Watson for falling a victim to love in "The Sign of Four" and in stories such as "The Speckled Band." Where he has to deal with women he hides any chivalrous feelings he may experience under the iron mask of the criminal expert.

His only pieces of deduction are to guess from finding a smelly handkerchief clenched in the hand of a murdered man that the drug on it has caused his death and to theorise.

From seeing an electric lamp apparently light itself, deduces that it is a signal from someone elsewhere, on which he follows up the in piration by tracing the wire under a rug and so to an exit in the wall. All are exploits which even Watson himself might have managed.

Dear old Watson appears in the German film under the alias of Mr. Tom Foster, and his only role is to pretend to be a patient so that Holmes may take him to visit the Indian Doctor, who is the villain of the piece. This he does with true Watsonian meekness and intrepidity.

But the really dreadful thing is that Holmes unravels the mystery simply by making love to the lady in the case and thereby getting her to reveal the whole thing to him. It is pitiful.

And there is no question of this being a ruse on his part, or a clever piece of acting. He is as genuinely passionate as she is obligingly yielding, and the whole mystery is made plain over a cup of tea and a cigarette in her boudoir. Holmes is only saved from matrimony by the Lady Enrichetta luckily getting shut up in mistake inside the Indian's poisoned chamber. I have moreover a distressing suspicion that if there are any more films in this series, Holmes will be provided with a fresh ladylove in each one. I must own that one came away with a feeling that one had witnessed something in the nature of a degradation of a national hero and personally I much prefer to continue thinking of the real Sherlock as pursuing his relentless unsentimental career in his bachelor rooms in Baker Street. E.A.D.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

EYES AND NO EYES.

Sir,—There are a great many points, I, together with many others, think England would be wise to copy from this country, as it is obvious to all who can appreciate detail how wonderfully well Germany is organised and how she lays herself out to satisfy the masses with good cheap amusements and always keeps in mind the health of the nation.

"Anglia" is unfortunate in mentioning telephones, as what telephone service could be worse than ours? Naturally Germany does not use her best railway carriages in occupied area.

Both English and German drainage systems are of the best, but Germany's sanitary system beats ours as regards cleanliness of streets and also in the prevention of fogs.

Here the fumes of factories are collected and by chemical action converted into many useful by-products which not only prevent fog but also make money. In England we are willing to carry on in an old-fashioned way, waste useful by-products and give the people the discomfort and injurious effects of fog.

The majority of English houses are not furnished so comfortably as the majority here, as in England we are content with only one comfortable chair in a room and too many useless small tables and chairs, whereas, here comfort and usefulness come first.

Our public-houses and many of our restaurants are a disgrace to civilization. Is "Anglia" aware that the workers in public-houses form the greatest number in proportion of those suffering from tuberculous disease of all trades? Germany's cafes and restaurants are vastly superior to ours in every detail.

The central heating of houses prevents the change of temperature on going from one room to another and keeps a uniform heat throughout. Germany's electric light system supplies small cottages in the country at a trivial cost.

How many country houses, leaving out cottages, have electric light or even gas in England?

Three trams coupled together hold more than our double-decked trams, and also, here the trams go far into the country, whereas ours appear to be afraid to pass the last house.

Lastly, workhouses do not exist in Germany, which fact speaks volumes for organisation. CAPTAIN R.A.M.C.

WHY NOT ONE ORGANIZATION?

Sir,—I am for demobilization, and another week will see me the other side of the channel and clad I hope in "civvies."

There will doubtless come the desire to associate with ex-soldiers. I shall miss the breezy talk of the mess, and the good-fellowship which has made life livable during the past few eventful years.

Where can I find this? At home there are several organisations claiming the support of ex-soldiers. The Comrades of the Great War, the Discharged Soldiers' and Sailors' Federation, the Ex-Officers Union are three which come to mind. There are others I know.

Why in the name of common-sense cannot all these organizations link together? Cut out politics and party wangling and set out to provide clubs and meeting-places for the men who have saved the country in every township laying claim to size. TINKER.

NEWS FROM THE RHINE.

Sir,—Turning over the pages of English newspapers I have from time to time been struck by the amount of balderdash which appears there in relative to our life on the Rhine.

An example was served up yesterday. The writer, referring to life in Coblenz, says: "The shops which were empty three months ago are full of English goods—chiefly food and tobacco. Boots are practically unobtainable."

This statement, contrary to fact, is of little consequence except that it is a sample of the sort of twaddle served up by alleged correspondents, special and amateur, for consumption at home.

FACTS.

OUR WAR DOGS.

Sir,— I notice that the French authorities have recognised the services of their war dogs by decorating them with souvenir collars.

As a dog-lover I cannot help contrasting this with our treatment of the dogs which rendered such excellent service. What happened to them? They were disposed of to all and sundry, and though many an English home would gladly have welcomed a doggy guest. they were allowed to drift.

Far better to have afforded wider facilities for cheap quarantine and thus allowed Tommy to chaperone these war heroes for the remainder of their days.

VERITAS.

BOXING FILMS

Sir,—That, in the first place, a British soldier, as I assume "Anti-Box" is, should start debasing his own national sport is at once an unpatriotic and unredeemable sin. What more interesting, edifying, exhilarating pastime, more suited for physical development, more encouraging to manly habits than the science of "fisticuffs"? Besides providing pleasant and attractive entertainment, it promotes those qualities so essential to commercial life of the present time. Quickness, decision, determination, pluck, ease of carriage and a sportsmanlike disposition.

Secondly—That a soldier, who may or may not have seen active service in the field, should try to lower the present high appreciation, existing among the troops, of the Y.M.C.A's principles, is another deplorable sign of ingratitude and narrow-minded consciousness.

"SPORTY BOYEE."

PLAINLY MARKED PRICES.

Sir,—In spite of the proceedings recently taken, many shopkeepers in Cologne are again failing to mark the prices of their goods, and it would seem that unceasing vigilance is required to ensure the continuance of this valuable safeguard for British customers, and incidentally the Germans themselves.

Perhaps the chief delinquents in this respect are high-class jewellers, who appear to be under the impression that they are exempt from the order. To merely ticket an article and skilfully hide the figures from view is not enough, and they should be made to clearly shew the price. SAPPER

PLAYS SOME PEOPLE WANT.

Sir,—Would it be asking too much to enquire of your correspondent what he really means by his statement that some of the efforts of the R.A.D.C. "are too ambitious, both for the audience and the actors"?

Presumably, though he does not say so quite definitely, we (the audience) are unable to appreciate, and the actors adequately to present much of what we see at the Deutsches Theatre. I don't wish to argue about that point. I have my own opinion.

Speaking on behalf of a few friends—regular patrons and myself, —I say we do not want the present standard of drama lowered to that of banal London dramas as suggested by your correspondent.

The plays he particulary objects to are, in my humble estimate, some of the best things they have done. Shaw, for example, is perhaps the most brilliant wonder of comedy to-day, so humorous and energetic—never degenerating to the flaccid and enervating, while the presentation of "Damaged Goods" and "Strife" is a matter about which there can hardly be two reasoned opinions. Both have a very great bearing on matters of to-day — it is surely unnecessary to dilate on this.

Might I point out that—without wishing to detract from the excellent educational work done here — in the opinion of a number of people the R.A.D.C. is the greatest educative force in the Rhine Army? To lower its standard would be the greatest disaster that could happen to it. M.K.

RHINE ARMY CHORAL SOCIETIES.

Sir,—You have been good enough to promise to insert in the Amusements column of this issue of your excellent paper a notice respecting the alterations in the times of renearsals of the Male and Mixed Voices Choral Societies.

I venture to trespass upon the space devoted to "Letters to the Editor" in order to call attention to this notice. The Male Voice Society was formed in January last and has since faced the perpetual difficulty of "demobilization" bravely but anxiously.

At present this difficulty is becoming so serious that unless we can obtain some more members from units likely to remain in the occupied area for some time, we shall soon be unable to carry on.

There is an excellent library of both male voice and mixed voice music, and an excellent room in which to rehearse. All we want is an increased membership, and I can assure all who are disposed to join us that the time they will devote to the work will be both pleasant and instructive. G. E. SYKES, Capt. R.G.A.

THE NEW IDEAL.

Sir,—T. H. will agree with me when I say employers who decline to recognise their contracts entered into on the outbreak of war should be pilloried.

Our soldier organisations might well prepare a black list for the benefit of the general public. I hear of one union whose list of unemployed is in the main made up of men who find their former jobs closed to them.

I have just returned to the Rhine from leave, and am of opinion that after all life in the Army of Occupation has its compensations.

What has become of the sentiments expressed in the song "We will love you, kiss you, when you come back home again"? All my female acquaintances wanted to know why I was in khaki. I fled. WILLY.

UP-HILL.

Does the road wind up-hill all the way?
Yes, to the very end.
Will the day's journey take the whole long day?
From morn to night, my friend.

But is there for the night a resting-place?
A roof for when the slow dark hours begin.
May not the darkness hide it from my face?
You cannot miss that inn.

Shall I meet other wayfarers at night?
Those who have gone before.
Then must I knock, or call when just in sight?
They will not keep you standing at the door.

Shall I find comfort, travel-sore and weak?
Of labour you shall find the sum.
Will there be beds for me and all who seek?
Yea, beds for all who come.

C. G. ROSSETTI

SATURDAY'S FOOTBALL RESULTS. | GRANDCOURT WINS THE LONDON CUP. | VICTORIES FOR NEWMAN AND REECE.

SOCCER PERSONALITIES.

Some Reflections on Outstanding League Players.

BY "ORDNANCE."

Barson, the Villa's new centre-half, who was lately transferred from Barnsley, is a player with a future, although he has already had a benefit in class football. He is still young, and was picked up by Barnsley six years ago from one of the very junior clubs in Sheffield. This is some what extraordinary in view of the fact that at the time, both the Sheffield teams were badly in need of half-backs.

* * *

Cresswell, the South Shields back is playing his first season in class football. He is a youngster with a good kick and the coolness of a veteran. S. Shields have already been tempted to transfer him.

* * *

Bradford are fortunate in securing a centre like McLean. Sheffield Wednesday supporters must wonder why he is not in their team, as they could do with him very well these days. He is a bustler who grabs opportunities, has a tremendous kick and has scored more long range goals than any other centre I know of.

* * *

It is a pity that Manchester United and Meredith cannot come to terms, as the lack of a satisfactory settlement is keeping out of the game one of the most wonderful players who ever played. A gentleman; cool, tricky; fleet of foot and full of anticipation are Meredith's great points.

* * *

The old Newcastle outside right, Rutherford, who is now with the Arsenal, wears well in spite of the vigorous attentions that a lot of left backs used to bestow upon him.

* * *

Pagnam, the Arsenal's new centre, is the right man to snap up opportunities. Hardinge, and another forward of his type, would strengthen the team.

* * *

Many longing eyes have been cast on Lane, Blackpool's star goal-getter, but up to now, Blackpool have said "Nothing doing" to all enquirers.

* * *

Good centre forwards are not so plentiful to-day as they were ten years ago. I think that backs have made a finer art of their defensive methods and that may be the cause of the shortage of centre-forwards of the Freeman, Appleyard and Bullet Jones kind.

COCK FOR CHELSEA.

Huddersfield Pilot and Internationalist Signed On.

The transfer has been completed of J. G. Cock, the Huddersfield Town and International centre-forward, to the Chelsea club, the amount of the transfer fee not being divulged by the Huddersfield officials.

Cock went from Huddersfield Town to Brentford in the season 1914-15. Soon afterwards he joined the Army, becoming physical instructor, and afterwards sergeant-major, and winning the D.C.M.

Last season he assisted Brentford, and played in the North v. South match.

This season he has played centre-forward for England against Wales at Stoke, and against Ireland at Belfast. A Londoner by birth, Cock is 23 years of age. He will play against Bradford at Stamford Bridge to-day.

INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL.

The following are the dates of the Association International matches this season:—

Nov. 15.—England v. Ireland, in England (Amateur).
Feb. 14.—Ireland v. Wales, in Ireland.
Feb. 23.—Wales v. Scotland, in Wales.
March 13.—Scotland v. Ireland, in Scotland.
March 15.—England v. Wales, in England.
March 20.—Scotland v. Ireland, in Scotland.
April 10.—England v. Scotland, in England.

BOXERS V. ACTORS.

A football match is being arranged between a team of champion boxers and one from the theatrical companies of Mr. C. B. Cochran, on behalf of St. Dunstan's. The game will be played at Craven Cottage, on a date to be announced later.

LEEDS UNITED.

It is proposed to float the newly formed Leeds United Association Football Club as a limited liability company, with a nominal capital of £25,000, of which it is suggested £10,000, should be paid up.

LONDON COMBINATION FIXTURES.

Nov. 5.—Crystal Palace v. Clapton Orient.
Nov. 8.—Clapton Orient v. Fulham; Millwall v. Queen's Park Rangers; West Ham v. Arsenal.
Nov. 10.—Chelsea v. Tottenham Hotspur.
Nov. 13.—Clapton Orient v. Crystal Palace.
Nov. 15.—Fulham v. Chelsea; Arsenal v. Millwall; Queen's Park Rangers v. West Ham.
Nov. 19.—Crystal Palace v. Fulham.
Nov. 20.—Clapton Orient v. Tottenham Hotspur.
Nov. 22.—Clapton Orient v. Arsenal; Brentford v. Queen's Park Rangers; Crystal Palace v. Millwall; West Ham v. Fulham.
Nov. 29.—Arsenal v. Clapton Orient; Millwall v Crystal Palace; Queen's Park Rangers v. Tottenham Hotspur; Fulham v. West Ham.

The Professional Charity Fund match between West Ham and Millwall will be played on Oct. 20.

SATURDAY'S FOOTBALL.

Notts County Atone for Last Week's Big Debacle.

A ROYAL SPECTATOR.

Aston Villa continued to advance, on Saturday by defeating Middlesboro a second time, and their spell of ill-luck seems to have ended. Notts County, as forecasted in our columns, were all out to avenge their 8—1 defeat at the Hawthorns and succeeded in putting the figure 3 in the "Throstles" lost column, a splendid performance.

Newcastle's victory over Preston, plus the defeat of West Bromwich puts the brilliant Tynesiders at the head of the table. Manchester United are a team of triers and their performance against Sheffield United is worthy of note.

At Stamford Bridge where Chelsea defeated Bradford the King of Spain was an interesting and interested spectator.

Second Division.

Coventry are still sighing for their first win, but recent performances and especially that of Saturday when going under by one goal at Bristol suggest it is not far off. Huddersfield defeated Fulham and were worthy winners while Stocke's win at Rotherham was a fine performance. Tottenham continue their old sweet way and Birmingham turned the tables at Upton Park.

Southern League.

Brentford did well to draw with Plymouth and Cardiff's victory at Millwall provided the "Lions" with a distasteful surprise. Reading now top the table by their draw at Southend, Swindons win over Queens Park Rangers being an astonishing and meritorious performance. Watford found their shooting boots against Merthyr and Northampton forgot theirs, Luton putting on four to a single reply.

Scottish League.

In the Scottish League Celtic triumphed at Greenock, and Rangers put on the biggest score of the day against Third Lanark. There is merit in Hibs. drawing at Hampden Park, and Dumbarton's win over Clyde was an unexpected happening. Heart's win at home at Motherwell's expense renders the latter's position at third place on the table very insecure.

Appended are the results.—

Paris (Association).

Paris League	4	London League	3

First League.

Aston Villa	5	Middlesboro	3
Blackburn R	3	Everton	2
Bolton W.	1	Sunderland	0
Bradford City	1	Arsenal	1
Chelsea	4	Bradford	0
Live pool	0	Burnley	1
Manchest r United	3	Sheffield United	0
Newca tle United	1	Preston	0
Notts County	2	West Bromwich	0
Oldham	3	Derby	0
Sheffield Wed.	0	Manchester City	0

Second League.

Blackpool	3	Leicester	0
Bristol City	1	Coventry	0
Clapton	1	Lincoln C.	0
Huddersfield	3	Fulham	0
Hull City	4	Grim by	1
Rotherham	1	Stoke	3
South Shields	0	Bury	0
Stockport C.	1	Barnsley	0
Tottenham Hotspur	2	Port Vale	0
We t Ham	1	Birmingham	2
Wolverhampton	4	Notts Forest	0

Southern League.

Brighton	0	Exeter City	0
Brentford	0	Plymouth A.	0
Crystal Palace	3	Southampton	0
Millwall	1	Cardiff	2
Nort ampton	1	Luton	4
Norwich C.	5	Bristol Rovers	1
Newport	0	Swansea	3
Portsmouth	4	Gillingham	0
Swindon	5	Queen's Park Rangers	2
Southend	2	Reading	2
Watford	5	Merthyr	0

Scottish League.

Aberdeen	2	Airdrieonians	1
Albion Rovers	2	Ayr United	1
Morton	1	Celtic	2
Clyde	1	Dumbarton	2
Clydebank	3	Dundee	3
Hamilton A.	3	Falkirk	1
Hearts	2	Motherwell	0
Queen's Park	2	Hibernians	2
Kilmarnock	3	St. Mirren	2
Raith Rovers	2	Partick Thistle	0
Glasgow Rangers	6	Third Lanark	1

Rugby.

Richmond	0	Cambridge	28
Harlequins	0	Oxford	33
Blackheath	47	Rosslyn Park	3
Old Merchant Taylors	14	Air Force	8
Portsmouth U. Services	9	Chatham U. Services	3
Newport	5	Swansea	0
Northampton	22	London Welsh	7
Llanelly	15	Cardiff	5
Liv rpool	8	Manchester	31
Yorkshire	8	Army	3

NOTHING DOING.

Much amusement was caused in the Sale Ring at Newmarket last week when Scimitar, a yearling gelding, was led in for the third time that week.

"Will anyone give three guineas for him," asked Mr. Tattersall, and as this was not forthcoming he asked for a bid of any kind, but nobody would offer a guinea, so the animal was led out amid roars of laughter.

HOCKEY MATCH.

G.H.Q. and the Physical Training staffs both raised scratch teams for Saturday. A keen and enjoyable game finally resulted in a win for the "Tabs" by six goals to four.

CAMBRIDGE ROWING CLUB.

It has been decided to revive the Cambridge Amateur Rowing Club, which has been in abeyance since 1914. Seven of the members were killed in the war, and the decorations won include 1 M.B.E., 3 M.C.'s, 1 bar to M.C., 1 M.S.M., and 1 Medaille Militaire. Mr. J. B. Peace is to be president, Mr. E. Fornochon treasurer, and Mr. C. V. Canning secretary, and a sub-committee has been formed to bring about the reconstruction.

ENGLISH RACING.

Grandcourt Wins the London Autumn Cup at A.P.

SUCCESS AT LAST.

At Alexandra Park on Saturday the weather was showery and the going good.

Grandcourt after a series of failures succeeded in winning the London Autumn Cup. Deta ls:—

Broomfield Plate:—1, Bridgend (2-1 on); 2, Monsyl (100-8); 3, Furia (7-1). Six ran.

Finchley Plate:—1, Fair Oaks (6-4); 2, Prince Danilo (2-1); 3, Flor de Solar (7-2). Four ran.

Maiden Plate:—1, White Bell (2-1); 2, Happy Gleam (6-4); 3, Warburton (10-1). Seven ran.

Woodland Nursery:—1, Savile Row (2-1); , Aerolite (2-1); 3, Belle filly (100-8). Eleven ran.

London Cup:—1, Grandcourt (9-1); 2, Roideur (10-1); 3, Wilkin (20-1).

THE DERBY CUP.

List of Acceptances For Race on Friday, Nov. 14.

Derby Cup (1m. 6f.) (Handicap) of 1,250 sovs; winner after Oct. 23 of any race of a mile or more value 150 sovs 5 lb, of two such races or of one value 200 sovs, 7 lb, of one value 400 sovs 10 lb, of Liverpool Autumn Cup 14 lb ex; 2nd rec 100 sovs and 3rd 50 sovs; ent. 25 sovs for starters (30 entries; ft dec for 10).—Closed Oct. 14.

(Acceptances.)

Queen's Square (Mr. A. R. Cox) Taylor	4	9	1
Zinovia (Mr. Michalinos) F. Hunt	4	8	12
Wildwood (Ld. Osmaston) Burns	5	8	5
The Midshipmite (Ld. Glanely) Barling	3	8	4
Planet (Mr. G. Barclay) Tabor	5	8	3
Buckthorn (Mr. C. Garland) Colling	4	8	1
Royal Bucks (Lady Queensberry) Sievier	6	7	11
Gay Lord (Mr. J. White) Cottrill	3	7	8
Rizzio (Ld. Rosebery) F. Hartigan	3	7	4
Water Bed (Sir H. Bird) Sievier	a	7	4
Rothesay Bay (Ld Derby) Lambton	3	7	4
Sheriff's Officer (Mr. W. de Pledge) Rhodes	4	7	2
Elsinore (Mr. Cazalet) Taylor	3	7	1
Rosecrop (Ld. Derby) Lambton	4	6	13
Frank Webber (Mr. H. Hartigan) F. Hartigan	3	6	13
Daphne (Mr. Sol Joel) Leates	3	6	12
Square Measure (Mr. Reid Walker) Rogers	4	6	12
Alasnam (Sir A. Bailey) R. Day	3	6	10
Kroo-Boy II. (Ld. Zetland) Dundas	a	6	9
Palatina (Mr. Cazalet) Taylor	3	6	3

EPSOM STABLE LADS.

The strike of Epsom stable lads continues. Two members of the committee went to Alexandra Park Races on Saturday to receive subscriptions from sympathetic racegoers.

AUSTRALIAN RACING.

The Victoria race was run on Saturday on Flemington race course and resulted:—Richmond Main, 1; Artilleryman 2; Surveyed 3. The winner won by half a length. Time 2 minutes 3¾ seconds; betting 5 to 1 against winner.

M. H. Gray's Sea Bloom has arrived at Chantilly from Ireland.

The 'chaser Papachif broke a shin bone at Auteuil, and has had to be destroyed.

O'Neill has signed an agreement to ride for M. Eknayan next season when not required by M. Vanderbilt.

M. Vanderbilt heads the list of winning owners in France with 426,355 francs, followed by Baron Ed. Rothschild with 418,200 francs, while M. Eknayan is third with 403,531, preceding M. Cohn 315,255.

SPORT IN BRIEF.

S. London Cricket League.

It is proposed to revive the South London Cricket League next year.

3,000 Gns. For Mirage.

At Newmarket last week Lady James Douglas gave 3,000 guineas for Mirage, a Spearmint mare covered by Cicero.

Re-signed.

West Ham have re-signed D. Bailey, their pre-war inside-right, who has just been demobilized.

Alasnam and Sir Berkeley.

Alasnam, 4th and Sir Berkeley 5th finished close together in the Cambridgeshire, only a neck or a head dividing them as they passed the judge.

Another Jockey for India.

Flanagan sailed for India by the s.s. Loyalty on Saturday having accepted an engagement to ride for Mr. Langley during the winter.

Cambridge U. Cricket.

The following have been elected for next season's Cambridge University cricket team:—Captain, G. E. C. Wood; hon. secretary, G. Wilson; assistant treasurer, G. Ashton.

The Duke of Toledo.

An interesting spectator at the Cambridgeshire on Wednesday was the King of Spain, who in his own country employs the "nom-de-course" of Duke of Toledo.

Trial Eight Race.

The Cambridge University Trial Eight Race will be rowed over the famous Queen Adelaide course, below Ely, on Saturday, December 6. The two selected crews will row from Cambridge to Ely a week before the race.

On the Sick List.

W. Lewis, the Ilford goalkeeper, has been on the sick-list, and, acting on the advice of a specialist, he will not resume his place for some weeks. Meanwhile R. Butler will probably continue to guard the Ilford goal.

Golden Fleece.

Golden Fleece, half clipped, with his tail plaited in the steeplechase fashion, went to the post as well as anything in the Cambridgeshire. He has a goose rump, like many good jumpers, and his action is perfect.

THREE NEW WEIGHTS.

Boxing Innovations in Next Year's Amateur Championships.

CONCESSION TO AMATEURS.

Three new weights are to be included in next year's amateur boxing championships—viz., fly-weight (8st.), welter-weight (10-7), and light heavy-weight (12-7).

Other proposals carried at the annual meeting of the A.B.A. were that a medal and a certificate shall be given to the runner-up at each weight, and that no entry will be accepted from any competitor under 17 years of age.

The approximate date of the next A.B.A. championships will be about a week before Easter.

A resolution was proposed and carried to enable an amateur member of the Imperial Services' Boxing Association to enter and compete for a prize in any competition or contest held under the auspices of the Imperial Services' Boxing Association, and not lose his amateur status, although competitors in the same competition may be professionals.

Mr. J. H. Douglas was re-elected president, and Mr. R. K. Gunn added to the list of vice-presidents.

N.S.C. FIXTURES.

Attractive Engagements for November.

There is greater variety in the coming month's programmes at the National Sporting Club than in those just concluded, in which feather-weights held pride of place each Monday night, "says the Sporting Life." On November 3, for instance, a couple of light heavy-weights, Harry Knight and Arthur Heke—a new-comer from Cardiff—share prominence with the feather-weights Tibby Watson (Australia) and Danny Thrush (Aldgate) in 15-round money matches; on the following Monday the bill is headed by a light-weight match between Ted Leister and the American Benny McNeill; on Nov. 17 Tom Gummer, the Yorkshire "cruiser," and Jim Harris are to meet; while heavy-weights wind up the month, the men concerned being Frank Goddard and Victor McLaglen.

It is of interest to note that mid-week competitions for novices will be resumed, the preliminaries taking place on Wednesday nights and the semi-finals and finals being decided on the following Monday.

BASHAM V. MATT WELLS.

Rubber Contest to take Place at Holborn Stadium.

The next contest at the Holborn Stadium will be on Friday, November 14, when Johnny Basham, the welter-weight champion, will meet Matt Wells, the ex-light-weight champion, over 20 three-minute rounds for £100 a side. Both men will weigh in at 10st 7lb. at 2 o'clock on the day of the contest.

Basham, as usual, is training up in the north, and Matt Wells has been in serious training during the last week at Wembley.

Boxing followers will remember when these two men last met at the London Opera House. It was one of the greatest contests ever seen, and the decision in Basham's favour was a very close one. The men had met previously, when Matt Wells won in seven rounds, so this is a rubber contest, each with a victory to his credit.

BALZAC COUNTED OUT.

Townley Declared the Winner: Frenchman Claims a Foul.

Balzac almost succeeded in winning his contest with Arthur Townley at the Holborn Stadium on Friday evening by the disqualification of his opponent as he was down on one knee, when in the third round, Townley flicked him lightly on the head with a punch that was already on its way as Balzac dropped from a left hook to the jaw.

An immediate claim for a foul was made by the Frenchman and his supporters, and one of his seconds jumped into the ring the better to urge the claim—which in itself was fatal to his man. Balzac remained "down" while this and the count were going on, and at the end of ten seconds the referee motioned Townley to his corner. Then Townley, was declared the winner, Balzac having been counted out.

Some people took exception to the referee's ruling, but it was in his discretion to decide if the foul—if foul it was—was deliberate, or whether Townley could not withdraw his arm in time, and he gave him the benefit of the doubt, as he was entitled to do.

BOXING AT ALDERSHOT.

The Reserve Squadron of the 13th Hussars held a successful inter-troop tourney at Aldershot last week. The event was the deciding factor in an all-round athletic competition which resulted as follows:—No. 3 Troop 70 points, No. 4 Troop 55 points, No. 2 Troop 55 points, No. 1 Troop 50 points. No. 3 Troop won the boxing competition and No. 4 were runners up.

Six Rounds Contests.—Pte. Yarwood 1st Manchester Regt.) knocked out Pte. McDonough in the third round; Cpl. Burrows (R.G.A.) beat Sgt. Cokeley (R. Fusiliers) on points.

MAX DECUGIS IN LONDON.

The famous French stylist, Max Decugis, accompanied by the secretary of the Sporting Club de Paris, arrived in London on Friday. He is staying at the Hotel Rembrandt. Decugis is very anxious to persuade as many of our leading players as possible to compete for the world's covered court championship, which will be held in Paris, beginning on Nov. 15.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

Concert at the Gurzenich.

The first of a series of "Master" Concerts under the West German Concert Direction took place the other evening at the larger Gurzenich Hall, when Carl Friedberg, of Munich, (piano) and Robert Hutt, of Berlin, (tenor) were the artistes. The pianist enjoys great renown in this country and I am frankly glad to say that he fully deserves it. There is much in his playing that is deserving of the greatest admiration, especially his beautiful tone, sense of rhythm and brilliant technique. In the B minor Sonata (Op 58) Herr Friedberg became better and finer as he went on, and his playing of the third movement (the Largo) was as fine as anything we heard at the concert.

* * *

I enjoyed the C minor Polonaise greatly, in which Herr Friedberg's tone was magnificient, never coarse or rough, a trap many pianists fall into when the loud pedal is down and there is much thumping to be done. His last item, the Ballade in F major, was a gem of light and shade, and it was good to see with what evident deep sincerity this highly interesting artist played. Herr Robert Hutt sang songs by Schubert, Brahms, Strauss and Bruno Harth with a good deal of warmth and a voice of considerable beauty and range. It was a most interesting evening. A word of praise is due to the accompanist of the songs, Prof. A. v. Othegraven.

A. B.

Choral Societies' Rehearsals.

One more reminder that membership of the Rhine Army Choral Societies is open to all officers, N.C.O.'s and men stationed in Cologne as well as the wives of officers and other ranks and all other English ladies in Cologne. As from to-day rehearsals of the male voice society will commence at 5.45 p.m. instead of 7.45 p.m., and those of the Mixed Voice Society at 7 p.m. instead of 7.45. All rehearsals are held in the lecture room on the first floor at the Church Army Soldiers' Club, in Antoniter Strasse, the days being:—Male Voice: Mondays and Fridays at 5.45 p.m. Mixed Voices: Saturdays at 7 p.m.

Leave Club Arrangements.

A dancing class will take place on Tuesday at the Leave Club from 5—6. and an impromptu concert will be held in the music room at the same hour. At 7 p.m. two plays will be performed, "The Importance of the Creature" and "The Bathroom Door", assisted by L./Cpl. Hugh Williams, Misses Jamieson & Trimble & Lavie, who will sing solos and play the violin. On Wednesday, there will be an impromptu concert from 5—6 followed by a dance at 6.30 p.m. A German class will be held at 6.30 in the quiet room.

Gilbert and Sullivan.

I dropped into the Deutsches on Saturday evening and there witnessed one of the best shows I've seen on the Rhine. It was ripping. The Y.M.C.A. Gilbert and Sullivan Party were there, and gave a very finely selected performance, wonderful G.&S. solos. duets and quartettes' carrying us back a quarter of a century, were judiciously intermingled with more modern songs, clever modern songs cleverly rendered. Then the wizard, with the able assistance of two members of the audience, amused us considerably and puzzled us entirely: his patter made the house rock with laughter time after time. This performance finished the party's week at the Deutsches, a successful week culminating with a packed house, which did not fail to express heartily its continuous amusement and pleasure. To-night they open up at Bonn, and I expect to hear of crowded houses all the week, for the party is an exceptionally clever one with a programme which cannot fail to amuse both young and old.

Rigoletto"

In consequence of a sudden illness of Herr Mertens, the progamme at the Opera House had to be change on Friday evening, and instead of the "Barbier of Sevilla" the audience once more listened to Verdi's well-known melodies of which Rigoletto is so full. Inasmuch as we have repeatedly eulogised it, its will suffice to say that last night's performance was a good one and the principal paris well enacted by Kate Herwig, T. Lizewsky and Fritz Kraus.

"The Jesters."

Commencing on today, "The Jesters" will pay a visit to Coblentz and its environs, for a week's tour in the American area.

JACQUES.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Mon.	Madame Butterfly	Puccini	7	9.45
Tues.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10
Wed.	Cosi van tutte	Mozart	7	10
Thurs.	Tannhäuser	Wagner	6.30	0.30
Fri.	Hoffmann's Erzählungen	Offenbach	7	10
Sat.	Mignon	Thomas	7	10.15
Sun.	Lohengrin	Wagner	5.30	10
Mon.	Cav. Rusticana Der Bajazzo	Mascagni Leoncavallo	7	10
Tues.	Die Entführung aus dem Serail	Mozart	7	10

BILLIARDS RESULTS.

Newman Defeats Stevenson And Reece Beats Falkiner.

The billiard matches between Newman v. Stevenson and Reece v. Falkiner concluded on Saturday evening as follows:—

Newman 16,000; Stevenson 14,281.
Reece 16,000; Falkiner 15,243.

BILLIARDS FIXTURES.

NOVEMBER.

3-15.—E. C. Breed (holder) v. F. Lawrence, at Birmingham (Midlands professional championship).
3-15.—Inman v. Falkiner, at New Burroughes Hall.
3-15.—Newman v. Smith, at Thurston's.
3-15.—Stevenson v. Reece, at Manchester.
17-29.—Stevenson v. Reece, at New Burroughes Hall.
17-29.—Falkiner v. Carpenter, at Thurston's.
26-Feb. 7.—Reece v. Falkiner, at New Burroughes Hall.

DECEMBER.

1-13.—Newman v. Falkiner, at New Burroughes Hall.
1-13.—Smith v. Peall, at Thurston's.
15-20.—A. Raynor v. T. Tothill, at Thurston's.
15-20.—Newman v. Falkiner, at Northampton.
15-27.—Inman v. Reece, at New Burroughes Hall.
22-27.—Newman v. Falkiner, at Thurston's.
29-Jan. 10.—Stevenson v. Falkiner, at New Burroughes Hall.

Jimmy Wilde.

Jimmy Wilde made his farewell to English rings for some time to come when he appeared at the Liverpool Stadium to box exhibitions. The famous little Welshman, who was accorded a great reception, left for America on Saturday by the s.s. Baltic.

MONEY PRIZES FOR SKILL.

How Demobilizable Entrants Can Fill up Football Contest Coupons.

An interesting point has been raised by a competitor in our football skill contest. In the event of a prize being won and the winner being demobilised before the result is published, how would he receive the prizemoney!

As this is a point which will affect many of our competitors we would make it clear: That, if any member of the forces who is due for demobilization enters the competition he can put his home address on the coupon.

Should he be successful, the amount due to him, in marks, will be converted by us into English money orders at the current rate of exchange and forwarded to the address given, by registered letter.

We trust this will enlighten many who have pondered over this subject and clear the way for them having a few more attempts to win the coveeted prize.

Another coupon for No. 7 Contest appears to-day. Fill it in, and post it. Don't miss this chance of earning a tidy sum, which in the present financial stringency ought to be as serviceable as it is acceptable.

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 7,
"Cologne Post",
A.P.O. S./40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 7.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov. 8th.
Closing date, Friday, Nov. 7th.

West Bromwich A.	v. Aston Villa
Middlesboro	v. Newcastle U.
Arsenal	v. Bolton W.
Burnley	v. Manchester U.
Stoke	v. Bristol City
Leicester	v. West Ham
Coventry	v. Huddersfield
Queens Park R.	v. Millwall
Southampton	v. Southend
Luton	v. Crystal Palace
St. Mirren	v. Hearts
Partick T.	v. Rangers

I enter Football Competition No. 7 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Off the Rails.

Although Cologne undoubtedly has a large number of tramcar accidents, I have never yet seen a car off the rails. Have you?

A New Team.

I hear the Monopol Clerks' mess are forming a football team. They have the right talent among their players. The proposed right wing, which consists of two Scotsmen has shone in other circles before to-day.

The Konigsforst.

Have you ever been out to the Konigsforst by tram? It's a pleasant trip which doesn't occupy much time and arrived there, you will find a good hotel and restaurant with an orchestra. The walks in the huge forest are delightful.

Solus Trades.

The trades in Germany seem to "keep themselves to themselves" as my old charwoman at home is fond of saying. The tobacconist is a tobacco dealer pure and simple. He doesn't retail papers and walking sticks and confectionery.

Dignity and Drugs.

Then the chemist—he is purely a specialist in pharmacy. One doesn't find him vending books or picture frames or fancy goods as well as drugs. He is more of a professional man than a tradesman.

Trying Anti-Fat Now.

An officer I know who was putting on flesh through the sedentary life he was forced to lead in Cologne has been rising early in the morning and taking all sorts of physical jerks. This has gone on for a month. He was weighed yesterday and to his horror found he had put on a stone and a half.

The Cult of Cleaning.

What an amazing person the hausfrau is for keeping the household spick and span! Where I am billetted there seems to be a perpetual "spring cleaning" going on.

More Than One.

Undoubtedly it pays to send in more than one coupon for our Football Competition. Form is often erratic and it is as well to make as many shots as possible. After all, each attempt only entails the outlay of one insignificant mark.

Temper not Talent.

At a certain cabaret where wrestling displays are given, feeling often runs high, and lack of skill is more than made up for, from the spectators point of view, by the deady seriousness of the competitors. Quite often, at the conclusion of the event, the loser refuses to shake hands with the victor, whereat the British element amongst the audience shows audible disgust.

Merry Poilus.

Where-ever French troops are billeted in Rhineland one generally hears plenty of music and catches of gay Parisian airs float around. The poilu is ever a cheery soul with plenty of cameraderie and "joie de vivre."

A Silly Practice.

I am told that recently small parties of Tommies in some of the cafes have been using 'sneezing powder' to the annoyance of others. This seems rather a childish though harmless diversion.

Not Outside.

In spite of the fact that almost all buildings and dwellings are electrically lighted, street illumination by this means does not extend a great distance from the centre of the city. The thoroughfares of even aristocratic districts like Marienburg are possessed of only incandescent gas lighting.

The Little Bare Patch.

The other day in a barber's I saw a sight unusual except on the Continent. A priest was having his tonsure shaved.

Coarse Cut.

Don't try to smoke one of the long German pipes with English tobacco. The secret of enjoyment lies in the thick very coarse-cut tobacco you see in the German shops. No other is suitable.

Coming of Christmas.

I understand that many German establishments are stocking their shelves with a new selection of fancy goods in anticipation of something like pre-war Christmas business.

Superstition.

The number of Germans that are superstitious could be seen by anyone walking down Kamekestrasse yesterday evening. A long ladder was stretched from the road to the top window of a large house. I waited for a few minutes, and out of the seventeen persons that passed only four walked under the ladder' The others preferred to go into the road.

Out-of-Date Songs.

"Say Au Revoir but not Good-bye," is the latest popular number in Rhineland, rivalling Gertie Gitana's "My Silver Bell". Are our song publishers clearing out their pre-historic archives, and shipping the "noten" to Germany"?

Good and Bad.

In an examination paper set recently at an Army school, one of the questions was "How would you tell fresh fish from bad?" There were some interesting replies, among them, "You can tell it because it will have a fishy smell;" "Bad fish smells rotten;" "Hold the fishes' heads up and if they fall, they are bad and if they keep straight up, they are good." "If its eyes look as it it had been crying it is bad."

Duelling Scars.

Most of the men one meets in Germany with scars on their face have not been wounded in the war, but in college duels

Wants to see London.

There is a young Pole acting as secretary to an English business man in Cologne who is anxious to visit England. Curiously enough although he has never crossed the Channel he has a good knowledge of geography and the business for which each centre is noted. Lancashire to him represents the last word in cotton manufacture, and so on.

Better but Unpopular.

Germans seem to have no objection to wearing spectacles with the large round lenses. British opticians and medical men have tried in vain to persuade us to adopt these at home.

Tanks at Solingen.

The tanks at Solingen are a continual source of interest to the children of that town. Yesterday morning, during trial manoeuvres, the tank park resembled a fair ground. One of the mark five type climbing up a very steep bank was almost completely surrounded by spectators.

The Perspiration Cure.

The Turkish baths in the Ring have been well patronised lately, I hear. There are a lot of colds about and a good many of the older officers and men are developing twinges of rheumatism. And the Turkish bath is a remedy for both.

Sudfriedhof.

All cars proceeding to this beautifully laid out cemetery on Saturday were crowded to their utmost. The number of wreathes being carried was surprising, and among them were some beautiful floral emblems. The cemetery itself presented an unforgettable scene.

A Poser.

If a glove in Germany is a hand-shoe, what is a cap comforter?

RHINELANDER.

AROUND AND ABOUT.

AIRMEN STUDY BIRDS.

French aviators have been making a study of the flight of birds. They have established that swallows in migratory flights maintain an average altitude of 2100 feet. Wild ducks, on the other hand, prefer a greater height, and cling to an altitude of 5400 feet, or a little over a mile. Lapwings or tirwets maintain at all times an even greater altitude, and in March, during the period of their migration, the French aviators have met them at a height of 6450 feet.

The average speed of wild ducks in flight is 65½ miles an hour when they are flying upwards and 69 miles an hour when flying horizontally.

TRENCH 'STUNTS."

"Trench stunting" is now the craze among the American tourists who are visiting the battlefields. In an endeavour to visualise something approximating to the conditions under which the war was waged, the tourists are spending nights on "sentry" in deserted trenches and listening posts, and sitting in muddy shell-holes in one-time No Man's Land. Even without the chance of being sent to eternity in half a hundred different ways, one experience usually suffices the most ardent of these seekers after realism.

FATHERS AS CRITICS.

There are not many cases in stage history in which a father has been greatly impressed by the acting of his son. Sir Henry Irving did not think his sons great actors, and we doubt whether Edmund Kean would have been among the enthusiastic admirers of Charles Kean. There is a case more recent of a father and son who were good friends—except when they appeared on the same stage—and some of the most successful of actors have fought hard against filial determination to take the boards. On the other side there are several well-known cases of actresses taking the keenest interest in the stage fortunes of their daughters.

YOUR BONES.

Do you know how many bones you have? You possess 246 bones from tip to toe. They are distributed about you as follows:—Your ears have six (three each). Your head has eight. Your face has 14, and your teeth comprise 32. Your backbone, with its base, has 26 bones, while the area of your expansive chest and your feet have 62, making a grand total of 52 bones, not forgetting the eight small movable bones. There are more muscles in your body than bones. They number 527. If you are curious for further knowledge regarding your bones, you will be interested to know their composition. They include phosphate of lime, carbonate of lime, phosphate of magnesia, fluate of lime, chloride of sodium, cartilage, and blood-vessels. The next time you say you "feel it in your bones," you might remember this!

TUCK
Factory-Agent and Exhibition:

THE 75-MILE GUNS.

Among the terms of the armistice was one demanding that the Germans hand over to the Allies the 75-mile guns with which they bombarded Paris. So far as the public records go none of these pieces has, as yet, been delivered. Have they shared the fate of the captured German flags, which, with characteristic want of good faith, were publicly burned by German officers on the Unter den Linden? The so-called "Big Berthas," the dismantled foundations of which were found by our troops during the German debacle, are not these weapons, but were pieces of 15 or 16-inch calibre of considerably less range.

FASHIONS IN GUYS.

Who or what is to be this year's Fifth of November Guy? This will be the first Guy Fawkes Day since 1913, on the schoolboy excesses of which, the police will be able to turn a blind eye. The ex-Kaiser may be considered definitely out of date for Guy Fawkes purposes, and neither Lenin nor Trotsky has made any great appeal to the imagination of the schoolboy. We think that the boy vote this year will probably go to the making concrete of an abstraction, and that, designed according to individual fancy, it will be the profiteer who will be consigned to the flames.

WIRELESS CERTAINTY.

Conditions have materially changed since the days of the first Marconi 10-inch spark coil with simple open circuit. To-day, radio communication is no longer a hit-or-miss proposition. Stringent laws and regulations universally recognised and adhered to have been enacted whereby all manner of radio stations are assigned definite wave lengths, ranging from 200 to 20,000 metres, the ultimate end of which is to prevent stations interfering with one another. When it is considered that at the present day there are approximately 10,000 vessels of various nationalities equipped with radio telegraphy, it will readily be understood that close supervision and control of the ether is necessary.

HELP FOR EX-SOLDIERS.

THE CIVIL LIABILITIES DEPARTMENT.

A great deal of confusion appears to obtain amongst discharged and demobilized officers and men in respect of the assistance they may obtain from the Civil Liabilities Department. This being so, it may not be out of place to explain briefly what the scope of the Civil Liabilities Department operations actually are in relation to discharged and demobilised men.

The Department is, to begin with, empowered to grant financial assistance in cases where a demobilized officer or man is faced with serious pecuniary difficulties which are directly due to his having rendered military service.

That, broadly, is the scope of the Department's activities as far as discharged and demobilized officers and men are concerned.

Not all, however, of a demobilized officer's or man's serious pecuniary difficulties come within the financial assistance province of the Department.

The particular obligations which the Department may make grants towards meeting are rent, interest and instalments on loans and mortgages; instalments for the purchase of a house, business premises, furniture, etc.; taxes, rates, insurance premiums, and school fees.

Assistance is not granted for the discharge of ordinary debts, nor is it possible for the Department to consider claims for compensation for loss of business, etc., during the war, since the grounds for such claims and the extent to which the loss incurred was due to the claimant's military service must necessarily be largely hypothetical.

LOANS NOT GRANTED.

Another point which should be noted—and one in regard to which there seems to be an exceptionally large amount of misunderstanding prevailing—the Department does not make loans.

In cases where, on entering the Army, men were compelled to close down their businesses altogether, and on demobilization find the capital they may have in hand is not sufficient to set them going again, the Department may grant them a lump sum towards the purchase of necessary stock-in-trade, etc. The amount of this grant will not, though, exceed £104.

Many men are under the impression that they can, though they were not in business on their own account before joining the forces, obtain grants to set themselves up in business now. This is incorrect. The Department can only help a man towards recovering the position he held before he joined.

There is, however, one very important exception to that general rule. That is in the case of a disabled officer or man who, by reason of his disability, is physically incapable of returning to his former occupation. The Department may make him a grant with a view to setting him up in a new line of business suited to his capabilities.

This particular function of the Department in the way of assisting the disabled was the one that was previously in the hands of the King's Fund authorities.

MACHINERY OF THE DEPARTMENT.

The machinery of the Civil Liabilities Department may be described as follows:—The British Isles have been divided for administration purposes into several districts, to each of which is allotted a Commissioner. It is the duty of the Commissioner to investigate all applications from demobilised officers and men in his district, and, having done so, to report, with his recommendations, to the Central Committee in London, which makes the awards.

An officer or man who is physically fit to return to his former occupation and who wished to make an application for assistance can obtain the necessary form from any post office or Employment Exchange, together with the address of his District Commissioner.

There are two application forms—"A" and "B." The first is for business men and employers, and the second is for workmen requiring assistance to buy tools only.

On the form are a number of questions to be answered. These questions are arranged under three headings:—

(1) Questions to be answered by all applicants.

(2) Questions to be answered by an applicant who, having left a business of his own to undertake military service, desires assistance in re-starting business.

(3) Questions to be answered by an applicant who was in employment before joining H.M. Forces, and seeks temporary assistance.

APPLICATIONS BY THE DISABLED.

Disabled men desirous of making application for the special assistance for which they are eligible must apply for their particular application form at the office of their local War Pensions Commitee—not at the post office!

Disabled officers must, on the other hand, apply for their appropriate forms direct to the Military Service (Civil Liabilities) Committee, Savoy Place, Victoria Embankment, London, W.C. 2.

The questions asked on the forms, though at a first glance they appear a somewhat formidable list, are easy to answer. They are designed to obtain from the applicant fu'l information with regard to his past experience, present circumstances, and future prospects.

When filled in, forms have to be sent to the District Commissioner, who, if he thinks fit, may require the applicant personally to appear before him, and also to produce receipts or documents in support of the statements made on the application form, or to furnish further information that may be necessary before a report can be sent to the Central Commitee.

As already mentioned, £104 is the maximum grant that may be made to any one officer or man. It may, in conclusion, also be mentioned—and it is a point all demobilized officers and men should especially bear in mind—that the period during which they are eligible to receive assistance from the Department is strictly limited to 12 months, reckoned from the date of demobilization.

CAN YOU WRITE?

We pay for all literary contributions to "The Cologne Post," and are pleased to consider articles, humorous sketches and poems by members of the Rhine Army. No article should exceed 500 words, and even shorter ones can be submitted.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Quinine. — A Dutch Trust is said to be forcing up the price of quinine.

Popular "Brid". — Bridlington made a made a profit of nearly £8,000 this year.

The "G.O.M." — Clemenceau will visit Strasburg on Monday.

Winter's Mantle. — Snow has made its appearance in Paris.

To be Retained.—The Didcot R.A.F. Depot is to be permanent.

New records.—The coal output at home increases week by week.

Up to Town.—A partridge appeared in a London suburb the other day.

Grandpa Joffre.—French children are being Christened "Joffre" and "Joffrette".

King Coal Dethroned.—Air and electric power are likely to supercede coal power.

Their last rest.—Sudbury paupers are to be allowed to choose their burial place.

Diligent.—A London solicitor has kept a diary for 61 years without a break.

Amputated.—Herr Haase has had his leg amputated and his condition is critical.

Slack. — Slackness on the part of labour members attending Parliament is complained of.

Powerful.—Dynamos of 75.000 horse power are now being constructed in Germany.

Go Straight:—In theatrical circles managers are talking of abolishing the queue.

Villages of Disabled.—The first village centre for disabled soldiers has been opened in Hampshire.

Wooden Houses.—Liverpools medical officer of health favours the erection of wooden houses.

Theatrical.—Mr. Robert Courtneidge is producing a new musical play entitled "Too many girls."

Happy Dogs.—Restrictions on the movement of dogs are to be released at an early date.

What's in a Title.—Woking wants its citizen guard known as Special Constabulary.

Ambitious Plymouth.—The Admiralty had promised to assist in the development of Plymouth as a commercial port.

No Stacks.—The abolition of chimney stacks is advocated by the British Commercial Gas Association.

On Foreign Soil.—German prisoners have erected a carved memorial to their comrades in Fordingham (Dorset) Cemetery.

Helping the Poor.—The exemption from income tax of small incomes under £210 is recommended.

Toy Profiteering.—The Profiteering Act Department is considering the addition of toys to the schedule.

The Rhine.—The water level of the Rhine has never been so low as at present.

Closed.—The clearing office for R.G.A. sick and wounded established at Dover has been closed.

Fore-armed.—The authorities in Egypt anticipated the riots in that quarter and were prepared for them.

The Cost.—The eight-hour day adopted by London bus and tube companies will cost an additional £700.000 a year.

Saving the Dress.—Women ask that the wearing of gloves by men at dances should be made compulsory.

To Succeed Haig.—Lord Bute and Sir James Barrie have been nominated for the Rectorship at St. Andrews University.

Romanes Lecture.—The Dean of St. Pauls will be Romanes Lecturer at Oxford University next year.

A Service Habit.—Men are said to outnumber women at London Matinee performances.

Popular selection.—The Indian Army is anticipating the appointment of Lord Rawlinson as Commander-in-Chief in India.

Peace-time Quarters.—The London District Command is returning to its old quarters at the Horse Guards.

Its Effects.—The shortage of silver in France is already making itself felt in London.

Interesting.—Several efforts are being made to induce Mr. Balfour to write a book of reminiscences.

Untrue.—There is no truth in the rumour that Lord Derby proposes to retire from his Ambassadorship.

Royal Quilt.— A quilt belonging the King was recently stolen from a Barnes Laundry.

Scooter for two.—A tandem scooter, is the latest method of locomotion seen in Paris.

Falling Leaves.—The keen winds have rapidly stripped London's trees of their faded leaves.

Fuel Economy.—Balls composed of clay and slack coal are being stocked as a provision against the winter coal shortage.

Drunk Test.—In a sobriety test at Mortlake defendant was told to say "tonsilitis", "artillery", and "British Constitution."

Dangerous Toys.—An Aberdeen boy has been killed by an explosion of detonators found on a rubbish heap.

Who Has it?—An important document bearing on the Battle of Jutland is said to be missing.

Unrepresented.—Austria is not sending representatives to the Labour Conference at Washington.

Student Miners.—The students of Gratz have decided to work in the coal mines every Sunday.

Lord Haig's Future.—It is said that if Lord Haig's present appointment is done away with, it is quite possible he will retire.

The Prince mobbed.—Encircled by a huge crowd at Montreal the Prince of Wales left his car and shouldered his way through.

Man's Advice.—A witness did not put in an appearance at the Wraf inquiry because her husband had advised her not to.

Thoughtless.—Mr. Stanton complains in the House of Commons that people do not raise their hat when passing the cenotaph.

Music for Milk.—An American farmer says he has a cow which gives more milk if music is played while she is being milked.

Flag of the Prophet.—At Barnaul in Western Siberia 4,000 Turkish prisoners revolted and hoisted the green flag of the prophet.

Ceratopogon Pulicaris!

You may not recognise his name—but you know him quite well. He's the little stinging fly which is biting everyone who tries to enjoy the evening outdoors. He will not bite you, however, if you always use. . . .

SAPON RUSSIAN TAR SOAP

You can defy all mosquitos, gnats and other pests which sting and bite.

A Doctor writes:— "I find your Russian Tar Soap gives wonderful results in irritable skin diseases, such as Scabies, Eczema, Pruritus, Insect Bites, Acne, etc." The following is the best method of application:—Moisen the Soap, rub it on the part affected, and allow it to dry.

Sold throughout all the Army Canteens at

OFFICIAL PRICE

Do not pay more. Insist on being supplied. If any difficulty advise us and we will pay postage.

SAPON SOAPS LIMITED
LONDON BRIDGE E.C.4., ENGLAND

SPARKES HALL
308, REGENT ST. LONDON W.
4, AVENUE FRIEDLAND, PARIS and
ROOM 71, DISCH HOTEL
Brückenstr. COLOGNE
(Next Door to N.A.C.B. Canteen)
FIELD, HUNTING & POLO BOOTS
Hand-Sewn Field Boots, Civilian Boots, Shoes and Pumps made to order and delivered to Germany in 18 days or in England in 10 days.

THOS. COOK & SON
BANKERS, TOURIST, ARMY AND FORWARDING AGENTS
THE FIRM'S COLOGNE BRANCH HAS BEEN RE-OPENED FOR THE CONVENIENCE OF OFFICERS N.C.O'S. AND MEN OF THE ARMY OF OCCUPATION
FOREIGN MONIES EXCHANGED
ADDRESS: I DOMHOF
OPPOSITE THE CATHEDRAL

KODAKS
New and Second-hand at keenest prices. Send for Lists. All Supplies by Post.
Wallace Heaton Ltd
Incorporating Newcomb Cotterill
19, Change Alley, SHEFFIELD

FAMILIES
read The Cologne Post. Send it daily to yours.

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S./40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

BILLIARD-TABLE (with pockets), in good condition. For particulars apply to A 325, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40

ZEISS-GOERZ-BINOCULARS 6×30 and 8× in splendid condition. Pohl, Boisseeeestr. 12, I Floor (near Hohenstaufen Bad.)

BARGAIN. Zeiss--Goerz and Voigtländer binoculars. Karl Lang, Kleine Neugasse 91.

1 GOERZ CAMERAS 9×12 Doppelanastigmat "Celor" f. Portraitaufn. bes. geeignet 1 Zeiss Teleobjectiv Brennweite 45. 1 Camera Rapid-Aplanat 9×12. Jackels, Elisenstr. 18. Zwischen 1 und 3 Uhr.

ONE MONTHS' subscription to the Cologne Post including postage for sale. Price 15 Marks. Have it sent home daily.

TWO CEILING pushballs with or without platform. Write Sports Officer, 52nd Devons.

OFFICERS' WIFE wishes to sell child's mail cart. Used three weeks only. Price 200 Marks. Apply Box 300, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

FILM developing tank complete with instructions almost new. Price 100 Marks. Write to R.S.M. Smeeth C/O S.O. in chief Signals G.H.Q.

OFFICER being demobilised has for sale: Hunting Saddle (Sowter), Racing Saddle (3½ lbs, flat or steeplechase). Hunting Bridles, Snaffles etc., also 12 bore Gun (makers Cogswell Harrison, Piccadilly) in excellent condition—also cartridges.—The above can be seen in Cologne.—Box 10, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

WANTED.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 4 5. if poss. but not smaller than 6.8. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

WANTED.

BILLIARD TABLE, English pattern, wanted for Officers Mess. Particulars to Capt. I. Egerton Hine, Army Technical College, Siegburg.

CINEMA APPARATUS with all accessories, wanted. Particulars and price to Capt. I.Egerton-Hine, Army Technical College, Siegburg.

MISCELLANEOUS.

COMFORTABLE apartments for British Officer or N. C. O. and wife. Müller, 44, (1st Floor) Augustsstrasse, Nippes.

LOST.

LOST in centre of Cologne or at VI th Corps Club, gold bar brooch, amethyst in centre. Reward if returned to Advt. Manager, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

PERSONAL.

EXPERIENCED cook wants situation in Officer's mess or hotel. First-class British testimonials and references. 20 years in England. Write to G 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

WILL THE BRITISH OFFICER (medical who bought Thoma Zeiss Hamasitometer for 96.00 mks. at Messrs. Neumann and Cie. on Tuesday Oct. 30. communicate with the firm.

TRADE.

A WELL-EDUCATED LADY in reduced circumstances wishes to correspond with British or American Officer with a view to doing business. Speaks German, English and French. Write A 322 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

LANGUAGES.

VIENNESE LADY wishes to exchange German for English. Apply Lindenthal, Franzstrasse 60I

DON'T FORGET THIS

BEFORE YOU LEAVE FOR BLIGHTY.

* THE COLOGNE POST *
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks. (From U.K. 2/9.)

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

PLEASE WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

.....

15 Marks covers all British possessions.

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, November 3, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

SEVENTH SUCCESSFUL FOOTBALL CONTEST NOW ON

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

THE FORM ON PAGE FOUR IS FOR YOU.

No. 186. COLOGNE, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

SWEEPING GAINS BY LABOUR CANDIDATES THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY.

HUMAN CORPSES EATEN IN PETROGRAD.

BOROUGH COUNCILS.

LABOUR CANDIDATES SWEEP THE POLLS.

Elections for Borough and Urban Councils took place throughout the country on Saturday. In London there was no excitement, voters being singularly apathetic, and there were few sights of interest. Many polling stations were empty for long periods during the morning, and in one case where there are six thousand electors on the list, only one hundred voted in four hours.

Among the three thousand candidates in the twenty-eight London boroughs were a peer, a domestic servant, and a blind woman. There were over 200 women aspirants, and candidates were also put forward by the Discharged Soldiers' and Sailors' Federation.

The Labour Party made strenuous efforts to capture seats, and the first results to hand show that Labour has gained overwhelming majorities in Woolwich, Deptford, Shoreditch, Southwark, Camberwell, Greenwich and Battersea, in all of which Boroughs Municipal Reformers previously held the majority, while Lewisham Council, where previously no Labour member ever held a seat, now has eight. In Shoreditch, Sir Busby Baird, who has been Mayor for many years in succession, was defeated. The Moderate Mayors of Woolwich and Camberwell were also defeated. Partial returns from other London Boroughs appear to indicate that Labour has swept the Board. In Chelsea, where the result in only one ward has yet been declared, Labour captured seven out of nine seats, three of the successful Labourites being women, but in Clifton ward, Camberwell, three members of the Discharged Soldiers' Federation defeated three Municipal Reformers and three Labour men.

Labour also scored striking gains in the provinces. At Liverpool Labour candidates gained ten seats, the successful candidates including two police strikers, but the Conservatives still retain a majority. Other great gains by Labour were ten seats at Bradford, nine each at Gateshead and Plymouth, eight at Derby, seven each at Nottingham and Coventry, six each at Worcester, Manchester, Preston, Bristol, Burnley and Bootle, five each at Ipswich, Birkenhead, Blackburn, Bolton, Stockport, Salford and Norwich, and lesser gains in numerous other boroughs. Liberals gained three seats at Oxford and two at Blackburn and four others elsewhere. The Discharged Soldiers' Federation won one seat at Merthyr Tydvil, one at Bristol, three at Sheffield, and one at Ealing, where every Labour candidate was defeated, including the only Labour member of the Council.

NOVELIST'S BANKRUPTCY.

An application was made to Mr. Registrar Hope at the London Bankruptcy Court for an order of discharge on behalf of Mr. Wm. Tufnell Le Queux, the novelist, who failed in August, 1913.

Mr. W. P. Bowyer, Official Receiver, reported that the liability amounted to £7,657, while the assets, valued by the applicant at £2,936, had only produced £211.

Mr. Le Queux attributed his failure partly to losses in connection with a Casino at Corfu and partly to ill-health, which prevented him at times from following his occupation, but, in the opinion of the Official Receiver, it was also caused by extravagance, the bankrupt's expenditure during the three years preceding the failure having aggregated £9,340, while his income during the same period was only £2,828. A dividend of 4½d in the £ had been paid to the creditors.

An order was made, subject to a judgment for £1,248, to be satisfied by four equal payments of £312 extended over eighteen months, and to be secured by the bankrupt insuring his life for £1,000.

AWARDS TO LARGE FAMILIES.

The French Academy has fixed the conditions by which next year 90 endowments of £1,000 each are to be made to French families with the largest number of children. For this purpose the Academy has at its disposal the Cognac endowment of £90,000 annual rents. Already 12,000 poor families with at least nine children living have applied. Some have over 20 children living and many have double the limit fixed. Stepchildren are ruled out.

ON THE STUMP.

According to the "Times" the Government is undertaking a lightning campaign in an endeavour to regain its lost prestige in the country. It is intended to hold 200 mass meetings within the next six weeks, especially in industrial centres, the campaign concluding with a great demonstration in London to be addressed by Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Bonar Law.

CANNIBALISM.

PETROGRAD IN THE GRIP OF FAMINE.

The famine in Petrograd is assuming terrible proportions. Forty thousand persons have died from starvation in one month, and unless speedy relief is forthcoming the entire population will starve to death.

A telegram from Reval to the Russian newspaper "Rennaissance," reports from a usually reliable source that owing to the famine, numbers of Russian Chinese are beginning to sell in the suburbs of Petrograd the flesh of people shot in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul.

Executions take place there nightly, and the message states that high prices are demanded and obtained for this human flesh.

SUGAR SHORTAGE.

PRICE INCREASED TO COMPEL ECONOMY.

The Royal Commission on Sugar announces that the world supply is insufficient to meet the demand. Accordingly the retail price of sugar in England will be increased by a penny per pound from to-day in order to enforce economy. The Commission also states that the quantity of sugar importable into the United Kingdom in 1920 will be at least half a million tons less than in 1919.

INSURANCE COMPANIES AMALGAMATE.

The fusion of two important insurance companies, the Liverpool and London and Globe and the Royal, is announced. The following statement has been issued by the Liverpool Company:

"The Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company, Ltd., announce that a provisional agreement has just been entered into with the Royal Insurance Company, Ltd., whereby the latter offer to take over the shares of the company on the following basis: One 'Royal' share of the value of £5, with £1 5s. paid, ranking pari passu with the present issue, plus £1 in cash, for each share of the present issue of the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company, Ltd."

CONCERNING THE GUARDS.

The Secretary of State for War wil be asked by Mr. Frank Briant in the House of Commons to-day if his attention has been called to charges of brutality and bribery in connection with the treatment of recruits in the Guards, and whether in view of the prejudicial effect such statements are likely to have on recruiting and the reputation of the army, he will order an inquiry into the allegations.

(These allegations are contained in a book by a well-known author, who enlisted as a private in the Scots Guards during the war.)

PROVINCIAL INVESTITURES.

By command of the King, local investitures will be held from time to time at provincial centres in the various military commands for the presentation of orders and decorations. Members of the Royal family will represent the King on these occasions.

Those wishing to attend must apply to the G.O.C. for invitations, furnishing the necessary information with their application. Recipients of orders and decorations will be given the option of being summoned to Buckingham Palace or being invested locally.

CARDINAL HARTMANN.

Yesterday's bulletin on the condition of Cardinal Hartmann, Bishop of Cologne, stated that he passed a quiet night. Brain symptoms have not grown worse. Pulse and respiration are satisfactory, but his state of health remains very serious.

Herr Haenish, Minister for Public Instruction, called personally at the Bishop's Palace in the Gereonstrasse, and very numerous inquiries were received.

MOTOR RAIDS IN IRELAND.

On Friday night a party of armed men in a motor car attacked the police station at Lismullen, County Meath, and one of the constables defending the station was wounded.

The police station at Ballyvor, County West Meath was also attacked on the same night and a policeman named Sicot was killed. In both cases the assailants made good their escape.

THE OPEN THROTTLE.

WHAT THE RAILWAYMEN REALLY WANT.

Speaking at Cambridge on the subject of the negotiations between the Railwaymen's Union and the Government, Mr. J. H. Thomas, Secretary to the Union, said the negotiations dealt with two subjects; firstly, what should be standard conditions, no matter what the cost of living, and secondly, the old question of standardisation. He believed that ultimately there would be a satisfactory settlement, satisfactory to both sides, but he did not think this kind of negotiation was likely to establish industrial peace. They had therefore submitted to the Government a revolutionary proposal involving frank recognition of the fact that they must be partners in industry. There must be machinery for redress of grievances, permitting an equal number of representatives of the men and of the companies to thrash out these questions. "Over and above that" said Mr. Thomas, "we want to be railway directors and we are going to be railway directors. Neither side can know the other's difficulties unless they are in contact. It is on these lines that we are discussing the position with the Government."

THE NEW ZION.

PALESTINE FOR THE JEWS.

Lord Rothschild presided on Sunday over an enthusiastic meeting held at the London Opera House in celebration of the second anniversary of the British Government's declaration in favour of the establishment of a Jewish National Home in Palestine. A letter was read from Lord Curzon, giving the assurance that there had been no change in the Government's policy on this subject. This announcement was greeted with prolonged applause. A resolution was adopted expressing gratitude to the Allied Powers who had adopted the British Government's proposal as an essential element of the peace settlement, and urging upon the Peace Conference the necessity of the speediest possible realisation thereof.

MINERS' STRIKE.

PROTECTING THE CONSUMERS

The United States Attorney General, Mr. Palmer, has instructed district attorneys throughout the country to report promptly all instances of concerted action "by any two or more persons in attempts to limit facilities for transporting, supplying, producing, storing or selling coal or to exact excessive prices."

Reports from the mining fields of Pennsylvania show that the strike order is generally observed by Union men, but that up to now non-Union mines have remained in operation.

NOVEL GIFT TO PRINCE OF WALES.

On the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales to the Baron Hirsch Institute, Montreal, on Saturday, His Royal Highness was the recipient of a unique gift. It consisted of a golden tablet on which the ten commandments were inscribed in Hebrew characters. It also bore the words, "Presented to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales from Jewish residents in Montreal," this part of the inscription being in English.

FOUR WRECKS ON THE GOODWINS.

Four sailing vessels were driven on to the Goodwin Sands and became total wrecks during the fierce gales which raged on Sunday. A number of lives were lost. In three of the cases some members of the crews were rescued, but it is known that at least seven were drowned.

SCEPTICAL LABOUR LEADERS.

The representatives of Labour at the International Labour Conference at Washington are seeking to exclude from voting those countries which sent no workers among their delegates.

China, Siam, Roumania, and a round dozen of Latin-American countries are represented only by their diplomatic representatives at Washington. It is alleged that they are unacquainted with the conditions of the workers in their countries and are therefore not qualified to represent Labour.

GERMAN PRISONERS OF WAR.

Since September 1, 1919, when the general repatriation of German prisoners of war commenced, 218,380 in the hands of the English have been repatriated, including 32,530 from England.

NOT WANTED IN SWEDEN.

Franz Kramer, one of Bela Kun's commissaries, has been arrested near Christiania and is being deported to Denmark, whence he fled some time ago.

M. Venizelos has left London for Paris, where he will remain until the Treaty of Peace with Bulgaria is signed.

ENEMY ALIENS.

FOREIGNERS WHO WANT TO STAY IN ENGLAND.

Sixteen per cent. of the civilian aliens of enemy nationality who were interned in this country at the date of the Armistice have been recommended for exemption from repatriation by the Aliens Repatriation Committee, presided over by Mr. (now Lord) Justice Younger.

The Committee, in their report (issued as a White Paper), state that since last May they have considered the cases of nearly 4,300 civilian aliens of enemy nationality who, out of the 24,450 interned in this country, appealed to be exempted from repatriation. The Committee found that it was not with the enemy aliens of the actively hostile variety—the spy, the secret agent, the insolent Prussian—that the Committee had to deal. A considerable number were old men of long residence, but the great bulk were men of military age. Of these a large proportion had British-born wives and young British-born children knowing no language but English. A not inconsiderable number had sons who during the war had served in the British Army or Navy. Many had themselves offered to serve or had volunteered for some work of national importance, earning very frequently, when accepted for that work, enviable characters from those to whom they were assigned for employment. Many belonged by origin and sympathies to nations which were now our Allies. There was one feature common to all the cases. Every appeal to the Committee had been preceded by a refusal on the part of the alien to accept the alternative of immediate release from internment and return to his own country.

Of the cases dealt with 3,250 were Germans, 1,000 were Austrians or Hungarians, and under 50 were Turks. Among the Germans and the Austro-Hungarians were many really friendly aliens. Of the Germans, as so classified, the Committee recommended for repatriation upwards of 220, of the Austrians upwards of 150, and of the Turks about 10. They recommended for exemption approximately 3,030 Germans, 840 Austrians, and 20 Turks. The final result, therefore, is that of the alien enemies interned at the date of the Armistice, nearly 84 per cent. have been repatriated and 16 per cent. only have been recommended for exemption.

Of the 3,030 Germans no fewer than 2,230 had, apart from the vast majority of cases from lengthened residence or other circumstances justifying special consideration, British-born wives or British-born children under 16, and in some 1,490 cases had both British-born wives and children. Of the remaining 800, 490 had resided in this country for over 30 years, or since they were 15 years of age or less. The remaining 400 cases included lengthened residence, Allied or neutral origin, close ties and associations in this country with few or none in Germany, British-born children resident here and dependent on the alien but over 16, notable national service, and exceptional technical skill and the like. Over 270 had sons who served in the British Army during the war.

R.A.F. PROMOTIONS.

The Air Ministry announces that a Selection Board has been formed in order to advise the Air Council as to the award of promotions to post-war R.A.F. officers, and to decide the procedure to be followed in future for the periodical selection of officers for promotion. The following are the members of the first Board:—

Air Marshal Sir H. M. Trenchard, Bt., K.C.B., D.S.O.

Rear-Admiral C. F. Lambert.

Air Vice-Marshal Sir J. M. Salmond, K.C.B., C.M.G., C.V.O., D.S.O.

Air Vice-Marshal A. V. Vyvyan, C.B., D.S.O.

Secretary—Squadron Leader H. L. Jackson.

It is notified by the Air Ministry that the telegraphic address of the Civil Aviation Department, Air Ministry, is now:—"Aircivil, Airministry, London." The telegraphic address, "Civiatory, Estrand, London," has been cancelled.

GERMANY'S BILL FOR SCAPA FLOW.

It is reported from Paris that the Supreme Council will demand from Germany a certain number of light cruisers and destroyers which are now in German waters, and 40,000 tons of naval material, comprising dry docks, floating docks, cranes, lighters, tugs and other craft, to replace the German Dreadnoughts now lying at the bottom of Scapa Flow, as Germany has no other units to offer in their place.

FIRE ON A CRUISER.

The cruiser Gallipoli, from Portsmouth for the West Indies, was compelled to put into Devonport on Saturday owing to an outbreak of fire aboard. The fire started in the engine-room on Friday, and despite all efforts to check it, spread to the decks above. For a time the magazine was in great danger, but on Saturday morning the flames were got under control.

GRATUITIES FOR "AUSSIES."

Australians who joined the British Armies and had no opportunity of enlisting in the A.I.F., and who return to Australia before next June, will be granted £50 each for each year of service in which they did not hold commissions.

EXPRESSES COLLIDE.

EXTRAORDINARY CAUSE OF THE ACCIDENT.

Six passengers were injured in a collision between two express trains at Selby station late on Thursday night.

The cause of the accident was very unusual. The Great Eastern train from Doncaster to York was just leaving the station when the 10 p.m. Great Northern express from Doncaster to York, drawn by a North-Eastern engine, passed at 30 miles an hour and ran into it at the point where the down main of the down platform lines converge to cross the bridge over the river Ouse. The Great Eastern engine was derailed and some of the Great Northern carriages were damaged.

Both trains were full of passengers, a regiment of the Black Watch going from Clipstone Camp to Scotland for demobilization being in the Great Northern train. Lieutenant Ernest J. Sutherland, who was on his way to Falkirk, and two other men, received compound fractures of the leg, and another man had a broken shoulder. They were taken to Selby Cottage Hospital.

The official account of the accident, issued by the North-Eastern Railway headquarters at York, states that the Great Eastern train, after stopping at the platform, had set back to detach a horse-box into a siding. Having done this, the train again drew forward through the platform line, with all signals off, for the purpose of proceeding to York. The Great Eastern driver heard the Great Northern train approaching on the adjacent through line, and, realizing that a collision was imminent, endeavoured to stop his train. This he was unable to do before the trains fouled each other.

The Great Northern train overran all signals at danger at Selby West and East up to the point of the collision. It appears that, just as this train was passing the Selby West distant signal, which was at danger, and the driver was preparing to stop, fire from the fire-box of the engine was blown on to the footplate, making it impossible for the driver and fireman to remain at their posts. The driver realized what was likely to happen and made every attempt to get back to the footplate to manipulate his brakes, but he was unable to do so. The cause of the fire blowing on to the footplate has not yet been determined.

TERRIBLE RAILWAY DISASTER.

A serious collision occurred on Saturday in Denmark between an express train from Korsoer and another train from Vigerslev. The accident happened about four miles from Copenhagen. Half-a-dozen coaches rolled down the railway embankment. The number of dead bodies extricated is twenty-two, while over thirty passengers were seriously injured. It is feared that many more dead are still under the wreckage.

D'ANNUNZIO'S LAPSE INTO PROSE.

A passage from one of D'Annunzio's innumerable addresses says: "From indomitable Sinn Feiners in Ireland; from the Red flag which in Egypt unites Crescent and Cross, insurrections levelled against the devourers of raw flesh are about to blaze up, lighted by sparks from us to them."

SHAH IN LONDON.

The Shah of Persia arrived in London on Friday afternoon. He was received by the King at the station and drove to Buckingham Palace through streets lined with troops and crowded with people.

On Saturday, accompanied by Prince Albert, Prince Arthur of Connaught and members of his suite, he drove to the Guildhall and received addresses of welcome from the City Corporation.

Earlier in the day he received members of the diplomatic corps at Buckingham Palace, and conferred the order of the Crown on Earl Bradford and General Birdwood, and the orders of the Lion and Sun on Lieut.-Colonel Arthur Erskine, Mr. George Churchill and Lieut.-Colonel Edward Wickham, who are attached to his suite.

SLOW LOCAL AUTHORITIES.

Sir Kingsley Wood, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health, says that Dr. Addison is not satisfied with the activities of local authorities with reference to the housing problem. The Ministry is now engaged upon a proposal to supplement them by enlisting the services of private builders. Conferences of builders interested in the scheme will shortly be held throughout the country.

SALVAGE IN WAR AREAS.

No fewer than 81,000 British Labour troops and other details and 45,000 Chinese and other coloured labourers are at present engaged on salvage work in war areas. The weekly cost of salvage operations is estimated at £537,000, including the cost of transportation to the United Kingdom.

WILSON'S IMPROVEMENT.

President Wilson's condition is so much improved that the daily bulletin has been discontinued. The President is eating and sleeping, and digesting and assimilating his food well.

NEGRO THREATS.

"CHANTY" OF THE BLACK STAR LINE.

Six thousand negroes, who attended a meeting in New York, were told by Mr. Marcus Garvey, President of the Universal Negroes' Improvement Society, that "400 million black men are beginning to sharpen their swords for the war of races."

The Negroes' Improvement Society, which claims a membership of 2,400,000 throughout the world, had announced the meeting as a celebration of the sailing from New York of the first vessel of the Black Star Line, organized in the interests of negro trade, but it quickly developed into an anti-white demonstration and a series of tirades against what one of the speakers described as the "prejudiced palefaces." Mr. Garvey, who presided, made a dramatic appearance, his arrival being preceded by the singing by four negro vocalists of the following composition:—

When Africa is free and we get our liberty,
And the line we shall go there on is the Black Star line.
For the negroes all do savvy
That God and Marcus Garvey
Are the rocks of the Black Star Line.

No jazz accompaniment is mentioned.

FAITH-HEALING FINANCE.

The English Press was practically unanimous in acknowledging that Mr. Lloyd George scored a great personal triumph in the financial debate in the House of Commons, even the "Daily News" admitting his speech to be a great oratorical success and making a tremendous impression on the House. Discussion fizzled out when the Premier sat down, and the opinion in the Lobby was that the actual discussion was one of the emptiest ever heard in the Commons. The division showed that the debate was merely a Labour demonstration without any significance.

Critics in various papers, however, continue their denunciations of what one describes as the Government's faith-healer finance, and accuse the Government of relying on rhetoric and despising the logic of facts which will speedily bring the country to a most serious position unless high prices are checked.

GENERAL DIAZ IMPRESSED.

General Diaz, interviewed by Reuter's representative at his hotel on the conclusion of his visit to London, said: "I am really overwhelmed with the kindness and hospitality showered upon me. Nothing could exceed the kindness I have experienced in England, from the King downwards. The Court, the Government, the corporation, and the people in the streets have shown, in a way I can never forget, how deep are the feelings of solidarity and friendship between Great Britain and Italy. I hope such friendship will continue for ever."

DEGREES FOR WOMEN.

The Senate of Cambridge University has been discussing the question of degrees for women. It seems that a grant of the right to use letters after their names will certainly be made, but the real struggle will be over the larger question of admitting women to functions of governance in the university, which the possession of a Master's degree carries in the case of men. However, as Parliament has already given women the right to vote in university elections, they will probably be given the right of exercising authority on academic questions.

LINK BOYS FOR LONDON FOGS.

The London streets are to have a specially trained staff of fog-men, who will be on duty in time of fog, both day and night. These fog-men will be employed by the London General Omnibus Company, and will be equipped with lamps to signal and guide the omnibuses at busy traffic centres. A beginning is being made at thirty-four of the busiest traffic points.

GERMAN OPERA BANNED.

Declaring that the wounds of war are not yet healed, the New York Supreme Court Justice, Mr. Giegerich, has prohibited the performance of opera in German. This is evidently the sequel to the recent disturbances which occurred outside the Lexington Theatre last week. The management now announce that the operas will be sung in English.

NEW FIRST LORD.

Lord Beatty, the new First Sea Lord, entered on his duties at the Admiralty on Saturday.

The King has conferred a Barony on Admiral Wemyss, who vacated the position on Friday night.

MAYOR OF WIESBADEN DISMISSED.

By order of Marshal Foch, the Mayor of Wiesbaden has been relieved of his post and ordered to leave the occupied territory in consequence of his alleged maladministration of the town.

Ontario's gold output, which was valued at £423,000 in 1912, reached over £2,000,000 in 1916, and was more than £1,700,000 in 1918.

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Representative Mr. A.J.R. LEE is at OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

Has recently returned from London with a stock of hosiery & a new selection of patterns for mufti wear. Officers requiring shirts etc. for the winter, can now be supplied from stock.

KODAKS
New and Second-hand at keenest prices. Send for Lists. All Supplies by Post. Wallace Heaton Ltd. 19, Change Alley, SHEFFIELD

"Café Prinzess"
Corner of Waidmarkt.

Open to all Troops of the British and Allied Armies
DAILY CONCERT

SIMPLICISSIMUS
Cabaret and Wine-Room
— Hohestrasse 152—154. —
Twice daily first-class singing and dancing performances. Open from 4.30 to 10.45 p.m.
— For Officers and Civilians only. —

Optician
C. Pichon
COLOGNE, Hohestr. 150
Careful examination of eyes in specially fitted rooms
PRISMATIC FIELD GLASSES

BREECHES
WELHAUSEN
Uniform-Manufactory founded 1873
COLOGNE
Kreuzgasse 22, first floor close Schauspielhaus, Tel. A 4705.

Accordions
Sole sale of the well-known International Accordions Chromatic and Scottish pitch.
Julius Lüdemann, Cologne. Kreuzgasse 5-7.

Where can I get my Photo work done?
at the:—
Kölner Photo & Kino Centrale
Neumarkt 32—34.
All repairs done to Kodaks, Ica, Zeiss, Goerz, Ernemann Cameras & Cinema machines.
English spoken.

EMPLOYERS
read "The Cologne Post". Send it daily to yours.

Mr. Alfred Hurley's London Music Hall Coy.

"The ECCENTRICS"
All first-class Artistes including
"DATAS"
The famous Memory Man from The Palace, London. "Am I Right, Sir?"
MISS MARGARETE DE LARA, Prestidigitator,
MISS GLADYS STANLEY, Soubrette, Central Pier, Blackpool, Season 1919.
MISS MARJORIE BOWYER & MR. POWELL EASTBERY
MR. WARWICK PRYCE
Entertainer at the Piano from Maskelyne & Devants, London.

Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage this party. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office, Komodien Str. or may be seen there personally at 11 o/c each morning.

NO AUTUMN OR WINTER ADVERTISING SCHEME IS COMPLETE WITHOUT THE Cologne Post THE BRITISH DAILY FOR RHINELAND

The great British Colony in Rhineland, both Military and Civilian, look to the Cologne Post daily to bring them first news from home and exclusive news of Rhineland. Sport, education, amusement — are all extensively dealt with, whilst a special column appears regularly twice a week for the numerous British women in Rhineland. No advertiser can afford to neglect this great SPENDING community. Their winter wants MUST be supplied from home. Write to the Advertisement Manager now.

A Special new business chat appears daily for British Commercial men in Rhineland.

CONTINENTALE INSERATEN-ANNAHME FÜR THE COLOGNE POST
F. J. BIRGEL & Co
35/43 MARZELLEN-STRASSE, CÖLN (RH.)
PREISE UND ALLE INFORMATIONEN AUF ANFRAGE

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor

Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???
Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!
The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!
TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.
Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 32-34.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE:
From Nov. 3rd the Deutsches Theatre performances will commence at 6 p.m. nightly, excepting Wednesdays and Fridays, when they will begin at 8 p.m.

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.
Tuesday, November 4th, at 6 p.m. and nightly
THE BRITISH RHINE ARMY DRAMATIC COMPANY
presents
"THE SILVER BOX"
A Comedy in three acts by John Galsworthy
Large Caste. Special Attraction.

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
Tuesday, November 4th 1919, at 6 p.m. and during the week
Mr. ALFRED HURLEY presents his London Music Hall Coy.
Artistes:
"DATAS"
The world renowned memory man from the Palace Theatre, London. "Am I right, Sir"?
MISS MARGUERETE DE LARA Prestidigator
MISS GLADYS STANLEY, Soubrette Central Pier, Blackpool, Season, 1919

MISS MAJORIE BOWER and MR. WARWICK EASTBURY Versatile Duo	MR. WARWICK PRICE Entertainer at the piano from Maskelyne and Devant's St. George's Hall, London.

And THE CRUMPS' ORCHESTRA by kind permission of the G.O.C. London Division
Usual prices. Book Early.

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA. 32 Komödienstrasse
At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA. Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c. Grand Orchestra and Pictures.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA. Hohe Strasse
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS, Bright Music and Best Pictures.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 653. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.

Tuesday, November 4, 1919.

THE ART OF WAR.

To the detached observer of men and affairs, more especially if he be of a sardonic or philosophic temperament and has learned to appraise factional literature at its proper worth, this world is indeed a curious compound.

While the air is filled with endless talk concerning a League of Nations and there are fervent hopes, if little promise, of an international brotherhood, military students have quietly returned to their schools and text books.

According to the Paris correspondent of the "Times," applications are pouring into the French military schools from foreign Governments for permission to allow their officers to follow the courses of study and to be temporarily attached to the various corps and services of the French Army. Provided the facilities asked for are granted there will shortly be over 600 foreign officers studying in France the art of war.

Very different was the sequel to the war of 1870, when few sought military wisdom at the Gallic fountain. It is an eloquent tribute to the very high state of efficiency attained by the French Army and its staff officers, as well as to the manner of tuition among our splendid Allies.

The inspiration derived from a close and intimate study of the theories and practice of Napoleon has always been an incentive to study in French military schools, such as the Ecole Polytechnique—the Woolwich of France—and the Ecole Superieure de la France. A fresher incentive to-day is the brilliance of Marshal Foch, whose masterly handling of the 9th Army in the Battle of the Marne, and final check-mate of the enemy in November 1918, cannot do other than draw numerous military students to Paris.

A professor at a staff college, and the author of "Les Principes de la Guerre" and "La Conduite de la Guerre," etc., he was fortunate to put into practice what he inculcated in the lecture room. His sense of manoeuvre is superb, and also his fertility of resource. After all it is easier to go over the top than to lead an army successfully; in the first case you may only lose your life; in the second you may lose your reputation.

Looking into the uncertain future we must continue to follow Oliver Cromwell's advice by putting our trust in God but minding to keep our powder dry. While wishing Lord Robert Cecil and the League of Nations God-speed it would be folly to cease to study the art of war.

THE DANGER ZONE.

The long ridge of the Scherpenberg, with Mont Kemmel now swept almost bare of trees, is just fading in the dusk.

Every body "up the lines" is preparing for the great nightly pyrotechnic display.

By the light of a stump of candle I am busy under my "bivvy" sheet making a determined attempt to get my correspondence up to date.

Soon the cry of "Lights Out!" will go up as the nightly bombing performance by the German airmen commences, and most likely I shall not get another opportunity of doing much that night.

But the Fates decree otherwise.

"Turn out 'C' Sub!"

It is the Section Sergeant making a round of the miscellaneous collection of bivouacs, collecting the men for teams to turn out to take up ammunition.

With many a muttered word they emerge from their "shacks" and disperse to the horse lines.

Putting on my steel helmet and adjusting my box respirator I hurry off.

The camp is alive with the rattling of harness, interspersed with shouts as a refractory horse objects to his evening meal being so rudely disturbed.

Many similar performances in the dark have made me adept, and very soon I have my pair of wheelers harnessed up.

"Walk march!" and we are away.

It is now dark, and the Véry lights in the distance marking the tortuous line of the trenches are in full play.

A chain of glowing cigarette tips marks the progre s of the teams.

Conversation is at a premium. The silhouette of my centre driver fully occupies my attention. Ahead of me in the darkness I can see him hudd ed up in his saddle well shrouded in his overcoat.

A glance behind shows me the dark figure of the gunner perched on the limber.

We leave the road and strike overland over a roughly made track.

The going now becomes cruel.

Shell-holes are numerous. I smile at the rough journey the gunner is having.

The noise of the guns is getting louder.

With a whine followed by a vicious snap, shrapnel begins to arrive. As if in challenge an ear-splitting salvo from a Battery close at hand gives answer.

The momentary flash lights up the ruins of a farmhouse and a tangle of broken tree trunks.

More shrapnel arrives, and, with a furious rush, one of the German high velocity shells.

With a sound of breaking glass it sends up a fount of brick rubble from the farmhouse ruins.

On we go.

A sudden swerve from the track narrowly missing a shell hole causes consternation among the horses.

I can feel my off horse pressing hard against the rider as if trying to avoid some unknown horror.

With a word or two I soothe him, and, glancing down, see the cause of his discomfiture. The gun-flashes light up the results of a recent shell-burst, showing the wreckage of a limber with the dead bodies of two horses.

Instinctively I picture the driver. How did he fare? At last the battery position is reached.

The centre and wheel drivers hurry forward to assist in unloading the limbers, eager to have done with it and get away from this hateful spot.

The unkempt and weary-eyed gunners at the position are in no mood to appreciate our hurry, and one of them enquires in a blasé voice whether we have "got the wind up."

But we get away at last only to be railed up all the way along the track by "Jerry's" shells.

We break into a trot.

Gradually we leave the danger zone behind and strike the road once more. The cigarettes are again in evidence, but everybody is in cheerful mood, and the voice of my lead driver is wafted back to me chanting a refrain that "I've got the sweetest girl in all the world in Maryland."

And so we arrive back in camp.

It is one a.m. and the air is chilly.

Reveille is at six. HAWKEYE.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

STREET OBSTRUCTIONS.

Sir,—Your correspondent L.C.C. has hit on a real genuine cause for complaint.

I had a narrow escape the other night of falling into a cellar through the opening on the path being left without its cover. All there was in the way of warning, if you could call it such, was a sack lying adjacent.

Then too, the German seems to think little of running his wagons right on to the pathway and disgorging the contents so that everyone has to step on to the roadway.

What is a common sight is the buckets and boxes of refuse left out on the path till a late hour in the morning. Being a little short-sighted I have more than once tripped over these obstructions.

I hope L.C.C.'s letter will be seen and acted upon by the Cologne City Fathers.

H. C. A.

BOXING FILMS.

Sir,—How pleased "Anti-Box" must be to find such a courageous supporter of his views as A.P.N.

To read the latter's letter makes one ask, what has A.P.N. been doing during the war?

Does he imagine that the millions of men who fought during the war, managed to carry on through moral courage alone with no "brutal influences" to back them up?

Thank goodness there is such a practical institution as the Y.M.C.A., which realises what appeals to the ordinary and healthy man and does not attempt to feed his vision and brain on airy subjects which he can neither comprehend nor be interested in.

A.P.N. finally ends up his letter with the egoistical remark and self-assurance that he and "Anti-Box" are not alone in their views. To that I can only say, "Such is a fool in his own conceit."

LONGING TO GET AT 'EM.

Sir,—Evidently "Anti-Box" has not been to the Y.M.C.A. at Deutz, for not only are pictures of boxing shown at the cinema, but there is actually a table there, where soldiers may indulge in the still more brutal sport of ping-pong.

If "Anti-Box" doubts this statement he will no doubt investigate at Deutz, if he can trust himself in such a brutal atmosphere. W. YORK.

PRICES IN CANTEENS.

Sir,—In answer to W.F.G. referring to prices in canteens, I should like to bring to his notice that in every N.A.C.B. Institute or canteen prominently displayed is an official price list, which he should study before writing upon the subject of chocolate.

This article is marked (N.A.C.B. price list Oct. 1919) 1½d or 1¼d bars, and therefore 75 pfgs. is correct for a 1½d bar. A 1¼d bar is sold at 50 pfg.

No doubt W.F.G. has not had much experience in purchase from Army Canteens, otherwise he would realise that in a place like Cologne (with so many different canteens), to try and make 100 per cent, profit on each bar of Cadbury's chocolate would be ridiculous.

A question asked in any N.A.C.B. Institute or Canteen referring to prices, will always be entertained by the Manager or Manageress and every satisfaction given. OLD CONTEMPTIBLE.

GETTING YOUR TICKET.

Sir,—Not the one you thought of, oh no; it's far more difficult to obtain than that. But here is the solution:—Queue up for half an hour, add a quarter of an hour's delay in opening the box office; tickets given out at the rate of 4 per quarter hour and you're lucky to get away with the illusive ticket under an hour. Such was my experience and that of many more at the Opera House this morning. JACKY.

SUGGESTED PARCEL DEPOT.

Sir,—Now that so many of us are preparing to leave Rhineland, may suggest that some enterprising firm or preferably the N.A.C.B., Y.M.C.A. or British Empire Leave Club should open a depot for goods and chattels we desire to send home?

For a small outlay to cover the labour etc. they could act as middle-men between ourselves and the Post Office or railway or shipping firms. Let them accept the articles, tie them up securely and charge the postage or carriage. When it comes to making up a parcel, the average "mere male" is somewhat at sea.

TOOTLE.

THE W.O.'s. AND N.C.O.'s CLUB.

Sir,—I feel sure that every W.O. and Sergt. who has visited the "Dutch Room" otherwise club, will be grateful to you if you can add one to the tally of improvements and reforms effected by the "Cologne Post."

That there is great need and great scope for such a club is evident from the patronage accorded, but it is far too small. It is too near the officers' club, (conversation can actually be overheard). It has none of the amenities of a club. It is understaffed, and, my chiefest complaint, it is most emphatically not a place to which one could take a lady. Might I voice a very widely-expressed desire for much larger premises with facilities for obtaining a modest meal the provision of music, writing and reading rooms, in fact, a real club; otherwise quite a large number of my acquaintances, like myself, have paid their last visit to the present mis-named club.

WARRANT.

PLAYS SOME PEOPLE WANT.

Sir,—I fear that if the correspondence on "Plays Some People Want" continues much longer it will develop into a veritable Capulet and Montague feud, and the audiences of the B.R.A.D.C. will enact once more the famous first night of Hernani at the Comedie Francaise of nearly a century ago.

If so, "Durham Lad" and his followers will be able to enjoy in the audience the thrills and excitement we have failed to give them on the stage. But seriously, much as I wish to satisfy everyone, it is impossible to comply with each individual's desire, and the overwhelming majority of our playgoers demand that the B.R.A.D.C. should continue with the standard of works which has endeared the company to the Rhine Army audiences.

At the same time, as Roebuck Ramsden says in "Man and Superman," "There is an element of truth" in what "Durham Lad" and "Popular" say. Therefore at an early date I intend to present an essentially popular play without however descending to the "wholesome elevating melodrama" which distorts character for the sake of presenting impossible people in a lurid manner in improbable situations.

However, I should like to point out to "Durham Lad," "Popular," and their disciples that they can have witnessed but very few of the productions, for, with every possible allowance for their moral or physical conditions, when they come to our plays, I cannot conceive how any one could describe "The Mollusc," "Man and Superman," "The Importance of being Earnest," "General Post," "You never can Tell," "The Title," "Helen with the High Hand," "The Younger Generation," "The Man Destiny," "Hindle Wakes," "Candida," or "The Constant Lover" as either morbid, depressing, or perplexing.

Another accusation I wish to refute, and that is that we have included no recent London successes in our repertoire. May I submit that "General Post" and "The Title" are both recent London successes?

The other plays were successes some years past and have stood the test of frequent and successful revivals in London and all over the English-speaking world.

S. E. PERCY, Lieut., O. i/c B.R.A.D.C.

CATCH BETS.

JUMPING TO A CONCLUSION

"I'll bet you it will rain to-morrow," said one man to another without the least intention of having his remark taken literally. "I don't bet," remarked his austere companion in place of saying, as any ordinary individual would, "What makes you think so?" Whereupon, nettled by the tone of reproof, the first speaker returned to the fray.

"Well, I'll bet you it won't rain to-morrow," said he.

"I say I don't bet," repeated Morality.

"I'll bet you do bet," insisted Pertinacity.

"Well, I won't bet."

"Hang you, I'll take you."

"How much?"

"A fiver."

"Well, give me the money. I've won!"

"How's that?"

"You did bet."

Here is the catch, the caught, and the moral—don't be aggressively literal, and, obviously, a man forewarned is forearmed.

It is no use saying "catch bets are as old as the hills, and no one is ever caught by them in this age of enlightenment." Catch bets are still with us, will always be with us, and if submitted to analysis will probably be found to have as their basis the formula used ages ago by "Old Q." and the men of his kidney, including the amiable baronet who arrested a companion at the top of a flight of fifty stone steps and airily suggested that a wager should be made, say £100, that he would jump down the flight, the money only to be paid in the case of his survival.

The bet was immediately taken up by an eager gambler of homicidal instincts, and the genial and titled humorist proceeded to jump down the staircase one step at a time.

Years elapsed, decades of years, and one day a well-known sportsman not long demised stood at the bottom of a flight of nineteen steps. "I'll bet I will jump up those steps two at a time," said he to the man accompanying him; and the individual in question having carefully counted the steps and arrived at the conclusion that there was luck in odd numbers, proceeded, as he imagined, to make a very lucrative investment.

It is perhaps unnecessary to explain that the jumper gaily made nine consecutive jumps of two steps, one jump down of one step, and finished with an orthodox two-step jump to the top.

Of course it is possible that the sportsman in question had never heard of the bounding baronet, but it is more than probable that he had and that he had marked, learned, and inwardly digested the anecdote that doubtless some day will be airily adapted to the users of loopers of the loop.

That form of athletics known as jumping to conclusions is always attended by a certain amount of danger, as divers individuals discovered when a notoriously bad shot showed them a target painted on a barn door with a bullet hole on the exact centre, which he asserted was made by him when firing at a thousand yards range.

Their disbelief in the assertion was so badly disguised that the hero of the Munchausen-like exploit was able by the exercise of a little dexterity to saddle the doubters with a bet of an oyster supper. Having done so he produced a couple of witnesses whose veracity could not be questioned to bear him out.

When in due course the last of the oysters had gone the way of all bivalves, it occurred to one of the losers to ask the guest of the evening to explain how he had succeeded in making such an excellent shot. Whereupon the worthy in question answered, "I shot the bullet at the door at a distance of one thousand yards, and then I painted the target round it."

It is understood that those gentlemen who had the pleasure of defraying the bill were inclined to say with the poet Cowper, "Truth is unwelcome, however divine."—Harold Macfarlane in "The Badminton Magazine."

The Editor will be glad if officers and men of the Rhine Army will contribute to this paper. The need for contributions is the greater now that so many of our regular writers are leaving for home. All accepted articles etc. are paid for and may be on any topic likely to interest the troops on the Rhine. The Editor hopes for a hearty response to this invitation. No contribution should exceed 500 words in length.

STRIKES.

Nah, baht theas strikes, says Bill to me,
Ther' seems some funny doin's;
An, baht thing's alter quick, ther'll be,
Nowt left, but t'countrys ruins.

But doo'aut caw mie a gawmless chump,
A blackleg an' a traitor;
Coz' I think fer mysen, a lump,
Baht little things an greater.

An' dos't ta knaw, aw think thers ways,
An' meeans o' sich things endin;
It's noan a case o' whether it pays,
Er whether a thing needs mendin.

Becoz, tha knaws, ther's lots o' things'
Wants endin,' if we knew it;
But graspin nettles offen stings,
An' soa we're flaid to dew it.

If t'bees are swarmin, it wants care,
To safely hive the crush;
Yo'l get more stings ner haw-penee there,
If t'bees tha tries to rush.

An' soa, it seeams to me, 'at us,
At's striken fer things mendin;
Wi rushin, cause the swarm to buss,
Ah'r chance oo honey endin.

Ther's nowt mich got, bi gettin' hot,
Ther's nowt mich got, wi shahtin;
But give an' tak, aye, give a lot,
If givin' meeans surmahutin.

The leafless bush, i' t' winter skeph,
The heather, an' the broom;
In spring, the verdure slowly creph,
In summer, cum the bloom.

An nah, let's think the winter's past,
An' springtime is at hand,
An' man, an' maister, face at last,
All problems hand i' hand.

Fer sewerly, it wud better be,
Good policy, an' firm-un',
To fyt together, him an' thee,
As ye baath fewt the German.

H.C. JARVIS in the "Yorkshire Post."

HOW THE LEAGUE CLUBS STAND.

BILLIARDS TOURNAMENT OPENS.

YANKS AMEND BOXING RULES.

FOOTBALL JOTTINGS.

Current Chat on Leading English Teams and Players.

BY W. LE C.

There is not a player in the Huddersfield team, who can claim to be a native of the town.

"Barracking" is troubling many managers at present. It is a habit which is seemingly on the increase, and the public are being appealed to "play the game."

C. Wreford-Brown the international and chairman of the C.F.C. will himself captain some of the teams the Corinthians will field.

Middlesboro are doing well financially at present and I would point out a great deal of praise is due to Mr. Phil. Bach their popular chairman.

Oldham's wing forward, Delphin, follows his trade during the week.

Hampson of Newcastle United is a clever defender, only the brilliance of McCracken and Hudspeth, keep him out of the league eleven.

Wright whom Everton parted with to St. Mirren thinks Scottish football too polite. In England a fair shoulder charge is correctly interpreted, in Scotland it is a free kick every time.

Bob Mercer joined Hearts as a wing half from Leith Athletic. Called upon to be pivot of the team one Saturday, he filled the breach so well that he stayed there and became one of Scotland's finest centre halves.

Chedgzoy of Everton, a Somerset man by the way, thinks army training will never make footballers.

Bob Crompton in addition to his motor business is licensee of two cinema halls in Blackburn.

There is not much of Duckworth the Blackburn defender, but he is a splendid back.

The name of Smith is the most common among football stars, two shining examples being G. O. Smith (Old Carthusians) and Herbert Smith (Reading) both internationals, and "G.O." is reckoned the greatest centre England ever had.

Wedlock considers the best international he ever played in, took place at the Crystal Palace in 1909. That year England won the championship without the loss of a goal.

Incidentally he considers Colin Veitch, the old Magpie Skipper, one of the best left halves who ever played for the rose.

A meeting will take place in Brussels in the near future to discuss the revival of the International Federation of Association football and the steps to be taken regarding the attitude to be adopted with regard to the Central Powers.

Blackburn are again after Kelly the Falkirk pivot. Before the war they sought his services, and they are once more angling for his signature.

Charlie Thomson, the old Sunderland skipper is a boniface at Preston-pans. He is mentioned as a possible candidate for the Tynecastle managership.

THE BEST BOY SHOTS.

Result of Imperial Challenge Shield Competitions.

The 1919 results of the National Rifle Association's Imperial Challenge Shield Competitions have just been announced.

In the Senior Competition, the outstanding feature is that most of the leading prizes are won by Australian cadets, headed by No. 1 Platoon, 3-27th Infantry Regiment Senior Cadets, winning the Challenge Shield and first prize with an average score of 98 out of a possible 100.

In the Junior Division the Challenge Shield and first prize are won by Colmanstreet Ward School Company, 1st City of London Imperial Cadets, the second by Australian Naval Cadets, and the third by Wykeham House School (Worthing "A" team).

Altogether, in the Senior Division, Australia wins 33 prizes, Great Britain 20, Canada five, New Zealand, five and Canada one.

Some 14,000 boys took part in the contests, which were fired on the range of each team.

HOCKEY ON THE HOFGARTEN.

On Friday the N. L. Lancs. played the 3rd match with the 52nd King's Liverpool's, each side having previously won a game. The "L. N. L." commenced by pressing and although the King's scored first, the Lancs. equalised just before half time with a shot from Captain Harkess.

In the second half the Lancs. asserted their superiority, and added another 3 goals to their score two being scored by Lieut. Kennedy and another by Capt. Harkess. The King's forwards looked dangerous at times, but the Lancs. defence was equal to the pressure. The final score was 4-1 for the Lancs.

NATIONAL HUNT 'CHASES.

There is a splendid programme arranged for the National Hunt Steeplechases at Cheltenham next March. No less than £6,175 will be given in the two days. This is an example for the Jockey Club at Newmarket, where the advertised value of the stakes was £2,200 and the cost to the executive £1,362.

ENCOURAGING LAWN TENNIS.

The Surrey County Lawn Tennis Association at the annual general meeting last night favourably discussed the scheme to impose a levy on members of affiliated clubs.

Any sum so raised is to be used for the purpose of enabling the Lawn Tennis Association to open a permanent ground of its own, and to pay professionals to coach players.

BADOUD DEFEATED.

At the Nouveau Cirque, Marchand beat Badoud, who holds the championship of Europe, in the fifteenth round.

LEAGUE TABLES.

Newcastle United Jump to Premier Position.

READING ON TOP.

The following were the positions of the clubs in the various Leagues on Saturday:—

FIRST LEAGUE.

	Fld.	Won.	Drn.	Lost.	Goals For	Goals Agst.	Pts.
Newcastle United	13	8	3	2	20	9	19
West Bromwich Albion	12	9	0	3	36	16	18
Burnley	13	7	3	3	22	17	17
Manchester United	12	5	6	1	23	14	16
Middlesbrough	13	6	3	4	20	22	15
Sheffield United	13	5	4	4	27	20	14
Sunderland	12	6	1	5	20	16	13
Derby County	13	4	5	4	17	18	13
Bradford City	13	5	3	5	22	21	13
Bolton Wanderers	13	6	1	6	24	20	13
Chelsea	12	6	1	5	16	13	13
The Arsenal	12	4	4	4	17	18	12
Blackburn Rovers	13	4	4	5	16	19	12
Everton	12	5	1	6	21	24	11
Bradford	12	5	1	6	15	18	11
Liverpool	12	5	1	6	13	15	11
Manchester City	12	4	3	5	25	29	11
Notts County	12	4	3	5	18	26	11
Preston North End	12	3	2	7	18	30	8
Oldham Athletic	12	3	2	7	17	21	8
Aston Villa	12	3	1	8	17	28	7
Sheffield Wednesday	12	1	4	7	6	19	6

SECOND LEAGUE.

	Fld.	Won.	Drn.	Lost.	Goals For	Goals Agst.	Pts.
Tottenham Hotspur	12	11	1	0	38	6	23
Fulham	13	7	3	3	21	12	17
Blackpool	13	8	1	4	30	15	17
Bristol City	12	6	5	1	16	8	17
Stoke	12	8	1	3	22	15	17
Birmingham	12	7	2	3	25	13	16
Hull City	13	7	2	4	24	17	16
Huddersfield Town	12	6	3	3	22	10	15
West Ham United	12	6	2	4	14	17	14
Barnsley	12	6	2	4	26	11	14
Stockport County	12	5	4	3	17	9	13
Bury	12	5	2	5	12	15	12
Wolverhampton Wand.	12	4	3	5	18	14	11
Notts Forest	13	3	4	6	11	17	10
Burslem Port Vale	11	4	2	5	17	15	10
South Shields	11	4	1	6	8	16	9
Leicester City	12	3	2	7	12	29	8
Rotherham County	13	3	1	9	11	28	7
Clapton Orient	13	3	1	9	12	20	7
Grimsby Town	12	3	1	8	8	24	7
Lincoln City	12	1	3	8	9	38	5
Coventry City	12	0	2	10	4	28	2

(Including Wolverhampton v. Bury match, stopped before completed.)

SOUTHERN LEAGUE.

	Fld.	Won.	Drn.	Lost.	Goals For	Goals Agst.	Pts
Reading	15	7	7	1	20	10	21
Queen's Park Rangers	14	8	4	2	20	9	20
Portsmouth	14	8	3	3	27	10	19
Watford	12	7	3	2	18	9	17
Exeter City	13	5	6	2	16	10	16
Crystal Palace	13	4	7	2	19	13	15
Millwall Athletic	14	5	4	5	24	21	14
Swindon Town	13	5	4	4	14	20	14
Norwich City	11	6	2	3	23	16	14
Cardiff City	12	4	6	2	21	14	14
Plymouth Argyle	13	5	4	4	17	7	14
Southend United	14	4	6	4	17	19	14
Luton Town	13	5	3	5	18	20	13
Brentford	13	3	6	4	13	15	12
Merthyr Town	14	3	5	6	16	22	11
Southampton	14	5	1	8	18	29	11
Brighton & Hove Albion	14	3	5	6	12	17	11
Bristol Rovers	12	3	4	5	18	26	10
Swansea Town	12	4	2	6	13	14	10
Gillingham	14	3	2	9	8	6	8
Northampton Town	13	2	3	8	21	34	7
Newport County	15	2	3	10	10	30	7

SCOTTISH LEAGUE.

	Fld.	Won.	Drn.	Lost.	Goals For	Goals Agst.	Pts.
Glasgow Rangers	15	13	1	1	46	8	27
Celtic	12	11	0	1	32	13	22
Ayr United	16	8	3	5	33	18	19
Motherwell	15	7	5	3	25	21	19
Hearts	14	8	2	4	20	14	18
Airdrieonians	14	7	3	4	27	20	17
Greenock Morton	14	7	2	5	24	13	16
Aberdeen	14	6	3	5	19	17	15
Dundee	13	6	2	6	20	18	14
Partick Thistle	13	6	2	5	19	20	14
Hibernians	15	6	2	7	30	31	14
Raith Rovers	16	5	3	8	31	35	13
Queen's Park	15	4	4	7	22	28	12
Third Lanark	14	4	4	6	19	28	12
St. Mirren	15	5	2	8	18	28	12
Dumbarton	15	3	6	6	18	35	12
Kilmarnock	15	5	2	8	19	37	12
Clyde	16	3	5	8	20	28	11
Albion Rovers	13	4	3	6	13	22	11
Clydebank	13	4	2	7	21	22	10
Hamilton Academicals	15	4	2	9	25	35	10
Falkirk	16	4	2	10	16	32	10

ANOTHER CORNSTALKS TOUR.

The Australian Imperial Forces cricket team, which is at present in South Africa, will play a series of matches in New Zealand.

BARRY FOR AUSTRALIA.

"The Globe" understands that Ernest Barry has been assured of the necessary financial support in his attempt to regain the world's sculling championship, and he will in all probability meet Alf. Felton on the Parramatta River next July. He is certain of an enthusiastic reception in Australia.

BOXING IN PARIS.

The Paris boxing programme for this week is exceptionally heavy. The most important contest will be fought this evening at the Wonderland Boxing Club between the light-weights Benny McNeil (U.S.), inter-Allied military champion, and Ferry (France).

On Wednesday night there will be two good bouts at the Salle Wagram, with Marcel Denis (France) v. Zoonens (Belgium) and Dupre v. Husson.

On November 14 there will be a 20 round fight between Tancy Lee, British feather-weight champion, and Louis de Ponthieu, champion of France. The winner will be entitled to the European championship.

A match is being promoted between Fred Fulton, the American heavy-weight, who is now in England, and the coloured boxer Joe Jeannette.

STAGE v. ADVERTISERS.

In a match between the Stage and Advertisers' Golfing Societies at Coombe Hill course, Malden, Surrey, the Actors were defeated by 19 points to 5. Play was on handicap terms, and many celebrities of the stage took part, including Oscar Asche, Owen Nares, and Leslie Henson.

BILLIARDS TOURNEY.

Five Notable Players Engaged for Big Handicap.

GAMES TO LAST A FORTNIGHT.

There are five players engaged in the billiards tournament handicap which opened at the new Burroughes hall at 31. James's street, Piccadilly, yesterday, namely, the champion, M. Inman, H. W. Stevenson, T. Reece, T. Newman, and C. Falkiner, and the handicap is as follows:—

Inman	scratch.
Stevenson	rec. 500
Reece	rec. 1,500
Newman	rec. 1,500
Falkiner	rec. 2,000
A. E. Peall (reserve)	rec. 4,000

The games will last a fortnight each, so that the tournament will extend over a period of about five months.

It is a pity, perhaps (remarks "Green Cloth" in the "Observer") that Smith, the Darlington player, is not among the competitors, as it is understood that he is certain to take part in the championship, and it would have been interesting to see how he would fare under handicap terms. However, his appearance in the championship, presuming he takes part, will give added interest to the competition, as he figures as something in the nature of a "dark horse."

A Special Attraction.

A great deal of interest is sure to be taken in the tournament, and the games in which the champion is engaged will naturally have a special attraction.

While all of the other players engaged are admittedly extremely fine exponents of the game, there can be no questioning the superiority of the champion, at least on last season's form. It is, indeed, not too much to say that the history of the game cannot show anything finer than the consistent form shown by Inman in last season's championship.

Actually how much he was the superior of any of his challengers it is difficult to say, and providing he is still as good as he was he should win the championship again, though whether he will be able to dominate the situation with the tournament under handicap conditions is another matter altogether.

SPORT IN BRIEF.

Victory for Magdalen.

Magdalen easily beat New College in the final beat of the coxswainless fours at Oxford.

Official Scratchings.

Saturday's scratchings include Chuette out of the Liverpool Autumn Cup and Morning Star out of the Duchy Plate.

Rugby County Championship.

At a meeting of the Middlesex County Rugby Union, it was decided not to enter for the county championship this season.

Young France.

For some years before the war (writes Lieut.-Colonel Pountney, in "The New World") the younger generations in France had begun to develop a liking for English sports.

Elisha Scott.

Elisha Scott, the Liverpool goalkeeper, has now left the Royal Victoria Hospital, Belfast, after undergoing a second operation.

County Cricket Home.

Consternation is aroused amongst thousands of Yorkshire sportsmen that Bradford Park Avenue, the home of county cricket, is not to be acquired for the town.

Opportunists.

Opportunists such as Steve Bloomer and, latterly, Sid Puddefoot, are not to be found in many teams, and only stars of great magnitude can effectively use single-handed methods.

A Bet.

At Leopardstown yesterday a bet of £1,750 to £500 was taken about Tetratema for next year's Derby, for which Prince Galahad had a backer at £3,000 to £500.

Dundee's Surprise.

The Scottish League surprise of the week has been the transfer of David Brown, centre-forward, Dundee, to Stoke. £1,500 has been mentioned as the transfer fee. Glasgow Rangers are stated to be among the disappointed clubs.

Quoiting Championship.

The third attempt of John Durnie, Dalry, Ayrshire, to wrest the Scottish quoiting championship from the veteran, Wm. Watters, Lochgelly, Fifeshire, failed, the holder of the title proving winner by 61—47.

Royal Yearlings.

The nine English-bred yearlings purchased some time since by the King of Spain have been named: Pot Shot, Tambour, 'Yif Argent, Fidelio, Lohengrin, Sigurd, Madame Butterfly, Thais, and Chaperon Rouge.

A. H. Bell to Retire.

A. H. Bell, the amateur International full back, who played for Surrey County for nearly twenty years prior to the war, has definitely decided to retire from the game. He turned out for his old club, Woking, in a match against Dulwich Hamlet Reserves on Saturday, but found himself unequal to the strain after five years of inactivity in football.

TWO PLAYS.

In the Theatre at the B.E.L.C. to-night at 7 p.m. two plays will be produced, the "Impertinence of the Creature," played by Miss Tilney and Major Greenlees and "The Bath-room Door," a one-act Comedy by Gertrude Jennings. The caste for this latter will include:—

The Prima Donna	Miss Kathleen Campbell.
The Old Lady	Miss McMaster.
The Young Lady	Miss Christian.
The Young Man	Captain Preston.
The Old Man	Captain Ziegler.
Boots	Pte. Browning.

For the musical part of the evening, the Misses Jamieson and Trimble will sing, also L/Cpl. Hugh Williams and Cpl. Rushton, and last, but not least, Miss Smythe will play a violin solo.

SIX ROUNDS LIMIT.

American Boxers Conform to British Rules.

COBLENTZ TOURNAMENT.

The promoters of the American Boxing Tournament at Coblentz were greatly perturbed last week-end by the intimation from the Physical and Recreational Training Headquarters of the British Army, that no British Troops would be permitted to enter for the contests under the conditions advertised. Naturally, this rather upset our Yank friends who had gone to great trouble to ensure the success of the tournament, but their representative who visited Cologne to discover the cause of this refusal must surely have been satisfied with the explanation extended.

There were two main objections raised by the P. and R. T. Superintendent. The first was against the number of rounds which the promoters of the tourney proposed the competitors should box.

It is a rule strictly observed in the British Army that unless a man be a champion or an ex-champion, he shall not be permitted to box a greater number than six rounds. Ten and fifteen were the numbers suggested by the Yanks.

A second objection raised against allowing British troops to enter was the fact that prize money was to be awarded the winner.

Both these difficulties were overcome by the Yanks agreeing to amend the two conditions concerned to conform with British Army rules, in the first place by reducing the number of rounds to six and in the second place by substituting cups or medals for the prize winners.

Cause of the Objection.

Major Delaney of the P. and R. T. Staff told "The Cologne Post" yesterday that the objections raised were not in any way calculated to hamper the ambitions of young boxers in the Rhine Army. On the contrary, the department did everything possible to encourage ring-craft as one of the healthiest and self confidence promoting phases of sport that one could imagine.

The attitude of the P. and R. T. department was adopted solely in the interests of the men themselves. His experience, and the experience of others who had made a very long study of the boxing art was that six rounds was the very limit of an amateur without detriment to his health. As a matter of fact, three rounds of two minutes each, was quite sufficient for the average man unless he had long and special training.

As regards the second point, continued our informant, throughout the war, the Army system of physical training had always had for its aim the development of esprit de corps in all the games and competitions that had been adopted. Obviously, he added, if money were given as prizes for boxing, there would be a stronger inclination to go for the prize rather than to enter the ring for the sake of sport and, more important still, for the purpose of maintaining or strengthening the reputation of a man's unit.

The Fighting.

An American, who is an expert on the subject, declared after the bouts, that during the several months he had been with the Army of Occupation he had never witnessed such excellent boxing.

Another spectator remarked that the types of boxing of the Americans and Britishers were totally different. The methods of the men from the British Army were usually scientific while those of the Americans more resembled the fighting of old days.

The presence in the ring of the referee was a strange experience for the visitors. Our representatives made quite a satisfactory display, as the appended performances signify:—

Welter weight: Sergt. Ritchie, 32nd M.G.C., won on points.

Feather weight: Sergt. Hope, 53rd Manchester Regt., lost after an extra round. Corpl. Holland, 51st Manchester Regt., lost on points.

Light weight: Sergt. Ghent, 52nd King's Liverpool Regt., knocked his opponent out in the fourth round. Corpl. Holloway, 52nd King's Liverpool Regt., lost on points.

CADETS IN THE RING.

Prince Albert's Interest in Their Forthcoming Tournament.

A novices' boxing competition, open to all the recognised Cadet Units of the City and County of London, will be held at the National Sporting Club on November 25. The 1st Cadet Batt. of the King's Royal Rifle Corps is responsible for all arrangements, and Lieut.-Col. W. S. Masterman is to be congratulated on the support he has gained for his project.

There are so many entries that only two can be taken at each weight from any one unit, and it will be necessary to hold preliminary bouts (at the Drill Hall of the 7th London Regiment, 24, Sun-street, Finsbury square), on November 12 and following evenings.

Seven divisions are open to cadets, from paper-weight (7st. and under) to catch-weights (over 7st. 7lb.), and some excellent sport is promised.

Prince Albert has sent a letter in which he expresses his good wishes for the tournament and emphasises the value of boxing to boys and youths.

Spate of Entries.

So many entries over 10 stone have been received that it has been decided to add a middle-weight at catch weights over 10 st. 7 lbs. The bouts will be contested in the following weights:

Paper	7 stone and under.
Fly	8 "	" "
Bantam	8 "	6 lbs. and under.
Feather	9 "	" "
Light	9 "	9 lbs. " "
Welter	10 "	7 lbs. " "
Middle at Catch Weights over 10 st. 7 lbs.

The points will be three for a win, once for a loser, and one may be added by the referee to a good loser. The contests will be two rounds of two minutes and one round of three minutes, and the interval one minute.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

Amusement and Recreation.

Sunday at the Deutsches.

The series of Sunday concerts at the Deutsches Theatre will be very successful if the high standard of last Sunday's programme is maintained. These concerts fill a gap and are much needed. Sunday is a free day for most of us, and an hour or two of classical music seems to fit in with the scheme of things. Fraulein Wanda Achsel was as wonderful as ever, singing the Aria from "La Boheme" and the "Valse Song" from Romeo and Juliet. She displayed a happy vein of humour in announcing her English songs, which put her at once on intimate terms with the audience. Announcing, in English, that she would sing an unknown song, we were hardly prepared for "Two Eyes of Grey," but this she sang with wonderful enunciation. I suspect, however, the words conveyed little to her, as her singing of this item was rather lacking in the sympathetic interpretation called for. Fraulein Achsel also sang "Heimkehr vom Fest" and "Gretel," and in English, "One Brief Hour," announcing the latter with a knowing wink which tickled the audience immensely.

* * *

It was a great disappointment that Alfred Barker was indisposed, but although he did not feel able to do justice to the big Kreisler and Sarasate items which he had intended playing, he gave us some Chopin, in addition to the 1st mov. of Violin Concerto by Mendelssohn. One could hardly notice that his playing suffered, but no doubt had he been well, he would have worked the audience to still greater enthusiasm. Howard Fry was a great success. I should like to hear more of him. He has a voice of wonderful tone and purity. The acoustics of the Deutsches Theatre are not considered to be good, and I think in another place he would be heard to even greater advantage. The audience liked him immensely, especially in the "Toreador Song" from Carmen and "Son of Mine." This latter simple song is often heard, but Fry's artistic interpretation easily brought it into harmony with the rest of the programme. His other items were the Prologue from "Pagliacci" and the Kashmiri Song from "The Indian Love Lyrics." Professor A. Krogel again accompanied throughout the evening in such a way as only a master can.

"Y.M." Saturday "Pop."

To a packed hall on Saturday evening last the remnants of "The Tabs" and "Tonics" Concert Parties presented a wonderfully good variety performance, considering the fact that they are in process of reconstruction and are trying out several new artistes. In addition, several new acts were presented for the first time, with very little rehearsal, much of the business being quite spontaneous. The act of the evening was undoubtedly the dude and (very) snabby-genteel double turn by George Baines and Rex. It was quite their own production, and showed both artistes to advantage. Without reflecting in any way upon Rex's abilities as a light comedian one really wonders what he has been doing all the time he has been in Cologne not to have given us heavy burlesque before. It is certainly his forte and the act was a scream from start to finish.

* * *

New artistes were W. F. Green, a very useful tenor with quality, and Le Clere, a man of mystery, who is almost uncanny in his divinations and demonstrations of second sight. With a little showmanship, he should make a good turn. Maisie, in an amazing hat, and coy as ever, fooled deliciously with Rex in his new guise, whilst "Tab" Hosier accompanied on the piano. Hosier looks very well in uniform but would be more keeping in costume.

Invitation to Soldiers.

The pupils of the School for British Children were so delighted by an extraordinarily clever illusionist entertainment by Mr. Hugh Herring the other evening in the Loreley Hall, that they wished their parents and all the troops to share in their enjoyment. And now by the kindness of Mr. Herring the children invite the soldiers to an illusionist entertainment to be followed by a special cinema show, on Thursday, in the Great Hall of the Cologne Central Y.M.C.A. commencing at 6.30 p.m.

What's on at the Leave Club.

There will be an impromptu concert from 5—6 on Thursday, and a whist drive at 6.30 p.m. A chess tournament will be held at the same hour in the quiet room, and a dancing class in the theatre followed by a dance at 7.30 p.m. On Friday there will be a dancing class from 5—6, and a German class at 6.30 p.m. while the cinema will be continuous throughout the afternoon and evening. On Saturday, there will be an concert from 5—6 and a dance at 6.30 p.m.

"The Eccentrics."

As announced last week, Mr. Alfred Hurley is back in Cologne with another London variety company. He opened a week's engagement at the Palace Theatre yesterday evening with "The Eccentrics," a combination of talent that is bound to meet with approbation. In the programme appears the great "Datas", but yesterday evening he was unable to appear owing to delay in travelling up from France. He is now on the scene, however, and it is announced that he will positively appear this evening. The company is well balanced, and submit a bright and varied performance well worth going a long way to see.

W.O.'s and Sergeants Make Merry.

The fortnightly guest evening of No. 1 G.H.Q. Warrant Officers and Sergeants' Mess passed off with great éclat on Sunday, many ladies gracing the function. R.S.M. P.T. Satterford, the Mess President, steered the cheery company through a most excellent menu and a very enjoyable musical programme, and rounded it off with an omnibus vote of thanks. The usual self-sacrificing members constituted an efficient corps of "ober kellners" who idd the company—and themselves—well.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Tues.	Tosca	Puccini	7	10
Wed.	Cosi van tutte	Mozart	7	10
Thurs.	Tannhäuser	Wagner	6.30	9.30
Fri.	Hoffmann's Erzählungen	Offenbach	7	10
Sat.	Mignon	Thomas	7	10.15
Sun.	Lohengrin	Wagner	5.30	10
Mon.	Cav. Rusticana Der Bajazzo	Mascagni Leoncavallo	7	10
Tues.	Die Entführung aus dem Serail	Mozart	7	10

A short operatic duet was brilliantly played by C.S.M. Uzzell and Sgt. Lyons, and songs were contributed by Sgt. Howard Fry, Cpl. H. Waters and Mrs. Covey, Pte. Hozier playing the accompaniments. Mr. Joe Morley played some wonderful banjo selections, as did Sgt. Hallmark, whose G.H.Q. Jazz Band (the old original) roused the mess to such enthusiasm that he would do well to watch his jazz machinery or he might find another party of noisy, if inexpert, amateurs, in opposition.

British Empire Leave Club.

There was quite a big audience on Sunday night at the B.E.L.C. sing-song. Lt. Mearns opened the programme with "I know a Lovely Garden," and later on sang duets with Lieut. Ramsay, the most popular of which proved to be a realistic rendering of "Tenor and Baritone." Amongst the most popular items were "She'd a Hole in her Stocking", sung by Miss Bell, "Harvest", sung by Miss Trimble, and violin solos from Miss Tyrer. "Eleanor" was splendidly sung by L/Cpl. Williams, and Lieut. Ramsay gave a stirring "Three for Jack". Miss Douglas, besides accompanying the whole evening, assisted the audience to sing popular songs. Next Sunday the London Divisional String Orchestra will give a concert in the theatre at 6.30.

Deutsches Theatre.

The Rhine Army Dramatic Company yesterday evening produced "The Silver Box" by John Galsworthy before—as might have been expected—a very crowded audience.

JACQUES.

WILL IT BE YOU?

Another Chance To Win Big Prize In Football Contest.

The results of the matches on No. 6 contest coupon provided some unexpected returns. Numerous competitors failed to forecast the draws at Bradford, Brighton, and Brentford, while many were caught by the defeat of Queen's Park Rangers at Swindon.

The most surprising result however was the fall of the "Throstles." In this column last week we hinted at such a possibility but few competitors apparently availed themselves of this.

The result of this competition will appear in Thursday's issue.

The league tables appear to-day. Study them and send in your efforts for No. 7 contest without delay. Some entrant must carry off our prize. Will it be you?

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 7,
"Cologne Post",
A.P.O. S/40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 7.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov. 8th.
Closing date, Friday, Nov. 7th.

West Bromwich A.	v. Aston Villa
Middlesboro	v. Newcastle U.
Arsenal	v. Bolton W.
Burnley	v. Manchester U.
Stoke	v. Bristol City
Leicester	v. West Ham
Coventry	v. Huddersfield
Queens Park R.	v. Millwall
Southampton	v. Southend
Luton	v. Crystal Palace
St. Mirren	v. Hearts
Partick T.	v. Rangers

I enter Football Competition No. 7 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed _____
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. _____

Unit _____

Full Address _____

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

An Unusual Sight.

I heard of an officer on one of the staffs in Rhineland who went on leave recently and forgot to remove his brassard. When he arrived in England, he was the object of much curiosity and couldn't quite realise why. Then he remembered the brassard and promptly removed it.

Connoisseurs.

Passing a shop in Cologne where people were eagerly awaiting further food supplies, my companion remarked. "They study the bits of stuff in the windows as though they were works of art."

Narrow Escape.

Passing along Marzellenstrasse the other evening I heard the tinkling of falling glass. It transpired that a window of a train passing over the bridge across the street had been broken. One civilian had a narrow escape. A large piece of glass missed his head and cut his coat as it whizzed past him.

Fish and Chips.

The Germans have at last discovered the British soldiers' penchant for fish and chips "Fish & Chips from 7 to 10" is quite a popular sign in Cologne now.

Demobbing too.

The Fair at Rheil is being disbanded. Large wagons are much in evidence conveying portions of roundabouts, swings etc. to their winter quarters. One of these large vehicles trying conclusions with a tram, succeeded in upsetting the service for about twenty minutes.

What a Picture Cost.

The large sum of 25000 marks was paid for a painting in one of the Cologne auction marts yesterday. Evidently no shortage of money.

Flowers and Fruit.

During the past week a large assortment of beautiful wreaths has graced the windows of numerous florists' windows in Cologne awaiting Saints' Day celebrants. These wreaths have been very artistically constructed and there is apparently no end of bloom. Whatever the perfume city lacks it is evidently not deficient in either flowers or fruit.

Armistice Anniversary.

I have heard several requests lately for a fancy dress ball to be held in Cologne on the 11th — the anniversary of Armistice Day. I wonder if anything of the kind is being arranged.

The King's Tribute.

The other day it was my privilege to peruse the scroll which the King has had prepared and presented to the next-of-kin of the heroes who fell in the Great War. It describes the dead soldiers as having "left all that was dear to them, endured hardness, faced danger, and finally passed out of sight of men by the path of duty and self-sacrifice, giving up their own lives that others might live in freedom."

Street Markets.

Have you noticed the growth of the idea of street markets in Cologne? They are springing up on all hands and some stall-holders seem to have acquired permanent pitches for the display of their wares.

For the Youngsters.

I learn that the school for British children just commenced at the Cologne Central Y.M.C.A. will consist meantime of a junior and a senior section, and the curriculum includes in addition to reading, writing and arithmetic, French, German, Geography, History, Drawing, Dancing, Drill, Sewing, Vocal and instrumental music, object lessons, Hockey etc. Competent teachers have been found by the Army Education Officer, in co-operation with the Y.M.C.A. A very successful dancing class has been carried on for some weeks under Miss Letts, of the Y.M.C.A.

Our Contem Poxary.

"Amaroc News," the American Army paper produced at Coblenz, is, I hear, to charge 75 pfgs. a copy in future.

Books on War.

I dropped into the municipal library behind St. Gereon's Church yesterday morning and found a learned-looking assemblage plodding over hefty tomes and text-books. From the shelves allotted to "military and marine" books few, if any, volumes had been taken. There I found a well-thumbed Clausewitz and a German translation of Mahan's classical "Sea-power".

High Prices.

At a well known auction mart in Cologne some staggering prices were paid for valuable china and pictures yesterday. Even with the rate of exchange well over a hundred, Britishers expressed surprise.

All Souls'.

A correspondent points out that Sunday was not actually All Souls' Day. He says that in the ordinary course of events Nov. 2 would be All Souls' Day, but when it falls on a Sunday as this year, it is solemnized on the Sunday following. Anyhow, our glorious dead were suitably remembered; and that is all that matters really, I think.

German Names now.

Before the war the Kronprinz Hotel, Cologne, was called the City, and the Grosser Kurfürst in the Dom Square was known as the Savoy. The Germania cafe was formerly the Picadilly, and the Ewige Lampe the Hotel de l'Europe.

No Alcohol.

Perhaps you have not noticed it but the average German shampoo has for some months past been a very "milk and water" performance. The reason is that a good shampoo is only possible through the use of alcohol. This the German has lacked, but he is now making up for lost time with Paris importations.

Improving Names.

The printer of the R.A.D.C. Posters may think John Goldsworthy a more pleasing name than John Galsworthy, but it is of course, incorrect. Recently he took liberties with the name of Harold E. Terry the author of "The Man who Stayed at Home" changing it to "Harold E. Taylor."

Economy.

Do you know that in the American area no electric lamp exceeding 50 c.p. may be used in any stove window or elsewhere? Evidently one idea of securing economy in lighting.

German Practitioners Forbidden.

An important G.R.O. has been issued. It forbids all ranks to place themselves under medical treatment by German practitioners. They must report sick and attend, or be admitted to a British hospital or consult a British dentist when necessary.

Inconvenient.

In at least one Cologne hotel the civilians who have been in occupation received a bombshell in the shape of an edict to clear out, the premises being required by the military authorities. The problem of securing alternative premises is a difficult one in Cologne.

Billetting de Luxe.

This led to a lively experience for one individual, who sought the aid of the civil billeting authorities. Armed with a chit entitling him to a room at what may be regarded as a high price for such accomodation he found the house. He climbed four flights of stairs and was shown most impossible accomodation —under the stairs.

Early Snow.

Winter has started very early this year, and many troops in occupation have seen Rhineland under snow for the first time.

Remembering their Dead.

An Englishman who motored up through Belgium from the coast tells me that he was very impressed by the reverent tribute the Belgians gave to their gallant dead. He happened to be passing one of the Liege forts just at the conclusion of a short requiem service. The graves were liberally covered with flowers and their national colours.

Not Complimentary.

It seems the fashion outside Germany to fall back upon the ex-Kaiser and his satellites for all the fun of the fair. An officer just back from leave tells me that he noticed that all the figures at an Aunt Sally stall wore the old German uniform.

Tobogganning.

With the fall of snow — much greater in the Aix-la-Chappelle district than here — the younger generation tobogganed to their hearts' content down icy slopes. Just where these toys are stored during the greater part of the year I do not know, but one little fellow was improvising with the aid of a stool used upside down.

RHINELANDER.

SIEGFRIED WAGNER.

A RECOLLECTION: BY ALFRED BARKER.

Walking along some street the other day, I noticed a huge poster with the name of Siegfried Wagner staring at me in big red letters; that name involuntarily took me back to London and reminded me of a certain Saturday afternoon many years before the war.

It was a London Symphony Orchestral Concert at the Royal Albert Hall, and the concert was to be composed solely of Siegfried Wagner's works, and also conducted by him.

A friend of mine in the above Orchestra, being taken ill, asked me to deputise for him, which I readily did, as it seemed to me an occasion of more than usual interest.

The rehearsal was called for ten-thirty, but we were all there a good deal before that time, all very interested and curious to see the only son of the great Tone Poet. With the usual privilege that great men consider their right, he came rather late, but on being introduced to the orchestra he was given a very warm and cordial reception.

The resemblance of father and son at a little distance was quite extraordinary, and there were moments when many of us rubbed our eyes and wondered whether it was the great Wagner himself or really his son.

I managed to get a closer view of him during the rehearsal, and afterwards Dr. Hans Richter introduced me. I was benevolently asked, "Wie geht es Kleiner": was patted on the back, and then he turned to speak to someone.

No, on closer view there was much that somehow disappointed me, yet for the life of me I could not say why. The face was finer than his father's, but only in the sense that it bore none of those deep marks of suffering. Above all his eyes lacked that indefinable something, that spark that shines from a born genius only; his brow was broad and clear, yet somehow it did not give me the impression of a great intellect; the chin, too, lacked that touch of doggedness.

I do not know what it was, but I was standing before one of the most illustrious figures in Music alive to-day, and yet somewhere within me I was disappointed, and to my horror I had the same feeling with his music after the rehearsal. This took a good three hours, and what with the eagerness and desire to do our best we all felt ready for a great big dinner when it was over.

Siegfried Wagner's music I can only describe as the "ghost" of his father's. We were mostly agreed on one point, namely, that the greatest gift he had inherited was his orchestration. We played some marches, excerpts from his operas, but it was all pretty much the same, every man in the orchestra going at it for all he was worth, yet at the end of it all one did not know why— there was little meaning in it all; at times ghosts of "Tannhauser" would appear, but without that wonderful pulsation; faint suggestions from Parsifal, without succeeding in giving that wonderful nobleness of sound which prevails throughout that gorgeous Tone-Picture. It was all so near to being great, yet infinitely far away.

When it was all over one could not help thinking of Richard Wagner and his son as Substance and Snadow. In comparing Siegfried Wagner so closely with his father I am paying him the greatest compliment possible. There was much in his music that only the son of Wagner could have written, but there was much that other people could have written, which no one dare say of Richard Wagner's music. Therein I think lies the great difference.

I remember at the conclusion of the concert he received a big reception, both from the audience and the orchestra, and no one joined in more heartily, if with mixed emotions, than myself.

FOR BUSINESS MEN IN RHINELAND.

COLLECTING ENEMY DEBTS.

GERMAN RECONSTRUCTION.

An Order in Council dated August 18th 1919, and published in the "London Gazette" of October 24th, tells us all about collecting enemy debts, what may and what may not be done; and the official assistance that may be expected. All interested should secure a copy of the Order. Collection is to be made through a central clearing office under a Controller appointed by the Board of Trade.

* * *

By means of a little parable, "The Daily Express" explains very simply one point of view regarding the question of reconstruction in Germany. "England is in the position of a man who is owed, say, £10 by another man. He goes to collect the sum, and finds his debtor in rags and penniless. He does one of two things: either says 'good-bye' to his £10 or takes the man, reclothes him, and sets him on his feet. The latter course would probably cost him another £10, but he would stand the chance of recovering the £20 ultimately, with interest. In other words, if we ever hope to receive our indemnity from Germany, we must assist her to obtain the raw materials of which she is in such dire need."

* * *

It appears from German reports that the Frankfurt Fair was successful in its purpose of showing what Germany can sell and send in exchange for material she needs. The heavy industries seem to have been poorly represented, but finished manufactures made a brave show. The leather branch dominated; the electrical, chemical, boot and toy branches were very well represented; in the small iron and steel branch practically all the twenty-five Solingen works had exhibits. There were further displays of photographic materials and of optical instruments and novelties in machine tools. Cheap jewellery, soaps, and perfumes, and also high class printing were to the fore. There was very little china, glass, furniture, rubber manufactures and automobiles.

* * *

Sir Auckland Geddes, in a recent speech, referred to the accumulation of information by the Department of Overseas trade,—"information about getting goods to other lands, tariff rate and exchange." He said that the Department under Sir Hamar Greenwood now housed at Queen Anne's Gate Buildings, "worried horribly at the indication that the business community is not ready to take advantage of the help that the Government of the country can give. Now you know you may worry them horribly for all the information you require respecting your overseas trade."

Readers would do well to pay attention to the British Consular reports, which are of inestimable value for all who are opening up fresh connections abroad. The reports give accurate and otherwise inaccessible information relating to the state of foreign markets, the articles required, the recognised terms of payment of particular localities, etc.

The value of goods imported into the Rhineland since the Armistice is more than three million marks.

Fifteen hundred wagons of cigarettes to the value of one million marks were received. Some portion of these found their way into unoccupied territory, by regular or irregular ways.

A false advice has been current that Allied persons were forbidden to visit German manufactories without the express permission of the owner. This permission, we understand, is not necessary for officers in uniform.

A German ship sailing under her own flag has left Hamburg for Philadelphia to fetch a cargo of mineral oil.

According to the reports from German Chambers of Commerce the amount of labour actually performed by German workmen is now only about 50 per cent. of the work done in pre-war days. For instance, a Flensburg shipbuilding yard had to reckon for 800 hours now for work which in peace time would have occupied only 37 hours.

To militate against the inconvenience caused by the acute coal shortage the British authorities are organising a lorry service between the Ruhr district and the British occupied zone.

Private parcels may be despatched to the United Kingdom weighing up to five kilos. The contents must be clearly stated, and if dutiable, arrangements can be made for the Post Office to pay the duty.

MODESTY OF THE SHAH.

One of our British Ministers in Persia conveyed to a former Shah a message from the Omar Khayyam Society in London, begging his Majesty to keep green the grave of that ancient Persian poet. The Shah was mightily interested to learn that there were people in England who admired the author of the "Rubaiyat." "But," said he, "we do not regard Omar Khayyam as the greatest of the Persian poets. I could mention the names of one or two living ones who are better." The fact was, the Shah wrote poetry himself.

ENORMOUS WAR LOSSES.

Russia alone lost more than three times as many men in the late war as were lost by both the North and the South in the American Civil War.

"Germany lost more than three times as many.

"France lost nearly three times as many.

"Great Britain lost nearly twice as many.

"Austria lost nearly twice as many.

"There were sixty-nine years of war among the various nations in the 117 years prior to 1910.

"As nearly as can be learned, 5,098,097 men lost their lives in those wars.

"In the late war there were 200 men killed an hour, about 4,800 for every day of the war.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Free.—German lighters taken to Libau by the Allies have now been released.

Malvern's Record.—Over 400 Old Malvernians fell in the war.

Audacity.—Petersham Parish Church was broken into in broad daylight.

Papal Blessing.—Czecho-Slovakia has been recognized by the Pope.

Their Surprise.—New Zealand coal lumpers have suddenly returned to work.

Denial.—Chile denies that her territory has been invaded by Peruvians.

Postponed.—Queen Wilhelmina's visit to the Dutch Indies is postponed.

Discouraged.—Raisuli, it is stated, has demobilized his troops.

Home.—Prince Alexander has returned to Belgrade.

In the Fashion.—Newspaper sellers at Marseilles have gone on strike.

Without Debt.—Dunmow, Essex, is without a debt of any kind.

Returning.—The Belgian Royal Family has sailed for home from New York.

Deserved.—A German agent found guilty of blowing up a Canadian bridge has been sentenced to ten years.

A Common Experience.—Denmark is submitting to war time restrictions because of shortage of coal.

Hullo!—Within a short time it will be possible to telephone from France to the United States.

To Assist Farmers.—To meet distress by drought New South Wales proposes to introduce a farmers' moratorium.

Preparing.—The Rhodesian government has decided to remodel the defence system of Southern Rhodesia.

Yank Regular Troops.—Reinforcements of regular American troops have arrived at Coblenz.

Fini.—The colonial troops in German East and South West Africa are to be dissolved.

Alarming.—Owing to scarcity of silver coins the totalizator could not be operated at Auteuil races.

Peace Uses.—Cargo boats and liners are to be constructed in the naval arsenals of Cherbourg and Brest.

Newcomers.—Two young Arctic foxes have just been received by the London Zoo.

Dutch Labour.—The Dutch Chamber has passed a bill providing for an eight-hour working day.

Germany's Representatives.—The late German Minister of Economics is attending the Washington Labour Conference.

No Change.—Birmingham has reaffirmed its decision not to reinstate police strikers.

Promised Early.—A final decision on the future of the Territorial Force is likely to be reached at an early date.

Delayed.—Until terms and conditions of service are settled, enlistments for the Territorial Force cannot commence.

Untrue.—There is no truth in the reports of anti-Jewish pogroms in Ukraine by anti-Bolshevist troops.

For next Year.—Steam communication between Norway and Spitzbergen is planned for next year.

Inquiry.—Delegates have arrived at Lille to inquire into the building trades' strike.

Land Girls.—November 30 has been fixed as the date of the demobilization of the Land Army.

Dancing craze.—Hammersmith has a dancing hall which will accomodate 1500 couples.

Jazzing at Mansion House.—The Lady Mayoress elect has banned jazzing at the Mansion House.

Lorries to the Rescue.—Lorries are being employed to relieve the dock block at Avonmouth.

Business as usual.—The anniversary of the Armistice will not be observed as a bank holiday at home.

Reappearing.—Mr. Cyril Maude will make his re-appearance on the London stage after his long absence in the States next Monday.

More Evidence.—The Belgian Government have issued a Grey Book on the subject of Belgian prisoners captured in the campaign in German East Africa.

British Shots.—The Australian Defence Department has been asked to assist in financing a British Rifle Team if it visits Australia.

Exchange.—Arrangements have been made for pay issued to British troops in Russian currency to be exchanged before they embark for home.

High Prices.—Owing to the embargo on the building of new cinemas the prices of existing houses are rising to figures unheard of.

Combine.—There has been a big coastal boat deal in Scotland, the Coast Lines Ltd. having acquired several rival fleets.

Pensions.—Up to the present date slightly over half a million claims to pensions have been received from demobilised men.

Safeguards.—A Bill to increase the amount of compensation payable under the Workmen's Compensation Act (War Addition) Act 1917 will be introduced.

The Dole.—Prosecutions have been instituted in Great Britain in 882 cases of fraud in connection with out-of-work donations.

Safe.—The members of the the British Mission to the Iman of Yemen, who were captured on the road to Sanna, are being well treated.

Refitting.—The Ministry of Munitions has undertaken the manufacture of railway wagons at Woolwich Arsenal for the North Eastern and Great Western Railway companies.

To Go Back.—The Government is demanding the surrender for trial of Submarine Commander Captain Keisewetter, who has already been repatriated to Germany.

To Confer.—A meeting will take place between representatives of the British Government and of the Russian Soviet in Denmark to negotiate an exchange of prisoners.

For Naval Ratings.—The War Office and Admiralty are jointly considering the conditions under which War Medals will be issued to Naval ranks and ratings including the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve.

The Soldiers' Favourite Healer

There's Nothing Like

Zam-Buk for soothing the pain of a Cut, Bruise, Burn or Scald, or for ending an attack of Eczema, Ringworm, Piles, etc. Zam-Buk destroys skin disease at the roots without damaging the surrounding healthy tissue. It gives the broken or injured flesh instant protection against germ-infection, and then promotes the growth of healthy new skin. No soldier's kit is complete without a handy Box of Zam-Buk.

Of chemists, canteens or the Zam-Buk Laboratories Leeds.

Zam-Buk

VENUS PENCILS

These busy days are making the famous "VENUS PENCILS" more necessary to more people than ever before. "VENUS PENCILS" are smooth, flawless, perfect for every conceivable purpose. Never grate—smooth as satin.

17 Degrees Black Lead, 6 B (soft st) to 9 H (hardest), and in 3 styles copying

Of all Stationers and Stores throughout the world.

"VENUS," 173|5. Lower Clapton-road, London, E. 5.

VENUS 1919 — for Every pencil purpose

ALLIES VICTORY MEDAL
GENERAL SERVICE MEDAL
1914—1915 —— MEDAL

We stock all these Ribbons together with a wide range of Decoration & War Ribbons. Any Combination Mounted on Brooch Bars. MONS ROSETTES. Miniature Medals and ribbons & all Military and Naval Requirements

NO ORDER TOO SMALL FOR ATTENTION. SPECIAL QUOTATIONS FOR LARGE QUANTITIES ... WRITE TODAY FOR WHAT YOU WANT TO—

I. MARCUS & Co

Dept. C
54a HOUNDSDITCH
LONDON E. 1.
ENGLAND
TERMS—CASH WITH ORDER

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O.S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

ONE MONTHS' subscription to the Cologne Post including postage for sale. Price 15 Marks. Have it sent home daily.

TWO CEILING pushballs with or without platform. Write Sports Officer, 52nd Devons.

OFFICERS' WIFE wishes to sell child's mail cart. Used three weeks only. Price 200 Marks. Apply Box 309, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

FILM developing tank complete with instructions almost new. Price 100 Marks. Write to R.S.M. Smeeth C/O S.O. in chief Signals G.H.Q.

OFFICER being demobilised has for sale: Hunting Saddle (Sowter), Racing Saddle (3½ lbs, flat or steeplechase), Hunting Bridles, Snaffles etc., also 12 bore Gun (makers Cogswell Harrison, Piccadilly) in excellent condition—also cartridges.—The above can be seen in Cologne.—Box 10, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

SECOND-HAND, Zeiss-Goerz, Binoculars in big assortment to sell at low prices. Kammerasse 21. Tel. A 4927.

HANDSOM-CAB, manufactured Gloucester, line new, for sale. Arnold Mertens, Carriage-builder, Cologne, Dagobertstr 13.

WANTED.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 4/5. if poss. but not smaller than 6.8. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

WE buy constantly, every quantity of old ENGLISH BEER BOTTLES, if free house FRITZ ERLE G. m. b. H., Holbeinstrasse 36/38, Cöln-Nippes.

BILLIARD TABLE, English pattern, wanted for Officers Mess. Particulars to Capt. I. Egerton Hine, Army Technical College, Siegburg.

CINEMA APPARATUS with all accessories, wanted. Particulars and price to Capt I. Egerton-Hine, Army Technical College, Siegburg.

FOREIGNER seeks well furnished bed and sitting-room near Paulus-Kirche. Apply to A 316 Cologne Post A. P.O./S. 40.

TWO GREYHOUNDS and working terriers. By Rhine Garrison Officers. Box 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

WANTED to purchase, a Gramophone and records, preferably Decca. Apply, P.M.C. C Coy. 29th Bn. M.G.C.

EVERY DEMOBBED soldier wanted to continue reading the Cologne Post in Blighty. Send 15 Marks for one month's subscription now.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

OFFICERS' MESSES. High-class German Chef (late with Officers Head-Quarters, Northern Division, now gone to England) seeks engagement in similar position. Excellent References. Heinrich Weber, Siegburg, Roonstr. 6

YOUNG LADY, knowing German, French and English, wants position as Typist. Eight months with British Unit. Kindly write A 328 Cologne Post, A. P.O./S. 40.

COOK-MAID seeks sit. at English Soldiers or Officers Mess. Käte Wenzel, Cologne, Brückenstr. 19.

MISCELLANEOUS.

COMFORTABLE apartments for British Officer or N. C. O. and wife. Müller, 44, (1st Floor) Augusta-strasse, Nippes

LOST.

LOST in centre of Cologne or at VI th Corps Club, gold bar brooch, amthyst in centre. Reward if returned to Advt. Manager, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

500 MARKS REWARD.

Between BONN and SAND (near Berg Gladbach) on 2nd November, Brown suit case marked E.J. Information to Colonel Jackson, Headquarters, Southern Division, SAND, NEAR BERG GLADBACH.

PERSONAL.

EXPERIENCED cook wants situation in Officer's mess or hotel. First-class British testimonials and references. 20 years in England. Write to G 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S 40.

WILL THE BRITISH OFFICER (medical) who bought Thoma Zeiss Hamasitometer for 96.00 mks. at Messrs. Neumann and Cie. on Tuesday Oct. 30, communicate with the firm.

LANGUAGES

YOUNG GERMAN exporter wants English lessons. Apply to A 327 Cologne Post A.P.O./S. 40.

WELL educated German lady willing to teach German (pure German without any special accent) to English ladies and (or) Officers. Apply A 329 — Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

MISSING.

ANY INFORMATION respecting the whereabouts of Pte. William Nolan, No. 48558, D Coy. 13th Kings, reported missing March 27th, 1918, would be very gratefully received by his mother at 12, Gwendoline Street, Windsor St. Liverpool, England.

DON'T FORGET THIS

BEFORE YOU LEAVE FOR BLIGHTY.

* THE COLOGNE POST *
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks. (From U.K. 2/9.)

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

PLEASE WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

.....

15 Marks covers all British possessions.

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, November 4, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

FIRST WITH THE NEWS IN RHINELAND

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

THE FORM ON PAGE FOUR IS FOR YOU.

No. 187. COLOGNE, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

EIGHT COURAGEOUS CAPTAINS

PRIZE MONEY FOR ONE OF THE MOST THRILLING EXPLOITS DURING THE WAR

FRONTIER ATTACKS ON CONVOYS REPULSED

AN EPIC OF WAR.

BRITISH OFFICERS' ESCAPE FROM CAPTIVITY.

The first case coming before the new president of the Prize Court, Sir Henry Duke, was described by Counsel for the Crown as perhaps the most extraordinarily gallant exploit ever brought to the notice of the court.

Mr. O'Connor, on behalf of the Crown, asked for condemnation of the Turkish tug Hertha and its cargo as prize.

This was the tug seized by eight British officers who, being prisoners of war at Yozgad, Turkey, escaped on the night of 7th August, 1918. Their plans had been maturing during the previous eleven months, and they at last reached the coast, after a series of adventures, about a month later.

On the night of 8th September, Commander Archibald Douglas Cochrane saw a Turkish tug entering a small bay in the Gulf of Adalia laden with Turkish Government stores. His companions agreed that the best plan was to swim off and capture the vessel, which lay some two hundred yards off shore. The first attempt failed because of the noise made by the anchor when an officer attempted to release the dinghy, but on the next attempt the anchor was raised with almost incredible difficulty, considering the emaciated condition of the escaped prisoners, who had been marching across the desert for more than four weeks. They employed roughly-made paddles and finally towed the tug out to sea under the nose of the sentry. When safely out at sea they started with great difficulty the 50 h.p. engines, and were able at length to make the island of Cyprus.

Commander Cochrane, in the witness box, being asked how he knew the vessel belonged to the Turkish Government, said that when she came into the bay he saw she had Turkish officers and soldiers on board. The Hertha was taken out seawards in tow of the dinghy, which was rowed by six roughly-made paddles. Asked how he managed to navigate the vessel to Cyprus with seven army officers, he said he knew the general direction of the island and had a compass and table giving the bearings of the sun. The mountains of Cyprus are very high and they sighted them from forty miles away.

The President of the Court said: "I have to express the admiration we all feel at the services you rendered on this occasion and the gallantry of your adventure." A decree was made condemning the vessel and cargo as prize.

The officers accompanying Commander Cochrane on this adventurous expedition were Captains A. B. Haig, 24th Punjabis, R. A. P. Grant, 112th Infantry, V. C. Clarke, West Kents, N. A. B. Johnston, Garrison Artillery, J. H. Harris, Hampshires, K. D. Yearsby, Royal Engineers, and F. R. Ellis, Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry.

BATTLEFIELD MEMORIALS.

The Battle Exploit Memorial Committee constituted by the Army Council in order to correlate claims from individual units for permission to erect permanent memorials of their exploits on the battlefield has now completed the first stage of its duties.

Claims to erect memorials have been made by 117 individual units, and these have all been reviewed. Those made on behalf of the Australian, Canadian and New Zealand Governments have been approved, and negotiations regarding the acquisition of permanent sites are well advanced.

The Belgian Government has generously offered a number of plots of land in various places suitable for the erection of such memorials and has undertaken that such plots shall, as far as possible, be reserved for this purpose in any eventual scheme of reconstruction and rebuilding.

BOY WHO WANTS MORE.

A boy of 16, employed as a collier's helper, who was on Saturday charged at Pontypool with stealing chocolates from a shop, said his wages at the Tirpentwys Colliery were 39s. 6d. a week, but he had "given in a notice" for £2 18s. This intimation of "further trouble in the Welsh coalfield" caused much laughter in Court, especially on the part of the presiding magistrate (Mr. Benjamin Nicholas), who is managing director of the Tirpentwys Colliery.

The boy, Thomas Dentith, was discharged on payment of costs.

CONTROL OF MASSAGE HOUSES.

The London County Council in Committee has decided that the existing system of control of West-end massage and manicure establishments is insufficient to suppress immorality. They are therefore proposing that annual licences be issued.

FRONTIER AFFRAYS.

TRIBESMEN BEATEN OFF WITH HEAVY LOSSES.

A delayed Reuter message from Simla gives details of various affrays on the North west frontier. Gangs of Waziris and Mashuds have moved to attack the Tochi convoy. They are also active in the Gomal area (pass 200 miles S.W. of Khyber).

The Amir has permitted the Waziris to enlist in the Afghan army, but the inducement is insufficient. Afridis who recently returned from Kabul are convinced that the Amir has deserted them, and does not intend to help them to make terms with the British Government.

All Afghan regular troops have been withdrawn from the Dakka front (west of Khyber Pass), and have been replaced by irregulars. Raids continue in Waziristan and the Derajat (100 to 200 miles S. and S.W. of Khyber).

A petition for peace has been sent in by small sections of the Mahsud tribe, and other sections are awaiting the return of their leaders from Kabul before deciding on their policy.

An escort of three companies, with one section of mountain guns, returning to Manzai on October 22, was engaged with a mixed gang of Mahsuds, 250 strong. The enemy was driven off with heavy loss.

On the same day a convoy from Tochi was attacked by 300 tribesmen, but reached Idak safely. Our casualties in both actions were small.

EGYPTIAN RIOTS.

MACHINE GUNS TO STOP LOOTING.

Telegrams from Cairo received on Monday report serious riots at Alexandria during the week-end.

In the midst of a demonstration by the crowd after leaving the mosque an Indian soldier is said to have fired a shot. The mob thereupon became enraged and sacked the shops on the Boulevarde in the Hamleh quarter and in Mahomet Ali Square. Soldiers were called out and dispersed the crowd with machine gun fire, many casualties resulting. Quiet is now restored, and the situation in Cairo is calm.

FIRE AT LILLE ARSENAL.

A big fire broke out yesterday in the citadel at Lille. Part of the arsenal was damaged and a large quantity of munitions and arms destroyed. The damage is estimated at several million francs. The fire appears to have arisen through German prisoners stealing wood and making a bonfire.

AU REVOIR TO CANADA.

The Prince of Wales had an enthusiastic send-off on his departure from Montreal on Sunday. His official tour of Canada being now completed, the Prince will spend a few days in paying unofficial visits before proceeding to the United States.

YUDENITCH IN DANGER.

Very hard fighting is still proceeding round Petrograd. General Yudenitch's Army is reported to be still in a critical situation, though his forces have captured several villages in counter-attacks against the Bolshevists. A wireless message from Moscow says that the White line is in danger of breaking.

EXPERT PASSPORT FORGER.

The police at Copenhagen have arrested a German lithographer named Rienecke who was running a passport office here. He provided false passports for a large number of German and Austrian communists and criminals, who had succeeded in crossing the Danish frontier by night. Some of them had been sentenced to from eight to ten years' hard labour in Germany. Rienecke confessed that he had falsified the signatures of the Danish and German Consular officers and the police authorities. His false passports were a splendid imitation.

FIREWORKS FOR SALE.

The new number of Surplus, the publication of the Disposal Board, Ministry of Munitions, contains information concerning large quantities of fireworks suitable for celebrations, which are available for immediate disposal.

Count Arco, who, on February 21st shot the Bavarian Prime Minister, Kurt Eisner, will be tried on November 14th before the Munich National Tribunal.

RUSSIAN FRONTS.

SWAYING FORTUNES IN MANY PARTS.

A War Office communiqué announces that no reports of the situation in North West Russia have reached the War Office since that which gave the situation at 6 p.m. on Saturday last. Up to that hour there was little change in the line, apart from raiding activity.

The following was the situation on Denikin's front on the 31st October. Bolshevist attacks on the Caspian to the South-West of Astrakhan were repulsed with loss. On the front of the Don Army the Bolshevist 22nd Division, which had been surrounded in the valley of the Medvyeditsa, succeeded in cutting its way out to the North-East with the loss of 2,000 men, the Bolshevist reinforcements sent to assist it driving back the right of the Don Army for a little distance.

Further North, between Buzaluk and Khopen repeated Bolshevist attacks delivered against the centre of the Don Army broke down with heavy losses. Three Soviet companies and 250 other prisoners fell into the hands of the Cossacks. South of Navokhopersk three regiments of the 36th Bolshevist Division were defeated and driven northwards with heavy casualtis, losing 1,000 prisoners, eight guns and many machine guns. The right of the Volunteer Army had heavy fighting against the reinforced Bolshevist Divisions, which attacked along the whole front of 180 miles between Yelets and Syevsk. All attacks to the east of Orel were repulsed with heavy loss. Elsewhere there was no change in the situation.

THE RESTAURANT HABIT.

SEVEN THOUSAND AT ONE SITTING.

Nearly the whole of the block of buildings bounded by Great Windmill-street, Rupert-street, Shaftesbury-avenue, and Coventry-street has been purchased by Messrs. Lyons with a view to extensions of both the Coventry-street Corner House and the Trocadero.

"There will be seating accommodation for nearly 7,000," says the manager of the Trocadero. "We intend, of course, that the two establishments shall both keep their individual characteristics. All that will happen is that the sites will adjoin."

Though this extension will improve the existing teashop accommodation, it will do little to alleviate the crowding of London's restaurants. For London is gradually being forced to acquire the habit of taking meals away from home, with the result that in the rush of the luncheon hour queues are not an unusual sight.

THEFT AT THE LOUVRE.

An audacious theft has been committed at the Louvre Museum. The thief had concealed himself in one of the rooms, and with one of the stone exhibits broke a case containing objects belonging to the Phoenician epoch, and made off with a thin gold neckchain. Though the chain is 2,000 years old it has no great value, and surprise is expressed that the thief did not turn his attention to other cases near by containing jewels in solid gold of inestimable value. He escaped from the Museum by one of the windows, afterwards scaling the iron railings which separate the Louvre from the Tuileries. Finger-prints were found on the glass of the open window, and they correspond with those on the stone with which the case was smashed.

JEWISH WORLD-CONFERENCE.

The Committee of the Jewish delegations at the Peace Conference has, according to a telegram received from Paris by the Jewish Correspondence Bureau, resolved to convoke a Jewish world-conference, which is to determine the best methods of helping Jews of the East who are suffering in consequence of the war or of pogroms. A similar decision has been taken at important meetings in Warsaw and Lodz. Sir Stuart Samuel and many representatives of the Polish Jews took part in these conferences.

The world-conference would include in its programme the founding of a Jewish bank, the realisation of a great national loan, and the establishment of schools for artisans, and of commercial and agricultural colleges.

QUEEN OF NORWAY VISITS ENGLAND.

The Queen of Norway, sister of King George, arrived in London on Sunday evening. The King and Queen, attended by Captain Sir Bryan Godfrey-Faussett, R.N., Equerry-in-Waiting, and Lady Isobel Gathorne-Hardy, and accompanied by Princess Mary, were in waiting at King's Cross, and after an exchange of cordial greetings the Royal party drove off to Buckingham Palace.

The Queen of Norway will make only a short stay with the King and Queen, and will then proceed to her Norfolk home, Appleton House, on the Sandringham estate.

André Thumerel, a French military artificer, accused of theft, committed suicide, with his 20-year-old lady friend, by exploding 170 cartouches of melinite.

TANK INVENTION.

BEST IDEA TWICE REJECTED BY AUTHORITIES.

The fact was revealed by the Inventions Commission yesterday that a model was submitted by an Australian to the War Office in 1912 of an armoured car which, on the admission of the authorities themselves, would have made a better tank than that which actually went into action on the Somme in 1916.

The claimant was Corporal D.G. Male, of the Australian Forces. He said that when, in 1912, his model was rejected by the War Office, he was urged to submit it to the German authorities but would not do so. In 1916 he again submitted the idea to the British authorities in essentially the same form.

Counsel for the Crown admitted that the suggestions of Male, if carried out, would have made a better article than that which actually went into action.

The Chairman pointed out that the Commission could not recommend an award because the invention had never been utilised in the actual evolution of tanks. He added that the greatest credit was due to the claimant for his suggestions, which would have been of extraordinary value.

COAL STRIKE.

FINDING A WAY OUT.

As a remedy for the turbulent conditions in the American industrial world the Advisory Board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, in a statement issued on Monday, suggests that immediate steps be taken to assemble an Industrial Commission at Washington which will recognise the rights of all citizens and not be pledged to oppose collective bargaining. The Brotherhood pledges its support to the Government in restoring normal conditions, but says it deplores the Government's present action in attempting to control by injunction, believing that such action only tends to make conditions worse, and defers, if it does not actually defeat, a peaceful settlement.

New York coal operators and Union leaders make conflicting claims about the strike, the operators declaring that the majority of workers absent on Saturday will return to work to-day, while the Union leaders say the strike will remain "a hundred per cent." No disorders have yet been reported, and public opinion is solidly on the side of the authorities.

DEATH-BED MARRIAGE.

At Westminster Mr. Oddie held an inquest on the body of Lieutenant Buchan Metcalfe Liddell, R.N.R., aged 40, who died in the Empire Hospital, Vincent-square, S.W., on Thursday morning.

Mrs. Liddell stated that her husband told her that on July 28, 1918, he was at Zanzibar, and with some other officers left his ship and went ashore to dine with friends. While on a balcony he stepped over what he thought was a bush, and fell on a cement floor 15ft. below. He was taken to hospital and found to have fractured his spine. He was eventually brought to Portsmouth and transferred to the Empire Hospital, where he was married three weeks ago.

The Coroner.—Can you be married in a hospital?

Witness.—Yes, by licence from the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Captain Alexander Campbell, of the Empire Hospital, said that Lieutenant Liddell had a fracture and dislocation of the spine, with complete paralysis of the legs.

A verdict of "Accidental death" was returned.

INNOCENT CAUSE OF TRAIN DISASTER.

From the latest news of the terrible railway collision near Copenhagen it appears that forty-five persons were killed and about thirty injured.

The accident happened in a very curious manner. A little girl fell out of a coach on the first train, which stopped as the result of her mother pulling the communication cord and backed slowly to the spot. The driver forgot that the express train was following. Just as the mother found her child alive and unhurt the express dashed up and in a moment the two trains were a mass of wreckage.

GERMAN DIAMOND FIELDS.

An Anglo-American company has acquired for one million sterling the whole of German private and State interests in the diamond fields of the late German South West Africa. There is some public protest at Johannesburg over the secrecy of business and the alleged possibility of the market being rigged.

BRITISH VESSEL SUNK BY MINE.

The British steamer "Volturnus," with provisions for the Baltic fleet, struck a mine yesterday off the Skaw. All aboard were saved, but the vessel, which was a complete wreck, was abandoned and presumably has gone to the bottom.

The prospects of an issue of British prize bonds is having a restricting influence on investment in Government securities.

PENNANT INQUIRY.

FIERCE DENUNCIATIONS BY COUNSEL.

At the outset of Monday's sitting of the House of Lords Committee of inquiry into the dismissal of Miss Violet Douglas Pennant from the Women's Royal Air Force, Colonel Defries said he desired to make a public statement with reference to certain portions of General Brancker's evidence which he declared adversely affected Miss Douglas Pennant's case and were not true.

The Chairman, Lord Wrenbury, prevented the Colonel from proceeding, and told him that he was not a party to the proceedings.

Colonel Defries replied: "General Brancker speaks badly of a unit I commanded. I desire to prove that I commanded it to the absolute satisfaction of everyone concerned."

The Attorney-General then continued his speech on behalf of the Air Ministry. He submitted that it had been made abundantly clear that Miss Pennant's suggestion of conspiracy and intrigue was absolutely unfounded. The real reason for the dismissal of Miss Pennant was that she could not make a success of her department. It was lamentable that Miss Pennant became saturated with suspicion against her equals, her superiors and her subordinates. That she should have come to the conclusion that the whole world was against her and that it was her duty to make public a tangled web of hearsay and tittle-tattle was a deplorable thing.

Mr. Patrick Hastings, K.C., for Colonel Bersey, then addressed the Committee, and said there was not a shadow of evidence to justify Miss Pennant's charges. In concluding his speech Mr. Hastings said:

"The accuser is not Miss Douglas Pennant, but hundreds of people who have been grievously and evilly wronged by this lady. Accusations have been made against my client, against all the members of the Air Ministry, against hundreds and thousands of persons not named. Miss Pennant has sought to villify them and hold them up to the utmost degradation, cheerfully and willingly—almost, I might say, laughingly. These are the sort of weapons which may possibly recoil. The person who would be condemned by everyone who had heard the evidence would be the person who brought the whole of this dirty, filthy story into prominence solely for her own ends, that is, Miss Douglas Pennant herself."

Other counsel for different parties having spoken, the inquiry adjourned.

Just before the rising of the Committee Lord Stanhope went into the witness-box and said he wished to withdraw the statement he made in Parliament regarding Colonel Janson and Miss Giubb, and he desired to apologise for such a statement.

The Chairman said that that should be done in the House, but he thought it would not be right for Lord Stanhope to make any such statement until the Committee's report was submitted to the House of Lords.

Lord Stanhope replied that he would therefore do nothing in the matter until the report had been presented.

SHAH IN LONDON.

BONDS BETWEEN ENGLAND AND PERSIA.

The Shah of Persia dined with Lord Curzon at the latter's residence at Carlton House Terrace on Sunday night.

Responding to the toast of his health, proposed by his host, the Shah said, "Thank you for the kind words you have just expressed. I am very happy to be able personally to assure you of my sincere goodwill towards you personally and my great admiration of your great talents, which are indeed universally recognised. I do this with all the more pleasure as I see in you a sincere friend of my country, where you have travelled and where you have been able to know and appreciate my people more intimately than you could have done otherwise. I take this opportunity of telling you how pleased I am at the conclusion of the agreement recently reached between Persia and Great Britain — an agreement which has been come to for the purpose of strengthening in the future the joint interests of our two countries and the traditional relations existing for so long between us."

IMPORTED MEAT TO BE LABELLED.

The Imported Meat (Labelling) Order, 1919, which comes into force on November 12, lays down that imported meat must be labelled by retail butchers when sold or exposed for sale and when delivered at a customer's premises. Where cuts or joints of imported meat are exposed for sale they will be sufficiently labelled if they are exposed on a slab or counter which bears in a conspicuous position the prescribed label. The label must have "Imported," or "Imported Meat" clearly printed on it.

NEW PEERS' TITLES.

The titles taken by two of the newest peers are:—

General Sir Henry Seymour Rawlinson, G.C.B., G.C.V.O., K.C.M.G., Baron Rawlinson of Trent, in the County of Dorset.

Colonel William Hall Walker—Baron Wavertree of Delamere, in the County of Chester.

OTHER RANKS' WIVES

NEW HOSTEL OPENED BY Y.M.C.A.

That there was urgent need for a Cologne hostel for British soldiers and their wives is shown by the fact that all accommodation at the new Y.M.C.A. hostel at 12 Richard Wagner Strasse was taken up before the establishment was officially opened.

Since the scheme was propounded the Town Major has been indefatigable in its furtherance and it is largely owing to his efforts that initial difficulties were surmounted.

The hostel, which is an annexe to the Central Y.M.C.A., has been completed down to the last detail by Miss E. K. Beale, Head of the Central Ladies' Staff. Rations are drawn in the usual way and handed over for preparation to the Central, where all meals, except breakfast are served, a separate room being set aside for the purpose. Breakfast is served at the hostel itself.

The opening ceremony took place yesterday afternoon, in the presence of Lady and Miss Robertson and a gathering representative of the British Colony in Cologne.

Mr. Ashley, the general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. up here, briefly explained the scheme, and Dr. Francis, who acted as proxy speechmaker-general, gave details of the excellent and difficult labours performed by Miss Beale and her energetic helpers.

The actual ceremony of opening was performed by Mrs. Hall, who, together with Major Hall, has taken a very practical interest in the starting of the hostel. The unlocking of the main door was done with a silver key, presented to Mrs. Hall, on behalf of the tenants, by Mrs. Harrison, the wife of the staff sergeant-major, who assists Miss Beale in the running of the hostel.

After partaking of tea the party inspected the hostel, and were very enthusiastic about all the arrangements. There are nine bedrooms, each large enough to hold several beds and also to serve as sitting-rooms. Hot and cold baths, an excellent kitchen, a common sitting-room, and a breakfast room make up the ensemble of a much-wanted and greatly-appreciated institution.

The excellent arrangements made by the Y.M.C.A., with the ready help of the Army authorities, made it possible for all this to be free of all charge, but, with that spirit characteristic of the British soldier, the tenants have decided to have a small levy to meet expenses for cleaning, decorating, etc., and for the purchase of such extras as eggs, fruit, and flowers.

The Y.M.C.A. are trying hard to secure further promises for similar hostels, but housing accommodation in and around Cologne is dreadfully scarce at present. They expect, however, to secure at least one more building in the near future.

CLASP TO 1914 STAR.

APPLICATION FORMS AT POST OFFICES.

The War Office announces that discharged or demobilized personnel who are entitled to the clasp to the 1914 Star for those who served under fire in France or Belgium between August 5 and November 22, 1914, can obtain forms of application at any head or branch post office in a town, or at any post office in the country districts. The forms should be completed in accordance with the instructions thereon and forwarded to the Officer in Charge Records of the corps with which they last served.

FINLAND AND RUSSIA.

According to the Finnish Press Bureau a Minister of State has declared in an interview that the negotiations between representatives of the North Western Russian Government and the Finnish Government are as yet without result.

The Chief of Staff of the Russian Murman Army states that the collaboration actually brought about between Finnish and Russian troops operating round about Murmansk has materially changed the situation to the advantage of the Whites.

The Finnish Government has recalled General Mannerheim owing to the present military situation.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

Despite the competition of many new capital issues the tendency of the market was encouraging and the volume of business satisfactory. Gilt-edged securities improved, this being attributable to the success of the British loan in New York. Oils were prominent, the leading shares particularly being in great demand. The feature of the mining section was the persistent buying of Burma Corporation shares on the strength of the company's silver and lead potentialities. Rubbers were changing hands freely without any striking price movements. Shippings continued their upward movement. Foreign funds were quiet, Scandinavians falling somewhat on the improving rate of exchange. Eight new prospectuses were issued, the collective sum applied for totalling ten million sterling.

The War Office announces that Christmas puddings for soldiers must this year be provided under pre-war regimental arrangements instead of by private generosity, as during the war.

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON, WINCHESTER, ALDERSHOT

Representative Mr. A.J.R. LEE is at OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

Has recently returned from London with a stock of hosiery & a new selection of patterns for mufti wear. Officers requiring shirts etc. for the winter, can now be supplied from stock.

Ancestral Door-plates

still to be seen on the historic gateway leading to the cellars of John Harvey & Sons, Limited, Bristol, Naval and Military Wine Merchants.

Style of the Firm:—
1796 William Perry.
1816 Perry & Urch.
1825 Urch & Prichard.
1839 Urch, Prichard & Harvey.
1842 Harvey & White.
1871 John Harvey & Sons
1883 John Harvey & Sons, Ltd.

Among the many noted Wines and Spirits exported by this renowned firm to all parts of the world are the following:

HARVEY'S "HUNTING PORT,"
"BRISTOL MILK" (Old Golden Sherry),
HARVEY'S "SHOOTING SHERRY,"
The "19th" HOLE Scotch Whisky.

Send for Duty-free Price List.

The Trade Mark shown below is the recognised guarantee all over the world of consistently High Quality and Value:

JOHN HARVEY & SONS, Ltd.
BRISTOL, ENGLAND.
Founded 1796.

JH&S BRISTOL REGD BRAND

Original-Schulze Razors are the best!

ON SALE AT
CARL MERGENBAUM, COLOGNE
Post Strasse 53, Tel. B 1057.

Winehouse Köhler
(formerly Carlton)
Grosse Sandkaul 24—26
behind "Coffeehouse Germania."
The most fashionable place in the city.
Small-Orchestra starting at 5.00 p.m.
For officers and civilians only.

Agrippina Café
Breitestr. 92—98, 1st floor. Tel. B 9935.
Artiste Concert daily from 4 p.m.
First class wines

One Fox-skin rug, comprising 20 choicest selected pelts, for sale. Write A 326, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

FOTAX
Dark room Lamp 2.75
" " 3.50
Bromide Postcards, per hundred . . 6.—
" " per thousand . 55.—
Self toning Postcards, per hundred 12.—
Tripods, wood . . . . . 9.—
" " folding . . . . . 20.—
Tripods, brass telescopic . . . . . 30.—
Camera 6×9 cm . . . . . 65.—
" 6×9 cm double anastigmat 150.—
" 9×12 cm . . . . . 70.—
" 9×12 cm double anastigmat 200.—

SCHILDERGASSE 55a
Next the C. of E. Military Church.

Mr. Alfred Hurley's London Music Hall Coy.

"The ECCENTRICS"
All first-class Artistes including
"DATAS"
The famous Memory Man from The Palace, London. "Am I Right, Sir?"
MISS MARGUERITE DE LARA, Prestidigitator,
MISS GLADYS STANLEY, Soubrette, Central Pier, Blackpool, Season 1919.
MISS MARJORIE BOWYA Vocalist and Violinist
MR. C. POWELL-EASTBERY Comedian and Baritone and together in "A Potpourri of Rags and Gags".
MR. WARWICK PRYCE Entertainer at the Piano from Maskelyne & Devants, London.

Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage this party or the Jesters. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office, Komodien Str. or may be seen there personally at 11 o/c each morning.

TO-DAY
VIth Corps Officers Club
GRAND ORCHESTRAL CONCERT
under the direction of
HERM. BLUM
Augmented Orchestra of 20 Performers
3.30 — 5.30

BACKHAUS
PIANO RECITAL
AT THE BÜRGERGESELLSCHAFT
BONN
TO-NIGHT
at 7.30 p.m.

BEETHOVEN, Sonato in D minor
MOZART, Sonato in A major
REGER, Variations on a theme by BACH
CHOPIN, Ballade in G minor
Waltz in A flat
Berceuse
Schertzo in B flat minor

Book at the hall or usual Agents and Music sellers.

EXPORT
Manufacturers of Surgical Instruments
NEUMANN & CIE.
COLOGNE, Minoritenstraße 21A.

ART PORCELAIN
for sale. Beautifully coloured, comprising Dinner, Coffee and Tea and Fruit services, Centre piece, Vases, Figures and Groups. Only finest quality.
JOSEF MARTIN Steinweg 6, am Gürzenich.

NÜCHEL & HILLEBRECHT
COLOGNE, Glockengasse, corner Kreuzgasse, close Schauspielhaus. Tel. A 5566
UNIFORM MAKERS
MILITARY OUTFITS
Manufacture of all Uniforms for the Army of Occupation. First-class References.

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor

Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???
Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!
The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!

TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.
Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 32-34.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE
To night and Friday night, the performances at the Deutsches Theatre will commence at
8. p.m.

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.

Wednesday, November 5th, at 8 p.m. and nightly
THE BRITISH RHINE ARMY DRAMATIC COMPANY
presents
"THE SILVER BOX"
A Comedy in three acts by John Galsworthy
Large Caste. Special Attraction.

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.

Wednesday, November 5th 1919, at 6 p.m. and during the week
Mr. ALFRED HURLEY presents his London Music Hall Coy.
Artistes:
"DATAS"
The world renowned memory man from the Palace Theatre, London. "Am I right, Sir"?
MISS MARGUERITE DE LARA Prestidigitator
MISS GLADYS STANLEY, Soubrette Central Pier, Blackpool, Season, 1919

MISS MAJORIE BOWER and MR. WARWICK EASTBURY Versatile Duo	MR. WARWICK PRICE Entertainer at the piano from Maskelyne and Devant's St. George's Hall, London.

And THE CRUMPS' ORCHESTRA by kind permission of the G.O.C. London Division
Usual prices. Book Early.

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA. 32 Komödienstrasse
At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA. Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c. Grand Orchestra and Pictures.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA. Hohe Strasse
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS,
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 659. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.

Wednesday, November 5, 1919.

EXTERMINATION.

Hamelin, as it happens, is not in occupied territory, and we have no particular need of a picturesque Pied Piper, but the experiences many of us had on the Western front in the hunting of rodents induce us to take more than a passing interest in the recent National Rat Week in England.

No official casualty figures are yet available, but from reports which have come to hand from various sectors the offensive was apparently well conceived and equally well carried out. The mortality was particularly heavy in Kent where averages have a habit of attaining pre-eminent heights, and in the general attack poison gas sticks of cordite, ferrets, dogs and rat-catchers—animate and inanimate—were freely requisitioned.

What possessed Noah to take a couple of rats into the ark has been a source of wonderment as well as perplexity to many. What man is doing in the scheme of things apart from burrowing in the earth in the piping times of war and laying up subterranean stores of very appetising food, has probably been equally perplexing to every reflective rat.

This ravaging rodent has rendered itself an insufferable nuisance not only because of its predatory habits, but also because of its ability to spread disease. It has also a beastly tendency to propagate its species far too freely for the liking or comfort of mankind, four or five big litters a year being unpleasantly common. Whatever may be said of the gentler sex, the average man can tolerate and even humour a mouse, but a rat as a rule is a vile and dangerous intruder, whose repulsiveness seems to be in proportion to the length of its ghastly-looking tail.

The rat's one redeeming feature, apart from any useful purpose the naturalist may have found in its existence, is the opportunity it affords for first-rate sport. Rat hunts relieved the monotony of trench life; even the "base wallah" may have found a transitory joy in gingerly raising his tent boards and pursuing the elusive pest.

The rat week, as was inevitable, witnessed several exciting hunts, two such sporting events in the Quinton district adding between them 350 tails to Birmingham's total captures. These should be vigorously maintained so that every week is a rat week, more especially as the breeding season has not yet opened.

SOLDIERING IN INDIA.

I consider my happiest days as a soldier were passed in India, where I served for nearly ten years.

Some people are of the opinion that the climate in India is unhealthy, but this is not so, as a man has every advantage and chance to keep himself fit amidst beautiful surroundings, and with plenty of time at his disposal for sport. Personally, I never had one day's sickness during the whole time I served there, simply on account of the fact that I indulged in plenty of sport and exercise, which is encouraged by those in authority in India.

I will give a slight impression of a day's service during the summer months. I am an Artillery man myself, but the Cavalry and Infantry services are practically the same as far as hours and advantages count.

Reveille would sound at 5 a.m. in order to get the drill and military duties over before the heat of the day, which is at its height about midday. At 5.30 a.m. a Mounted Parade would be held, my horse saddled and groomed up ready for me beforehand by my "Syce" (Groom), who is paid the small amount of 8 annas (8d) per week to look after the horse, clean equipment, &c.

After this parade I would water and feed my horse, have breakfast and go to stables from 9 a.m to 10 a.m. From 10 a.m. until 5.30 p.m. I would be free to do as I wished, if not detailed for guard.

This spare time was generally passed with a few hours' sleep, a game of cards in the Royal Army Temperance Association, billiards, or water-polo and swimming, which is very popular with the troops in India, all facilities and conveniences for sports being provided by military authorities.

The evenings also were devoted to sport generally, hockey, football, polo, cricket, tennis and fives-courts. Another popular form of sport out there is shooting, game being very plentiful. Each unit has its own "sporting guns", and one can enjoy good shooting—wild duck, doves, pigeons etc.

Every Thursday was a general holiday, when sports would be properly organised, tournaments, etc. taking place

Every man has the privilege of two months furlough in each year, and can travel to any part of the country, within reason, free of cost.

The winter is also quite pleasant, being warm all day, getting colder towards night time, but is never excessive. During the winter months field training is the general form of military duties combined, of course, with drills, but sport has its place all the year round.

The life in the service in India is never really hard, and I still think that out of sixteen years' unbroken service my happiest memories are the days I enjoyed during my ten years in India.

Ex B. S. M.

LEAFLETS BY BALLOON.

INGENIOUS PROPAGANDA.

Major J. C. Street tells in "The Cornhill Magazine" how propaganda leaflets were dropped at the Front from balloons. The means of attachment was the solution of the whole problem of the use of balloons, and was as simple as it was ingenious.

A length of the orange-coloured woven tinder, sold at every tobacconist for use in pipe-lighters, was taken, and one end of it fixed to the balloon. The sheaves of leaflets were strung on cotton tags, as used for binding papers in Government offices. The end of each tag was driven through the length of tinder at calculated distances from the free end.

The rate of burning of the tinder was ascertained by experiment, and found to be, say, one inch in five minutes. If the target were twenty miles away, and the wind were blowing at thirty miles an hour, the balloon would be over the target in forty minutes. The tags would then be inserted at close intervals from six to ten inches from the end of the tinder.

Just as the balloon was released the end of the tinder was held against a lighted cigarette, and commenced to burn. The balloon soared up into the sky, carried rapidly out of sight by the wind.

In thirty minutes the first tag burnt through, and the papers fluttered separately to the ground, closely followed by those held by the next tag.

By this means it was found possible to ensure a large percentage of the leaflets falling in or around a given target.

The actual matter distributed varied according to the destination for which it was intended. The invaded districts were served with such fare as the "Courier," or with pamphlets containing such special news as it was guessed that the Germans would suppress.

Enemy troops and enemy territory were flooded with leaflets of an entirely different kind, the motive of which was invariably discouragement, it being axiomatic that the chief function of military propaganda is encouragement of one's friends and discouragement of the enemy.

The principal line of argument was the necessity of the ultimate defeat of Germany, both politically through the blockade, and militarily, by the ever-increasing pressure of the forces brought against her.

Various means were employed to bring these facts home to the German people, and no less an authority than Ludendorff, in the extracts from his "Memoirs" recently quoted in "The Times," bears testimony to their efficacy.

One example was a cartoon, consisting of two sketches. One of these was inscribed "1914," and depicts Germania proud and flourishing, driving a donkey cart, the donkey symbolising the German people, fat and prosperous, the cart vaguely resembling the chariot of Boadicea. In front of the donkeys Germania dangles from the end of her whip a magnificent carrot, labelled "Sieg."

The other sketch was inscribed "1918," and shows the same equipage after four years of war. Germania is now almost a skeleton; seated by her are two bloated figures, the profiteer and a gentleman suspiciously like Hindenburg, weighing down the now patched and rickety cart. The donkey, thinner and more weary than Germania herself, still plods along, with bent knees and staring eyes, fixed now on an attenuated vegetable held out before it labelled "Ersatz Sieg."

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

WAR CLAIMS AND THEIR VALUE.

Sir,—It was not so very long ago that it was claimed for a certain officer's charger that it was the first to cross the Hindenburg line. Now the Tank Corps, vide a recent issue of your paper, claims to have the only dog to go over the top.

What merit is there in this distinction even if it were true? I recall horses which made the journey to within an ace of the front line night after night, pack ponies, which served from 1914 onwards and were wounded not once or twice.

Then there are dogs which attached themselves to transport and always took their places in the ration column and acquired a striking knowledge of things military; the monkey which came from Blighty as a mascot, and for which a special pillbox was made.

Many similar examples come to mind. Perhaps readers will furnish some to prove that such claims have little merit on examination.

H. K.

W.O.'s AND N.C.O.'s CLUB.

Sir,—I scarcely think "Warrant" is quite fair to this recently-started institution.

It may not be over large, but such a rendezvous is always more sociable and cosy than a big, empty-looking place.

Then, too, "Warrant" must remember that the number of its clientele is going to be a diminishing one. In the course of not many weeks, if the intentions of the Government are carried out, there i no fear of this or any other club or institute in Rhineland being overcrowded. The difficulty with many will be to carry on at all.

I do not like "Warrant's" complaining tone. He cannot surely realise how much is being done in these days to entertain and make comfortable all ranks. There never was such a well-cared-for Army.

Indeed, as an N.C.O. of fourteen years standing I would be inclined to say, if I might, that there is even a tendency nowadays to pamper.

It did our old Army no harm to rough it a bit.

INDIA.

STREET OBSTRUCTIONS.

Sir,—I don't think Cologne is much worse than other big towns in respect of street obstructions.

For example. I will name two very common ones in England, but as familiarity breeds contempt, one is apt to overlook them. I refer to the dangerous practice of unloading casks of beer into publicans' cellars at all hours of the day. I wonder H.C.A. has ever caught his foot on the rope attached to the barrel and fallen headlong into the open cellar-flap. It is quite easy to do, even if one is not nearly blind.

Then if the Hohestrasse or any of the shopping streets were at home he would find the pathways impassable for the block of mail-carts and perambulators which would be there in hundreds for a certainty. Aren't they obstructions?

The whole thing is that a man has to be alert in going through this world. There is no place for soldiers who can't see five paces in front of their noses.

WIDEAWAKE.

EYES AND NO EYES.

Sir,—"Captain R.A.M.C." would be well advised to seek naturalisation, supposing we pursue his observation of super kultur and get away from telephones and such like. It took me the greater part of a day to get through to a place not fifteen kilometres from Cologne and turn attention to events of five years ago — rape, theft, plunder and the like.

No wonder Belgium is putting on record in its villages a few of the happenings of that time. "Captain R.A.M.C." and such of his kidney make me sick.

1226a

RINK HOCKEY.

Sir,—If we are to have hockey this winter confine it to the playing fields.

The game as played on roller skates is tame and uninteresting. Keep the floor clear for "pukka" skating and give us fancy dress carnivals.

ENTHUSIAST.

THE NEW IDEAL.

Sir,—I too recall the promises which were showered upon us when the call came. Many with a memory of South Africa questioned the sincerity of these, but nothing daunted, answered the call.

What have we? Colums of advertisements from men, who in despair, plead for the chance to earn a decent living; men engaged in a vain search for work; everyone forgetful, employers indifferent.

The profiteer who never lifted his hand to assist in the war is fattening on the earnings of the men whose action allows him to pursue his business.

DISGUST.

PLAYS SOME PEOPLE WANT.

Sir,—Although Lieut. Percy's letter is mainly taken up with justifications of his past selection of plays the fact stands out distinctly from the mist of words that he and his company at last see the reasonabless of "Durham Lad's" criticism and are about to stage at least one play of the popular "straight" kind that so many of as have been wanting for so long.

I know it is the ambition of most young players to shine in the modern problem play, to offer Shavian subtlety, Galsworthian gloom, or Wilde's machine-made satire.

Well, the R.A.D.C. has had its fling in those directions, but the time has come for a change, and Lieut. Percy, evidently like a wise producer, sees the writing on the wall. He has bowed to general opinion, and, — thank goodness, — he indicates that a saner policy will be pursued in the near future.

There are popular, wholesome, stirring, plays without number to choose from. He can easily select those that don't need elaborate scenic effects. Tommy is his main supporter. He appreciates what has been done for him in the past, but from a mistaken idea as to his tastes, the R.A.D.C. has "gone off the rails" a bit.

And the fact that Lieut. Percy now sees this, is enough. We shall all await his future "popular" programme.

ANTI "HIGHBROW."

BOXING FILMS.

Sir,—Boxing is brutal, but so, unfortunately, is man. The brute in us is going, but there are a still a large number of people, some of them quite near at hand, who have an almost pious respect for brute force. It is an established fact that in any country under the sun after "closing time" acute differences of opinion are not settled by "battles of words."

I reckon it the surest test of a nation's civilisation, the way in which excited or intoxicated members of that nation settle their disputes.

The Oriental is an opportunist; he uses anything that comes to hand: The Latin races are experts in the use of the knife; it makes no noise: In the States the six-shooter is occasionally heard.

In the British Empire, however, it is "bunches of fives" every time. To use a weapon is not sporting because the other man may have forgotten his.

Now "bunches of fives" is not the last word in civilisation — some day force of any kind will be considered bad form — but it is a great advance on the six-shooter; just as the six-shooter is a great advance on the knife, a kitchen skewer, or a cross-cut saw.

Let "Anti-box" reflect that the race that advocates the gentle art, the Anglo-Saxon, is the race that does not get excited or lose its temper under provocation, first abolished duelling, and arms its police with batons only.

N. P.

CAMERA FIENDS.

Sir,—As one who paid his meed of respect at the Memorial Service for British prisoners of war who are buried at Sudfriedhof Cemetery, Cologne, on Sunday, I think protest should be made of the unseemly behaviour of the ubiquitous camera fiends who were present.

They little thought of the devotion of the hundreds who attended, and they were not averse to inconveniencing the worshippers in order that ideal "snaps" could be obtained of those taking a leading part in the service.

If pictures were necessary of such a solemn and devout occasion as that at Sudfriedhof Cemetery on Sunday, surely memory can be depended upon to serve us in good stead in years to come.

R. E. SPECT.

"FILTHY" LUCRE.

Sir,—It has become a general practice to refer to coin as "filthy lucre," but anyone handling some of the German money which has come my way will agree that the phrase has a new meaning.

For filthiness and danger from infection paper currency which now does duty in German is the last word. Inoculation and vaccination become more necessary than ever.

A word in conclusion with regard to the district money which is foisted on customers at hotels and cafes. It seems to me that every waiter collects these notes knowing that they will be handed to him as a tip. Why not call them in.

COCKNEY.

THE RULE OF THE ROAD.

Sir,—One hears to-day that the Ford car people have, after much consideration, decided to build all their cars with the driving seat on the left side. Up till now, of course, those cars built for sale in England have had their driving seats on the right side, in order to comply with our insular rule of the road. Now however, still further to standardize their cars, this company have abolished this slight difference and all their cars are to be alike.

The change seems to be significant. Why should we in our small island have exactly opposite rules to every one else? Why should our cars have to be made differently? Why should men driving English cars abroad run grave risks when overtaking vehicles, because from the driving seat it is impossible to see round the obstruction?

Surely it would be far the best plan to change our rule of the road, especially as just at present so many men have got into the habit of the right side. There is an added objection, too, to the English rule of the road, and a very grave one. When overtaking led horses, which are necessarily led by the right hand, it is inevitable to pass them on the left, thus breaking the rule. This often leads to confusion at home, while abroad never, since led horses fit into the scheme of the rule of the road.

It is to be hoped that English motor-car companies will follow the lead of the Ford company and thus make a change practically compulsory.

E.M.S.

DO CHESS-PLAYERS BECOME INSANE?

Sir,—I am keen at the game of chess but am not an expert player; that is to say I play it as a game, not as mathematical hard labour.

Having met the type of chess-player who does treat the game as higher mathematics, I was not surprised when I was told recently that a great number of chess-players finish their careers as actual or potential inmates of lunatic asylums.

Could any of your chess-playing or other readers verify or contradict this, please? Forewarned is forearmed.

GUERILLA.

THE FALL OF THE YEAR.

I hear, the year, in fancy,
Say, Cleopatra-like,
"Go! Charmian-October
And search by wood and dyke.

A splendid cloak of crimson,
A vest of amber, rare:"
And men, shall sighing, whisper,
"A queen dies very fair!"

Go! Bring me beryl-tinted
Petticoats of leaves,
And bind my brow with creepers.
Vermilion from the eaves;

Then, in a blaze of beauty
I'll draw my last gold breath,
And men, will sighing, whisper
"How beautiful is Death."

DOROTHY UNA RATCLIFFE.

ANGLO-AMERICAN POLO.

"Yank" Representatives to Play in England.

GOOD TALENT.

A polo team representing the American Forces in Germany may play in the International Polo matches which will be staged in England next summer, says the "Amaroc News."

Col. T. P. Melville, British Liason Officer with the American forces, who is one of the leading poloists of the British Army, stated yesterday that the polo material among the American officers is exceptionally good and that the players rank well with the best of the Inter-Allied armies and other countries which send teams to the big meet. Col. Melvil has ridden with the American team in several matches. He is a seven handicap player.

According to the present plans the team may go to Spain in February and meet some of the British team which will be in training there.

STATE LOTTERIES.

Government Scheme Prepared for Premium Bonds.

In view of the tremendous success of state lotteries on the continent and of private sweepstakes here, in France, and, to a lesser degree, in England, it has for a long time been a mystery in the minds of the majority of people outside the "House" that the Government have not long since adopted this perfectly certain method of raising money for the nation's benefit.

The fact that the Lille Cambridgeshire sweepstake was over-subscribed to the extent of something like twenty thousand pounds is surely sufficient indication of the average man's willingness to "try his luck." This is all the more emphasised when it is borne in mind that the subscribers were practically exclusively confined to the Forces.

The Sporting Spirit.

Attractive as are the terms of interest in connection with War Bonds the average individual of very limited capital would rather take a long odds chance with the possibility, however remote, of winning a few thousand pounds than invest his modest sum in a gilt-edged concern paying a liberal annual interest.

The latter proposition certainly appeals to his sense of thrift, but the majority of us would rather have a sporting run for our money with the thrilling anticipation of the result, and the pleasure of fanciful dreams supposing the prize should come our way.

In view of these things, the "Daily Mail's" announcement that the Government have prepared a scheme for state lotteries that can be launched at any moment is being hailed with satisfaction as showing that, contrary to the opinion of many, such a method of raising money is not impracticable in politics.

In the opinion of Mr. Bottomley, who has for years advocated Premium Bonds, £1,000,000,000 could be raised at once by the Government through the agency of a Lottery.

The "Sense" of the House.

Writing in the "Sporting Life" on the subject, "Augur" says, "The subject of Premium Bonds has again cropped up in the House of Commons, but except to say, in reply to Sir C. K. Cooke, that he "would offer no objection to the issue of a Lottery Loan if the House so desired," the Chancellor of the Exchequer could not be drawn. Why, then, not test the "sense" of the House on the subject at once, in view of the dire need of the nation for money?

Namby-pamby Legislators.

"There are big Government lotteries in France and Germany—to name only two big European countries—and it is a known fact that in the case, at least, of the French Lottery, a lot of British money is being sent across the Channel, the flow of which would be instantly stopped if our benighted and namby-pamby legislators could rid themselves of the silly notion that while it is right and proper to dabble in stocks and shares and in other "doubtful" transactions, it is intensely wicked to "put a bit" into a Lottery.

Day not far Distant.

"What a hypocritical lot we are—at any rate, those who are set over us in high places! I am convinced—and I am far from being alone in my conviction—that if the "sense" of the nation were taken on the Lottery question, the answer would be a decided and emphatic "Yes." That it will come one day is certain, and the day is not very far distant either."

A CLEAN FIGHT.

Jerry Shea, the well-known Newport "welter," and Will Brooks, of Aberavon, were the principals at Briton Ferry, and from first to last the contest was fought on clean lines. Shea was always prominent with straight left-hand hitting, and at times he used his right effectively whereas Brooks did not seem quite up to concert pitch, though on occasions he hit with great power. The contest went the whole distance, with Shea a popular winner on points.

KID PLESTED'S EASY WIN.

At the Ring, Blackfriars, a 20 3-min. round contest between that well-known black-country welter-weight, Kid Plested, of Tipton, and Jack Stewart, of Marylebone was decided. Plested won in three rounds, the referee stopping the contest, after Stewart had been floored nine times. Stewart had an advantage in reach, but he was not in the same class as his opponent, who boxed coolly and waited his chances to hook left or right to the jaw with terrific force.

A Lucky Chance Mount.

Robbins would have had the mount on Grandcourt in the London Autumn Cup had he been able to do the weight. This he could not do without severe wasting, and having a slight chill he did not think it wise to unduly reduce himself. In consequence the younger Balding came by a very lucky chance mount.

BILLIARDS.

Victory Revival of Burroughes-Watts Tournament.

INMAN AND FALKINER SCORES.

Established in 1914, the Burroughes and Watts Tournament has had an extraordinary influence on the game of billiards ever since. The "Victory" revival of the tournament was inaugurated on Monday after three years' cessation. The five players taking part in the revival are the same as in the last championships, in 1916. They are:—

Inman, scratch;
Stevenson, rec. 500;
Reece, rec. 1,500;
Newman, rec. 1,500;
Falkiner, rec. 2,000.

The order of play will be:—

1919.
Nov. 3.—Inman v. Falkiner.
Nov. 17.—Stevenson v. Reece.
Dec. 1.—Newman v. Falkiner.
Dec. 15.—Inman v. Reece.
Dec. 29.—Stevenson v. Falkiner.
1920.
Jan. 12.—Inman v. Newman.
Jan. 26.—Reece v. Falkiner.
Feb. 9.—Stevenson v. Newman.
Feb. 23.—Reece v. Newman.
March 8.—Inman v. Stevenson.

Closing Scores:—
Falkiner (in play)..... 3,167.
Inman..... 798.

NEWMAN AND SMITH.

Newman and Smith met at Thurston's on Monday in the first stage of a match of 16,000 up. Smith has offered to wager £50 that he defeats Newman on the occasion under notice, and the latter has promptly given an affirmative reply to the Darlingtonian.

Closing Scores:
Smith..... 1,225
Newman (in play)..... 1,083.

COCK'S DEBUT FOR CHELSEA.

A Fine Display in his Opening First League game.

When Bradford met Chelsea on Saturday there was much curiosity as to whether Cock, the international centre forward, would make a successful debut in 1st League football, and it was subjecting him to a severe trial to call upon him to lead a side that in its previous five home matches had netted the ball on only three occasions. Cock did not appear particularly happy in the first half but later he became accustomed to the methods of Croal and Dale, his inside colleagues.

After ends were changed Cock was fifty per cent. more effective and twice he found the net; while with the least bit of luck he would have defeated Scattergood on two or three other occasions. Cock, when he has thoroughly settled down in his new quarters, should be worth every penny that he has cost the club, large as the amount is.

MONDAY'S FOOTBALL.

At Oxford, on Monday, the Football Association eleven beat Oxford University by 13 to 1.

In a Southern League match, on the same day, Merthyr drew with Swansea 1—1.

INTERNATIONAL'S DEATH.

Robert Templeton, an old international football player, died at Kilmarnock on Saturday. Just after rising from bed he dropped to the floor and immediately expired. A native of Kilmarnock, he had played in turn for Aston Villa, Newcastle, Woolwich Arsenal, Celtic, and Kilmarnock, and had taken part in several internationals. He was frequently referred to as the "prince of dribblers." He gave up playing about five years ago. He was 40 years of age.

HATCHED AND DESPATCHED.

Break-up of Light Division M.T. Company.

The Light Division M.T. Company came into being on 15th August, 1914 (as the 2nd D.S.C.) and finished its career on 31st October, 1919. During the last few days of the Company's life, Lieut. Kay, the genial and energetic Canteen Officer, has been going around with an air of mystery and bulging pockets, the latter caused by accumulated canteen profits and the former by a desire to spend the money to the best advantage of the Company. The result of his efforts became manifest on 3rd November, when a farewell dinner and concert was held in the School, Merschied, Ohligs.

Recently the canteen funds purchased some live pigs and these appeared (after a sanguinary interview with Corporal Machin) on the Menu as the "piece de resistance" under the cognomen of "Mouton de Bouche". The dinner went off in great style and much credit is due to all those who had a hand in its preparation.

Music and Song.

After the pangs of hunger had been successfully appeased, the finer feelings were catered for in an excellent musical programme. "The Tabs" concert party gave a most enjoyable show, which was augmented by members of the Company, notably Capt. Watson, Lieut. Kay, C.S.M. Spreadborough, Corporals Smith and Machin, Privates Walker, Leech, Cunningham, Akehurst and Flegg.

Lieut. Herrick, in the unavoidable absence of Major Morewood, acted as host, but later in the evening Major Morewood, the O.C. arrived, in time to crown the evening with a very telling little speech of farewell, in which he expressed his personal thanks for the work done by the men under his command. An evening, which will live long in the memories of all who were present, terminated in the singing of the National Anthem.

Sir Alfred Butt's Debut.

A newcomer to racing is Sir Alfred Butt, who has purhased The Drummer, and for whom Cottrill will train.

RHINELAND SPORT.

Possibilities of Football League Discussed.

A BOXING SUGGESTION.

With the continual movement of troops, either for demobilization or to other theatres of duty anything like organised inter-unit sport on a large scale has so far been an impossibility this season and will continue to be so for some little time to come. Each unit, of course, has its football eleven-it would be difficult to imagine a British unit without one—and those teams have not been idle. A perusal of our sports page will have provided ample evidence that some thoroughly enjoyable games have been played, but, at the same time, such matches do not give the satisfaction and do not make for the same sporting spirit and healthy inter-unit rivalry as competitions organised and run on a large scale.

Future Possibilities.

A football competition following the lines of our cricket cup contest would, doubtless, have been warmly acclaimed by the watchers on the Rhine, but in view of the above mentioned difficulty we foresaw that such a course was impracticable and that it would be only courting disaster to embark upon it. Subsequent events have proved that our judgment was sound for there have been numerous changes in Rhineland personnel since the opening of the winter season. And it is early yet to talk of the possibilities of the future. But when the units to remain have been definitely selected and the Army of the Rhine becomes once more a "standing" army it should be possible to return once again to the days of the comprehensive competition open to all units in this part of Germany.

It will probably be generally admitted that, where as localised sport is essential and productive of the right spirit, there is nothing like the varying fortunes of a big league for the furnishing of excitement and keenness. The huge entries for our football competition demonstrates the remarkable interest taken in the fortunes of the great leagues at home, and this may be taken as an indication of the fervour with which the formation of a Rhineland League would be received. Opinions as to the value of such a league will be welcomed by "The Cologne Post."

Why not Boxing Shows?

The organisation of periodical boxing shows by our Yank neighbours is, without doubt, a step in the right direction and now that the difficulty as to the rules have been overcome it is unlikely that there will be a lack of British competitors.

There is no deficiency of boxers in the British Army of the Rhine, most of whom are ever ready to try their skill against all comers irrespective of nationality. The Army championships decided recently revealed the fact that we have some really excellent talent, while the spirit displayed throughout left nothing to be desired.

In view of the material available it is surprising that more individual contests have not been arranged. Numerous challenges have appeared in "The Cologne Post" from time to time, and though there has been no lack of acceptances, fights have rarely resulted. What is the reason? It can only be that the enthusiasm requires a moving and guiding spirit in order to materialise. A promoter, after the style of the Promoter Reis, of the American Y. M. C. A., is badly needed. It cannot be that there is a lack of enthusiasts, and all that is necessary, is for someone to take the lead, when supporters will rapidly rally round him.

A most pleasing and popular feature would be the staging of weekly boxing shows in Cologne. A list of men ambitious for the title of Rhineland champions could be made and then matched according to their weights. Three or four contests could be decided each week, and these would continually lead to return contests there-by providing a regular show, giving the maximum of pleasure and always assured unstinted support. A good boxing show possesses a greater magnetism than any other sporting exposition.

SPORT IN BRIEF.

"Fanny" Causes Fun.

A titter ran round the ground at the Tottenham—Port Vale match, when a sweet girl, after listening to her companion's compliments about "Fanny" Walden, said innocently, "But he plays like a man!"

Walter Griggs' Successes.

Since Walter Griggs relinquished riding and took up training his efforts in this direction have been attended with great success. The ex-jockey completed a double at Alexandra Park on Saturday with Bridgend and Savile Row. The latter is the twenty-first winner he has turned out this season.

Doubtful Diadem.

It has been stated that Diadem had finished her racing career, and was being sent to the stud, but nothing definite has been settled, and in all probability she will be kept in training next year.

No Offer.

There was no bid for Fair Oaks after he had won the Finchley Plate, but White Bell, the winner of the Maiden T.Y.O. Plate, was sold for Mr. Brendon for 400 guineas.

Bridgend for India.

Bridgend goes to India next month, and it is rumoured that another A.P. winner, Grandcourt has also been purchased on behalf of Mr. F. Tarrant.

Oxford Scorers.

Moresby-White scored three tries for Oxford against the Harlequins, Duncan, Scholefield, and Sharp getting the others. Price placed four goals (one from a penalty) and dropped another.

Graves Great Game.

Bury had much the better of the game at South Shields and pressed almost continously, but Graves played a great game amongst the home defenders.

Oxford Sports.

Oxford University Senior Sports concluded with the following results: Quarter mile, B. E. Henty (New), time, 54 1-5secs. Throwing hammer, S. Yoranovitch (St John's), 90ft. 2in. Hurdles, H. P. Jeppe (Trinity), time 17 4-5secs. One mile, E. A. Montague (Magdalen), time 4mins. 47 2-5secs. Long jump, E. L. Jacob (St. John's), 19ft. 4in.

RACING STATISTICS.

Leading Positions In The Winning Lists.

Very little alteration took place in the winning lists as a result of last week's racing. The present positions are as follows:—

Owners.

	No. of horses.	Races won.	£
Glanely, Lord	17	38	30,108
Derby, Lord	19	35	21,114
McCalmont, Major	6	16	14,865
White, Mr. J.	12	27	11,524
Joel, Mr. Sol.	18	32	11,083
Hulton, Sir E.	11	17	10,912
Cazalet, Mr. W. M.	8	14	8,630
Jersey, Lord	7	15	8,268
Astor, Lord	2	6	8,120
Owen, Mr. H. C.	8	20	7,715
De Pledge, Mr. W. de	10	15	7,475
Singer Mr. W. M. G.	7	11	7,327

Trainers.

	No. of horses.	Races won.	£
Taylor, A.	22	38	32,839
Barling, F. B.	19	39	28,726
Lambton, Hon. G.	27	50	27,439
Persse, H. S.	20	39	26,106
Gilpin, P. P.	12	22	12,818
Day, R.	18	31	11,766
Dewhurst, Capt.	16	25	11,577
Cottrill, H. L.	14	32	11,629
Hartigan, F.	18	28	11,249
Loates, S.	18	32	11,203
Lines H.	25	47	11,065
Beatty, Major	19	30	8,579

Jockeys.

	1st	2nd	3rd	Unp.	Ttl.
Donoghue, S.	120	114	67	190	491
Carslake, B.	98	60	39	113	310
Smyth, V.	74	57	52	199	382
Whaley, A.	71	58	46	166	341
Colling, G.	65	55	50	231	401
Fox, F.	56	49	50	274	429
Templeman, F.	53	49	49	87	238
Hulme, G.	52	39	39	159	289
Slade, F.	45	41	34	177	297
Wheatley, E.	44	50	27	111	232
Childs, J.	35	37	25	89	186
Smith, A.	32	14	10	37	93

Winning Horses.

	Races won.	£
Tetratema (2 yrs), c by The Tetrarch—Scotch Gift	5	11494
Keysoe (3 yrs), f by Swynford—Keystone II.	4	8087
Buchan (3 yrs), c by Sunstar—Hamooze	5	7640
Grand Parado (3 yrs), c by Orby—Grand Geraldine	2	7266
Arion (4 yrs), c by Valens—Post Horn	4	5446
Bayuda (3 yrs), f by Bayardo—Jessica	1	4950
Roseway (3 yrs), f by Stornaway—Rose of Ayrshire	2	4894
Sarchedon (2 yrs), c by The Tetrarch Perfect Peach	4	4852
The Panther (3 yrs), c by Tracery—Countess Zia	1	4850
Flying Spear (3 yrs), f by Spearmint—Gallop-along	3	4726
By Jingo (5 yrs), c by Aquascutum—Minnesota	2	4675
Haki (aged), br h by Rabelais—Hassoki	4	4595

LINCOLN RESULTS.

Rain at Lincoln on Monday rather affected the attendance, but the going was good and the sport excellent. Results:

Yarborough Plate:—1, Sybill (evens); 2, Flaming Fire (6—4); 3, Gwenevere (20—1); Four ran.

Gautby Plate:—1, Rosherville (10—1); 2, Petrusen (7—1); 3, Lesson (11—8); Nine ran.

Blankney Plate:—1, Egvenry (10—1); 2, Daniella (7—1); 3, Fatally colt (5—2); Nine ran.

Tom Plate:—1, Paragua (9—2); 2, Lady Earn (7—2); 3, Attention (20—1); Seven ran.

Brownlow Plate:—1, Colt By Mushroom (5—4 on); 2, La Hogue (7—2); 3, Avadore (20—1); Nine ran.

Doddington Plate:—1, Tilbury walked over.

CROWDING ON THE RAILS.

Jockeys cautioned by Stewards at Leopardstown.

At Leopardstown, the Stewards of the Turf Club summoned a number of flat race jockeys to appear before them, and the Senior Steward expressed the dissatisfaction of the Stewards with the manner in which the jockeys crowded in towards the rails, more especially on the five furlong course at this meeting. The Senior Steward cautioned the jockeys to be most careful about preserving a straight course, and informed them that any disregard of the above caution would be severely dealt with.

COLOGNE SPORT.

Badminton in Cologne.

Although there is undoubtedly a large number of enthusiastic Badminton players in Cologne, the Gymnasium in Krebsgasse, between Schildergasse and Glockengasse, is very sparsely patronised. This is surprising, in view of the fact that the excellent court is fully equipped and that there is a staff instructor present for the benefit of the uninitiated. The only explanation seems to be that the Gym. is not widely known. The Badminton court is reserved for officers daily between 2 and 4 p.m., and for other ranks from 5 to 8 p.m.

Roller Skating.

Plans are now well in hand for the inauguration of a roller skating rink in Cologne. A hall eminently suitable for such a project, upon which the promoters had their eye, has turned out to be unavailable. Negotiations are now progressing, however, for the acquisition of another building, of which there are several in fairly central positions.

Mill Hill School Record.

By scoring a grand aggregate of 303 points to three against University College School, at Neasden, in four representative inter-school matches, Mill Hill School put on record their best performance against their London rivals, and very nearly broke the school record for the number of points scored altegether.

A Contrast.

There were 2,000 people at the Second League match between Huddersfield Town and Fulham on Saturday; at the Northern Union (Rugby) match between Huddersfield and Hull there were 20,000.

AMUSEMENTS AND RECREATIONS.

THE SILVER BOX.

Another Production by the B.R.A.D.C.

John Barthwick, a wealthy liberal M.P. had a son who got drunk on Easter Monday. He also, had a charwoman whose husband's potations were not confined to Bank Holidays. That young rascal Jack, started the whole thing by coming home drunk, and, according to what my friend tells me, coming home drunk late at night plays nasty tricks with one's memory. At any rate Jack had a very poor recollection of anything next morning; otherwise, he might have been able to suggest who was responsible for the sudden disappearance of a silver cigarette box, not to mention a certain red silk purse. I don't want to give the whole show away, but it is permissible to add that the entire company end up in the Police Court on Wednesday, in Easter week.

* * *

The production necessitated a large caste owing to the Police Court scene, but Lieut. Percy succeeded in raising a very creditable contingent for the smaller parts. The Barthwick family, parents and son, played respectively by Lieut. Humphrey Hope, Miss Inez Bensusan and Lieut. D.A. Onions were an excellent trio of Galsworthians. Lieut. Hope, born to this type of part, was as reliable as ever. Miss Bensusan gave us her usual talented performance and Lieut. Onions was inimitable as the young devil of a son. I have not, hitherto, seen Miss Shirley King in the kind of a part she plays in "The Silver Box". As the cowed wife of a drunken husband she was excellent, and I certainly think it is one of the best things she has done.

* * *

After witnessing "Candida", I pleaded to see more of Pte. J. Terry, I was therefore very glad to see him again on Monday night in the part of Jones. When he had to play fortissimo, he was very good, but, although his acting of the piano parts was in other respects on as high a level, he erred, in so far as his voice was concerned. While he was lying on the bed his lines only just got across to me. But Pte. Terry can act, and but for this one fault, I enjoyed his performance thoroughly. What am I to say of Miss Francis Cuisholm as the unknown lady from Beyond? She almost puts me in a quandary for if I say, as I want to say, that she gave a marvellously true picture of the type of those ladies who inhabit that euphemistically named neighbourhood, someone will be asking me how I know so much about it. However, since her exit was marked by enthusiastic applause from the greater part of the audience, I take consolation in the thought that there are others who also recognised the great merit of her performance and there's safely in numbers! Miss Beale played a typical landlady's part very successfully.

* * *

Capt. Spiegelhalter could not have been mistaken for anything else but a detective. Lieut. Leigh Farnell, I think just missed a very clever caricature of a London Police Magistrate, but like most magistrates required a lot of prompting. Whenever Col. V. T. Ford appears on the stage a feeling of security steals over me. He's such a cheerful reliable sort of fellow and above all, he acts so naturally. He carried off the job of playing Roper, the solicitor, with the greatest of ease.

I hoped for a little more from Lieut. Vivian Coates, as the butler, but probably "First Nightitis" accounted for a good deal of inaudibility. Miss Gabriele Paul was a nice little maid servant, who I rather hoped would delight us with an "affaire" with somebody, but Mr. Galsworthy did not put it in the "book". Sergt. Burne as Livens, Lieut. D. C. W. Murray, as the Relieving Officer and Q. M. S. Lowder as the Usher all did their bit very creditably.

* * *

Lieut. J. Morris as the Police Sergeant got his well-deserved reward from the roars of laughter which he evoked from the house whenever he did anything at all. An excellent "turn." Sub-conductor Allwood made a typically efficient magistrate's clerk, and the little girls did their silent parts exactly as they had been told to do them and I hope thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Some of the caste on Monday night seemed taken by surprise at many of the laughs, and several lines were lost by their not waiting. Anyway there are always some people in the house who invariably laugh in the wrong place.

* * *

The fact that some of the stage hands were in a trance rather spoiled the final curtain, but I feel quite certain we can rely on Lieut. Percy to prevent another hitch of the same magnitude.

We all realise the necessity for prompting, but we also realise that one prompter is sufficient. This fact however, does not appear to be grasped, with the result that at one stage at least of the play we were treated to a collection of very audible promptings, which must have entirely confused the gentleman to whom they were directed. The play has been well rehearsed, and by Wednesday, at latest, should have got well into its stride before a crowded house.

E.H.S.

Lecture on the Opera.

Col. Gore Brown's talk to the men in the Music Room of the B.E.L.C. on Sunday night was very opportune, as the Opera is the subject uppermost in many minds in Cologne just now. Col. Gore Brown described music as "thought in sound", and said it was necessary to understand the ideas in the composer's mind in order to listen and really enjoy the opera. He gave examples of different types of opera, Gluck's with its simple melody to represent its most tragic moments, and Tosca and Wagner's Valkyrie as more advanced types. Miss Clark added to the success and interest of the talk by giving examples from these operas on the piano.

B.E.L.C.'s Eventful Day.

Miss Esmond's concert party, by kind permission of the Y.M.C.A., will give a performance on Friday at 7 p.m. in the theatre of the B.E.L.C. Friday is going to be an eventful day at the B.E.L.C., for a meeting will be held at 6.30 p.m. to inaugurate a Debating Society. Capt. Dennis, K.O.Y.L.I., who will preside, will be glad if all those interested in debates will come forward and suggest subjects of interest to everybody. The German class at the B.E.L.C. was a great success ast night. Wednesday night will be kept for an advanced class.

Backhaus Recital.

There was a large audience at the Bürgergesellschaft, Cologne, on Monday night, on the occasion of the long anticipated Backhaus piano recital. The great pianist was in thoroughly good form and by his playing raised the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm. As a matter of fact, a less finished performer would not have kept up the interest of his hearers for so long, for the atmosphere was perishingly cold. Probably the last opportunity of hearing this popular and gifted performer will be this evening at Bonn and all music lovers are recommended to avail themselves of it.

In Few Words.

To-night and Friday night the performance at the Deutsches Theatre will commence at eight. All other nights this week, six o'clock is the hour of starting.

JACQUES.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Wed.	Cosi van tutte	Mozart	7	10
Thurs.	Tannhäuser	Wagner	6.30	10.30
Fri.	Hoffmann's Erzählungen	Offenbach	7	10
Sat.	Mignon	Thomas	7	10.15
Sun.	Lohengrin	Wagner	5.30	10
Mon.	Cav. Rusticana Der Bajazzo	Mascagni Leoncavallo	7	10
Tues.	Die Entführung aus dem Serail	Mozart	7	10

Roideur Unlucky.

Major D. McCalmont was at Alexandra Park on Saturday to see his handsome horse Roideur run for the London Autumn Cup, and well as the four-year-old son of Roi Herode ran he might have done even better but for being considerably knocked about in running.

Try-getters.

The Cambridge try-getters against Richmond were Lewis, Hudson, Trubshaw (2), McStewart and Brown.

OUR FOOTBALL CONTEST.

An Over-zealous Competitor in No. 6 Competition.

In contest No. 6 now under adjudication two competitors submitted coupons giving the scores for each team. One of the "offenders" failed to forecast one score correctly, but the other succeeded in marking no less than nine correct. He should enter for the prize offered by a popular journal which awards prizes for correct scores.

We would point out again that all we ask of competitors is a few strokes of the pen; no scores are required.

Fill in the coupon below, and send it in; the chance of winning a large sum is yours for the taking. Don't delay.

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 7,
"Cologne Post",
A.P.O. S.40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this Journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 7.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov. 8th.
Closing date, Friday, Nov. 7th.

West Bromwich A.	v. Aston Villa
Middlesboro	v. Newcastle U.
Arsenal	v. Bolton W.
Burnley	v. Manchester U.
Stoke	v. Bristol City
Leicester	v. West Ham
Coventry	v. Huddersfield
Queens Park R.	v. Millwall
Southampton	v. Southend
Luton	v. Crystal Palace
St. Mirren	v. Hearts
Partick T.	v. Rangers

I enter Football Competition No. 7 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Cameritis.

The charming scenic effects caused by the recent snowstorm—brief as it was—brought the camera well to the fore once more. For instance, there must have been many hundreds of pictures taken of the snow-covered Cathedral.

Oh, Fie!!

After all the G.R.O.s on the subject, I actually saw a stiff white collar being worn with khaki in Lindenthal yesterday.

Puzzled.

Apropos the description "observation balloon" applied to the bulky coverlet of German beds, a subaltern coming to Cologne asked when about to retire, whether he had to get under it, on top of it, or inside it.

Unfounded.

Datas, the man who remembers everything, who has just arrived in Cologne, is said to have denied the rumour that he is taking up a much advertised memory-training course.

And this Also.

He positively refutes, too, the horrible suggestion that his lateness in reaching Cologne was due to forgetting the time his train started.

The Higher the Dearer.

Some readers complain that they have to pay more for articles they buy in the Domplatz and Hohestrasse. But isn't it the case anywhere that in the best streets you pay the biggest prices? Is not Bond Street dearer than the less fashionable parts of London?

Down! Down!! Down!!!

What is to become of the mark? It's exchange value is falling below all expectations. The result must be paralysing to German trade.

All Souls'.

A "bloomer" crept into my paragraph on this subject yesterday. Instead of saying that when All Souls' falls on a Sunday it is solemnised on the "Sunday" following, the word "Monday" should have been printed. Apologies!

Hold on to them—

Losing gloves is a serious affair in these days when a pair of dog-skins is a veritable luxury. And woollen gloves are worth a small fortune, too.

Very Crude.

Have you seen any of the German impressionist pictures in the upstairs galleries of the Art Museum? They are about the extreme limit, and mostly unworthy of a place on the walls. But these are only in the small minority, for there are very many fine examples of Teutonic art.

To a Reader.

Yes, the translation of the German title you saw at the cinema in Hohestrasse the other night is undoubtedly, "The Dustman's Dilemma: Delicatessen or Destructor?"

In They Come.

The way in which home subscriptions to the "Post" are tumbling into our letter box is amazing. Our Business Manager would like to increase his staff, but personnel is scarce in these dark days of "demob."

Warmer Kit.

The limited staff at the officers' clothing depot has been greatly taxed during the past few days. Officers belonging to battalions proceeding to colder climes have been rushing to purchase clothing, etc. more suitable to the weather condition of their future stations.

Lost its Bohemianism.

An old Colognian was speaking to me a day or so ago about the life of the city twenty years ago, when it had the reputation of being one of the gayest and most unconventional of Germany's larger towns. With the advent of a different class of people about ten years ago this free spirit died, much to the regret of the older residents.

What is it?

Everyone is wondering what is the popular play to suit the taste of "Durham Lad" and others like him that the R.A.D.C. intends staging shortly.

Not Bottle Dealers yet.

The other day someone advertised in this paper that he wanted to buy English beer bottles. During yesterday, two orderlies unloaded a truckload of them at the door of our offices, under the impression that they were wanted here.

Still Hope.

It is quite possible that many who did not draw horses in the Victory Cambridgeshire were among those whose £23,000 arrived just too late to be included in the draw. These tickets will stand a chance in the next Lille Sweep.

The Nouveau Caporal.

I have just been told of an acting unpaid lance-corporal who wanted to bring his wife, four children, three maid servants and a governess out to Cologne. I wasn't informed if he wished to requisition a special train.

"Uncles"

Recently mention was made of pawnshops and the absence of such establishments in Cologne. The other day I had pointed out to me the Stadt Pawnshop in Cecilienstrasse, and my informant said that when the big fairs are being held the poorer folk will "pop" the proverbial shirt in order to have a spell of enjoyment.

The Chance.

A certain German was standing at the corner of Komodienstrasse this morning with a large sheet of glass which he rested against the wall while he lighted his pipe. A person turned the corner in a great hurry, and there was a thundering crash of breaking glass. An American soldier who was passing at the time glanced at the thousand and one fragments for a few moments, then turned to me, and said, "I say, guy, if he is not more careful. I guess that outfit will get broken.'

Late Chestnuts.

Judging by the diminutive size of the chestnuts exposed for sale in the shop windows, the season is not yet at its height in Germany. In England the end of October sees the season's advent, when large nuts and rosy apples are in great demand, especially in the north, as necessary adjuncts in the celebration of "duckapple night."

All Hot.

Which reminds me: I no ticed the other night for the first time in this country a baked chestnut cart in a turning, off the Komödien strasse. The vendor's wares were of extremely small size, but he received liberal patronage from the troops passing by.

One Iest.

Backhaus' recitals are the best thermometer to gauge the number of British troops in Rhineland. Five months ago half of the audience at the Burgergesellschaft was in khaki. On Monday not a quarter of the audience belonged to the British Army.

Sign-writer's Error.

In view of the skill usually displayed by German sign-writers, it is surprising to observe in the name Meniesnich, painted at the entrance to this village, that in both the "N's" the centre strokes are the wrong way up.

Bad and Good News.

A bird in the air has carried it that the Ball Room of fhe B.E.L.C. is now needed for the men during the winter months so that those delightful Thursday evenings are no more. I hear, however, that a big Black and White Fancy Dress Ball will be held on Thursday Nov. 27th, and that there will be no limit to the number of tickets which must be applied for to the Controller of Entertainments at the Club.

RHINELANDER.

VANITY FAIR.

A Feature for the British Woman in Rhineland.

Craze for Lucky Charms.

The war, we are told airily, is responsible for the occult wave now passing over us. True it is, the world has been up against many unaccountable things, and minds are more finely sensitised to receive impressions that cannot be thrashed out on common-sense lines. It is in all probability a passing craze, though one that is reponsible for the enhanced value placed on charms. Anything weird and grotesque in carved ivory, a Chinese Buddha, a monkey, &c., is a covetable possession to be worn on a neck ribbon, chain or bangle. A well authenticated scarab retains all its old superstitious value, the lucky owners placing equal faith in a piece of jade.

Importance of the Veil.

Veils have assumed a decided importance this winter, and many of the new designs are really beautiful. Black Chantilly in squares or circles are among the favourite designs for the new picture hats; such a veil is disposed with apparent carelessness over a hat with drooping brim, trimmed with plumes or soft velvet flowers and foliage.

Swastika Designs.

The little hat and the flowing veil is an equally charming idea. Here the neater the pattern the better, and the curious little harbinger of good luck, the swastika, embroidered on a light mesh ground, is quite a popular design. Tiny aeroplanes are the basis of another decorative pattern: the highwayman's mask, a veil with an oval patch in heavier mesh, which is placed across the eyes; and a tiny black velvet Cupid and a tiny heart pierced with an arrow appliqued on to a light octagon-shaped mesh are among the freak veils of this winter.

The Fur Convention.

To judge from what I have heard, it is better to elope with your friend's husband than to wear the pelt of the humble bunny. False furs indicate the possession of a mind attuned to common things. The sable and the skunk come from afar, but the despised bunny overruns the earth. He is a commonplace to us, and even when camouflaged he is still despised, because some of us would rather shiver than incur the contempt of our acquaintances. And yet we flatter ourselves that we have got away from slavish regard for convention! What brave souls will crusade against the fur convention?

A Wardrobe Tip.

New patent shoes should be placed before a fire just before being worn. This softens the leather and prevents it cracking, and the wearer will derive greater comfort than is usually the case with new shoes.

How to Treat Gloves.

When putting on gloves, do so carefully, for their after-wear depends on this. Never put on new gloves when you are in a hurry; rather choose another time, when your hands are cool. First dust a little French chalk into each glove. Then work the fingers well on before putting in the thumb. Work that in slowly, gradually smoothing the kid on with the other hand. When the glove is on, pull it well down and button the second button, and any others, leaving the first button until the last. If the hands are hot, remove the gloves, and then turn them inside out, pulling them into shape, and leaving them in the air for an hour or two.

Handkerchiefs of Fashion.

The small square of coloured cambric or silk plays quite an important part in the smart woman's dress. The unobtrusive handkerchief is now relied upon to give the desired note of gaiety and chic to the severe tailored costume for street wear. Its small splash of colour may call attention to the same colour covering the feet, or accentuate the becoming shade of the small hat.

AGNES.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Winter's Mantle.—Paris is under snow.

Canadian Crisis.—The Government of Ontario has resigned.

In the Forth.—The First Battle Squadron has arrived in the Firth of Forth.

Verboten.—The export of potatoes from Ireland is forbidden.

Police Strikers.—Labour gains at Liverpool election included two Police strikers.

An Echo.—An unexploded German aerial bomb has been found in a Hitchin pond.

Mangin's New Labours.—General Mangin has arrived at Helsingfors.

No American Coal.—Export of coal is prohibited in the States.

Miners Working Hard.—The coal output at home is rising appreciably.

His Next Tour.—The Prince of Wales will visit Australia next year.

Foreign Office Changes.—Changes are in the air at the Foreign office.

New "Flu."—There is at present in Paris an epidemic of sore throats.

Well Paid.—Black Country policemen will have to pay income tax.

A Good Bag.—A village rat hunt at Claygate, Surrey, resulted in a bag of 280.

All Out.—A general lock-out has been proclaimed at Barcelona.

Holland's Loan.—Holland is giving a credit of 25 million francs to France.

An Old Complaint.—The grippe has made its re-appearance in Paris.

The G.O.M.—Clémenceau arrived at Strasbourg yesterday.

Sugar.—Sugar ration cards have been instituted in Paris.

Beatty in the Lords.—Lord Beatty takes his seat in the Lords to-day.

In the Market.—The ex-Kaiser's yacht "Meteor V" is to be sold.

Long Service.—After 46 years' continuous service the Town Clerk of Lichfield has retired.

Polish News.—A Polish communique says that 300,000 Germans remain in the Baltic provinces.

Profiteering.—A shilling was charged for the use of a 'phone at an Eastbourne hotel.

Unusual.—Dismounted cavalry were used to line London streets for the Shah's visit.

New Uses.—A Cardiff aircraft factory is to be used as a training school for building trade pupils.

His Last Vote.—A Hertford gardener having recorded his vote at a municipal election dropped dead.

"A.J.B."—Mr. A. J. Balfour is said to be contemplating the writing of his reminiscences.

Good for the Shows.—The presence of sundry Royal visitors in London is said to be good for the theatres.

For One Box.—Four hundred pounds has been paid for a box at the Victory Ball in London.

Asquith's Future.—A big effort is to be made to secure the return of Mr. Asquith to Parliament before Christmas.

Drops the Title.—Millicent, Duchess of Sutherland, relinquishes the title of duchess on her marriage.

King of Shah.—A London policeman, asked why the traffic was stopped, said it was for the "King of Shah."

Haig Reads Lessons.—Lord Haig reads the lessons at the memorial services to the London Scottish.

The Amusing Charlie.—Film pictures by Charlie Chaplin are becoming few and far between.

The Question.—The dominating question at East Ham elections was the opening of kinemas on Sunday.

Increasing Crime.—Because of increasing crime, Berlin police have been armed with rifles.

The Last Day.—Bulgaria's answer to the new Peace conditions must be delivered before the 15th November.

Truthful. — Lord Russell of Liverpool says most journalists strive to tell the truth.

London's Guests.—Not since the Coronation has London had such an army of Royal guests as at present.

Bird Puzzle.—English shooting parties say that cocks exceed the hens by four to one.

England's Example. — It is hoped to break the railway strikes in Egypt with volunteers.

Welbeck Abbey Lumber. — Postillion carriages which cost hundreds of pounds went for £20 each at Welbeck Abbey.

Inoculation cold Cures. — Inoculation against colds is advocated by a Beckenham doctor.

Dress Shirt Famine.— Ratailers complain that they cannot get delivery of dress shirts.

Of Trent.—General Sir Henry Rawlinson has taken the title of Baron Rawlinson of Trent.

Via Antwerp.—When the port at Brest is closed, American troops will be sent home via Antwerp.

The Last day. — Letters to reach the Rhine Army from England should be posted by December 19th, and parcels by December 13th.

OPINIONS OF THE MOMENT.

DESTROYING THE GARDENS.

Canon Mastermau, speaking on the results of industrial revolution and its immediate effects on English life remarked: One result has been the enormous growth of English towns, unsightly and unattractive. One change of the rapid growth of the towns which is extraordinarily important is the destruction of gardens. I believe immensely in the significance of gardens in human life, and in their effect on human character. Gardens are sacrificed to crowd the population on the ground as thickly as possible, with results on human character that are bad.

IS THE MIXED CLUB COMING?

Miss Levy, Secretary of the National Organisation of Girls' Clubs, asked if the Mixed Club will be that of the future, said:—Opinion is much divided at the moment. Of the two schools of opinion, one declares that the mixed club as a feature in working-class social life is not to be seriously considered. It is maintained that when you bring young men and girls together, you make the success of any club impossible. Those holding the opposite opinion declare that the mixed club is exactly what is wanted. It stimulates a healthy sex relationship, and by allowing the young men and girls to meet freely, many more girls are attracted to the clubs, and away from the streets. There are definite plans on foot in all the clubs included in our organisation to form mixed classes, so that the girls may be given the opportunity of seeing their men friends in the evening, while not sacrificing their educational training.

WOMENS' MANNERS.

Lady Pollock, wife of the Solicitor General, criticising the present-day woman asks:—Do women show that they realise the responsibility which is now theirs, by powdering their noses and wearing high-heeled shoes; by wearing their skirts so short and their blouses so low that they are scarcely decent? Their boots are now so small they can barely walk in them, and their skirts so tight they can hardly go up steps. In London I have seen ladies who know better, and girls who ought to know better, wose attire leaves much to be desired. And yet it is not necessary to be dressed dowdily to be dressed decently."

HATE PROPAGANDA.

General Sir Ian Hamilton, speaking at the unveiling of a War Memorial recently, said:—Now the war is over we do not want any more propaganda to stand between us and the reconciliation which might so fittingly take place over the tombs of a generation who have given their lives for a better world. The old Latin proverb has it: If you wish for peace prepare for war. I say to you, If you wish for peace away with hate propaganda. Tear that long Italian word Propaganda off the back of the hate agency, and you will find lurking under a Cardinal's cloak, a very ugly little Anglo-Saxon word. Lying is quite bad enough when it is carried on by amateurs like Ananias and Sapphira, but, when it is organised by professionals on both sides, then, believe me, we shall say good-bye for ever to peace on earth, goodwill towards men. You will not at once be able to stop this evil propaganda. Hate and envyhave at last found a perfect instrum tto their hands.

THE ACID TEST.

Charlie Chaplin, the greatest of all cinema comedians, according to the late Sir Herbert Tree, is not only the greatest living pantomimist, but is capable of conversing with rare intelligence on politics, the fine arts, and the philosophy of life. He says:—It seems to be unknown that Mr. Lloyd George's oft-quoted phrase, "The Acid Test," was first used by me! That is no terminological inexactitude, to quote another statesman. In one of my early films, "The Pawnshop," a woman comes in with a globe of goldfish which she wishes to pledge. I look at them suspiciously and say that I will apply the "Acid Test," and I am about to do so when the pawnbroker bundles the woman out of the shop.

SPY-HUNTING MANIA.

Mr. Asquith, addressing a political gathering in Wales, said:—One of the worst and most foolish products of the war spirit, a sort of morbid excrescence upon the patriotism of the country, is a mania which was fostered by the least reputable section of the Press for spy-hunting. The war is now over or at least we are told so. No longer even the most suspicious of them looked under their beds at night and ransacked their cupboards for a hidden enemy.

THE REVOLUTIONARY SPIRIT.

William Archer, the well-known dramatic critic, writing on the social and political upheavals of to-day, says:—"We must accept and facilitate the economic Revolution. It means nothing else than a more rational, more humane, less topsy-turvy readjustment of the burdens and benefits of society. But the difficulties of such readjustment are so complex that it ought, if possible, to be allowed to effect itself gradually, by patient experiment. Human wisdom is unequal to the task of making a clean sweep of the existing order, and building afresh on totally new foundations. But if human unwisdom insists on forcing the issue, a clean sweep will certainly be attempted, with results like those in Russia, but far more disastrous.

HOW LABOUR GAINS.

Mr. J. R. Clynes, M. P., explaining the success of the Labour Party at the elections, says:—Labour is gaining from at least three quarters. It is rallying those who never were partisans in the sense that they were controlled by organisations. It is drawing from the Liberals, and it is converting a large section of Tory working-men who despair of finding substantial or permanent redress for their industrial grievances by continued attachment to their old party.

YOUTHFUL IMMORALITY.

The Bishop of Birmingham writing on the above subject, says:—The war has brought in its train a good deal of youthful immorality, and also unhappily a considerable number of unmarried mothers. The day has gone past when the whole notion of the treatment of such cases is puritanical ostracism, and we are finding that the best cure is disciplined, and sympathetic, treatment. I appeal to employers to make provision for the young to meet in healthy and good surroundings.

ON HAPPINESS.

Mr. W. B. Maxwell, in his latest novel, "A Man and his Lesson," says:—Women generally, it would seem, derive much happiness from their faculty of living in the moment. They possess this faculty in a much higher degree than men. They do not think that they might be elsewhere, differently employed, or in other company half their time, as men do. Even in moments of pleasure men are always inclined to look forwards or backwards.

BUYING FOR THE RISE.

TRAFFIC IN GERMAN NOTES.

At a meeting on Tower Hill a Labour leader declared that numbers of persons with money to spare are purchasing in London large quantities of German notes with a view to holding them for a rise in value. Many of these notes, he declared, come via Cologne. He demanded that English capitalists should put their war profits into English concerns and not benefit German financiers, the ultimate result of these transactions being that English money would pass into Germany.

ARMENIANS PETITION ENGLAND.

A petition has been presented to the Government by supporters of the Armenian Red Cross and Refugee Fund, requesting hat British troops be not withdrawnt from the Caucasus until the safety of Armenia has been guaranteed by the Peace Conference.

Ceratopogon Pulicaris!

You may not recognise his name—but you know him quite well. He's the little stinging fly which is biting everyone who tries to enjoy the evening outdoors. He will not bite you, however, if you always use. . . .

SAPON RUSSIAN TAR SOAP

You can defy all mosquitos, gnats and other pests which sting and bite.

A Doctor writes:— "I find your Russian Tar Soap gives wonderful results in irritable skin diseases, such as Scabies, Eczema, Pruritus, Insect Bites, Acne, etc." The following is the best method of application:—Moisen the Soap, rub it on the part affected, and allow it to dry.

Sold throughout all the Army Canteens at

OFFICIAL PRICE

Do not pay more. Insist on being supplied. If any difficulty advise us and we will pay postage.

SAPON SOAPS LIMITED
LONDON BRIDGE E.C.4., ENGLAND

Binoculars at original factory prices of the firms ZEISS GOERZ LEITZ

PHOTO Cameras — Plates Roll-Films - Pack-Films SLIDE RULES MICROSCOPES

ZEISS-PUNKTAL-GLASSES for rimless glasses and spectacles. The best for the eyes!

OPTICAL institute S. Goldfinger Limited founded: 1869
Hohestr. 88 COLOGNE Hohestr. 88
On parle français. English spoken.

All Accessories for
BILLIARD TABLES
Billiard Tables new and second-hand
MATH. BOUR Wwe., COLOGNE
Eigelstein 14 (near Dom & Station)

WHOLESALE TOY CENTRE
Novelties
Musical Instruments of all kinds.
PAUL HORSTMANN
COLOGNE, Schildergasse 112
Exort to all coun ries
Representative of first-class manufacturers
Sale from Depot open 8–1, 3–7 pm.

Exporter of Solingen Steelware, son of a manufacturer, will undertake the buying of Steelware on Commission.
A. Schnittert jun., Wald Rhineland,
Kaiserstr. 148.

FURS
in SKUNK — AUSTRAL. OPOSSUM — SEAL — FOX, in all forms and colours, newest models or, if desired, manufacturing to own design.
No shop — therefore equitable prices
E. KAUFFMANN, Rich. Wagnerstr. 41
(near Opera House)

WIVES
read "The Cologne Post". Send it daily to yours.

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S./40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

TWO CEILING pushballs with or without platform. Write Sports Officer, 52nd Devons.

OFFICERS' WIFE wishes to sell child's mail cart. Used three weeks only. Price 200 Marks. Apply Box 300, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

FILM developing tank complete with instructions almost new. Price 100 Marks. Write to R.S.M. Smeeth C/O S.O. in chief Signals G.H.Q.

For Music-Study EXCELLENT PIANO—pre-war celebrated manufacture, 4000 Mks. Gereonsmühlengasse 3 on left part. Stern.

HIS MASTER'S VOICE GRAMOPHONE brand new, polished oak, horntess. 360 marks seen at Riehl Barracks. Apply Lieut. Dale, 41st Bn. M.G.C.

To be sold Standard Violin Excellent, old, Italian instrument, beautiful sound, mellow intonation. Apply to Sudermannstr. 101, Cologne by Dr. o. K. between 1-3 o'clock and after 7 in the evening.

MOTOR BICYCLE for sale. 1918 "Wanderer", 2-speed, 2 cylinders, spring frame, new tyres, lamp and tools. Price £50. Major Walsh, 53rd Nthd. Fusiliers, Northern Division, Brühl.

Selling out as I am giving up the selling of optical articles I sell second hand Zeiss Goerz binoculars to low prices. Apply between 2—5 p.m. at Mond, Volksgartenstr. 24.

WANTED.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 4.5. if poss. but not smaller than 6.3. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

BILLIARD TABLE, English pattern, wanted for Officers Mess. Particulars to Capt. I. Egerton Hine, Army Technical College, Siegburg.

CINEMA APPARATUS with all accessories, wanted. Particulars and price to Capt. I. Egerton-Hine, Army Technical College, Siegburg.

FOREIGNER finds well furnished bed and sitting-room near Paulus-Kirche. Apply to A 316 Cologne Post A. PO./S. 40.

TWO GREYHOUNDS and working terriers. By Rhine Garrison Officers. Box 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

EXPERIENCED head Waiter, wants position or situation in Officers Mess-Club or hotel as Waiter, Club-Keeper, Mixer etc. First Class British testimonials, last situation as head Waiter Olivenhof Weinrestaurant, good Character from A.P.M. Cologne please Write to Leo Hermanns, Rubensstrasse 361 Cologne.

GERMAN LADY speaking Engl. perfectly experienced in commercial life wants position in Engl. office in Cologne for corresp. specially. Write to. A. 331 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

LOST.

LOST in centre of Cologne or at VI th Corps Club, gold bar brooch, amethyst in centre. Reward if returned to Advt. Manager, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

500 MARKS REWARD.

Between BONN and SAND (near Berg Gladbach) on 2nd November, Brown suit case marked E.J. Information to Colonel Jackson, Headquarters, Southern Division, SAND, NEAR BERG GLADBACH.

PERSONAL.

EXPERIENCED cook wants situation in Officer's mess or hotel. First-class British testimonials and references. 20 years in England. Write to G 13, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

WILL THE BRITISH OFFICER (medical who bought Thoma Zeiss Hamasitometer for 96.00 mks. at Messrs. Neumann and Cie. on Tuesday Oct. 30. communicate with the firm.

MISSING.

ANY INFORMATION respecting the whereabouts of Pte. William Noth, No. 48558, D Coy. 13th Kings, reported missing March 27th. 1918, would be very gratefully, received by his mother at 12. Gwendoline Street, Windsor St. Liverpool, England.

LANGUAGES

FRENCH family wants teacher who can give English, French and possibly German lessons. Apply to A. 330 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

SPORT.

HOCKEY fixtures, Officers and mixed ranks also football matches, communicate with Sports Officer 51st Nordhumberland Fusiliers.

DON'T FORGET THIS

BEFORE YOU LEAVE FOR BLIGHTY.

* THE COLOGNE POST *
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks. (From U.K. 2/9.)

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

PLEASE WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

.....

15 Marks covers all British possessions.

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellenstrasse, Cologne, November 5, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S/40 British Army of the Rhine.

BIG PRIZE IN OUR SIXTH FOOTBALL CONTEST

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

THE FORM ON PAGE FOUR [illegible] YOU.

No. 188. COLOGNE, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

POLITICS AND PASSIONS.

EXTRAORDINARY REVELATIONS IN SORDID ACTION FOR ALLEGED LIBEL.

AFGHAN TRIBES AND THE RECENT PEACE.

AN AMAZING SUIT.

TANGLE OF POLITICS AND DIVORCE.

An astounding action for alleged libel and slander was commenced on Tuesday in the Lord Chief Justice's Court before Lord Reading and a special jury. It concerned the last election for the Bilston division of Wolverhampton.

The plaintiff was Dr. John Kynaston, a retired Lieut-Colonel in the Royal Army Medical Corps, who was the unsuccessful Labour candidate for the seat, the defendants being the wife of Brigadier Thomas Hickman, Coalition Unionist member for the division, and George Brown, one of his principal supporters, who were sued for conspiracy to libel and slander Dr. Kynaston on the 13th December 1918.

Defendants pleaded justification.

Mr. Melville, K. C. for the plaintiff, said that the libel complained of charged Dr. Kynaston with having seduced the wife of an officer while that officer was on service in Macedonia and alleged that he was still living with that lady and keeping the officer's child. The libel further accused him of systematically ill-treating the child and telling her she was a pauper.

That charge, said Counsel, was one of those truths which had been distorted and perverted and to which mean and wicked falsehoods had been added.

AN ASTOUNDING STORY.

Dr. Kynaston, he said, was a man of fifty-six years. He had married in 1885 and practised in Cornwall, but his marriage turned out a hopeless failure. In 1889 he entered the Army medical service at Netley and later went to India. He also served in Burmah and Sierra Leone. In 1908 he and his wife parted, he making her an allowance, and a year later he met a lady who had since lived with him as his wife.

This lady — Mrs. Foxwell — had also had an unhappy marriage, her husband having left her in 1903. Shortly afterwards Mrs. Kynaston filed an undefended petition for divorce and in 1914 Dr. Kynaston married Mrs. Foxwell.

The position was complicated by Mr. Foxwell, in the words of Counsel, "suddenly coming back to life and sending a congratulatory telegram on her birthday to his daughter, whom he had never seen or supported."

Continuing, Counsel said Mrs. Foxwell's mother, Mrs. Shafto Greene, wrote to Mr. Foxwell making various suggestions as to how he could obtain a divorce without attracting publicity, proposing for instance, that he describe himself as an estate agent.

Lord Chief Justice interposing; "I have never heard anything more scandalous."

Dr. Kynaston also wrote making suggestions. In his reply Mr. Foxwell charged Dr. Kynaston with engineering a plot to get him sent out to the East, also with keeping his (Foxwell's) daughter in ignorance of the fact that she had an independent income of her own "for his own vile purposes."

In April, 1918, Mr. Foxwell filed a preliminary petition for a divorce but no further proceedings were taken. At the time of the election Mr. Foxwell wrote to Hickman repeating his charges against Dr. Kynaston. General Hickman, with Foxwell's consent, read the letter at an electioneering meeting and the letter was also published as an electioneering pamphlet.

PLAINTIFF IN THE BOX.

Dr. Kynaston, a tall military figure, with grey hair and moustache, gave evidence in support of Counsel's opening statement.

Cross-examined by Sir Edward Carson, he said he knew that Mr. Foxwell was alive when he married Mrs. Foxwell, but denied knowing that Mr. Foxwell came from Canada in 1912 to try to persuade his wife to resume cohabition. Sir Edward Carson thereupon produced letters from Mrs. Foxwell showing that she knew her husband was looking for her.

Dr. Kynaston persisted that he knew nothing of these letters at that time. He had a daughter by his first wife but he "had blotted her out of his life absolutely." It was untrue that he deserted his first wife. He did not defend her petition for divorce because he was glad to be divorced. He admitted that in the certificate of his "marriage" with Mrs. Foxwell every word of the particulars was untrue except Mrs. Foxwell's Christian name.

This provoked more stern comment from the Lord Chief Justice.

Plaintiff then declared that he wished to enter Parliament to advocate changes in the divorce law. He admitted making suggestions that Mr. Foxwell should enable his wife to divorce him. He declared, however, that he never expected Mr. Foxwell to adopt the suggestion as he was convinced that he was a blackmailer.

The Lord Chief Justice pointed out that if plaintiff knew this he was putting a weapon into his hand. The hearing was adjourned. Plaintiff contended that Mr. Foxwell's reply was "obviously a blackmailing letter."

AFGHANISTAN.

REPORTED VIOLATION OF PEACE.

There is reason to believe that Afghan troops are still in occupation of the important position of Wana, which is in the Mahsud Waziri country, and a considerable distance on the British side of the North-west Frontier of India. If this is true, one of the first conditions of the armistice which preceded the "peace" with Afghanistan has been violated.

The Viceroy of India (Lord Chelmsford) wrote to the Ameer Amanullah Khan on June 22:—"So long as a single Afghan regular soldier remains on our side (of the frontier) peace negotiations are out of the question, and there can be no alternative but a resumption of hostilities." It is now suggested that in Waziristan the Afghan regular troops never entirely withdrew from British territory.

A British expedition consisting of six infantry brigades is about to advance into Waziristan, the declared object being to attack the Mansuds and other Waziri tribes who have been molesting our convoys and raiding villages in the administered areas.

If, however, Afghan troops are still stationed in the region where the advance will be made, the operations may have a more serious aspect.

TURKS ATTACK BRITISH HOSPITAL TRAIN.

A telegram from Salonica states that a group of insurgents has blown up the large bridge at Angora.

Simultaneously strong Turkish detachments attacked the French troops. After a fight of several hours' duration, the Turks were put to flight, leaving a field battery and numerous prisoners behind them in French hands.

A British military train, bringing wounded to Constantinople, was attacked by troops belonging to the organisation of Mustapha Kemal.

AMMO. FOR THE LETTS.

Answering Mr. Swan, who asked whether shipments of munitions are now being made to Riga, for whose use they are intended, and whether the cost falls on the British taxpayer, Mr. Winston Churchill said that a small amount of captured German ammunition is being sent. It is destined for the Letts, who are struggling to maintain the integrity of their country against reactionary Russian forces, subsidised and assisted by reactionary German elements.

The expense involved is that of shipping only, which is very small.

FUTURE OF THE DOCKYARDS.

At a conference of local public and other bodies, held at Portsmouth to consider the question of dockyard discharges, Major Sir Bertram Falle, M.P., suggested tha Pembroke, Devonport, Chatnam and Haulbowline should be converted into commercial ports, and all naval work diverted to Portsmouth which has never had a great commercial shipping connection.

It was decided to ask Sir Robert Horne LabourMinister, to attend a town's meeting.

RED CROSS MEMBERS ARRESTED.

A Denikin wireless message states that the chiefs of the Danish Red Cross Mission in Kieff have been arrested by order of General Denikin's Government. Information had been received that the chiefs were acting as agents of the Austro-German Soviet in Kieff, which had worked in full contact with the Russian Soviet. The arrest was preceded by a search of the premises occupied by the Danish Red Cross Mission.

WHEN WILL PEACE ARRIVE?

It is clear, says the Paris Correspondent of the "Times" that the Peace Treaty cannot come into force by November 11. The date will depend on the amount of resistance offered by Germany to carrying out the as yet unfulfilled conditions of the Armistice. These are to be embodied in the Protocol which Germany must sign before the Treaty becomes operative.

VAIN BOLSHEVIST HOPE.

A Moscow wireless message states that a manifesto has been issued by the Soviet to the workers of the world calling upon the workers of England and France to organise a protest strike for the 7th November, which is the anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution against the attack on Russia and consequent attempt to crush the revolution.

GUARDS' TRAINING.

QUESTIONS IN THE HOUSE.

In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Briant asked the Secretary of State for War whether his attention had been called to charges of brutality and bribery in connection with the treatment of recruits in the Guards. Mr. Winston Churchill said that he could not undertake to hold an enquiry into allegations of so vague and general a character. He had not read the book in question (A Private in the Guards, by Stephan Graham) but he did not think he was justified in ordering an enquiry because a book was published which contained a certain number of allegations.

Captain Terrell hoped that Mr. Churchill would flatly contradict these false statements and Sir John Rees remarked that the system which had produced the best infantry in the world was best left alone.

BOLSHEVIST PROPAGANDA IN FINLAND.

The negotiations to decide whether Finland will take part in the Petrograd offensive have taken a favourable turn and a decision is expected within the next few days.

The Finnish Government is reported to intend giving a written reply to the request made by Lianasoff, head of the North-West Russian Government, for military aid in the operations against Petrograd.

Commenting on General Mannerheim's letter appealing to the Finnish President to assist General Yudenitch in his campaign against the Bolshevists the leading Helsingfors papers express the hope that the appeal will lead to the desired result and that the Government will take without delay preparatory steps for vigorous and speedy action.

On the other hand it is reported that at a recent meeting of the Petrograd Soviet it was decided to devote special attention to propaganda in Finland and Scandinavia generally, the ground being thought suitable and the time ripe for agitation. Indeed, 200 couriers have already been dispatched to those countries. It is said that ten thousand Finns have already been won over to the Bolshevist cause.

GOEBEN SURRENDERED.

BRITISH CREW ON BOARD.

The battleship Goeben, at Constantinople has been surrendered by the Turkish authorities, and it had been partially repaired, said Mr. Long (First Lord of the Admiralty) in reply to Sir A. Fell, in the House of Commons yesterday.

A skeleton British crew, in accordance with the terms of the armistice, had been placed on board, and every precaution was being taken to prevent the vessel being scuttled and sunk.

PARENTAL ALLOWANCES.

An Army Order states that in all cases where applications for special allowances for parents of unmarried soldiers (not eligible for separation allowances) are made after the 30th November such allowances will be payable with effect from the date of application only.

THEFT AT THE LOUVRE.

The thin gold neck-chain which was stolen from the Louvre has been recovered. The object had been stolen by a young man belonging to an honourable family. His father restored it personally to the police. The thief, who is actually in the provinces, will be arrested very shortly.

BRITISH HELP TO RUSSIA.

A White Paper issued last night shows that the cost of our naval and military operations in Russia from the date of the Armistice to October 31 this year was over 27 millions, and that British assistance to the Russian Armies was responsible for another 17 millions, making, roughly, 44 millions in all.

ALLIES BOMBARD GERMANS AT RIGA.

A Copenhagen telegram from Riga announces that the Allied Fleet has bombarded the German positions on the Riga front and that repeated German attacks on Friedrichstadt have been repulsed.

OUT-OF-WORK FRAUDS.

Prosecutions have been instituted in Great Britain in 882 cases of apparent fraud in connexion with out-of-work donation, and 648 further cases are under consideration. The total amount of out-of-work donation paid up to October 17 was approximately £39,000,000.

MEMORIAL AT YPRES.

The War Office announces that the Battle Exploit Memorials Committee is considering the question of a memorial to all troops of the British Empire who fought at Ypres.

PENNANT INQUIRY.

COUNSELS' CONCLUDING SPEECHES.

Further speeches on behalf of prominent people mentioned in the course of the House of Lords Committee of Inquiry into the Pennant case were made yesterday.

Mr. Harold Morris, Counsel for Miss Glubb, declared it was cruel, wanton and wicked for Miss Pennant to couple Miss Glubb's name with that of Colonel Janson six months after Miss Pennant had been superseded, simply, if possible, to satisfy an injury to her personal vanity.

He commented adversely on the fact that Mrs. Kitto, who was said to have made the report to Miss Pennant about the alleged immorality at Hurst Park, had not been called to give evidence by the other side, although she was in court the previous day.

Lord Stanhope, continued Counsel, had expressed a desire to apologise to Colonel Janson and Miss Glubb, but Miss Pennant did not. After reciting Miss Glubb's splendid record of war services in Russia, Serbia and at home, Counsel challenged Miss Pennant to repeat her charges in the open. He claimed that it had been conclusively proved there was no foundation for the charges made against Miss Glubb. "Her honour, good name and her whole future happiness are at stake and she is little more than a child. She asks for assistance and protection and I trust she will not be disappointed." (Applause).

Mr. Hawke, K.C., addressing the Committee for Miss Pennant, denied that she acted on personal grounds. She felt it was due to others that if in Government departments people be dismissed without any charges being brought or any enquiry made, as the result of petty intrigue, it was time that someone did something to put a stop to that kind of thing. He declared that irrelevant matters, such as the mention of Colonel Janson and Miss Glubb were first introduced by the other side.

This statement led to a warm correction from the Chairman.

Continuing, Mr. Hawke said he was unaware that Mrs. Kitto had been present in Court but if the Committee wanted her evidence it could call her. He contended that Miss Pennant had established her case, which was that according to the principles of ordinary justice she had been the victim of intrigue. He did not propose to go into the question of the allegations against General Livingstone and Colonel Bersey. Those allegations were not part of Miss Pennant's case but came in during the hearing of evidence.

Counsel for the Air Ministry protested and the chairman asked:

"Whether the questions of Hurst Park arose in examination or cross examination, can you afford to ignore that aspect of the inquiry?"

Mr. Hawke replied: "The Committee can deal with that matter if they like."

The inquiry was adjourned until Tuesday when it is understood that Lady Rhondda will give evidence, after which the inquiry will be concluded.

MILITARY CEMETERIES.

WHY TWO MONUMENTS WERE SELECTED.

A statement was issued on Monday by the Imperial War Graves Commission which says that it appears from recent opinions in the Press that some misunderstandings have arisen regarding the war stones and great crosses which are being erected by the Commission in cemeteries abroad.

The real fact is that the Commission, after full deliberation and consulting the wishes of relatives and the Army authorities, decided to make two such monuments the central features of their scheme of cemetery construction, because each makes its own definite and distinctive appeal and each represents a different aspect of the idea of national commemoration.

NO GENERAL AMNESTY.

Answering Mr. Lunn, who asked questions concerning the number of men now serving sentences of more than three months duration for military offences, Mr. Winston Churchill stated in the House of Commons that the Government had considered the advisability of granting an amnesty to those men who are serving terms of imprisonment for military offences. They had decided that no case could be made out for a general amnesty.

The number now in prison is very small but the sentences were awarded for very grave offences and they had all been subjected to review, by which a large reduction in the aggregate number of years had been granted.

DANISH BUTTER FOR ENGLAND.

According to the "National Tidende," Copenhagen, an agreement has just been concluded for the delivery of 80,000 barrels of butter to England in the course of the next four months, at a minimum price of six kroner per kilogram (about 3s. a lb. nominal), as compared with the present export price of five kroner.

ROYAL PRIZE CATTLE.

The King and the Prince of Wales were exhibitors of shorthorns at Lord Tredegar's agricultural show at Newport, (Mon). Each won a second prize.

V.C.'S SEVERE REP.

COURT-MARTIAL SENTENCE ON A COLONEL.

The sentence of the Court-Martial on Colonel John Sherwood Kelly, V.C., C.M.G., D.S.O., who was tried for infringing the King's Regulations by writing to the Press, was promulgated yesterday. He was sentenced to be severely reprimanded.

In his speech to the Court, Colonel Kelly said: "I have carried out my duty to the best of my skill and ability. Loyalty to the throne is with me a paramount ideal and I have sacrificed everything to carry these ideals into action. I have nothing left but a soldier's honour."

MINERS' STRIKE.

LITTLE CHANCE OF SPREADING.

No signs of wavering have appeared among the U.S. miners, though certain attempts at mediation have been made. Several days must elapse before these can be expected to mature. The miners leaders maintain strict silence, but Mr. Gompers, on behalf of the Federation of Labour, has prepared, some even say presented, a scheme for settlement of the strike. The President has informed the miners that he will summon a Commission to deal with the crisis if, and when, the men return to work.

Movements of troops to the chief centres of the mining industry are being carried out, under the supervision of Major-General Leonard Wood, without any trouble from the strikers, who have on their own initiative taken measures to safeguard the mines from damage. There have been practically no incendiary speeches and there seems little chance of a general strike being even called, much less of its being a success.

LONDON TRAMS.

GREAT EXTENSION SCHEME ADOPTED.

The London County Council discussed yesterday the Committee's four and a-half million pound tramways extension scheme.

There was much opposition on account of the cost and the rapid development of motor traffic, which might easily make the trams obsolete. Further objection was raised from the fact that the Council will soon have power to run its own omnibuses. Sir Cyril Jackson added the argument that traffic might soon be relieved by flying. He did not think it impossible for the Thames to accommodate seaplanes coming up from the suburbs. Other objectors claimed that every penny is now wanted for housing and schools.

Finally the Council approved sixteen out of the seventeen proposed new lines for inclusion in the Parliamentary (Powers) Bill.

RED ARMY ADVANCING.

According to reliable information from Helsingfors, the Reds occupied Gatchina on Sunday, the town having been evacuated three days previously.

The Russian North West Army reports that in the direction of Pskoff the enemy is attacking with large forces on the Pskoff-Strugibjelaja road. Owing to the enemy's superiority in numbers Luga was evacuated. On the Petrograd front an enemy attack on the village of Poeckelovo was repulsed. At the capture of the village of Vysotskoje 267 prisoners were taken.

THE YPRES PILGRIMAGE.

In connection with the proposed memorial to the troops of the British Empire who fought at Ypres, the Belgian Minister of the Interior states that preliminary measures have been taken to protect the Cloth Hall, the Cathedral and adjoining houses from desecration. The ruins, besides being eloquent testimony of Teutonic barbarity, will remain a place of pilgrimage, to which the Allies may come to perpetuate the memory of those soldiers who died to keep intact the last strip of Belgian soil.

FAMOUS EDITOR DEAD.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. J. R. S. Phillipps, who for the last sixteen years has edited the "Yorkshire Post." He died on Tuesday night of cerebral haemorrhage.

Mr. Phillipps, who was born in 1850, at Pendleton, near Manchester, started to earn his living at the age of thirteen in a warehouse. Three years later his first accepted article determined his future career. From the "Kendal Mercury" he worked up to the "Yorkshire Post" via Worcester, Belfast and Edinburgh. In 1907 he was one of the party of British journalists who were the guests of the German Press.

SPEEDING UP REPATRIATION.

During the week ended 29th October, 20,453 German and 129 Austrian prisoners of war were repatriated from the United Kingdom. A considerable proportion of the Germans are now being repatriated in German ships.

BOY THIEVES.

YOUNG BANK CLERKS' CONFESSION.

At the Mansion House before Alderman Sir David Burnett, William Parker, 17, Henry Lewry, 17, and Charles Frank Roakes, 19, clerks, were charged with stealing about £11,000 belonging to their employers, the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, American bankers, Lombard-street.

Mr. Travers Humphreys, prosecuting, said that the three young men were ledger keepers. They were given into custody on October 18 for stealing or receiving large sums of money, and they made full confession. Parker handed back £6,980, Lewry £3,761, and Roakes £110. When a customer paid money into his account the receiving cashier made certain entries and handed over the slip and cash either to Parker or Lewry. They ought then to have credited the customer with the amount and paid it in to the company's account at their bankers. The entries were properly made, but the defendants failed to pay in the cash. An official from New York and fourteen clerks were now engaged in trying to trace the destination of various sums paid in. The scheme was detected when it came to the knowledge of the company that Parker had £6,000 standing to his credit at Parr's Bank at Walthamstow and had given notice to withdraw it.

The defendants were remanded.

FATAL COLLISION.

CALAMITY TO ORIENT EXPRESS.

On Monday night between Sens and Pont-sur-Yonne, a terrible railway accident occurred, the Geneva train dashing at full speed into the Orient Express. The impact was frightful, eight coaches being crushed like egg-shells. The number of dead is about twenty and over one hundred wounded were conveyed to hospital.

AIDING THE BALTIC STATES.

In the House of Commons yesterday Colonel Wedgwood asked whether promises of aid had been made by Great Britain to the Governments of Estonia, Livonia, Poland, Finland and Lithuania with the object of defending them against the semi-German attacks of von der Goltz.

Mr. Cecil Harmsworth replied that in view of the German attack on Riga the Government decided to send small arms and ammunition to the value of sixteen thousand pounds to the provisional Government of Latvia.

At the same time a strongly worded note was sent by the Peace Conference to the Germans insisting on the immediate fulfilment of the Allies' demands for evacuation of all German troops from the Baltic States, and it was decided to despatch an Allied representative mission under a French General to control the execution of this order.

A DELAYED DEBATE.

The meeting of the Executive of the Miners' Federation with the Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress, originally fixed for to-day to discuss the summoning of a special Trade Union Congress for the purpose of reviewing the Government's reply to the demand for nationalisation of mines, has been postponed until the 12th.

INDIAN DEMOBILIZATION.

The War Office states that since the 20th October six vessels have sailed from Basra, Bombay, and Karachi carrying 464 officers and 6,901 other ranks from India and 40 officers and 1,078 other ranks from Mesopotamia. The total number of troops evacuated since the 26th July is 892 officers and 20,345 other ranks from Mesopotamia and 1,811 officers and 15,118 other ranks from India.

WREATHS ON THE CENOTAPH.

The Comrades of the Great War are organising a procession of representatives of various patriotic organisations to lay wreaths on the cenotaph in Whitehall on Armistice Day. Before his departure from London the Shah sent an aide-de-camp to place a wreath on the cenotaph.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

Activity on change yesterday was confined chiefly to oils, minings and wireless sections. Home investments were steady and shippings were hardening. French loans were somewhat firmer but other foreign issues were dull on fears of continental selling. The feature of minings was the strong demand for Anglo-American Corporation and Burma Corporation shares. Marconi shares were active on the decision to increase the capital by the creation of one and a-half millions ordinary one-pound shares.

An encouraging factor is the success of recent industrial issues. The South American Stores issue of one and a-quarter millions in debentures is well over-subscribed. The list opened on Tuesday and closed at noon on Wednesday. Selfridges £600,000 preference share issue attracted applications for ten times that amount.

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Representative Mr. A.J.R. LEE is at OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

Has recently returned from London with a stock of hosiery & a new selection of patterns for multi wear. Officers requiring shirts etc. for the winter, can now be supplied from stock.

Ancestral Door-plates

still to be seen on the historic gateway leading to the cellars of John Harvey & Sons, Limited, Bristol, Naval and Military Wine Merchants.

Style of the Firm:—
1796 William Perry.
1816 Perry & Urch.
1825 Urch & Prichard.
1839 Urch, Prichard & Harvey.
1842 Harvey & White.
1871 John Harvey & Sons
1883 John Harvey & Sons, Ltd.

Among the many noted Wines and Spirits exported by this renowned firm to all parts of the world are the following:

HARVEY'S "HUNTING PORT,"
"BRISTOL MILK" (Old Golden Sherry),
HARVEY'S "SHOOTING SHERRY,"
The "19th" HOLE Scotch Whisky.

Send for Duty-free Price List.

The Trade Mark shown below is the recognised guarantee all over the world of consistently High Quality and Value:

JOHN HARVEY & SONS, Ltd.
BRISTOL, ENGLAND.
Founded 1796.

J H & S
BRISTOL
REGD BRAND

Café and Concert House
GERMANIA
Hohestrasse, Cologne

Daily Concerts by a Selected Orchestra under the personal direction of PETER GRAEF, Violinist formerly of the Trocadero, London from 3.30 to 7 p.m. and from 8 to 10.30 p.m.

RAZORS very sharply ground and completely polished at
C.A. LÜTTERS, COLOGNE
Breitestr. 23.
Special store for razors.

Goerz Taro Tenax 9 by 12, with D.A. Dagor lens. Zeiss, Goerz and Voigtländer prismatic glasses.
Good opportunity to purchase.
Funk, Wholesale Photographic Dealer
Köln, Elstergasse 8. near Museum.
'phone B 4484.

Gold Krone
EKS
Registered Mark
Ewald Kron, Solingen
Special Razor Manufacturers
Tel. 1934 Telegr.-Address: Goldkrone Solingen
Registered EKS Trade Mark
First quality only. Guarantee with each article. To be obtained in all good shops.

Mr. Alfred Hurley's London Music Hall Coy.
"The ECCENTRICS"
All first-class Artistes including
"DATAS"
The famous Memory Man from The Palace, London. "Am I Right, Sir?"
MISS MARGUERITE DE LARA, Prestidigitator,
MISS GLADYS STANLEY, Soubrette, Central Pier, Blackpool, Season 1919.
MISS MARJORIE BOWYA Vocalist and Violinist
MR. C. POWELL-EASTBERY Comedian and Baritone and together in "A Potpourri of Rags and Gags".
MR. WARWICK PRYCE Entertainer at the Piano from Maskelyne & Devants, London.

Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage this party or the Jesters. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office, Komodien Str. or may be seen there personally at 11 o/c each morning.

France et Belgique
peuvent acheter maintenant à des prix qui ne reviendront plus nos excellents papiers carbones et rubans pour machines à écrire qui sont fabriqués avec les tissus les plus fins. Echantillons gratuits prouvent l'avantage énorme d'acheter directement chez nous.
Dr. Wenzlik et Ing. Schomers
Bonn.

EXPORT
SAVE TIME TROUBLE MONEY
BY BUYING YOUR CUTLERY
IN COLOGNE SUCH AS
RAZORS, POCKET-KNIVES, SCISSORS, MANICURE, KNIVES, FORKS AND SPOONS. SAFETY-RAZOR BLADES.
AT THE LOWEST PRICES FROM
F. ADAMS, COLOGNE
GLADBACHERSTR. 21

ORDER YOUR
"COLOGNE POST"
REGULARLY
FIRST & CHEAPEST
EVERY DAY
—All the news from home
—All the news of the world
—What's on everywhere in Rhineland, what to see, where to go
—All the sport from home and units
—Articles, echoes and bits from everywhere.
TUESDAY & FRIDAY
—Business Men's Column.
SATURDAY
—Photography for all, and other special features.
Great Football Skill Competition. Specially contributed articles by all the big football experts
—Vanity Fair for our womenfolk in Rhineland. The Lighter Side of Rhineland.
LOOK OUT FOR FURTHER BIG FEATURES BY WELL KNOWN WRITERS

Mention The Cologne Post when replying to advertisements. It helps you and the advertisers.

Kodaks Ica, Zeiss, Goerz Ernemann, Nettel Cameras
Developing and Copying
All photographic work and repairs done.
Photographic Specialists
Nelles & Wolffram, Cologne, Unter Fettenhennen

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor
Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???
Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!
The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!
TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.
Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 32-34.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE:
In future the Deutsches Theatre performances will commence at 6 p.m. nightly, excepting Wednesdays and Fridays, when they will begin at 8 p.m.

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.
Thursday Nov. 6th, at 6 p.m. and nightly
THE BRITISH RHINE ARMY DRAMATIC COMPANY
presents
"THE SILVER BOX"
A Comedy in three acts by John Galsworthy
Large Caste. Special Attraction.

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
Wednesday, November 5th 1919, at 6 p.m. and during the week
Mr. ALFRED HURLEY
presents his London Music Hall Coy.
Artistes:
"DATAS"
The world renowned memory man from the Palace Theatre, London. "Am I right, Sir."?
MISS MARGUERITE DE LARA
Prestidigitator
MISS GWLADYS STANLEY, Soubrette
Central Pier, Blackpool, Season 1919

MISS MAJORIE BOWYA and MR. POWELL-EASTBERY Versatile Duo	MR. WARWICK PRYCE Entertainer at the piano from Maskelyne and Devant's St. George's Hall, London.

And THE CRUMPS' ORCHESTRA by kind permission of the G.O.C. London Division
Usual prices. Book Early.

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA.
32 Komödienstrasse
At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures
Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.
Grand Orchestra and Pictures.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA. Hohe Strasse
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS,
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
CINEMA
Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 653. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.

Thursday, November 6, 1919.

HOLD IT FAST.

What we wish to say to all those who have yet to receive gratuities for their war services is, guard them securely.

Thousands who have gone out of all Army ranks to face the fight with unsatisfactory civil conditions at home, have for the first time in their young lives had any considerable sum of money to handle, that they could call their own.

They have deserved the monetary recognition the War Office gives them at the end of their war service, but it has in far too many instances proved the undoing of mere lads who came fresh from school or apprenticeship into the fray.

Suddenly relaxed from discipline, back in the world, they have lost their heads. The amount which might have kept the wolf from the door for so many months while they were getting into suitable positions, has been frittered away in a few weeks. We have heard of cases even where a few days have seen the last penny squandered.

In England to-day there are thousands of young fellows eager enough after the Armistice to throw off what they then felt to be "the irksomeness of military routine" who, having arrived back in Blighty with no business or professional training and a false idea of their importance have never fitted into the scheme of commercial life. To use their own expression many have "not a bean left", and are in a parlous state.

There are many others who with no intention to fritter away uselessly their gratuities, but thinking merely of doing well for themselves have let the money drift into the hands of share-peddling harpies, company promoters, sporting "financiers" and many others only too ready to pounce upon their money.

These young men meant well no doubt, but have had a hard lesson. Like the moth that hovers round the flame, their wings have been scorched. And they are derelicts.

There has been much to excuse in many instances. The atmosphere of war horrors and the hourly hazard of death tended to recklessness and prodigality when the phase of fighting was finished. We feel sorrow for all such victims.

Perhaps we have written gloomily. Some topics cannot be lightly dealt with. We ask all who are going out of the Army to profit by the pitfalls so many of their comrades in arms have fallen into.

Conditions at home are even more difficult than in the earlier days of demobilization. So the necessity to grip your gratuity tight and make the most prudent use of it is all the greater. Hold it fast!

MEMORIES OF POPERINGHE.

Shades of Pop! What memories of that picturesque little town of the salient are conjured up by "Tales of Talbot House," from the pen of the Rev. P. B. Clayton, M.C., for some time Garrison Chaplain to Poperinghe.

Talbot House will be recalled as the centre of brave gaiety in that Flanders town for a succession of fighting troops. The warmth of its welcome, its example of helpfulness, will linger in the minds of all who were privileged to know the parson publican and have lived to regard those days and nights in the Ypres-Kemmel area as a distant nightmare.

Talbot House was, to many, the one source of comfort in the black misery of a winter in the salient. It's call was insistent. Few who became acquainted with the warmth of its interior and were spared, failed to call again. Many passed through it to a great and glorious death.

"I firmly believe that the greatest secret of our success in the war was the spirit of helpfulness . . . The opening of Talbot House was one of the best examples of helpfulness, for which many thousands have been and many thousands are intensely grateful" writes the Earl of Cavan, C.B., M.V.O., K.P., in a foreword to the book, and the writer who knew it at various stages of its chequered career in common with many more, shares that view.

NOW THE NAME CAME.

Just how it came to be known as Talbot House forms an interesting story in itself. It was proposed to call it Church House, but as the Rev. N. S. Talbot, M.C., late Assistant Chaplain General, 5th Army, points out in an introduction of interesting reminiscences the Divisional Staff saw a scarecrow in the name, and smelt "tracks." Hence the change.

Everyman's club dates its inception from the dog days of 1915. Poperinghe was then the centre of refugee shops, bright behind their rabbit-wire windows, with their eternal display of real Ypres lace, souvenirs and toilet requisites; later to be displayed in those wooden huts which sprang up in the neighbourhood. Of course there were estaminets of varying popularity. Between these and various divisional shows, including the now defunct "Fancies", who in recent days entertained at Brühl the troops shared their patronage. It was in this hall that Talbot began the work which was later transferred to the top storey of the club.

An odd atmosphere was created in "Pop". Ever open to shelling, which eventually drove the population away and caused Talbot House to temporarily close its doors, there was a spirit of light-heartedness which was never quenched; and a sense of gaiety.

The old sixth Division knew "Pop" in those days and it was due to the good offices of General May, then "Q" of the Division, that a wealthy brewer was induced to place his mansion at the disposal of the Army or such of it as had escaped shellfire.

THE GARDEN SHRINE.

In the garden was found a carpenter's bench which served as an altar from which tens of thousands received the Sacrament, many making their first Communion and many their last. The crucifix, a figure of white clay—a hand splintered by a fragment of shell which adorned it, was purchased for the modest sum of three francs.

Primitive were the efforts at furniture and decoration. The piano which was said to play "Little Grey Home in the West" without human action in 1918, was scrounged, and cracked cups, basins, and jam tins served as utensils for cocoa. However, sundry good friends came to the assistance of the parson publican; gifts arrived from such places as far apart as Scotland and Brighton, and the first entry in the visitors' book is dated December 15, 1915. The bedrooms were communal, and acting on the Robin Hood principle of taking from the rich to give to the poor, officers paid more than those of lowlier rank. Those were days of extreme simplicity. Callers waited semi-somnolently in chairs until their luckier brethren got up for breakfast and the leave train.

During the spring and early summer of 1916, the young House throve greatly. "That was always one of the strong realities of life at the House: you never knew whom you would see again," says the writer. It was in the early summer, boastful of the beauty of the garden, that the notice "Come into the Garden, and forget the war" appeared. The first acceptance of the invitation was a 5.8, which flew sideways into the house and provided the only fatal casualty within its walls, though during the varying fortunes of the salient, shells have crossed and recrossed the roofs.

Until the Somme battle began the town escaped, but during the third battle of Ypres things were so bad that it was closed to troops, as it was in the early days of 1918.

NO RANK DISTINCTIONS.

Callers were tempted to forget the war. True maps were to be found on its walls, but not maps likely to remind me of the struggle going on in front. There was the great map of England, through which the writer claims that a scientific spy could tell the territorial locality of successive divisions by the super imposition of finger prints. In this as in other things as far as possible the house maintained a civilian standpoint. The discipline of the house was enforced not by Army Orders, but by light-hearted notions which won willingness on the right side. For example: "The Waste-paper baskets are purely ornamental." "This is a library, not a dormitory." "No Amy Robsart stunts down these stairs." "To pessimists, way out."

Over the Chaplain's door the scroll ran, "All rank abandon ye who enter here." Thus unusual meetings lost their awkwardness. Consider a tea-party, comprising a General, a staff captain, a second lieutenant, and a Canadian private. This combination knelt together. There is telling simplicity in the story. "Not here lad, not here," whispered a great G.O.C. at Aldershot to a man who stood aside to let him go first to the Communion rails.

That spirit pervaded the place. There was the St. John's undergraduate, serving as a wireless operator with artillery, chatting in the club. A knock came, and the door opened to admit a middle-aged R.F.A. driver, who looked as if in search of a five-franc loan. Asked what he wanted, he replied, "I could only find a small Cambridge manual on palaeolithic man in the library. Have you anything less elementary?"

"Excuse me, sir, but surely I used to come to your lectures at — College" broke in the wireless operator. "Possibly," replied the driver, "but mules are my speciality now". Yet another. A battery was sent to the House to borrow some prayer books of sorts. Asked whether they wanted to borrow a padre of sorts as well, a chit from the Adjutant came back. "No; thanks all the same. The Hon. and Rev. Bombardier L.....always takes our service for us."

It was a few weeks before the Somme began that it became clear that the House could no longer stand the strain of its double obligation both to officers and men. Thus the Officer's club at Poperinghe came into being, for the officers were bombed out, and Talbot took over "A" Mess of the Guards Division in a house hard by. In a single day 500 francs was taken in penny cups of tea alone. The house was re-papered twice a week and re-painted alternate Tuesdays, so many were the helpers.

The writer gives a free insight into the thoughts of the men in early 1918. It was on Lady Day that there came a word of warning against any concentration of troops in Talbot House. "Ypres," the letter ran, "may soon be a far safer place than Poperinghe." Two days later the bombardment opened, and it is indicative of happenings that the Easter offerings included timber for the "dug-out."

Poperinghe became less and less attractive. Rumours of retirement preyed upon the moving spirits at Talbot House. Poperinghe was systematically evacuated. The officers' club was closed down, and the doors of Talbot House alone remained open. The staff of Little Talbot House in Ypres, driven out, joined forces, and the house was re-organised to meet the new conditions. The chapel was transferred from the top storey to cellar.

A shell carried away the stage of the concert hall, a bomb penetrated the water conduit, but the house continued to administer comfort. Finally on Whit-Tuesday, May 21st, came imperative orders to leave at once, and with great sadness the doors were closed, to remain so until September, 30th. Remarkable, it was, to carry books away without check or interference, but these did good service in many a dug-out when things had quietened down again.

The work continued until January of this year, when the owner of the house re-occupied it.

The volume contains several corollaries by Talbotonians—all tributes to the work of Talbot House, which it is to be hoped will find its prototype off Trafalgar Square early next year.

Old Talbotonians are invited to communicate with the keeper of the Roll, Lieut. E. G. White, 297, Milkwood Road, Herne Hill, S.E. 24.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

THE RULE OF THE ROAD.

Sir,—The arguments of E.M.S. are unanswerable. But so are those in favour of the decimal system for coinage and the metrical system for measurements, but our people unfortunately seem impervious to logical argument, and just glory in their insularity. Whatever is British is best, is their line of thought.

No doubt it is a very fine patriotic thing to have such blind faith in your own country's ways, however antiquated and out of touch with the rest of the world they may be, but as a nation we cannot afford any longer to hold a position of "splendid isolation."

We are dependent on too many foreign countries to ignore them or their methods and we should not be so proud that we cannot adopt what is good and sensible in their modes and customs.

The mere fact that we stand alone among all the nations in sticking to the "keep to the left" rule of the road, should surely warn us that there is something wrong with it. But we stood equally alone with the one-sided "Free" Trade we boasted of so much before the war, and wouldn't change it. It nearly proved our undoing, but still we clung to it obstinately.

I wonder how many letters like that of E.M.S., how many resolutions passed by road-users, how many petitions to Parliament, would be necessary before one got the British public to acknowledge that other countries are right and they are wrong in regard to the rule of the road. T.T.

FILTHY LUCRE.

Sir,—I can quite understand your correspondent's desire not to be contaminated by filthy paper currency, but my wife at present on the Rhine and a cleanly little woman has never been heard to complain of the few notes which come her way.

By the time the German tradesman has exacted his toll there are no bacteria-carriers left, and I imagine that she is willing to risk being exterminated by any such notes which come her way, particularly if they will secure for her a few of the things for which she has a sneaking regard. SERGEANT.

EYES AND NO EYES.

Sir,—With regard to the correspondence on the above subject I should like to draw attention to one or two obvious facts.

Comparisons are odious. If however two set out to compare, we are entitled to note the weak points of the country or people we are comparing with our own. It is however far more advantageous to point out those fortunes which the Germans beat us, rather than vice versa: we can then note for our own benefit at home.

The strongest point against the German method of life has however escaped your writers. They have excellent theatres, well planned houses and flats; an admirably developed tramway system and so on: but the freedom to manage their own affairs, their impatience of official interference and control — these are things which the German never possessed.

This is what the travelled German chiefly admires when he comes to England, for it is our most precious asset, and far outweighs any material advantage we may have over German policemen or theatres — for it is of the very essence of freedom, the birthright of every true born Briton. VERITATIS VOX.

Sir,—In reply to your correspondent "M.A.," writing under the above heading, I can only assume that he has no eyes.

I have been in Cologne since December last, and the fact that has astounded me most is that the German is not original.

Give the devil his due; he has strived to copy the best of France and England with a good deal of success. EYES.

MEALS ON LEAVE TRAINS.

Sir,—From the stories one hears daily in the clubs, I am sure a statement by the N.A.C.B. authorities as to what becomes of the profits made on the Leave express would be welcomed

I, myself, returned from leave a day or two ago and was convinced that I paid exorbitant prices for all the meals I consumed. Three francs fifty for breakfast, consisting of a microscopic piece of bacon, a share in a pot of tepid tea and some bread and butter was the first item.

Four francs for a small plate of cold meat, a tiny chunk of cheese and some more bread constituted, I thought, a rather expensive lunch. Further cases need not be quoted. I would that the kindly fates would allow me to take over the catering business on these trains. Willingly, would I undertake to stand the loss and sell equally appetising meals at half the price. "HUNGRY LOOT."

CAMERA FIENDS.

Sir,—While sympathising with the feeling that prompted R. E. Spect to protest against the use of cameras on Sunday last, I would suggest to him that he has taken a rather superficial view.

He was privileged to take part in a wonderful, impressive ceremony, a ceremony at which thousands of mothers and other relatives at home would have fain been present. But they were prevented.

There are thousands of them whose hearts are centred on some grave in Germany, and any news or idea they can get concerning the appearance and care of the hallowed spots will be treasured in sacred memory.

Some of the photographs taken on Sunday will be published in English papers, and hundreds of these will be put on one side with the treasured relics of the absent one. Would R. E. Spect prevent this?

As one who was present I can only say that the photographers made themselves as inconspicuous as possible and this statement is borne out by the photographs themselves.

R.E. SYMPATHY.

DO CHESS PLAYERS BECOME INSANE?

Sir,—My own observation leads me to the belief that it is quite likely.

Watch any two players, their entire attention directed to the game in hand, oblivious to everything.

Since my husband succumbed to the craze I have come to the conclusion that just as golf threatened to wreck domestic happiness, so will chess. J.B.

FOOTBALL REFEREES.

Sir,—Witnessing a match in the Stadtwald, the other day, I was surprised at the laxity of the referee.

On three occasions a player was badly fouled, the offender in each case being the same man. In the ordinary course of events, he should have received "Marching orders."

As it was the player who was fouled naturally retaliated and the result was that the two concerned came to loggerheads. Again the official only remonstrated with the offenders instead of ordering them off.

Why can't our referees be firm?

MARCHING ORDERS.

PRICES IN CANTEENS.

Sir,—"Old Contemptible's" knowledge of mathematics must be an invaluable asset to him, and I quite agree that 75 pfgs. is just over 1/-d in value, also that 50 pfgs. is worth just under 1/-d.

However, I regret that the emphatic reply does not in the least alter the fact that one can purchase a bar of Cadbury's chocolate at the Y.M.C.A. for 45 pfgs. and at any of the N.A.C.B. canteens the price is never under 75 pfgs.

Therefore, as the Y.M.C.A. will certainly make a profit I am quite safe in suggesting that nearly 100% profit is made on the article by the N.A.C.B.

My experience of canteens, although not great, is such that I have successfully run a canteen with moderate prices both on this side of the water, and in England, and further, I know what enormous profits can be made with quite reasonable prices.

My plea therefore for an immediate revision of N.A.C.B. price lists is certainly worth some consideration.

W. F. GEORGE.

PLAYS SOME PEOPLE WANT.

Sir,—I had hoped that correspondence on "Plays that are wanted" had ceased. However, I cannot leave "Anti-Highbrow's" letter unanswered.

I have promised "Durham Lad" a popular play, and he shall have it. I have not as yet decided which one, it entirely depends on whether I can secure the rights of a certain play which is now running in London. In the meanwhile, will "Anti-Highbrow" kindly give me the names of a few popular, wholesome, stirring plays he would suggest for the B.R.A.D.C.

The fact that by oversight or deliberately, part of my letter was not published, has resulted in "Anti-Highbrow" representing me in sackcloth and ashes, repenting for my past deeds; and promising to burn what I had worshipped and worship what I had burned.

Let me state once more that I do not intend abandoning a policy which I sincerely believe in and which the approval of the majority justifies me in running. A purely popular play now and again is not the result of any "writings on the wall" but a proof of my desire to please as many as possible and ignore no reasonable request.

S. E. PERCY, Lieut., O. i. c. B.R.A.D.C.

[It was merely the exigencies of space that necessitated the excision of a few lines from Lieut. Percy's last letter. This interesting correspondence must now cease. Ed.]

THE LIVERPOOL CUP.

High Class Field Expected to Contest To-morrow's Race.

MY DEAR'S CHANCE.

With the year's racing programme so rapidly concluding, it is not surprising that considerable interest is being focussed upon the Liverpool Autumn Cup race, which takes place to-morrow.

Everything points to a really good field, though the fact that several of the candidates have duplicate engagements makes it impossible to gauge the exact strength of the field until the stables have made their final declarations.

My Dear Top Weight.

My Dear, is top weight, with 3lb more than the burden she carried so creditably last Wednesday. Her trainer, Alec Taylor, also has Flying Spear (8st 2lb) and Tomatina (6st 11lb) engaged, and the former of this pair, as we saw at Newbury, is superior to the St. Leger winner Keysoe over a mile and a quarter. My Dear is also engaged in the Manchester November Handicap, but she will be allowed to take her chance to-morrow, and a very good chance it is, too.

Mr. George Lambton originally had four candidates, of which three accepted, viz., Rothesay Bay, Roseacre, and Glaciale, all of whom are the property of Lord Derby. All, however, have duplicate engagements.

Zinovia Retires?

Zinovia, it is understood, has run her last race, and it remains to be seen whether Grand Fleet, Seatwell, or Dominion is told off as Lord Glanely's representative.

Rich Gift ran very well under a big weight for the London Cup on Saturday, and has no more than 8st 5lb to carry at Liverpool, so that he must have an excellent chance if he can stay the distance. King John one hardly knows what to make of, as he alternately displays stamina and the lack of that attribute.

Cauette has been struck out, and presumably Captain Davy's beautiful filly has not yet recovered from her experience on the hard going at Kempton Park. Royal Bucks is another ill-suited by conditions as they are just now, and a liberal rainfall between now and Friday would materially enhance his prospects. Sir Berkeley ran well without being placed for the Cambridgeshire, but had 3lb the worst of the weights with My Dear; but Alasnam, who finished just in front of him last week, is 5lb to the good with the Manton filly. It is mainly a question as to which of the several candidates will be best suited by a course with turns as compared with the straight Newmarket track.

The Field.

My Dear (Mr. A. R. Cox) Taylor 4 9 5
Zinovia (Mr. Michalinos) F. Hunt 4 9 3
Grand Fleet (Ld. Glanely) Barling 5 9 1
Seatwell (Ld. Glanely) Barling 4 8 12
Rich Gift (Lady Torrington) Faulkner 5 8 5
King John (Capt. G. Loder) Gilpin 4 8 4
Planet (Mr. G. Barclay) Tabor 5 8 3
Flying Spear (Mr. W. M. Singer) Taylor 3 8 2
Dominion (Ld. Glanely) Barling 3 8 2
Royal Bucks (Lady Queensberry) Sievier 6 7 13
Sir Berkeley (Mr. J. White) Cottrill 4 7 7
African Star (Mr. T. Martin) Lines 3 7 4
Rothesay Bay (Ld. Derby) Lambton 3 7 2
Square Measure (Mr. Reid Walker) Rogers 4 7 0
Roseacre (Ld. Derby) Lambton 4 7 0
King's Idler (Mr. J. Shepherd) F. Hartigan 3 7 0
Alasnam (Sir A. Bailey) R. Day 3 6 13
Glaciale (Ld. Derby) Lambton 3 6 11
Maple Durham (Ld. Rosebery) F. Hartigan 3 6 11
Tomatina (Mr. Cazalet) Taylor 3 6 11
My Land (Mr. H.G. Keswick) Burns 4 6 10
Silvanite (Sir E. Hulton) Wootton 4 6 7
John Jackett (Mr. G. W. Smith) McCormack 6 6 5
Thermogene (Mr. J. McLean) J. McGuigan 4 6 3
Poilu (Mr. M. D. Blair) Whitaker 4 6 0

Will Another Outsider Win?

Our sporting contributor, "Marquis," wires that he considers the Liverpool Cup will be another outsider's race in view of the difficult course. He forecasts the result as follows:—

1, African Star.
2, Sir Berkeley.
3, My Dear.

MELBOURNE CUP.

Artilleryman wins in Record Time by Six Lengths.

At Flemington racecourse, the Melbourne Cup was run in ideal weather and there was a record attendance, estimated at 100,000. Result:

1, Artilleryman, (10 to 1); 2, Richmond Main; 3, Two Blues. Six lengths; half a length. Twenty ran.—Time: 3 mins., 29½ secs.

STABLE LAD AND JOCKEY.

At Epsom Police-court, Eric Foster (22), stable lad, was fined £5 for assaulting George Pellerin, a French jockey. According to evidence, Foster asked plaintiff if he was coming out on strike, and struck him. Foster asserted that Pellerin in unbuttoning his coat displayed a revolver, and he was afraid Pellerin was going to do him violence. A witness said Pellerin put his hand to his side, and Foster cried: "None of your French tricks here." It was stated that an appeal would be lodged.

NEWMARKET STABLES CHANGE HANDS.

Sir Henry Bird, an owner of racehorses, has purchased Landwades Hall Estate, Newmarket, including its training stables, from Brig. Gen. Baird. Sir Henry, who has been Mayor of Shoreditch eleven times, was defeated at the Municipal election. He trains with Mr. Robert Sievier.

Football Result.

A friendly football match played at Kalk between the 41st Labour Coy. and the 11th. Bn. The Queen's, resulted in a draw, no goals being scored.

THE DAY OF YOUTH.

How the Young are Replacing the Old in Football.

BY W. LE C.

Football to-day has a greater hold than ever, and looking over some figures I find a number of astonishing items.

In 1914-15 the Lancashire Association had a membership of 178 clubs. To-day they have 92, but they also have 118 associate members, over 30 Leagues in existence and 158 entries for their Shield Competition. Going south we find Essex County Football Association had in their record season before the war (1913—14) 269 clubs in membership. To-day in Essex there are 320 football clubs.

The Test of War.

The great game had a severe test during the war, but came through with flying colours, and while many a famous face is missing, many a new star is shining in its stead. How many of our League clubs are binding together sides of youngsters unheard of but four short years ago? We have not far to seek for the reason. Many players have come back and are filling their old places but to numbers of them time has been unkind. Even if stamina has been preserved that fleetness and quickness of movement which was theirs, has suffered. The speed they possessed which made all the difference of half a yard or that fraction of a second, has gone from them for ever. They know that in a game where speed is so vital a factor their shortcomings are magnified. Club managers know it too, hence the reason for the young players being so much to the fore.

Stars of the Future.

In their ranks there will be the future Penningtons and Buchans, whom all clubs are seeking. Those who think they know and are saying with a knowing smile: "Wait and see" might well think of the words "A football team is made with patience and judgment and the developed skill of youth".

The Army has produced thousands of players, and its contributions to the ranks of the professional run into large figures. This has shocked many people who regard a professional as a leper. If a man can sing or is an artiste in another direction no one reproaches him should he accept engagements and receive payment for so doing. If he plays football for money he is an outcast. Isn't it farcical how some folk reason?

The teams of to-day are benefiting by the changes. Each youngster is a trier and out for his place. The old "lights" are waning but many a new star is shooting up into football's firmament. Here's to the youngsters of to-day, the stars of to-morrow.

YORKSHIRE AMATEURS.

New Leeds Club Ambitions for Second League.

Having decided to take over the Leeds City football ground, the new club, the Yorkshire Amateurs, are now considering making an application for admission to the Second Division of the League.

The reasons in favour of such a course being adopted are many and sound. It is argued, for instance, that the inclusion of an English amateur club in the League would bring together ex-university and public school boys. In the ordinary course of events, it is fairly generally agreed, boys who are extremely clever players in their days of study, leave school and automatically drop out of the game.

Big Liabilities.

The new club have rented the Elland road ground, Leeds, at a cost of £250 a year, but it is feared that the class of fare they will be able to offer will not attract sufficient support to justify such heavy liability.

In point of talent, the club is in a very satisfactory position, the players already secured including several first-class men. There is Capt. O'Kelly, a former Queen's Park player as well as Jeffery, the ex-amateur Leeds City goalkeeper.

13 GOALS TO 1.

Football Association's Sweeping Victory over Oxford.

The powerful eleven of amateurs and professionals chosen by the Football Association overwhelmed the University at Oxford gaining a victory by no fewer than 13 goals to one. On a bleak, wet afternoon, the first of the matches arranged by the Football Association with the idea of encouraging amateurs scarcely proved the success expected.

During the first half, when six goals were scored, H. P. Ward put through his own goal, and the scorers were Puddefoot, who kicked two goals, W. E. Payne, of Leytonstone, the centre half, Grimsdell, England's left half, and R. Sloley.

After change of ends, Major R. H. Allen added two goals, Sloley obtained three, and Puddefoot two—one from a penalty. T. F. Jackson had the satisfaction of replying for Oxford.

Oxford.—H. C. Whinney; W. Bannister, H. P. Ward; L. Whatton, A. Butcher, E. Blaxland, E. Bladnock, M. Howell, R. Holdsworth, F. Jackson, H. Read.

F. A. XI.—Reynolds; Elvey, Harrow; R. F. Popham, W. E. Payne, Grimsdell; Rutherford, Major R. H. Allen, Puddefoot, R. W. Sloley, Penn.

CORNWALL v DEVON.

The following team has been selected to represent Devon, at Camborne, on Saturday, Nov. 15:—

Bundlark (Newton Abbot), Butcher (Plymouth), Lyde (Plymouth), Muir (Torquay), Bradford (Exmouth), Hoskins (Plymouth), S. Hoskin (R.N. Depot) Wright (Plymouth), Edwards (R.N. Depot), Golding (R.N. Depot), Davey (Torquay), Northway (Torquay), Emmett (Newton Abbot), Sharpe (Newton Abbot), Nelson (Exmouth).

"Boy" Morkel for Blackheath.

W. H. Morkel, the famous South African forward, is in England, and will probably turn out for Blackheath at an early date.

FALKINER'S GREAT START

Champion 3,761 Behind His Rival on Monday Night.

SMITH DOING WELL.

The Burroughes and Watts "Victory" Billiards Tournament, as announced yesterday, opened on Monday, the chief feature of the day being a brilliant display by Falkiner in his match with Inman, the champion. Falkiner received 2,000, Inman being scratch, and the scores at the close of Monday's play were:—

Falkiner 5,333
Inman 1,572

Thus the former has increased his 2,000 advantage to 3,761, a substantial margin.

As stated, the other handicaps are:—

Stephenson receives 500
Newman " 1,500
Peall (res) " 4,000

In the Newman and Smith match, of 16,000 up level, for £50 a side, the closing scores were:—

Smith (in play).....2,666
Newman 2,002

AN AUSTRALIAN VICTORY.

Tibby Watson Accounts for Danny Thrush in Four Rounds.

The principal bout at the N.S.C. on Monday was that between Tibby Watson, the ex-amateur Australian feather-weight champion, and Danny Thrush, an Aldgate boxer, who, after some experience in American rings, joined the U.S.A Navy and came back to Europe as a fighting man. The Londoner had advantages of height and reach, and he made the best use of them in the first round. Continuing to make the fullest use of the ring in the second round, Thrush kept his left hand very busy, and again he got home with a hard right-hand punch to the jaw, while a little later he sent the Australian staggering and almost down with a straight left to the face.

Again in the third round Thrush did well, and showed himself to be a hard puncher as well as a good boxer. Incidentally also, it showed Watson to be built of the right stuff for the game, for after he had been "stung" with a heavy right on the ear he literally flung himself at his opponent, and had him on the floor twice before the end of the round. Thrush recovered during the interval and began the fourth round with any amount of dash, but he could not keep out of Watson's way, and after taking a short count from a body blow was sent down for good from a fierce right in the same place.

GODDARD'S WEAKNESS.

Has he Learnt the Art of Self-defence?

We shall know as a result of the Goddard-McLaglen fight whether the former has succeeded in learning anything about the art of self-defence. Goddard has the physique and the temperament for a heavy-weight champion, but he will never make good if he cannot be taught to mingle brains with his boxing. If only he had, say, Eddie McGoorty's skill and ringcraft we should have a man who could hold his own even with the gigantic Fulton the most dangerous heavy-weight probably seen since Jeffries was in his prime.

WALTER ROSS'S EASY WIN.

The reopening of Hoxton Baths on Monday afternoon drew a crowded house. The programme was varied, and produced some good contests, chief of which was that between the present bantam-weight champion, Walter Ross, of Glasgow, and Jim Lewis, of Merthyr. They were matched for 20 rounds, but Ross proved too strong and rugged for the Welshman, whose seconds threw in the towel during the fifth round.

BILLY FRY'S SUCCESS.

The match of 20 3-min rounds for £100 a side between Billy Fry, of Tylorstown, and Charlie Webb, of Bow, at The Ring on Monday afternoon, created a good deal of interest, apart from the fact that it was a genuine money match, for it was thought the winner would have to be considered when a challenger is required at the lightweight limit. The match was at 9st 9lb.

The contest, contrary to expectations, proved very disappointing, for Webb failed badly to live up to his reputation, and after he had had a very bad time for ten rounds he was disqualified for holding and lying on.

LEE TO BOX IN PARIS.

The feather-weight championship of Europe will be decided at the Cirque de Paris on November 14, when De Ponthieu, the French champion, will meet Tancy Lee, says the "Daily Chronicle."

The latter is not only champion of England, but won the belt offered by Lord Lonsdale as his personal property, by reason of victories over Charlie Hardcastle in 1917, Joe Conn in 1918, and Dann Morgan in February 1919.

YACHT-RACING FIXTURES.

The following yacht-racing fixtures have already been arranged for next year:

July 11-14 (inclusive)—Olympic Races at Ostend; July 15, Dover to Ostend; July 16, Ostend to Flushing; July 17, Flushing to Hauswort; July 18, Hauswort to Antwerp; July 19 and 20, Antwerp Regatta; July 21, Antwerp to Hauswort; July 22, Flushing to Ostend; July 23 and 24, Ostend Regatta.

University Boxing.

After a lapse of five years the Oxford University Boxing Club has been revived, and is now showing great activity. Excellent instructors are available in Sergeant Morley (Grenadier Guards) and Corporal Richings (R. E.), who have a number of promising pupils.

SOCCER 'NATIONAL.

England's Amateur Team against Ireland.

SEVEN NEW CAPS.

The F.A. Selection Committee has chosen the following players to represent England against Ireland in the amateur international match to be played at Derby on Saturday, Nov. 15.

F. J. Mitchell (Northern Nomads); L. Golightly (Darlington); A. E. Knight (Portsmouth) (capt.); R. F. Popham (Casuals); Rev. K. R. G. Hunt (Corinthians); Lieut. C. W. Harbidge (Reading); Lieut. Harvey (Sheffield Wednesday); M. Howell (Oxford University); S. S. Prince (R.A.M.C.); R.W. Sloley (Corinthians); R.W. Gandar-Dower (Casuals).

Reserves to travel with team: G. Atkinson (Bishop Auckland), A. R. Hawes (Norwich City). Referee, Mr. J. Holmes (Derby). England, linesman, Mr. T. S. Seppton (Derby). In charge of team, Mr. Morgan Roberts.

There are seven new caps in the team, the four who have previously been honoured being A. E. Knight, Rev. K. R. G. Hunt, R. F. Popham, and S.S. Prince. The team includes some surprise selections, but it has great possibilities.

FROM CRICKET TO FOOTBALL.

Cricketers have taken an unusually large part in this term's Varsity football matches. At Oxford M. Howell, D. J. Knight, and R. L. Holdsworth have played in the Association team; and F. A. Waldock, C. H. L. Skeet (last year's twelfth man), and L. P. Hedges (the Kent cricketer) in the Rugby team. At Cambridge A. E. R. Gilligan and T. W. Mansergh (the old Marlburian) have represented the University at Rugby; and J. S. F. Morrison, N. E. Partridge (the old Malvernian), and H. Ashton (the old Wykehamist who played so well at Lords this year) have played in the Association team.

ARMY HOCKEY TOURNAMENT.

Eight Commands to Find Best Team.

An Army inter-unit hockey tournament will be held this season, open to all units stationed in Great Britain and Ireland. Each of the eight commands will find its best team by March 1, 1920. A knock-out tournament between the eight selected teams will commence at Aldershot during the third week in March, 1920.

ARMY TRIAL MATCHES.

(a) Aldershot Command v. Southern Command, Dec. 11, 1919.
(b) London District v. Eastern Command, by Dec. 31, 1919.
(c) Western Command v Northern Command, by Dec. 31, 1919.
(d) Army Trial, Possibles v. Probables, Jan. 14, 1920, Aldershot.

ARMY FIXTURES.

Feb. 4, 1920.—Army v. Oxford University, at Oxford.
Feb. 18, 1920.—Army v. Cambridge University, at Cambridge.
March 27, 1920.—Army v. Royal Navy, on a Naval ground.
March 31, 1920.—Army v. R.A.F., at Aldershot.

HOCKEY INTERNATIONALS.

Fixtures Arranged for the Present Season.

The following is the list of the hockey international trial matches fixed for the present season:—

Jan. 10.—South v. West, on neutral ground.
Jan. 17.—North v. West, in Midlands.
Jan. 31.—Midlands v. East, in Midlands.
Feb. 7.—East v. South, in East.
Feb. 14.—Midlands v. South, in South.
Feb. 21.—North v. Midlands, in North.
Feb. 26.—England v. Rest, in London.

The following are the dates of the international matches:—

March 6.—v. Wales, in Wales.
March 20.—v. Scotland, in England.
March 27.—v. Ireland, in Ireland.

BELOW THE BELT.

Drastic Dealing with Hitting Low Habit Advocated.

Dealing with the regrettable incident at the termination of the Townley-Balzac fight E. B. O. writing to the "Morning Post" says:

Hitting low, I think, should be much more severely penalised than is at present the case either here or in France. It often happens, of course, that the man who delivers the blow is not really to blame for its unhappy consequences. The blow, though not aimed below the belt, has its direction depressed by the recipient. In such cases it seldom happens that much harm is done if the proper protective appliances are worn, a precaution which every boxer should take, whether professional or amateur, and every controller of a boxing entertainment insist on.

The Swinging Low Habit.

But the habit of swinging low at the body is much commoner than it used to be, and the result is that there is a veritable epidemic of hitting low. This being so, it is the obvious duty of all referees to deal drastically with every systematic offender. Men who box in good style never hit below the belt by any chance; I have never seen Driscoll or Wilde commit this dangerous offence, and am sure nobody else has. A first offence may be dismissed with a warning, if the referee thinks fit. But in my opinion a second offence should always be punished with the loss of the contest.

South African's Return.

H. W. Taylor, the South African, who is now playing regularly as one of the Blackheath three-quarters, is expected to sail for South Africa in a few weeks' time.

Blackheath-Guy Match postponed.

The match between Blackheath and Guy's Hospital, fixed for Nov. 18, has been postponed at the request of the Guy's men, several of whom are playing for R. V. Stanley's XV. against Oxford University on the previous day.

AMUSEMENTS AND RECREATIONS.

Army Troops Sports Officer.

In a very short time, Lieut D. A. Onions, who, for some months has been the popular Sports Officer for the Headquarters and Army Troops, will bid farewell to the Amusements Office in Cologne. From many circles, where he has become a well known figure, Mr. Onions will be badly missed. An organisation that will suffer by no means the least as a result of his departure will be the Rhine Army Dramatic Company, in whose productions he has scored many complete successes. His sunny ways have endeared him to the members of the Company and his audiences alike, Mr. Onions is to be succeeded as Sports Officer by Lieut. W. M. Lyon, of the 5th Labour Company, who has had a life-long experience in all phases of sport. I hear, as a matter of fact, that Mr. Lyon was due at the Amusements Office when that department was first opened, but exigences of the service prevented his arrival.

"The Eccentrics."

Palace audiences are nightly unstinting in showing their appreciation of the capital entertainments provided by the latest variety company to arrive in Rhineland. In the first place, the association with the party of the name of Mr. Alfred Hurley, who at a timely moment introduced us to "The Jesters," was sufficient to pack the house on Monday. There after "The Eccentrics" were able to proceed on their own steam, so to speak, by virtue of the unoubted ability of each artiste whose quota is added to the performance. Perhaps the chief attraction is the celebrated "Datas," the memory man who is not only able to answer all questions — likely and unlikely — with which members of the audience bombard him, but the possession of a quick wit enables him to reply readily to the occasional wags who request answers to impossible questions.

* * *

Then there is Mr. Warwick Pryce, a refreshing entertainer at the piano who alternately sings, talks, and plays the piano with the happiest of results. Each evening this week, his reception has been extremely enthusiastic and certainly well deserved. Quite one of the most popular artistes in the programme however is Miss Gwladys Stanley, for whose services yesterday evening, the audience displayed a perfect gluttony (if I may be pardoned the word). The average purveyor of bright and dainty little ditties usually depends for the success of her efforts upon a pleasing countenance, a pretty frock, graceful movement and a catchy melody. Miss Stanley embraces all these qualities and on top of them adds a voice of wonderful purity, range and tone—a rare combination, indeed! The "Waltz Song" from "Tom Jones" yesterday delighted her hearers beyond measure, a number that was rather more substantial than the others she selected.

* * *

Miss Marjorie Bowya and Mr. Powell-Eastbery work an enjoyable double turn with a piano and at various stages of the programme reveal the fact that versatility is not the least of their recommendations. The male member of the brace is an agreeable baritone, a really humorous comedian and a pianist of considerable skill, while Miss Bowya wins liberal applause for her violin playing, much favourable comment for her vocalism and murmurs of surprise (by reason of her all-round cleverness) when she, too, plays the piano. Last, but by no means least, there is Miss Marguerite de Lara, whose card manipulations are thoroughly mystifying. The enjoyment of her turn is added to by a fascinating personality. What more happy ingredients could one desire for the making of an entertainment?

Pianoforte Recital.

The well-known piano virtuoso, Edwin Fischer, is announced to appear at the Dischsaal on Friday. His programme will include representative selections from the works of Bach, Zeger, Schumann, Schubert and Mozart.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Thurs.	Tannhäuser	Wagner	6.30	9.30
Fri.	Hoffmann's Erzählungen	Offenbach	7	10
Sat.	Mignon	Thomas	7	9.15
Sun.	Lohengrin	Wagner	5.30	10
Mon.	Cav. Rusticana Der Bajazzo	Mascagni Leoncavallo	7	10
Tues.	Die Entführung aus dem Serail	Mozart	7	10

A Jesting "Jester".

An impression of Mr. Harry King, who, with "The Jesters", sparkles and gags most successfully. He has had a life-long experience in the art of laughter-producing.

JACQUES.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Galaxy of Stars Competing at Sporting Club de Paris.

A galaxy of stars will be competing at the Sporting Club de Paris for the world's covered courts championships, starting on Saturday, Nov. 15.

Max Decugis, the famous French player, who is at present in London, states that the following are expected to enter:—The lady champion, Mlle Suzanne Lenglen, Andre Gobert, M. Germot, Georges Manset, M. Decugis, W. H. Laurentz, C. P. Dixon, M. J. G. Ritchie, H. Portlock, N. Mishu, P. W. Sherwell (the South African wicket-keeper), H. A. Parker, Mrs. Beamish Mrs. O'Neill, Mrs Satterthwaite, Mme. Billout (nee Broquedis), Mrs. Golding, and the sisters Amolard.

Two stands have been erected for the accommodation of spectators, while the visiting players will be treated with the usual hospitality shown to sportsmen by Parisians. The organisation of the programme and management of the meeting will be undertaken by Mr G. M. Simond (of Queen's Club), the well-known Continental referee and handicapper. Any intending players should write to M. Decugis, c/o the Sporting Club de Paris, 154, Rue Saussuse, Paris, 17.

Demob'd ex-Champion Boxer.

Alf. Spencer, the ex-light-weight amateur champion, has just been demobilized. He joined up in the early days of the war.

Record Gate in France.

The growing popularity of football in France was evidenced in the last match of the London League in Paris, when a £1,000 gate was taken.

ANOTHER SOLO WINNER.

Private Gains 2,289 Marks With Ten Correct Results.

We publish to-day, the result of Football Contest No. 6. Despite the topsy-turvy results, many competitors came very near to success, no fewer than seven giving nine correct results. The winning coupon showed ten correct forecasts and was submitted by:—

86920, Pte. F. Marsden,
52nd Manchester's,
Attd. Provost Marshal,
Cologne,

who thus becomes entitled to the prize money amounting to 2,289 marks.

The fortunate entrant is to be congratulated upon being the sole winner. Only twice has our prize been won outright, a remarkable fact considering the large number of competitors.

No. 7 Contest's closing date is drawing near. Have you posted your effort yet?

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 7,
"Cologne Post",
A.P.O. S./40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 7.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov. 8th.
Closing date, Friday, Nov. 7th.

West Bromwich A.	v. Aston Villa
Middlesboro	v. Newcastle U.
Arsenal	v. Bolton W.
Burnley	v. Manchester U.
Stoke	v. Bristol City
Leicester	v. West Ham
Coventry	v. Huddersfield
Queens Park R.	v. Millwall
Southampton	v. Southend
Luton	v. Crystal Palace
St. Mirren	v. Hearts
Partick T.	v. Rangers

I enter Football Competition No 7 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed _____
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. _____

Unit _____

Full Address _____

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Ask Him.

Has anybody asked Datas, the marvellous memory man the number of entrants in our first Football Contest. I wonder if he knows.

Lengthy German Words.

I alluded the other day to lengthy German words, and I have since encountered several even more formidable. There is one which means "a limited liability for insuring crops against damage by hail". Out of solicitude for the proof readers I will refrain from mentioning it.

The Potato Shortage.

If an English housewife finds difficulty in securing a supply of potatoes she must not be surprised. The authorities have already prohibited the sale of this article of food to British troops.

Sports Papers.

If a multiplicity of sports papers will make a sports loving nation or a nation of athletes, the Germans ought to rival us some day. The number of German periodicals of this descrip ion on sale in Cologne is about as great as the number of fashion papers for women.

Y.M.C.A. Posters.

I would suggest to the authorities at the Central Y.M.C.A., Cologne, that the lay out of their posters announcing the day's events, might be considerably improved. The day and date are printed in such small type that one has to approach to very close quarters to read them.

The Cheap Franc.

Several officers I know who are planning leave to Paris are chuckling at the increased spending power the franc at about 36 to the pound will give them. I hope they won't be disappointed.

"The Whip."

When the curtain rose yesterday evening at the Opera House, an officer sitting beside me, said "Gee, what a stage for 'The Whip'." I agreed. But what would opera enthusiasts say of this sensational racing drama ever staged, out here?

Printed Food Prices.

All cafés, hotels and restaurants must now display printed price lists. But what about those wine lists which should be displayed, but very rarely appear on the tables of cabarets?

Beware.

The other evening an aquaintance of mine handing his overcoat over in a well-known Concert hall placed his pocket case on the counter. The Frau took his coat from him and he made to lift his case, but alas a member of the light-fingered gentry had been there before him. Such gentry are very common, I hear.

Fraulein's Teeth.

The reason the girls in Germany have generally such sound white teeth is accounted for by the fact that from childhood they pay regular visits to the dentist.

THOSE SOUVENIRS!

Private Swingit of the Tank Corps, on demob, takes his spare kit to the Nation.

That big Sum.

In a few days time the result of the competition "What would I do with $12,000 if I won it?" will be given, and probably some extracts from the letters sent in, the Editor tells me.

A Mascot.

I noticed the other afternoon what was evidently a cadre of a Scottish Battalion marching down Hohe Strasse, with a mascot, a smartly groomed little donkey. It was a source of interest to many youngsters who flocked behind.

Incidentally.

I have mentioned before the absence of the donkey from the streets of Cologne. Curiously enough, half an hour later I saw another "moke" drawing a florist's cart near the Dom.

Lodging Profiteering.

I hear much grumbling at the prices being asked for accommodation now that certain hotels in Cologne have had to close their doors. Commerical men who suffer from the shortage are asking for protection.

Falling Numbers.

The number of War Savings certificates sold in the Rhine Army during the four weeks ending October 11th, 1919, was 19,943. This compares with 50,907 and and 71,116 in the two respective months previously.

True.

I saw a funeral the other day, the first I have seen since I came to the Perfume City. How many have you seen?

Typing.

I noticed a typist in a Cologne office the other day who had lost the forefinger of her left hand. She cleverly substituted her thumb for the missing member and was as speedy as any typist I have met.

Leave Train Changes.

On and after November 10th the leave trains from Victoria Station to Dover will be limited to three trains daily, timed to depart at 03.33, 07.36 and 07.50 hours. All men returning from leave must report to the R.T.O., Victoria Station, by 06.30 hours. In the case of any men returning off leave from Scotland and the North of England, who may arrive in London after the departure of the 07.50 train, arrangements will be made for their accommodation in London until the following morning. The Staff Train will in future leave Victoria Station at 12.20 instead of 12.55 hours.

Enterprising.

Already several German shops are stocking English Christmas cards. One I passed yesterday had a large assortment especially of the silk variety.

Vacancies for Motor Drivers.

There are a number of vacancies on the establishment of the Rhineland High Commission for R.A.S.C. motor car drivers. Applicants must be demobilizable, and if selected will be demobilized and appointed to the High Commission. The rates of pay have not yet been definitely fixed, but will not be less than £3 per week, and 40 marks per diem subsistence allowance. Names of drivers who are desirous of appointment, together with statements as to their experience in driving of motor cars, should be submitted as early as possible to D.A.G., G.H.Q.

Rate of Exchange.

The following rates of exchange are officially notified from November 1st. 10 marks equals 1s. 8d.; 5 francs (French or Belgian) equals 2s. 9d. One mark equals 30 centimes.

RHINELANDER.

A LEGEND OF THE NEUMARKT.

In the New Market, Cologne, there may be seen peering from the garret windows of one of the buildings, two wooden horses' heads,—pure white. The following legend is connected with them:

About the middle of the 15th century, Cöln was in the grip of the Plague. The terrible sign of death, the Black Cross, could be seen everywhere. Thousands upon thousands died; rich and poor alike were unable to stand against the destroying angel. In a magnificent home close by the Church of the Apostles in the Neumarkt, Mengis von Aducht lived. Wealth could not save his house; his young, beautiful wife, Richmodis, fell a victim to the plague.

Mengis was inconsolable. The whole night he spent in solitary vigil, guarding the dead, and then he himself dressed her in her white wedding gown, covered her with her precious jewels and rings, and gave orders for the burial.

The night after the interment, a clear, starry night, the old legend says, about midnight the German counterparts of those two awful figures painted by Ainsworth in his "Old St. Pauls," might have been seen stealing into the grave yard Perfect silence prevailed in God's acre, and these two ghoulish figures quickly set to at their awful task, robbing the dead. They had seen the priceless stones which had been buried with the dead woman, and the curse of the ages, greed, spurred them on in their gruesome work. Soon the coffin was laid bare; in their haste they burst open the lid, and the bolder of the two wretches seized the white hands, folded as if in prayer, and tried to tear off the rings.

Suddenly the body quivered, the hands spread out, and a long sigh arose from the pale figure in the coffin. Aghast, the robbers, whose hair stood on end and who were as white as their victim, scrambled in utmost terror out of the tomb, and fled incontinently.

After some time, Richmodis, pale as death, which she was thought to have been a victim to, emerged from her temporary grave. Horror-struck she gazed about her: was it a ghastly dream or was it true. A chilly, deadly silence answered her cry for help. Making her way from the churchyard as well as her failing strength would allow her, passing through the desolate streets, seen only by the silent stars, she came at last to her home.

The house of sorrow was all in darkness, save for a faint light shining from the room of her dear husband, Mengis. With an effort she summoned her strength and pulled the bell-rope.

After a few minutes, an old servant put his head through the casement, and seeing the white form of his mistress, whom he thought to be dead, cried out in terror and rushed to his master. "God in Heaven, the dead arise: outside stands ourgood mistress and demands entrance," he stammered forth when he had regained breath.

Mengis only shook his head in his deep sorrow. "Richmodis, my beloved wife, is dead and will never return, never, never. I will rather believe that my two white horses will burst from their halters in the stable and mount the stairs to the tower," he declared.

An awful noise suddenly shook the house, and Mengis von Aducht and his old servant saw the two white horses tearing up the stairs. A moment later the old Mengis, laughing and crying with joy, held in his sheltering arms his lovely wife restored to him from the grave, while his snow white steeds looked out of the garret windows into the quiet night.

J. J.

All ranks of the Rhine Army are invited to contribute to this paper. Every article published will be paid for and none should exceed 500 words in length.

AROUND AND ABOUT.

NATURAL COLOUR FILMS.

A new process is forthcoming which, according to experts who have examined it, is a practical solution of the problem of taking films in their natural colours. It is based on the three-colour process, and costs 15 to 20 per cent. more than the ordinary black-and-white negative, and can be shown by an ordinary projector. The use of this invention opens a new field to the film producer, and its scope is as yet untested. The star of the black-and-white film may not be the leading artist of the coloured picture. The very points that make her beautiful in black-and-white may be to her disadvantage in the other medium. A new type of film beauty may be required, and new rules of selecting film faces will have to be framed. It is hoped to reproduce much of Shakespeare with faithful scenery and costumes.

LOST MARRIAGE CERTIFICATES.

I wandered into the "Marriage and Miscellaneous" department at Somerset House yesterday, says a writer in the "Pall Mall Gazette," and found the room crowded with officers flourishing green-lettered forms with the word "Marriage" writ large upon them. Upon inquiry I was told that these high-spirited young men—for they were in the best of spirits—belonged to the absent-and-careless-minde beggar class who, having lost their marriage certificates, were clamouring "repeats," in order to be able to claim the new extra pay and ration allowance for married officers, which a cautious Government refuses to disburse unless the applicant's marriage certificate or a copy thereof be produced. Said the breezy-looking captain who had given me this information, "I haven't the foggiest idea in what year I was married, but it must have been eight or ten years ago." And there are sentimental couples who actually annually celebrate the anniversary of their wedding day!

SUNLIGHT AS A REMEDY.

A member of the staff of the National Hospital, Copenhagen, publishes the results of some new experiments concerning the effects of sunbeams on human health. Dr. Finsen's discovery of the healing effects of sunshine in cases of lupus, and Dr. Reyn's statements concerning its surprising effects in tuberculosis treatment, have created a widespread popular belief in Scandinavia in the curative power of sunlight acting on the bare skin. In consequence all Danish bathing places are filled with people who, after a short dip, doze for hours in the sun. The Danish doctor now states that sunlight has bad effects in many cases, and is often the original cause of skin disease, especially epithelial cancer (cancer of the skin or mucous membrane). Protection against light, he says, should be part of the treatment in this disease. People of fair complexion are more liable to the disease than brunettes, and should be careful to wear hats and gloves. Veils are of no use.

THE MOST VIOLENT STORMS.

The most violent storms known anywhere on earth occur in the interior of the North American continent, especially in the Middle Western United States, and most frequently in late spring and summer. Their most conspicuous feature is a whirling black cloud, hanging from a mass of dark storm clouds. This cloud may be funnel-shaped, or balloon-shaped, or like the trunk of a huge elephant. It is really a waterspout on land, though larger than the marine waterspout. It sweeps over a path averaging a quarter of a mile in width and about 25 miles in length. Wherever it touches the earth it accomplishes feats of devastation surpassing those lately achieved by human agencies in France and Belgium. In comparison with the area covered by a cyclone, one of these storms is of insignificant size. These storms are known to meteorologists as "tornadoes." In popular parlance they are almost universally described as "cyclones."

BOULEVARD WIT.

Boulevard wit in Paris has never been sparing of politicians, and the following epigram on the "Big Four" at the Peace Conference is going the rounds in Paris: "One of them knew nothing; another thought he knew everything; the third only believed the little he did know; the fourth may have known something, but was always silent." It is left to political prejudice to distribute these verdicts. The epigram is attributed, probably quite apocryphally, to Marshal Foch.

MISOGYNIC MEANDERINGS.

A correspondent, who is obviously wifeless, sends along several plaints concerning the presence of women at the Ewige Lampe. I cannot really take him seriously as his letter indicates liver trouble in great yellow patches and he probably doesn't mean it at all.

* * *

First of all he objects from being prohibited from taking his 5 o'clock in No 1 Club unless he produces a lady companion and suggests that the place is a club and not a cabaret. This strikes me as being illogical because the enormous room in the annexe is never overcrowded at tea-time and there he has his "club." It seems that really he is hankering after cabaretic capers and if so, should fulfil the conditions.

* * *

Then he wishes for a room at the Ewige devoted exclusively to the male, so that he may dine in peace "away from the chit-chat of many babbling tongues. I would suggest a monastery, for most of" us have had enough of the Eveless Eden (or hell) during the past five years. Did he ever dine in peace away from babbling tongues in a Rest House?

* * *

Finally our correspondent has the temerity to criticise the dress of the fair sex. Heavens, what next? He wishes to have an "evening dress rule" enforced, and would forbid such things as coats and skirts, mufflers, hats and veils. We confess that he is on ice too thin for us to accompany him here. It seems so very abandoned. But we would suggest that many of the ladies are on flying visits and are not carting all the spare kit about in these carless days, while others have come straight from duty and have had no time to change into glad rags.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

The Latest Plaint.—Paris is without salt

For Brazil.—An American aerial squadron is to visit Brazil.

More Wanted. — An additional fresh-water reservoir is to be built at Gibraltar.

Authority.— France has authorized the wearing of the Inter-Allied War Medal.

No Censorship.— Serbia has abolished the political censorship.

Electioneering.—France is in the throes of an election campaign.

Fryatt's Ship.—The Brussels is to be towed from Zeebrugge to Antwerp.

Cars.—The Motor Show opens at the Olympia at the end of this week.

Joy Barred.—There will be no carnival at Nice this winter.

No Trams. — Tramway strikes are spreading in Germany.

Sporty Rector.—Jazz dances are being held in a parish church hall at Willesden.

Speeding up.—Middlesex County Council wants to run omnibuses.

The Favoured One.—Rhondda miners are out over a dispute about one man.

Teaching the Young Idea.—In Carnarvon, boys' cookery classes are being held.

Expensive Celebration.—Fireworks are up 100 per cent. in price.

Developing Wireless. — The Marconi Company is raising its capital to £3,000,000.

The Rampant.—Over twenty cases of "flu" are being treated at Edmonton Infirmary.

Old Iron.—Abertillery District Council has declined to accept a German machine gun.

Divorce Chief.—Sir Henry Duke has taken his seat as the new President of the Divorce Division.

Counting the Cost.—A patient in a Bedford asylum cost the ratepayers £1,000 in 37 years.

Scandalous.—Brest quays are said to be encumbered with flour and wheat which are rotting.

Pre-War Service.—Great Central Railway Company is resuming its service of steamers between Grimsby and Hamburg.

Remembering the Poilu.—Eight rooms at the Paris Autumn Salon devoted to painting are reserved for artist soldiers.

Are Others?—Sir Auckland Geddes says he is satisfied with the working of the Profiteering Act.

Back to Front Bodices.—An endeavour is being made in Paris to revert to eighteenth century patterns of décolleté.

Economy.—Only one pair of spectacles will be issued at the public expense to each soldier in future.

A Fine Point.—It is estimated that London motor buses make only one involuntary stop for every 10,000 miles run.

Premium Bonds.—Two hundred M.P.s favour an immediate issue of premium bonds.

Sick Prelate.—The aged Bishop of St. Albans, who is relinquishing his see, is in a critical state of health.

"P.M.'s" Patronage.—The Prime Minister has consented to become patron of the London Welsh Regimental Association.

Lunar Eclipse.—On Friday evening there will be a partial eclipse of the moon.

The Old Favourite.—The Shah concluded his London engagements with a visit to "Chu Chin Chow."

Upheaval.—The fusing of an electric cable caused an upheaval of wood blocks in Holborn.

Foreign Glass Again.—Austrian-made glasses are arriving in England again in considerable quantities.

Home.—Two thousand troops from India for demobilization have landed at Plymouth.

Dutch Aviation. — A Dutch Aviation Company has been established at The Hague.

Imports Verboten — Australia has prohibited the importation of many articles, except under Government licence.

"Yank" Legion.—An American Legion for service in Lithuania is to sail from the Gironde.

Canadian Effort.— Subscriptions to the Canadian Victory Loan have reached $36,000,000.

German Crime. — Between 25th Sept. and 52th October, 436 burglars and thieves were imprisoned in Hanover.

One Way.—Owing to the lack of small change, French racing associations propose to use metal counters.

Helping the Men. — War bonuses of £194,000 are included in a Bill which passed the New Zealand Parliament.

Co-Partner Farm. — The Marquis of Graham is going to run his sporting estate as a farm on the co-partnership principle.

Poor Kiddies.—Doctors say the starchy food now eaten in England is bad for the young. And now milk is a shilling a quart.

Watch for Them.—The Earl of Cavan, who distinguished himself in command of the Brigade of Guards in the war, is lecturing on "The Next War."

Meant Well.—Every newspaper is liable to printer's errors. One of the Paris dailies mentioned "Cagbebwell" yesterday. It meant "Camberwell."

Ready to Fight.—Who said war had ended? Chili and Peru are as near a conflict as possible. The trouble has been brewing for years.

No Defence.—At Aix-la-Chapelle revolutionaries have fired on a train of Belgian troops returning from leave unarmed.

20,000 CARS A YEAR.

Among the new British recruits to the policy of mass production methods, the advantages of which have been repeatedly pointed out in these columns, is the Wolseley Motor Car Co. of Birmingham. This company announces that they have been able to reorganise and expand their works with a view to the mass production of three models, a light car, a 15-h.p. touring-car, and a six-cylinder car. The new factory space for carrying out this scheme covers about 100 acres. Special machinery for the new method of construction is being installed and will be completed early in 1920. When in full swing it is hoped to turn out cars at the rate of 20,000 a year.

BY APPOINTMENT

As illustrated, £4 10 0 — Half-Hunter Cover, £5 7 6

Luminous Watches

THE "Military" Luminous Watch (illustrated) is fully luminous at night; it is contained in a one-piece Solid Silver screw case that makes it dust and damp proof. An accurate timekeeper, this watch is indispensable for Naval or Military Service, being of highest quality and proved reliability. A Catalogue will be posted free on request.

The Goldsmiths and Silversmiths Company have no branch establishments in Regent Street, Oxford Street, or elsewhere—in London—only one address, 112 REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.1.

THE GOLDSMITHS & SILVERSMITHS COMPANY LTD.
with which is incorporated The Goldsmiths Alliance Ltd. Est. 1751
JEWELLERS TO HIS MAJESTY THE KING.
112 Regent Street, London, W.1.

WANTED

FOR "THE COLOGNE POST" STAFF

1. ONE ACCOUNTANT. To take charge of the whole of the accounts of the paper under the supervision of the Managing Editor.
2. ONE LEDGER CLERK. One used to newspaper accounts preferred, but accounts are fairly simple and any experienced clerk could do the work.
3. ONE REPORTER. Experienced in general reporting work.
4. ONE PROOF-READER. Must be a man of good education and wide general knowledge with experience in proof reading.
5. ONE GERMAN-SPEAKING PRINTER. To supervise German compositors. Knowledge of newspaper work required.

The above are urgently needed and application should be submitted at once. Officers and other ranks desiring to apply should first obtain permission from their C.O. and then forward their applications through the usual channels. A duplicate copy of the application supported by details of experience should be sent direct to:—

THE MANAGING EDITOR, COLOGNE POST:
A.P.O./S. 40, Army of the Rhine.

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O.S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

Selling out as I am giving up the selling of optical articles I sell second hand Zeiss Goerz binoculars to low prices. Apply between 2—5 p.m. at Mond, Volksgartenstr. 24.

FIRST CLASS PIANO almost new pre war instrument with beautiful tone to sell cheap Cologne, Weissenburgerstr. 37.

Small PHOTO-CAMERA (first-class), GOERZ FILM-GLASSES 6×30 both pre-war articles for sale. Gereonsmühlengasse 3 on left part. 2—5 o'clock.

HIS MASTER'S VOICE GRAMOPHONE brand new, polished oak, ornicess. 360 marks seen at Riehl Barracks. Apply Lieut. Dale, 41st Bn. M.G.C.

MOTOR BICYCLE for sale. 1918 "Wanderer". 2-speed, 2 cylinders, spring frame, new tyres, lamp and tools. Price £50. Major Walsh, 53rd Nthd. Fusiliers. Northern Division, Brühl.

BARGAIN. Photogr. camera for troops Decrullo Nettel 13×18. Best German shutter. Zeiss-Tessar opt. 4,5 focal distance 21 cm. With 12 cases for Plates and 2 leather bags. 1750.— Marks. Duhens, Weissenburgstr. 72 hp. 7-9 p.m.

ZEISS-GOERZ-BINOCULARS 6×30 and 8× in splendid condition. Pohl, Boisseréestr. 12, I Floor (near Hohenstaufen Bad.)

WANTED.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 4.5. if poss. but not smaller than 6.8. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O.S. 40.

WANTED. Two ceiling punchbails, with or without platform. Write Sports Officer, 52nd Devons.

BRITISH WARM. Will any Officer demobilising and who is willing to dispose of B.W communicate with H.C. Box 19, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

PIANO wanted on hire by Army Pay Dept. Sgts. Mess State terms to Sgt. H. Wick, Command Pay Office, Cologne.

LANGUAGES.

Any Englishman is who willing to perfect in the German language mutual talks with a German. Offers A 332 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Good cook seeks position. Speaks English, Harry Scamitz, Vogelsangerstrasse 277. Ehrenfeld.

YOUNG LADY, War Worker, (France and Garmany) seeks appointment in Germany. University Graduate in Honours. Experienced in secretarial and educational work. Apply Box 21, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

Well educated young lady speaking German, French, Italian seeks opportunity to go to America. Apply to A. 335 Cologne Post, A.P.O. S/40.

YOUNG LADY of a very good family desires situation as governess to British Officer's family. Speaks English, French and German fluently. Apply to A. 336 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

YOUNG AMERICAN, speak, reads and writes excellent German, desires a position with a commercial firm, or representative, as interpreter, or any branch where the use of languages is essential. A. 334 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

WANTED situation as Interpreter Butler or Waiter. Speaks English, French and German, first class character from Officers Mess. Apply to H. Blum, 61I Werderstrasse.

Well educated, young German lady, speaking English and French, wants place in an office. Write to A. 333, Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40.

LOST.

LOST in centre of Cologne or at VI th Corps Club, gold bar brooch, amthyst in centre. Reward if returned to Advt. Manager, Cologne Post, A.P.O. S.40

500 MARKS REWARD.

Between BONN and SAND (near Berg Gladbach) on 2nd November, Brown suit case marked E.J. Information to Colonel Jackson, Headquarters, Southern Division, SAND, NEAR BERG GLADBACH.

MISSING.

ANY INFORMATION respecting the whereabouts of Pte. William Nolan, No. 48558, D Coy. 13th Kings, reported missing March 27th. 1918, would be very gratefully, received by his mother at 12. Gwendoline Street, Windsor St. Liverpool, England.

DON'T FORGET THIS

BEFORE YOU LEAVE FOR BLIGHTY.

THE COLOGNE POST HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks. (From U.K. 2/9.)

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

PLEASE WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

15 Marks covers all British possessions.

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Hansaring-strasse, Cologne, November 6, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

CASH FOR SKILL
ENTER FOR FOOT-BALL CONTEST No 7

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

REMEMBER !
THE HOME SUB. FORM IS ON :: PAGE 4 ::

No. 189. COLOGNE, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

PRINCE'S FAREWELL SPEECH.

CEMENTING THE BONDS BETWEEN SISTER NATIONS OF THE EMPIRE.

FINLAND REFUSES ASSISTANCE TO RUSSIA.

PRINCE OF WALES.

REMARKABLE FAREWELL SPEECH.

H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, whose tour of Canada roused such wonderful enthusiasm made a remarkable speech on Tuesday at a meeting in Toronto of the Canadian and Empire Clubs.

He said that the Dominions were no longer colonies, but sister nations of the British Empire. They had played a part in the war fully proportionate to their size and their international importance will increase. He did not regard himself as belonging primarily to Great Britain and only in a lesser degree to Canada, but as belonging to both in exactly the same way.

"Now that the war is over" he said, "we have still to keep that standard of patriotism and unity of which we showed ourselves capable during the long struggle. We must not lose touch with each other or we lose all we have won during the last five years."

Referring to the wonderful welcomes accorded him in Canada the Prince said he valued those welcomes all the more highly as coming from the Canadian nation as a whole—from all sections of the community, whatever their race, party or education. He considered those demonstrations meant that the throne stood for a heritage of common aims and ideals, shared equally by all sections, parties and nations, whether British or Commonwealth.

He concluded as follows: "I am afraid, gentlemen, I have talked about myself a great deal but I wanted to tell you, as the largest audience I have been privileged to address in Canada, what I feel about my position and the responsibility it entails. I can only assure you that I shall always endeavour to live up to that great responsibility and be worthy of your trust."

The Prince had to pause a number of times in the course of his address for the cheering to subside.

This speech and its reception says Reuter, was a fitting culmination of the Prince's tour. All the leading men of Ontario, from the ex-Premier, Sir William Hearst and the incoming Premier, Mr. Drury, downwards, were present.

IN MEMORIAM: L.R.B.

BISHOP'S WARNING AGAINST SPIRITUALISM.

An impressive service to the memory of fallen members of the London Rifle Brigade was conducted at Southwark Cathedral on Wednesday by the Bishop of London, Chaplain to the Brigade, assisted by the Reverend Guy Vernon Smith, who has been chaplain to the battalion ever since its formation, both at home and in France. The Duke of Connaught, Colonel-in-Chief of the Rifle Brigade, to which the London Rifle Brigade is affiliated, was present. There was a vast congregation of ex-members of the Brigade, with relatives and friends of those who had fallen. The Bishop addressed those who mourned lost ones and earnestly warned them against seeking comfort from spiritualists, adding that in the so-called revelations there was nothing that could not be explained by telepathy.

BENZOL OR PETROL.

FINISH OF EXHAUSTIVE TEST RUNS.

The exhaustive tests of benzol as a motor fuel, made under the auspices of the Automobile Association and Motor Union, concluded yesterday when the Sunbeam touring car completed its ten thousand mile run over most of the main roads of the country, and a 4 H.P. Triumph motor cycle with sidecar concluded a tour of five thousand miles.

No serious trouble was experienced by either. The Sunbeam only needed to have the bonnet opened once, owing to magneto troubles. The car and cycle will now be examined by experts who will issue a full report which is expected to settle the whole question of benzol as a substitute for petrol.

DENIKIN TO EVACUATE UKRAINE.

From Bucharest it is reported that Denikin has concluded an armistice with the Ukranians, under which Denikin's troops will evacuate Ukranian territory.

FINE WEATHER SOLDIERS.

According to a Geneva message, the Soviet Government at Petrograd has asked Poland to conclude an armistice during the Winter months.

Swansea memorial committee has decided to spend three thousand pounds on the erection of a cenotaph.

FINLAND REFUSES.

NO ASSISTANCE AGAINST PETROGRAD.

Telegrams from Helsingfors state that the Finnish Government gave a negative reply on Saturday to General Yudenitch's request for military assistance in the operations against Petrograd.

Yudenitch's communiqué says that the White Army is being compelled to shorten its front and take up new positions West of Gatchina.

After the occupation of Luga the Bolshevists advanced along the railway in a Westerly direction and occupied two railway stations. Details of the retreat from Gatchina show that the withdrawal was in no way a flight but was a well prepared operation, skilfully executed. All stores were evacuated three days before the front line was taken back one eight miles to Yelizaveting station, where there are numerous strongly fortified positions.

The tanks received from the Entente, says the despatch, did not prove so serviceable as was expected, owing to the heavy going.

DEBATE ON RUSSIA.

GERMAN CO-OPERATION WITH SOVIET.

In the House of Commons discussion on the supplementary Army vote for 118 millions, Mr. Forster dealt with the expenditure of 94 millions in Russia. He said that "non-marketable" stores were included in this total at their book value of 47 millions but they were really worth only 4 millions if sold, while there was a similar reduction of six millions on the value of marketable stores.

Colonel Wedgwood moved a reduction of the vote. He asked whether the Russian policy was the policy of the British Government or the Entente and if it was the Entente's policy, then why the other powers are not bearing their share of the expense.

Colonel Ward, the Labour member who recently returned from Siberia (and who was warmly cheered on rising to address the House) reviewed the evidences of co-operation between the German and Soviet Governments. He declared that, having got the Russians to organise themselves for our own purposes during the war, we could not say, when we got peace, "Good-bye. We have got peace and there is no Western front to relieve." That would have been dishonourable.

He declared that Admiral Koltchak ought to receive the support of every Britisher who called himself a democrat. He absolutely denied that Koltchak is reactionary and he declared that to desert Russia now was an injury to the whole world.

Mr. William Graham, speaking for Labour, repudiated the idea that Labour was committing itself to Bolshevist policy and practice. It was mischievous and useless to try to impose on a people a form of Government which they detested, while it was no business of Labour to get the Soviet system adopted in Britain when by constitutional means Labour is moving to ever increasing success.

WOMEN M.P's

LORD ROBERT CECIL'S VIEWS.

A lettter warmly supporting her canditature at Plymouth has been received by Lady Astor from Lord Robert Cecil. In it he says that in the perennial controversy against greed and self-interest all who know Lady Astor are confident that she will be on the side of the angels. Moreover the House of Commons needed some exponent of woman's point of view. Like every sane woman she would be a supporter of the League of Nations. We need a League of the classes quite as much as the Bolshevists Their sympathisers here believe in class war, but in that way madness lies. In the difficult times ahead we cannot afford to indulge in internecine warfare.

GERMAN REVOLUTION ANNIVERSARY.

Regulations issued at Berlin for the anniversary of the Revolution, to be celebrated on November 9th allow indoor celebrations. Outdoor celebrations will only be permitted in the outskirts of Berlin. Armed forces will not appear in the streets.

The regulations for celebrating November 7th, the anniversary of the Russian Bolshevist Revolution, will be stricter.

SENATE AND THE TREATY.

In the United States Senate on Tuesday Senator Lodge's motion to strike out the Shantung provision from the Treaty was rejected without debate by 46 votes to 43.

M.P. SUED FOR LIBEL.

JURY FAIL TO ARRIVE AT VERDICT.

What is generally referred to as the Hickman Libel case was resumed on Wednesday. This is an action brought by Dr. Kynaston, a retired Lieut.-Colonel of the R.A.M.C. against Brigadier-General T. E. Hickman, M.P., and a Mr. G. E. Brown for alleged libel and slander. Extraordinary revelations were made at the first day's hearing, as already reported in our columns.

When the case was resumed, Sir Edward Carson, Counsel for defendant, emphasised Colonel Kynaston's alleged suggestion for a collusive divorce as illustrative of plaintiff's character.

The Lord Chief Justice again interrupted with a stern warning. He said he wished everyone to understand that collusion to obtain divorce constitutes a criminal offence.

General Hickman stated in his evidence that he had served with the Gordon Relief Expedition and in nearly every subsequent campaign in Egypt and the Soudan. He retired from the Army in 1903, after twenty-five years service, but volunteered when war broke out. He described how he came to publish the matter complained of, saying that he considered it his duty to his constituents.

Cross-examined, he declined to say now that plaintiff seduced Mr. Foxwell's wife or that he systematically ill-treated Mrs. Foxwell's daughter, but he did say that plaintiff's conduct, as described by his (General Hickman's) Counsel, showed cruelty to the child. In 1912, she being then seven years old, he saw her dance at a charity concert. She was painted and dressed up like a ballet girl and he thought that was a sad thing.

Plaintiff's Counsel said that the fact that defendants published an incriminating letter without referring it to plaintiff or giving him any opportunity of explanation was sufficient evidence of malice. As to justification, it was no justification, if defendants charged a man with seducing an officer's wife, to come and say that he had committed adultery.

In summing up, the Lord Chief Justice urged the jury not to let their natural indignation at some of the events which had transpired overwhelm their judgment. He himself had dificulties in restraining himself.

No result was arrived at, as the jury disagreed and were discharged.

TRADE WITH GERMANY.

TEXTILE CHIEFS AGAINST IMMEDIATE RESUMPTION.

A meeting held on Wednesday of the textile section of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce rejected a resolution proposed by the Chairman declaring that former enemy countries should be regarded as properly open to members for trade in view of the necessity of assisting such countries to pay their indemnities.

After a long debate the meeting adopted, with only one dissentient, a resolution declaring that business with former enemy countries should not be resumed until the British Government has declared its trade policy. and urging the Government to make a definitive pronouncement as soon as possible.

PLAGUE OF SEALS.

Fishing in the Wash is again being adversely affected by the depredations of seals, which, according to the annual report of the Inspector of Eastern Sea Fisheries, are in greater number than ever before. Frequently it has happened that there was not a single fish, other than shrimps, taken in the nets. The sandbanks, which are usually bare after ebb-tide, may be seen covered with seals and their young, resembling, in the distance large flocks of sheep.

At one time the Fisheries Committee put a price on the heads of seals and numbers were killed, the grant of 10s. making it worth while to hunt the animals down. These payments, however, have for some time been stopped, and since then the seals have been left to breed as they will, and the fishing suffers in consequence.

TROOPS AND PLEBISCITES.

The Supreme Council decided on Tuesday that the Allied troops would be distributed in the provinces where a plebiscitum is taking place as follows: Allenstein to Great Britain, Marienwerder to Italy, Upper Silesia to France, Teschen to United States.

REPATRIATION OF PRISONERS.

During the week ended 29th October 4,240 German and 2,573 Turkish prisoners were repatriated from Egypt and 518 Turkish, 1,223 Bulgarian and 24 Austrian prisoners from Salonika. The total number of prisoners of war repatriated between 1st September and 29th October was as follows:—German 228,938, Austrian 232, Turkish 24,942 and Bulgarian 1,223.

BEDROOMS TO BE RATIONED.

Reporting on housing accommodation at East Dereham, Norfolk, the Medical Officer of Health states that while 104 bedrooms in the town are overcrowded there are 112 spare bedrooms in other houses. He suggests a rationing system for bedrooms.

PREMIUM BONDS.

PARLIAMENT LEFT FREE TO DECIDE.

Mr. Bonar Law said in reply to Mr. Bottomley, that the question of adopting the Premium bond system of raising revenue would be left to the free decision of the House of Commons.

Dr. Murray asked if the Government would consider the possibility of sending a special mission to the spiritual home of State lotteries, viz., Hamburg, in order that the most efficient methods could be employed.

Mr. Bottomley further suggested that if Mr. Bonar Law had any doubts about the morality of premium bonds he might take expert advice from the Chaplain of the House.

"On such a question I would sooner apply to the Hon. Member himself" was Mr. Bonar Law's rejoinder.

THE KING'S LAUGHTER.

HOW HE TOOK COVER DURING AIR RAIDS.

Yesterday His Majesty the King received the Rev. Archibald Forder, the missionary who was rescued by British troops at Damascus after being four years in captivity with the Turks.

Mr. Forder had a long conversation with His Majesty on his experiences in the East and the King expressed his appreciation of the good work done since Mr. Forder's release from captivity. Mr. Forder showed the King a copy of a Damascus newspaper printed in Arabic containing an article, about His Majesty. The King laughed heartily at the translation of the article, which described the King as running to a cellar in the Edgeware road to escape from Zeppelin bombs and as calling to the Queen to help him.

LORD MAYOR'S SHOW.

The great feature of the Lord Mayor's show on Saturday next will be a pageant of the League of Nations arranged by Mr. Louis N. Parker. The fifty nations entitled to represent the League will be shown by women on horseback dressed in national costume. Each will be accompanied by an escort of two cavaliers bearing the name of the country and its flag.

Leading this equestrian pageant will be an old English harvest waggon laden with sheaves of corn, decked with garlands and drawn by four horses. Nearly 250 men and women and 130 horses will take part in the pageant.

MILITARY EXERCISES FORBIDDEN.

The French military authorities in the area of the 10th Army received information that real military exercising was done in the schools of the occupied region, such as drilling with sticks and similar forms of training.

They have accordingly warned the rectors that this kind of exercising, having nothing to do with gymnastics, is strictly prohibited.

BLOCKADE OF RUSSIA.

Answering Lieut.-Colonel Malone's inquiry in the House of Commons for information about the proposed duration of the Allied blockade of Russia, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth replied that so far as the British Government was concerned it was proposed that the present measures of economic pressure, which did not amount in the legal sense to a blockade, should be continued until such time as a democratic Government is etablished in Russia, which could be recognised by the Allies. (cheers.)

WOMEN BANK CLERKS.

The Association for women clerks have organised a big meeting for to-night at Winchester House. It will consider the whole question of the position of women bank clerks in view of the opposition of the Bank Clerks Guild to women workers. It considers that the men's view is entirely harsh and unjustified and the Association will not allow their ultimatum to go unchalenged.

GIFT TO CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY.

Mr. P. A. Molteno, M.A., L.L.M., of Trinity College, and his wife, have offered the large sum of thirty thousand pounds to Cambridge University for the erection of an institute for parasitological research.

ALL HANDS LOST.

The bodies of two members of the Government tug Amelia, Gravesend to Hull, have been washed ashore at Horsesea. It is feared that the Amelia has been lost with all hands.

A PARTINGTON EFFORT.

On the instructions of the Parliamentary Committee of the Labour Party Mr. Adamson has written to the Premier urging the Government not to resort to the issue of lottery bonds.

MIDDLE CLASSES.

BELATED BUT NECESSARY ORGANISATION.

The latest association to be founded in London as a protest against the conditions of life for the professional classes is the "Middle Classes Union," which came into being just in time to take some share in the recent London municipal elections.

The Council of this body has just issued two resolutions as follows:

1. That this Council views with surprise and apprehension that among the terms of reference to the committee sitting at the Home Office respecting Workmen's Compensation and Insurance is one requesting the Committee to report on the desirability of establishing a Government department for the purpose of transacting insurance under the Workmen's Compensation Act. This Council protests in the strongest measure against the increasing bureaucratic control of our industries and maintains that the business of insurance is efficiently conducted by private enterprise.

2. That this Union immediately calls upon the Government to put an end on the 21st November to the extended unemployment donation, on the grounds that such outlay, while constituting a gross waste of public money and abuse, both by the recipients and in the application thereof, directly discourages employment and production, continues to encourage the appalling ignorance of the majority of the public as to the real financial conditions of the country, and threatens to become a permanent "young age pension" for the benefit of idlers and work-shirkers.

STAGE AND MORALITY.

MISS LENA ASHWELL ON PURITANISM.

An appeal to the public to insist that only those things shall be played in the theatre which were beautiful and just, was made by Miss Lena Ashwell at Leeds yesterday. The puritan movement was a negative movement she declared. What was wanted was a positive movement. She had been to the theatre with young men who had winced at things they had seen and heard. What mattered more, however was that after a time they ceased to wince. There was triviality, licentiousness and sensuality connected with the stage, but to-day that was not the desire of the best artistes and certainly not the desire of the majority of the soldiers who had been accused of having clamoured for it. Her experience had been that an army of enlightened men had yearned for the very best form of entertainment.

ALLIES' LOSSES IN THE WAR.

The supplementary report of M. Louis Marin to the Budget Committee of the Chamber of Deputies states that at the time of the armistice on November 11, 1918, Belgium had lost 44,000 killed and missing, the United States 114,000, Great Britain 869,000, Greece 12,000, Italy 494,000, Roumania 400,000, Serbia 369,000, and France 1,393,515. These losses amount to one man out of 27 inhabitants in the case of France, one out of 57 in that of the United Kingdom, one out of 32 in the case of Serbia, one out of 78 in that of Italy, one out of 150 in that of Belgium, and one out of 1,000 in the case of the United States.

ORIENT EXPRESS DISASTER.

The engine driver of the train which crashed into the express and who himself is very severely injured, has declared that he could not see the signals in time on account of leakages of steam from several parts of his engine.

The smashed wagons were thrown on the adjoining sets of rails and traffic on all lines was stopped for a day and a half.

According to a statement issued by the railway company there are twenty-seven dead as the result of the disaster to the Orient express.

The list will not be published until the official identification of the victims has taken place.

OUT FOR THE MONOPOLISTS.

In a speech he made yesterday, Mr. McCurdy, Chairman of the Central Profiteering Committee, said his Committee has nothing to do with retailers. It is aiming much higher than that. It is now investigating three of the greatest monopolies — sewing cotton, tobacco and soap —and it means to find out why a reel of cotton costs 7 ½d.

SCHOOL CHILDREN ON STRIKE.

The children of Tregroes Council School (Cardiganshire) are on strike against the action of the county authority in declining to appoint Mr. Bryn Jones as head teacher. The parents and local authorities recommended Mr. Jones as head teacher, but the county committee objected as he was a conscientious objector. The school is closed.

AUSTRALIAN PARLIAMENT DISSOLVED.

A proclamation at Melbourne announces the dissolution of the Federal Parliament. Writs have been issued for the elections and a referendum on December 13.

COWS AND CREDIT.

"FIGHT THE FAMINE COUNCIL" AT WORK.

Under the auspices of the Fight the Famine Council a public meeting was held at the Central Hall, Westminster, on Wednesday evening. Lord Parmoor presided, but when he rose to open the meeting a woman interrupted so effectively that the proceedings were held up for several minutes.

Lord Parmoor contended that until pressure of public opinion compelled such revision of the Peace Treaty as would render possible industrial co-operation throughout Europe there was no immediate chance of alleviating the widespread distress.

A statement issued regarding the earlier proceedings of the so-called International Economic Conference organised by the Fight the Famine Council shows that the Conference discussed means of re-establishing the European credit system.

Sir George Paish, who presided, proposed that the League of Nations should issue a form of security which nations could accept at its face Value, in the shape of an internal loan, taking precedence over the National debt.

In the course of the discussion reference was made to the restoration of milch cows by Germany. It was explained that the German proposal was not to deprive France of a single cow provided for in the Peace terms but that Germany should be allowed to buy American cows for France in lieu of those which would otherwise be taken from Germany. The report adds that the whole question of milk shortage in France is therefore irrelevant.

SUGAR AND THINGS.

HOW THE PROFESSIONAL CLASSES SUFFER.

The Food Controller, Mr. Roberts, states that both sugar and bacon are at present sold at a loss. The Sugar Commission has a balance in hand sufficient to cover the loss on existing contracts but it will soon be exhausted, in spite of the recent rise in the retail price. Thus sugar is bound to be even dearer.

In this connection the following comparison of prices, extracted from a letter received to-day from England, is illuminating, in view of the rise of 100 per cent in wages being regarded as tremendous.

	Current price	Old price
Milk	1/- quart	6d or less
Sugar	8d lb	2½ or 3d
Lard	2/- lb	6d and 8d
Butter	2/6 lb	1/- or 1s 2d.
Eggs	[illegible] each	1d.
Treacle	1/8 lb	6½ d
Dripping	1 8 lb	4 and 6 d
Reel of cotton	7½ d	1½ d

These are all necessaries, especially where there are children! The prices show an average rise of 180 per cent, yet many middle-class professional men have been granted less than 50 per cent increase of salary!

ALEXANDRIA RIOTS.

Concerning the riots in Alexandria on the 28th October, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth said in reply to Mr. Arthur Henderson that he had nothing to add to the statement made on the 31st October, except that of 150 police employed on that date forty seven were injured and the number of troops called up were fifty.

Mr. Ormesby Gore asked Mr. Harmsworth whether it was not a fact that this was a hostile demonstration in which stones were thrown at British officers and shops were looted in the public streets. Mr. Harmsworth said that his information accorded, so far as it went, with that assertion.

WELL DONE EASTHAM.

An organization of ex-service men at Eastham has successfully protested to the Ministry of Pensions against the appointment to the post of chief officer under the local War Pensions Committee of a man who was exempted from military service. At the subsequent meeting of the Committee the matter was reopened in consequence of a letter received from the Pensions Ministry and a resolution adopted to re-advertise the post, confining applications to ex-service men.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

There was a fair volume of business yesterday. Speculative descriptions opened with renewed activity and values advanced further, but afterwards profit taking caused irregularity. Shell transports finished at their best—100½. Gilt-edge securities were dull and a falling off in the demand for Treasury Bills gave rise to some talk of the possibility of the Bank of England rate of discount being raised in the near future. Foreign securities were again affected by sales on continental accounts, Peruvian Corporation issues rose sharply on the revival of the suggestion that the Peru Government intends to purchase the undertaking. Shippings received greater attention, notably Cunards, on the rumours concerning the progress of working arrangements with several other companies. Diamond shares were again on the up grade. The success of recent industrial issues affords a clear indication of the ability of the investing public, after the prolonged strain of war, to provide funds for promoting industrial enterprises.

FLIGHTS LTD
MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Representative Mr. A.J.R. LEE is at OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

Has recently returned from London with a stock of hosiery & a new selection of patterns for multi wear. Officers requiring shirts etc. for the winter, can now be supplied from stock.

I. MARCUS :: & Co. :: LONDON

wish to hear from manufacturers direct of all classes of JOINTED DOLLS PASTE BROOCHES AND JEWELLERY SMALL TOYS AND NOVELTIES FOR PRIZE PACKETS AND LUCKY BAGS CLOCKS, WATCHES TINSEL, BALLS (PAINTED & PLAIN) LEATHER GOODS MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, MOUTH ORGANS, BEADS RAZORS, PHOTO-FRAMES, COMBS & ALL FANCY GOODS

Mr. N. Marcus will be in Cologne for a few weeks to buy all such goods and to arrange agencies for England and also the export from England of all kinds of products required for the German market.

ADDRESS IN FIRST INSTANCE BOX M.A.R. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S 40. Rhine Army.

SIMPLICISSIMUS
Cabaret and Wine-Room
— Hohestrasse 152—154. —
Twice daily first-class singing and dancing performances. Open from 4.30 to 10.45 p.m.
— For Officers and Civilians only. —

CAFÉ BIOSCOP
Breitestr. 58—60. Corner Langgasse. Near the Empire Leave Club. Every day 5 o'clock tea with Concert. First Class Ice Creams. Special Tea Room. Concert on Sunday morning.

Agrippina Café
Breitestr. 92—98, 1st floor. Tel. B 9935.
Artiste Concert daily from 4 p.m.
First class wines

KODAK
Wulff & Kleinholz, Hohestr. 112
Cologne
Developing and Printing.
All Photographic work carefully executed.
— Prompt attention. —

FURS
in SKUNK — AUSTRAL OPOSSUM — SEAL — FOX, in all forms and colours, newest models or, if desired, manufacturing to own design.
No shop — therefore equitable prices
E. KAUFFMANN, Rich. Wagnerstr. 41 (near Opera House)

ADOLF PRAEGER
MÜNCH. PAINTER
Portraits, landscape, copies of old Masters. Richartzstr. 2 (Fischer) 5-8 p.m.

Experienced and active business man sells and buys in the occupied area goods, estates, premises etc. Agencies of big firms. Apply to K.O.U. 930 Cologne Post, A.P.O. S.40.

Mr. Alfred Hurley's London Music Hall Coy.

"The ECCENTRICS"
All first-class Artistes including
"DATAS"
The famous Memory Man from The Palace, London. "Am I Right, Sir?"
MISS MARGUERITE DE LARA, Prestidigitator,
MISS GLADYS STANLEY, Soubrette, Central Pier, Blackpool, Season 1919.
MISS MARJORIE BOWYA Vocalist and Violinist
MR. C. POWELL-EASTBERY Comedian and Baritone and together in "A Potpourri of Rags and Gags".
MR. WARWICK PRYCE Entertainer at the Piano from Maskelyne & Devants, London.

Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage this party or the Jesters. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office, Komödien Str. or may be seen there personally at 11 o/c each morning.

SUNDAY CONCERT.
Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.
SPECIAL SUNDAY CONCERT.
Sunday, 9th November 1919.
Last appearance this Season of
BACKHAUS
The World Famous Pianist.
Vocalist:
HOWARD FRY
Book at the Theatre or Amusements Office. Prices:— 10, 6, 4, & 2 Marks.

STOP
Mr. PILCHER
Mr. D. JACK PILCHER, U.S.A. temporarily staying at Cologne is requested to call before leaving on Dr. WILDERINK, Landgrafenstrasse 69. Coeln. Letter to hand without address.

Professional Photographers
in the Rhine Army buy cheapest through "HANDARO" Köln-Mülheim "Rival Brand" Prinz Heinrich Str. 44 Telephon 808 Mülheim
Mfrs. of Photo-printing machines.
Camera studio and all supplies, (papers, plates, chemicals &c.)
Great Bargains in High-class "KODAKS"

DON'T FORGET TO RENEW YOUR MONTHLY HOME SUB.

Send 15 Marks or 2.9 and we continue to send daily.

Mention The Cologne Post when replying to advertisements. It helps you and the advertisers.

Special House for Amateur Photography
ANDREAS PILLEN
I. COLOGNE, Deichmannhaus, opposite the Dom & Main Station.
II. COLOGNE, Hohenzollernring 70.
Big depot for Ica, Goerz, Zeiss, Ernemann, & Nettel Cameras.
Projectors and Cinema Apparatus.

The high grade "TUCKMAR" Razor

Do you know why everybody asks to-day for a "Tuckmar" razor and why they are called the "Worlds Perfect Razor"???
Because they are the very best and most durable razors in shaving!!!
The excellence of the "Tuckmar" razors consists in their being made from the very best silver steel and in their having the best reputation in the world!!! Every razor fully warranted! SOLD EVERYWHERE!
TÜCKMANTEL & MARTIN, Ohligs-Solingen.
Factory-Agent and Exhibition: Gormanns & Schallenberg, Cologne, Neumarkt 31-33.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

IMPORTANT NOTICE
To night the performances at the Deutsches Theatre will commence at
8. p.m.

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.
To-night at 8 p.m.
THE BRITISH RHINE ARMY DRAMATIC COMPANY
presents
"THE SILVER BOX"
A Comedy in three acts by John Galsworthy
Large Caste. Special Attraction.

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
This week nightly at 6 p.m.
Mr. ALFRED HURLEY presents his London Music Hall Coy.
Artistes:
"DATAS"
The world renowned memory man from the Palace Theatre, London. "Am I right, Sir."?
MISS MARGUERITE DE LARA Prestidigitator
MISS GWLADYS STANLEY, Soubrette Central Pier, Blackpool, Season 1919

MISS MARJORIE BOWYA	MR. WARWICK PRYCE
and MR. POWELL-EASTBERY Versatile Duo	Entertainer at the piano from Maskelyne and Devant's St. George's Hall, London.

And THE CRUMPS' ORCHESTRA by kind permission of the G.O.C. London Division
Usual prices. Book Early.

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA. 32 Komödienstrasse
At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures
Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA. Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.
Grand Orchestra and Pictures.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA Hohe Strasse
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS,
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB
TO-NIGHT. FRIDAY, 7th NOV. AT 7 p.m.
Miss Esmond's Concert Party
(by kind permission of the Y.M.C.A.)
Admission free.

The Cologne Post
Telephones: Military, No. 650. Civil: A 9511.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S.40, British Army of the Rhine.
Subscription in Rhine Army area 9 marks. 50 pfg. a month, post free.
To Great Britain or Colonies, 15 marks a month post free.

Friday, November 7, 1919.

THE MEMORY.

"Datas," the memory man, who is at present entertaining as well as astounding us nightly, took the wise precaution previous to visiting Cologne, of memorising one hundred fresh dates daily. He already possessed within his priceless cranium a vast amount of knowledge concerning the war, but coming as he was to an Army of Occupation that can boast of a goodly number of seasoned campaigners he apparently deemed it advisable to revistual his mental storehouse.

Bad memories in this imperfect world are much in excess of good ones, but "Datas" is a living example of what a disciplined cultivation of our mental faculties can do. There is nothing supernatural or even abstruse about his methods; he simply practises the art of remembrance while most of us neglect it. The seat of memory in our brain is largely atrophied from want of use; his is in a pleasing state of health and vigour.

Forgetfulness, to which the large majority of us plead guilty without a pang or a tremor or even the slightest suggestion of shame, is of two varieties, namely, natural and artificial. The former is painfully evident in every walk of life and every rank of society; the latter, happily for mankind, is not so prevalent. It takes the form of forgetfulness to repay a debt, to bring home anything that necessitates carrying a parcel, or to remember earlier friends when Dame Fortune has smiled upon us and exalted us socially.

The story is told of Themistocles that when an offer was made to him to teach him an art of memory he shrank back from the proposal with abject horror, exclaiming that he would choose rather to learn an art of forgetfulness. This, we venture to think, is scarcely the sentiments of the average man, who wishes he could remember more and forget a great deal less.

Were we all the mental gymnasts that "Datas" is, his occupation, like Othello's, wou'd assuredly be gone. There is no conceivable reason however why the cultivation of the memory should not be more assiduously practised than it is. For purely material reasons it is well worth while, and among the more graceful arts of life it is equally invaluable.

ACHROMATOPSIA.

Jinkson easily 'got the wind up', and, on this occasion there was, perhaps, some cause.

Following a strict medical inspection of the entire company, Jinkson was heard plaintively enquiring for Lance-Corporal Bunion who was renowned in the Bat. for his medical knowledge. He was a chemist's window-dresser in civil life, I think!

"I say, Bunion," panted Jinkson, when he had run his quarry to earth, "what's Ackromey Topsey?"

Bunion held his breath, staring at the other fixedly meanwhile.

"Whom?" he said at last.

"Ackromey Topsey!" repeated Jinkson deliberately.

The medical man appeared to be deciding whether or not this was a mental case. Then a fresh thought occurred to him; so he asked hopefully:

"Are they German words?"

"No!" responded Jinkson abruptly, extracting a crumpled sheet of paper from his pocket. "The M.O.'s orderly told me that the doctor put me down as having —er—this!" And he indicated a laboriously pencilled word on the paper he held. "The orderly copied it down for me," he added.

"O-oh! Achromatopsia!" read the amateur medico, considerably enlightened. "Let me think."

Jinkson let him.

"Er—did the M.O. say anything to you about this disease?" said Bunion.

"Not a word. Is it serious?"

The other cogitated.

"I am not sure that I ought—." Then he stopped undecidedly.

Jinkson grew thoroughly alarmed.

"What is it—what is it?" he exclaimed.

"Achromatopsia!" reiterated Bunion gravely.

"Shall I die?" queried Jinkson excitedly and trembling in every limb.

"I—I am afraid so" hesitated his medical adviser sadly. But such is the inexorable fate of all living things; so his remark was rather unedifying—and a trifle ambiguous also.

"What—oh—what can I do?" screamed the stricken man. "How long shall I live? is there any hope?"

Bunion was silent for fully a minute. When he spoke again his voice was mournful.

"I once had a good, kind uncle who was told by his doctor that he suffered from achromatopsia —"

Poor Jinkson hung on his words.

"Six months after, my uncle was—a—dead-man!" finished Bunion meaningly.

A hearse and its accompanying mourners passed slowly by at the end of the street—and Jinkson shuddered.

"I should add, however," said the man of medicine presently, as if voicing an after thought, "that my uncle did not die exactly of achromatopsia —"

"No!" yelled the astounded patient.

The other began edging away.

"He died—he died of old age—natural causes, as a coroner might put it" announced Bunion simply."

"Then—then what had ack—ack—!"

"Achromatopsia?"

"Yes!" shrieked Jinkson, "What had that to do with it?"

"Nothing!" returned the humourist, gently. "Why should one die of colour-blindness?" H.R.P.

THE FAREWELL DINNER.

It was but one of many I have attended during the past few weeks in Rhineland. One of our most popular officers was to be demobilized on the morrow.

He had been talking about this event for weeks, and thrilling our imagination with glowing descriptions of the little farm he was going to settle down on at home, but on the eve of his departure there was the sadness of farewell and he was not keen about going.

"You know, old chap," he said "I have had a great time in the Army, and I shall miss the splendid chums I have made, the sport, the rags and the men. However I shall settle down I know not."

Our magnificent mess looked at its best and it was a perfect picture. On the wall our colours were entwined, the table glittered with the battalion trophies—silver cups and shields—won on many a sporting field in France and Germany. What memories they recalled. Here in the centre was the Corps cup, how the battalion had fought for that! From Brigade to Division right on to the great Corps final they had forged their way, and "George," as he was affectionately called, our guest of the evening, had been one of the stalwarts of the team. Football shields, basket-ball cup, shooting cup, and others were all displayed.

Our battalion band were stationed in the lofty entrance hall, and at the hour of eight they struck up the regimental march as the Colonel, followed by the guests and members of the mess, took his seat at the table.

The menu was a dream of bliss and fit for a Lord Mayor's banquet; oysters, soup, fish, game, and numerous other delicacies to tempt the appetite. Soon there was a hum of conversation, and ever and anon the splendid selections of the band — "Chin Chin Chow", "Nights of Gladness," "Katie-y," and many other familiar airs stirred the heart and sent a thrill of pleasure through the room.

Then came the grand toast — a pause, and then the Mess President stood up and proposed the time-honoured toast. "Mr. Vice, the King;" "Gentlemen, the King," responded our Vice-President, and there was a clinking of glasses, as the band played the National Anthem and the officers drank to "The King, God bless him!"

Our guest of the evening was the next toast, and this was the occasion of several speeches extolling the virtues, the friendliness, and comradeship of good old "George." Memories of the past were recalled; the stern days of warfare, and the days on the Rhine. Visions of the future were painted, and amusing stories and personal references caused great laughter. How heartily the toast was honoured and how feelingly the song "For he's a jolly good fellow" sung! But some of us were sad, even as we sang and laughed, for a link in the chain of life's glorious fellowship was broken.

Strange, but true, things are never the same again; we of the Rhine Army are after all like ships which pass in the night. There are many vacant places, but in our hearts are the wonderful memories of the past. C.K.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

HOLD IT FAST.

Sir,—I hope all ranks will take to heart the sound advice you gave them yesterday as to their gratuities.

I am prompted to write you, because I see that the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is warning ex-soldiers of the unscrupulous dealers who are defrauding and fleecing man of their gratuities by selling to them horses or mules that are diseased, lame, or otherwise permanently unfit for work.

There are innumerable dodges resorted to by these undesirable characters and ex-soldiers are earnestly advised, to exercise the greatest caution in such purchases. J.B.S.

OFF THE RAILS.

Sir,—"Rhinelander" asks if any body has yet seen one of the Cologne trams off the rails.

I wonder how many people did see a No. 9 car sometime ago come off the rails in rather a remarkable manner.

It was closing time at the "Earwig" and a dozen officers hurried out just in time to spot a No. 9 going their way home.

There was a wild rush, the moving car was attacked at all points, front and rear and on the wrong side too, and before the foolishness was realised one old warrior was held by the foot underneath the wheel of the car. Somebody shouted "Stretcher Bearer" only to elicit the remark from the unfortunate officer "Whose — foot is it, yours or mine?"

For a moment the whole business looked sickening, ghastly; driver and conductors all were at their wits end, when suddenly acting on a common impulse I found myself with all the others round about, those who had been passengers in the car as well, Officers and Tommies, German civies, women and men, heaving, straining, slowly but surely, lifting that blessed car clear of the rails. Yes, Sir, and we did lift it a clear six or eight inches off the metals and dragging our comrade clear, gently put it back again to hear the bells ring and see it move off as if nothing had happened.

Up to now I have never yet found out how the Officer escaped only with a bruised foot. No matter, we all saw a Cologne Car come off the rails.

HALLAMSHIRE.

RABBIT OR — — —?

Sir,—The coming of the winter sees the resurrection of the fur collar habit: fur good, bad, and indifferent.

British warms, "issue" coats, are both decorated with it. Those of lowly rank compete with those in the seats of the mighty, but for the last thing in questionable furry adornment, put me alongside those worn by the rank and file of our women's organisations. C.M.

OUT OF THE RUT.

Sir,—I would like to say a few words to the men here in Rhineland who are about to leave us for ever. Where are they going? Back to their old jobs in offices, factories, and workshops on the status quo of pre-war days? Are they going to jog along in the same old way, hoping,—dreaming for better times that for them may never come? Or are they going to strike out afresh,—start over again, and work for some definite ideal?

I know of several who threw up good jobs to fight for their country and who were far from sorry to leave the dull monotony of civil life.

Now they are going back—fed up, as they say, with the monotony of Army life and full of pleasurable anticipation at being about to enjoy the freedom of civil existence again.

But let there be no false hopes. Let them open their eyes and face the facts.

"Civvy" life is just the same dull round it was before the war and its up to each one of those now going home to seriously consider what he's going to do.

Some have their plans already—they are the ambitious ones, those who wish to improve their position and who mean to try.

They are going to open up shops of their own and start life afresh,—their own "guv'nor",—and make their fondest dreams come true.

There never was a greater opportunity than there is to-day for the ambitious man who can both dream and fight. For the dreamer who cannot fight for his ideals is left behind in the race.

So you who are going home, go back and win through, I say; find the occupation which both suits your abilities and your inclinations and put your all into it.

Don't waste time in foolish fears for the future. Look ahead, but look hopefully and courageously, and you will succeed and help in the making of that better Britain which can only be made by hard work and high ambitions. F.B.

ARMY TRAINING & FOOTER.

Sir,—Your contributor W. Le C. in his notes states that Chedgzoy of Everton believes Army training is no good for a footballer.

Many will agree with him. Physical jerks will never make a footballer fit in the way he should be. Again, imagine the effect of wearing puttees round your legs, and one can understand the loosening up that must be brought about in the muscles concerned.

Army training has the effect of stiffening a man and slowing him down, and to this alone I attribute the failure of so many stars to shine after they have been demobilized. What do others think?

FORWARD.

CAMERA FIENDS.

Sir,—I was present along with one of my assistants at the ceremony; we both had cameras so I presume we are the offenders. I was there at the special request of one of the promoters of the scheme, and I would like to point out to "R.E. Spect" that during the war it was my duty to photograph every kind of ceremony that took place, to say nothing of front line panoramas.

I might also add that I was doing similar work in the South African War, this probably before "R.E. Spect" went to school. Regarding the lack of devotion I lost many relatives during the war, and I think I have as much genuine feeling for those we lost in Cologne as "R.E. Spect."

ROBERT F. HUNTER
"Daily Sketch" Representative.

Sir,—I sympathise to some extent with the sentiments of "R. E. Spect," but he overlooks one point, which I think outweighs his objection.

That is, that without the photos of the scenes at Sudriedhof there would be no means of conveying to the relatives of the dead how their memories have been kept green in Rhineland and what loving care is being bestowed on their last resting place in a foreign land. These photos, which will be reproduced by the hundred and will appear in the Press at home, will comfort many a sorrowing mother and other relative.

Therefore if any inconvenience was unknowingly caused to worshippers, as R. E. Spect says, it was compensated for by what I have pointed out.

I think every one should realise this

NO FIEND.

GERMAN CHILDREN AND MILK.

About a week ago two memorials were presented by British women to the Reparation Commission in Paris. The memorialists include such weighty and well-known names as the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, and other heads of religious denominations, Lords Lansdowne and Morley, Mr. Arthur Henderson and many others.

The writers urge that the 140,000 milch cows and 18,000 goats which, under the terms of the Peace Treaty, Germany has to restore to France, should not be demanded.

The number was fixed as roughly corresponding to that of the animals seized, consumed or destroyed by Germany in direct consequence of military operations, and which have to be replaced by animals of the same nature.

At the outset the appeal strikes one as doing more honour to the heart than to the head of the memorialists.

No appeal goes closer to the heart than one which has as its aim the alleviation of suffering childhood. We have evidence in plenty that the effect of the blockade has had an appalling effect upon the children of the Central Powers — the shortage of milk has told heavily on them as shown by the great increase in mortality, deformity and consumption. The statistics afford terrible reading as to the ravages wrought by the fearful weapon of the blockade. As far as the claims of humanity go, the case of the German children is proved up to the hilt.

Nor has it been without effect; large shipments of condensed milk have been despatched from America destined for German children. Many million tons are expected during the coming Winter. Provision has been made for 1,000 tubercular city children to spend 3—4 months in Switzerland.

Neither has our own country been behindhand. The 'Innocent Victims Fund', organised by the Society of Friends, invites subscriptions which may be allocated to the children of any country, Allied or enemy, who have suffered, or are suffering, from the effects of food shortage.

But there is another side to the question. German children are not the only ones who have suffered owing to the war.

There is a tendency to dwell upon the misery caused to German children by the blockade, and to ignore the sufferings inflicted upon the population of invaded France.

Without giving elaborate statistics, it may safely be asserted that the sufferings and misery caused by the German invasion counter-balance that due to the hunger blockade. Dr. Calmette, of the French Academy of Medicine has given some details concerning the decrease in the birth rate, as well as the incidence of disease and the mortality amongst French children in the Occupied Territories.

He estimates that, in the city of Lille alone, out of 18,000 children at school when the Armistice was signed, 8,000 had to be sent to hospital or to convalescent colonies. 40 per cent of the children examined in certain districts are suffering from a form of tuberculosis, 30 per cent are stunted in their growth, and the number who have died or whose health has been impaired cannot be estimated.

Those of us who were with the Forces which entered Lille and the surrounding country abandoned by the Germans in their retreat will not easily forget the emaciated condition of the unfortunate women and children, who for the last four or five months had lived principally on turnips as their staple food.

There is not milk enough to supply the German babies as well as the others. Who, then, is to bear the dreadful results of going short? On the ground of humanity all have an equal claim, but humanity alone cannot decide the case. The voice of justice must be heard as well.

Individually the victims are equally innocent, but the sufferings of the French children are the direct consequence of the inhuman methods adopted by Germany. The German people could have prevented the war, or have arrested it whilst there was time, had they so chosen. They did not so choose. They could have stayed such barbarities as the dropping of poisoned sweetmeats by aeroplane over towns such as Bethune and Bruay. They did not stay them. They killed the flocks and the herds of the occupied districts, or transported them to Germany.

It cannot be too strongly emphasised that War with all its attendant sufferings does not pay. There are some sections of the German people who have already laid this lesson to heart. There are others who have not yet done so.

If the sufferings of the German people help to drive the realisation of this fact into their hearts and minds—then the sufferings of the German children will not have been in vain.

DEMPSEY AND BECKETT.

Conditional Agreement To Meet At New Orleans Next March.

AMERICAN'S BIG PURSE.

A wire to hand yesterday states that Jack Dempsey, the holder of the world's heavy weight championship, has signed an agreement to fight Joe Beckett, the English champion at New Orleans on the 17th March next year. There is one important reservation, however; the agreement is conditional upon Beckett being successful in his encounter with Carpentier next month.

This important announcement will give added interest to and increase the enthusiasm in the European Championship, if that is possible. The form of the contract suggests that an alternative agreement has been made with Carpentier, though no information is available upon this point. If Beckett only has been approached a most important inference is implied, no less than that in American boxing circles the British champion is expected to annex the European title.

The Prize at Stake.

The biggest prize at stake at the great fight next month will not be the huge purse offered or the amount of stake money to be won. The coveted honour will be the opportunity afforded the winner of contesting the world title with the redoubtable Jack Dempsey and the chance to make an effort to regain the championship for Europe.

The telegram adds that Dempsey is to receive 125 thousand dollars win, lose or draw.

Further details of the arrangement are expected and it is hoped to augment the available particulars in our next issue.

Boxing Authority Ill.

The friends of R.S.M. Dent, one of the most popular men at the Headquarters Gymnasium, Aldershot, will be sorry to learn that he is suffering from a very severe attack of sciatica, and has been sent from Aldershot to 33 Ward, Grove Military Hospital, Tooting, where, it is good to learn, he is benefiting by the treatment. Dent's son Charlie, who looked like becoming a promising boxer, has now joined the Air Force and is stationed in India.

SEAMAN HAYES SUCCESS.

At Hoxton Baths Seaman Arthur Hayes and the ex-feather-weight champion Charlie Hardcastle, of Barnsley, were the principals in a match of 20 3-min rounds.

The bout was full of action and excitement while it lasted. This, however, was not long, as Hardcastle, after making a very strong show for three rounds, weakened rapidly under a series of heavy left-hand body blows in the fourth. Then Hayes changed the direction of one these punches, and hooking his left to the chin brought his man to the boards for seven seconds. Hayes was after him at once when he rose, and after another left to the body and right to the chin Hardcastle gave up.

POLYTECHNIC BOXING FINALS.

The surprise at the Polytechnic Boxing Club open competitions was the early defeat of E. V. Candler (Belsize), the ex-amateur heavy-weight champion, by H. Franks (St. Pancras B.C.) Finals:—

Middleweight.—L. Collett (Surrey Commercial Docks B.C.) beat E. R. Landsy (Gainsford B.C.).

Featherweight:—G. Davis (Polytechnic) beat A. Kemp (unattached) on points.

W. Bantamweight.—J. E. Lincoln (St. Pancras B.C.) beat A. J. Roots (Polytechnic) on points.

Heavyweight.—H. Mansergh (Polytechnic) beat H. Franks (St. Pancras) on points.

Bantamweight.—B. Mayne (Polytechnic) beat F. Chamber (Kingston School of Arms) in the first round.

IS BOXING DEGRADING?

"Yes" says a Correspondent, who Prefers Degradation.

THE PRIMAEVAL INSTINCT.

In view of the correspondence, opened by "Anti-Box," which has been appearing in our columns the following dissertation on a controversial subject will be read with interest. The opinions expressed are those of a correspondent who signed himself "Anti-cant." While convinced that the noble art is degrading and doomed to ultimate extinction he openly admits that he prefers such degradation to the death of the popular sport. He says:—

I have put on the gloves at the most half a dozen times in my life and witnessed about a dozen big fights in England. I must confess that I enjoyed both forms of this "sport?" If I lived in Spain I should go to see the bull-fights; had I been an ancient Roman I should have been a spectator at the gory combats in the arena and I should have enjoyed myself enormously.

A Prophecy.

I do not, however, pretend to myself that any one of these spectacles is an example of a noble art or uplifting sport. On the contrary I am certain that four generations hence I shall be regarded as degraded in the same way as I regard as degraded the neurotic persons who attended the arena in Rome.

I am unable to appreciate the marvellous skill or high art of the champion boxer because I am not skilled in this art myself and I am convinced that 90% of the spectators at the fights know no more about boxing than I do. Whence, then, comes our enjoyment? It is the primeval instinct in us which gives a passionate thrill to jaded senses. I much prefer a knock-out to a decision on points, and so do you all. Is this degrading?

The critics of "Anti-Box" in "The Cologne Post" have helped me to the decision that he is right. When I see argument take the form of vituperative epithets and ridicule I am at once prejudiced against that argument because I feel its logic must be weak.

Progressive Tought.

When "Anti-Box" is presumed to be a long haired, knock-kneed milkshop to preserve whose lily-white hands the great "boxing" British nation went to war while he fortified himself with a glass of water, I begin to think there must be something in his simple expression of progressive thought which was the sole basis for that presumption. Further, I have met many men who had all the qualities essential to commercial success and enumerated by "Sporty Boyee," although they had never heard of peerless Jim Driscoll.

I did not notice that the best exponents of boxing were seen to better advantage in the front line than any other ordinary individuals, and I believe boxers are on the whole more addicted to milk and water than those who do not train to mutilate each other's bodies.

Having convinced myself that boxing is a degrading sport; what next? If "Anti-Box" is allowed to legislate against boxing the logical conclusion is that he will next turn his attention to rugger. Thank you, I prefer to resist "Anti-Box" and all his kidney. Although he is bound to win in the end I will remain degraded as long as I can.

Press Golf.

The London Press Club Golf Circle successful competitions were held at Sideup. The 18 holes medal competition was won by S. J. Southerton, with 88—5=83; P. J. Moss, 95—7=88, 2; Geo. Munro, 102—13=89, 3. A similar competition in the afternoon was won by Geo. Munro with 95—13=82; J. H. Iles, 100—8=92, 2; G. Groves, 111—15=96, 3.

WELL SAVED, SIR!

PATIENCE REWARDED.

Football Competition Winner a Regular Competitor.

ADVANTAGE IN NUMBERS.

"It was a wet depressing morning when I made my way to the offices occupied by the Provost Marshal" writes our football representative. "My mission was to hand over the cheque for 2,289 marks won in contest No 6, to the successful competitor, Pte. Marsden. The good news had preceded my arrival and I found the lucky winner the centre of a good humoured crowd of fellow clerks, each congratulating him, and offering witty suggestions as to the best use to make of his prize."

"Marsden hails from St. Annes-on-Sea and he informed me he was mainly interested in the doings of Blackburn Rovers. But he is far from being a football enthusiast. When asked how he accounted for supplying the winning coupon, he replied that it was purely a matter of luck. "I am not a form follower" was his statement, "and knowing how often the amateur succeeds where the man in the know fails, I kept on sending in coupons. That I had been successful was a pleasant surprise."

"The winner entered three coupons and has been a regular contestant in our competition. His perseverance brought its own reward.

A Sound Idea.

"On being asked how he would dispose of his award, he replied that it would be added to the nest egg he was accumulating towards the day when wedding bells would ring. I agreed that this was a sound idea and felt that this prize had fallen into good hands.

"On our parting company Pte. Marsden's fellow workers gave me a very cordial invitation to return with more cheques. My reply was that if they took advantage of the opportunity our competition presents, and succeeded, I should be only too glad to repeat my visit."

Only two more days will elapse ere contest No 7 closes; are you letting this opportunity slip? You may enter as many coupons as you wish provided the proper amount is enclosed, and when more than one coupon is sent, the chance of winning is greatly increased. Thus you can allow for the surprises which so often occur. As our competition prize has been twice won outright by competitors with little knowledge of form, it necessarily follows that no great knowledge of football form is required. Turn your attention to the coupon on this page, do the needful and you may be the lucky winner.

NORTH-COUNTRY RUGBY.

Yorkshire's Chance in County Championship.

The North-Country Rugby Union county championship is providing some excellent struggles. Yorkshire play their first game on Saturday when they receive Northumberland at Otley.

Yorkshire's preliminary canter against the Army, which was deservedly won, has shown that their chances have again to be reckoned with, and though they were not at full strength their display gave great satisfaction.

Changes in the Side.

Changes have been made in the team to meet Northumberland which should add strength.

Though the Yorkshire forwards are on the light side, they played well on the ball in the loose, and now they are strengthened by the return of Major McIlwaine, should hold their own against any pack in the North.

9th Bn. M.G.C.

Sport And Other Happenings In October.

During the month of October, while the Battalion was stationed at Buir, football and hockey were in full swing every day. At football the 5/6 Royal Scots and 11th Royal Scots visited Buir and defeated the home team by 6—1 and 1—0 respectively. Lieut. Ford (Capt.) at centre half, was a tower of strength and most enthusiastic. An Inter-Coy football league produced keen rivalry, "A" Coy proving victors, winning all their games, and with a goal average of 7—1. At hockey, several enjoyable games were played, the final one, between B.H.Q. and the Rest, resulting in a draw of one goal each.

Farewell Evening.

The Battalion spent a very enjoyable evening last week, tea being followed by a whist drive and smoking concert. Major Kinsey, M.C., commanding the Battalion, presented the prizes, which included an inkstand, toilet set, fountain pen, wallet, cigarette case etc. Lieut. and Q.M. Fitzgerald was loudly encored for his excellently rendered songs. Major Kinsey, M.C., addressed all present and thanked them for their good and loyal work while with the battalion.

WEDNESDAY'S FOOTBALL.

ASSOCIATION RESULTS.

Irish League 0, Scottish League 2.

RUGBY.

Cambridge 3, Bartholomews 0, United Services 6, Oxford 19.

LONDON SENIOR CUP.

Draw for the Third Qualifying Round.

The third round draw in the qualifying competition for the London Senior Amateur Cup was made on Wednesday, the clubs being paired for Saturday week as follows:—

Leyton v. G.N.R. Athletic.
Ordnance v. Sutton Court.
Summerstown v. Adam Grimaldi.
Barnet v. Temple Mills (G.E.R.).
Barberrys Ath. v. Sutton United.
Page Green Old Boys v. Islington Town.
Gnome Ath. v. Southall.
Rotax v. Blackwall & Thames Iron Works.
R. & H. Green Silly & Weir Ath. v. Tooting Town.
Enfield v. Barking Town.
Kildare v. Hanley Page.
Custom House v. Woodford Crusaders.
Kingstonian v. Wealdstone.
Belvedere & District v. Metrogas.
Walthamstow Grange v. Tufnell Spartan.
Napier or G.W.R. Athletic v. Newportonians.

UNDER A CLOUD.

War Losses Cause Reversal of Form in Football.

It was inevitable that when football clubs settled down to a regular programme after the war some of the best known and strongest among them would have suffered so heavily by losses in the war that they would be temporarily under a cloud. Hence the Harlequins, who were among the worst sufferers, are beaten by something like fifty points by Cambridge University, Richmond go down before Oxford University by 38 points, and Blackheath a short time ago beat the Old Merchant Taylors by 55 points, and so forth.

But things will right themselves in course of time, and no club which respected itself would dream of cancelling matches because some of its opponents had lost more heavily in the war than itself.

At the beginning of the cricket season the Sussex and Gloucestershire teams were the despair of cricketers, but nobody shouted, "Turn them out," and before the end of the season they were giving an excellent account of themselves. There is no reason at all why there should not be the same revival in the case of football clubs.

ARMY XV v. OXFORD.

Major Stanley's XV. against the University at Oxford on the 19th, which match will be witnessed by the English Selection Committee, will include: Major H. Harrison (captain), W. A. Wakefield, L. P. Merriman, H. Davis, H. Kershaw, Capt. Pickles, H. Millett, C. L. Steyn, L. C. Krige, L. Doherty, and F. Reitz.

VILLA'S NEW OUTSIDE-RIGHT.

James Stephenson, brother of the Aston Villa forward has now been signed on by the Villa. He is an outside-right of ability, and alongside his brother played some fine games for Leeds City during the war.

FOLEY FOR IRELAND.

Foley, the ex-Leeds City half-back has returned to Ireland, and will assist Shelbourne.

RICHMOND v. THE ARMY.

The Army in their match with Richmond on the Athletic Ground, Richmond, to-morrow, will have the following side: Lieut. R.M. Welchman; Lieut. Q.E.M.A. Kent; Major R.M. Scoble; Lieut. C.D. McCarthy; Lieut. H.L.V. Day; Drummer Gumbley; Capt. W.S. Wingate Gray; Capt. A.H. McIlwaine; Major P.H. Lawless; C.M.S.I. Jones; Major W.B.N. Roderick; Cpl. Hyland; Capt. Penney; Major P.G. Humfrey; Capt. J.C.H. Pennycook.

OXFORD FRESHMEN'S SPORTS.

Dull, cheerless weather was associated with the first day of the Freshmen's sports at Oxford, and the results did not disclose any athlete of outstanding merit. The best performance was probably that of R. Stapledon (Queen's) in the second heat of the hurdles, the Public Schools champion winning in very good style and with plenty in hand.

ALL RUNNERS FALL.

Remarkable Happening in First Race at Liverpool Meeting.

FIRST DAY'S RESULTS.

The weather was fine but misty for the opening day of the Liverpool meeting on Wednesday. The going was hard and the attendance large.

The first race on the card, the Becher steeplechase, had an extraordinary and untimely termination. There were three starters and all fell before the course had been completed. Fortunately the jockeys were able to return to the paddock unhurt. The race was declared void. Complete returns for the day were:—

Ford handicap:—1, The Square (2-1); 2, Skookum Joe (8-1); 3, Zea (7-4). Six ran.

Wavertree plate:—1, D.N.P. (13-8); 2, Ela (5-1); 3, Snoemaker (2-1). Six ran.

Knowsley nursery:—1, Fair Simone (9-2); 2, Tarvie (6-1); 3, Mighty Power (5-1). Fifteen ran.

Lancashire handicap:—1, Chat Tor (3-1); 2, Limpsfield (6-1); 3, Skager Rack (100-7). Eight ran.

Liverpool St. Leger:—Pomme de Terre beat Keysol (6-5 on). Two ran.

EXCITING BILLIARDS.

Falkiner and Smith Continue their Progress in London.

In resuming the match of 16,000 up at Burroughes Hall on Wednesday, Falkiner still further increased his advantage against Inman.

Falkiner, who receives 2,000, has from the commencement displayed excellent form, and by frequent substantial breaks has steadily forged ahead. When play closed on Wednesday evening, he had brought his lead to the very substantial extent of 3,142. The closing scores were:

Falkner (in play) 5,500
Inman 2,358

Smith Doing Well.

At Thurstons, in a 16,000 up match (level) between Smith and Newman, the former is emulating the example of Falkiner. At the close of the first day's play he had a lead of 637. By Wednesday evening he had enhanced this advantage to 994. Closing scores:—

Smith (in play) 3,936
Newman 2,942

PACKS AMALGAMATE.

West Surrey Beagles and Horsell Hounds Join Forces.

For the next two seasons the West Surrey Beagles and Horsell will be amalgamated. The Horsell pack is being sent to the West Surrey kennels and the two packs will hunt together over joint country. One meet in four will be in the Horsell country. A commencement will be made as soon as the rabies order permits.

MR. WINANS' NEW RECORD.

Mr. Walter Winans broke the world's two-mile amateur trotting record at Parsloes Park, Barking on Wednesday afternoon. Driving Harmony, he beat the previous record by 13⅕ sec., covering the two miles in 5 min. 0⅕ sec. The ten-mile relay trot fixed for next Monday will not take place owing to the wet weather rendering the track too deep.

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING.

The Midland Cross-Country Association have decided to run their novice team race at Coventry on December 6, the Junior championship at Derby on February 7, and the Senior championship at Northfield, Birmingham on February 21.

GENTLEMEN v. PLAYERS.

The Gentlemen and Players cricket match at Lord's next season is to be played on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, July 14, 15, and 16.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Fri.	Hoffmann's Erzählungen	Offenbach	7	10
Sat.	Mignon	Thomas	7	10.15
Sun.	Lohengrin	Wagner	5.30	10
Mon.	Cav. Rusticana Der Bajazzo	Mascagni Leoncavallo	7	10
Tues.	Die Entführung aus dem Serail	Mozart	7	10

AT THE LEAVE CLUB.

Two Cleverly-written Plays Admirably Acted.

If you are charming, well dressed and a popular society widow, there is nothing to prevent you from telling the impertinent creature who follows you—without an introduction—from the ballroom, that your hostess is fat and vulgar and the champagne at supper is bound to be bad, in spite of the fact that the unknown gentlemen happens to be your hostess's brother.

In "The Impertinence of the Creature," the first of the two plays given at the Empire Leave Club on Tuesday night, Miss Tilney, as the widow and Major Greenlees, as the unknown gentleman, gave a charming performance of this little social encounter. Miss Tilney played with delightful grace and self possession and was well supported by a finished piece of acting from Major Greenlees.

"The Bathroom Door"

The second play "The Bathroom Door" served as an excellent contrast to this exceedingly "drawing-room" comedy. Here we saw a procession of the hotel visitors who met outside the bathroom door in a fruitless effort to get their morning tub. There was the irascible old gentleman—realistically played by Captain Zeigler; the old lady who hopped in and out of her bedroom like a frightened rabbit, and the young man who made the most of the bathroom queue by flirting with an exquisitely dressing-gowned prima donna.

When they had knocked at the door and rung all the bells in vain, the Prima donna, with a cry of agony declared that her husband had committed suicide inside. Meantime, the young lady, played by Miss Christian with the required skill, summoned the Boots, (Pte. Browning) a callous youth who, putting his shoulder to the door, opened it on an empty bathroom. While the prima donna asked dramatically for the body of her dead husband, that astute old gentleman slipped into the bath-room, triumphantly locking the door. Miss Campbell as the prima donna acted splendidly and looked delightful whilst Capt. Preston gave a most amusing performance of the épris young man. Miss MacMaster gave a particularly artistic performance of the old lady and scuttled in and out, to everybody's huge delight.

Between the plays solos were given by Miss Bell, Miss Trimble and Miss Lavie, whilst Cpl. Williams and Bndr. Rushton contributed two duets.

At the Deutsches Next Week.

Miss Audrey Esmond, with her well-known concert party are due to arrive in Cologne to open at the Deutsches Theatre next week. While touring Rhineland; the party has been received with enthusiasm, a particularly successful visit to Düren having just been completed. I have not yet had the pleasure of witnessing the entertainment Miss Esmond submits, but, judging from its reputation, it is not behind the many excellent shows we have had in Cologne recently.

Roller Skating.

The skating rink at Mülheim continues to grow in popularity, patrons growing numerically, every day. The special session for officers and their wives each Wednesday afternoon is an innovation that has been justified by results.

British Empire Leave Club.

Much interest has been aroused by the British Empire Leave Club Debating Society. Colonel Heath has kindly consented to be present at the inaugural meeting to-day, Friday, at 6.30. JACQUES.

SPORT NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

Not Represented.

F. Hunts stable is not represented at Liverpool.

No Drawn Games.

In first-class Association football Celtic and West Bromwich Albion are the only teams who have not yet drawn a game.

Golfer in U.S.A.

Major H.D. Gillies, the international golfer, who has worked during the war in a facial disfigurement hospital, is in America and lecturing on the subject.

Oxford v. Newport.

The Rugby match between Oxford University and Newport will be played at Oxford on Tuesday, November 25, instead of the following day.

Pursell Recovered.

Liverpool hope shortly to have the assistance of Pursell, their full back, who had the misfortune to break his arm when playing in a trial game in August. He has resumed training.

J. Burns Better.

J. Burns, the jockey, who was seriously injured when Fairy Lantern was struck into at Catterick Bridge on August 2, has now completely recovered.

40 Winners.

By riding Still Better to victory in the Welbeck Plate, W. Balding brought his total of winning mounts to 40, and thereby forfeits the 5 lb. apprentice allowance.

Dunn beats Cameron.

At Acton Baths on Monday Gunner Dunn (Acton) beat Arthur Cameron (Fulham), the latter retiring in the fourth round.

Chelsea's Centre forward.

J. G. Cock, the new Chelsea centre-forward, won the Military Medal before becoming staff sergeant-major at Aldershot.

Yorks. Northern Cup.

The draw for the semi-finals of the Yorkshire Northern Cup, which will be played on Saturday, November 15, is: Leeds v. Batley, at Leeds; Huddersfield v. Wakefield, at Huddersfield.

A Good Record.

Previous to Saturday's match at Swindon, when the Railwaymen scored five goals in 90 minutes, the Rangers had only given away four goals during 19 hours 30 minutes of Southern League football.

R.U. Trial.

The Rugby Union trial match between England and the North will take place at Liverpool on December 6.

Port Vale F.C.

Next season it is contemplated altering the name of the Port Vale F.C. to Hanley.

Matin Sold.

M. J. Prat has sold his four-year-old Matin to the Belgian sportsman M. Lienart, who will put him to jumping.

French Quartet.

George Parfrement rode four winners in successive races at the recent Auteuil Steeplechases.

Bazley Recruits.

Night Flip, Humberdale, Lootie, and Benrosa have joined Bazley's team at Beverley.

Out of Danger.

Mr. Chaurand, the gentleman jockey who had a nasty fall at Auteuil on Saturday, is out of danger.

Varsity Golf.

Some interesting matches have already been arranged to take place at Addington on November 15, when the Oxford and Cambridge Golfing Society comes of age.

Retained.

Petrusen was retained at 330 guineas after winning the Hainton Plate this week. The dead-heaters, Somerset and Blot, were bought in for 170 and 115 guineas respectively.

Demobilé's Success.

S. Darling, who won five races at Lincoln, has not long been out of the Army. During his absence on Service his stable was managed by his wife.

Spurs Goal Average.

Although Glasgow Rangers have scored eight goals more than the Spurs, the latter's average is the better, taking figures into consideration.

Scots v. Irish.

Ferguson, of Motherwell, was unable to play for the Scottish League against the Irish League at Belfast on Wednesday. His place was taken by James Reid, of the Airdrieonians.

Billiards.

W. Smith, the Darlington billiards player, and Tom Reece, are to meet shortly in a match of 16,000 up on level terms. The stakes are £200, the winner to take the whole of the receipts.

"SCOOPING THE POOL."

Another Big Prize For Football Contest Competitors.

With the advancement of the football season the form of the clubs comprising the various leagues is more easily guaged and a better opportunity thereby afforded for forecasting results in our football competition.

Already two large prizes amounting in value to fully 3,000 and 2,000 marks respectively have been won by competitors. It may be your turn next to win a substantial prize.

As the interview which we publish to-day in another column amply testifies one need not be a keen football follower, or enthusiast in order to stand an excellent chance of "scooping the pool."

There is no limit to the number of coupons sent in; all that is necessary is that each filled up coupon be accompanied by one mark.

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 7,
"Cologne Post",
A.P.O. S.40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.

2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.

3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.

4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.

5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.

6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.

7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.

8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.

9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 7.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov. 8th.
Closing date, Friday, Nov. 7th.

West Bromwich A.	v. Aston Villa
Middlesboro	v. Newcastle U.
Arsenal	v. Bolton W.
Burnley	v. Manchester U.
Stoke	v. Bristol City
Leicester	v. West Ham
Coventry	v. Huddersfield
Queens Park R.	v. Millwall
Southampton	v. Southend
Luton	v. Crystal Palace
St. Mirren	v. Hearts
Partick T.	v. Rangers

I enter Football Competition No. 7 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Pale and Pasty.

Perhaps you have noticed that the average German who looked remarkably fit and fresh in the summer months now has a white, pasty appearance. The reason? I put it down to central heating—and the stuffy, poluted atmosphere he now breathes indoors.

Careless Carmen.

I feel inclined to sympathise with the writers of letters on street obstructions. Last night, when walking along an ill-lighted strasse, I collided with a horse and van, devoid of lights, which had been drawn up on to the pathway.

No Doubt.

A patient with his thumb in splints, asked how the injured member was progressing, told the medical officer that it was "not so painful, but it feels very stiff, Sir."

Unconventional.

Much sensation in caused among the local inhabitants when our officers, bound for the sports ground, pass through the streets arrayed in the startling garments pertaining to athletics. A certain Lieutenant who dashed along a busy road on a motor-cycle clad in jersey and shorts nearly stopped the traffic.

Demobilization.

Cafes are not the only places suffering in consequence of demobilization. I hear for the last few nights the Moderne, which is usually crowded to its utmost capacity, has only been about two-thirds full.

A Soldier of Fortune.

I met a young officer tired of peace-time soldiering yesterday. "I was just going to volunteer for the Polish Army," he said, "but now Chili and Peru are ready for a scrap, the Chilian staff is what I'm after."

Departed Glories.

From a military point of view Bonn is not the place it was. The messes are practically deserted, and there is little khaki to be seen in the streets.

Still Ordnance.

Some people I know have somehow got the idea that the N.A.C.B. has taken over the Ordnance Officers' Clothing Depot. This confusion of thought has arisen from the canteen people opening a general store in Cologne at which certain articles of officers' attire will be sold.

A Smart Retort.

"Where was So—and—so born?" was a query hurled at a memory artist recently. "U.S" came the reply. "What, the United States?" said the enquirer. "No, Upstairs," came the smiling answer.

Its Whereabouts.

I have just heard of a French officer in Mayence who brought back from his "permission" some bottles of rare 1815 Cognac from the cellars of his father's chateau in the Midi. The enraged parent is wiring every day asking what has become of it, but until he and his friends have totally consumed the precious booty, the officer does not intend to reply.

"Ox Beine."

I notice quite a number of advertisements in German papers offering to cure "Ox Beine", or in plain English "Knock-knees". Are the Germans more afflicted with this complaint than ourselves?

Vanishing Boards.

The familiar notice boards hung outside Army offices, messes, etc., seem to provide the German with an easy opportunity for cheap humour. Several establishments have missed their signs lately, although one was subsequently discovered in an adjacent street decorated with a gaudy picture of the German royal family. I am informed that the Military Police are strictly on the lookout for perpetrators of the vanishing board trick.

Throat Exercise.

It is rarely one meets with a German who, as a result of a cold on the chest, loses his voice. I mentioned this point to a medical man, who expressed the opinion that the speaking of the German language involved such vigorous exercise of the throat muscles that the people of this country are practically immune from such disability.

Off The Rails.

I remarked the other day that in the course of my peregrinations I had never seen a tramcar in Cologne leave the rails. A correspondent states that a car performed this feat late one summer evening at the corner by the Monopol Hotel. The noise produced by the runaway vehicle quite alarmed the liege. The wonder is that similar accidents are not more numerous.

Back Again.

I notice a restaurant in Marzellenstrasse for long occupied by our airmen has been evacuated by us and restored to its former owners. It is back again to its pre-occupation style.

Warm.

Beside the Dom yesterday I saw a sight which reminded me of the days when we had fires lighted in old petrol tins to warm us on the famous "8 Chevaux 40 Hommes" expresses. A flower girl there was warming herself at a similar fire-place.

Civilians, Too.

Our "Competition Merchant" informs me he is receiving coupons from British civilians who are out here and one of the competitors who was but one entry removed from the prize winner in No. 6 contest is employed with a famous British firm in Cologne. We welcome such entries, as our competition is open to all.

Why Not?

Incidentally no name prefixed by Mrs. or Miss has appeared on a coupon yet. The fair sex are admittedly lucky in football competitions and there is a fine chance being missed by them. Would not a headline such as "English woman wins our prize" catch the popular fancy? Why not?

Sign of the Times.

Every day one notices more and more motor traffic for commercial purposes in the streets. Up to six weeks ago, apart from the new taxis, practically all the petrol propelled conveyances were British.

Relics.

If you take a stroll down Riehl way past the bridge of boats, you cannot fail to notice the elaborate system of trenches and imitation dug-outs in the vicinity of the barracks. This was where the young idea of the Fatherland got its first taste of trench life.

Gone But Not Forgotten.

Khaki is no longer visible in many Rhineland villages and the casual soldier who drops in to the cafés in all probability, has to answer pathetic little queries from the waitress as to where the so-and-so's have gone, or perhaps his geography is tested by some such question as: Puddleboro' is a "grosse stadt" in England, is'nt it?

More Homelike.

Incidentally too in many of these cafés when a drink is served, the waitress uses the word "Cheerio" a change from the inevitable "Prosit," which caught so many of our boys guessing during the early days of Occupation.

An Old Cartoon.

My laundry last week was wrapped up in a Bonn journal of May 1918, when things seemed to be very hopeful for Germany. The newspaper had a cartoon, showing a bedraggled Tommy in, needless to say, Highland costume, feverishly running "nach Calais."

Another One.

To the list of hotels which have changed their names must be added the Kongs Hof in Komödienstrasse, which as the Hotel Bristol was in extensive use for many months as a billetting place for troops on short leave to Cologne.

Scenic Effects.

No one can cavil at the scenery at the Opera House and those of us who know the value of scenic effects are full of praise for the beautiful settings which are staged there.

The Butcher's Window.

Rodenkirchen as a holiday resort may be deserted nowadays, but judging by the prosperous display of meat I noticed in a butchers' shop there the other day, the inhabitants, provided of course they have the "ready" should not go short.

What is Char?

I notice that Judge Graham was told at Bow County Court that "char" means ground-up bones used for refining sugar. Any Army man knows that it means tea. The term was so generally employed in France that many families in French villages have slipped the word into their vocabulary as English. It came from the East, where troops perhaps corrupted it with such words as "rooty" for bread and "buckshee" for any old thing.

Pantofflen.

I noticed the frau in my billet making a pair of slippers, or as the Germans call them "Pantofflen". I understand it is cheaper to buy the material and to make the articles at home than to purchase them ready made.

RHINELANDER.

FOR BUSINESS MEN IN RHINELAND.

GERMANY'S NEW IMPORT AND EXPORT REGULATIONS.

For the benefit of the numerous business men desiring information respecting the import into and export from this country of all kinds of merchandise, we are enabled by courtesy of "The Board of Trade Journal" to publish the following official information. "The Board of Trade Journal" for Sept. 25th and Oct. 30th should be referred to for more detailed particulars and for goods not included in this list.

* * *

It is now allowed to import into Germany without license, pulse and products and offal thereof, derived by grinding, peeling and shredding; rice, rice wastes and mixtures of rice and rice wastes with other substances; and cocoa beans, raw or roasted.

* * *

The importation without license is now authorised of Indiarubber, gutta-percha and balata waste (tariff 98), used pieces of indiarubber, gutta-percha and balata goods (tariff 98), asbestos, in the rough or ground, asbestos fibres, even if purified.

* * *

The importation without license of the following textiles is now permitted. Flax it will be noted, is not included in the list.

* * *

Vegetable textile materials, raw, purified, broken, retted, etc., and waste therefrom for spinning, viz.:—Cotton; linters (even if cleaned); hemp and hemp tow; ramie (China grass) and ramie waste; jute and jute tow; manila hemp and manila hemp tow; sisal hemp; agave and similar fibres; coconut fibre; kapock; Indian and New Zea and hemp, pineapple fibre, esparto grass fibre, peat and wood wool, and other unspecified textile materials (not including flax and flax tow), and unspecified waste thereof:—Animal textile materials, viz.:—Merino and crossbred wool, raw or washed. Hair of the vicuna, camel, goat, Angora goat or other caprine animals; hair of the hare, rabbit, beaver, monkey, muskrat, and nutria. Horsehair (mane or tail), boiled or not. Raw silk, undyed. Floss silk, combed or not combed. Floss silk yarn (of one or more strands).

Wool and other animal hair, hackled, bleached, dyed, curled, or milled: Sheeps' wool (also glovers' wool); hair of the alpaca, camel, goat, Angora goat, and other caprine animals; hair of the hare, rabbit, beaver, monkey, muskrat, and nutria; cattle, deer, dog, swine, and other coarse animal hair; wool noils; waste of bleached or dyed wool, wool flocks, spinning waste, waste from weaving, cloth-working, cloth-cutting, etc.; waste from other working of animal hair. Crisp hair of cattle, swine, or other coarse animal hair, mixed or not with other animal hair or vegetable textile substance. Wool or other animal hair, carded or combed—not including shoddy (No. 414).

Cotton, bleached, dyed, carded, combed or milled; waste of bleached or dyed cotton; carding or combing waste, spinning waste, weaving waste, and waste from working. Other vegetable Textile Materials. Hemp, ramie, jute, manila hemp, agave fibre, pineapple fibre, esparto grass fibre, coconut fibre, vegetable down, peat and wood wool, and other vegetable textile materials (except flax), hackled, carded, combed, bleached, dyed.

Horsehair (from mane and tail), prepared: combed, drawn, bleached, dyed; also waste thereof; curled horsehair, even if mixed with other animal hair or with vegetable fibres.

* * *

Waste of Textile Wares and the like. Woollen and silk rags; cloth lists; linen, cotton, etc, rags (paper stock), and all other textile and similar waste for use in papermaking (old nets, old ropes and string, old healds no longer suitable for their original use); and textile and similar waste for other purposes (wool-dust manure, manurial silk waste, etc.).

* * *

Mr. N. Marcus, of I. Marcus and Co., London, is now in Cologne and may be seen by appointment at the Hotel Minerva, Johannistrasse. He is here for an indefinite period to buy large quantities of all classes of toys, clocks, watches, musical instruments, novelties, fancy goods and all small articles for the fancy goods trade. He is also prepared to accept agencies for England.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

Cheap.—Thimbles sold seventeen a shilling in a Government saleroom.

Getting on.—A flier from Paris to Australia has reached Constantinople.

Honours.—The New Paymaster General has been made a Privy Councillor.

Slow.—No houses have yet been erected by the L.C.C.

The Total.—The total of War Savings certificates sold totals 368,163,207.

Arrived.—A special mission from Chili has reached London.

Friesians.—Ninety-six Friesian cattle have sold for £52,000.

Mr. Smillie.—The health of the Miners' President is still unsatisfactory.

A Hero's Mother.—Mrs. Cornwell the mother of Jack Cornwell has died.

Lightermen Out.—Lightermen are on strike at Ghent.

Sacrilege.—It has now transpired that to obtain certain valuables the Germans rifled a vault at Presches.

His Beat.—A Bath postman who is retiring calculates that he has walked on his rounds 183,217 miles.

The Toll.—A Bradford moulder was said to have earned £301 in 12 months. He was ordered to pay income tax.

The First.—Submarines have been seen at Bombay for the first time. They are bound for the Far East.

Are You There?—One home in every two in the rural districts of Ontario has a telephone.

A General Complaint.—English trade is said to be suffering because of a lack of homes for workers.

Generous.—Canada proposes to make an additional grant of £4,000,000 for its soldiers' settlement scheme.

Sentences Reduced Instead.—There is not to be a general amnesty for military prisoners.

Shaving Themselves.—Hairdressers at home complain that ex-service men are shaving themselves.

Whippet's Milk Bill.—The weekly cost of feeding a famous whippet was stated to be 5s. in milk and 15s. in rabbits.

No Milk.—There is an acute shortage of milk in the devastated areas of France and Belgium.

A Mothers' Effort.—Bristol mothers have launched a vigorous campaign to bring down the price of milk.

The Prince.—Three days duckshooting by the Prince of Wales produced a bag of 483.

Bishop as Firefighter.—The Bishop of Exeter assisted in putting out a fire at his palace.

A French Home.—The Duke of Westminster has bought a residence near Bordeaux.

The Fashion.—New chrysanthemums at the Horticultural Society's show bear the names of military and naval leaders.

Royal Congrats.—The King of Spain congratulated Delysia on her performance in "Afger."

Sweated Clergy.—A Clifton curate has forsaken the cloth for a well-paid business job.

Our Princess.—Princess Mary made her first appearance as a Girl Guide the other day.

Munition Earnings.—Since November, 1911, Vickers, Ltd, has paid in wages over £27,000,000.

To Remain.—Mr. Churchill says it is intended to maintain the Territorial Force.

Small Beginnings.—A Bedford girl has died from blood poisoning caused by scratching a pimple on her face.

German Legions.—In two months 228,963 German prisoners were repatriated.

British Democracy.—According to M. Clemenceau, France is a long way from attaining the ideal of the British democracy.

Disgraceful.—A large Commercial institution actually offered a demobbed member of its staff £40 a year salary on his return.

The Anglican "Jazz".—The Rev. Basil Bourchier, Vicar of Hampstead Garden suburb, is advocating "Jazz" as an aid to religion.

Up 'Agin' the Government.—A Berlin editor is being sued for libel by the President and members of the German Government.

M.G.C. Thanksgiving.—Next Tuesday the Machine Gun Corps is holding an Armistice anniversary service at St. Martin-in-the-Fields.

Ceratopogon Culicaris!

You may not recognise his name—but you know him quite well. He's the little stinging fly which is biting everyone who tries to enjoy the evening outdoors. He will not bite you, however, if you always use. . . .

SAPON RUSSIAN TAR SOAP

You can defy all mosquitos, gnats and other pests which sting and bite.

A Doctor writes:— "I find your Russian Tar Soap gives wonderful results in irritable skin diseases, such as Scabies, Eczema, Pruritus, Insect Bites, Acne, etc." The following is the best method of application:—Moisen the Soap, rub it on the part affected, and allow it to dry.

Sold throughout all the Army Canteens at

OFFICIAL PRICE

Do not pay more. Insist on being supplied. If any difficulty advise us and we will pay postage.

SAPON SOAPS LIMITED
LONDON BRIDGE E.C.4., ENGLAND

WANTED

FOR "THE COLOGNE POST" STAFF

1. ONE ACCOUNTANT. To take charge of the whole of the accounts of the paper under the supervision of the Managing Editor.
2. ONE LEDGER CLERK. One used to newspaper accounts preferred, but accounts are fairly simple and any experienced clerk could do the work.
3. ONE REPORTER. Experienced in general reporting work.
4. ONE PROOF-READER. Must be a man of good education and wide general knowledge with experience in proof reading.
5. ONE GERMAN-SPEAKING PRINTER. To supervise German compositors. Knowledge of newspaper work required.

The above are urgently needed and application should be submitted at once. Officers and other ranks desiring to apply should first obtain permission from their C.O. and then forward their applications through the usual channels. A duplicate copy of the application supported by details of experience should be sent direct to:—

THE MANAGING EDITOR, COLOGNE POST:
A.P.O./S. 40, Army of the Rhine.

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

HIS MASTER'S VOICE GRAMOPHONE brand new, polished oak, 1 ornless. 360 marks seen at Riehl Barracks. Apply Lieut. Dale, 41st in M.G.C.

MOTOR BICYCLE for sale. 1918 "Wanderer". 2-speed, 2 cylinders, spring frame, new tyres, lamp and tools. Price £50. Major Walsh, 53rd Nthd. Fusiliers, Northern Division, Brühl.

SEAL-SKIN JACKET, 1.20 meters long, for sale. Apply A. 337 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

MOTOR CAR. Two seater, 14 h.p. Opel. In good condition. Tyres nearly new. 5 detachable wheels. Accessories. Price £250. Apply Major Terry, R.F.A., Dom-Hotel, Cologne, between 12 and 3 o'clock.

FOR SALE. Great collection of Ukraina postage stamps, more than 700 pieces of 120 variaties. Profitable occasion for wholesale dealer. For particulars apply to A 340, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

WANTED.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 4.5. if poss. but not smaller than 6.8. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

WANTED. Two ceiling punchballs, with or without platform. Write Sports Officer, 52nd Devons.

BRITISH WARM. Will any Officer demobilising and who is willing to dispose of B.W communicate with H.C. Box 19, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

PIANO wanted on hire by Army Pay Dept. Sgts. Mess. State terms to Sgt. H. Wick, Command Pay Office, Cologne.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

YOUNG LADY, War Worker, (France and Germany) seeks appointment in Germany. University Graduate in Honours. Experienced in secretarial and educational work. Apply Box 21, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

DEMOBILISED Belgian Soldier requires situation interpreter clerk, speaks French, English, German. Apply Roonstrasse 40, Cologne.

GERMAN, 32 years old, who was cook in British Hospital, speaking English and French wants situation. P. Rosskamp, Bonn, Bernotalwg 4.

LOST.

LOST in centre of Cologne or at VIth Corps Club, gold bar brooch, amthyst in centre. Reward if returned to Advt. Manager, Cologne Post, A.P.O. S.40

500 MARKS REWARD.

Between BONN and SAND (near Berg Gladbach) on 2nd November, Brown suit case marked E.J. Information to Colonel Jackson, Headquarters, Southern Division, SAND, NEAR BERG GLADBACH.

MISCELLANEOUS.

STORE ROOMS, Office and Telephone. Business man has nice Storerooms, Office and 'phone which could be shared by importers. Terms can be arranged on interview. Please write to A 339, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

PIANO-lessons given by young pianist who speaks English well. Offers to Clara Löhmer, Cöln-Lindenthal, Theresienstr. 70 I.

MISSING.

ANY INFORMATION respecting the whereabouts of Pte. William Nolh, No. 48558, D Coy. 13th Kings, reported missing March 27th, 1918, would be very gratefully received by his mother at 12, Gwendoline Street, Windsor St. Liverpool, England.

LANGUAGES

GERMAN quickly learnt, easy method. Spandow, Rudolfplatz, near Opera House. Twenty years' experience English schools.

EDUCATED young German wants to make acquaintance with educated young Englishman for learning the language. Hubert Tack, Köln, Eifelstr 42 I.

TWO young merchants want English lessons and conversation with English gentleman. Apply to A 341, Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40.

NOTES FROM LONDON TOWN.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.

London is just now the Mecca of a number of distinguished foreign visitors—mostly potentates—and Londoners have had an opportunity at the week-end of according a hearty welcome to many and very varied heads of nations. The press photographers are still busy advertising the rival attractions of Ahmed Shah of Persia, King Alfonso, The Chief of the Basutos, the Queen of Norway, and General Diaz. The young Shah at the Guildhall in his crimson and blue uniform, astrakhan fez and gaudy lapels was a striking figure, though the absence of a turban bedizened with rubies as large as plums greatly disappointed youthful readers of the Arabian Nights. There is always an element of the mystical about all men and things Persian, and the Lord Mayor's allusion to Persia's ancient glories struck a sympathetic note.

OTHER GUESTS.

The arrival of General Diaz gave Londoners an opportunity of seeing a fine muster of Cavalry and Infantry. From all accounts I believe he was as delighted with his reception as was Marshal Foch, and the cordiality of the telegrams exchanged between him and Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, on the Italian Generalissimo's departure was not only eloquent of the bonds that always mark true chivalry, but put the seal on that camaraderie which springs from ideals held in common. As for our other guests, it seems that they fully endorse the practice of doing in Rome what the Romans do. King Alfonso not only expressed his confidence in London's friendship by standing in democratic fashion among the street crowds to cheer the Shah, but attended the Chelsea and Bradford football match at Stamford Bridge like a true Cockney. An irresponsible flapper remarked what a pity it was the Royal patron of the bull-ring should be fobbed off with so bloodless an exhibition.

"SUMMER TIME."

"Summer Time" at the Royalty should have a fair run. The hero is a very amorous if forgetful soldier, who employs his leave in philandering with three pretty girls, to each of whom he gives similar diamond rings. Each tender-hearted recipient thinks she is engaged to him. But it's "napoo" with the boy in khaki, who treks off to Devonshire for a "rest" after being demobbed. But as fate would have it the three broken-hearted girls, after comparing rings and epistles, had also gone to the self-same house and town in Devonshire, whither in due course came our fickle hero accompanied by three other would-be anti-matrimonial cynics. Naturally their posturing cynicism wilts badly before the charms of femininity, set off as these are with a Devonshire background of sun-lit meadows and junket. The want of a fourth girl is supplied by Miss Fay Compton, the hero's only living relation, who bikes in as a slap-up Australian girl with a Bunty-like faculty of pulling the strings for everybody including herself.

"KISSING TIME".

One would hardly recognise the old Middlesex Theatre either under its new name the "Winter Garden Theatre" or in its fine new interior decoration. It is true Mr. George Grossmith is too busy with his dual responsibilities to take more than a slender part in "Kissing Time," but at least he gives us of his best. The "star" parts in this musical comedy, which is founded on Hennequin and Weber's French play "Madame et son Filleul" are Georgette St. Pol and Bibi St. Pol taken respectively by Miss Yvonne Arnaud and Leslie Henson. The latter is fast becoming the most popular musical comedian in town.

AT THE "PHOENIX".

I see that the "Duchess of Malfi" is to be revived at the end of the month by The Phoenix Society, when Miss Ethel Irving will assume the role of that ill-starred Duchess, who having married her steward, is imprisoned by her brother, tormented with various trials of studied cruelty, and finally shown the bodies of her husband and children counterfeited in wax, as dead. The Phoenix Society is to be congratulated on its courage and devotion to Art, for Webster's dramatic power was no doubt striking; but a theme of such unrelieved gloom and terrorism elaborated in verse which appeals by its rugged directness of purpose, merely depresses the ordinary playgoer while inviting him yet once more to draw the obvious comparison between this one of the best known of Elizabethan dramas and even the least immortal works of the Bard of Avon.

"A PRIVATE IN THE GUARDS."

The book with this title, written by Stephen Graham, that well-known writer on all things Russian, makes unpleasant reading in parts. But like the curate's egg it has its more agreeable side, and shows how the perfect guardsman of the war was evolved, from stern discipline, and a sense of esprit de corps. The book contains many a graphically written passage descriptive of the crude methods alleged to have been employed in "breaking in" civvies, but the assumption that life in the guards was entirely different from life in any other regiment is lacking in corroboration, as is also the assumption that by their discipline many were broken in spirit. At all events the author finishes on a note of pride in speaking of the finished recruit, though no doubt the lad from the rural districts did not, like Mr. Graham himself, who enlisted as a private in the Scots Guards, march his fifteen paces up and fifteen paces down as sentry, reciting to himself a stanza from Gray's Elegy or a stoic verse from Omar Khayyam. The recent announcement that the French authorities will hold a court-martial on General Fournier for the surrender in 1914 of Maubeuge reminds me of the fact that this great disaster to our gallant allies was avenged by the Guards Division when the 3rd Bn. Grenadier Guards proudly entered Maubeuge on 9th November last year.

THROUGH GOUT.

One cannot refrain from quoting from the volume, the story of Lady Nevil's autocratic old father, Lord Orford, whose infirmities could not quell his sense of duty. He was colonel of the W. Norfolk Militia, but rather than allow a sitting posture, necessitated by an attack of gout to embarrass him he drilled his Militiamen from the inside of a fly. I am sure the dignity of a genuine aristocrat does not suffer in such circumstances. Indeed I remember a particularly eminent K.C. with the same malady, haranguing the jury in a reposeful attitude. His oration lost nothing if energy of jesture was any criterion, but I felt sorry for his gout.

REGENT.

All ranks of the Rhine Army are invited to contribute to this paper. Every article published will be paid for and none should exceed 500 words in length.

THE COLOGNE POST
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

SEND THE COLOGNE POST HOME TO YOUR PEOPLE. RECEIVE IT AT HOME AFTER "DEMOB."

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army

I enclose remittance for 15 marks. (From U.K. 2/9.)

Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

PLEASE WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS

NAME: .....

ADDRESS: .....

.....

15 Marks covers all British possessions.

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, November 7, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

YOU ARE MENTIONED
IN "ECHOES FROM RHINELAND"
(PERHAPS)

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

FLIGHTS
LTD.
SPECIAL
ANNOUNCEMENT
ON PAGE 2.

No. 190. COLOGNE, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

NATION'S TWO-MINUTE PAUSE

KING'S APPEAL FOR CELEBRATION OF ARMISTICE DAY

BRITISH HOSPITAL ATTACKED IN EGYPT

THE KING'S APPEAL.

SILENT COMMEMORATION OF THE ARMISTICE.

His Majesty the King has addressed the following letter to his people:

Buckingham Palace.

To all my people,—

Thursday next, November 11th, is the first anniversary of the armistice, which stayed the world-wide carnage of the four preceding years and marked the victory of right and freedom. I believe my people in every part of the Empire fervently wish to perpetuate the memory of that great deliverance and of those who laid down their lives to achieve it.

To afford an opportunity for universal expression of this feeling is my desire, and I hope that at the hour when the armistice came into force — the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, — there may be, for the brief space of two minutes, a complete suspension of all our normal activities.

During that time, except in the rare cases where this is impracticable, all work, all sound and all locomotion should cease, so that in perfect stillness the thoughts of everyone may be concentrated on the reverent remembrance of the glorious dead.

No elaborate organization appears to be necessary. At a given signal, which can easily be arranged to suit the circumstances in each locality, I believe that we shall all gladly interrupt our business and pleasure, whatever it may be, and unite in this simple service of silence and remembrance.

(Signed) GEORGE, R.I.

The Home Secretary appeals to employees and employers to co-operate in carrying out this scheme. There is of course no need to close shops and places of business, but it is hoped that shopkeepers and customers will pass the two minutes in silence. People in the streets can best co-operate by simply standing still when the signal sounds. Arrangements have been made to stop all trains, and the police will stop all traffic in the streets.

In London and the suburbs the signal will be given by maroons. In provincial towns syrens will probably be used, though other means will readily suggest themselves.

RESTAURANT CASE.

MASKED ROBBERS SENTENCED.

After a second trial at the Old Bailey, the jury having disagreed last sessions, Peter Albert Vincent, twenty, a mechanic, and Natalie Auda, eighteen, waiter, were found guilty on Wednesday of robbing the Elysée Restaurant and of wounding Mr. William James Curry, Clerk to the Governors of Guy's Hospital. Prisoners, masked and armed with revolvers, held up the assistant manager and the doorkeeper of the restaurant, gagged and bound them, and then robbed the safe of £435. They were also masked when the attack was made on Mr. Curry.

The Recorder, in passing sentence, said Vincent was the master mind, and Auda had acted under his influence. Vincent had used most brutal violence to Mr. Currey for the purpose of effecting their escape, and might have killed him. But for their age he would certainly have passed sentence of penal servitude. Prisoners had not been previously convicted, and Vincent had served his country in German East Africa. He sentenced Vincent to 18 months' and Auda to 12 months' imprisonment, each with hard labour.

DENIKIN'S VISCISSITUDES.

The latest War Office communiqué says that Denikin's headquarters reported on the 4th November that East of Tsaritsin and Wrangel's, White troops have captured Prishib with four hundred prisoners. On the Don Army front heavy Bolshevist attacks forced the Cossacks to retire to the line of Khoper on a thirty-mile front, but West of Borisoglybsk the Cossack centre completely defeated the Bolshevist 21st Division and captured 4,700 prisoners, 24 guns and 120 machine guns. The Volunteer Army has retaken Sysvsk with 700 prisoners and has also retaken Fastov. West of Kieff the advance against Petlura continues uninterruptedly.

THE MUZZLING ORDER.

It is announced by the Board of Agriculture and Fisheries that there is no hope of the early removal of any of the restrictions on dogs in areas which have been affected by rabies.

THE SUPREME COUNCIL.

The Supreme Council has decided that Paris shall be the seat of the first meeting of the Executive Council of the League of Nations.

EGYPTIAN RIOTS.

BRITISH MILITARY HOSPITAL ATTACKED.

A message from Cairo states that a band of men attacked the British Military Hospital in one of the suburbs of Alexandria about two o'clock on Monday morning, but were driven off by the guard after shots had been fired and one of the assailants killed.

The object of the attack was either loot or a renewed assault of the patients injured in the recent affrays. Sunday and Monday were otherwise quiet in Alexandria, though general uneasiness prevails and business is at a standstill.

UNFULFILLED PROMISES.

ALLIED DEMANDS ON GERMANY.

The Berlin papers publish the text of a Note from the Supreme Council which has been handed to the German Peace Delegation.

The Note makes it a condition of the draft protocol to the Peace Treaty, and the consequent coming into force of the Treaty, that Germany shall sign a second protocol specifying the fulfilment of the obligations imposed by the Armistice agreement. The note points out a number of such obligations which Germany has failed to fulfil, or has only partially fulfilled, and therefore makes various demands, including the surrender of five light cruisers and 400,000 tons of floating docks, tugboats, and dredgers. The crews of the warships scuttled at Scapa Flow are also to be detained. Coercive measures are threatened in the event of a refusal of these demands.

THE GERMANS AT RIGA.

THIRTEEN CASUALTIES ON A BRITISH CRUISER.

The British auxiliary cruiser "Princess Margaret" has reached Copenhagen from Riga with wounded British sailors. An officer on board stated in an interview that the Germans opened fire on the British light cruiser "Dragon", and that nine of the crew were killed and four wounded. The wounded are being conveyed to England.

The officer in question stated that, thanks to the assistance of the British warships, the attack of Von der Goltz and Bermondt on Riga had proved an absolute failure.

NEWS IN OUR "AD" COLUMNS.

The best testimony to our Rhineland Exchange, which is a feature of page 4, is the increasing use which is being made of it. To-day a Gainsboroughis offered for £10,000. Yesterday it was a hansom cab made in Gloucester. Other interesting advertisements include a drawing room cinema outfit and two complete collections of the "Cologne Post", including the extra edition wherewith we established a world's record.

An unusual and gratifying request is that of a German firm which, having inadvertently overcharged for some goods, is advertising for the officer purchaser to call and receive the excess charge.

"REMEMBER OUR DEAD" FUND

Since our last list of subscriptions we have received a further amount of forty marks as under:—

Amount previously acknowledged	M. 11,170.85
R. Jones, Liverpool	20.—
A. H. Hill, C. F.	20.—
Total	11,210.85

Thus the grand total received for the fund was 11,210 marks 85 pfgs.

MINERS' DEADLOCK.

The American coalminers' strike has already caused a great shortage of coal, and industrial dislocation is rapidly increasing. There are no signs as yet of a settlement of the trouble. Both sides make conflicting claims as to the situation. The miners say they are willing to negotiate if the injunction on their leaders is removed; the Government says the injunction proceedings must be pressed, and the mine-owners refuse to open negotiations until the men return to work. The result is a complete deadlock.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

Joseph Roy Hutty, an ex-Canadian soldier, was sentenced to death at Liverpool Assizes for the murder of Alice Kate Jones, a young nurse attached to the Northern Hospital, Liverpool, where he was treated for shell-shock and where he had been nursed by the girl.

DEAR FISH.

PROFITEERING NOT TO BLAME.

The first to report of the so-called Trust Sub-Committees under the Profiteering Act is that which has been dealing with the fish trade. The report states that the present high prices of fish are not due to any combine or ring but are chiefly caused by delays in railway transport, which lead to a great deal of waste.

Railway company witnesses who were examined contend that the delay is largely due to the congestion at Billingsgate market, their vans being frequently unable to reach the consignees until too late for the day's sales. This report lends additional interest to the Food Controller's action in establishing a new departmental committee to investigate the whole question of London's food markets.

SCAPA FLOW SCUTTLING.

QUESTION REVIVED IN THE COMMONS.

In the House of Commons yesterday Colonel Claud Lowther asked who was responsible for leaving German crews on the German ships interned at Scapa Flow, and was it believed that they could be trusted?

Mr. Long, First Lord of the Admiralty replied that the decision arrived at in Paris was that the ships should be interned and not surrendered. This obviously meant that they should remain in possession of the nation to which they belonged.

Answering Mr. Bottomley, Mr. Long said that at the time the Admiralty expressed the view that the proper course was surrender, but there were many other considerations which arose in connection with the settlement of these difficult questions, and the ultimate decision in Paris was for internment.

RADIUM DEPOSITS.

CANADA'S MINERAL WEALTH.

Deposits of pitchblende, the ore from which radium is extracted, has been discovered in the Canadian township of Butt, in the Nipissing district (Ontario). Assays made by New York experts show that the specimens of pitchblende submitted are unusually rich in uradum, which is the parent of radium.

This is the second discovery of radium bearing mineral reported to the Canadian Bureau of Mines since the Ontario Legislature offered a reward of twenty-five thousand dollars for the discovery of radium in Ontario in commercially useful quantities. It is not yet proved, however, that radium exists in either of the properties in sufficient quantity as to be commercially useful.

PAYMENT OF GERMAN TAXES.

All subjects of the Allied and Associated Powers—with the exception of the Army of Occupation and all persons accompanying it—are liable to the payment of all direct taxes and duties payable by German Subjects, under reserve of the rights accorded to Allied Nationals in Article 297 J of the Treaty of Peace.

LORD FISHER CONTRADICTED.

In connection with statements made by Lord Fisher, Mr. Bonar Law, answering Mr. Raper in the House of Commons, said he was aware that statements had been made in the Press reflecting on the Admiralty for delay in instituting director firing. In his opinion, however, these statements were made on insufficient grounds and without full knowledge of the facts.

BATTLE PEERS TAKE THEIR SEATS.

Several new members of the House of Lords, whose peerages were bestowed for war services, took their seats yesterday. Earl Beatty was introduced by Earl Howe and the Earl of Lytton. Lord Rawlinson was sponsored by Lord Lovat and Lord Methuen, and Lord Byng by Lord Hylton and Lord Stamfordham.

GOLD RUSH TO SIBERIA.

A message from Nome (Alaska) states that goldseekers are leaving in increasing numbers for mysterious rich deposits reported to exist somewhere across the Behring Sea in Siberia. Residents at Nome have fitted out several trading schooners for the purpose of prospecting in the neighbouring continent.

IRONMOULDERS' NEW DEMANDS.

A fresh development of the ironmoulders strike occurred yesterday when the representatives of the three Unions in the Preston Area forwarded to the Central Strike Committee a resolution urging that the original demand for fifteen shillings weekly advance in wages be increased to twenty shillings.

On Armistice day there will be a memorial service at St. Paul's Cathedral for those who laid down their lives for King and country during the war.

MORE HOUSES.

HEALTH MINISTRY'S STRONG ACTION.

Replying to a deputation representing the National Housing and Town Planning Council, Dr. Addison, Minister of Health, said he was prepared to scrap existing regulations and everything else that prevented the getting of more houses. The subject of a national housing loan, he said, was under the consideration of a Treasury Committee. The financing of housing schemes must be done quickly, and he was glad to be assured of the support of the National Council.

Local authorities need not be afraid of their financial burdens for housing schemes exceeding a penny rate, but the Government must also be protected against the danger of houses being let at uneconomical rents. The future of the whole of the building trade depended on getting back to economical rents as soon as possible, and it was essential to have a system under which houses could be built at a reasonable cost and yield a fair profit for the builder.

With these objects in view agreements had been entered into with house builders for the erection of houses and their sale to local authorities. The Ministry's Housing scheme would be jeopardised if a large number of houses were not erected quickly, and he was therefore prepared to accept houses which might not comply in all respects with the standards of the Government manual. He appealed for whole-hearted co-operation of employers and operatives, otherwise the nation would be landed in a hopeless impasse.

LEPROSY CURED.

GREAT SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY.

An announcement has recently been made at Honolulu that complete cures of leprosy have been effected at Halihi, the territorial hospital at that place, and that within the past few months twenty patients have been discharged as cured without one recurrence of the disease. Blood tests of discharged patients reveal no trace of the leprosy germ. Chaulmogra oil, obtained from the seeds of Araeogines Kurzii, has been known for fifty years as a specific for leprosy, and is the only medicine used in the treatment of sufferers from that dreadful disease. The oil has been perfected by a refining process discovered by Dr. A. L. Dean, professor of chemistry and President of the University of Hawaii.

GENERAL MONASH OFF HOME.

General Monash, commanding the Australian Forces, was interviewed yesterday on the eve of his return to Australia. He expressed his profound gratitude to the people of the Old Country for the love and affection with which Australians have been treated, especially in the way of private hospitality in the people's own homes. Over 20,000 Australians received this kindness, he said, and they will tell it to their children and grandchildren, thus carrying on the Imperial idea.

"I am going home," he concluded, "because I am homesick. I have had many tempting offers to remain here, but I feel like a schoolboy returning home for the holidays."

OUT-OF-WORK INSURANCE.

The Government has informed the Labour Party, says the "Star," that the unemployment allowances will be continued pending the completion of the new scheme for universal contributory insurance against unemployment. It is believed, however, that allowances will be reduced and more stringent regulations introduced to prevent abuse of the out-of-work donation.

The Labour view is opposed to both changes, contending that having regard to the cost of living the existing rates are not over-generous, while the present regulations are claimed to be adequate.

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT ARMY COLLEGE.

A special service in memory of those who gave their lives in the war will be held at the Army General and Commercial College, 58 Hansa Ring, at 10.00 hours on Sunday next, the 9th inst.

The service will be conducted by the College Chaplain, and the Assistant Chaplain General has kindly promised to give an address.

All friends of the college are cordially invited to this service.

SPECTACLES FOR SOLDIERS.

An Army Council Instruction states that only one pair of spectacles will be issued at the public expense to each soldier for whom they are authorized. Subsequent replacements will be made at the soldier's cost. When the Special Reserve and the Territorial Force have been disembodied, the issue of spectacles will be confined to the Regular Army.

TO THE DOVER PATROL.

On the 19th November Prince Arthur of Connaught will lay the foundation stone of the obelisk to be erected on the cliffs between Dover and St. Margarets in memory of the officers and men of the Dover patrol who fell in the war.

"FIGHT THE FAMINE'

THREE RESOLUTIONS, BUT NO SUGGESTIONS.

The private "International Economic Conference" concluded its deliberations yesterday with the adoption of three resolutions.

The first expresses alarm at the danger of widespead famine and the general condition of Europe, which is described as a grave menace to all countries. In view of the prevailing ignorance of facts, the Supreme Economic Council and other Inter-Allied bodies are urged to publish full information regarding the economic situation in various countries.

The second resolution demands cessation of forcible intervention in Russia as the first step towards the restoration of Russia's normal economic life, and the third demands a revision of the economic clauses of the Peace Treaty, which it describes as being largely responsible for the disorganisation of production and impairment of credit.

THE LABOUR CONGRESS.

DEBATE ON WORKING HOURS.

Separate meetings were held on Wednesday by the Labour Committee and the Employers' Group set up by the International Labour Conference, which resulted in a recommendation by the Labour Committee of a 44 or 46-hour week with 48 hours maximum, while the employers decided upon counter-proposals.

A feature of the Labour Committee meeting was an address by Mr. Domaye, advisor to the Japanese Labour delegates, who urged the adoption of an eight-hour day without reservation, and charged the Japanese Government with being "entirely controlled by capitalists", with prohibiting the organisation of Labour unions, and with retarding the eight-hour day movement in Japan.

Mr. G. N. Barnes (Great Britain), in his address, declared that Great Britain would redeem her promise during the war to grant an eight-hour day. The workers of Great Britain would never return to the old conditions. The public had the right to expect that Labour would give its whole-hearted co-operation in the increase of production and in making good the losses in the war. He said that he preferred a forty-hour to a forty-eight hour week.

PRISON LABOUR.

GREAT DECREASE IN CRIME.

The report of the Commissioners of Prisons for the year 1918-19 was issued on Thursday. The total number of prisoners received under sentence was 28,753, as compared with 33,285 in the previous year. Reports from all prisons testified to the beneficent effect of the restrictions affecting the sale of liquor.

During the year prisoners made nearly four million articles of war stores for the Admiralty, War Department, Post Office etc. It is interesting to note that since August 1914 war orders have been accepted for 19¾ million articles, of which over 19½ millions have been supplied.

WOMEN BANK CLERKS.

At the meeting of women bank clerks held in London yesterday speakers denied that women were keeping out any ex-service man from a post he had held before the war, and the view was emphasised that men's attitude towards women workers would change if all suspicion of undercutting were removed.

The meeting finally authorised the Women Clerks' Association to approach bank directors with a view to securing equal pay irrespective of sex, the abolition of regular overtime, and a forty-two hour week.

Miss Young, who presided, said she hoped to see a woman manager of the Bank of England.

AERIAL MAIL SERVICES.

The Postmaster General announces the establishment of an aerial mail service between London and Paris. As soon as practicable the service will extend to other parts of France, Italy, Spain and Switzerland. The rate will be half a crown per ounce in addition to the ordinary postage.

NO STEAMER FOR GERMAN DELEGATES.

After delaying their proceedings for the arrival of the German delegates who were expected to arrive in the States yesterday by the steamship Nieuw Amsterdam, the International Labour Conference received a cablegram saying that they had not yet sailed but were still trying to obtain a passage to America.

KING ALFONSO DEPARTS.

King Alfonso left Victoria yesterday for Madrid via Paris. At the station were King George, Prince Arthur of Connaught, the Earl of Athlone and members of the Spanish Embassy and colony. As the train left, the departing guest was heartily cheered.

The French aviator, Lieutenant Poulet, has reached Konia (Asia Minor) on his way to Australia.

ONE YEAR AGO.

ANNIVERSARY OF GERMAN REVOLUTION.

To-morrow is the anniversary of the German Revolution. On the 9th November, 1918, while the armistice was being considered, the world was thrilled by the news that the Kaiser and the Crown Prince had renounced the dynasty. The Kaiser fled ignominiously, and succeeded in reaching Holland, and the Crown Prince followed a day or two later. Universal suffrage was granted by Prince Max, who was in temporary authority, and a National Assembly was promised to decide upon the future Government of Germany. Events moved with astonishing rapidity, however, and forestalled those plans.

The German people took matters into their own hands, determined to make a clean sweep of the old régime.

Cologne affords a typical illustration of what took place all over Germany, although, thanks to the presence of the British and Allied Powers, the occupied territory has been spared such terrible excesses and horrors as have taken place at Munich and elsewhere. On the 8th November then, a year ago, sailors from the German Fleet, in which there had been a general mutiny, arrived in some force at Cologne. All military and civil prisoners were released from the prisons, while on the Neumarkt and in the main streets the revolutionaries began to disarm the soldiery. The soldiers were not unwilling. They simply gave up their arms and went to their homes. Police did likewise, and with their disappearance the looting of shops and food depots commenced. Lorries with red flags drove at full speed through the streets, and many people sported red cockades. Elections to the "Soldiers and Workers," Councils were held on the Neumarkt—that is, the loudest and most violent talkers secured the best jobs. During the night there was some shooting. Similar disturbances were of daily and nightly occurrence for the ensuing few weeks. On the 3rd December the last German troops passed East over the Hohenzollern bridge, and on the following day the British were at Cologne, having been preceded by an advance guard of cavalry at the request of the municipal authorities.

PREMIUM BONDS.

HUGE STOCK EXCHANGE GUARANTEE.

There is a growing demand for the issue of prize bonds. Prominent members of the Stock Exchange have guaranteed to secure two hundred and fifty millions within a month if the Government adopts the suggestion.

OLYMPIA MOTOR SHOW.

The Olympia motor exhibition, under the patronage of the King, opens to-day. Yesterday hundreds of workmen were busy putting the finishing touches and preparing the three hundred odd stands for exhibitors.

This is the thirteenth exhibition organised by the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders in connection with the Royal Automobile Club. In the matter of general interest the present show bids fair to beat all records. There are 350 exhibits, and the directorate states that from the number of applications received they could have filled Hyde Park.

Keen rivalry is evident between British, French, and American manufacturers. The cheapest car shown is British, a small but speedy two-seater, twin cylinder, at £150, while the most expensive one is a two thousand guinea chassis with eight-cylinder engine of French make, the body for which will cost another thousand guineas. A special feature of the exhibition is that which illustrates the great advance made in self-starting devices. It is expected that the King will visit the exhibition early next week.

COTTON AT 7½d. PER REEL.

The net profits of T. and P. Coats, cotton manufacturers, for the year ended 30th June, after deducting for depreciation and allowing excess profits duty, amounted to £3,893,388 compared, with £3,171,796 for the previous year. The distribution for the year amounted to forty per cent. on ordinary shares, an increase of ten per cent.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

Speculative issues opened active and values were further advanced, notably oils, but enthusiasm was damped by the advance in the Bank of England rate of discount from five per cent. to six per cent. which caused some disorganisation, many being unprepared for the movement. Values relapsed, especially in recent favourite descriptions, some of which eventually showed pronounced reductions, but the declines were due more to the cessation of buying than to selling pressure. Shippings and textiles maintained their strength throughout, and closed with a better tendency towards partial recovery of earlier losses. The opinion of the money market is that the flood of new capital issues and inflated credit for speculative purposes are the main factors which induced the Bank of England to raise its minimum rate of discount.

The Industrial Courts Bill has passed the second reading.

FLIGHTS LTD

MILITARY TAILORS

LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Have a selection of the newest materials for mufti suits. Also a stock of hosiery and service caps. Riding breeches made to measure in about 14 days.

OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

I. MARCUS :: & Co. :: LONDON

wish to hear from manufacturers direct of all classes of JOINTED DOLLS PASTE BROOCHES AND JEWELLERY SMALL TOYS AND NOVELTIES FOR PRIZE PACKETS AND LUCKY BAGS CLOCKS, WATCHES TINSEL, BALLS (PAINTED & PLAIN) LEATHER GOODS MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, MOUTH ORGANS, BEADS RAZORS, PHOTO-FRAMES, COMBS & ALL FANCY GOODS

Mr. N. Marcus will be in Cologne for a few weeks to buy all such goods and to arrange agencies for England and also the export from England of all kinds of products required for the German market.

ADDRESS IN FIRST INSTANCE BOX M.A.R. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S 40, Rhine Army.

SPARKES HALL

308 REGENT ST. LONDON Wand.

4. AVENUE FRIEDLAND, Paris

ROOM 71, DISCH HOTEL

Brückenstr. COLOGNE

(Next Door to N.A.C.B. Canteen)

FIELD, HUNTING & POLO BOOTS

Hand-Sewn Field Boots, Civilian Boots, Shoes and Pumps made to order and delivered to Germany in 18 days or in England in 10 days.

Café and Concert House

GERMANIA

Hohestrasse, Cologne

Daily Concerts by a Selected Orchestra under the personal direction of

PETER GRAEF, Violinist

formerly of the Trocadero, London from 3.30 to 7 p.m. and from 8 to 10.30 p.m.

France et Belgique

peuvent acheter maintenant à des prix qui ne reviendront plus nos excellents papiers carbones et rubans pour machines à écrire qui sont fabriqués avec les tissus les plus fins. Echantillons gratuits prouvent l'avantage énorme d'acheter directement chez nous.

Dr. Wenzlik et Ing. Schomers

Bonn.

Mr. Alfred Hurley's London Music Hall Coy.

"The ECCENTRICS"

All first-class Artistes including

"DATAS"

The famous Memory Man from The Palace, London. "Am I Right, Sir?"

MISS MARGUERITE DE LARA, Prestidigitator,

MISS GLADYS STANLEY, Soubrette, Central Pier, Blackpool, Season 1919.

MISS MARJORIE BOWYA Vocalist and Violinist

MR. C. POWELL-EASTBERY Comedian and Baritone and together in "A Potpourri of Rags and Gags".

MR. WARWICK PRYCE Entertainer at the Piano from Maskelyne & Devants, London.

Any Commanding Officer desiring to entertain his own unit can engage this party or the Jesters. Apply for terms to Mr. Alfred Hurley, c/o Amusements Office, Komodien Str. or may be seen there personally at 11 o/c each morning.

SUNDAY CONCERT.

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.

SPECIAL SUNDAY CONCERT. Sunday, 9th November 1919. Last appearance this Season of

BACKHAUS

The World Famous Pianist.

Vocalist:

HOWARD FRY

Book at the Theatre or Amusements Office. Prices:— 10, 6, 4, & 2 Marks.

Visit the British Shop in Cologne

Miss EDITH CAVE'S

Establishment, 84 Hohenzollern Ring

The best place for Souvenirs, Stationery and Military supplies of every description. Tram 18 passes the door.

Church of England Services in Cologne.

THE GARRISON CHURCH (Schildergasse.

All Saints Sunday, Nov. 2nd 1919.

Holy Communion: 8.00, 11.30, 19.00.

Parade Service. 10.30. Rev. J.D.S. Parry Evans, A.C.G. Rhine Army.

Afternoon Service 14.30 (at the Sudfriedhof Cemetery) Commemoration of the Fallen.

Evening Service. 18.00.

This Service will be offered as a Tribute to our glorious dead.

Preacher: Rev. J. Ferguson Colquhoun C.F.

THE CHURCH ARMY CHAPEL Hotel du Nord.

Sundays: Holy Communion, 8 a.m.

Church of England Services in Bonn

IN GARRISON CHURCH, BONN.

SUNDAYS: Holy Communion 7-30, 8-00, 11-45, and 18-45 hours.
Parade Service (Corps) at 10-00 hours.
Parade Service (Div.) at 11-00 hours.
Evening Service at 18-00 hours.
Organ Recital every Sunday from 17-45 to 18-00 hours.

WEEK-DAYS: Holy Communion Daily 7-45 hours.
excepting on Thursday when it is at 10-30 hours.
Evening Prayers at 18.00 hours excepting on Thursday.

IN BEETHOVEN-HALL, BONN.

SUNDAYS: Evening Service at 18-30 hours followed by celebration of Holy Communion at 19.30 hours.

Catholic Services in Cologne on Sundays.

COLOGNE, CATHEDRAL

Mass in Cathedral at 8 a.m. (north Transept) High Mass in Cathedral at 9-15 a.m.
Parade Mass in Minoritenkirche (Minoritenstr.), 2 minutes from Cathedral at 10 a.m.
Rosary and Benediction in Minoritenkirche at 7 p.m. Confessions in Cathedral on Saturdays from 5—7 p.m.

EHRENFELD. Church at the junction of Mechteren Strasse and Vogelsanger Strasse:—
Mass on Sundays 9 15 a.m. Confessions on Saturdays 5 p.m.

LINDENTHAL. Chapel of the Hospital in Josef Stelzmann Strasse—continuation of Giebel Strasse:—
Mass on Sundays 10.30 a.m. Confessions on Saturdays 5 p.m.

Scottish Churches and English Free Churches.

THE MILITARY CHURCH.

6 Filzengraben (Turning off Heumarkt.)

Sunday, 9th November

11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Preacher: Rev. G. A. SEATH, C. F. (Garrison Chaplain).

Cars Nos. 6, 7, 11, 18 and 20.

Welsh Service 2—30 p.m. in Y.M.C.A. Central.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.

To-night at 6 p.m.
THE BRITISH RHINE ARMY DRAMATIC COMPANY
presents

"THE SILVER BOX"

A Comedy in three acts by John Galsworthy

Large Caste. Special Attraction.

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.

This week nightly at 6 p.m.
Mr. ALFRED HURLEY presents his London Music Hall Coy.
Artistes:

"DATAS"

The world renowned memory man from the Palace Theatre, London. "Am I right, Sir."?

MISS MARGUERITE DE LARA Prestidigitator

MISS GWLADYS STANLEY, Soubrette Central Pier, Blackpool, Season 1919

MISS MAJORIE BOWYA and MR. POWELL-EASTBERY Versatile Duo

MR. WARWICK PRYCE Entertainer at the piano from Maskelyne and Devant's St. George's Hall, London.

And THE CRUMPS' ORCHESTRA by kind permission of the G.O.C. London Division

Usual prices. Book Early.

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA. 32 Komödienstrasse

At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA. Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse

At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c. Grand Orchestra and Pictures.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA. Hohe Strasse PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS,

Bright Music and Best Pictures.

BRITISH EMPIRE LEAVE CLUB

CINEMA

Every day at 2.30 Admission 2 Marks.

The Cologne Post

Telephones: Military, No. 650. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S. 40, British Army of the Rhine.
Subscript.: In Rhine Army area 9 mks. 50 pfg. a month, post free.
To Great Britain or Colonies, 15 marks a month post free.

Saturday, November 8, 1919.

THE KING'S ROLL.

Sometime back we gave details of the National Scheme for the employment of disabled ex-soldiers. Naturally, the question is now being asked: what has been the response from the employers?

We do not know that any very definite information is available even now, for the progress of the scheme had an undoubted set-back by the railway strike.

According to the "Ex-Service Man", which of course, is closely watching this and all other projects aiming to benefit those who have left the Army, employers are now making a real move and their undertakings to employ the disabled are reaching the Ministry of Labour in increasing numbers.

Up to the middle of last month some five thousand firms had accepted the scheme, and out of two thousand who had already qualified for their names to be placed on the National Roll, the larger part are employing their full quota of disabled men.

Since the scheme was first inaugurated it has been decided to extend its application, so that the smallest employer of labour will be able to have his name on the roll. The original provision was that firms employing ten or more workers were eligible. Now all, whatever the number of their employes may be, come under the scheme. This is probably all to the good, and when progress is next reported it will doubtless be seen that the small employer is as keen as the big man to do his bit for those who suffered for his country's sake.

As we said when the scheme was first launched, its necessity was regrettable. Every firm in Britain should have done its duty to the brave without any pressure or incentive whatever. But human nature will always predominate and supplant true patriotism, we fear. Gratitude, it has been said by a cynic, is but "a lively sense of favours to come." When the deadly fight is done there is the unwholesome tendency to forget those who have sacrificed so much in order that the manufacturer and the merchant may continue to enjoy the profits of factory or emporium, safe from enemy despoilers.

But perhaps that is a little beside the question do-day. The main thing now is to see that the King's Roll grows and grows, and the unemployed disabled—still a pathetic, numerous band—should diminish to vanishing point.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

A Series of Impressions.

I.

First the famous talisman of Arthurian romance, the cup of the Holy Grail; the fabulous object of quest on the part of the Knights of the Round Table; the Chalice of the Last Supper in which the blood, flowing from the wounds of the Crucified Saviour, has been miraculously preserved. The Grail, a shining vessel, the Grail, a precious stone brought to earth by angels, these symbols of the past floating before the mind, coming like the sound of music through the long centuries. And the Voice which the music supports? The Voice is that of the Knight of the Grail. Sometimes his name is Gawain, Perceval or Galahad, but always he moves to the one end. "It is he who must have touched or received the blood of pure sacrifice, it is he who is destined to bring the Quest to a successful termination."

II.

At Crécy, in 1316, a young Anglo-Saxon with shining hair wins his spurs as one who is bold and indomitable. He conquers the French King John and, after Poitiers, there is a return of the troops of the army. We see him, Edward the Black Prince, in triumphal progress from Sandwich to London, riding on a small black pony, and beside him his royal prisoner on a "great cream-colored charger." Comes the remembrance of Canterbury Tales and tales of old French history; how Edward was so high a Prince that he could stoop low to serve his conquered enemy at table. The idol of England. The first great Prince. The man of war, the defender of peace, the lover of people.

III.

Edward the VII., another Prince of Wales, he who dared in straight-laced Victorian days to love laughter and to adore Art, to break the unwritten law of Puritanism and to make the ways of peace. Edward who knew men not as king-to-be, but as a Prince-who-is. And knowing kings and princes as they were and are, knowing men and women as they are and will be, said: "The Kings of old are fading. I shall reign and my son shall reign after me—beyond that, who knows?" Behind the gleam of helmets and of brilliant banners, under the laughter of long safety and in the shadow of the great towers of commerce he heard whispers and he felt the rumour of oncoming doom. A Prince of purple days when imperialism seemed born anew, he was conscious of the thin grey mist that was gathering about the gaiety of the world. At many a feast of kings he saw a ghost at the banquet. And he talked much with a certain elderly Irishman—Lord Roberts. One day his grandson, the heir apparent of the English throne, was born. Again he said, "I shall reign, and my son shall reign after me—beyond that, who knows?" For the thin grey mist crept nearer.

IV.

1914. Again a Prince of Wales goes fighting into France. The ghosts of the French soldiers who loved the Black Prince because he was a chivalrous foe, rejoice that this Edward comes as a supporter of the cause of France. There is no gleaming armour, no surrounding host, no pageantry as the Three Feathers takes its place. That place is in the trenches. "There is not much room in a trench," and everyone dresses alike. Rainsoaked khaki, much-stored meat, mud in abundance, fatigue, cigarettes, orders obeyed: "an ordinary decent-fellow like others we know." His Oxford friends falling dead like withered leaves, his gallant comrades everywhere dying, youth eager to have a chance to die too. "Give me a place in the Front. I want to go over the top with the others." "It is necessary to think of the succession, Sir," "That takes care of itself. I have brothers. I want to go with the rest."

V.

1919. Canada, last in Peace Processions but first in fighting, en fete for her Comrade-in-arms. Gray Halifax, old Quebec, royal Montreal, Toronto the one-time fort, Winnipeg golden as her grain fields, all astir. Mayors getting ready their addresses and ladies their dresses, school children practising songs and decorators wiring for more bunting, women of returned, or to-be-decorated soldiers jostling, women of dead soldiers—wondering, shop girls eager or apprehensive of the crowd, most men urbane but cool-blooded, poets arranging rhymes, politicians hurrying from fishing grounds, and teachers from their precious holidays, officials more rude than usual, and the smart set almost unbearable. Everybody, consciously or unconsciously, alert.

VI.

Then the moment of arrival—the river of widening cheers, the flags, the bands, the unregal motor car, the stereotyped address and "the Maple leaf forever." As the crowd shifts, the sight of a face, very young and tired, bearing those deep lines under the eyes that are an inheritance of the reigning British house, a slight form in khaki that shakes hands very nicely with welcoming Vice-Royalty, bows to the people and replies in a proper spirit to addresses read, and says, rather shyly, "Thank you very much," to addresses handed. The programme goes on, the crowds increase, the ladies murmur "a dear," the men "a very promising boy." But there is a different look on the faces of the soldiers he has just reviewed. Watch them and you see a sort of kindling spark. This Prince is unpretentious. You feel sorry for him, so young and smothered in addresses. . . . . The children sing again with even more force and fury than on his arrival. The first function is over. The Prince is embarked on several days of civic exploitation. But not quite. The first function is not quite over. He turns to his aide, who nods. And then, coming out of the Royal Pavilion made for his reception, he stands out—away from his own group—walks across the platform to the gathered chorus of children, leans over and thanks them for their singing. Suddenly, by what magic who knows, the whole thing, the whole scene, comes alive. He is speaking to them unpremeditatively, of no necessity, and is at last—himself. The loveliest look of self-forgetfulness shines out and in that moment the old miracle has happened—that of sudden realization. It may cost most cities the first half hour of speeches, of ghastly, perhaps necessary, officialdom to find out the heart of the Prince—but not longer. There are half hours of human life that do not afford one instant for the flash of spirit—but not many. Children on that morning released a sort of spell. And going with him from place to place we see the thing deepening. Children, old people, wounded soldiers, the foundrymen rushing out to greet him as he passes, the country woman with her offering of garden flowers or apples, all the "little people" of the world—these bring that look to the face of the Prince of Wales that comes only to the selfless saviours of the world. In conventional surroundings courteous and charming, extending at government receptions a tired right hand with all the bonhomie of his grandfather, in private "the best of good fellows" and, Heaven help him, let us hope for his own sake a youth who loves a joke. But all this is beside the point that, first and last and always he whom we hope will some day become the world's greatest king, is so touched by the consciousness of unity in humankind through joy and sorrow that he never seems to live entirely save among those that are known as "the common people." To give himself royally away seems to be his joy, and while his hosts and dance partners find him delightful, the people on the streets, the widows and wives to whom he speaks, the children and the aged find him adorable as they never thought to adore a Prince. One, a nameless writer to a daily paper said, "He brings to your heart the lover you lost, or the child you never had." A poor woman said to the writer, "He passes like light." Another, "He has sorrow in his eyes, yet they are young eyes. It is a wonder."

VII.

For myself I feel that this youth—Gawain, Perceval or Galahad, who you like—has been sent into the world as the symbol of a great new kingship. It shines in his face, it speaks not in his words but in his deeds, and it seems to say, "It is he who must have touched or received the blood of pure sacrifice, it is he who is destined to bring the Quest to a successful termination." — Katherine Hale in 'The Canadian Woman's Century.'

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX.

We Hear all Sides and Accept no Responsibility for our Readers' Views.

EYES AND NO EYES.

Sir,—This is I think a very profitable subject to discuss. And especially should our womenfolk over here keep their eyes open and they can take many lessons from the German housewife.

Housekeeping is a fine art in this country. The girls are properly trained in it. The practical side of home life is taught in every branch. The German girl when she marries is not completely ignorant of the things that go to make a happy comfortable well-ordered household. She is not at the mercy of servants, but can do everything herself and can instruct those under her.

The German home is essentially one of comfort. Much thought is given to every detail in regard to cooking, food storage and laundry work. The kitchen ranges are models of what such appliances should be. All kinds of cute notions for increasing efficiency are in evidence. Everything is spotlessly clean, indeed to the British idea cleanliness is carried to extremes.

The German housewife is a worker and so are her servants. They seem to be engaged in some household service at all hours of the day. Yet they seem happy enough for they take a pride in their work.

Yes, undoubtedly British women on the Rhine can learn a great deal, if they will.

"MRS." SERGEANT.

RABBIT OR—?

Sir,—Who is C.M. that he should set himself up as an arbiter of what is fitting in costume?

I am a member of one of the women's organisations that have evidently upset him by wearing fur on my collar. Why shouldn't I? The days and nights are cold and if I like to keep my neck and throat protected from chilly blasts by some fur is anybody the worse?

Besides being warmer, I can tell by a glance in my mirror that it doesn't make me any less prepossessing in appearance. Indeed others, more gallant than C.M. have complimented me on donning a fur collar.

And whether the fur is beaver or musquash or cat or rabbit, as long as it is warm and comforting and looks nice, what does it matter? If "bunny" were an almost extinct creature his fur would be all the rage. The fact that rabbits abound does not make their fur any less nice. The fur collar may not be de rigueur for soldier men, but for us girls I don't believe there is any regulation against it. Till I know there is, I am one of those who will continue to wear

BUNNY.

RINK HOCKEY.

Sir,—In reply to "Enthusiast," I am sure that he has never seen a game of Rink Hockey played between two teams of repute, or he would not talk as he does.

He says the game is tame and uninteresting. I cannot agree with him on that point. It is, in fact, a most interesting game to watch, and the skill required to control the ball in this game is far above his imagination. Rink Hockey, when played as it should be played, is a 100% more skilful than Field Hockey.

He also says it is tame. Seeing that it is about the fastest game played, I fail to see where the tameness comes in.

Then again he says keep the rink for "pukka" skating. Is there no "pukka" skating shown in this game? When played on a large rink, all the arts and intricacies of Roller Skating are brought into play, and it requires no learner to attempt to play this game against an experienced side.

Perhaps "Enthusiast" has only seen a game played between two inexperienced teams, where they simply rush from one end of the rink to the other without any idea of skill, but I think, that, if he were to see a game such as I have seen in the old "Craze" days, he would soon alter his opinion, and doubtless sign himself under the non de plume of "Enthusiastic Rink Hockey Player."

SWERVER.

Sir,—Reference letter of "Enthusiast" on the above quoted subject, I disagree with his statement that Rink Hockey is tame and uninteresting.

In pre-war days, most rinks that I attended usually held their practice matches either before the opening hour to the general public, or after the closing hour. Should this system be carried out over here I fail to see how "Pukka" skating would be interfered with, also should a match be arranged to take place during the evening, this would only occupy the floor for about 30 minutes, and so leave ample time for "Enthusiast" to indulge in "Pukka" skating.

RINKER
(ex-Member of Leamington Spa Rink Hockey Club).

INSANITY AND CHESS.

Sir,—In reply to "Guerilla" myself and all my family have played chess for many years. In Febrary last, I volunteered for one year's extra Army service; otherwise there is no sign of insanity in my family.

E.M.F.

HOLD IT FAST.

Sir, — I read your leading article and also the letter from J.B.S.

I wish every officer and man could be induced to take the advice to heart, for it is quite a lamentable thing to see how many are frittering away their gratuity which would be a god-send to most of them when they are demobbed.

Unfortunately youth isn't far seeing as a rule. That is its weakness, besides I am well aware, being its strength also. But the present happy irresponsible days in Rhineland are not going to last for ever.

The "Lions" Club and the Ewige Lampe and the Fancy Dress Carnivals and the Jazz teas are delightful diversions. I don't deny that, and can enjoy them myself in moderation. But they do run away with one's resources in an alarming way.

Many I know, can't keep up on their pay and allowances and are dipping pretty heavily into their gratuities.

It is up to senior officers and men to do all they can by their influence on the younger men to warn them of their folly.

Unfortunately youth is not too prone to take advice. Yet we can but do our best.

FORTY-FIVE.

Sir,—You did not touch on what I feel is the most fruitful source of extravagance among the Army of Occupation and helps to make gratuities vanish. I refer to the presence of women on the Rhine.

A little while back there was an animated discussion in your columns on the question of wives out here affecting efficiency. Personally I would say that not only do they have that result but they encourage extravagance.

I don't blame them too much, but I know it to be the fact. Many have never been outside England and many have had no experience of life, probably being young war-wives.

The glamour of life in a foreign city appeals to them They want their cup of enjoyment filled to the brim. And hubby can supply the wherewithal to provide a good time.

There's a nice cheque gone into his account at Cox's. "You won't be so mean as to hoard it up for some silly future will you, darling? Think of your little wifie spoiling for fun!"

And so the money goes in many cases. Demobilization looms ahead. Unemployment at home becomes a terrible reality. The gratuity has gone in pleasure. Tragedy!

H.H.W.

GERMAN CHILDREN & MILK.

Sir,—I am in full sympathy with the writer of your article on this subject.

The supply of milk for the new generation, not only in Germany and England, but in France, Belgium and every country hit by the disastrous war is one of the chief problems to be faced.

With milk at a shilling a quart in England, it means that thousands of kiddies coming into the world in these days will be deprived of the natural nourishment essential to building a sturdy race.

Our great medical authorities have told us that even when the war came we were only a people with "C3" physique. The proper upbringing of children had been neglected. Now, with milk scarce what category will such of our race as survive, descend to?

We must think of ourselves and our Allies. It is all very fine for the race which provoked war and all its horrors and waged it with ruthless brutality to whine now about their children needing milk. Probably they do, but the Germans should have taken this possibility into their calculations. The Allies need all the milk they can get. So let us all do our best to ensure them getting it for the sake of the little ones — our future hope.

S.S.

PROPAGANDA NECESSARY.

Sir,—Conversation with Germans, particularly of the uneducated type leads me to believe that many are still in the dark as to early events in the war.

Imagine my surprise the other evening on being asked if it were not true that the English Tommy was induced to shoulder arms by tempting monetary offers, the insinuation being that there was no love of Motherland behind his action.

Looking back on my share of the pay roll and what the war has meant to me and to hundreds of others from a financial point of view, I have come to the conclusion that the sooner this class of German is educated up to the gigantic effort made by the British Empire, the better.

WAG.

BRITISH AND GERMAN OPERA.

Sir,—If I were asked what is the difference between English and German opera I should say that opera in England is only one of the "arts whereas in Germany it is at least trois beaux arts."

Any habitue of the Opernhaus will know the names of this triple art alliance. It would be interesting if any reader who is well acquainted with Covent Garden opera will express an opinion.

CLAUDE.

GAMBLING ON THE GAME.

BY JESSE PENNINGTON.

(THE POPULAR WEST BROMWICH ALBION AND ENGLISH INTERNATIONAL FULL-BACK.)

Public Wants Fair And Square Contests.

Gambling on the results of football matches is undoubtedly on the increase, and has been for some little time past, the years of war excepted, perhaps. And the signs of that increase cannot be noted by any man who has the welfare of the sport at heart without some misgivings. I have heard some people go so far as to say that within a few years gambling on the game will kill football I don't take such a pessimistic view as that, because I believe the powers are at work to scotch it as far as it can be scotched. But though we may not believe that gambling will kill the game, I never discourage those who are of that opinion, because it is quite certain that it is much more risky to take too light a view of the matter than too serious a one.

Those who know me have never yet accused me of being a preacher, and I don't intend to take up that role now. The British public will have its flutter, and it has been said that if there was nothing else to gamble about then they would gamble on the length of a sermon. It is not for me to say that they shouldn't gamble on football. If the workman likes to back his favourities to win for a bob or two, I don't propose that he should be stopped. He is losing, most likely, his own money, and even if we tried to stop him we couldn't.

A HUGE BUSINESS.

Everybody knows, however, that in recent years gambling on football has become a huge business, which has served to keep fat and prosperous quite a lot of people who ought to be otherwise employed. The other Sunday I picked up a newspaper, and found well over a page of advertisements from men who offered all sorts of inducements to people to put money on the games which would be played the following Saturday. To judge from those advertisements they were issued by people whose sole business in life was to hand away fortunes to their clients. All sorts of alluring odds were offered, and—anything up to a thousand to one against doing some particular thing in the way of spotting winners or losers.

Why in the world the advertisers stopped with odds at a thousand to one I can't for the life of me make out. They might just as well have gone on to a million to one. I remember one typical offer. It was fifty to one against naming eight home winners, two away winners, and two drawn games. Personally, I should think fifty times fifty to one would be much nearer the proper odds against correctly naming such a combination of results. Yet I suppose there must be people foolish enough to try to spot winners to that extent, otherwise the "philanthropists" would not spend good money on advertising such odds.

A ONE-SIDED BUSINESS.

At one time these people used to operate in Switzerland, and while they were there I was told more than once that they seemed to be entirely receiving offices. That is they took the money when they won and entirely overlooked the necessity to pay out when they lost. Nowadays, however, they seem to do business at home, and whether they one and all pay out their winnings I don't know. Certainly the odds are on the bookmakers, and all I have to add is that the man who goes on sending money in the effort to win these long odds provides but another example of the ancient proverb about a fool and his money.

There is, however, another and a more serious side to this question of gambling on the game, and here is where the danger of the business killing the sport comes in. Football bookmakers get large sums of money, and we have seen in the past that some of them have proved incapable of resisting the temptation to try to arrange a result so that they should have nothing to pay out.

CROOKED "BOOKIES."

I have had experience of the way the thing is worked, and being once approached myself I had the pleasure of bringing one man who tried to arrange a result to justice. A certain match may look a good thing for this or that team. The top club may be playing the bottom club, for instance, and the public which looks for winners lays money on the top club,—a lot of money. "Ah!" says the bookmaker to himself, "if I could only square some members of the team likely to win to arrange to lose, I should pocket the lot." And he goes to try it, crackling many bank-notes in the face of a player.

Thank goodness that the great majority of the players have enough common sense to spurn the overtures of the low-down book-maker. But rest assured of this, the book-maker chooses his would-be dupes carefully. This or that man may be financially embarrassed, and the book-maker points out in subtle fashion that if he sells the game nobody will be any the wiser. Is it to be wondered at that an odd man here and there has in the past yielded to the temptation to relieve himself of his financial worries? That is where the real danger of gambling on the game comes in.

As I said at the outset, we can't stop the people from having a shilling or two on the side they fancy will win, but I want to appeal to every footballer to keep himself entirely above the suspicion of having anything to do with the gambling business. Putting the thing on its very lowest level, I want the footballer to realise that by dabbling in the business of gambling on football he is running the risk of killing the very game out of which he makes his living.

DUTY TO THE PUBLIC.

The public which pays at the gates the money which keeps the football clubs going, pays that money to see a fair and square contest between two football teams who are all out to win. Once let the public get the impression that they are not getting this above-board game they pay to see, then good-bye for ever to the popularity of football, and good-bye to the money which comes to the pockets of the professional players who take part in the game. Nothing I can think of will so quickly kill football from the point of view of popularity than an idea that the result of this or that match has been arranged by the players before ever a ball is kicked. That being so, the necessity for players to keep themselves above suspicion of having anything to do with bookmakers is perfectly obvious.

Personally, I should like to see a big effort made to get some sort of legislation passed which would, at any rate, stop the open touting for bets on football matches. And that not (I want to make this very clear) because I am a kill-joy with a desire to dictate what people shall do with their money, but because in football gambling on a big, organised scale, I can see a real danger to the best of all games.

SPORT NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

Prolific Scorer.
Bliss has scored in every match at White Hart-lane this season.

Fulham's Team.
White and MacIntyre are probable starters for Fulham against Blackpool

Mr. Dorling Ill.
Mr. H. M. Dorling, clerk of the Epsom Racecourse, is lying very seriously ill at his residence at Epsom.

Football Transfer.
Tottenham Hotspur yesterday transferred W. Harris, a centre-half, to Gillingham.

22-lb. Pike.
Fishing in the Arun at Pulborough (Sussex), a London angler has landed a fine pike of 22-lb.

Windsor Riders.
W. Earl, Crickmere, and Piper will be amongst the jockeys riding at Windsor on Friday and Saturday next.

J. Burns' Recovery.
J. Burns, the Ayr jockey who was seriously injured when Fairy Lantern was struck into at Catterick Bridge on August 2, has now completely recovered.

No Bid for Wistow.
Wistow, who was awarded the Scurry Handicap at Newcastle through the disqualification of Esplandian, was submitted to auction at Lincoln yesterday, but failed to elicit a bid.

Tenantless Coverts.
From their opening meet at Walton Hill the Warwickshire lady pack had disappointing sport. Several coverts were tenantless.

West Ham Team.
West Ham are making but one change in their side to play at Leicester on Saturday, Butcher being at inside right in place of Major R. H. Allen.

Bury and Tottenham.
For their home game with Tottenham Hotspur Bury are making two changes from the side which drew 0—0 at South Shields, Peake appearing at right half and F. Heap as centre-forward.

Over the Sticks.
Mr. G. Marsh has engaged J. Dillon as his first jockey for the forthcoming jumping season, while F. Davies will ride as second jockey for Godfrey's Bruce Lodge stable. Dillon, who is now in Brussels hopes to get back to Liverpool to ride in the hurdle races on Friday and Saturday.

Racehorse Destroyed.
Brinkley, the Newcastle winner, broke a pastern on Monday at his training quarters, and was destroyed.

Lord Derby at Liverpool.
Lord Derby witnessed the racing at Liverpool, and was warmly congratulated by his numerous friends on his recovery from his recent serious operation.

J. H. Martin Indisposed.
J. H. Martin is down with an acute attack of gastritis, and was therefore unable to ride Fair Simone in the Knowsley Nursery at Liverpool yesterday. This was a great disappointment to him, as of all the Clarehaven youngsters he has won on this season the daughter of Farman is his favourite. It was Wheatley's luck to have the mount on the top weight.

Late Sir H. Smith.
Numerous well-known hockey players attended a memorial service to Sir Henry Smith at St. Mary's, Aldermanbury. Sir Henry was vice-president of the Hockey Association, and was a keen supporter of the Eastern Counties H.A.

Lady's Successful Debut.
For Mrs. Florence Barrie, a London lady, The Squire proved an easy winner of the Ford Welter at Liverpool. The six-year-old only became this lady's property a day or two before the race, and was the first horse she had run.

Change of Date.
The match between Oxford University and Newport will take place on Tuesday, Nov. 25, instead of on Wednesday, Nov. 26, as the latter date would have clashed with the reunion of the Oxford University Dramatic Society.

Preliminary England Trial.
The match between Oxford University and Major R. V. Stanley's fifteen will take the form of a preliminary England trial. The Old Oxonians have got together a very strong side, and the match will be watched by the English Selection Committee—J. Baxter, J. Daniel, and B. C. Hartley.

Beynon Unlucky.
In a twenty-round contest at Fulham Baths Mike Blake, of Notting Hill, beat Bill Beynon, of South Wales, in the tenth round. Beynon had all the best of matters up to the tenth round, but, in swinging his left he caught his arm on Blake's elbow, and so injured his limb that he was unable to continue the bout.

CARPENTIER FIRST.

Mr. Mortimer's Views on Dempsey's Offer to Meet Beckett.

FRENCHMAN AT STANMORE.

Although Dempsey, as stated in yesterday's issue, has signed an agreement to fight Beckett at New Orleans on March 17th next, Mr. Bernard Mortimer, the British champion's manager, has so far received no official offer and at present the arrangements are purely one-sided. Mr. Mortimer professes to be very little concerned about the reputed offer at present. The match with Carpentier is demanding all their attention; one thing at a time is sufficient, he argues.

When Beckett has advanced another stage in his boxing career by beating Carpentier, as he and his supporters are more than hopeful he will do—then will be the time to talk to Dempsey. And from what we know of the Southampton man, it will not be a case of saying to Dempsey, "Well, you take what you want out of the purse money and we will be content with the leavings."

Mr. Cochran's offer.

Mr. Cochran has offered a purse of £35,000 for a match between the winner of the Carpentier-Beckett contest and Jack Dempsey for the world's championship at Olympia next June, and states that he does not propose to increase his offer. Should any promoter top it he can have the match. As a guarantee of good faith Mr. Cochran is prepared to deposit the whole of the purse upon the signing of articles.

This statement may be taken as Mr. Cochran's comment on the cablegram from America.

We understand that Carpentier arrived at Charing Cross on Wednesday evening and proceeded direct to Stanmore, where he will complete his training for the match at the Holborn Stadium on Dec. 4th. Arthur Townley will probably join the Frenchman as one of his sparring partners.

ANOTHER FULTON VICTIM.

American Puts Out Marthuin In Second Round.

Another victim was thrown to Fred Fulton, the Kansas giant, at New Brighton, when Gustav Marthuin, of France, was knocked out early in the second round of a 15 round contest. The "fight" was an absolute farce. The Frenchman was was obviously untrained and after toying with him in the first round, Fulton dismissed him at the next meeting with a right hook.

BROKEN BOXING CONTRACTS.

Legal Action against Eddie McGoorty Probable.

The question of the responsibility of boxers towards promoters and the public will probably be raised in the law courts in the near future.

Mr. Cochran, not being satisfied that there was a legitimate excuse for Eddie McGoorty to break faith with him and the public in the match with Arthur Townley, which was scheduled for the Holborn Stadium last Friday, proposes to commence legal proceedings against McGoorty for the recovery of damages. Apart altogether from the serious financial loss, there is the question of moral damage sustained by a promoter when he breaks faith with the public through the default of a boxer.

The Townley-McGoorty contest was originally scheduled for October 23, and was postponed at McGoorty's urgent request to October 31st. A few days in advance of the date he found that he would be unable to keep the appointment.

JESSE PENNINGTON.

Comments on the Veteran English Defender.

This famous English defender, whose article on "Gambling on the Game" appears to-day, has had twenty years of first-class football.

He thinks the present West Bromwich forward line one of the best in England, and who can doubt him? Crisp is, in this famous player's opinion, a player of great promise, whose runs he likens to those of "Billy" Bassett. When speaking of centre forwards Pennington states that Jimmy Quinn, the Celtic leader, was the most dangerous marksman he ever had the privilege of playing against, and certainly the cleverest Scottish centre he ever tackled. Referring to England's International "leaders" he gives pride of place to George Hilsdon, whose brilliant display in 1908 will be recalled by many.

New Blood in Defence.

Crompton and "Jesse" have now made way for new blood in England's defence, and the famous "Throstle" states that the old Rovers' captain was one of the coolest defenders he ever met. "Cool as ice under all conditions and attacks," is his summing up.

In his opinion, the best international he ever appeared in was the one against Scotland in 1909. The football in this match, he says, touched the highest level, and England's eleven that day came as near the ideal team as it ever will.

Still a great player, he has, we hope, many more days left for football. When he leaves the arena for the last time West Bromwich will sorely miss this great and polished player. He has the gift of knowing what the other fellow is likely to do, and herein lies his success.

He is a born "general," and when I saw him this season at St. James Park everyone rightly attributed the Newcastle defeat, not so much to their being inferior to the "Throstles," they were far from that, but to the brilliant generalship of this clever back.

W. L. C.

Philistines Beaten.

In a hockey match at Oxford the University beat the Philistines by 6—3.

FUTURE OF W. RHODES.

Is his County Cricket Career Over?

SIGNS PROFESSIONAL FORM.

The future of Wilfred Rhodes, the famous Yorkshire cricketer, seems wrapped in mystery, says the "Daily Chronicle", but, for the time being, it appears as if his county career is finished.

The case in a nutshell is that Rhodes has signed a professional League form to assist Haslingden next season whenever that club requires his services. Though it has been stated that Rhodes regrets his bargain and will assist Yorkshire next season in breaking the contract, the fact remains that Haslingden hold his signature, and if they insist upon him carrying out his bargain, the only way he can assist Yorkshire will be through influence.

Rhodes is a level-headed Yorkshire man, and no one would accuse him of entering into this contract without fully weighing the pros and cons. It would be a thousand pities if one of the most famous all-round cricketers this country has ever produced should close his career in this way. His loss to Yorkshire would be almost irreparable at the present time, when cricket is just finding its feet after five years of war.

ENGLISH RACING.

Good Day For Backers At Liverpool.

The going was heavy at Liverpool on Thursday when a large attendance witnessed some good sport. The following were the returns:

Aintree Plate:—1, Chelsho (6-4); 2, Flaming Fire (5-1); 3, Diamont (8-1). Ten ran.

Witherslack Nursery:—1, Great Seal (5-4); 2, Comet's Tail (7-2); 3, Sweet Dorothy (10-1). Nine ran.

Grand Sefton Steeplechase:—1, Clonree (100-8); 2, Polnun (7-4); 3, Ardonagh (100-8). Twelve ran.

Stewards' Plate:—1, Bruff Bridge (7-4); 2, Chipstone (10-1); 3, Forest Guard (5-2). Eight ran.

Alt Nursery:—1, White Week (5-4); 2, Sule (3-1); 3, Riches (7-2).

G.H.T.Ducly Plate:—1, Planet (2-1 on); 2, Enniskeen (10-1); 3, Aloban (3-1). Five ran.

Manchester Scratching.

Manchester November Handicap.—Wilhumsen (at 12.27 p.m. on Tuesday).

BILLIARDS.

Falkiner and Smith Each Retains his Advantage.

Falkiner added nearly four hundred to his substantial lead over Inman in the continuation of the first heat of the Victory tournament on Thursday. He started the match with 200 to the good on Monday and each day's closing score has seen his advantage increased. Thursday's closing score was:—

Falkiner (in play..... 6,369
Inman..... 3,167

In the match at Thurston's between Smith and Newman the former again dominated the situation. The closing scores in this match were:

Smith (in play)..... 5,333
Newman..... 3,958

At Manchester the match was resumed between Stevenson and Reece on Thursday. The match is one of 16,000 up, Reece receiving 500 start. The closing scores were:—

Stevenson.....3,741
Reece.....3,422.

F.A. XI TO MEET CAMBRIDGE.

The following team representing the Football Association has been chosen to play against Cambridge University at Cambridge on November 20:—

Hufton (West Ham United), goal; C. A. Fisher (Nunhead) (captain) and B. G. Smith (Norwich City), backs; Russell (Fulham), Rance (Tottenham Hotspur), and Tompkins (Northampton), half-backs; Walden (Tottenham Hotspur), Fleming (Swindon) J. G. Cock (Chelsea), A. R. Hawes (Norwich City) and Bradshaw (West Ham United), forwards.

SCOTTISH LEAGUE DEFEAT IRISH.

As briefly reported yesterday the Scottish League beat the Irish League at Windsor-Park, Belfast, by two goals to none. Rain fell heavily during the game, but 6,000 people were present. The Scottish side, who had much the better of the play throughout, scored one goal in each half through Reid.

FOOTBALL IN BERLIN.

A football match, one of the first to be played in Berlin by English teams since the war, was decided on the Hellas Sportplatz between the British Military Mission and the British section of the Inter-Allied Commission of Control. The Military Mission won by two goals to one, after a good game.

AMATEUR F. A. DECISIONS.

At an Amateur Football Association committee meeting held in London it was decided to hold a dinner later on in the season, and on the same day to play a match against the Army. It was also decided to leave the County Cup competition in abeyance for this season. Mr. Greenland was elected hon. referee secretary. The hon. secretary will deal with applications from new clubs.

A Sound Investment.

Mr. H. Rhodes has found in Ella a very profitable investment, for since he gave 280gs. for her at Ayr she has been second four times, earning him over £1,030 in surpluses.

AMUSEMENTS AND RECREATIONS.

A New Concert Party.

"The Merry Blue Boys" Concert Party have jumped into popularity at a bound; and if their first performance at the Westdorf Cinema is any criterion, then their success in assured. The members of the party are all patients at the 25th General Hospital and after four days rehearsal they presented their show which was an unqualified success. The programme was not a very ambitious one, it is true, consisting chiefly of songs and sketches, but the artistes without exception acquitted themselves in a surprisingly creditable manner. Too much credit cannot be given to the Rev. G. Kendall C.F., the popular Padre. Not content with giving his valuable assistance in the matter of organising, he contributed a couple of songs in his own racy style and literally "brought down the house."

* * *

Gunner O'Regan, who is the possessor of a highly trained tenor voice sung "Tis I" and "Mother Machree", acting mechanic Hulter a versatile youngster sang "Memories" and "Maryland" and for an encore gave a whistling solo. Sgt. Corret delighted the audience with his rendering of "Parted" and "Drake goes West." No show would be complete without its comedians, and "The Merry Blue Boys" are fortunate in having Cpl. Symons to fill this role. In a side splitting sketch entitled "The Orderly Room" he had the audience convulsed with laughter from start to finish. The Jazz Band must not be omitted and although the instruments were rather primitive the "harmony" was delightful. The next appearance of this talented party is being eagerly looked forward to.

A Children's Affair.

About thirty British children acting as the hosts and hostesses of their own parents and over 200 British soldiers in Germany, was the sight that greeted my delighted eyes when I entered the great hall of the Cologne Central Y.M.C.A. The children are the pupils of the Central British School, and they had secured the voluntary aid of Mr. Hugh Herring who was a theological student before the war and is now known as "The Y.M.C.A. Illusionist." Certainly, Mr. Herring, is an extraordinarily clever conjuror, and his patter is equal to any that I had previously heard at such a "séance."

Programmes, Cigarettes and Photo.

When the great assembly was seated the children came into the Hall, in single file, and were received with tremendous cheering by the men, to each of whom they proceeded to give a dainty little programme which included a short letter to the soldiers. One sentence of the "P.S." to the letter took my special fancy:—"Oh, we are so excited! Are you? We suppose not, for you are grown-ups." Later when Mr. Herring conjured innumerable cigarettes from an inexhaustible hat, these were handed out to the spectators by the children, one to each man. Smoking was deferred, however, until the cinema show began, in order that a flashlight photograph might be taken in a clear atmosphere.

The Greatest Illusion.

What struck me most of all, and most agreeably, was the fact that, during the evening, I forgot that I was in Germany and imagined myself in the homeland. British fathers and mothers with their children, a British school with British teachers, a British conjurer provoking British cheers—all these things cast their spell upon me, and it was as if on the magical carpet Mr. Hugh Herring and the children had wafted me to "dear old Blighty." I was delighted to hear Dr. Francis announce that the children propose to entertain the troops again at Christmas.

"The Bath-room Door."

Owing to the great success of "The Bath-room Door" at the British Empire Leave Club last Tuesday night, there will be a second performance of this amusing one-act comedy next Tuesday, at 7 p.m.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Sat.	Mignon	Thomas	7	0.15
Sun.	Lohengrin	Wagner	5.30	10
Mon.	Cav. Rusticana / Der Bajazzo	Mascagni / Leoncavallo	7	10
Tues.	Die Entführung aus dem Serail	Mozart	7	10

British at Coblenz.

I hear that a most successful dance was given by the British members of the Inter-Allied Rhineland High Commission at the Riesen-Furstenhof, Coblenz. It was a delightful affair. The hotel was decorated with the flags of all the Allies, and the merriment, commencing at 8.30, proceeded until midnight.

B.E.L.C. Whist Drive.

Last Thursday night at the B.E.L.C. the highest score was that of Pte. Hyman with a total of 145, whilst Sergt. Hardman ran him close with 142. Pte. James was 3rd with 139; these three were all playing for the ladies. Sapper Bentley won the gentlemens' first prize with 143. Seret. Hunt the second with 141, and Private Taylor the third with 138. Sapper E. Ackerley, R.E., was a most efficient M.C., whilst Lieut. Rouch most kindly presided.

Much is Fame.

Writing in "London Opinion," that breezy contributor, "A Playful Stallite" says:—"We are a modest nation, we English; we will allow anybody in the world to get up and tell us how to do things, but when they start pushing us, we generally jump in with both feet and show them the correct way. That's why I'm glad to get news from Cologne of the success of young Alfred Barker at the Deutsches Theatre. Barker was busy coming to the front as a violinist in Petrograd in 1914, but when war happened he was not long in coming to the front in another sense and another country.

* * *

"Having helped to show Germany how we play soldiers, he is now showing them how we (or rather some of us) play the violin: another art in which they imagined they had acquired exclusive rights. Roy Hardy, who sends me this news, says Barker has created a furore, the Germans admitting they have nothing like him in all the Fatherland. Barker is coming to London shortly to be demobbed, and I prophesy we shan't let him go back to Petrograd—even if he wants to."

Cologne Amusements.

Capt. Haygarth, the Army Amusements officer, has returned to Cologne from leave looking and (as he says) feeling as a lion refreshed. He is full of new ideas for the troops during the dark evenings.

The Memory Man.

"Datas," who is entertaining crowded houses each night at the Palace Theatre, Cologne, tells a good story of a visit to the King. With the late Dan Leno, Bransby Williams and Albert Chevalier, he was "presented," and His Majesty asked each what he would care to drink. "If you've got a glass of port in the house," said Dan Leno, "I would like it very much indeed, your Majesty."

Lack of Banjos.

In view of the big demand there is in Germany for stringed instruments, especially the mandoline and guitar, it is surprising to know that there is scarcely a banjo to be bought in Cologne. A friend of mine, fired with ambition after hearing Mr. Joe Morley, of "The Jesters," playing, hied him to several musical instrument establishments to purchase a banjo. He did not succeed, and an advertisement in "The Cologne Post" brought him replies only from members of the Forces.

JACQUES.

Wrestling Challenge.

Pte. T. J. Oliver, R.A.S.C., M.T., is open to wrestle anyone in the Rhine Army at 9 stone 7 lbs. catch-as-catch can style. All communications to Lieut. C Thain, R.A.S.C., Rhine Army Vehicle Reception Park, Cologne.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION NO. 8.

Another Chance to Win Substantial Sum of Money.

Another interesting point has arisen in connection with our Contest. Should a competitor enter two or more correct coupons would he be entitled to the same number of shares of the prize-money?

If such an event did occur the sender would receive a share of the award for each correct forecast, i.e. if three coupons were sent and each contained the same number of errors as the winning effort, the sender would receive three shares of the prize-money.

The first coupon for No. 8 contest appears below. A substantial prize awaits a winning effort; fill in the coupon and try your skill. Our prize must be won; there are no vexatious conditions, and we specialise in quick results.

The result of the contest just closed will appear in our issue of next Thursday.

Coupons must be addressed:—

FOOTBALL CONTEST No. 8,
"Cologne Post",
A.P.O. S.40 Rhine Army.

List of Rules.

1. All forecasts must be made on coupons from this journal.
2. Any alteration or mutilation of the coupon will disqualify the effort.
3. If any match or matches on the coupon should be abandoned or full time is not played for any reason, such match or matches will not be taken into consideration in the adjudication.
4. In the event of ties, the prize will be divided.
5. No correspondence may be enclosed with the coupons, and none will be entered into. Neither will interviews be granted.
6. The Editor reserves the right to disqualify any coupon for what, in his opinion, is good and sufficient reason, and it is a distinct condition of entry that the Editor's decision shall be accepted as finally and legally binding in all matters concerning this competition.
7. Any entries received after Friday will be disqualified. No responsibility can be undertaken for any effort, or efforts, lost, mislaid or delayed. Proof of posting will not be accepted as proof of delivery.
8. Competitors may send in any number of coupons but one mark must be sent with each coupon.
9. Members of the staff of the "Cologne Post" are debarred from entering this competition.

FOOTBALL COMPETITION No. 8.

Date of matches, Saturday, Nov 15 h.
Closing date, Friday, Nov. 14th.

Aston Villa	v. West Bromwich A.
Sheffield W.	v. Derby C.
Notts C.	v. Sunderland
Bradford C.	v. Everton
Blackpool	v. Fulham
Wolves	v. Birmingham
Hull C.	v. Barnsley
Portsmouth	v. Exeter C.
Watford	v. Plymouth
Clyde	v. Clydebank
Dumbarton	v. Partick
Third Lanark	v. Motherwell

I enter Football Competition No. 8 in accordance with the Rules and Conditions announced above, and agree to accept the published decision as final and legally binding.

Signed .....
(In block letters.)

Rank and No. .....

Unit .....

Full Address .....

ECHOES FROM RHINELAND.

Coveted Clerkships.

There is no lack of applications for the vacant clerkships in connection with the Inter-Allied Rhineland Commission. A great many Army clerks seem willing to doff their uniform for the inducements offered.

Mademoiselles' Mess.

The latest in the way of messes in Cologne is one exclusively for lady clerks employed by the French. Poilus attend to the needs of the fair stenographers at table.

Wearing Mufti.

All ranks are reminded that no permission to wear plain clothes has been granted by the Commander-in-Chief other than as provided in G.R.O. 2636, for recreational purposes. Uniform must be worn at all times by all ranks while serving with the Army of the Rhine, except under those conditions.

Lop-Sided.

I noticed an officer at the Deutsches last night, wearing two pipson his right shoulder strap and yet only one on his left. He looked somewhat overbalanced.

Coincidence.

What with the trial at Paris of its defenders of August 1914, Maubeuge is very much in the air just now, just as it was exactly twelve months ago, when the Guards and the West Riding Division were marching on the famous fortress.

Take in Washing.

The Cologne garrison may be decreasing, but the number of laundries touting for Tommy's custom seems to increase daily.

Furry Adornments.

The craze for fur collars seems to be very contagious. German policeman are I notice, wearing the latest fashions in rabbit skins around their throats.

Place Aux Dames.

I am told that the hint given as to ladies entering for our Football Contest has already been acted on. Several coupons came in yesterday in the handwriting of the fair.

Puts The Wind Up 'Em.

My batman tells me that he has only to use the word "Klingelputz" to put the wind up a great many civvies. I suppose the reason is that in Klingelputz is the principal prison of the Rhine capital.

Back in Cologne.

It is a sign of the times that the civilian clerks attached to the Army have been recalled from outlying stations. They are wondering what is to be their fate.

St. Ursula.

The other evening passing Ursula Platz I thought I was back in the East. In almost every window paper lanterns in all their gay colours were hung. Soon came a religious procession in which was carried the receptable said to contain the bones of St. Ursula.

Strange.

One would think there were few parts of Cologne whence the lofty spires of the Dom cannot be seen. Yet, yesterday in the course of a ten minutes walk, I was three times asked the way to the Cathedral, by British soldiers.

SOME RHINELAND DANCE-COERS.

Fault of Senders.

An Army Post Office clerk complains that the number of wrongly addressed letters and parcels which are returned to his depot for disposal, increases daily. I have been shown piles of homeless correspondence bearing 'impossible' inscriptions; the most common mistake being the omission of the soldiers' battalions.

Did he Smile?

I noticed a fat middle-aged German in the Army Reading Room, Hohestrasse Arcade. He was engrossed in the "Wipers Times."

Visibility Clear.

A certain major dropped his spectacles into one of the Rhineside swimming baths three months ago. Until two days since they were undiscovered. He was relating their unexpected find to some friends in his mess. "Remarkable, wasn't it, Sir?" he said to the colonel. "Well I don't know," said he, "the new season's water has just been run into the bath, I suppose."

No Reply.

The other night a Tommy put a question to "Datas" the mnemonic marvel at the Palast, which completely floored him, "When was the 'Cologne Post' first published?" was the query.

Edifying Sight.

Cardinal Hartmann, whose condition is giving rise to anxiety, was to be seen every Sunday morning about 11.10 leaving the Cathedral by the main steps. A huge concourse of people invariably gathered and the venerable prelate in his scarlet robes and red hat was escorted to the exit with all the picturesque ceremonial due to a Prince of the Church.

Indoor Games.

Many of the shops in Rhineland are now exhibiting a large variety of indoor games for the winter season, among them being our old friend "Tiddly-Winks".

Latest Books.

I am informed that recent additions to the Y.M.C.A. Central Library include: "My War Memories" by General von Ludendorff, "Saint's Progress" by John Galsworthy "Mountain Paths" by Maurice Maeterlinck, "Love of Brothers" by Katharin Tynan, "Oranges and Lemons" by Mrs. George Wemyss, and "Commercial Advertising" by Thomas Russell.

New Officers' Club.

An Officers' Club has been opened at Crefeld for all Allied officers. This Club is situated at Hotel Europanscherhof, Cavalstrasse, two minutes from the station.

Ladies' Tram Fares.

Fares have now to be paid by all ladies of British nationality travelling on tramways in the British Occupied Territory, with the exception of those wearing the uniform of the following Units of the Services, viz., Q.M.A.A.C., W.R.A.F., W.R.N.S., N.A.C.B., Q.A.I.M.N.S., and G.S.V.A.D.

Little Britons.

In Friesenstrasse of a forenoon it is quite a common sight to see an armletted little brother and sister with their satchels, on their way to school.

Distinction Indeed.

During its short existence the "Post" has received a good deal of mention. We have been referred to in the House of Commons and the Prince of Wales made a graceful reference to us. And now we figure in a German serial romance! You remember the lonely fraulein I told you of who was stranded at Cologne Station when the curtain rose on Part I. Well she has been buying the "Cologne Post" and our name in prominent Latin type stands out conspicuously in a page of Gothic.

Ours and Theirs.

It may not be generally known that in our Summary Courts the civilian police are almost as prominent as our own M.P's. They act as ushers and orderlies and at times appear as witnesses.

The Hallamshires.

The 4th York and Lancasters, or the Hallamshires as they are generally called, will not be with us much longer, I hear. One is often asked to explain the term Hallamshire, and many who have forgotten their geography are tempted to think that it is as English county. Hallamshire is the ancient name for a considerable district in South Yorkshire most of which is now incorporated in the city of Sheffield and it gave its name to a football league, a parliamentary constituency, and last but not least, to the Hallamshire Rifles.

Will Have Them.

Despite the fluctuation of the mark, German traders, even some in a comparatively modest way of business, are, I hear still placing big orders with British cigarette manufacturers.

For Bonnites.

I hear that the N.A.C.B. is opening a splendid new building for O.R.s. in Bonn. It is situated in Munster Platz, and will function as a restaurant, cafe, beer-bar and canteen. The building is splendidly decorated and will provide a welcome addition to the amenities of life in Bonn.

RHINELANDER.

EAU DE COLOGNE.

THE LIGHT SIDE OF RHINE LAND.

Dearest Folks, — "Joan" has got the 'flu. so I guess I've got to tell you all the news. I feel sorry for Joan, but sorrier for myself, because here I am writing when I might be jazzing away merrily. Still, there's one thing; I can do as I like now.

* * *

Great fun, people. I went to the "Lions" the other evening. Course I wasn't supposed to, but I had a topping time, believe me. Dancing as an aid to digestion is simply O.K. I'll tell you a secret, too. Where do you think the Lions "roar"? Why the Zoo. Come to think of it that's the right place, isn't it?

* * *

The jazzy teas at the "Earwig" are just topping. Landon Ronald is a regular habitué and dances with a dream expression, whilst an American officer and lady gave an interesting exhibition of some new steps. My favourite partner is awfully nice, but he is just a bit too tall. One day before Joan was ill, she made me very cross by calling us the "Long and Short of it." Big sisters can be horrid if they like, can't they?

* * *

So sorry that the big Black and White Dance at the B.E.L.C. on the 27th is to be the last, 'cos have had some topping times there, — but it's quite right. Tommy has the first claim, and I hope he has some right royal times there this winter. Ted (my tall cavalier) is actually taking an interest in the dance — says it makes him think of something to drink — now what does he mean?

* * *

During the past week saw the dancing at the B.E.L.C. by the ladies from the Paris Opera—such a wonderful exhibition —Tone and Rhythm poems about rightly expresses the notion, I think. Everyone was charmed—the colour effects were most effective. Then, quite a social event was the opening of the new Y.M.C.A. Hostel for Tommy's wife. Lady and Miss Robertson graced the event with their presence and quite a pleasant afternoon was pased.

* * *

Gowns are getting more swagger at the Opera nowadays, whilst there is an almost Parisienne display of neat shoes and silk stockings. Ted tells me when he first came here, silk stockings were as rare as eggs are now; fancy, poor things! I just couldn't live "sans" silk stockings, Talking about dress I heard an elderly officer complaining about us chattering in the club and he suggested that if we were allowed there, we should wear evening dress—what a "bare-backed" idea.

Cheerio old dears—hope Joan will be able to write again soon.

THE FLAPPER.

THE COLOGNE OPERA.

AN APPRECIATION.

The future historian of the British Occupation of the Rhineland cannot fail to dwell upon the part played by music in ensuring the amenities. Music is the great solvent, the sovereign healer, the bond that binds the best in one nation to the best in all the others. Here in Cologne, for the greater part of a year, it has been exerting its beneficent spell and providing, in the Opera, a ground whereon the people of erstwhile warring nationalities could meet in common.

It is, perhaps, when the time has come (as it has come for the writer) to leave the Army of the Rhine that the sense of gratitude to the Opera is most strongly felt. It is not a sense that can readily be put into words. I think the enthusiasm of audience after audience has rung true, and that the artistes who have delighted us in these classic roles must have appreciated it; but applause soon dies away, while the written word remains. It may not therefore, be out of place if a British Officer of no exalted rank attempts to voice the thoughts of so many of his fellows, and to speak these few words of appreciation.

Let us try not to separate the stage from the orchestra. Both have caused us delight. If we admit that the orchestra, with its single appeal, has filled just more of our hearts than the stage with its twofold one, let us add that between them they have filled them to overflowing. To some, these operas were of course, old friends; but to others they come as almost incredible revelations of what man can do with regard to the "things of the mind."

I find I had somewhat presumptously arrogated to myself the privilege of attempting to speak for all. That is only possible when one states the mere fact of gratitude, not when one essays to give reasons for it. In the latter case it is everybody for himself. But I should like to say that as one of a multitude I would thank Cologne Opera for many a golden hour — for providing distraction, pathos, amusement — for stimulating thought, aspirations and resolves — for applying balm to some of the wounds of war — in a word, for helping to rehabilitate one's mind.

As to the pieces that have been given: need it be said that Wagner has been on a plane apart — unapproached and unapproachable? If I mention Tannhauser it is not to separate it from the rest of the glorious galaxy or to attempt to exalt it above the Ring. But Tannhauser's story is so plain for all to see, whereas the spacious cycle of the Ring needs all our thought and study ere we can enter fully into its enjoyment.

During those four hours — or is it four minutes or four centuries? — of Tannhauser the whole drama of human strength and weakness seems to be enacted. It was Byron who said of one of our great actors that when he played Shakespeare he showed him to us "by flashes of lightning." Well Tannhauser and the other Wagner operas — but most clearly Tannhauser — show us man's spiritual life on earth by flashes of lightning." And in Tannhauser we have an undying story twice told.

Yes, I shall carry with me from Cologne a very precious memory of its Opera. Nor will it be a memory of Wagner only, for I have seen many other composers brilliantly rendered, with an incomparable mise en reiné.

But it will be for Wagner that this year of Cologne Opera will principally be remembered.

FROM EVERYWHERE.

The Black List.—Belgium wants 1150 Germans tried for war offences.

A Year Ago.—A year ago the Germans were in retreat on a front of 100 miles.

Plumper Figures.—The day of lamp-post beauty in women is said to be over.

Egyptian Turmoil.—A general strike is threatened in Alexandria.

A New Record.—Silver has reached the record price of 5s. 7d. per ounce.

Farmers to the Fore.—Farmers now predominate in the new Ontario cabinet.

Belgium Looking up.—Belgium industry is said to be forging ahead.

Alarming.—Fourmies, France, has been without bread for two days.

The Popular Guy.—South London boys used "Pussyfoot" Johnson as their Guy.

King "Coal."—£4 a ton is asked for coal in the Isle of Wight.

Shorter Hours.—Paris cafés close at midnight now instead of 0100 hours.

Hustle Them.—Super Tax unpaid for 1918-19 totals £1,851,055.

The Toll.—Twenty Londoners died from flu last week.

Useful.—A Y.M.C.A. hut is being used as a schoolroom at Maldon, Essex.

More "Hope."—The Ministry of Health hopes to erect 100,000 houses.

A Fallen Idol.—The Hindenburg effigy in Germany is almost gone.

Portuguese Losses.—The Portuguese Army lost 8,367 men in the war.

The Meeting Place.—The Executive of the League of Nations will meet in Paris.

Going Up.—The coal output in Great Britain is still rising.

Officers' Inches.—The regulations for Sandhurst provide for a minimum height of 5 feet 2 inches.

Want a Suit?—A suit of clothes made to order is one of the prizes at the Victory Ball No. 2.

Too Cold.—The Shah declined a flight at Aldershot, it being, as he said, "too cold up there."

In Name Only.—Lord Haig is said to be very dissatisfied with the limitations of his post as C. in C. of Home Forces.

Giant Flagstaff.—The flagstaff in Kew Gardens is the largest in the world. It is 215 feet long.

Lord Robert's Support.—Lord Robert Cecil has written to Lady Astor promising to vote for her.

Royal Gift.—The King has given a bowling green to a village adjoining Sandringham.

Prize Money.—It is hoped to begin the distribution of naval prize money next spring.

The Total.—The number of Major-Generals on the active list of the British Army is 167.

Beatty's Choice.—Lord Beatty wore his cocked hat on taking his seat in the House of Lords.

Not Bad.—Work has been found under the National scheme for 43,877 disabled men.

Rough Luck.—In Boston in one week forty babies were named after General Pershing.

The Penalty.—A German who called American soldiers "swine" is now doing three months hard labour.

Effects of War.—American soldiers averaged a gain in weight of ten pounds through service.

Converted.—The German monument at Tarnopol has been turned into an Allied memorial.

Delayed.—The British evacuation of Syria has been delayed until November 18th.

Army Instructors.—France and England sent to the States 800 officers as instructors.

Scapa Compensation. — Six light cruisers are to be handed over to France by Germany for the Scapa Flow scuttling.

British Shipping.—Of every 100 American soldiers sent over, 49 travelled in British ships.

Full Menu. — War-time restrictions of the menu at the Lord Mayor's banquet have been withdrawn.

Ban of Speculation. — The Spanish Government is limiting the purchase of foreign money by Spaniards.

Aged Microbes.—It is said that microbes are capable of living for many hundreds of years.

Willing to go Back.—The official view in Washington is that the end of the coal strike is near.

One Halfpenny More. — The price of French newspapers is likely to be raised by one halfpenny.

A new Fashion.— The Prince of Wales has adopted the Western hat on his tour.

The Allied Ribbon.—French troops have just received permission to wear the Inter-Allied Victory ribbon.

Penalty of Greatness.—Col. Lawrence who worked with the Arabs since coming to London received 27 offers of marriage.

N.A.C.B.
NEW RESTAURANT
BEER BAR
CANTEEN
CAFÉ.
Splendidly decorated building situated in the
BONN :: MÜNSTERPLATZ
OPEN TO ALL O.R.S.
"SERVICE FOR SOLDIERS'.

WANTED
FOR "THE COLOGNE POST" STAFF

1. ONE ACCOUNTANT. To take charge of the whole of the accounts of the paper under the supervision of the Managing Editor.
2. ONE LEDGER CLERK. One used to newspaper accounts preferred, but accounts are fairly simple and any experienced clerk could do the work.
3. ONE REPORTER. Experienced in general reporting work.
4. ONE PROOF-READER. Must be a man of good education and wide general knowledge with experience in proof reading.
5. ONE GERMAN-SPEAKING PRINTER. To supervise German compositors. Knowledge of newspaper work required.

The above are urgently needed and application should be submitted at once. Officers and other ranks desiring to apply should first obtain permission from their C.O. and then forward their applications through the usual channels. A duplicate copy of the application supported by details of experience should be sent direct to:—

THE MANAGING EDITOR, COLOGNE POST:
A.P.O./S. 40, Army of the Rhine.

Where can I get my Photo work done?
at the:—
Kölner Photo & Kino Centrale
Neumarkt 32–34.
All repairs done to Kodaks, Ica, Zeiss, Goerz, Ernemann Cameras & Cinema machines.
English spoken.

Binoculars
at original factory prices of the firms
ZEISS
GOERZ
LEITZ
PHOTO
Cameras — Plates
Roll-Films - Pack-Films
SLIDE RULES
MICROSCOPES
ZEISS-PUNKTAL-GLASSES
for rimless glasses and spectacles.
The best for the eyes!
OPTICAL institute S. Goldfinger Limited
founded 1869
Hohestr. 88 COLOGNE Hohestr. 88
On parle français. English spoken.

Photo House
HARTSTEIN
Margaretenkloster
(close to the Cathedral)
Cameras and all Articles for Amateur Photography
Developing and Copying within 24 hours

Optician
C. Pichon
COLOGNE, Hohestr. 150
Careful examination of eyes
in specially fitted rooms
PRISMATIC FIELD GLASSES

NÜCHEL & HILLEBRECHT
COLOGNE, Glockengasse, corner Kreuzgasse, close Schauspielhaus. Tel. A 5566
UNIFORM MAKERS
MILITARY OUTFITS
Manufacture of all Uniforms for the Army of Occupation. First-class References.

Mention The Cologne Post when replying to advertisements. It helps you and the advertisers.

THE RHINELAND EXCHANGE.

Count number of words — reckon 7 to a line — and send 4 Marks per line to Small Advt. Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40 British Army of the Rhine.

FOR SALE.

1 SEAL-SKIN JACKET, 1.20 meters long, for sale. Apply A. 337 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

MOTOR CAR. Two seater, 14 h.p. Opel. In good condition. Tyres nearly new. 5 detachable wheels. Accessories. Price £250. Apply Major Terry, R.F.A., Dom-Hotel, Cologne, between 12 and 3 o'clock.

KODAK 2½×4½ in case. Guaranteed perfect 200 Marks. Tennis racquet (J.A.Davis) 1403 practically new 120 Marks. Apply "Lake," 13. Auf dem Hügel, Müngersdorf, between 2 and 3 o'clock.

BARGAIN. Zeiss—Goerz and Voigtland binoculars. Karl Lang, Kleine Neugasse 91.

SEAL-SKIN Boys fur panto-spendid model for sale (M. 250.—) Köln-Sülz, Euskirchenstraße 2, part. l.

FOR SALE, two carriages, main coach and break quite new. Address, Administration of castle Bürresheim, near Mayen, Rhine and

FIRST-CLASS Pathe Freres Cinematograph machine, for drawing room. Good condition. Dynamo and everything complete. Apply Sgt J. Spencer, 3rd G.H.Q., Reserve M.T. Coy.

WANTED.

CAMERA wanted second-hand, cheap. Focal plane shutter and large adaptor lens, 4.5. if poss. but not smaller than 6.8. Box H. A., Cologne Post, A.P.O. S. 40.

WANTED. Two coming punchballs, with or without platform. Write Sports Officer, 52nd Devons.

PIANO wanted on hire by Army Pay Dept. Sgts. Mess State terms to Sgt. H. Wick, Command Pay Office, Cologne.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

YOUNG LADY, War Worker, (France and Germany) seeks appointment in Germany. University Graduate in Honours. Experienced in secretarial and educational work. Apply Box 21, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

YOUNG LADY of a very good family desires situation as governess to British Officer's family. Speaks English, French and German fluently. Apply to A. 336 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

INTERPRETER, former Staff-interpreter of the American Army of Occupation, good experience in communicating with German authorities, wants position—also as assistant of English merchants in Germany. Write to A 345, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

MISCELLANEOUS.

YOUNG lady, speaking English, teaches Piano and German. Write to A 342, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

150,000 MARKS. First mortgage on a coal mine near Zeitz in Saxony — estimated 800,000 Marks 5½% interest and 5% redemption wanted. Apply to A 338 Cologne Post, A.P.O./S. 40.

TRANSLATION of commercial and private letters, advertisements, agreements. English typewriting. Spandow. 7 Rudolfplatz.

GERMAN, easiest quickest method. Spandow. 7 Rudolfplatz near Opera House. 20 years experience in English schools.

LOST.

LOST in centre of Cologne or at VI th Corps Club, gold bar brooch, amethyst in centre. Reward if returned to Advt. Manager, Cologne Post, A.P.O. S.40

MISSING.

ANY INFORMATION respecting the whereabouts of Pte. William Nolan, No. 48558, D Coy. 13th Kings, reported missing March 27th. 1918, would be very gratefully received by his mother at 12. Gwladoline Street, Windsor St. Liverpool, England.

TRADE.

ENGLISHWOMAN visiting Cologne, with large English connection in Ladies and Girl's Outfitting would like to take up agencies. Box 26, Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40.

THE COLOGNE POST
HOME SUBSCRIPTION FORM

To Subscription Dept. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40 Rhine Army/
I enclose remittance for 15 marks. (From United Kingdom 2/9.)
Please send "The Cologne Post" daily for one month to:

PLEASE WRITE IN BLOCK LETTERS
NAME: .....
ADDRESS: .....
.....
15 MARKS COVERS ALL BRITISH POSSESSIONS
.....

Printed and published by "The Cologne Post" at 35 Marzellen-Strasse, Cologne, November 8, 1919. Address all communications "The Cologne Post" A.P.O. S.40 British Army of the Rhine.

EDUCATION
A NEW DEPARTURE
SEE PAGE 4

The Cologne Post

A Daily Paper published by the Army of the Rhine.

I. MARCUS & CO.
SEE SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT ON PAGE 2

No. 191. COLOGNE, SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1919. Price 35 Pfg.

RUSSIAN ARMY RETREATING.

BOLSHEVIST CAVALRY CUT COMMUNICATIONS AND SEIZE THE ENEMY TREASURY.

ARMY COUNCIL'S ORDER OF THE DAY.

THE WHITE LINE.

OPERATIONS IN NORTH WEST RUSSIA.

Official reports received of the situation of the North West Army up the evening of November 4th show there has been a further Russian retirement. The present line of the Esthonian supporting column on the left of the North Western Army runs from the sea unchanged to Gorlovo, thence to South Autanchi (twenty miles South-West of Krasnoselo). Here the Esthonian right touches the Russian left. The North West Army line continues to Vladimerskaya station, fifteen miles South West of Gatchina on the Yamburg railway; from there Southward at an average distance of from ten to fifteen miles West of the Gatchina-Pskoff railway as far as Bie ayagorka (20 miles South West of Luga) thence to Juchnova on the Jeltcha river (30 miles East of Lake Peipus) and along that river to the shores of the lake.

The Russian version of the Bolshevist coup referred to elsewhere is that a small raiding party of Red cavalry passed through a gap in the North West Army's front near Luga and moved towards Gdov with the apparent object of doing as much damage as possible on the Russian lines of communication between their Headquarters and the front line. Their attacks were beaten off and they are now endeavouring to make their way back to their own lines.

DARING CAVALRY COUP.

YUDENITCH LOSES HIS TREASURY.

The Bolshevists claim that they have captured General Yudenitch's treasury. A Moscow wireless message states "Our commanders of cavalry four miles from Gdoff captured six hundred prisoners and half a million roubles of the North West Government's issue. Our troops succeeded in out-flanking the enemy and cut his communications. Whe have captured officers, officials, and the army treasury."

Private reports received at Helsingfors state that General Yudenitch's position is most difficult, as he is threatened both on the flank and rear. The next few days are expected to bring events to a decisive turn.

MUDDLE, NOT POVERTY.

M.P.'s INTERESTING SUGGESTION.

The Coalition Member of Parliament for South-East Essex, Colonel F. Hilder, has addressed a letter to the Press wherein he states that the present financial position of the world generally is marked by desperate muddle rather than by desperate impoverishment and that what has been actually lost of the world's wealth owing to the war was by no means irreparable.

He asserts that the real danger is in the terrible tangle into which the world's delicate and complex system of exchange has been involved and he contends that if that could be put right, this generation, with reasonable industry and economy, could get back to normal posperity.

As a practical proposal for international action to clear up the financial wreckage of war under the League of Nations, he suggests that there should be established a bank of issue governed by an Executive of seven, elected by the League. This bank would have authority to issue currency notes, to be legal tender at face value in the territory of any nation adhering to the League of Nations. It should take over and fund all war debts of the Allies, and it would then adjust the debts as between the various nations.

HERR HAASE SUCCUMBS.

The death of Herr Haase, Deputy of the German National Assembly, and Leader of the Independent Socialists, adds one to the long list of political assassinations in Germany since the war. He was shot at and seriously wounded on the 8th October by a lunatic as he was on his way to the Reichstag, and lingered until Friday, his weakened system failing to sustain the shock resulting from the amputation of his left leg.

Herr Haase, a Jew, was born on the 29th September 1863 at Allenstein and was educated at the public school in Rastenburg in Eastern Prussia, and at the University at Königsberg. In 1890 he commenced to practise as a barrister in Königsberg, but in 1912 he transferred his activities to Berlin. For fifteen years he was a town councillor of Königsberg and he was a member of the Reichstag from 1897 to 1918.

The Prince of Wales yesterday conferred a Knighthood on Major-General Morrison and invested a number of other Canadian officers with decorations.

ORDER OF THE DAY.

ARMY COUNCIL'S THANKS TO N. RUSSIAN FORCES.

The following Special Order of the Day has been issued on the completion of the evacuation of the Allied forces from North Russia.

"The Army Council desire to convey to all ranks who participated in the operations in this theatre of war an expression of their admiration of the manner in which they maintained the traditions of the British Army under most difficult and trying conditions. The Council desire especially to express their hearty thanks to all ranks of the Relief Forces and their appreciation of the skill, courage, discipline and powers of endurance which alone rendered it possible to carry out the difficult military operation of withdrawal, with practically no loss of life, in such a manner as to leave the Russian troops in a favourable position to continue their resolute defence."

ARMISTICE DAY.

ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION OF KING'S IDEA.

The King's invitation to his people to join with him on Tuesday in commemoration of the Armistice by a two-minute cessation of work or pleasure has evoked widespread interest. The Admiralty is communicating with merchant ships at sea and informing the captains of the King's invitation and it is assumed that these ships will slow down or stop. The whole thing, however, is absolutely voluntary.

The invitation has also been wirelessed to all British warships. As far as the army in England is concerned, all work and drills will be suspended for two minutes.

Special services will be held in a number of churches and in every school throughout the country headmasters and mistresses will take appropriate steps to see that the occasion is fittingly celebrated by the pupils.

At Liverpool, Armistice day will be celebrated by the firing of rockets from the city police stations at eleven o'clock and the church bells will be rung for three minutes.

All traffic at Birmingham will be stopped and factories and workshops will suspend work shortly before eleven. A detachment of cadets will assemble in Victoria Square, where there will be a roll of muffled drums, followed by the Last Post. Church bells at Bristol will be tolled for five minutes and all activites will cease for the prescribed time.

AMERICAN STRIKE.

PRODUCTION AND PRICES.

It is believed at Washington that President Wilson will shortly call another Industrial Conference owing to the vast number of strikers, which is now estimated at more than a million and a half.

Mr. Palmer, the Attorney General, declares that Capital and Labour must get together to increase production. He declares that idleness is a sin in this emergency, and continued discontent and disorder must be expected until the Government meets the problem of the high cost of living. He says:—"I venture to assert that if men would work ten per cent. more in America, prices would be twenty per cent. lower. Profiteers should be uprooted and confined to prison."

YOUNG MARKSMEN.

AUSTRALIA LEADS THE EMPIRE.

The National Rifle Association has issued the result for the year 1919 of the Imperial Challenge Shield Competition for boys, which has been held annually throughout the Empire since 1910. In the Senior Division, for boys over fifteen, 775 teams entered and 554 in the Junior Division, representing 13,000 boys. The outstanding feature of the results in the Senior Competition was that most of the prizes were won by Australian Cadets. Altogether Australia won 49 prizes, Great Britain 45, South Africa 14, New Zealand 9 and Canada 6.

The following message was sent from the King: His Majesty is interested to find that Australia again gives proof of her unquestioned superiority in marksmanship and trusts that this position of supremacy may stimulate the spirit of rivalry both at home and in the other Dominions.

The French aviator Lieutenant Poulet has arrived at Bagdad en route to Australia.

D'Annunzio has expelled the American journalists from Fiume for writing news about Fiume which he considered untrue.

GUN BURST.

N.C.O. KILLED AT THE PROOF BUTTS.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a Greenwich jury at the inquest on Staff-Sergeant Spono, R.G.A., attached to the proof butts at Woolwich, who was killed at the Arsenal by the explosion of a twelve-pounder gun which was being proved.

Several rounds had been successfully fired and deceased had reloaded the gun properly when suddenly there was a terrible explosion. The gun was not ready for firing and no order for firing had been given. The breach block was blown out and deceased, who was behind the gun, was killed outright.

An officer attributed the accident to the breaking of the firing pin.

BASUTO LOYALTY.

CHIEF'S VISIT TO THE KING.

The King, who was accompanied by the Queen and Princess Mary, received at Buckingham Palace yesterday the paramount Chief Griffith and other Basuto Chiefs, when the leader fulfilled the purpose of his visit to England by presenting an address of congratulation and allegiance to the Throne.

In his personal address Chief Griffith said: "We have come six thousand miles and more to assure your Majesty face to face of our devotion."

Replying at some length the King said he was glad to know that the Basuto nation remained as loyal and devoted to himself as to his revered predecessors. He was also glad to receive their congratulations on the signal victory which had rewarded the efforts of the British and Allied forces in the great war. His Majesty concluded by hoping they would take back with them pleasant memories of their stay in England and wished them a safe return home.

SHEIKH LAWRENCE.

FELLOWSHIP FOR FAMOUS OFFICER.

Colonel T. E. Lawrence, who did such good work with the Arabs through the war, was yesterday elected to a Research Fellowship at All Souls' College, Oxford.

Although Colonel Lawrence is not yet thirty he is said to have received twenty-seven offers of marriage since his return to England. When the war broke out he was studying archaeology in Palestine. He obtained a post as Intelligence Officer in Egypt and, disguised as a Bedouin, used to trot off alone into the desert on a camel. Once he blew up a troop train. He persuaded the desert Arabs to help towards the defeat of the Turks. For his invaluable services he received the C.B. and D.S.O., while the Arabs made him an Emir.

SENSIBLE RECIPROCITY.

Reciprocal arrangements have been made between the British and Canadian Governments for the treatment and training of ex-members of the Imperial Forces in Canada and ex-members of Canadian forces in the United Kingdom. Ex-Imperials settled in Canada will thus enjoy all benefits and privileges accorded to Canada's own ex-service men, including the option of taking their pensions and allowances and viceversa.

SOVIET AMNESTY.

An amnesty is to celebrate the occasion of the second anniversary of the Bolshevist Revolution. The Soviet resolution provides that all under detention shall be released, except those who have actively plotted against the Soviets, assisted parties striving to overthrow the Soviets by armed force, or those who have committed a crime with a clearly selfish aim.

CHEAP LINE IN FUR OVERCOATS.

Astonishing bargains are offered to Parisians in the sale of American Army stocks which the French Government is now conducting. In the secondhand section fur-lined overcoats may be had for 3f., or under 2s. at the present rate of exchange; and high rubber boots for 2f. 50c.

GREAT LANDSLIDE.

Two hundred thousand tons of limestone rock fell suddenly yesterday at the famous Derbyshire quarry of Hopton. The whole of a pasture field disappeared under this enormous mass. It is anticipated that it will take the quarrymen three years to load the stone into railway waggons for transport.

RETIREMENT OF LORD BYNG.

The War Office announces that Lord Byng has been permitted to retire from the Army with a view to assuming the position of Chairman of the United Services Fund, which has been appointed to administer the accumulated profits of canteen trading during the war.

BISHOP OF COLOGNE.

Cardinal von Hartmann is still very weak, but the doctors state that a little amelioration of his condition has taken place.

CIVIC ELECTIONS.

DUBIOUS TACTICS OF THE LABOUR PARTY.

The apathy of the electors in the recent Borough Council Elections is well illustrated by particulars forwarded by the Municipal Reform party. From these it appears that in twenty boroughs only between 19 per cent. and 30 per cent. voters went to the poll; in five cases between 30 and 40 per cent. voted. One hundred and twenty-three women councillors have been elected to the 28 Councils, as against 35 women on the old Councils. Of the new women Councillors 66 are Municipal Reformers, 42 Labour, 12 Progressives, and 3 Independents. The new Councils are composed of 621 Municipal Reformers, 573 Labour, 130 Progressives, and 14 Independents.

There are, it is added, many complaints as to the dubious wording of the poll cards issued by the Labour Party. Some of these cards were calculated to deceive ignorant electors into believing that they could vote only for Labour candidates. After setting out the names of Labour candidates the statement was boldly printed: "If you vote for any other candidate you nullify your vote." In one Borough the electors in one ward were informed that they had only eight votes, whereas they had nine. To deceive electors in this way is a corrupt practice, and legal action is being taken with a view to securing the punishment of the offenders.

NEW ZEALAND FORCE.

GOVERNMENT'S THANKS TO THE MOTHER COUNTRY.

The High Commissioner for New Zealand has received, Reuter's Agency is informed, the undermentioned cablegram from his Government:

The following resolution has been unanimously passed by both Houses of Parliament:

"That this House, in the name and on behalf of the people of the Dominion, places on record its deep sense of appreciation of the many kindnesses, courtesies, and privileges extended to members of the New Zealand Expeditionary Force on Active Service in various parts of the world. To each and to all, in whatever part of the world, who offered the hand of fellowship to New Zealand soldiers and nurses, and to those who helped to cheer and comfort them, whether in hospital, camp, furlough, or en route to or from the seat of war, the Dominion tenders its grateful thanks."

THE PRICE OF SCAPA.

The full text of the Allies' Note to Germany, dealing with those Armistice conditions which Germany has failed to fulfil, and including the Scapa Flow affair, has now reached London. The light cruisers named for Germany to surrender are the Königsberg, Graudenz, Pillau, Regensburg, and Strassburg, which must be handed over within sixty days from the signature of the protocol.

Within ninety days there must also be handed over to the Allies such a number of floating docks, cranes, tugs and dredgers as shall be equal to a total displacement of 400,000 tons, while as compensation for the destruction of the U. C. 48, Germany must deliver up engines and motors of three other submarines.

IMPORTANT GERMAN OFFICER ARRESTED.

Captain von der Goltz, brother of General von der Goltz, was arrested in one of the two recruiting offices for troops for the Baltic provinces which were raided in Berlin on Tuesday last. One report says that he is accused of having supplied large quantities of arms and ammunition to the Iron Division. Documents were found in his possession seriously incriminating various Foreign Office officials.

LABOUR AND CIVIC OFFICES.

The first fruits of the success of Labour candidates at the municipal elections was seen at Merthyr Tydvil on Thursday night when Labour captured the chairmanships of eleven of the Town Council Committees. They also secured the Mayoralty, electing a miner named Pedlar to that office.

MONS STAR PROFITEERING.

The well-known medal dealers, Spink and Sons, Piccadilly, were respondents in a complaint brought before the Westminster Profiteering Committee yesterday. They had charged eighteen pence for a rosette for the 1914 ribbon and were ordered to refund six pence in two cases.

PERMANENT DEPOT AT SLOUGH.

In the House of Commons, replying to a question as to whether the transport depot at Slough is only being occupied temporarily, Mr Kellaway, Deputy Minister of Munitions, said that arrangements are being made for the acquisition of the freehold of the depot.

ACCIDENT TO LORD BRASSEY.

Lord Brassey was knocked down by a taxicab at Westminster on Thursday evening. He is suffering from concussion and his present condition is causing some anxiety.

A SURREY MYSTERY.

ARMY HUT AND CONTENTS DISAPPEAR.

A mysterious affair is reported from Whiteleafe, Surrey, where a hut belonging to the twelfth battalion of Surrey Volunteers has been spirited away. The hut was situated on the miniature rifle range. It contained about half a dozen rifles, targets, and much other material, including Government property, all of which, together with the hut, is missing.

The battalion was recently disbanded, and it was whilst steps were being taken to collect the Government equipment that the discovery was made that the hut and its contents had vanished.

HOW TRADE IS LOST.

WHY A GOOD CONTRACT LEFT THE MIDLANDS.

At the large waggon building works of Messrs. Stableford and Company, Coalville, Leicestershire, where nearly one thousand men are employed, the following significant notice to the workmen was posted up yesterday in the works by Mr. Egbert P. Booth, the managing director: "We tendered for seven hundred waggons of different types to the Crown Agents to the Colonies. Owing to the high cost of the waggons, the Colony in question has decided not to order these in this country, but are making arrangements to build them themselves. This is the first time this has happened since the Colony had railways, and it is only reasonable to suppose that when they have created the organisation for building these waggons they will manufacture their own requirements in the future, and the trade will be lost to us."

PALACE BURGLAR.

CAUGHT IN THE GARDEN.

At Bow Street Police Court on Thursday afternoon a young man was charged with being in the gardens of Buckingham Palace for an unlawful purpose. He pleaded guilty. A detective said that at two o'clock in the morning accused was discovered in the grounds of the Palace and was promptly arrested. He said "I did not mean any harm to anyone. I got over the wall by climbing up the ivy." On the prisoner was found a pair of gloves and a metal glass cutter. He was remanded for a week.

"BLACK JACK".

CATERHAM DEPOT DISCLAIMER.

Mr. John J. Cunningham, who describes himself as "late Sergeant, Irish Guards" has written a letter to "The Star". He states that he is the so-called "Black Jack" whose namesake has been prominent lately in various newspaper correspondence columns concerning the alleged brutality and bullying at the Guards Training Depot at Caterham, as described in Stephen Graham's book, "A Private in the Guards."

By his account, the real Black Jack was a very different being from the ruffian described by certain correspondents, one of whom speaks of him as being a sergeant in 1914, whereas at that time he was himself a Private, being promoted sergeant on the field in 1915.

GENERAL SMUTS AND PALESTINE.

General Smuts, speaking at a Jewish reception in Johannesburg, mentioned that Mr. Lloyd George had asked him to take command in Palestine during the war. He had declined, feeling that he had had enough of fighting, and that he would be more useful at the centre of things.

CRUELTY TO A MARE.

At Glamorgan Assizes on Wednesday Ivor Hudson, fifty-seven, farm labourer, was sentenced to three years' penal servitude for maiming a mare by driving nails into her hoofs. Having been prohibited by his employer from working the mare he threatened that no one else should do so.

UNEMPLOYED SWINDLERS.

At North London Police Court James Dawson, of Stroud Green-road, was fined £15 for obtaining the unemployment allowance for a period during which, it was stated, he and his wife were in employment and were receiving £4 2s. 10d. per week, including an Army pension of £1 0s. 4d. per week.

COSTLY DESERTION.

Kingston Justices have imposed a fine of £25 on Sergeant W. L. Stevens, R.E., for having left his four children chargeable to the Kingston Union since 1909. It was stated that the maintenance of the children cost the ratepayers £600.

Specimens of work done by disabled soldiers formed a prominent feature of an exhibition of handwork which is now open at Drapers Hall They included beautiful samples of art needlework, also basketwork, woodwork and leatherwork.

WHITEHALL GIRLS.

REFUSE TO TEACH THEIR SUCCESSORS.

There is a check in the dismissals of the temporary staffs of female clerks at Whitehall, and some of the girls who were under notice to leave at this week-end have been asked to stay for a few weeks longer. The reason given is that the Minister of Labour cannot find enough disabled ex-soldiers at the rate of pay offered, which is fifty-nine shillings weekly at starting, with a rise of half a crown per week annually for three years. A minor trouble is that the girl clerks refuse to teach the new staff their work.

A White Paper on the staffs of Government detachments was issued yesterday which deals with ninety per cent. of the total government departments. From this it appears that there were still 399,952 persons employed on the 1st October, a reduction of 8,032 as compared with the 1st September. Two departments show increases, namely, the Post Office (6.9) and Food Ministry (101). The largest decrease was at the Ministry of Munitions, where the staff was reduced by 3,155. Nevertheless there are still 11,623 men and 10,199 women employed there.

EAST FIFE.

ASQUITH DECLINES TO CONTEST THE SEAT.

The following letter has been addressed by Mr. Asquith to the Secretary of the East Fife Liberal Association:

"I am obliged by your letter informing me of my re-election as Honorary President of the East Fife Liberal Association and conveying an invitation to become a candidate for the division, and it is with much regret that I find myself unable to comply with your request."

At the General Election in December last Mr. Asquith was beaten in East Fife by Colonel Sir A. Sprot, by 2,002 votes. His refusal to contest the seat does not necessarily mean that he is not contemplating re-entering the House.

BOMBS AT TOKIO.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP DIPLOMATISTS.

A bomb or other infernal machine exploded on Friday evening in the roadside ditch between the Foreign Ministry and the Russian Embassy at Tokio. Two men were slightly injured, and the windows and walls of both buildings were damaged.

The Japanese Foreign Minister was giving a dinner, followed by a ball, in celebration of the Emperor's birthday. The entire diplomatic corps, the Japanese cabinet, and the whole of the official world of Japan were invited.

In spite of the occurrence the festivities took place as planned, the majority of the guests being ignorant of the attempt. A workman has been arrested on suspicion.

FINLAND TO ASSIST LATER.

In replying to General Liangoff's request for the intervention of Finland in the war against Soviet Russia the Finnish Government regrets that owing to the domestic and political situation and the most limited resources of the country it is difficult for Finland to equip an army for a winter campaign. The reply adds: "the Finnish Government, however, follows the fight of White Russia against the Bolshevists with sympathy, and promises to do its utmost to relieve Petrograd when it has been taken."

OFFICIAL'S MANY FRIENDS.

The famous Harrow school official, Mr. W. Halliday, who has just retired from the management of the school workshops after forty-four years' service, is said to have more Princes, Cabinet Ministers, great soldiers and statesmen among his personal friends than almost any official now living. He was appointed by the late Dr. Butler, Master of Trinity. His successor is Engineer-Lieutenant W. C. Oliver, R.N., from Bombay High School.

SHAH AT ROSYTH.

The Shah of Persia visited Rosyth Naval base yesterday. He inspected the dockyards and boarded several of the warships.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

Business was unsettled at the outset, the higher bank rate still having a depressing influence. Investment securities underwent further marking down in accordance with the new monetary conditions.

Shippings and textiles exhibited renewed strength and oils subsequently rallied under influential operations, one factor being that an increasing number of shipowners are arranging for oil-burning equipment for steam raising purposes.

Gilt-edge securities became steadier but Victory and funding loans remained depressed, owing to prospects of prize bond issues. Rubbers were fair. Selling rates for British Treasury Bills were raised to 50½ per cent for trimester and semester scrip.

Ceratopogon Pulicaris!

You may not recognise his name—but you know him quite well. He's the little stinging fly which is biting everyone who tries to enjoy the evening outdoors. He will not bite you, however, if you always use. . . .

SAPON RUSSIAN TAR SOAP

You can defy all mosquitos, gnats and other pests which sting and bite.

A Doctor writes:— "I find your Russian Tar Soap gives wonderful results in irritable skin diseases, such as Scabies, Eczema, Pruritus, Insect Bites, Acne, etc." The following is the best method of application:—Moisen the Soap, rub it on the part affected, and allow it to dry.

Sold throughout all the Army Canteens at

OFFICIAL PRICE

Do not pay more. Insist on being supplied. If any difficulty advise us and we will pay postage.

SAPON SOAPS LIMITED
LONDON BRIDGE E.C.4., ENGLAND

I. MARCUS & Co. LONDON

wish to hear direct from manufacturers of all classes of JOINTED DOLLS, PASTE BROOCHES, AND JEWELLERY. SMALL TOYS AND NOVELTIES FOR PRIZE PACKETS AND LUCKY BAGS, CLOCKS, WATCHES, TINSEL, BALLS (PAINTED & PLAIN) LEATHER GOODS, MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, MOUTH ORGANS, BEADS, RAZORS, PHOTO-FRAMES, COMBS AND ALL FANCY GOODS

Mr. N. Marcus will be in Cologne for a few weeks to buy all such goods and to arrange agencies for England and also the export from England of all kinds of products required for the German market.

ADDRESS IN FIRST INSTANCE
BOX M.A.R. Cologne Post, A.P.O./S.40, Rhine Army

THOS. COOK & SON

BANKERS, TOURIST, ARMY AND FORWARDING AGENTS

THE FIRM'S COLOGNE BRANCH HAS BEEN RE-OPENED FOR THE CONVENIENCE OF OFFICERS N.C.O'S. AND MEN OF THE ARMY OF OCCUPATION

FOREIGN MONIES EXCHANGED

ADDRESS: 1 DOMHOF
OPPOSITE THE CATHEDRAL

N.A.C.B.

NEW RESTAURANT BEER BAR CANTEEN CAFÉ.

Splendidly decorated building situated in the

BONN :: MÜNSTERPLATZ

OPEN TO ALL O.R.S.
"SERVICE FOR SOLDIERS'

KODAKS

New and Second-hand at lowest prices. Send for Lists. All Supplies by Post. Wallace Heaton Ltd. 19, Change Alley, SHEFFIELD

SPARKES HALL

308, REGENT ST. LONDON W.
4, AVENUE FRIEDLAND, PARIS and
ROOM 71, DISCH HOTEL
Brückenstr. COLOGNE
(Next Door to N.A.C.B. Canteen)

FIELD, HUNTING & POLO BOOTS

Hand-Sewn Field Boots, Civilian Boots, Shoes and Pumps made to order and delivered to Germany in 18 days or in England in 10 days.

FLIGHTS LTD

MILITARY TAILORS
LONDON. WINCHESTER. ALDERSHOT

Have a selection of the newest materials for mufti suits. Also a stock of hosiery and service caps. Riding breeches made to measure in about 14 days.

OFFICERS' CLUB No. 1, COLOGNE.

SUNDAY CONCERT.

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.

SPECIAL SUNDAY CONCERT.
Sunday, 9th November 1919.
Last appearance this Season of

BACKHAUS

The World Famous Pianist.
Vocalist:

HOWARD FRY

Book at the Theatre or Amusements Office. Prices:—10, 6, 4, & 2 Marks.

Scottish Churches and English Free Churches.

THE MILITARY CHURCH.
6 Filzengraben (Turning off Heumarkt.)
Sunday, 9th November
11 a.m. and 6 p.m.
Preacher: Rev. G. A. SEATH, C. F. (Garrison Chaplain).
Cars Nos. 6, 7, 11, 18 and 20.

Welsh Service 2—30 p.m. in Y.M.C.A. Central.

ARMY AMUSEMENTS

Deutsches Theatre. Bismarckstrasse.
Night at 6 p.m.
Mr. PHILYP WILLIAMS and his
LONDON MUSIC HALL COMPANY.

Palace Theatre. Herzogstrasse.
This week nightly at 6 p.m.
Mr. ALFRED HURLEY
presents his London Variety Company.
Artistes:
"DATAS"
The world renowned memory man from the Palace Theatre, London. "Am I right, Sir."?
MISS MARGUERITE DE LARA
Prestidigitator
MISS GWLADYS STANLEY, Soubrette
Central Pier, Blackpool, Season 1919

MISS MAJORIE BOWYA and MR. POWELL-EASTBERY Versatile Duo	MR. WARWICK PRYCE Entertainer at the piano from Maskelyne and Devant's St. George's Hall, London.

No: 1 ARMY CINEMA. 32 Komödienstrasse
At 6 p.m. All the Best Pictures
Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.

No: 2 ARMY CINEMA.
Moderne Theatre, Breite Strasse
At 6 p.m. and Matinee Daily at 3 o/c.
Grand Orchestra and Pictures.

No: 3 ARMY CINEMA. Hohe Strasse
PANOPTIKUM LICHTSPIELHAUS.
Bright Music and Best Pictures.

British Empire LEAVE CLUB
Hon. Dir. Gen., Miss Decima Moore, C.B.E.

ENTERTAINMENTS

TO-NIGHT at 6.30 p.m.
CONCERT by the LONDON DIVISIONAL STRING ORCHESTRA & PIPERS of the 11th ROYAL SCOTS (by kind permission of the O.C.)
ADMISSION FREE.

PROGRAMME for the WEEK.
Monday Nov. 10th—DANCE.
Tuesday Nov. 11th—
6.15 p.m. In the Music Room.
"GERMAN SUBMARINE WARFARE" by Lt C. H. B. FOXLEY R.N.
7 p.m. THEATRICAL PERFORMANCE.
Two PLAYS—"TANKS".
By special Request
"THE BATH ROOM DOOR."
Wednesday Nov. 12th—DANCE.
Thursday Nov. 13th—WHIST DRIVE. CHESS MATCH. DANCING CLASS followed by DANCE.
Friday Nov. 14th—DEBATE in Music Room. CONTINUOUS CINEMA.
Saturday Nov. 15th DANCE.

CINEMA
EVERY DAY. From 2.30 p.m.
Admission 2 Marks.

The Cologne Post

Telephones: Military, No. 339. Civil: A 9513.
Postal Address: "Cologne Post" A.P.O., S.40, British Army of the Rhine.

Sunday, November 9, 1919.

DRIFTING.

The other day an important decision was arrived at by a very important body of Englishmen—the textile manufacturers—that no business in their products should be done with Germany until our Government has formulated a definite commercial policy.

The decision was unanimous—except for a solitary dissentient. It has the merit of definiteness. It displays a clear insight into future difficulties that assail us, unless as a nation, we can assure ourselves of leaders who can do something better than merely drift.

The lamentable weakness of our leaders is evident at every turn. As a matter of fact public opinion, which is far ahead of them in its vision, presses them continuously to what action they do take.

This has been exemplified very frequently of late. The nation is starving for a decisive bold policy in all directions. The energies of our people are hampered on every side by the lack of it. Trade and that increased production which ministers urge so constantly, are paralysed because all is uncertainty. The benefits accruing from the victory we achieved a year ago are being steadily eaten away by the blight of ineptitude. No strong lead is forthcoming.

The latest example of the Government's failure to govern is their blindness in regard to the inevitable Prize Bond. In a London daily has just appeared a cartoon, which aptly pictures the present position.

A figure labelled "Public Pressure" is striding in the direction indicated by the finger of a signpost: "To Prize Bonds." He is hauling on a noosed rope along the highway, three unwilling politicians, Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Bonar Law and Mr. Chamberlain.

The National Finances, Social Reconstruction, Foreign, Military, Naval and Air Policies, are all affected adversely by the existing weakness of our rulers. The sweeping victories of the Labour party in the recent municipal elections show the trend of public opinion. Thousands are throwing in their lot with Labour, not so much from keen sympathy with the movement, but because they feel that elsewhere there are few signs of vigorous policy. Many feel that even mistaken action is preferable to none at all. Whether we agree with its aim or not, none can fail to realise that at least Labour knows what it wants. We cannot afford to drift any longer.

THOSE ASLEEP AT SEA.

This is no picture of the Day of the Dead in Germany, but a memory of a thing seen once on that day in England. It is well that our thoughts should turn homeward piously at this time, and not forgetting our own who lie in foreign fields, remember those whom the earth and the seas of England have taken to themselves.

Had it not been that the thin wind-bowed Cornish elms by the austere granite church on the hill were burning gold torches of yellow fire, you might have thought the morning one of late spring instead of November, so mild was the air, with the milky softness it has only in the West Country, and so genial was the sun.

There was no wind; the Atlantic and the sky met near at hand, it seemed, in a delicate opal mist, and the blue of the heavens covered the floor of the sea.

The rollers swung out of the west in a stately endless procession, reared for one instant, low translucent walls of living green and purple, fell, and broke in dazzling surf along the sands of the cove.

The still morning was full of the melancholy voice of the sea, which yet seemed only to make more profound the quiet of the earth and the sense of accomplishment, of the year's work happily ended, which brooded over the upland fields.

It seemed that in the little graveyard by the church on the shore—for this parish in Cornwall has two churches—the dead among the sand and marram grass and sea poppies, whitened by the spindrift of winter storms, might sleep more soundly than elsewhere, in the sound of that eternal call of the sea. Yet on that day of the dead, thankful in presence of the harmonies of sea and land and sky, a man could only desire to live.

Through the open door of the church, I had seen the priest, vested in black and gold, busied at the altar on which burned tapers of unbleached wax, and from the church came presently a little procession, which moved across the sands to the sea.

There were red-cassocked and surpliced boys, carrying tapers which burned palely in the sunny calm; blue-robed and white-veiled girls, carrying sheaves of flowers from the cottage gardens—bright dahlias and bronze and gold chrysanthemums, and branches of the red and purple fuchsia, which fears no winter in this soft climate; a handful of fisherfolk, a few strangers, and the priest himself in a black cope. The smell of incense mingled with the freshness of the morning.

It was all very simple; in its unconscious ease and naturalness this little pageant might have come from an Italian village church. And here in misty England a perfect hour was giving us a reflection of the south.

So they went down to the sea; the priest mounted a ridge of rock which thereabout stretched into the water; his people followed him; and they prayed together for the souls of those whom the sea had taken.

The great consoling words of the Latin liturgy, which hold all of human sorrow and human hope, sounded for the last time: "Requien aeternam dona eis Domine, et lux perpetua luceat eis."

The children cast their flowers into the sea, and the clear water round the rocks was starred with points of bright colour.

We turned and left the sea, and its dead, while the high shrill voices of the boys chanted the Benedictus.

LOOKER ON.

HIS GREAT MISTAKE.

Lance Corporal Gasshells, J. of the Military Police, was, without doubt, a credit to the force. He was six feet in height, broad with it, and his eye had a gleam sufficient to penetrate a brick wall.

Efficient in the extreme, he controlled the traffic in one of the busiest centres of Cologne, and here and there cautioned a wayward Tommy for taking too long in finding his handkerchief.

Then came his promotion to Corporal, Full, with pay, and with it a Reign of Terror. At the end of the day the names of 31 defaulters appeared in his notebook, and when the week was up, C.B. was quite common in the Rhine Army.

But all good things have an end, as P.2000 Cpl. Gasshells, J. found out when due for Demob. He enlisted in early '16, and had signed on for three months, not having a job to go back to. Suddenly the idea smote him. Why not try the Metropolitan Police???

* * *

Constable John Gasshells swelled with importance. It was his first night on duty. If anyone could keep order, it was J.G. His eyes slewed round in the fog, and their baleful glare alighted on a youth returning from school. There seemed nothing wrong with the boy, yet Constable Gasshells' temperature was rapidly rising! He tried to speak, but the words stuck in his throat. Controlling his passions, he yelled in a voice like a double strength Strombus Horn!

"Boy"!!!

The youth spun round like greased lightening.

"How dare you walk about in that slovenly manner! Take your hands out yer pockets, and do up the top button of your greatcoat!!! Not a word! You'll be for the high jump in the morning, and no error! Name and Number?"

But the boy did not reply. Instead, an inspector, noticing a small crowd gathering, crossed the road to enquire the reason of the disturbance.

"Well, Constable," he queried, "What's up?"

P. C. Gasshells, saluting smartly, replied,

"Young feller 'ere Sir, walking about in a disgraceful manner, 'aving both 'ands in 'is pockets, and the top button of his greatcoat undone!!!"

The inspector stared hard at the budding constable, as if doubting his sanity. Then he remembered his Army career, and exclaimed in grating tones—

"Constable, I don't want to be hard on you, but you'll have to liven up. You mustn't check civilians for things like that, you know. Just pull yourself together!! Goo'night!"

Gasshells, almost on the verge of apoplexy, swallowed his wrath, strode away, and was lost in the fog.

Next morning came his resignation!!!

THE EDITOR'S LETTER-BOX

We Hear all Sides without Responsibility for our Readers' Views

HOLD IT FAST.

Sir,—I cannot help thinking that cheap money makes for extravagance. Many of us who are in the fortunate position of being able to make use of the present low value of the mark rush in for wads of notes.

"Make use of present opportunity" is the cry, but what becomes of the money? Is there any endeavour to save it? In nine cases out of ten I should say not.

The man finds himself particularly "flush," and then comes the temptation for a "splash". Of what use in that case is the opportunity? Inroads are made on bank balances, but with what result?

D.IGO.

Sir,—H. H. W. hits the nail on the head when he says that the presence of wives on the Rhine makes the money fly.

"Oh, but the mark is only three halfpence, dear," was an argument deduced the other day, and hubby stumped up for some quite unnecessary expenditure.

ONE OF THE BOYS.

SELFISHNESS IN THE CLUB.

Sir,—May I crave a little of your valuable space to voice a complaint that has quite a general interest?

In the Ewige Lampe, one frequently has to wait a considerable time before getting served between the hours of 11 and 1. This is of course inevitable; but I have on several occasions noticed officers sending the waiters to the tobacco counter for cigarettes and chocolate during these hours, despite the waiters' protest.

Yesterday, while the club was full, an officer asked for a certain daily paper. The waiter replied that there was not one in the club, whereon the officer handed him a one mark note and told him to get one.

The protest that he could not spare time was waived aside and the waiter rushed out into the street to get the paper—thus keeping many of us waiting through no fault of his own.

INDIGNANT.

AN OPERA GROUSE.

Sir,—Now that Cologne contains so many new English people of both sexes, perhaps I may be excused for again bringing up the question of behaviour at the Opera.

In one of your early numbers you published a series of "Don'ts for Opera Goers" and it would seem necessary that they should be reprinted.

Many of the English audience, particularly may it be said, the fair sex quite unconsciously cause considerable annoyance to others, purely through their lack of thought and I feel sure that if the matter was brought to their notice a great improvement would be effected.

QUATRE YEUX.

IDEAL ARMY TRAINING.

Sir,—I am unable to trace the connection between Army physical training and fitness so far as football is concerned, but I know this much,—that I never felt fitter in my life than after a month in the hands of a fiery P.T. Instructor.

I shone at cross country work in the company of recognised athletes, although up to my enlistment athletics, except in mild form, did not claim my attention. I should say that Chedgzoy is wrong. What do our P.T. experts say?

DUKES.

PROPAGANDA NECESSARY.

Sir,—I agree with your correspondent that not enough is done in the way of propaganda. That is in one direction, if I may say so, where the "Cologne Post" has served us well.

Fancy being told that the Allies are on the Rhine by arrangement. I had the experience of hearing that said by a German the other day.

PUBLICITY.

ANNOUNCING THE EXCHANGE.

Sir,—Would it not be advantageous to all concerned if Messrs Cox and Messrs Cook displayed prominently in the windows of their establishments the current rates of exchange each day? Such a simple expedient would probably have the result of lessening the huge crowds, as the need for numberless fruitless enquiries would be obviated.

H.K.D.

CONCERT AUDIENCES.

Sir,—What is the matter with the average English concert audience? The other evening I attended a show which from start to finish was an unqualified success, yet it was left to the Gods to show their approval apart from sluggish handclapping.

As a North country man I like to hear what the audience thinks about the show. What matter if the applause is punctuated by shouts for a recall or a shrill whistle? Better this than the indifferent, bored attitude cultivated by some as the "concert thing".

Sing the choruses and make things go is my contention.

WIGANITE.

ARMISTICE ANNIVERSARY.

Sir,—I trust that the anniversary of Armistice Day will not be allowed to pass without some recognition here in Rhineland.

The King's idea of enjoining everybody to cease work for a few minutes in order that the time may be consecrated to thoughts of those who fell in the war is a good one, but apart from that, why not do something big out here to celebrate the great day?

We, who are on the Rhine, owe something to those lads. It might very well have been our fate to have been called upon to make the sacrifice.

Dinna forget then.

JOCK.

THAT RUGGER LEAGUE.

Sir,—When are we going to hear something definite about that promised rugger league for Rhineland?

I am thirsting for a sight of the old game and would be glad if you could see your way to publish fixtures. I don't think it would be difficult to raise one or two first-class sides if a real effort were made.

OLD TIMER.

EYES AND NO EYES.

Sir,—It is nonsense for correspondents to say there is little or nothing to be learnt during our stay here.

Even in little things connected with some of the crafts no one who is a tradesman will find it a waste of time to keep his eyes skinned for better ways of doing things. I don't mean to say there aren't heaps of things we can do better than the German. We all know there are, but in other directions we take a back seat. If we are cute way not adopt everything that is obviously an improvement. Think what the result would be if we added to our own excellence in many points, the hints we gather here.

I will conclude by giving an instance. Our boot repairing is good as a rule but I had a pair of first class British boots, the welts of which had parted from the soles. I asked more than one British cobbler to repair them. They said it was quite impossible. The boots were only fit for their scrapheap.

Not satisfied I went to the first German repairer I came across. Why did he say—impossible?—no: the problem didn't perplex him. He took the job in hand and to-day the boots are just as good as the day I bought them two years ago.

I had heard from Commandants of P. of W. Camps how useful Germans were at this class of work. Now I can believe it.

And this is only one instance so I advise all tradesmen to keep a watch and profit by what they find out. It will pay them when they get back to "civvies."

W.P.C.

RABBIT OR —?

Sir,—I can't understand why so many of your correspondents are so concerned with what other people wear.

Doesn't it show that they need something to occupy their minds? I know men who turn white with rage if they see anyone not dressed according to their own standards of perfection. It is an attitude I cannot fall in line with. It all seems so small and unworthy of serious thought.

Even K.R. and G.R.O. give some little latitude in one's attire and everybody has some idiosyncrasy which denotes individual taste. It's sure to show itself whatever regulations are framed. I take it that such regulations are merely intended as general guides, so as to have a reasonable amount of uniformity in dress. The necessity for that in an Army must be obvious, I think.

But when people write to you and cavil at fur collars or identification wristlets or whitish collars or what not, it gives one a fair idea of the paucity of their intellectual powers. Do such trifles matter one tiny bit?

They are the type who, if Napoleon came back to life, would "tick him off" because he slipped his hand inside the front of his coat between the first and second buttons.

And to say unpleasant things about girl war workers who please themselves and hurt no one else by the pretty fashion of wearing fur around their dear little necks is not only unchivalrous but petty.

Aren't you sorry that you raised the question, now, C.M.?

M.C.

WILL THE JAZZ GO?

Sir,—I see in the London papers that Jazzing has had its day; yet here in Rhineland all those who wish to be "in the swim" are crazy over it.

It seems that many new and let us hope more graceful steps and movements, are coming along to take its place. These, it is said, are to be danced to something approaching real music; it will no longer be "chic" to go through the movements of a dying mandrill to the roars, groans and cacophonous janglings of a set of half savage minstrels known as a "jazz" band. For this promise all the sane lovers of true dancing will be grateful, if it comes about.

I am a bit afraid though that the people who are now almost mad about "jazzing" will never take kindly to proper dancing. They began to worship Terpischore at a time when her art was at its lowest ebb and the degrading exhibitions which pass today for dancing have too strong a hold on them to be abandoned.

Anything better will mean that attention will have to be given to grace and rhythm; mere lurching and clutching and snuffling won't suit the higher standard.

HOPPY.

CHESS AND INSANITY.

Sir,—Replying to "Guerilla" I can say that I have been a chess-player for some time, and although I am very keen on the game, I do not go so far as to drive myself insane with the game.

Nevertheless, I am of opinion that anyone who takes more interest in the game than as a mere amusement might easily find that the intensity of such problems as a good many players now interest themselves in might easily be the means of a player's brain turning.

BLACK KNIGHT.

BEAUTIFUL FACES.

We've sought them and we've found them
in all places,
They've made us weak and they have made us strong.
They've come from all the ranks of all the Races
They've made us do the right and do the wrong.

They've called us up the ways of all the graces
With the tenderness of an old tender song;
They've made us find, they've made us lose the traces
Of the road of reason through the passions throng.

They've sent us down to hell with madment's faces
And up to the heaven where all good things belong;
Lights of Guidance. Lights of Glamour,
Beautiful Faces
Like Psyche's lamps life's darkened way along.

W. ROMAINE PATERSON

MY DEAR WINS LIVERPOOL CUP.

LIVERPOOL CUP RESULT

My Dear Wins Cleverly by Half a Length.

ALASNAM SECOND.

There was a large attendance at the Liverpool meeting on Friday. The weather was fine, but misty, and the going was good. The great attraction was the Liverpool Autumn Cup for which nearly twice as many horses started than in 1914, when Diadumenus defeated Wrack and six others. Thirteen went to the post on Friday. My Dear started favourite and justified the confidence placed in her, being always prominent and, cleverly ridden by Donoghue, finished half a length in advance of Alasnam with Sir Berkeley three-quarters of a length in rear of Sir A. Bailey's colt. Details:—

1. My Dear Mr. A. R. Cox (9—4) Donoghue.
2. Alasnam Sir A. Bailey (10—1) Western.
3. Sir Berkeley Mr. J. White (7—2) A Whalley.

African Star finished fourth. Also ran:—Rich Gift, Dominion, Square Measure, Kings Idler, Glaciale, Mapledurham, My Land, Thermogene, and Poilu.

The result is a repetition of the Cambridgeshire form when My Dear finished third to Brigand and Diadem with Alasnam fourth. Sir Berkeley was unfortunate early in that race, being crossed. My Dear who started top weight with 9—5 is a four year old, the property of Mr. A. R. Coy and trained by Taylor.

Other Liverpool Results.

Abbeystead Hurdle:—1, Procurator (7—2); 2, Girvan (5—2); 3, Toluol (5—1). Seven ran.

Palatine Plate:—1, His Highness (5—1); 2, Rock Ferry (9—4); 3, Eochester (9—2). Six ran.

Downe Nursery:—1, Service Kit (6—1); 2, Double Up (8—1); 3, Jasper (100—6). Fifteen ran.

Westmoriand Plate:—Roseacre (8—4); 2, Oberto (7—4); 3, King Carnival (10—1). Six ran.

Croxteth Plate:—1, Sea Song (9—2); 2, Divide (8—1); 3, Santa Cruz (7—1). Twelve ran.

Windsor Details.

At Windsor the weather was dull and threatening and the going sofiish. There was a large attendance. Details:—

Black Nest Handicap:—1, Glenfarg (6—1); 2, Pickay (6—1); 3, Quintus (100—6). Seventeen ran.

Mill Plate:—1, Warburton (9—2); 2, Lock Ahoy (9—4); 3, Quick Meg (100—8). Nine ran.

Rays Handicap:—1, Rock Split (6—4); and Fair Oaks (9—4); dead heat; Condottiere (7—2); third. Five ran. (Stakes divided).

Clarence Handicap:—1, Furious (7—1); 2, Land Girl (100—8); 3, Our Stephen (6—1). Twelve ran.

Frogmore Nursery:—Nova (6—1); 2, Redwings (11—2); Tiberia (100—8). Twelve ran.

Apprentices Plate:—1, Monazite (3—1); 2, Flying Post (9—2); 3, Treasury Bill (2—1). Six ran.

NOVEMBER HANDICAP.

Weights for Popular Manchester Race on Nov. 24th.

For the Manchester November Handicap to be run on Saturday, Nov. 24th, the weights are as follows:—

	st	lb		st	lb
My Dear	9	9	Mapledurham	7	1
Arion	9	5	Alasnam	7	1
Queen's Square	9	2	Daphne	7	1
Grand Fleet	9	2	William Allenby	7	0
Scatwell	9	0	Dionysos	7	0
Wildwood	8	8	Cyclist	7	0
The Midshipmite	8	8	Monteith	7	0
Rich Gift	8	6	My Land	7	0
King John	8	6	Chat Tor	7	0
Dominion	8	6	John Jackett	6	13
Planet	8	5	Blue Ground	6	13
Gay Lord	8	5	Con Cregan	6	10
Chuette	8	4	Silvanite	6	10
Not Much	8	3	Wildfellow	6	10
Golden Fleece	8	0	Dinah Morris	6	9
Royal Bucks	7	13	The O'Neil	6	8
Elsinore	7	10	Control	6	7
Happy Man	7	9	Longslip	6	6
Unitoi	7	8	Jabbok	6	6
Waterbed	7	6	King Carnival	6	6
Aynsley	7	7	Ample	6	5
Challow	7	7	Bachelor's Heather	6	5
African Star	7	6	Simon Grab	6	5
Rizzio	7	6	Saintly Maude	6	5
Rothesay Bay	7	6	Winnie Melton	6	5
Poethlyn	7	5	Warways	6	5
Jack Point	7	3	Gotha	6	5
Limpsfield	7	3	Polichinelle	6	5
Patrick's Day	7	2
Roseacre	7	1

ASSUMED RACING NAMES.

Suggested Alterations in Jockey Club Rules.

It becomes increasingly evident that the Jockey Club meeting on the 24th inst. is to be of an exceptionally interesting and important character.

Among suggested alterations in the Rules to be made there will be substitution of the following for the present rule governing assumed racing names:

"No owner shall make use of an assumed name for the purpose of entering or running horses, and any horse entered under an assumed name shall be disqualified."

RHINE ARMY GOLF.

Autumn Meeting and Competitions Next Sunday.

At the Rhine Army Golf Club Autumn meeting to be held next Sunday, as previously announced in "The Cologne Post," four prizes are to be competed for. They are: 1st scratch, 2nd scratch, 1st Handicap, 2nd Handicap.

In addition there will be a 10 mark handicap bogey sweepstake. Entries for sweepstake will be received on the ground, others must be handed in at the club House not later than Nov. 12th.

AT A STANDSTILL.

Period of Marking Time in Rhineland.

IMPROVEMENT EXPECTED.

As a result of circumstances over which sports officers have no control, sport in Rhineland during the past week or so has come to what is virtually a compulsory standstill. In every Brigade, and, in fact, in almost every unit, there is a pronounced atmosphere of uncertainty as to what the near future has in store. Many units have definitely received marching orders and are simply waiting for the word "go," and in the remainder there is an expectant attitude which cannot be said to be conducive to the arrangement of sporting fixtures.

This state of affairs is something entirely new to the British Army in Rhineland. Since the commencement of the occupation last December sport of every description has played an important part in the life of every unit. Football, cricket, boxing, athletics have been taken up in turn in deadly earnest; the local organisations have been keen to improve the prospects and capabilities of their particular sides, the result being that in every branch the standard attained has been exceptionally high. There has been no lack of organised competitions, and these have been entered into with characteristic British keenness.

A New Experience.

Consequently, the present apparent deadlock is foreign to anything we have previously experienced, and can scarcely be to the liking of the average Britisher. Happily, there is no likelihood of the present unnatural state of affairs becoming a permanency. The period of unrest will pass, and with it sport will come once more into its own.

A football competition on a large scale has already been hinted at in these columns, and now it is possible to state that such a tournament will materialise later, providing the suggestion is productive of the support necessary to the success of such a venture.

As has been previously urged, the commencement of such a competition under the present prevailing conditions would be worse than useless.

That something of the sort is needed to re-kindle the flame which has been allowed to die so low all will agree. Team organisation is not lacking, and there is still the never-failing keenness; all that is necessary, then, is an opportunity for this splendid combination to get to work.

LEEDS CITY SITUATION.

Huddersfield Town F.C. Propose Transferring to Leeds.

Recent football happenings in Leeds have been full of surprises. There has been considerable discussion as to who would take the place of the Leeds City Club expelled from the League three weeks ago. The Yorkshire Amateurs, a comparatively new team, a few days ago decided to rent the Elland-road ground at a cost of £250 a year. In view of the doubt as to the justification for taking on so heavy a liability, the amateurs have now decided to share the ground with the Leeds United Club, a team formed by the old City club's supporters, which has been admitted to the Midland League.

Further developments are now to hand of an extremely interesting nature. They concern a proposal of the Huddersfield Town Club, with all its players and league privileges, to transfer to Leeds.

Soccer Finances.

The proposal has emanated from the Huddersfield Town directors. It is significant that no step towards the transfer of Huddersfield Town to Leeds was taken until after last Saturday's matches. That day's events in Huddersfield reflected eloquently the measure of support which the Huddersfield public give to the rival "Soccer" and Northern Union clubs. Whereas there was a gate of £1,600 for the Northern Union Cup-tie, Huddersfield v. Hull, at Fartown, the attendance on the Leeds-road ground at the Huddersfield Town v. Fulham match was only sufficient to account for a gate of £90.

INTERNATIONAL POLO.

American Cup Match deferred till Summer of 1921.

The Hurlingham Polo Club has written the American Polo Association stating that, though the club has resumed polo to some extent, the war left it with a severe shortage of polo players. Many of its regiments being still abroad for indefinite periods, it sees no hope of being able to put a team in the field worthy to meet the Americans before the summer of 1921. Therefore they proposed to defer the next meeting for the American Cup to that date. The American Association willingly concurred. Field Marshal Earl Haig, chairman of the Hurlingham Committee, is calling a meeting shortly to discuss preliminary arrangements.

AMATEUR CLUB FINED FOR NEGLECT.

Complaints having been made against Ordnance F.C. (Woolwich) of delay in sending to two visiting clubs the amounts due to them in respect of receipts at F.A. Cup-ties on the Ordnance Ground, the matter has been investigated by the Southern Divisional Emergency Committee. Ordnance put forward as the reason for the long delays pressure of business on the officials of the club.

The F.A. considers that this is not a satisfactory excuse, and the club has been ordered to pay four guineas for its infringements of the rules.

Match Scratched.

The Corinthians had to scratch their match arranged with Tottenham Hotspur yesterday, and Clapton Orient visited White Hart-lane where they played the Hotspur Reserves a friendly game.

ANOTHER HUGE BOXING OFFER.

MONEY IN BOXING.

Two Huge Purses Offered for Championship Fight.

DEMPSEY v. BECKETT OR CARPENTIER.

The ever-growing importance of boxing from a financial point of view is indicated by a further huge offer for the staging of a fight between Jack Dempsey and the winner of the Beckett Carpentier match on the 4th December.

Mr. Jack Callaghan, representing a syndicate, states that he has been authorised to repeat his original offer of £2[illegible],000 for the match mentioned.

Mr. C. B. Cochran has made a similar offer, and is reported to have said that if any promoter "topped" £35,000 he could have the match and welcome.

CARPENTIER ARRIVES.

London's Great Reception of Beckett's Opponent.

Georges Carpentier, the French champion, arrived in London on Thursday night, and although the train was an hour late, a huge crowd awaited the arrival of the great boxer to give him a welcome.

His reception was thoroughly cordial, and he was subjected to much handshaking before leaving the station in Mr. Cochran's car. To the many enquiries after his health, Carpentier replied, "I am quite well, I feel quite happy; I am glad to be here again and hope to give you some good sport."

Later in the evening, Carpentier made his appearance on the stage at the London Pavilion, being led by Mlle. Delysia. He was recognised at once and was greeted by thunderous applause.

The famous actress laughingly said, "I was going to introduce Carpentier to you, but you have already recognised him. He is very happy to be amongst you again, but is very shy."

The famous Frenchman was accompanied by his manager, Francois Deschamps, Mme. Vanelbroug, Deschamps' mother-in-law, a French masseur, and Laenaers, his sparring partner. The party proceeded to Stanmore yesterday.

MISHAP TO TANCY LEE.

Tancy Lee, of Leith, the feather-weight champion and Lonsdale belt winner outright, will not be able to meet Louis de Ponthieu, the French feather-weight champion, for the European title in Paris on the date announced, Nov. 13, as the Scot has strained his leg rather severely in training. The match is not off, however, but merely postponed—to Dec. 19. The mishap is a great disappointment to Lee, who had taken up his old quarters at Portobello, and had given his supporters so much satisfaction in his training that they were looking to the result of the contest with De Ponthieu with every confidence.

FOOTBALL AT DEUTZ.

51st Northd. Fusiliers Easily Defeat Rhine Flotilla.

Played at Deutz on Thursday, when the Fusiliers won by four goals to nil. It was a good game, and of course, it must be remembered that the Rhine Flotilla had probably only half the number of players to choose from as compared with that of the Fusiliers. The goal-keeper of the Rhine Flotilla played an excellent game, saving a number of very good shots. The scorers for the Fusiliers were Capt. Pigg, Sgt. Thompson, L/Cpl. Pigg, and L/Cpl. Storey.

FALKINER'S LEAD REDUCED.

Champion's Better Form; Smith still Forging Ahead.

The closing scores in the Burroughes and Watts Billiards Tournament on Friday evening were:—

Falkiner 7725; Inman (in play) 4638
Smith (in play) 6667; Newman 4905

It will thus be seen that Inman has reduced his rivals lead by 415 and for the first time he showed something like championship form. Smith has added another 387 to his lead over Newman and is now 176 ahead.

LEAVE CLUB CHESS TOURNAMENT.

The rules of the B. E. L. C. Chess Tournament are as follows:—

Each player to challenge the opponent placed above him (best two games out of three). Prizes will be given to first three players on completion of tournament. No new members to take part in tournament after Thursday, Nov. 13th.

Games may be played outside the Club, provided slip showing result is handed to secretary signed by both players.

The following is the result of the tournament played at the British Empire Leave Club on Thursday, Nov. 6th:—

1. Sgt. Yates.....has not played
2. Sgt. Kemplin ... do.
3. L/Cpl. Raymond. do.
4. L Cpl. Howes...beat Pte. Wooster 2-0
5. Pte. Wooster ...beat Pte. Duncan 2-1
6. Pte. Duncan....
7. L Cpl. Harrison. beat Gnr. Stanley 2-0
8. Gnr. Stanley ...
9. Sgt. Taylor.....} 1 game each
10. Cpl. Jordan ....}
11. Pte. Stones.....has not played
12. Sgt. Fry, W. H.. do.
13. Pte. Hartley ... do.
14. Pte. Drewett... do.
15. Sgt. Rogers.... do.
16. C. S. M. Graham do.
17. S/Sgt. Hollowell beat Sgt. Keight 2-0
18. Sgt. Keight ....
19. Cpl. Williams, H. beat Pte. Scully 2-0
20. Pt. Scully A. W.
21. Dr. Shaw, J....has not played
22. M. S. S. Box ...has not played.

WHY FOOTBALL HAS DETERIORATED.

FIRST-CLASS FOOTBALL.

"Not So Good as it Was Ten Years Ago."

Some of the Reasons.

It seems to be now recognised everywhere that first-class Association football is not as good as it was ten years ago, for reasons which are obvious.

When the chief professional teams used to meet the Corinthians each learned something from its opponents, even from its opponents' mistakes, and consequently the standard of play was very high. When the schism came amateurs and professionals alike suffered, and it soon began to be seen that the standard was getting lower and lower.

Then came the war, and it would be as unreasonable to expect players to reach the old standard as it would have been to expect cricketers to take up the game as it was before the war. Now that amateurs and professionals are meeting again, not only in opposition, but in the same teams, a great improvement in the standard of play may be looked for (says "The Field") and perhaps before next season first-class football may be as good as ever.

Raising the Standard.

In the meantime it is very interesting to notice what the leagues are doing to try to raise the standard, and it will be found that most of them are at present extremely anxious to find centre forwards.

In the "Athletic News" "Tityrus," who may be trusted to know the facts, says:

"Never was such a shuffling of centre forwards, because every club is wanting what cannot be found—a high-class, finished player for this position. Over seven transfers which have been arranged no less than £10,000 has changed hands. There is little alteration in spectacular football management compared with the pre-war period. Was is not thought that the day of higher transfer fees had passed? The only difference is that the value of players is enhanced. These flittings to and fro have set me thinking. The eighty-eight clubs in the First and Second Divisions, the Southern, and the Scottish Leagues have during the season played 243 different men at centre forward. Of these only thirteen have kept their place in every match. Possibly accidents, illness, and the claims upon a select few for representative games have helped to reduce the number to thirteen, but there are very few centres who combine cleverness of movement, the power of initiation, the faculty of holding the line, and of shooting goals."

The Work of a Centre.

The same writer quotes what G. O. Smith said about the work of a centre." He should be a good shot at goal, and, above all, a most accurate passer, and while worrying the defence by short, sharp passes to his insides, be ever on the alert to send the ball to the outside men whenever he sees they are free to make a sheer sprint down the wing." "Tityrus" adds: "Apply these tests and tell me if there is a centre forward in England. I do not know one—not a single one—because either the men are not coached or they are taught on wrong principles. Yet clubs pay thousands for what they can get!"

FOOTBALL ITEMS.

Men of Note and Promise in the Northern Teams.

By Tynesider.

There are six footballers in the "Best" family; "Bobby" is Sunderland's clever winger, and his five brothers play for Mickley, a prominent North East club. It won't be long ere one or two of these are in first classofot er. The "spotters" are watching them.

* * *

Healey, late of Sunderland and Winship, the ex-Arsenal winger, now figure with Darlington in the North Eastern League.

* * *

Last season Scotswood, the Newcastle team, practically transferred their whole team to first class football. They now play three players whose services are being angled for. How do they manage to find these future stars?

* * *

Gill of Hartlepools United, and Barnes of Wallsend, are custodians who are worthy of higher circles.

* * *

Miller of Everton for South Shields? Don't be surprised if it comes off.

* * *

Butler, who figured in Sunderland's team, which came so near lifting both cup and league a few short seasons ago, is now guarding Macclesfield's citadel.

* * *

Walker, secured from Leeds City, is the fifth custodian South Shields have called upon so far this season.

* * *

Crossley, of Sunderland, fully deserves his place in the first league eleven. Once he settles down he'll take some displacing.

* * *

F. Turnbull, Wallsend's assistant trainer is the old Southampton-Coventry forward.

* * *

Kelly, late of Newcastle United and Watford, is now a coach in Christiania.

* * *

Hartlepool United's home Victoria ground has just been formally re-opened. It suffered much damage as a result of the bombardment in 1914.

* * *

Norwich City's marksman, Doran, was with Newcastle United (who had a great regard for this player) in their Victory League matches last season.

* * *

A. E. Quantrill, the Derby winger, was born in India. He is a clever boxer, too.

* * *

For the three heaviest halves in England I commend you to Queens Park Rangers middle line.

PLAY: MUSIC: SONG.

NEXT WEEK'S ATTRACTIONS.

The Deutsches Theatre.

By way of a change, vaudeville will occupy the Deutsches Theatre, Cologne, next week when Mr. Philip D. Williams will bring along a new party of variety artistes. The programme includes the names of several well-known artistes who are announced to submit attractive features.

The Palace.

"The Eccentrics" who opened at the Palace last Monday, have undoubtedly "made good." Following in the steps of "The Jesters," the new arrivals had by no means an easy proposition, but Mr. Alfred Hurley once more showed his skill in selecting an excellent combination of talent. So successful indeed, have "The Eccentrics" proved themselves, that they have been retained for another week.

The Cinemas.

Capital programmes are again announced at the three army cinemas in Cologne as well as at the Y.M.C.A. and Leave Club halls. Drama plays an important part in each of them, but healthy comedy films will not be neglected.

By-Bye Baines!

George Baines, the versatile light comedian of "The Tabs," leaves for England home and business to-day. Really, this is very sudden, as I understand George was preparing big things for the long anticipated reconstructed party. However, the lot has fallen to him at last and we can only once more wish an artiste and a real good fellow all the nice things he hopes for himself.

B.R.A.D.C. for Wiesbaden.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the B.R.A.D.C. will be at Coblenz performing "Man and Superman," "Damaged Goods" and "The Melting Pot." On Thursday, they have been invited by the French to perform at Wiesbaden and they are hoping to accept the invitation. On Monday, Nov. 17th, the B.R.A.D.C. will return to the Deutsches Theatre Israel Zangwill's drama, "The Melting Pot" will be staged.

A Sparkling Debut.

A concert took place at the B.E.L.C. on Friday evening given by Miss Esmond's Concert Party (by kind permission of the Y.M.C.A.) It was their first appearance in Cologne; they received an enthusiastic reception, and as fame travels quickly the stay of the Concert Party will be all too short. Each artiste was encored again and again. Mr. Harmen Draper, who opened with a piano selection from "Review," ably accompanied throughout the performance. Mr. Chas. Compton gave great pleasure with his songs "Macushla" and "Myrra" as an encore. Miss Eva Evalda displayed rare skill and technique as a violinist. She gave a "Concert Fantaisie" by Harrison, and selections from "Popular Songs and Airs." She was tremendously applauded on her second appearance. Miss Ethel Fulford sang twice and was encored each time. Her soubrette songs were extremely clever, especially her rendering of "Neverything" and "Lena." Miss Audrey Esmond sang the ever popular "Bells of St. Mary's," her rendering being most artistic. She gave as an encore "If I might come to you" and in the second half sang two duets with Mr. Compton, "Parted" by Tosti and "Till We Meet Again." Mr. J. Tilcock, who was twice encored upon each appearance, convulsed the audience.

JACQUES.

HOCKEY FOR NOVICES.

There are many enthusiastic hockey players, who through not having played very much or not being sufficiently good players to be selected for regimental or other teams, are at a loss for a game.

It is proposed to form an eleven from these players. Any officer, W.O., N.C.O., or man desirous of becoming a member is requested to communicate with the Sports Officer, 51st Northd. Fusiliers.

It is advisable that intending players should be resident in the Sülz or Lindenthal areas.

COLOGNE OPERA HOUSE.

DAY	OPERA	COMPOSER	START	END
Sun.	Lohengrin	Wagner	5.30	10
Mon.	Cav. Rusticana / Der Bajazzo	Mascagni / Leoncavallo	7	10
Tues.	Die Entführung aus dem Serail	Mozart	7	10
Wed.	Tosca	Puccini	7	9.45
Thurs.	Otnello	Verdi	7	10
Fri.	Der Barbier von Sevilla	Rossini	7	10
Sat.	Der Zigeunerbaron	Strauss	7	10.15
Sun.	Aida	Verdi	6.30	10.15
Monday	No performance
Tuesday	No performance

FROM EVERYWHERE.

"P.M.'s" Son.—Major R. Lloyd George has been demobilized.

Closed.—The Naval base at Peterhead has been closed.

Held Up.—Snow has stopped work on land in various parts of France.

Present Day Wages.—It transpired at a Lambeth inquest that a steam wagon driver earned £5 a day.

Britain's Guest.—President Poincaré is due at Dover to-morrow.

The End.— After being out fifteen weeks, Nottingham brickmakers are back at work.

A Cow's Meal.—A golf ball, a hat pin and a nail were found in a cow which died near Rugby.

British Goodbye.—The French are much concerned about the situation in Syria.

Emphatic.—Lady Astor regards Bolsheviks as the crankiest, craziest idiots to be found.

Killjoys.—East Sussex County Council is being asked to stop Sunday flying at West Blatchington.

The Prospects.—Latest advices from home say prices are still soaring, and a dear winter is inevitable.

Obliging.— A turtle found alive on Cleethorpes beach was sold for £5 5s.

The Cost.—Luxury cars at the motor show cost £2,000 each.

Back Home.—Miss Connie Ediss, the well-known comedienne, is back from America.

Dearer Picture Shows.—The increased cost of film production is likely to send up the price of seats.

Gold Hoard.—Wood Green burglars stole 900 sovereigns from a house.

No Lottery.—It is likely that a big loan bearing interest will replace the projected French lottery loan.

Strange.—Although there is a shortage of housing Cardiff is to build a White City at a cost of £1,000,000.

One Hundred Marks.—According to a Parliamentary answer the daily cost per man of the Army is about 16/8.

The Totalisator.—The Totalisator is to be discussed at the next Jockey Club meeting.

Khaki or Scarlet.—That khaki will be retained as the uniform of both cavalry and infantry is practically certain.

Dear Wine.— Londoners are asking why the price of wine has suddenly gone up.

More Drawn Games.—There have been more drawn games in the Southern League than any other league.

Three-Goal Draw.—Malvern College played a draw with Christ Church (Oxford), both sides scoring three goals.

10 Points All.—After an exciting game at Cambridge, Leys School drew with Corpus Christi College, 10 points all.

